Question/Comment for the Policing Advisory Commission *

My greatest personal concern is drivers who endanger others, especially pedestrians and cyclists, on the roadways with unsafe driving. I would like to see the Police Department support more evidence-based approaches to reducing speeding, such as safety-focused road redesigns and automated traffic enforcement. I would want red light and speed camera to be placed in locations where there are the highest amounts of crashes, and for the fines to be small, since evidence shows that even a low fine is enough to deter repeat offenses. A data dashboard overlaying enforcement cameras and accidents would make me feel like the department is more transparent, and I would also like to see an annual traffic enforcement report. The Police Department is a key partner in helping to achieve Vision Zero.
