3.0 Dr. Travis Gayles, Health Officer and Chief

- Dr. Gayles shared his enthusiasm concerning working at Montgomery County, citing the many services provided, positive health outcomes, and reputation as a county known for its health care services and outcomes. He affirmed that the county should continue to move forward, seeking continuous improvements.
- With the challenges in funding, it was suggested we think outside the box, look at our strengths, and build relationships with our partners and the community.
- The county should be involved in more outreach, as to inform to more residents the services the Department of Health and Human Services has to offer.
- Dr. Gayles would like to see more use of data to access and analyze underlying problems.
- Most of all, Dr. Gayles feels it is important to not get comfortable with Montgomery County's first place status in health care, but to continue to seek improvements and innovations.
- His priorities are:
 - Access to equitable care.
 - Access to mental health and behavioral health services.
 - Opioid use prevention.
 - Capturing data and other information to capture the true value of our programs.

- APHA accreditation internal documents are being gathered and are due by Thanksgiving. A site visit will take place in the spring.

- Leading causes of death in Montgomery County include all cancers; heart disease; stroke; and cerebrovascular disease; and lastly diabetes. These are the Healthy Montgomery priority areas.
