The Office provides veterans and active duty military with support and resources that address the unique challenges that veteran students face when they enter the university environment and later civilian career fields. It is your one-stop shop for information on how to succeed in academics and your chosen career path. Staff can help you learn more about financial aid and scholarships, VA education benefits, and career preparation and internships.

USG Vets - All students who are veterans of the military are welcome to join the USG Vets. USG Vets is the student organization instituted to address the number one concern for veterans attending college – fitting in. Veterans come to college with a depth and breadth of experience that most undergraduate students do not have, and as a result, often face a challenge in connecting with other undergrad or grad students. Given the importance of establishing a network of students, colleagues, and friends while in college, the USG Vets serves as an organization that enables connections to be made organically with veterans and non-veterans. For more information about the organization and opportunities to get involved, please contact the President, Walter Ramirez at w.antonio.ramirez@gmail.com.
