Home care and home health agencies provide two main types of services that are custodial (skilled) or supportive (unskilled) care. Supportive services, provided by private home care agencies, offer assistance with personal care such as bathing, grooming, dressing, in addition to help with meal preparation, housekeeping, medications, ambulation and exercises, medical appointments, and shopping. Skilled services, provided by medical home health agencies, offer nursing care, physical, occupational, speech, and respiratory therapy as well as social services and hospice care.

Providers with an asterisk * are Medicaid / Medicare-certified agencies providing skilled healthcare ordered by a physician. They provide nurses, physical and occupational therapists and social workers to assist with rehabilitation. Insurance plans, including Medicare, may pay for part of or all of the services.

Find Medicare-certified home health agencies in your area:

www.medicare.gov/care-compare/?redirect=true&providerType=HomeHealth

Medicare Eligibility: Medicare Part A (Hospital Insurance) and/or Medicare Part B (Medical Insurance) cover eligible home health services as long as you need part-time or intermittent skilled services and as long as you're "homebound," which means: you have trouble leaving your home without help (like using a cane, wheelchair, walker, or crutches; special transportation; or help from another person) because of an illness or injury; or leaving your home isn't recommended because of your condition; or you're normally unable to leave your home because it's a major effort.

Covered home health services include:

- Medically necessary part-time or intermittent skilled nursing care
- Physical therapy • Occupational therapy • Speech-language pathology services • Medical social services
- Part-time or intermittent home health aide care (only if you're also getting skilled nursing care at the same time)
- Injectable osteoporosis drugs for women • Durable medical equipment • Medical supplies for use at home

A doctor or other health care provider (like a nurse practitioner) must have a face-to-face visit with you before certifying that you need home health services. A doctor or other health care provider must order your care, and a Medicare-certified home health agency must provide it.

In most cases, "part-time or intermittent" means you may be able to get skilled nursing care and home health aide services up to 8 hours a day, with a maximum of 28 hours per week. You may be able to get more frequent care for a short time if your doctor or other health care provider determines it's necessary.

Medicare doesn't pay for:

- 24-hour-a-day care at your home
- Meals delivered to your home
- Homemaker services (like shopping and cleaning) that aren't related to your care plan
- Custodial or personal care that helps you with daily living activities (like bathing, dressing, or using the bathroom), when this is the only care you need

You're not eligible for the home health benefit if you need more than part-time or "intermittent" skilled nursing care. You may leave home for medical treatment or short, infrequent absences for non-medical reasons, like attending religious services. You can still get home health care if you attend adult day care.
