Dear Friends,

On behalf of Peter Myo Khin, Chair of the East County Citizens Advisory Board, Advisory Board members and the East County Regional Services Center, we are pleased to submit to you the 2013 East County Leadership Report. The report highlights the activities and summarizes the results of the full day discussion of the issues and concerns of the residents of East County. It serves as a practical yet future oriented document, in that it seeks to outline a course for the East County community over the coming years.

On Saturday, October 12, 2013, approximately 120 residents, community leaders and a number of prominent elected officials and County department and agency representatives came together to address issues critically important to the East County area and its residents. The event is the third such summit conducted by the East County Citizens Advisory Board in their desire to take a leadership and advocacy role in identifying and responding to the needs of area residents.

The thoughtful presentations made by the distinguished panel of speakers and spirited discussion sessions that followed provided a great opportunity for exchange of thought provoking ideas and recommendations for improving the quality of life in the Eastern region of the County. The report will serve as a community needs assessment and an advocacy tool for the board and community.

We are thankful to all who participated and contributed to the successful outcome of the summit. We look forward to a continuous working relationship with you in serving the residents of our community and the rest of the County.

Thank you for your commitments.

Sincerely,

Jewru Bandeh

Summary of the County Executive’s Remarks
East County Leadership Summit
October 12, 2013

Isiah Leggett, County Executive opens the Leadership Summit

• The County Executive thanked the attendees for giving up a significant part of their Saturday to come participate in this event, the 3rd of its kind held every five years which provides an opportunity to bring together the larger East County Community (residents, parents, providers, advocates, businesses, etc) and County Officials and agencies to talk about issues of importance, identify priority needs and recommend solutions for the Eastern region of the County.

• He thanked the East County Citizens Advisory Board for its Leadership and serving as advocates and listening post for the Eastern Region, providing advice to the County Executive and County Council. The board continues to monitor activities in all sectors of the Community, helping identify priorities and making recommendations for budget and capital improvement projects.

• He emphasized the important role of the East County Regional Center in connecting East County communities with county government. He went further and:

• Highlighted the County’s continuing focus on economic and community development, including notable developments in the Eastern region even in light of the enormous economic challenges over the past four-five years. Montgomery County maintained a thriving economy, expanded opportunities for affordable homeownership and rental housing, improvements in the transportation services, remained a better government that is very responsive and responsible, embracing diversity, becoming a more effective government with fiscal responsibility and continues to provide a better quality of life for all residents, including children and seniors. He also mentioned the following:

• For the Eastern Region, the County government has successfully done a number of things over the past few years: improvements and completion of recreation centers, roads and other facilities to serve communities, enhanced services to seniors and other needy populations and expand affordable housing efforts.

• The consolidated headquarters of the U.S Food and Drug Administration (FDA) which continues to grow in many aspects with increasing benefits to the region on to promote either development opportunities.

• The White Oak Science Gateway Master Plan will begin the long waited transformation in East County, bringing meaningful development and balanced growth in the region. The County government will push this plan forward.

• The relocation of the Washington Adventist Hospital to White Oak, which will greatly enhance the County’s planned world class Life Science Education and Research Village development initiative in partnership with the Percontee group in the region. The hospital campus will create new permanent jobs. The partnership between WAH, FDA and joint Percontee/MCG development will open new areas of medical research, discovery, funding and cooperation that are critically important for promoting public health, innovation and creating synergistic economic development, workforce housing and great jobs.

• In closing, he thanked and congratulated attendees in advance for a successful summit.

The event was jointly sponsored by the East County Citizens Advisory Board and the Eastern Montgomery Regional Services Center. We were pleased to welcome the participation of The County Executive, Isiah Leggett, Congressman John Sarbanes, Montgomery Council President Nancy Navarro and other Council members: Valerie Ervin, George Leventhal, Marc Elrich, Phil Andrews and Hans Riemer, Montgomery County Delegates Eric Luedtke, Karen Montgomery and Senator Jamie Raskin, Montgomery County Board of Education President, Christopher Barclay, Richard Y. The remarks also helped set the stage for the deliberative portion of the Summit, which involved participants dividing into six focus groups by topic: Education, Transportation, Public Safety, Health and Human Services, Housing and Economic Development. Their aim was to help chart a course for the future by addressing the needs and concerns of the community.

The 2013 East County Leadership Summit findings is published in this report and will be used as a guide for the East County Citizens Advisory Board as they advocate for the needs of the East County Region. This gathering was a great forum for the lively exchange of ideas among community and government leaders regarding the future of the East County.
Demographic Profile of East County

In portraying a demographic profile of Eastern Montgomery County (using the seven Census Designated Places - CDPs) Burtonsville, Calverton, Cloverly, Colesville, Fairland, Hillandale and White Oak, this presentation will compare and contrast East County (minus the Briggs Chaney, Burnt Mills, Cherry Hill and Aston/Sandy Spring areas) data with Montgomery County overall. The CDPs are utilized for this report solely to provide uniform data for the region that is easy to understand in association with communities that are recognized and used by residents. Using the CDP data therefore will reflect a slightly lower demographic total counts for the region as a whole. The sources for this data are the 2010 US Census/2007-11 American Community Survey and the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission. The 2010 U.S. Census Update reports Montgomery County, Maryland as having a population of 971,777. This represents an increase of 98,436 persons, or 11.3% growth rate from the 2000 Census figure. Approximately 225,956 additional residents are forecasted between 2010 and 2040, a 24% increase.

The Montgomery County Government created five distinct service areas/regions within its structure: Up-County, the Mid-County, the Bethesda Chevy Chase, the Silver Spring (primarily the downtown area) and the Eastern Montgomery region (Fairland, Cloverly, White Oak, Hillandale, Calverton, Burtonsville, Colesville, Burnt Mills and parts of Aston/Sandy Spring). Population densities differ significantly across these five regions. The East County population for the seven CDPs in year 2010 was 102,947 residents or approximately 11% of the County’s overall population. The population for the seven CDPs counting other (non CDP) areas within region is estimated to be 111,250.

While Montgomery County’s population is growing, it is also becoming much more diverse. The ethnic and the racial makeup have shifted considerably. Whereas Caucasians comprised 59.5% of the population in 2000, they held a 49.2% total in 2010. The African-American population increased from 14.8% to 16.6%, Asians from 11.3% to 13.9% and Hispanics from 11.3% to 17%, as a percent of the population county wide. This compares to East County where in 2010, there were 35.2% Caucasians, 39% African-Americans, 14.8% Asians and 14.2% Hispanics, as percent of the population county wide.

Based on the 2007-2011 American Survey of East County, the region (7 CDPs) had 355,434 households, of which 242,848 were family and 112,586 non-family. Persons age 50 and over comprised of 37% of the total population and 19.6% were between ages 20 and 34.

There were 35,346 foreign-born persons in East County. Of this number, the survey indicated Asia as the world region of birth for 12,209 persons (34.5%), Latin America with a total of 10,492 (29.7%) and Africa with 10,437 (29.5%).

East County has a growing multilingual population, with high concentrations in Fairland, White Oak and Calverton. For persons age five and over, English was the only language spoken at home for 57,105, while 40,062 spoke a language other than English, 12,209 spoke Spanish and 7,791 spoke other languages.

Of all the seven CDPs, the survey also indicated Cloverly as having the highest median household income, at $125,533. Hillandale has the lowest, at $56,883. The percent of the population living below the poverty level in East County ranged from 2.4%, the lowest in Cloverly, to the highest in White Oak, 11.5%. Fairland had the second highest poverty rate (10.5%) and the largest number of foreign-born residents and persons over five years of age who spoke a language other than English at home. The White Oak and Fairland area has the largest concentration of the African and Latin American foreign-born populations. The Asian foreign-born population is concentrated largely in Fairland, Calverton and Colesville.

Breakout Session Format

The Summit’s deliberations were governed by a seven-point agenda, which each of the six break-out groups adhered to. A facilitator and a recorder were assigned to each group to lead and record the deliberations. The Agenda was as follows:

1. Review of Purpose: The group addressed the question of the goals under the subject area to which it was assigned. For example, the group on Housing wrestled with the question, what are the housing goals in the eastern region of Montgomery County?

2. Establishing Ground Rules: There were three ground rules that were common to all six groups. These were:

a) Share air time, which meant that each participant was to be given a chance to express his/her opinion, permitting no one to dominate the discussion.

b) Keep administration to a minimum - Although the sessions were structured, there were no rigid rules governing participant discussions and contributions. The emphasis was on a free flow of ideas, in which everyone’s expressions were important and were to be taken into account.

c) Document ideas – On a large easel pad, a recorder notated any and all ideas expressed in their original form. Editing and matching of ideas were done later.

3. Breakout Sessions: The Summit audience was divided into six sub-groups which dealt with Housing, Transportation, Education, Economic Development, Health and Human Services and Public Safety. Each sub-group was instructed to generate thoughts, ideas and strategies for improving East County from the standpoint of their representatives.

4. Reviewing Breakout Session Results: The groups then reviewed all ideas generated and narrowed its focus by having everyone in the group choose the three most important items from the brainstorming list.

5. Group Integration of Goals: The groups then systematically reviewed all remaining ideas and either merged or combined items to produce an integrated list of only the most important concepts.

6. Unified Results: A listing of the top three goals or objectives in each of the six topic areas were agreed upon. These are arrived at through a voting process in each of the breakout groups.

7. Presentation: Each group selected one or two individuals to make its presentation to the reassembled Summit audience.
Anthony Ramirez, ECCAB member and Chair of the Quality of Life/Social Issues Committee explains the format for the sessions.

Participants grab a light lunch and head to breakout sessions.

EAST COUNTY LEADERSHIP SUMMIT-2013

“Setting Priorities for the Future”

Transportation

The Transportation workgroup session was attended by East County community members and county planners, as well as Keith Compton, Chief of Highway Services for Montgomery County Department of Transportation. The group was very interactive and discussed topics that focused on three main areas: (1) Route 29 Corridor and Interchanges, (2) High Capacity Bus Service / Bus Rapid Transit (BRT), and (3) Pavement, Sidewalks, and Traffic Signals.

1. Route 29 Corridors and Interchanges

Workgroup participants engaged in questions on Route 29 developments and the 2013 Maryland Consolidated Transportation Program (CTP). Officials shared that the Fairland Road interchange has been funded for design review, however, the remaining interchanges remain unfunded. Group discussion centered on the White Oak Science Gateway Master Plan impact on Route 29 traffic and alternatives to be considered for the current County planning staff report. A suggestion was made to look at previous year projections and compare to the outcomes of more recent studies with a possibility of resurrecting consideration for a Route 29 crossing near White Oak close to Trader Joes. Chief Compton shared information on the state budget allocations for the Route 29 interchange design and how funding is distributed for local projects. Additional transportation projects in progress include the widening of Old Columbia Pike to Route 29 and the Route 28/198 widening to help improve East/West county travel.

2. High Capacity Bus Service / Bus Rapid Transit (BRT)

The workgroup expressed a great level of interest in the County planning progress for the High Capacity Bus Service (Bus Rapid Transit or BRT). There are 7 to 9 proposed stops for Route 29. Information was shared on the allocation of funding for Route 355, Route 29, and Randolph Road within the BRT plan. Community members suggested that perhaps some funding could go towards a study for needs along New Hampshire Avenue instead of or in addition to Randolph Road. Group also discussed a concern with the significant number of mode switches planned for the BRT along Route 29 that could hinder efficiency and timeliness for ridership. There will be a further concept study conducted for the BRT plan and community members were encouraged to stay involved and provide input. The workgroup concluded that there needs to be a balance and blend between the BRT and highway development that will meet the needs of the East County community for growth and other planning project goals.

3. Pavement, Sidewalks, and Traffic Signals

A third topic of discussion for the transportation workgroup targeted improvements for pavement, sidewalks and traffic signals in the East County area. Chief Compton provided insight into the County budget for resurfacing and how it has increased over the years with a correlation to the building of additional roads. There is a 6 year plan for routine work and prevention that is evaluated on a continual cycle. Specific community observations and requests included the following:
• East County Home Owner Association concern raised on the quality of resurfacing near Athley Road and Oak Hurst. The final product was very rough and is not conducive to bike riding or other similar activity and they are requesting feedback on what can be done to rectify.

• Quaint Acres sidewalks along Route 650 and Route 29 have salt damage. Residents would like for this to be addressed.

• There is a problem with not having sidewalks along 198 to get to the grocery store and businesses. Chief Compton shared that sidewalk walk requests can be submitted through the county website for review.

• Request made for sheltered bus stops along Old Columbia Pike. Ride On service was reduced and residents have to walk a significant distance to get to a bus stop.

• Traffic light is needed in front of Paint Branch High School at the northern entrance. There is a crest in the road and it is difficult to see on-coming traffic and student pedestrians. Community would like to see this addressed proactively and not addressed in reaction to an accident that might occur.

Following this phase, the workgroup was asked to determine which three were of the highest priority. The following list resulted.

Highest priority needs:

1. Ensure that the Route 29 considerations remain a priority in light of the White Oak Science Center Gateway Master Plan and that any alternatives considered do not prevent the plans from moving forward.

2. Ensure that consideration be given to evaluating and reducing the number of mode switches for BRT along Route 29 during the concept study in order to increase efficiency for ridership.

3. Install a traffic signal at the Paint Branch High School northern entrance to proactively prevent accidents from occurring.

Housing

Participants in this working group discussed a series of issues related to housing in Eastern Montgomery County during the breakout brainstorming session. Richard Nelson, DHEA director was there to watch and answer questions. Some of the issues brought up by citizens include abandoned foreclosed homes, few senior housing options, lack of lower income housing availability for seniors, and a need for a more economic mix of housing (including workforce housing).

The participants also believe that housing and education affect one another in the East County. The residents believe that if housing quality and availability is improved then the educational system will improve in the East County. The workgroup felt strongly that there needs to be more affordable housing options for Senior citizens. They also felt that there is a need for more resources to help seniors who are struggling financially to be able to stay in their long-term family homes. Homeownership, education and counseling progress and services would be a great asset to East County.

Following the discussion, the workgroup was asked to determine priorities as it relates to housing. The priorities are listed below.

Highest priority needs:
1. Forming a committee or group made up of East County citizens that focus on expanding housing options for Senior citizens.
2. More affordable senior housing in the eastern part of the county. The housing type could include smaller homes and townhomes.
3. More educational resources to help citizens prevent home foreclosure.

County Department: Rick Nelson, Director, DHCA
Economic Development

Participants in this working group discussed a series of issues related to the major development and activities related to the Burtonsville Crossing Shopping Center and the former Giant grocery store issue, the White Oak Since Gateway Master Plan (WOSGMP), the proposed Washington Adventist Hospital relocation, the Life Science Village, the New Hampshire/Coleville Study by the MC Housing and Community Development and the mixed use residential and retail development project by the Percontee development group in the WOSGMP area.

The WOSGMP is undergoing extensive review, but the consensus of the participants in general is that there need to be progressive movement towards the realization of the master plan. There was agreement that the staging issues as related to the land-use and transportation balance was that it was in negative balance today and will continue to be so with the build-out of the master plan, even when taking into consideration the BRT/Rapid Transit Functional Master Plan, the grade separated interchanges on Rt. 29, the reopening of the Old Columbia Pike bridge over Long Branch Creek, and attempts to reduce the single occupant vehicles, which comprise the majority of the current vehicular traffic flow in this region.

Additionally, there is a need for employment development/enhancement assistance for area residences and workers as well as business development and assistance programs for small businesses and incubator ventures. It seems the county does not want to invest in service related incubator business ventures, instead prefers to focus its investment in the areas of engineering, technology, bio-science, cyber-business and similar business ventures.

With the completion of the Inter County Connector highway, the question being asked is how do we leverage the three major transit corridors in the East County (ICC, Rt. 29, and New Hampshire Avenue) to leverage economic viability, residential/community livability, induce high-paying jobs to locate in East County, and enhance overall the quality of living for both residences and business.

East County needs pertaining to Economic Development:

A. Need more efficient transportation modes in East County for both North/South and East/West bound traffic,
B. Maintain and improve the existing inventory of housing with emphasis to redevelop the 30-50 year old high-density apartment units: mid and high-rises as well as garden apartments,
C. Do not approve any more low-income housing in the East County area,
D. Focus on County Council approval and constant forward progression of the WOSGMP,
E. Provide employment development programs and opportunities for residences and workers of East County,
F. Provide business development/assistance programs for small businesses or incubator business ventures,
G. Resolution is needed to the former Giant store in the Burtonsville Crossing Center and to revitalize the area in line with the Burtonsville Neighborhood Improvement Plan,
H. Resign to the fact that the WOSGMP area will always exist in a negative land use and transportation balance and move to implement BRT, grade separated interchanges on Rt. 29, and reopening of the Old Columbia Pike over Long Branch Creek.

Following this phase, the workgroup was asked to determine which three were of the highest priority. The listed three below were found to be the most pressing and needed to be accomplished.

Highest priority needs:

1. County Council approval and constant forward progression of the WOSGMP.
2. Revitalization of the Burtonsville Crossing Center through the implementation of the Burtonsville Neighborhood Plan.
3. Workforce development, training programs and services for residents.

Education

The education breakout session was attended by approximately 20 residents with two Montgomery County Board of Education members, Christopher Barclay (President) and Michael Durso. The session focused on hot issues and concerns. The discussion was tense throughout the session with active participation by all attendees. Along with the many issues were raised, a number of recommendations were offered as well. East country concerns and needs pertaining to education included:

- The negative view people have of the East County High schools
- Montgomery County Public Schools is not doing enough to promote special programs and accomplishments at East County schools.
- Need for early childhood programs and services
- Growing inequality and disparities between East County schools and schools in other areas of the county (resources allocation, perception, programs, class sizes, construction/CIP funding)
- Promoting schools and better positive branding
- Parent and community engagement initiatives and resources
- Eliminating consortium structure, which is disadvantageous to East County
- Access to higher education opportunities for students
- Feeder programs for certain classes
- Eliminating poverty to address disparities, barriers to education
- Promote citizen and parent engagement by increasing outreach and programs
- Programs and services to address needs and barriers to education for African-Americans, other Blacks and Hispanic students (including immigrants).
- Promote education and progress for professional students development for the future workplace
- Educational programs and services for new immigrants (students and parents)

Highest Priority Needs

1. Eliminate inequalities and address disparities in order to close achievement gaps between east county schools and other schools with a focus on the needs of African-American and Hispanic students and parents.
2. Develop and promote a more practical branding of East County Schools especially the NEC schools. Promoting/highlighting signature programs and accomplishments at the schools could be a good start.
3. The need for greater commitment to early childhood education.

Health and Human Services

This was small, but a highly engaged group focusing on the needs and delivery of health and human services in the East County community Stuart Venzke from MCDHHS was present to listen and dialogue with attendees. During the session, the rapidly changing demographics of the county, especially the increase in our immigrant population was noted. The increase in population brought with it increased need for services, emerging resource partnerships, community engagement and collaborative strategies. Some concern to some participants included a lack of direct access to DHHS services in East County (other than the medical services at the ECRSC), given the large population that is in need. For many east county residents with the transportation challenges, seeking DHHS services have to travel to downtown Silver Spring to get help, a big hardship. A number of other concerns and issues that were discussed included:

- The affordable care act (ACA) implementation and county’s readiness to meet its program goals.
- Providing ACA health insurance enrollment sites and outreach with adequate staffing in East County to eliminate barriers particularly cultural, language and transportation.
- Increase mental health services and outreach to East County communities.
- Mental health programs and services are needed 24/7, including emergency care.
- Need for better collaboration with other agencies and groups to better serve the residents, including behavioral health providers.
- Collaboration between DHHS, department of Corrections, Impact Silver Spring, faith communities and other community safety net services providers was strongly encouraged (and the ECRSC could be a helpful resource/facilitate partnerships).
- The county needs to develop more programs/resources to address growing health needs and access barriers to services because of the growing immigrant population.
- As the county grows with an increasing immigrant population, DHHS must continue to adopt specialized and culturally competent service delivery models (emerging resource allocation, staffing, county outreach, customer/client service orientation approaches, collaboration, etc.).
- Increase access, reduce barriers, and promote education on health care and human service programs.
- DHHS needs greater visibility in East County. It needs to establish more accessible East County locations for programs services for the different populations it serves.

Following this phase the workgroup was asked to determine which three were the Highest Priority Needs:

1. Increase mental health services and community outreach/engagement.
2. ACA implementation with easy access/enrollment for east county residents.
3. Develop more enhanced partnerships and collaborations for more effective culturally competent service delivery and help eliminate health disparities.

- Recorder: Ian Swain
- County Dept/Agency: Stuart Venzke, COO, MCDHHS, (the County Executive participated).
Public Safety

Public Safety remains a major concern of East County residents as echoed by the residents in attendance at this break out session. The concerns focused a great deal on many types of crime (from traffic safety to homicide) recorded over the past years in many parts of the eastern region. The discussion centered largely on public safety and community engagement efforts in this region and what effective methods of prevention and intervention have been implemented, what is working and how the community can be more engaged.

Public Safety remains a major concern of East County residents as echoed by Darryl McSwain, Assistant Chief, Department of Police and the residents in this break out group. The discussions focused a great deal on community outreach, youth and need for further activities for youth during the after school hours (2 pm – 6 pm), youth activities and special enforcement operations.

One resident in attendance spoke about the need for better services for re-entry residents. He has been working with some residents in the area but stated the need for more coordination between community groups and government services to assist folks re-enter into society and not fall back into criminal activities. Other residents spoke of the need to achieve and maintain effective police staffing levels. The police spoke of the effectiveness of special operations in investigating crimes and residents felt that special operations could also be used to help prevent crimes but also alert residents to crimes occurring in specific areas. There was a lot of discussion about public outreach and the police working with community groups to deter and/or solve crimes.

East County needs pertaining to public safety:

A. There are gaps in services for youth between 2 pm – 6 pm (weekdays during school hours) in White Oak, Lockwood and Greencastle areas.

B. There are “spiking trends” (spikes in certain crimes, in certain areas and in certain times) and outreach (by police) to those areas affected should be conducted.

C. Need to conduct more outreach in communities (how do police and community groups increase communication?).

D. Achieve and maintain staffing levels in East County.

E. DCATS and other special enforcement operations have been successful and need to continue if not increased.

F. A need to do something about after school youth activities. How can community help police with keeping youth occupied after school especially the hours between 2 pm and 6 pm? We need out of school and weekend activities for youth.
G. Re-entry issues. There are a certain percentage of East County residents who have criminal records or have been recently released but want to get a job and get their lives in order. Those residents are having a hard time re-entering into society and/or finding services, employment/organizations willing to help them.

H. With fewer resources, we need to continue to work harder and also smarter. We need to invest in officers, strategies that are effective and resources that will help police officers do their jobs better.

I. Promote parenting classes

Highest priority needs:

1. Invest in officers and use smarter policing strategies.

2. Continue to use special enforcement operations to both prevent crime and solve crimes.

3. Establish stronger community partnerships/engagement. We need to continue to engage the community as partners, especially for positive youth development and safety in neighborhoods.
