

MOBILE TECHNOLOGY

Benefit Strategies is offering the ability for iPhone or Android users to access their account information directly through their phone. Research has shown that 76% of adults in the United States have mobile phones and about 50% of United States mobile users have an iPhone or Android. This confirms that more Benefit Strategies consumers than ever may rely on their phones to access important account information.

Participants can access the following information through the application:

- Available balance
- Final service date (final date to incur claims)
- Final filing date (final date to submit claims)
- Convenient customer service contact information
