

A Special Invitation to OHR Staff
OHR Racial Injustice Study Circle Sessions:
Honest and Open Conversations Together
Please Respond by Friday, June 19, 2020

Team, please join us in a special study circle designed to encourage you to

“Speak Truth to Understanding and Then: Transform to Action”

So many of us are angry, saddened, confused, or not sure what to say—and hurt beyond words about what happened to George Floyd, Trayvon Martin, Michael Brown, Eric Garner, Philando Castile, Breonna Taylor and so many others. These painful emotions are shared by many across this county, state, country, and throughout the world. Many of us are hopeful for change and have a profound concern for what is happening around these social issues, but we are overwhelmed by emotions. You may be asking yourself as well others, questions such as:

What can I do?

Is it my right to speak?

What can I or should I say?

Am I or a family member next?

When will this ever end?

How can I be part of real change?

Injustice anywhere affects each of us, perhaps in ways we don't always understand, and we don't always have a place where we can talk about it. No matter who you are, what your situation is, or how powerless you feel, take this first step: Participate in an upcoming OHR Racial Injustice Study Circle. We'll have open and honest discussions in which you can learn about yourself and others. The study circles will be limited to 15 OHR staff members per session and we will hold as many as needed to ensure all have a voice and get a chance to participate.

If you would like to participate in an upcoming study circle, please email Angela J. Washington, Trish Miller or Alicia Valentin by Friday, June 19, 2020. The session will then be scheduled within the next 10 days.