Trained non-medical volunteers provide practical and emotional support to terminally ill adults and children and their families, and to anyone grieving the death of a loved one. Caregivers will visit homes, hospitals, nursing homes, and assisted living facilities. Helping Hands provides short-term assistance to individuals who are pursuing curative treatment for a life-threatening illness with a poor prognosis. Volunteers provide companionship, respite care, assistance with household tasks and errands, and limited transportation to treatment and doctors appointments. Offer adult bereavement support groups and children's bereavement programs through Good Grief Clubs in schools and at Camp Erin, a weekend summer camp for children 6 to 17.
