12.1 Overview

Each precinct will receive at least one ballot marking device. Voting area judges are responsible for setting up the ballot marking device under the direction of the chief judges. Challengers and watchers may observe opening procedures.

The ballot marking device lets voters mark their ballots independently, including voters with disabilities. Make sure the following policies about the ballot marking device are followed:

- Any voter may use the ballot marking device. DO NOT ask why the voter needs or wants to use it or ask for proof that the voter needs to use it.

- If a voter wants to use the ballot marking device, offer to explain the accessibility features.

- The election judges at the check-in table must tell each voter:

  "You have two ways to mark your ballot – either by hand or with the electronic device. Which do you prefer?"

- Chief judges will make sure that at least five voters use the ballot marking device during the day. If five voters have not used the ballot marking device by 1:00 p.m., direct voters to use the ballot marking device until five voters have used it.

There are several ways to mark a ballot activation card using the ballot marking device. The ballot marking device includes a touch screen and keypad (includes Braille). Voters may use their own sip and puff device or rocker paddle device.

An audio ballot is available to all voters who use the ballot marking device. All accessibility features can be used with the audio ballot. The ballot marking device also offers high-contrast and enlarged print viewing options. The accessibility features on the ballot marking device can be used in any combination to make ballot selections.

The ballot marking device is only a marking device. It cannot record votes. The ballot marking device acts as a pen that marks and prints the voter’s selections. Then the voter’s ballot activation card ballot is put into the scanning unit. The scanning unit records the selections.

12.4 Prepare the Voter for Voting

Voters who choose to use the ballot marking device will be issued a ballot activation card instead of a regular paper ballot.

The voter will first get a voter authority card from the check-in judge. The check-in judge will tell the voter:

> “You have two ways to mark your ballot – either by hand or with the electronic device. Which do you prefer?”

A voter will be directed to the ballot making device table to get the ballot activation card and a privacy sleeve from the ballot marking device judge. The voter authority card will be placed in the clear pouch on the front of the privacy sleeve.

A voting judge at the ballot marking device table will:

- Ask the voter for his or her voter authority card.
- Make sure that the voter authority card has been signed by the voter and initialed by a check-in judge. The district/precinct and battle style should be circled.
- If the voter has a provisional voter authority card and an orange provisional privacy sleeve, take note and make sure the voter returns to the provisional voting area after printing their ballot activation card ballot.
- Initial the voter authority card as the ballot issuing judge.
- Hold onto the voter authority card while escorting the voter to the ballot marking device.
