Be It Enacted by the County Council for Montgomery County, Maryland, that

Sec. 1. Chapter 33, title "Personnel," of the Montgomery County Council is hereby amended to add a new Article IV, title "Employer-Employee Relations," to the Montgomery County Code 1972, as amended, after Article III thereof, and to read as follows:

ARTICLE IV

EMPLOYER-EMPLOYEE RELATIONS

33-62. Statement of Legislative Intent.

The County Council hereby finds that the trend in labor relations between government and its employees is becoming somewhat aligned with the practices of the private sector of representation of employee groups by designated and elected employee organizations. The Council believes that government should take the initiative in providing a vehicle whereby government employee representation can emerge and evolve in a fashion consistent with both the needs of the employee and those of government. The Council further believes that this can best be accomplished by enacting local legislation which provides for the voluntary representation of government employees by their duly designated and elected employee organizations. The Council also believes that the efficient administration of the County government is enhanced by providing employees an opportunity to participate in the formulation and implementation of policies and practices affecting the conditions of their employment. Because the Council believes it is desirable to minimize the proliferation of employee units, it has limited the number of such units to seven; however, the Council would consider changing that limitation at a future date upon the recommendation of the Chief Administrative Officer or an affected group of employees. The Council further states that the eligibility as to membership in an employee unit for purposes of this meet-and-confer type of employee representation would not necessarily be extended in the same manner if authority for collective bargaining were granted. Membership or non-membership in an employee organization shall in no way limit the ability of an employee to obtain government information to which he/she would normally have access. Nothing in this Article shall restrict the ability of any employee, whether member or non-member of an employee organization, to discuss matters concerning employees or employee groups to the extent that such discussion does not conflict with the duties and responsibilities of the employee.

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS:

Re: Introduction of Bill No. 53-76, Amendment to Taxicab Regulations to Permit Charges Under Contract

The Council had before it for consideration Bill No. 53-76, an amendment to Taxicab Regulations to permit charges under contract.

Councilwoman Scull stated that the purpose of this bill is to allow taxicab drivers to charge a lower rate than specified by the fare for contract service, as long as the contract is filed with the Department of Transportation in advance. The taxicab drivers can contract for service with non-profit or low income groups, such as the tenants at Fenwick House. This bill was requested by the Taxicab Service Advisory Committee.

Councilman Christeller noted that the bill does not require the Department of Transportation to make a judgment as to whether or not the contracts filed with it are proper. He does not have enough information to assure him that this will be a satisfactory arrangement, and would like to hear discussion of the issue. He may want to offer an amendment that sets standards in this regard. However, and Limousines." Montgomery County Code 1972, as amended, to provide that taxicabs may charge rates lower than those computed by the taximeter or as set forth in the schedule of fare rates under a contract filed with the Department of Transportation in advance.

President Menke indicated that he did not vote because he believes the bill is not ready for introduction at this time.

MEMORIALS AND PETITIONS:

Any decision made at any such meeting is in no way binding upon the parties.

~~d~~r c. The County and an employee organization may, if desired, and at the conclusion of their discussions prepare written position papers which reflect for future reference the respective positions of the parties on the issues discussed at such meetings. Such position papers shall in no way legally bind any party to the matters expressed therein.

33-72. County responsibilities.

It shall be the responsibility of the County not to:

a. interfere with, restrain, or coerce an employee in the exercise of the rights assured by this Article;

b. encourage or discourage membership in an employee organization by discrimination in regard to hiring, tenure, promotion or other conditions of employment;

c. sponsor, control or otherwise assist an employee organization, except that the County may furnish customary and routine services and facilities when consistent with the best interest of the County, its employees, and the organization, and when the services and facilities are furnished, if requested, on an impartial basis to organizations having equivalent status;

33-73. Employee organization responsibilities.

e. discriminate against an employee with regard to the terms or conditions of membership because of race, color, religion, creed, sex, age, national origin, ancestry, or marital status;

Sec. 2. Severability.

The provisions of this Act are severable and if any provision, clause, sentence, section, word or part thereof is held illegal, invalid or unconstitutional, or inapplicable to any person or circumstances, such illegality, invalidity or unconstitutionality, or inapplicability shall not affect or impair any of the remaining provisions, clauses, sentences, sections, words, or parts of the Act or their application to other persons or circumstances. It is hereby declared to be the legislative intent that this Act would have been adopted if such illegal, invalid, or unconstitutional provision, clause, sentence, section word or part had not been included therein, and if the person or circumstances to which the Act or part thereof is inapplicable had been specifically exempted therefrom.

Sec. 3. Effective date.

This Act shall take effect on the 76th say following the date on which it becomes law.

At the suggestion of Councilman Christeller and without objection, the Council deleted the word [a] on line 26, page 2, and inserted in lieu thereof an affected; and on line 28, deleted [will] and inserted in lieu thereof: type of employee representation would; and on line 29, delete [is] and insert were.

Addressing a memorandum from James A. Mills, President, Montgomery County Government Employees Organization, dated December 13, 1976, concerning the membership eligibility restrictions, Councilman Christeller stated that there is a lot to be said in support of Mr. Mills' concerns, but the fact remains that one of the functions of an employee group under this bill will be participation by such employee groups in the grievance process. In those circumstances, he does not believe the employee groups should include senior supervisory personnel.

Councilman Hovsepian stated that the Council has to consider the possibility of enabling legislation for collective bargaining in the future, and has to be careful in setting precedents for membership in organizations. The Council discussed carefully the types of positions in terms of who would be involved in negotiations.

President Menke expressed the view that since employee groups will be involved in grievance procedures, section and division heads cannot be involved on both sides of the issue.

Councilman Potter expressed the view that the exclusions contained in Bill No. 11-76 are broad. He agreed with Mr. Mills' position that the group should be relatively broad to discuss the problems and concerns of all employees. It is desirable to avoid employee organizations that fragment employees and stir up issues. He suggested the need for further discussion of exclusions from employee organizations, stating that full exclusion of certain Executive management offices may be too broad.

Councilman Christeller expressed the view that employees of the Personnel Office and Personnel Board, which are directly involved in grievances and other problems being discussed by employee organizations, cannot be members of those organizations. The same is true of the Employee Relations Division and the Office of the County Attorney. The Assistant County Attorneys will be called upon to represent the County government in disputes between the government and the organizations. It would be difficult to draw a line between the attorneys and the people assisting them; hence, the Council agreed that all employees of that office would be excluded. Employees of the Office of Budget and Research will make recommendations on budget impact matters to the County Executive; these employees cannot also be part of an employee organization.

Councilman Potter agreed that employees with the types of responsibilities outlined by Councilman Christeller should be excluded from employee organizations, but stated that many employees in those offices do not have such responsibilities.

Councilwoman Moore agreed with Councilman Potter, stating that the Council should not exclude those employees who are not involved in making high-level decisions from protecting their rights by joining an employee group.

Councilman Potter moved, duly seconded, that line 61, page 3, excluding employees of the Office of the County Attorney from joining employee organizations, be deleted from Bill No. 11-76.

Councilman Christeller stated that, if adopted, Councilman Potter's motion would exclude only the County Attorney and two Deputy County Attorneys and the administrative aides who work directly for them. The Assistant County Attorney who is assigned to advise the Personnel Board could be a member. However, from a professional standpoint, this attorney probably would not join the organization. The administrative aide to this attorney could join the organization. He expressed the view that it is difficult to make such a distinction within the staff of a relatively small office where two or three people would have to deal with matters under discussion with the employee organization and keep them secret from the other employees in that office.

Councilman Potter stated that, if adopted, he would offer substitute language for line 61, excluding, "Employees of the Office of the County Attorney who have administrative responsibilities and those who are assigned to deal with personnel matters."

Assistant County Attorney Levin stated that the language proposed by Councilman Potter would include everyone in the County Attorney's Office. All Assistant County Attorneys are assigned Personnel Board cases over and above their assignments to particular departments.

President Menke stated that if the employee organizations were not to be involved in grievances, he would agree with Councilman Potter's approach, however, given the involvement of the organization in the representation of employees, there would be a clear conflict for the supervisors to be in the organization.

Councilman Potter's motion failed, Councilmembers Potter and Moore voting in the affirmative and Councilmembers Hovsepian, Christeller, Menke, Scull and Gelman voting in the negative.

Councilman Potter moved, duly seconded, that the following language be added to the end of line 62: who have administrative responsibilities.

Councilman Christeller stated that when the employee organization recommends a change in the fringe benefit program, cost-of-living increase, or the compensation schedule, the County Executive and CAO will have to call upon the Office of Budget and Research for advice and recommendations concerning the budgetary implications of such a recommendation. The County Executive would expect to receive objective, professional advice. To allow employees of the Office of Budget and Research to be members of the employee organization that made the recommendations that are evaluated in that office would raise questions about the objectivity. It is not realistic to specify that the County Executive will have to rely solely on the Director and Deputy Director to do this work.

Councilman Potter's motion failed, Councilmembers Potter and Moore voting in the affirmative and Councilmembers Hovsepian, Christeller, Menke, Scull and Gelman voting in the negative.

Councilman Potter moved, duly seconded, that the following language be added to the end of line 64: who have administrative responsibilities, or who are responsible for rating or recommending employees or applicants, or for making disciplinary decisions.

Upon a suggestion that the term "administrative" is too broad, and without objection, Councilman Potter amended his motion to delete [administrative] and insert in lieu thereof supervisory. He further amended the motion to insert the words and classifying in lieu of the words [or recommending].

Director of the Office of Personnel Lloyd stated that employees in the clerical pool are no longer part of the Personnel Office and would not be excluded from joining an employee organization; the same is true of the Medical Section, which has been transferred to the Health Department. Earlier comments about direct staff support to the County Executive and CAO would apply equally to the Personnel Office. The staff will be involved in developing positions and policies on matters that would be of immediate concern to the employee organization.

Without objection, Councilman Potter withdrew his motion.

Councilman Hovsepian expressed the hope that the Executive will review the organization and structure of the Executive Branch and propose some reorganizational changes for consistency.

Without objection, the Council deleted the word [uniform] on lines 120 and 164, pages 5 and 6, and inserted in lieu thereof the word uniformed.

At the suggestion of Councilman Christeller and without objection, the Council deleted the language on lines 188 through the words "State law." on line 191, page 7.

With respect to the issue of dues check-off, Councilman Christeller moved, duly seconded, to delete the word [may] from line 223, and insert in lieu thereof the word shall.

Mr. Lloyd expressed the view that collection of dues should not be included in the bill, but should be left as a matter of discussion between the government and employee organization. Some Councilmembers wanted to include explicit language. The language that was developed is a compromise between those two positions.

President Menke noted that the Council agreed during worksessions on this bill that if the County Executive refuses to provide dues check-off, the Council can consider a legislative bill to require it.

Councilman Christeller's motion failed, Councilmembers Christeller and Menke voting in the affirmative and Councilmembers Hovsepian, Moore, Gelman, Potter and Scull voting in the negative.

Councilman Potter moved that the Council insert the words and agreement after the word "discussions" on line 223. His motion failed for lack of a second.

Addressing the County Executive's memorandum to the Council, dated December 10, 1976, in which he suggested additional language prohibiting position papers on matters of management rights, Councilman Christeller stated that he does not understand the intent of the suggestion. He stated that a position paper does not interfere with the rights of the County Executive to manage, but it does offer an opportunity for an employee group to be on record as to what it is recommending. He stated that the amendment proposed by the County Executive would be in violation of the First Amendment to the Constitution.

Mr. Lloyd stated that the suggested amendment is to specify that joint position papers will not result from discussions concerning inherent management rights.

Councilman Hovsepian stated that nothing in the bill implies that position papers are to be accepted; they are developed for the purposes of discussion.

Upon motion of Councilman Christeller, duly seconded and without objection, the Council inserted the words jointly or separately after the word "discussions" on line 277, page 9, and inserted the following language at the end of line 281: and the County shall not be obligated to concur in a position paper addressing the inherent right to manage the County government.

In response to a question from Councilwoman Moore as to how employee input would be obtained on matters such as withdrawal from Social Security once this bill is adopted, Mr. Lloyd stated that the position expressed by an organization would be considered along with all other positions. Of necessity, the Social Security question has to be addressed across-the-board for all employees. Technically, this issue would be a management right because it involves a contractual situation with the Social Security Administration; but, as a practical matter, no decisions affecting employees such as Social Security would be taken without input from a lot of employees.

Vice President Scull in the Chair.

President Menke moved, duly seconded, that the following language be added to the end of line 29, page 2: Membership or non-membership in an employee organization shall in no way limit the ability of an employee to obtain government information to which he/she would normally have access. Nothing in this Article shall restrict the ability of any employee, whether member or non-member of an employee organization, to discuss matters concerning employees or employee groups to the extent that such discussion does not conflict with the duties and responsibilities of the employee. Without objection, the motion was adopted.

President Menke in the Chair.

Upon motion of Councilman Hovsepian, duly seconded and without objection, the Council voted to waive the reading of the title and proceed to enactment of Bill No. 11-76. By a yea and nay vote, Councilmembers Gelman, Christeller, Scull, Hovsepian, Moore, Potter and Menke voting in the affirmative, Bill No. 11-76, Employer-Employee Relations, was enacted, as amended.

Councilman Christeller expressed the view that Bill No. 11-76 provides a good mechanism for recognizing employee organizations. He regrets that MCGEO believes the Council has gone too far in excluding supervisory personnel from joining such organizations, and expressed the hope that a broad cross-section of employees will join a single organization.

President Menke indicated that he would be willing to consider amendments to the law to expand the membership of employee organizations if answers to some of the questions raised during worksessions can be provided.

(The Council recessed at 11:45 A.M., and reconvened at 12:00 M.)

Vice President Scull in the Chair.

Re: Enactment of Bill No. 44-76, Automatic Termination for Members of Boards, Committees and Commissions

Bill No. 44-76, Automatic Termination for Members of Boards, Committees and Commissions, was called for final reading.

The Council had before it for consideration Draft No. 2 of Bill No. 44-76, dated December 10, 1976. Vice President Scull stated that this bill has been amended to reflect the decisions made by the Council at the worksessions. The objective of this bill is to deal with the problems raised by certain boards that have been troubled with absenteeism among their members. This causes problems with quorums and the distribution of workloads. It is neither sensible nor fair to allow non-functioning board members to continue to serve in view of the fact that each time a vacancy is advertised, there are many well-qualified applicants and not enough positions for them to fill.

President Menke in the Chair.

Upon motion of Councilwoman Scull, duly seconded and without objection, Councilwoman Gelman not voting, the Council adopted the following amendments to Bill No. 44-76, as reflected in Draft No. 2, with underlining indicating language added to present law, brackets indicating language deleted from present law, capital letters indicating language added to the bill as introduced, and strike-throughs indicating deletions from the bill as introduced:

MISCELLANEOUS BUSINESS:

Councilman Hovsepian requested that Mr. Tierney check the provisions of the recently-enacted Financial Disclosure Law to determine if the upcoming appointment to the Personnel Board must file a statement prior to appointment.

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS:

Re: Introduction of Bill No. 11-76, Employer/Employee Relations

The Council had before it for consideration Bill No. 11-76, Employer/Employee Relations.

President Christeller stated that this bill was submitted to the Council by the County Executive during the first week of March. The bill was not scheduled for introduction immediately because he had not had an opportunity to read the bill, and the Council could not possibly schedule a public hearing until after the budget season in May or June. He has been urged by the County Executive and Chief Administrative Officer to introduce the bill as employee groups are quite concerned and need assurances that the proposal will be considered. President Christeller stated that this bill will authorize a "meet and confer" approach to employer/employee relations. It appears that the General Assembly will not enact legislation during this session to allow the more comprehensive collective bargaining approach. He stated that he has reviewed the bill and found that several amendments are needed. He met with a leader of an employee organization yesterday who came almost to the point of asking that the Council not introduce the bill at this point because of its deficiencies. President Christeller distributed copies of a draft memorandum to the County Attorney requesting the preparation of several amendments to Bill No. 11-76, noting that many of these amendments are of the same nature that the employee organization is interested in. The employee organization has prepared a substitute bill, which he has not had an opportunity to review. However, there will be ample time for the introduction of amendments or an alternate bill prior to the scheduling of a public hearing. He reviewed his draft memorandum to the County Attorney, citing the reasons for his asking for a more precise definition of "management-level employees", a narrower definition of "supervisor", an amendment that would permit one or more separate employee units for all "supervisors" except management-level and confidential employees, explicit language that separate units of professional employees may be established, a provision that the County shall be obligated to discuss matters such as the retirement system and uniform pay schedule, a provision that the County Executive must include in his budget recommendations to the Council any matters on which an agreement has been reached that have budgetary implications, an amendment to require the County Executive to include in the budget presentation the details of the costs of the employee group requests if no agreement has been reached by February 1 of each year, a narrower definition of "confidential employee", assurance that meetings will occur more frequently than every two years if requested, and a provision for check-off of dues. In addition, several technical amendments are needed. President Christeller requested that other Councilmembers review the bill to determine whether there are other desirable amendments that should be drafted.

Upon motion of Councilman Hovsepian, duly seconded and without objection, the Council voted to waive the reading of the title and introduce Bill No. 11-76 by the Council President at the request of the County Executive: AN ACT to add a new Chapter 18A, title "Employer-Employee Relations Act," to the Montgomery County Code 1972, as amended, to follow immediately after Chapter 18 thereof, to provide for the election and certification of employee organizations for purposes of meeting with County officials concerning conditions of employment and the resolution of grievances, but excluding certain topics from being discussed at any such meetings; to provide for the designation of employee units from which such employee organizations are elected and which such organizations represent; to provide for the recognition of such employee organizations by the County; to provide for the preparation of position papers by the County and such employee organizations; to provide for procedures for the decertification of employee organizations; to define certain terms; to provide for the Chief Administrative Officer to finally resolve disputes arising under this Article; to specify responsibilities of the County and the employee organizations; to provide for the protection of those County employees who choose not to become members of an employee organization; and to provide for the retention of existing personnel laws and regulations and the option of any employee to pursue a grievance through procedures set forth therein.

Re: Introduction of Bill No. 12-76, Reorganization of Executive Branch

The Council had before it for consideration Bill No. 12-76, Reorganization of Executive Branch.

Councilman Hovsepian stated that this bill was submitted by the County Executive in order to implement the reorganization of the Executive Branch that has been proposed in the Operating Budget for FY 1977. He noted, however, that the titles of various offices and sections still cannot be correllated with those in the budget office. In addition, he noted that the budget document and other papers have always referred to the "Office of Budget and Research," but existing law refers to the "Budget and Research section"; the same is true of the "Management information services section". He stated that the budget document should be consistent with the language of the law.

President Christeller requested that the Council and public be provided with an organization chart of the Executive Branch of County government. This will aid in understanding the proposal before the Council, and will point out the fact that some offices are not titled in a parallel fashion.

Chief Administrative Officer Hussmann distributed to the Council a partial organization chart for the CAO's office, Community and Government Relations, Employee Relations, Management and Public Policy, and State Affairs. He indicated that he is preparing a memorandum that discusses the rationale behind the proposals.

Councilman Hovsepian moved, duly seconded, that the Council waive the reading of the title of Bill No. 5-76 and proceed to its enactment.

Councilman Potter moved, duly seconded, that action on Bill No. 5-76 be postponed for one week to allow citizens an opportunity to communicate their views to the Council. His motion failed, Councilmembers Potter and Moore voting in the affirmative and Councilmembers Christeller, Hovsepian, Scull, Gelman and Menke voting in the negative.

Without objection, Councilman Hovsepian's motion was adopted.

By a yea and nay vote, Councilmembers Hovsepian, Gelman, Menke, Moore, Scull and Christeller voting in the affirmative and Councilman Potter not voting, Bill No. 5-76, Abolition of Cabin John Park Fire Board, was enacted.

At the suggestion of Councilman Menke and without objection, it was agreed that a letter of explanation on this bill would be sent to all citizens who have expressed concerns over this action.

MISCELLANEOUS BUSINESS:

Bill No. 1-76, Amendment to MPDU Law, was enrolled as Chapter 34; Bill No. 3-76, Amendment to MPDU Law, was enrolled as Chapter 35; and Bill No. 9-76, Bond Bill for Parks and Recreation, was enrolled as Chapter 36.

There being no further official business to come before the County Council in Legislative Session, the meeting adjourned at 11:55 A.M., to reconvene at 1:30 P.M. on Tuesday, April 13, 1976, or at the call of the President.

Date March 3, 1976

MONTGOMERY COUNTY COUNCIL OFFICE

To Norman L. Christeller, President, County Council

From James R. Gleason, County Executive

Subject Employer/Employee Relations Legislation

On June 4, 1975, I sent to you a proposed ~~bill~~ to provide formalized employer/employee relations for County Government employees.

I understand the Council deferred action on such legislation in anticipation that enabling legislation would be perhaps passed by the General Assembly, thus allowing the County to pass stronger legislation than the "meet and confer" model that I sent to you.

I am advised by our County and State Affairs staff that neither enabling legislation nor a state-wide employee relations bill will be passed this legislative year.

In view of these developments, I think it is important that we proceed with the establishment of some formalized communication mechanism for our County employees. My experience this past year has been, on the basis of several discussions with employee organizations, that there exists a real need to formalize our discussions between management and groups of employees. Therefore, I would urge you to take prompt action to introduce the legislation which I sent to you in June.

SUBJECT: Proposed Employer/Employee Relations Legislation

The Personnel Board has reviewed the proposed Employer/Employee Relations Act submitted by the County Executive and find it to be both timely and appropriate.

In the absence of State legislation permitting formal recognition of employee groups or representatives, the Board endorses Mr. Gleason's proposed legislation and urges favorable action by the County Council. We believe this bill is essential to the maintenance of good employer/employee relations.

The Board would appreciate being kept informed of the progress of this legislation.

The Journal of June 8, 1976, was approved as amended.

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS:

Re: Introduction of Bill No. 23-76, Employer-Employee Relations

The Council had before it for consideration Bill No. 23-76, Employer-Employee Relations.

President Christeller read his memorandum to the Council, as follows:

The needs and problems addressed by Bills Nos. 11-76 and 23-76 are significant and compelling. The action taken by the Council will set the pattern for employer-employee relations for the indefinite future. Because these matters are complicated and far-reaching, I believe the Council must devote considerable time and care to the enactment of such legislation.

I am not fully satisfied that the two bills before us provide all of the options the Council should consider, but they are a good beginning. The several points on which the two bills differ provide the Council with a range of concepts within which it can act, such as the following:

1. Bill No. 11-76 seems to me to provide too broad a definition of "management level employees" and "supervisors", while Bill No. 23-76 provides too narrow a definition.

2. Bill No. 11-76 seems to me to exclude too many matters from the agenda of discussions between management and employee group representatives, but Bill No. 23-76 may need tightening up as to such agendas and/or the circumstances of such discussions.

3. Neither bill addresses the fundamental problem of providing a better presentation of salary and benefit recommendations to the Council, including a cost estimate of any employee group proposals.

Because other concepts may become evident as we study these matters and conduct the public hearing on these two bills, there is the possibility that we will find it desirable to introduce amendments or a third bill at a later time. In the interest of careful consideration of these complex issues, I will keep that possibility in mind for the Council calendar.

I am proposing the attached amendment for introduction at this time. It anticipates the need for providing a forum for those employees not permitted to be included in an organized group.

In response to an inquiry by Councilwoman Scull as to the emergency nature of the bill, President Christeller stated that the Council does not have to enact the bill as an emergency, but it was so requested by the Montgomery County Government Employees Organization. The MCGEO is thinking in terms of negotiations related to the preparation of the FY 1978 Operating Budget. He stated that the Council should not preclude the possibility of emergency legislation, but does not have to make a decision at this time.

Upon motion of Councilman Hovsepian, duly seconded and without objection, the Council voted to waive the reading of the title and introduce Bill No. 23-76 by the Council President at the request of the Employees Organization: AN ACT to add a new Chapter 36A, title "Public Employee Relations" to the Montgomery County Code 1972, as amended, to follow immediately after Chapter 36 thereof, to provide for the election and certification of employee organizations for purposes of meeting with County officials concerning conditions of employment, the resolution of grievances, and other matters involving relations between the County and its employees; to provide for the designation of employee units from which such employee organizations are elected and which such organizations represent; to provide for the recognition of such employee organizations by the County; to provide for the preparation of memoranda of understanding by the County and such employee organizations; to provide for procedures for the decertification of employee organizations; to define certain terms; to provide for the Chief Administrative Officer to resolve disputes arising under this Article, subject to review by the Personnel Board; to specify responsibilities of the County and the employee organizations; to provide for the protection of those County employees who choose not to become members of an employee organization; and to provide for the retention of existing personnel laws and regulations and the option of any employee to pursue a grievance through procedures set forth therein.

Re: Introduction of Amendment to Bill No. 11-76, Employer-Employee Relations

Upon motion of Councilman Hovsepian, duly seconded and without objection, the Council introduced the following amendment to Bill No. 11-76, Employer-Employee Relations, as suggested by President Christeller: Add the following language to the end of line 122: , provided, however, that nothing herein shall preclude such employees from meeting together and selecting representatives for conferences with the Chief Administrative Officer or the County Executive.

Re: Introduction of Bill No. 24-76, Road Code Amendments

Upon motion of Councilman Menke, duly seconded and without objection, the Council voted to waive the reading of the title and introduce Bill No. 24-76 by Councilmembers Menke and Scull: AN ACT to amend Chapter 49, title "Streets and Roads", of the Montgomery County Code 1972, as amended, by repealing and re-enacting with amendments Section 49-43, subtitle "Waivers of requirements of article" to add a new subsection (d) to permit the County to waive road code standards and to make temporary road improvements to County public roads upon written order by the County Executive finding that such construction is necessary for safety on a County public road for which no additional right-of-way need be acquired, and to add a new subsection (e) to permit the County Executive to waive road code standards for certain moderate price developments and community development areas, and to amend generally to cure certain technical defects.

Upon motion of Councilman Menke, duly seconded and without objection, the Council introduced the following amendments to Bill No. 24-76:

Amendment No. 1, proposed by Councilman Menke: Add to Section 49-43 (d) (1) the following language: provided that, this requirement for inclusion in most recently approved six-year Capital Improvements Program may be waived by the County Executive upon a written finding that:

a. such a waiver is in the general public interest;

b. the road to be improved is less than one mile in length;

c. existing and projected traffic levels are appropriate to the construction standards proposed;

d. the road improvements are limited to surface treatments;

e. the improvement will reduce road maintenance expenses; and

Upon motion of Councilman Hovsepian, duly seconded and without objection, Councilwoman Moore not voting, the Council deleted the comma after the word "staff" on line 30 of the title of the bill, and inserted in lieu thereof a semicolon.

Upon motion of Councilman Hovsepian, duly seconded and without objection, the Council voted to waive the reading of the title and proceed to enactment of Bill No. 4-76. By a yea and nay vote, Councilmembers Hovsepian, Gelman, Menke and Christeller voting in the affirmative, Councilmembers Moore and Scull voting in the negative and Councilman Potter being temporarily absent, Bill No. 4-76 was disapproved by virtue of the fact that five affirmative votes are required for emergency legislation.

Upon motion of Councilman Hovsepian, duly seconded and without objection, the Council voted to reconsider its action on Bill No. 4-76, Health Systems Agency. The Council agreed to consider the bill further when all members of the Council are present.

(The Legislative Session was recessed at 1:30 P.M., and reconvened at 5:30 P.M.)

MISCELLANEOUS BUSINESS:

Bill No. 42-75, Hearing Examiner's Duties and Responsibilities, was enrolled as Chapter 44.

There being no further official business to come before the County Council in Legislative Session, the meeting adjourned at 5:35 P.M., to reconvene at 7:30 P.M. on Thursday, June 17, 1976, or at the call of the President.

SUBJECT: Employer-Employee Relations Bills

The needs and problems addressed by Bills 11-76 and 23-76 are significant and compelling. The action taken by the Council will set the pattern for employer-employee relations for the indefinite future. Because these matters are complicated and far-reaching, I believe the Council must devote considerable time and care to the enactment of such legislation.

I am not fully satisfied that the two bills before us provide all of the options the Council should consider, but they are a good beginning. The several points on which the two bills differ provide the Council with a range of concepts within which it can act, such as the following:

1. Bill 11-76 seems to me to provide too broad a definition of "management level employees" and "supervisors" while Bill 23-76 provides too narrow a definition.

2. Bill 11-76 seems to me to exclude too many matters from the agenda of discussions between management and employee group representatives, but Bill 23-76 may need tightening up as to such agendas and/or the circumstances of such discussions.

3. Neither bill addresses the fundamental problem of providing a better presentation of salary and benefit recommendations to the Council, including a cost estimate of any employee group proposals.

Because other concepts may become evident as we study these matters and conduct the public hearing on these two bills, there is the possibility that we will find it desirable to introduce amendments or a third bill at a later time. In the interest of careful consideration of these complex issues, I will keep that possibility in mind for the Council calendar.

I am proposing the attached amendment for introduction at this time. It anticipates the need for providing a forum for those employees not permitted to be included in an organized group.

Article, subject to review by the Personnel Board; to specify responsibilities of the County and the employee organizations; to provide for the protection of those County employees who choose not to become members of an employee organization; and to provide for the retention of existing personnel laws and regulations and the option of any employee to pursue a grievance through the procedures set forth therein.

There are six exhibits: certified copy of the bill; request for advertising; proof of advertising; memorandum from the Legislative Counsel, Philip Tierney; a letter from Jessie H. Bakeman; and statements from Montgomery County Government Employee Organization members, supporting Bill 23-76, which is the bill that was proposed by that organization.

Seven speakers have signed up for this evening. If there are any others that wish to speak, it would help if you would give your name to the Council secretary, on the left.

We will begin with Robert Carty, speaking for the County Executive.

MR. CARTY: Mr. President and members of the County Council, my name is Robert Carty, Assistant Chief Administrative Officer. On behalf of the County Executive and the Chief Administrative Officer, I am pleased to offer comments on Bills 11-76 and 23-76.

7676 NEW HAMPSHIRE AVENUE, SUITE 210 • LANGLEY PARK, MARYLAND 20783 • (301) 439-5600

For the record, Bill Number 11-76 was forwarded to the Council by the County Executive on June 4th, 1975, and Bill 23-76 was introduced at the request of an employee organization on June 15,th, 1976.

While there are important differences in the two bills, it is striking that there are many similarities. These similarities suggest that the general frame of reference between management and the employees of the Montgomery County Government is a shared one and that the common goal is to improve channels of communication so that the citizens of the County can be better served.

I would now like to point out and comment on the major differences between the two bills.

The County Executive's Bill, 11-76, defines "confidential employee" and later on excludes such employees from an employee organizations.

Such an exclusion is common in most public sector labor relations legislation. The intent of such exclusion is to prevent divided loyalties between employees' membership in an employee organization and their supervisor.

Normally, such employees include administrative aides to elected officials and department heads, as well as other employees whose responsibilities in management -- such as in budget, personnel, finance and executive staff -- would be incompatible with membership in an employee organization.

ah

The definition of "employee" in the bills varies somewhat. The County Executive's bill defines "employee" as a Merit System employee working on a continuous full-time basis. This definition excludes supervisory, confidential and management-level employees.

Bill 23-76 includes both full-time and part-time employees whose classification is determined under the personnel regulations and that bill excludes only elected officials and management-level employees.

While it is common to exclude part-time employees from employee organizations, it is suggested that in the interest of clarify, the definition contained in Bill 11-76 include "part-time, career employees." This is consistent with the definition in the personnel regulations.

The definition of "management-level employee" in the bills also varies. Bill 11-76, the County Executive's bill, excludes those employees involved in policy-making or who responsibly direct the implementation of policy.

Bill Number 23-76 defines "management-level employee" as department or office heads or Merit System employees who report to the County Executive, the County Council, or the Chief Administrative Officer.

Bill 23-76 also defines a supervisor as a management-level employee with certain authority under the charter and the personnel regulations.

ah

The two definitions in Bill 23-76 would appear to permit the majority of County supervisors to join units with rank and file.

We believe that policy determination and implementation is a continuum, that is, a shared responsibility diminishing only in degree from the top down.

For purposes of deciding who should be involved in an employee organization, a line typically is drawn at the first level of supervision -- foreman, unit supervisor, or whatever.

It is important for such employees to be recognized as part of management. We realize that some effort must be made to properly identify these employees.

Bill 11-76 excludes supervisory employees and defines such employees much more broadly than does Bill Number 23-76.

The County Executive's Bill, again, 11-76, defines "professional employee" and provides that such employees shall not be included in a unit which includes nonprofessional employees unless a majority of the professional employees specifically request inclusion. Such distinction is normally made in the interest of ensuring a reasonable community of interest in employee units.

The sections on "determination of employee units" in both bills contain no substantive differences. However, we ah would like to point out that it is important to avoid the proliferation of employee organizational units.

In the neighboring county, there are about 25 units. Such proliferation disrupts any sense of unity among employees as a group and detracts from a productive, positive employer-employee working relationship.

We suggest that a sentence be added to line 22 of Bill Number 11-76, stating, "The number of such units shall not be greater than six in number."

Without specifying the units by name, they could include police, fire, service and maintenance employees, clerical employees, professional and technical employees, and one additional unit for any unforeseen circumstance.

County employees might prefer to have one large unit rather than a number of them. There are certain advantages to such a "conference board" -- which is a technical name for such an arrangement. It allows for employees to deal with management in the aggregate, rather than as splintered individual units, and it would also allow management to deal with broad issues, such as pay and benefits, which must of necessity be uniform for all employees.

Provision can be made in any unit election for employees to express their wishes as to whether or not they desire to affiliate with one unit on a countywide basis or with a more narrow one.

ah

Another difference in the matter of unit determination is in Bill 23-76 wherein it provides that a decision of the Chief Administrative Officer may be appealed to the County Personnel Board.

We believe that the matter of unit determination is critical to management and should not be made a matter of appeal to the Personnel Board. Furthermore, the authority of the Personnel Board is rather specific in the County Charter. Section 404 does not extend to matters of employer-employee relations.

The sections on "procedures for certification of employee organizations" do not vary between the two bills, except that Bill 23-76 provides provides that "elections shall be conducted by the Personnel Board which may ask the assistance of the Maryland State Department of Labor and Industry or any other agency."

We would suggest that Bill 11-76 is probably too restrictive and provision should be made for other third parties to assist in any election process.

Another difference involves the percentage of eligible employees necessary to validate an election. Bill 11-76 provides that at least 60 percent of the employees eligible to participate in an election are necessary to validate such election; whereas Bill 23-76 provides that only 50 percent of employees eligible may validate an election.

ah

We believe that 60 percent is not unreasonable, considering the importance of certifying employee organizations.

Bill 23-76 also provides for payroll dues collection at the request of the employee. We concur, providing the organization has been certified and represents a majority of the employees in the appropriate unit and providing that the deduction is not obligatory. We feel that this should be a matter of discussion between the employee organization and the County.

The sections pertaining to "costs of conducting elections" vary between the two bills. Bill 11-76 provides for sharing of such cost between the county and the employee organization, while bill 23-76 provides that the County shall bear all election costs. We believe this is a shared responsibility and that the costs should be shared.

The next area of some variation concerns the section on "County-employee organization meetings and discussions."

Bill 11-76 provides that these be held at least every two years. Bill 23-76 specifies meetings shall be held quarterly, and it further provides that such meetings may be with County representatives including the County Executive and the County Council.

We believe that quarterly meetings are too

ah

frequent, and although the two-year provision in the County Executive's bill was not intended to be limiting, a provision for at least an annual meeting would appear to be acceptable.

An important difference between the bills concerns matters to be discussed with employee organizations. There are certain areas that are commonly excluded from labor relations legislation.

Such matters are normally known collectively as management rights, and include areas which are typically inherent in the managerial and policy-making process.

Such items are specifically enumerated in Section 33-69(b) of Bill Number 11-76. Included are such things as the mission of the County Government, its budget, its organization, number of employees, positions classified, grades of employees, work projects, and the technology of County work.

We believe the aforementioned matters are within the prerogative of the legislative and executive branches and that they should not be the subject of discussion.

One of the criticisms of Bill Number 11-76 is that if all these things are excluded, what is there left to talk about? We suggest the answer is a great deal: work conditions, promotional policies, training programs, group insurance package, cost-of-living adjustments and the administration of the Merit System, to name a few. It is important, however, that these matters be identified which are and have to be the responsibility of those who are elected or appointed to carry out County programs.

We would point out that Bill 11-76 does provide for the County or its agent to meet with employee organizations for the purposes of hearing their views on the aforementioned managerial matters.

With respect to disputes, Bill 11-76 provides that the decision of the Chief Administrative Officer shall be final, subhect to an appeal to the County Personnel Board where provided by law.

Bill 23-76 would make such appeals to the County Personnel Board the subject of a mandatory hearing. The role of the Personnel Board as outlined in the charter is restrictive and limited to mandatory hearings only in cases of dismissal, demotion and suspension.

There is one difference between the bills in the sections concerning "employee organization responsibilities." 11-76 would prohibit an employee organization from picketing the County in any dispute or condoning such activity by failing to take action to prevent or stop it. We believe that any bill that is enacted should contain this provision.

In conclusion, we believe Bill 11-76, with minor modifications, represents needed improvements in formalizing

ah

relationships with County employees. We believe it is consistent with the traditions of our County and will go far toward improving what are already excellent relations between the County, as an employer, and County employees.

Thank you very much.

MR. CHRISTELLER: Thank you, Mr. Carty.

Are there questions from the Council?

(No response.)

MR. CHRISTELLER: Mr. Carty, one comment. When 11-76 was introduced, I noted that it seemed to me that the definition of "management-level employee" was extremely broad and uncertain as to just exactly where you're drawing the line.

Now you, in your testimony, have implied where you think it draws the line, but I'm not personally convinced that the language of the bill comes out necessarily the way you've described it, and I think it would be useful for you to give some thought to how that might be tightened up some.

I think Bill 23 probably goes too far in the other direction, and I'm looking for some language that falls somewhere in-between the two in terms of a clearer drawing of the line as to who may and who may not be in such organizations.

MR. CARTY: We will draft up something, and I'll

send you a copy.

MR. CHRISTELLER: I think it would be useful if you would do that.

To some degree, I had the same problem with the definition of "supervisor," and that's another element that you might look at for that reason.

All right. Mr. Hovsepian?

MR. HOVSEPIAN: Mr. President, have you as yet set a date for a worksession, so that we might be able to --

MR. CHRISTELLER: Yes. August 9th; the first day Council is back from vacation; first order of business.

MR. HOVSEPIAN: Thank you.

MR. CHRISTELLER: So you might keep that in mind -- 1:30 in the afternoon on August 9th, which is a Monday.

All right. Thank you very much, Mr. Carty.

MR. CARTY: Thank you very much.

MR. CHRISTELLER: The next speaker is Allen Prettyman, for the International Brotherhood of Police Officers.

MR. WHITNEY: Mr. Chairman, I am not Allen Prettyman. In his place, I am Allen Whitney, Executive Vice-President of the International Brotherhood of Police Officers, and I am accompanied this evening by P.F.C. Tom Moore, who is President of Local 498 of the IBPO.

I would like to apologize for not having a prepared statement for the members of the Council this evening. However, I don't think that our presentation will take a good deal of time.

What I would like to do at the outset, Mr. Chairman and members of the Council, is to ask that note be taken of a letter which I submitted to each member of the County Council almost exactly one year ago, on July 8th of 1975.

At that time, I set forth in writing the position of the International Brotherhood of Police Officers with respect to the proposed legislation -- it had not, of course, at that time been introduced -- but the proposed legislation which had been developed by the County Executive staff people for the consideration of the County Council.

In that letter, as I say, I set forth the position of our organization. In the intervening period, as nearly as I can tell, the County's bill has not changed in any significant degree, and by the same token, the position of the IBPO with respect to that bill has not changed.

Our position is basically that the County Executive's proposal is rather something of a pale shadow of what we would typically conceive of in terms of collective bargaining legislation.

We have some very basic problems with that legislation. In comparison to the second bill which is before the body, 23-76, there is no question in our mind but what 23-76

is far superior to the County Executive's bill.

The basic problem that we have with both pieces of legislation or proposed legislation is the fact that it does not provide for a structure within which representatives of employees may sit down with representatives of management or the County Government and work out and develop specific, written criteria relating to such things as base pay, fringe benefits, working conditions, personnel policy, and things of that nature.

And by the same token, of course, neither bill provides any meaningful procedure for resolution of any disputes which may arise between the parties in any of those enumerated areas.

11-76 speaks only in terms of minutes reflecting the positions taken by the parties at any of the meet and confer sessions that might occur, and I think it's a failing on the part of the proposed legislation that it does not encompass, as I said, any procedure by which any differences that might arise at such meetings may be resolved in an impartial and fair fashion.

If I could, I'd like to take just a few moments to deal with a few specific matters, specific points, in both pieces of legislation and offer our comments on them.

With respect to Bill 11-76, I would also agree with the reaction of the Chairman. I think that the definition of

ah

"management-level employee" is overly broad and lacks any real degree of definition. I think it would be very helpful to have a more specifically-defined statement as to what kinds of duties, what kinds of responsibilities should necessarily result in the definition of the designation of any given County employee as a management official.

With respect to -- and this touches on a point that I just spoke to -- on page 3 of 11-76, a position paper is defined as "a nonbinding written memorandum, reflecting all items discussed by the County and an employee organization." My comment applies to that, as well. There is little meaning for a written document which has no binding features to it whatsoever, but it simply reflects the positions that were taken by the employee organization and the County.

On page 5 of 11-76, the County proposes to define "bargaining units" by specifically citing the cut-off point at which people above that point would be designated as supervisors and managers, and all those below that level would be eligible for inclusion in the bargaining unit.

The County proposes that those officers in the ranks of sergeant or equivalent rank and below be included in the bargaining unit. We would suggest that that be amended to read, "all those in the ranks of corporal or below."

I think one of the most important differences

7676 NEW HAMPSHIRE AVENUE, SUITE 210 • LANGLEY PARK, MARYLAND 20783 • (301) 439-5600

ah

between the two bills is the frequency at which meetings would be called between employee organizations and County officials.

I can't really believe that the County was all that serious in proposing that organizations elected to speak on behalf of employees would only be entitled to sit down with the County every other year to discuss whatever matters might be on the agenda.

In our experience, a typical kind of a frequency would be more on a monthly basis. I think quarterly would be acceptable, as would be called for in 23-76.

The other primary difference, which was touched on by the witness for the County Executive, relates to those matters which may or may not be discussed at these meetings, whether they are every two years or on a quarterly basis.

The primary difference between the two bills is that in the County's bill, it states that these subjects may not be discussed; in 23-76, it says that they may be discussed.

The position of our organization is that if this is the extent to which consultation and meeting and conferring is going to be granted, I don't think it does any harm for the County Government to be willing to sit down and at least discuss these matters.

If there is nothing of a binding nature, if there is

no procedure imposed which requires agreements to be reached by the resolution of disputes, for the life of me, I can't see what valid reason the County can possibly have for simply adopting the ostrich-like position that we simply refuse to discuss these kinds of issues.

I think that it does a disservice to the rank and file members of the police department. I think they have a lot of good, responsive and responsible kinds of comments to make on these kinds of subjects, and I think it is at least incumbent upon the County to be willing to sit down and listen to their comments on those points.

In sum, Mr. Chairman, I would say that despite the weaknesses that we identify in the bill and despite the problems that we have with it, we would be willing to accept the basic provisions of 23-76, and we would urge that it be looked upon only as a starting point.

We would suggest that it would be helpful, in the first one or two years of experience under that legislation, to examine the experience to see what kinds of problems arise and perhaps look at some point down the road to adopting more substantive legislation which adopts more of the traditional elements of formal employee-employer relations, because there are people on this Council who I recall meeting with in a workshop session some two years ago, and at that workshop session, there were rather strong, firm statements made to the effect that we would see some kind of collective bargaining legislation before November of that year. It is now the summer of 1976, our Bicentennial year, we're still waiting, with a great deal of anticipation, and we hope that the County Council will move this legislation along as quickly as possible.

Thank you.

MR. CHRISTELLER: Thank you, Mr. Whitney. Do you want to add something, Mr. Moore?

MR. MOORE: No, sir.

MR. CHRISTELLER: All right. Let me just say, Mr. Whitney -- I, perhaps, was derelict in not mentioning it at the beginning of the hearing -- that this legislation had not been introduced by the Council when it was first forwarded to us by the Executive because we, acting on the basis of the County Attorney's opinion that we do not have authority for binding collective bargaining legislation, we supported the bill submitted by the employee organization to the Montgomery County delegation last year, requesting that the delegation grant to the County Council the authority to enact true collective bargaining legislation.

As you know, the delegation considered it at some length and carried that bill over and indicated to us that, in the meantime, they wondered why we didn't go ahead with the meet and confer provisions.

ah

They will, apparently, still be considering that bill, and as I understand it, there also is a statewide commission that's to be appointed to study the whole issue of collective bargaining at local government level.

So there is something moving in that direction at the same time that we're going to move forward to consider these two bills on the meet and confer.

But the comment you made that there can't be a binding agreement basically relates to that interpretation of the present legal situation, that we can't engage in collective bargaining which would result in a binding agreement.

MR. WHITNEY: I think, Mr. Chairman, one minor amendment to either of the pending bills that might at least take a little bit of the edge off that factor -- and I recognize its presence -- would be perhaps the inclusion of some form of statement of policy on the part of the County Council to the effect that memoranda of understanding which might be developed by the parties would at least be adhered to to the extent possible within the existing law, simply as a matter of County policy.

MR. CHRISTELLER: We can certainly consider something of that sort. I think the other point that you made, which was that the bill doesn't provide for any resolution of differences, is a direct outgrowth of the belief that we don't have the authority for true collective bargaining at this time, and therefore, where you are meeting and conferring, the fact that the bill does provide for the reduction to writing of the positions of the parties is about as far as one really can go if you don't have a true bargaining process in terms of a binding agreement resulting.

I think what it really means is that the collective bargaining process is basically going to be between -- or, the meet and confer process, at this stage; the collective bargaining at a later time -- would be between the employee organization representatives and the representatives of the County Executive.

And in the case of the meet and confer legislation, the fact the you might produce position papers where you haven't reached agreement means that if it's an issue that is something that ultimately the Council will be asked to resolve, at least the positions of both parties would then be known to the Council, so that's really what I think is behind that.

MR. WHITNEY: That's very well-taken. The kinds of procedures that I had in mind that fall somewhat short of full collective bargaining but which I think are also helpful are such processes as independent fact-finding, perhaps advisory arbitration, things of that nature.

MR. CHRISTELLER: Yes. That's a good point to consider. Are there other questions?

(No response.)

MR. CHRISTELLER: Apparently not. Thank you very much.

MR. WHITNEY: Thank you.

MR. CHRISTELLER: The next speaker is James Mills, representing the Montgomery County Government Employees Organization.

MR. MILLS: My name is James Mills, and I reside at 24425 Ridge Road, Damascus, Maryland. I am employed by the Montgomery County Department of Public Works of Transportation, as an engineer.

I am President of Montgomery County Government Employees Organization and am here tonight to speak in support of our Bill 23-76.

I would like to take this opportunity to express this organization's appreciation to Mr. Christeller for the introduction of this bill, in response to our request.

This bill, without reservation, must be recognized as being the single most important piece of legislation that jointly affects labor and management in the County's history.

It offers official recognition by management of labor, but more importantly, it opens up a vital channel of communication between these two parties.

Our bill presents credibility with dignity; a joint

venture that is certain to bear fruit for management, labor and the general public.

It has always been my personal belief that open communication is the essential ingredient to produce lasting harmony and efficiency in production.

This bill allows discussion to occur when and where discussion should occur, during regular intervals at the conference table.

This concept is consistent with the desires of our current membership and was an ingrained objective at the inception of this organization.

Our membership overwhelmingly voted to establish the type of organization that must function with local management.

The voices heard during these discussions should be those of labor and management. The dialogue must be truly representative of both parties to maintain credibility.

Our request is just and, I might add, reasonable. Therefore, I am very optimistic that the basic points of our bill will be retained and approved by you, the Council.

Mr. Gleason, as you know, had a similar bill introduced some time ago, and I assume that you have had an opportunity to familiarize yourself with it. A major omission in Mr. Gleason's bill, from our viewpoint, was that no provision had been made for organization dues to be deducted by check -- a simple process to implement, we have been told -- and one which recent court decisions in similar circumstances have granted to public employees.

Many other aspects of our bill and Mr. Gleason's when compared are diametrically opposite one another. One sector that is certain to require thought by you, the Council, is just where do you draw the line that separates labor from management.

From the begininning, our organization's internal structure was constituted to accommodate both supervisory and staff personnel.

Membership composition, in fact, clearly dictated that this approach be taken. Supervisors and staff alike considered themselves an integral part of labor rather than management and voluntarily aligned themselves accordingly.

They constitute broad and vital segments of our organization and must remain as identifiable parts of our organization.

Any effort to exclude other than top management personnel from being members of this organization contrary to their voluntary choice, would not be in accordance with sound democratic principles.

Limitations on areas of discussion between labor and management, another important issue, would seriously cripple credibility.

ah

To justify our stand on this point, one need only compare both bills to realize that the wording provides no major binding action on the part of management.

Simply because an issue is not discussed, the forbidden issue is not removed from the thoughts of those concerned, nor is it any less an issue.

In fact, it invariably magnifies that issue to the point that the issue assumes a greater importance than it has any right to assume.

Had the issue been openly discussed in the beginning, there is a strong possibility that the issue could have been resolved in mutual accord.

The margin of safety reserved for management in either Mr. Gleason's bill or our own bill -- not a small point, I might add -- hopefully will allow adjustments of differences between the two bills to be weighted in the organization's favor.

Before concluding, I call your attention to a major omission in our own bill. This omission, quickly detected by Mr. Christeller, was the failure of our bill to require timely progress reports to the Council pertaining to our meetings with top management. This concept we firmly endorse and, in fact, would desire not to be without.

I appreciate this opportunity to testify here tonight and request from you, the Council, a favorable consideration and expeditious enactment of our Bill Number 23-76.

I would like to add one other thing. I notice that the worksession scheduled was on August the 9th. We have all of our -- from myself, our two vice-presidents, and on down the line, and most of our offices, are all on vacation at that time.

I would appreciate it, if possible, if you could move that up a couple weeks, if it would meet with your schedule.

MR. MENKE: Move it up or back? Which one?

MR. MILLS: Well, we would prefer up; sooner.

MR. MENKE: Then all of us will be on vacation.

MR. MILLS: We really would appreciate it.

MR. CHRISTELLER: Mr. Hovsepian?

MR. HOVSEPIAN: We've had long discussions on this; we've had several discussions with our employees. One of the things we must be concerned with -- and I'm sure we discussed this with Fran Abrams -- was what I might call a preconceived decision on a matter where the Council would have to hold a public hearing. Let's take a piece of legislation that might modify this bill, or the need for a piece of legislation to set forth -- or a change in personnel regulations. Those things are the subject of hearings.

The problem that we could encounter is an agreement

ah

in advance that we would not only introduce the bill, but we would vote for whatever it was that was discussed. Am I getting my point across?

MR. MILLS: No.

MR. HOVSEPIAN: That is, a public hearing would then become a charade, in the sense of no changes, no nothing, that's the way it's going to go all the way through, and we've decided we're going to vote for that anyhow.

That could be subject to litigation, by the way, I might point out. If an attitude like that develops in advance of introduction, a public hearing is nothing more than a show, and it could go to court very easily.

But it's something we have to watch in terms of saying, "Well, we'll introduce, or we'll request the Personnel Board to introduce, we'll hold our public hearing, and make our judgment afterwards."

We have to be very careful about that step. So I wish you'd give some thought to that for our worksession.

MR. MILLS: I had given some thought to that very subject.

MR. CHRISTELLER: Mr. Hovsepian, I'm not quite sure how that situation really can arise, if the meet and confer is between the Executive and the organization.

MR. HOVSEPIAN: That's true, but I feel some obligation when the Executive, for example, or both, agree that something should be done in terms of changes.

MR. CHRISTELLER: Yes.

MR. HOVSEPIAN: And I'm only saying that we have to be very careful that we don't say, "Absolutely," right from the bat. That's all I'm saying.

MR. CHRISTELLER: Well, the point is, they can't.

MR. MENKE: They don't have the authority.

MR. CHRISTELLER: Neither of them has the authority, so that all they can agree to do is to urge us to enact it.

MR. HOVSEPIAN: I'm only saying, Mr. President -- let me clarify. Both agree that something should be done, and then that would call for an action on the part of the Council, all right?

MR. CHRISTELLER: That's right.

MR. HOVSEPIAN: All I'm saying is that action must not be a preconceived and a pre-decision action.

MR. CHRISTELLER: All right.

MR. MILLS: I think the workshop will determine a lot of that.

MR. CHRISTELLER: On the schedule, Mr. Mills, I don't know quite what we can do. We have filled everything up through September, and I don't want to delay things that long.

Tell me, in terms of your officers, when will they be back?

MR. MILLS: Well, some should be back within a week

7676 NEW HAMPSHIRE AVENUE, SUITE 210 • LANGLEY PARK, MARYLAND 20783 • (301) 439-5600

ah

of that period, but I'm sure that all of them, mostly, would be back within a two-week period.

MR. CHRISTELLER: All right. You think that they'll be back the week of the 30th?

MR. MILLS: Oh, yes, we'd certainly have enough then.

MR. CHRISTELLER: Okay. I might be able to work this in on Friday, September 3rd, then. The best I can do is to tell you, I'll be having an agenda conference next Wednesday, and we'll make a definite decision. Will you make a note of that for me, Pearl, and we'll make a definite decision then and then get word out to everyone who has testified tonight and let them know for sure when the work-session is.

MR. MILLS: Okay. Thank you very much.

MR. CHRISTELLER: I have one other question, one item I'd like you to think about, and that relates to this problem of where do we draw the line as to who can be members.

It seems clear to me that you can be fairly broad in the definition of where you draw the line, insofar as it is a case of meet and confer on questions concerning working conditions, pay, benefits and so forth.

But most of the proposals for this kind of a set-up for fostering employee organizations also get them involved in grievance problems, and it's where they get into grievance problems that you then start to run into the problem about do you have members of the organization about whom other members have a grievance, because they happen to be in a supervisory chain, and the grievance really is directed at someone else.

Who do you represent then? Do you represent the aggrieved or the middle-level supervisor against whom the complaint is registered?

MR. MILLS: Well, you've brought up a very good point. It's one even within our own organization we are, you know, still wrestling with that problem.

MR. CHRISTELLER: Every organization has that problem, too.

MR. MILLS: Right, right. I don't think there is any simple solution to it. I don't want to go off the point, but basically, I think the clearest way to stop something like that is for a lot more emphasis to be placed on avoiding grievances.

MR. CHRISTELLER: Yes.

MR. MILLS: I'm not trying to dodge the question, but I do think that a lot more emphasis could be placed on avoiding grievances rather than always treating grievances.

MR. CHRISTELLER: I would hope that that would be one of the results of this kind of legislation.

MR. MILLS: Well, that's what I hope for, too.

7676 NEW HAMPSHIRE AVENUE, SUITE 210 • LANGLEY PARK, MARYLAND 20783 • (301) 439-5600

ah

Within our own organization so far, this has seemed to work, with the limited number of trials we've had with it.

MR. CHRISTELLER: Okay. Well, you might think about that. You might even look at a few examples of grievances that you are aware of, that the group has thought about, and be prepared to talk to us about those when we have the worksession.

MR. MILLS: All right.

MR. CHRISTELLER: John, do you have a question?

MR. MENKE: As I have read 23-76 at this point, at line 246, "An employee who is a member of an employee organization may request and shall be granted the right for a member of such organization to be present in any discussions," and so on -- that doesn't go as far as representation in a grievance, for example, like this.

MR. CHRISTELLER: No; that's right.

MR. MENKE: So it may well be that that's how you get around that problem, that you're representing the employees, for example, with respect to discussions on working conditions, and that's not a grievance issue between two employees. It's a question between all the employees, generally, and the County Government.

MR. CHRISTELLER: But read, starting at line 251.

MR. MENKE: (Complying.)

MR. CHRISTELLER: It says that the employee

7676 NEW HAMPSHIRE AVENUE, SUITE 210 • LANGLEY PARK, MARYLAND 20783 • (301) 439-6600

organization itself may submit a grievance. That's what I was getting at.

MR. MENKE: All right. So that also would be a problem, okay. But that's still a somewhat different situation from the direct representation of an employee.

So you may want to look at those in some detail.

MR. MILLS: I believe, really, under line 251, where it says, "An employee organization may submit a grievance concerning any dispute involving a claim of violation, misinterpretation or misapplication of the personnel regulations or work practices," would really be, even currently, an employee would have that option.

MR. CHRISTELLER: Oh, yes. That's right, that's right.

Mr. Hovsepian?

MR. HOVSEPIAN: Mr. President, I would point out, if I might, that subsequent to the presentation of both of these bills, reorganization has taken place at the County level, where we now have an Employee Relations Unit, immediately under the CAO.

That was in response, I believe, to a good deal of employee representation. So bear in mind, I would say, that what we might be discussing is inherently the function of the responsibility of that organization now; to look into a number of things.

ah

We had a meeting here with our minority group, advising us on personnel regulations, and we had a member -- I can't remember his name at the moment -- of the unit, which is now under the CAO, and it was apparent that a number of the things they were discussing might be useful for examination by that unit.

So this, I think, has been done subsequent to when both of these were drafted and might be a useful tool in this respect.

MR. MILLS: Right. It certainly would be one which I'm sure many of our members themselves may wish to use. In fact, I think they are using it; I'm sure they are.

MR. CHRISTELLER: All right. Are there other questions?

(No response.)

MR. CHRISTELLER: Apparently not. Thank you very much, Mr. Mills.

The next speaker is John M. Hardy, for the Montgomery County Fire Fighters.

MR. HARDY: Good evening, ladies and gentlemen. I am John Hardy. I represent the Montgomery County Fire Fighters Association.

So there is no misunderstanding, right off the bat, I'll tell you that we're very much against Bill 11-76, and we strongly support Bill 23-76.

ah

After Bill 11-76 was submitted in June, I submitted a multi-page letter, spelling out my objections, and I don't think it's necessary to take the time to reiterate each one of those here this evening.

I do want to address myself to several points between these two bills. As you know, my organization represents at the present time sergeants, lieutenants, captains, and even an assistant chief.

I think that by limiting the people that organizations can represent, you'll disenfranchise the fire fighters, because I would be unable to apply for recognition in my organization.

I think in Mr. Gleason's bill, too, he seems a bit afraid of what the employees will actually come up with. And given the result of a nonbinding type of an agreement -- or, perhaps, not even an agreement -- I don't see any reason for automatically eliminating certain subjects from being discussed.

In Mr. Gleason's bill, Mr. Gleason would have the final say-so in all matters, and as we see it, instead of meeting twice a year, it would save everybody's time if we just send down a memo.

There would be very little point in discussing the few things that are left to be discussed under Mr. Gleason's bill.

ah

The bill that has been more recently introduced, 23-76, would seem more realistic. I think that the employees can express themselves, and I think the County will find that they'll have more satisfaction among employees when the employees are given a chance to enter into some of the processes of the government.

This is not to say that the employees are asking for control of any of these processes, but at least we'll have a chance to express our either approval or disapproval of all these matters, and given the openness of Bill 23-76, I think this could be more readily accomplished.

As I say, my main point, I think, is that Mr. Gleason's bill would eliminate the top half of my group, and these people are affiliated with the Fire Fighters Association voluntarily. They felt that it was necessary to have a group such as mine represent them.

I don't feel that this is a conflict between management and labor. I feel that perhaps the division especially in the fire service has become a bit higher than perhaps another organization.

Thank you.

MR. CHRISTELLER: Thank you, Mr. Hardy. Are there questions?

MR. HOVSEPIAN: Yes. Isn't it a bit different, also, among our fire fighters? The fire fighters are responsible to the given department, is that not correct?

7676 NEW HAMPSHIRE AVENUE, SUITE 210 • LANGLEY PARK, MARYLAND 20783 • (301) 439-5600

ah

MR. HARDY: That's true, yes.

MR. HOVSEPIAN: They're not responsible administratively to the County, but they are responsible to --

MR. HARDY: Not yet.

MR. HOVSEPIAN: -- to the given board of the given fire department, is that not correct?

MR. HARDY: That's correct, yes.

MR. HOVSEPIAN: Promotions and everything are determined by the department, itself?

MR. HARDY: That's correct.

MR. CHRISTELLER: Good point.

MR. HARDY: Hopefully, that will change soon after the passage of the bill.

MR. CHRISTELLER: Thank you very much. Are there other questions?

(No response.)

MR. CHRISTELLER: Apparently not.

Michael Goldman?

MR. GOLDMAN: Mr. President, members of the Council, my name is Michael Goldman. I reside at 11400 Rockbridge Road, in Silver Spring.

I want to thank the Council for giving me the opportunity to express my views on this legislation now before this body.

7676 NEW HAMPSHIRE AVENUE, SUITE 210 • LANGLEY PARK, MARYLAND 20783 • (301) 439-5600

ah

I come to you as a resident of Montgomery County and as the Assistant General Counsel of the National Treasury Employees Union. We represent approximately 90,000 Federal employees in the United States Treasury Department and in the Federal Energy Administration.

Presently, approximately 50 percent of all public employees nationwide are in exclusive units of representation. So in the deliberations of the legislation now before the Council, it seems that there is already a body of experience to draw upon.

It seems to me that the experience will demonstrate that when employees have an opportunity for a voice in their own destiny, they are more willing to accept and follow established work rules, and this, in turn, has a positive impact on employee morale, and also a positive impact on productivity among employees.

It seems to me there is another important aspect or impact of such meet and confer kind of legislation, and that is, we see in increasing numbers employees, public employees, engaging in job actions.

And I submit to the Council that in large part, this is the fault of the legislation or the inability of the employees to effectively express to management their views on personnel policies, practices and matters affecting general working conditions. So that they resort to

job actions in order to make their point to the legislative or executive bodies.

Now, in order for legislation to have the salutory effect of improving morale and, hopefully, preventing job actions, the legislation must be meaningful and it must have credibility.

Now, in reviewing both bills before the Council, it seems to me that the only bill that has credibility and has the ability to gain the respect of the employees is the bill introduced on behalf of the employee organization.

In comparing the two, it seems obvious to me that the Council bill does not truly provide for meaningful meet and confer opportunities.

Meeting once every two years allows too much time for the build-up of frustration among employees. Meeting quarterly is much more realistic. The employees have a meaningful outlet for their problems; they don't have to wait every two years -- or, more often, at the option of the County Executive.

Secondly, not only does the County Executive want to limit the numbers of meetings that take place, but the substance of the discussions at these meetings.

It seems to me when we're talking about meet and confer legislation, which is really the lowest form of employee expression, it seems to me it's unwise to limit the scope of the discussions in the way the County Executive wishes to do it.

Now, in the federal sector, we do have these limitations, but we have these limitations under a collective bargaining approach. These are items we cannot bargain about. But yet, even on these items, we have the right to bargain on the impact and implementation of these items.

So limiting it in the context of meet and confer just seems to be very unrealistic. If employees want to express their views, it seems that the County Executive really should not have any qualms about giving the employees this right.

Thirdly, the County Executive, through the legislation, seems to be attempting to control the employee organization by retaining the right to determine what is an appropriate unit.

Now, it seems to me that we have two separate organizations; we have an employee organization and we have management. Traditionally, they sit on opposite sides of the table, and they express their views.

Now, we don't want the County Executive to come over to the employees' side and say, "We're going to tell you how to organize. We're going to tell you what your unit should be."

It seems that the employee organization bill is more realistic in providing third parties to make that final decision.

ah

Similarly, in grievances, the County Executive or the Administrative Officer should not have the final say. There should be some outside approach.

Mr. Whitney earlier suggested advisory arbitration. That seems to me an approach. I'm not sure under the context of the present legislation whether binding arbitration would be appropriate, but that is something that should be looked into.

In conclusion, I fully support the bill introduced on behalf of the employee organization. However, the Council should not consider this bill the final answer. It is only a step, and a very small step, in the proper direction.

The Council should continue its efforts to establish meaningful and full collective bargaining rights for County employees, and if statewide enabling legislation is needed, then this is what must be sought.

And if I could just make two further observations, one regarding the 60 percent rule. In the federal sector, this was the initial way that elections were held. There was a 60 percent rule.

However, this was eliminated in subsequent executive orders signed by the President. There really is no need for any 60 percent or 50 percent rule.

Employees should feel that an election is important enough to get out and vote, and if they don't vote, then they must live with the decision made. That's how the general electorate operates in a Presidential election or any other election.

ah

And one final point, regarding the supervisors, which was brought up earlier, whether or not there is a conflict of interest, and I just want to make an observation how this is handled in the Federal Government.

Supervisors have the right to join a labor organization; anybody has the right to joint a labor organization. However, the labor organization only has the right to represent and to bargain for nonsupervisory employees.

That might be an approach here, whereby the employee organization would not have the right to represent supervisors in grievances, but the supervisors would have the right to join the organization but not necessarily be protected by the legislation passed by the Council.

Thank you.

MR. CHRISTELLER: All right. Are there questions?

(No response.)

MR. CHRISTELLER: Thank you, Mr. Goldman.

Gordon Wilson?

MR. WILSON: Good evening. My name is Gordon Wilson, and I live at 8312 McCullough Lane, Apartment 102, Gaithersburg, Maryland.

I have worked for Montgomery County almost five years. I work in the Division of Solid Waste Management, Department of Environmental Protection.

In the past year, our division has probably gone through more turmoil than any other division within the County, at least I feel, and most of my coworkers.

We've had several lay-offs, and we feel that the way we've been treated, the situation has dictated a lot of it, but we really haven't been explained to or told just why.

We've had problems, you know, with people saying we've got a lay-off coming. We've been told by our supervisors that we will be informed when it's going to come, we will get our notices and everything.

But the story continually rides along. They say one thing, and two weeks later, it's changed; another month, it's changed; on down the line.

No one has really been that honest with us to say, "This is the situation, this is what's going to be, this is what's going to happen."

I think most of us are men enough to stand up and face the facts, but we would like to know the facts first.

We feel that we need an organization to represent us to try and -- at least, for us to go to someone and say, "We want to find out what's going to happen."

I strongly endorse Bill 23-76. I think Mr. Gleason's

ah

Bill 11-76 is a farce. As far as I'm concerned, we have more recognition right now for our employee organization than what we would be granted under his bill.

I urge you strongly to pass 23-76.

MR. CHRISTELLER: All right. Are there questions?

MR. HOVSEPIAN: Yes.

MR. CHRISTELLER: Mr. Hovsepian?

MR. HOVSEPIAN: Yes, Mr. President. I think it might be useful -- at these public hearings, various things do come out which the Council hears about. We hear from citizens through all kinds of letters, and then we transmit these letters to the County Executive for comment, so the President can write back.

It seems to me that we have an employee who has raised a good question, and it might be useful, Mr. President, if we refer this question to the County Executive.

MR. CHRISTELLER: All right. Thank you.

Thank you, Mr. Wilson.

Next, Melvin Tull.

MR. TULL: Good evening, Mr. Christeller, other members of the Council. My name is Melvin Tull. I regret that I did not come prepared --

MR. CHRISTELLER: Don't worry about it.

MR. TULL: In fact, I'm not all that clear on what I really want to say.

7676 NEW HAMPSHIRE AVENUE, SUITE 210 • LANGLEY PARK, MARYLAND 20783 • (301) 439-5600

ah

I am speaking as an individual. I am also a vice-president of the employees organization chosen to represent the feelings of supervisory personnel.

So, with that, you may gather that I'd like to speak to the issue of excluding supervisory, management and confidential personnel, and to urge you not to do same.

These supervisory and management jobs take a variety of titles. I think, if you take away the title, and you leave only the pay and the work, the responsibilities or the various parts of the job and the control of the work of others, you'd find that most of the supervisors would be a tiny bit unhappy.

The title is part of the prestige, part of the self-image, most important especially to those who are under-classified in comparison to supervisors in the local job market.

But I think you'd also find that the self-image, which is so important, is conferred not only by a title but by an inner willingness to come to bat for the County, to work unpaid overtime.

And I think most of us have pictured ourselves as filling in in dirty but necessary jobs in times of emergency, if there were strikes or some unknown breakdown for some unknown reason -- even working in the landfill, or whatever -- just as we picture the same thing happening in private industry.

ah

Prestige is important to the self-image. Call any of these jobs by a title of lesser prestige, call any of these supervisors a garbage collector, or a Councilman, or whatever else; it would not matter a great deal, just a little bit.

But the important thing to bear in mind is that the supervisory employees approach their jobs with a dedication, and that this dedication, too, is important to their image, their self-image.

And I think that's what Bill 11-76 would do damge to. I think the problem is basically that the approach in 11-76 would be to differentiate supervisors from the rank and file by drawing some definitions, and even tightening the wording of these definitions may not help a great deal.

What seems to be lacking is a ready way of recognizing the supervisor as opposed to the rank and file. You may laugh at some of this, but we don't have in this County some of the things that exist in private industry, in the private sector.

We are constantly asked to look to the private sector as a source of good ideas, as a way of doing things better. And supervisors and management people continually find themselves looking to the private sector for new ideas.

One of the things they find -- and here's where you'll laugh -- is that the private sector has hunting lodges and that type of prerequisite for management people, and they have other types of little benefits. After a certain number of years, maybe you'd get a take-home car; there are price reductions on whatever the product of the industry is.

ah

Our product here happens to be real estate taxes, and I don't know if we'll ever get reductions on that.

But I'm just saying, a lot of these things don't exist. There was, at one time, an association of Montgomery County Administrators, which is where you would expect to find a lot of the supervisory and management and confidential personnel.

That seems to be somewhat defunct at the present, and I think a large part of the reason it died is that it got very little support from -- not even monetary support, I'm talking about -- but just support from the attendance of the Executive and the Council.

In the same vein, there's a lack of management training opportunites, a specific program to rotate people through different divisions and provide a well-rounded background.

So what I'm talking about is not entirely take-home cars and hunting lodges and that sort of thing. But there is a total lack of anything other than maybe a 5 percent pay increase to differentiate a supervisor from the rank and file.

Because of this, I ask you to pass or adopt something along the lines of Bill 23-76, at least until someday when

I hope some of the task forces that have been established in the last year result in a little better definition of the difference between the various classes.

Thank you.

MR. CHRISTELLER: Thank you, Mr. Tull. Are there questions?

(No response.)

MR. CHRISTELLER: Thank you very much.

Charles Simpson?

MR. SIMPSON: Mr. President and members of the Council, I am Charles L. Simpson, President of the Fraternal Order of Police, Lodge Number 35, of Montgomery County.

The statement I'm going to make is brief. Basically, the enactment of legislation to recognize employee representative groups is essential to the smooth, continuous operation of the County Government, the welfare of the County employees, as well as the citizens of Montgomery County.

In the early spring of this year, Montgomery County came extremely close to experiencing a job action by Montgomery County police officers, because there wasn't a vehicle by which police officers could collectively convey their needs to County officials.

At the peak of this emotionally-charged period, the police department suffered a double tragedy, with the death of two police officers. Subsequently, the attention of the department shifted its focus on this tragedy, with the prime concern being directed to this event.

ah

We feel that if it were not for this untimely event, Montgomery County would have surely experienced a job action.

The Fraternal Order of Police Lodge Number 35 believes that Bill Number 23-76 is certainly a step in the right direction, but lacks essential elements, such as a collective bargaining with binding arbitration clause.

Bill 23-76, by providing an effective employee-employer relationship, may very well prevent a future job action by members of the police department, provided that both the County Government and County employees act in good faith.

The Fraternal Order of Police strongly urges passage of Bill 23-76 for the welfare of all concerned.

I've sat back there and listened to much discussion as to who should be included and who should not be included. We have a unique situation in the police department, in that we truly do have supervisors. Then we also have the rank and file officers.

It is our opinion that the line should be drawn at sergeant; that anyone above the rank of sergeant should not be included. But it could be anyone above the rank of sergeant could be a member of the organization but not necessarily represented by the organization.

I feel that this bill, this legislation that's being presented to the County, Number 23-76, is long overdue. I think we're behind, and I realize the circumstances as far as collective bargaining with binding arbitration in the County.

We either have to have a charter amendment or it has to be passed through state legislation. So I can understand, and that puts us between a rock and a hard spot.

But this is definitely a step in the right direction.

MR. CHRISTELLER: Thank you, Mr. Simpson. Are there questions?

(No response.)

MR. CHRISTELLER: Apparently not. Thank you.

Is there anyone else who wishes to testify on these bills?

(No response.)

MR. CHRISTELLER: If not, we'll conclude the hearing. We'll hold the hearing record open if anyone wishes to submit additional testimony.

We'll hold the record open until the close of business on July 30th, which is over two weeks.

(Whereupon, at 9:30 p.m., the hearing was closed.)

COUNCIL OFFICE

17 May 1976

Montgomery County Council
County Office Building
Rockville, Maryland

Dear Council Member,

Bill #11-76 as introduced on 6 April 1976 is totaly unacceptable to my Association. I am sure that after you review this bill you will agree that Mr. Gleason is offering very little, dues check-off and meetings, and in return is asking the employee groups to surrender a great deal.

In June 1975, I submitted a letter on a similar bill suggesting a number of amendments to bring the bill in line with 20th centruy labor relations thought. Again we find ourselves faced with a bill based on 18th centruy labor thought, so again I am offering a list of amendments to Bill 11-76. I must stress that the amendments will only make this bill acceptable, we need a good collective bargaining bill.

1. Line 6 - Place a period after "grievances" and omit line 7 and the word "meetings" on line 8. Since this is a meet and confir bill, there should be no topics that can not be discussed. The meetings will not result in binding action so why not open discussions?

2. Line 15 - Omit the words "Chief Administrative Office" and replace them with an impartial committee apointed by the County Council. No discussions can be productive if one party has veto power.
3. After Line 23 and the following paragraph: It is the intent of this bill to be the first step in establishing a meaningfull collective bargaining relationship employees and Montgomery County.

4. Line 38 - Remove the words "The term 'employee' does not include," and remove all of line 39. I will offer justification later in this letter.
5. Line 58 - Place a period after the word "policy" and omit rest of line and all of line 59. This line would exclude almost all employees as all employees by nature of their employment implement County policy.
6. Line 63 to line 70 omit in its entirity. This is much too broad a definition.
7. Line 78 - Omit the words "assign work, reward or discipline." Omit lines 79, 80, and 81. This definition would include the lowest supervisory level employees. These people do not have a direct affect on policy and thus would be unrepresented under this definition. Let the employees decide if they wish to be members of an employee group.

8. Line 99 - Place a period after the word "organization" and omit lines 100 and 101. Add the following; All the employees in a specific classification represented by an employee group, but not members of that, shall be required to pay a monthly service fee to the employee group not to exceed 3/4 of the groups monthly dues. This service fee will be with-held by the County and paid to the employee group.

9. Omit paragraph "A", lines 103 thru 108. The employees should decide the composition of their own groups.

10. Line 120 - Omit all beginning with the word "No" and the following line numbers 121 and 122. Let the employees decide if they need representation.

11. Line 127 - Omit the word "Sergeant" and replace it with the words Chief Officer. My group is already made up of many officers above Sergeant. These men feel that they need representation. Would you deny them what they need? As Chief Gratz has stated in his book "Fire Department Management: Scope and Method" it is not possible .. "to establish a management level catagory by simply relating to a rank title." We feel that the membership cut off should be at the level of those who make policy.

12. Omit paragraph "B", lines 221 thru 223. Why exclude any topics? The resulting Position Paper would not be binding on the parties involved.

13. Omit paragraph "D", lines 277 thru 280. Since the bill offers no binding arbitration or other binding remidies in the event of disagreement, I feel that my Association can not surrender any of its options.

As you can see I have asked for substantial changes in this bill, but I feel that these changes are necessary to make this bill acceptable. We need a workable Labor Relations Bill. Please give us one we can live with.

Very truly yours,

Thomas E. Finnin,
First Vice President

Silver Spring, Maryland 20910

Dear Mr. Finnin:

We appreciate receiving your recent letter offering your Association's amendments to Bill 11-76, the County Executive's proposal authorizing a "meet and confer" approach to employer/employee relations.

When Bill 11-76 was introduced on April 6, 1976, I, too, expressed my concern about some of its provisions and suggested that amendments to the bill or an alternate bill be prepared. Subsequently, the Montgomery County Employees Association asked me to introduce a bill which they had prepared and I did so on June 15, 1976 (copy of Bill 23-76 enclosed for your information).

Although Bill 23-76 provides an alternative to 11-76, I believe that other amendments may be necessary. However, we are most interested in receiving employees' views on both proposals and have scheduled a public hearing on Bills 11 and 23-76 for Wednesday, July 14, 1976 at 8 p.m. If you or your association would like to be placed on the Speakers' List, please call the Council office at 279-1231. In the meantime, I have included your letter of May 17 in the public record of Bill 11-76.

Sincerely,

Norman L. Christeller

ARTICLE IV

33-62. Statement of legislative intent.

The County Council hereby finds that the trend in labor relations between government and its employees is becoming somewhat aligned with the practices of the private sector of representation of employee groups by designated and elected employee organizations. The Council believes that government should take the initiative in providing a vehicle whereby government employee representation can emerge and evolve in a fashion consistent with both the needs of the employee and those of government. The Council further believes that this can best be accomplished by enacting local legislation which provides for the voluntary representation of government employees by their duly designated and elected employee organizations. The Council also believes that the efficient administration of the County Government is enhanced by providing employees an opportunity to participate in the formulation and implementation of policies and practices affecting the conditions of their employment.

As used herein, the following words and phrases shall be defined as follows:

a. "Certification" - the procedure whereby employee organizations are elected and recognized to represent employee units.

The term "employee" does not include supervisory, confidential, and management-level employees .

e. "Employee organization" - any lawful organization which represents employees in their employment relations with the County. The term "employee organization" does not include any organization which:

(1) discriminates with regard to terms and conditions of membership with regard to race, color, religion, creed, sex, age, national origin, ancestry, or marital status;

(2) does not adhere to democratic procedures and practices with regard to election of officers, individual participation in organizational affairs, equal treatment under its by-laws, including dues processing, and disciplinary procedures; or

a. An employee shall have the right, freely and without fear of penalty or reprisal, to form, join or assist and be represented by an employee organization or to refrain from any such activity.

b. Each employee shall have the right to be represented by employee organizations, including the right to meet with representatives of the County concerning conditions of employment and the resolution of grievances.

c. Nothing in this Article shall preclude the rights of an employee to pursue an individual grievance through established administrative procedures or through appeal to the Personnel Board, in that nothing in this Article shall circumvent or shall be deemed to supersede or annul the provisions of the Laws of the State of Maryland, the Montgomery County Charter, and the Laws and Ordinances of Montgomery County including the Personnel Regulations.

d. No employee, who is not a member of an employee organization, shall ever be required to become a member of such an organization or to pay money to such an organization, except on a purely voluntary basis.

33-65. Determination of employee units.

a. The Chief Administrative Officer shall make the final determination as to the composition of employee units. In undisputed cases, the determination of appropriate units shall be made by the Chief Administrative Officer within thirty (30) calendar days after receipt of a request for certification under Section 33-66 of this Article.

b. Employee units may be established on the basis of groupings of employees who share a clear and identifiable community of interest. Such factors as those employees sharing common skills, working conditions, physical locations, organizational structures, and integrated work processes shall be considered. A unit shall not be established solely on the basis of the extent to which employees in a proposed unit have organized.

c. Determination of units shall be made so as to include the largest possible numbers of employees consistent with maintaining a community of interest of employees to avoid proliferation and fragmentation of representative units. No unit may include employees whose duties are management-level, supervisory, or confidential in nature.

e. Units for employees of the uniform services shall be limited to employees in the ranks of sergeant or equivalent rank and below.

f. In cases where the matters of unit determination are questione the decision of the Chief Administrative Officer shall be final.

33-66. Procedures for certification of employee organizations.

a. Initially or where there is no official representative employee organization, the Chief Administrative Officer, upon the petition of an employee organization showing written evidence of interest by at least thirty percent (30%) of the employees of the employee unit, shall arrange for the conducting of a secret ballot election to determine whether the employees desire such organization to act as their representative. Following such petition, the Chief Administrative Officer shall give an appropriate notice to the employees involved.

b. An employee organization seeking to represent an employee unit shall submit to the Personnel Office a roster of its officers and representatives, a copy of its constitution and by-laws, and a schedule of dues for its members.

c. Eligibility to vote in any election for choice of an official representative shall be limited to employees who are filling County positions as of the beginning of the pay period preceding the election date.

d. Elections will be performed under the auspices and guidance of the Maryland State Department of Labor and Industry, Division of Arbitration, which shall have the responsibilities and powers given to it under State law.

e. The ballot shall contain the name of any additional employee organization showing timely written evidence of interest by at least ten percent (10%) of the employees within the appropriate employee unit. In every instance, the ballot shall contain a provision for a marking of "no representation." Where more than one employee organization is on the ballot and no one of the organizations receives a majority vote of the employees voting, a runoff election shall be held. The runoff election shall contain the two choices which received the largest and second largest number of votes in the original election.

f. When an organization receives a majority of valid votes cast in the election and when at least sixty percent (60%) of the employees eligible to participate in the election cast valid ballots, the Chief Administrative Officer shall certify it as the official employee organization for the employee unit.

g. The County shall recognize as the official employee relations representative an employee organization which has been selected in accordance with procedures outlined in this Section 33-66.

h. Recognizing an employee organization does not preclude the County from dealing with religious, social, fraternal, professional or other lawful associations with respect to matters or policies which involve individual members of the associations or are of particular applicability to it or its members.

i. No question concerning certification may be raised by an employee or an employee organization within one (1) year of the date of certification of an employee organization or the date that no representative was selected by the majority of employees.

33-67. Procedure for decertification of employee organizations.

a. An employee organization shall be subject to decertification when thirty percent (30%) of the employees in the employee unit petition for the employee organization to be decertified. The procedures for determining whether, in fact, an employee organization shall be decertified shall be the same as those prescribed in Section 33-66 for the certification of an employee organization, except as provided in subsection b of this Section 33-67.

b. If an employee organization fails to adhere to any of the provisions of Section 33-73 dealing with employee organization responsibilities, then:

(1) its certification may be revoked by the Chief Administrative Officer after notice and an opportunity to be heard, and

(2) it may be disqualified by the Chief Administrative Officer from participating in representation elections for a period of up to two (2) years after notice and an opportunity to be heard.

33-68. Costs of conducting elections.

Any cost of conducting a secret ballot election under this Article shall be born equally by the County and by the employee organization(s) whose name(s) appear on the ballots.

33-69. County-employee organization meetings and discussions.

a. An employee organization which has been recognized by the County pursuant to Section 33-66 shall be entitled to meet at reasonable times with County representatives to discuss with such representatives personnel policies, practices and matters affecting working conditions of the employee unit it represents, so far as such discussions may be appropriate under existing laws or regulations. The County shall meet at least once every two years with each certified employee organization.

b. Such meetings and discussions shall not include matters with respect to the mission of the County Government, its budget, its organization, the number of employees and the classifications and grades of positions of employees assigned to an employee unit, work projects or tour of duty, the technology of performing County work, or other provisions that are inherent in the managerial process of determining the necessary steps to carry out the public service missions of the County. Furthermore, the County shall not be obligated to discuss matters which must necessarily be applicable to all employees on a uniform basis, such as the Employees' Retirement System and the Uniform Pay Schedule. However, the County may meet with employee organizations for the purpose of hearing their views on such matters.

c. The requirement to meet shall not obligate either the County or an employee organization to agree to any proposal or to make any concession with respect to any matter discussed by the parties at such a meeting. Any decision made at any such meeting is in no way binding upon the parties.

d. The County and an employee organization may, if desired, and at the conclusion of their discussions prepare written position papers which reflect for future reference the respective positions of the parties on the issues discussed at such meetings. Such position papers shall in no way legally bind any party to the matters expressed therein.

33-70. Employee organization representation of employee members.

a. An employee who is a member of an employee organization may request and shall be granted the right for a member of such organization to be present in any discussions or counseling with County representatives concerning an individual grievance.

b. An employee organization may submit a grievance concerning any dispute involving a claim of violation, misinterpretation or misapplication of the Personnel Regulations or work practices of the County on the same basis as provided for individual grievances.

33-71. Disputes.

All decisions of the Chief Administrative Officer under the provisions of this Article shall be final, subject to appeal to the Montgomery County Personnel Board where provided by law.

of the County, its employees, and the organization, and when the services and facilities are furnished, if requested, on an impartial basis to organizations having equivalent status;

d. refuse to accord appropriate recognition to an employee organization qualified for such recognition; or

e. refuse to consult, confer, or meet with an employee organization certified pursuant to this Article.

33-73. Employee organization responsibilities.

It shall be the responsibility of every employee organization not to:

a. interfere with, restrain, or coerce an employee in the exercise of the rights assured by this Article;

b. attempt to induce the County to coerce an employee in the exercise of the rights under this Article;

c. coerce, attempt to coerce, or discipline, fine, or take other economic sanction against an employee member of an employee organization as punishment or reprisal, or for the purpose of hindering or impeding work performance or the discharge of duties owed as an employee of the County;

d. call or engage in a strike, work stoppage, or slowdown, picket the County in a County-employee dispute, or condone any such activity by failing to take affirmative action to prevent or stop it;

e. discriminate against an employee with regard to the terms or conditions of membership because of race, color, religion, creed, sex, age, national origin, ancestry, or marital status

f. refuse to consult or meet with the County as provided by this Article.

Sec. 2. Severability.

The provisions of this Act are severable if any provision, sentence, clause, section or part thereof is held illegal, invalid, or unconstitutional or inapplicable to any person or circumstance, such illegality, invalidity, unconstitutionality, or inapplicability shall not affect or impair any of the remaining provisions, sentences, clauses, sections or parts of the Act or their application to other persons and circumstances. The County Council hereby finds and declares that the citizens of Montgomery County have a fundamental interest in the development of harmonious and cooperative relationships between the county government and its employees. j. The county shall, on receipt of written authorization of an employee, deduct from the pay of such employee money in payment of membership dues in an employee organization and shall remit such money to said employee organization.

36A-6. Procedure for decertification of employee organizations.

b. If an employee organization fails to adhere to any of the provisions of Section 36A-12 dealing with employee organization responsibilities, then:

(1) its certification may be revoked by the Chief Administrative Officer after notice and an opportunity to be heard, and

Executive and County Council to discuss with such representatives personnel policies, practices and matters affecting working conditions of the employee unit it represents, so far as such discussions may be appropriate under existing laws or regulations.

b. Such meetings and discussions may also include matters with respect to the mission of the County Government, its budget, its organization, the number of employees and the classifications and grades of positions of employees assigned to an employee unit, work projects or tour of duty, its employees' retirement system and the Uniform pay schedule, the technology of performing County work, or other provisions that are inherent in the managerial process of determining the necessary steps to carry out the public service missions of the County.

c. The requirement to meet shall not obligate either the County or an employee organization to agree to any proposal or to make any concession with respect to any matter discussed by the parties at such a meeting. Any decision made at any such meeting is in no way binding upon the parties.

d. The county and an employee organization shall prepare written memoranda of understanding which reflects for future reference the respective positions of the parties on the issues discussed at such meetings. Such memoranda of understanding shall in no way legally bind any party to the matters expressed therein.

36A-9. Employee organization representation of employee members.

a. An employee who is a member of an employee organization may request and shall be granted the right for a member of such organization to be present in any discussions or counseling with County representatives concerning an individual grievance.

36A-10. Disputes.

All decisions of the Chief Administrative Officer under the provisions of this Article shall be final, subject to appeal to the Montgomery County Personnel Board which shall hold a hearing.

36A-11. County responsibilities.

It shall be the responsibility of the County not to:

a. interfere with, restrain, or coerce an employee in the exercise of the rights assured by this Article;

b. encourage or discourage membership in an employee organization by discrimination in regard to hiring, tenure, promotion or other conditions of employment;

c. sponsor, control or otherwise assist an employee organization, except that the County may furnish customary and routine services and facilities when consistent with the best interests of the County, its employees, and the organization and when the services and facilities are furnished, if requested, on an impartial basis to organizations having equivalent status;

d. refuse to accord appropriate recognition to an employee organization qualified for such recognition; or

e. refuse to consult, confer, or meet with an employee organization certified pursuant to this Article.

36A-12. Employee organization responsiblities.

It shall be the responsibility of every employee organizatio not to:

a. interfere with, restrain, or coerce an employee in the exercise of the rights assured by this Article;

b. attempt to induce the county to coerce an employee in the exercise of the rights under this Article;

c. coerce, attempt to coerce, or discipline, fine, or take other economic sanction against an employee member of an employee organization as punishment or reprisal, or for the purpose of hindering or impeding work performance or the discharge of duties owed as an employee of the County;

d. call or engage in a strike, work stoppage, or slowdown, in a County-employee dispute;

It is hereby declared to be the legislative intent that this Act would have been adopted if such illegal, invalid or unconstitutional provision, sentence, clause, section or part had not been included therein, and if the person or circumstances to which the Act or any part thereof is inapplicable had been specifically exempted therefrom.

SUBJECT: Worksession on Bills 11 and 23-76, Employer/Employee Relations Legislation

A worksession on the subject legislation has been scheduled for Wednesday, August 25 at 8 P.M., in the Council Conference Room. All interested parties have been notified of this session.

Subsequent to the public hearing held July 14, 1976 the Council President received the following: memoranda from the Personnel Board and the Personnel Director recommending changes to Bill 11-76 (Attachments #3 and #5); and a letter from the State's Attorney requesting that his employees be exempted from this legislation (Assistant Chief Administrative Officer Carty has indicated to this office that employees of the State's Attorney's Office would not be covered by this legislation).

For the Council's consideration at the worksession, attached are the following:

(1) Summary of testimony presented at the public hearing;

(2) July 22 memorandum to the Council from Legislative Counsel Tierney;

(3) July 30 memorandum from the Personnel Board:

(4) Chart comparing provisions of Bills 11 and 23-76 and listing recommendations made at and subsequent to the public hearing;

(5) August 23 memorandum to the Council President from the Personnel Director (received after the chart had been prepared).

Since the major issues raised at the public hearing are reflected on the chart and in Mr. Lloyd's memorandum, it is suggested that we use both as a guide for our discussion.

Extra copies of Bills 11 and 23-76 will be available at the worksession.

SUMMARY OF TESTIMONY ON BILLS 11-76 and 23-76

Public Hearing Held July 14, 1976

1. Robert Carty, Assistant Chief Administrative Officer, speaking on behalf of the County Executive and the Chief Administrative Officer.

Commented on the major differences between the two bills:

- Bill 11-76 defines "confidential employees" (no such definition in 23-76) and excludes such employees from employee organizations. Points out that such an exclusion is common in most public sector labor relations legislation; that the intent of such exclusion is to prevent divided loyalties between employees' membership in an employee organization and their supervisors. Such employees would include administrative aides to elected officials and department heads as well as other employees whose responsibilities in management would be incompatible with membership in an employee organization.

- Whereas 11-76 defines employee as a merit system employee working on a continuous full-time basis, excluding supervisory, confidential and management level employees, Bill 23-76 includes both full-time and part-time employees whose classification is determined under personnel regulations, excluding only elected officials and management level employees. Suggests that the definition in 11-76 be amended to include "part-time career employees".

- Difference in the definition of "management-level employee". Whereas Bill 11-76 defines management-level employees as those involved in policy making or who direct the implementation of policy, Bill No. 23-76 defines those employees as non-merit department or office heads who report to the County Executive, the County Council or the Chief Administrative Officer. With regard to who should be involved in an employee organization, points out that a line is generally drawn at the first level of supervision -- foreman, unit supervisor, etc. Believes it is important for such employees to be recognized as part of management. (Commenting that in his opinion Bill 11-76 defines management-level employees too broadly while 23-76 provides too narrow a definition, Council President Christeller requested Mr. Carty to draft a new definition that would fall somewhere between the two in terms of a clearer drawing of the line as to who may and who may not be in employee organizations.)

- 11-76 defines "professional employee" and provides that such employees should not be included in a unit which includes non-professional employees unless a majority of the professional employees specifically request inclusion. Bill 23-76 does not define professional employees.

- With regard to determination of employee units, points out that there are no differences. However, believes it is important to avoid the proliferation of employee organizational units and suggests a sentence be added to line 122 of Bill 11-76 stating, "the number of such units shall not be greater than six." States that County employees might prefer to have one large unit rather than a number and suggests that provision can be made in any unit election for employees to express their wishes on this matter.

- In the matter of unit determination, Bill 11-76 provides that the decision of the Chief Administrative Officer is final, whereas in Bill 23-76 the decision of the Chief Administrative Officer may be appealed to the County Personnel Board. Believes that the matter of unit determination is critical to management and should not be made a matter of appeal to the Personnel Board. Further, the authority of the Personnel Board is rather specific in the Charter, with Section 404 not extending to matters of employer/employee relations.

- States that procedures for certification of employee organizations do not vary between the two bills, except that 23-76 provides that elections shall be conducted by the Personnel Board which may ask the assistance of the Maryland State Department of Labor and Industry or any other agency. Suggests that Bill 11-76 is probably too restrictive and that provisions should be made for other third parties to assist in any election process.

- Regarding the percentage of eligible employees necessary to validate an election, 11-76 provides that at least 60% of employees eligible may validate an election whereas 23-76 provides for only 50%. Believes that 60% is not unreasonable, considering the importance of certifying employee organizations.

- Concurs with recommendation in 23-76 which provides for payroll dues collection at the request of the employee, providing the organization has been certified and represents a majority of the employees in the appropriate unit and providing that the deduction is not obligatory.

- Bill 11-76 provides for the sharing of the costs of conducting elections between the County and the employee organization while Bill 23-76 provides that the County shall bear all election costs. Believes this is a shared responsibility and that the costs should be shared.

- Re the requirement for meetings, 11-76 provides meetings be held at least every two years while 23-76 specifies meetings shall be held quarterly, and further provides that such meetings may be with County representatives including the County Executive and the County Council. Believes that quarterly meetings are too frequent but that a provision for at least an annual meeting would be acceptable.

- Matters to be discussed with employee organizations. Points out that certain areas of discussion are commonly excluded from labor relations legislation and are enumerated in Section 33-69 (b) of Bill 11-76: the mission of the County government, its budget, its organization, number of employees, positions classified, grades of employees, work projects, and the technology of County work. Believes there is a great deal to discuss: work conditions, promotional policies, training programs, group insurance package, cost of living adjustments, and the administration of the merit system.

- With regard to disputes, Bill 11-76 provides that the decision of the Chief Administrative Officer shall be final, subject to the appeal of the County Personnel Board whereas Bill 23-76 would make such appeals to the County Personnel Board the subject of a mandatory hearing. Points out the role of the Personnel Board as outlined in the Charter is restrictive and limited to mandatory hearings only in cases of dismissal, demotion and suspension.

- Re "employee organization responsibilities", 11-76 would prohibit an employee organization from picketing the County in any dispute or condoning such activity by failing to take action to prevent or stop it. Believes that any bill enacted should contain this provision.

Believes that Bill 23-76 is far superior to the County Executive's bill.

The basic problem IBPO has with both bills is that they do not provide for a structure within which representatives of employees may sit down with representatives of management or the County government to work out and develop specific, written criteria relating to such things as base pay, fringe benefits, working conditions, personnel policy, etc. Also, neither bill provides any meaningful procedure for resolution of any disputes which may arise.

Comments on Bill 11-76:

- Believes the definition of management-level employees is too broad; should include the kinds of duties and responsibilities required of such employee.

- With regard to a position paper, points out that there is little meaning for a written document which has no binding features.

- On page 5, it is proposed that officers in the ranks of sergeant or equivalent rank and below be included in the bargaining unit. Suggests that this be amended to read, "all those in the ranks of corporal or below".

- With regard to the frequency with which meetings will be called, believes quarterly meetings will be acceptable as called for in 23-76.

- With regard to matters which may or may not be discussed at meetings, points out that if there is nothing of a binding nature, does not see valid reason for excluding certain topics from discussion.

Accepts basic provisions of 23-76.

Suggests an amendment to either of the bills: a statement of policy on the part of the County Council to the effect that memoranda of understanding which might be developed by the parties would be adhered to to the extent possible within existing law.

3. James Mills, President, Montgomery County Government Employees Organization.

Points out a major omission in 11-76: no provision made for organization dues by payroll deduction -- a simple process to implement and one which recent court decisions in similar circumstances have granted to public employees.

With regard to where one would draw the line separating labor and management, points out that his organization's internal structure was constituted to accommodate both supervisory and staff personnel. Believes that any effort to exclude other than top management personnel from being members of the organization contrary to their voluntary choice would not be in accordance with sound democratic principles.

Believes that limitations on areas of discussion between labor and management would seriously cripple credibility. Points out that neither bill provides for major binding action on the part of management.

Suggests an amendment to 23-76 to require timely progress reports to the Council pertaining to meetings with top management.

(Council President Christeller asked Mr. Mills to look at few examples of grievances of which his group is aware and be prepared to talk to the Council about them at its worksession on these bills.)

4. John Hardy, representing the Montgomery County Firefighters Association.

Strongly supports Bill 23-76; against Bill 11-76.

Points out that his organization represents at the present time sergeants, lieutenants, captains, and even an assistant chief. Points out that by limiting the people that organizations can represent, firefighters would be disenfranchised; that 11-76 would eliminate the top of his group, people affiliated with the Firefighters Association voluntarily.

Because there is no provision for any binding agreement, does not see any reason for automatically eliminating certain subjects from being discussed by employees' organizations, as proposed in 11-76. Believes 23-76 offers a more realistic approach.

5. Michael Goldman, Individual.

Points out he is Assistant General Counsel of the National Treasury Employees Union which represents 90,000 federal employees; approximately 50% of all public employees nationwide are in exclusive units of representation.

Supports Bill 23-76. Does not believe that Bill 11-76 provides for meaningful meet and confer opportunities. Cites the following:

- Meeting once every two years allows too much time for the build up of frustration among employees;
- Believes it unwise to limit the scope of the discussions in the way the County Executive wishes to do so. Points out that in the federal sector there are limitations but that they are under a collective bargaining approach. Believes limiting discussions in the context of meet and confer seems to be unrealistic;
- The County Executive seems to be attempting to control the employee organization by retaining the right to determine what is an appropriate unit. Believes that 23-76 is more realistic in providing for third parties to make that final decision.

With regard to grievances, believes the County Executive or the Chief Administrative Officer should not have the final say; there should be some outside approach.

Although fully supporting 23-76, believes the Council should continue its efforts to establish full collective bargaining rights for County employees.

Points out there is really no need for any 60% or 50% rule in elections. Although this was the initial way elections were held in the federal sector, points out this was eliminated in a subsequent executive order signed by the President.

With regard to supervisors having the right to join an organization, points out that in the Federal government supervisors have a right to join an organization; however, that organization only has the right to represent and to bargain for non-supervisory employees. Suggests this might be a useful approach.

6. Gordon Wilson, Individual.

Strongly endorses Bill 23-76.

Points to the problems in his division (Solid Waste Management, Department of Environmental Protection) over the past year. Believes an organization to represent employees is needed.

7. Melvin Tull, Individual.

Vice President of the Employees Organization, chosen to represent the feelings of supervisory personnel.

Urges Council not to exclude supervisory, management and confidential personnel from employee organizations. States that in 11-76 what seems to be lacking is a ready way of recognizing the supervisor as opposed to rank and file. Urges Council to adopt something along the lines of 23-76 until task forces established last year come up with a better definition of the differences between the various classes.

8. Charles A. Simpson, President of the Fraternal Order of Police, Lodge Number 35.

The Fraternal Order of Police, Lodge Number 35, believes that Bill 23-76 is a step in the right direction but lacks essential elements such as collective bargaining with a binding arbitration clause. Bill 23-76 by providing an effective employee/employer relationship may very well prevent a future job action by members of the Police Department.

With regard to who should be included in an employee organization, of the opinion that any one above the rank of sergeant should not be included. However believes that anyone above the rank of sergeant could be a member of the organization but not necessarily represented by that organization.

July 22, 1976

TO: County Council

FROM: Philip J. Tierney, Legislative Counsel

SUBJECT: Employer/Employee Relations Bills 23-76 and 11-76

Both bills contain areas of legal concern. Section 404 of the Charter vests in an independent Personnel Board exclusive authority to adopt Personnel Regulations in certain specified areas. In my opinion, the Council may not legislate directly in these specified areas which are reserved for the Personnel Board to regulate. Nevertheless, the Council possesses authority to legislate on general merit system matters not expressly reserved by the Charter for Personnel Regulations.

Two areas of concern are found in both bills and appear to infringe upon Personnel Board matters:

1. Bill No. 23-76, p. 4 and 5, lines 82-90 grants employees the general right to meet with unidentified County representatives for the resolution of undefined grievances. The Personnel Regulations provide a detailed scheme for resolution of individual grievances. Bill No. 11-76 contains a similar provision (p. 4, line 87-89). These provisions should be amended to exclude those types of individual grievances which are processed under the Personnel Regulations.

2. Bill No. 23-76, p. 11, lines 244-260, provides for employee representation and appeal to the Personnel Board. These provisions appear to modify 33-24, Montgomery County Code, 1972, as amended, with respect to aggrieved party standing and the Board's discretionary appellate role. Under Section 401 of the Charter, the Council possesses authority to legislate on merit system matters generally. In my opinion, this power includes authority to define categories of employees with standing to prosecute grievances and to generally establish standards for Board hearings. However, since this matter does infringe on existing Regulations, it should be viewed with caution. I recommend that the County Attorney be requested to review the matter. Bill 11-76 contains similar provisions (p. 9, lines 235-247).

MEMORANDUM

July 30, 1976

TO: Norman Christeller, President, Montgomery County Council

FROM: Daisy B. Fields, Chair, County Personnel Board Daisy B. Fields

SUBJECT: Employer/Employee Relations Legislation - Bills #11-76 and #23-76

One of the major factors to be considered in "meet and confer" legislation, such as the two bills presently being studied, is to assure a balance between management rights and employee needs. In the opinion of the Personnel Board, neither of the present bills provide such balance. However, we believe both contain features that, when combined, will provide acceptable legislation.

Our comments are addressed to Bill #11-76, incorporating portions of Bill #23-76, where preferable.

33-63 Definitions

Line Number	Recommendation
27-30	Amend to read as follows: Confidential Employee - An employee who assists and acts in a confidential capacity to County officials who formulate and implement policies in the area of employee relations and employees who are appointed by and serve at the pleasure of an elected official.
35-39	Delete and use definition from Bill #23-76 quoted below: "Employee' - Any person working full or part-time whose classification and/or job description is determined in whole or in part by the Chief Administrative Officer under the general classification plan of the Personnel Board, but shall not include elected officials nor management-level employees as defined herein."
74	Add: ". . . learning /. / , and often recognized in terms of special techniques, licensing and certification."

78	Delete word "other".
79	Delete word "their".
80	Delete word "them".

33-65 Determination of employee units

Line Number	Recommendation
108	Add: In cases where the matters of unit determination are questioned, the decision of the Chief Administrative Officer shall be subject to review by the Montgomery County Personnel Board.
127	Change word "sergeant" to "corporal".
128-129	Delete (see addition to line 108 above).

33-69 County-employee organization meetings and discussions

Line Number	Recommendation
209-210	Change to read: The County shall not be required to meet more than twice a year with each certified employee organization. If the number of certified employee organizations exceeds six, such organizations shall be required to form a Congress representing all certified organizations for the purpose of meeting with the County, and such meetings shall be limited to not more than three a year.

33-72 County responsibilities

Line Number	Recommendation
256-257	The Board proposes that this section be deleted because the County should not be obligated to provide any services or facilities to an employee organization. This could become very expensive depending on the number of organizations recognized.

Additional Comments

The Board questions the wisdom of the County sharing in the cost of elections. We believe that any organization desiring to represent employees should be required to absorb the expense of the election. Under such circumstances, an organization would request an election only when it believes it has sufficient support to gain certification.

The Board further questions providing dues check-off without recognizing the costs, such as:

1. Control of input and payroll deduction information
2. Periodic computer print-outs and reports
3. Transfer of funds
4. Record keeping
5. Other administrative costs

The matter of dues check-off should be an administrative decision based on cost and feasibility.

The Board would like to point out that due to the nature of local governments (i.e., services that are monopolistic or mandated by law and supported by tax revenue) there are those that say that neither side is at liberty to bargain freely. The attitudes of the public must be considered very carefully on all issues because of the possible effect on other programs and/or political retaliation at time of elections. These constraints could make implementation and administration of any labor-management relations legislation extremely difficult.

There is a basic concern that the Board is compelled to express concerning these two legislative proposals. This type of legislation could lead to collective bargaining which could be in conflict with existing merit system rules and regulations. It has been our experience that in municipalities where such a practice has been embraced, the role, function and responsibility of the merit system and/or personnel board has been eroded.

The Board hopes that its comments are of assistance to the Council in its deliberations on this important legislation.

Re: Worksession on Bills Nos. 11-76 & 23-76, Employer/Employee Relations

The Council met in worksession on Legislative Bills Nos. 11-76 and 23-76, Employer/Employee Relations, with Director of the Department of Personnel Lloyd, Executive Secretary of the Personnel Board Moser, Assistant County Attorney Hutt, Council Staff Director McDonell, Legislative Research Coordinator Schloo, President of the Montgomery County Government Employees Organization Mills, and President of the International Brotherhood of Police Officers, #498, Moore.

President Christeller stated that he does not agree with the statement in the memorandum to the Council from Legislative Counsel Tierney, dated July 22, 1976, that "the Council may not legislate directly in these specified areas which are reserved for the Personnel Board to regulate." However, Mr. Tierney does not explain his opinion, and is not present tonight to discuss the matter.

Mr. Lloyd stated that he does not agree with Mr. Tierney's statement either. In drafting Bill No. 11-76, he specifically tried to avoid conflicts with the Charter and duties of the Personnel Board.

The Council addressed a chart prepared by Ms. Schloo comparing the provisions of Bills Nos. 11-76 and 23-76 and suggested amendments.

With respect to the definitions of "confidential employee" and "management-level employee" as employees to be excluded from a meet and confer type of employee organization, it was noted that Bill No. 23-76, submitted by the Montgomery County Government Employees Organization (MCGEO), does not define "confidential employee".

President Christeller stated that the Executive Branch, which submitted Bill No. 11-76, believes that there are some employees who would not be considered to be management-level, but who, because of the confidential nature of their responsibilities, should be excluded.

Mr. Lloyd stated that the definition in Bill No. 11-76 is intended to be broad, and should not contain a specific listing of positions. There should be a mechanism whereby exclusion from the organization can be determined on a case-by-case basis.

Members of the Council expressed the view that the definition of "confidential employee" in Bill No. 11-76, and the revised definition in Mr. Lloyd's memorandum of August 24, 1976, are too broad, and that the definition proposed by the Personnel Board is too narrow.

In response to expression of views by some present that some management-level employees should be allowed to be included in the employees organization, others expressed the opinion that then these employees might be directly involved in the negotiation process. In response to a statement that these bills provide for a "meet and confer" type of organization and that no binding agreements are provided for and therefore no negotiations would be involved, President Christeller stated that the General Assembly will consider and may possibly enact enabling legislation to provide authority for collective bargaining for County employees. If the Council permitted management-level employees to join the meet and confer organization, and the enabling legislation were subsequently enacted, the Council would then be in the position of having to amend the law to exclude some employees who had not previously been excluded. Employees of the Office of Budget and Research, for example, would be advising the County Executive on a cost-of-living adjustment, and should not be permitted to be part of the employees organization.

Mr. Lloyd stated that there is not a definition that fits every situation. The ultimate position-by-position decisions will be based on discussions between management and the organization. The definition should provide reasonable guidelines for those discussions.

Mr. John Hardy, Montgomery County Firefighters Association, noted that the bills would exclude uniformed officers above the rank of corporal, and stated that the same standards of management-level employees should be applied to the Police and Fire Departments.

President Christeller suggested that the definitions be approached by identifying those positions or types of positions that should be excluded from joining the organization.

It was agreed that confidential aides to elected officials should be excluded.

Mr. Tull, Vice President, MCGEO, stated that when considering exclusions for confidential employees, the Council should keep in mind the trustworthiness of the confidential employees. The fact that they are members of the organization would not cause them to give up confidential information.

Mr. Lloyd stated that he recommends that employees down to the level of division or section head be excluded from the organization, but that there is no standard nomenclature among the departments for the various divisions and sections within the departments.

President Christeller expressed the view that Mr. Lloyd's recommendation would reach too low in the departments. However, one of the things that the employees organization will be involved in is the pursuit of grievances, and a lot of those grievances might be with regard to the actions of people who are well below the department head level.

Mr. Mills stated that if the exclusion reaches down to the assistant section heads, he would have to step down from his position as President of MCGEO. He believes that such an action by the Council would cause the organization to lose about one-third of its members.

President Christeller suggested that the bills define "employee" as persons who may be permitted to join the organization, and add "except the following" with a listing of positions and types of positions that would be excluded from joining.

At the suggestion of Councilman Hovsepian and without objection, the Council agreed that non-merit system employees should be excluded from joining the organization.

At the suggestion of President Christeller and without objection, the Council agreed that heads of departments, principal offices and agencies should be excluded from joining the organization.

At the suggestion of Councilman Hovsepian and without objection, the Council agreed that deputy or assistant department, principal office and agency heads should be excluded from joining the organization.

Without objection, the Council agreed that principal administrative aides to department heads and assistant or deputy directors should be excluded from joining the organization.

Without objection, the Council agreed to exclude from the organization those employees who report directly to or whose immediate supervisor is the County Executive, County Council, County Councilmembers, or the Chief Administrative Officer, and principal aides to the foregoing.

Mr. Whitney, Executive Vice President, International Brotherhood of Police Officers, stated that the exclusion process that the Council is going through is provided for elsewhere in the bills at the time a petition is served on the County requesting recognition of a particular employee organization. In one bill, the responsibility for this is given to the Personnel Board. He suggested that the Council simply define a category of employees to be excluded.

President Christeller stated that in order to determine whether the organization should be recognized, the County government must know who is eligible to vote within the organization. Regardless of the definitions that are developed, there will be questions as to whether certain positions are excluded and that will be subject to negotiation. The Council is attempting to provide a reasonably clear definition.

Mr. Lloyd stated that where the line of exclusion is drawn depends on how a particular department is organized, and they are all different in County government. The trend is to establish clusters of organizational resources for specific purposes. He would like to keep the level of organized employees at the lowest possible level.

Councilman Hovsepian expressed the view that division or section heads that report directly to the department heads are management-level employees and should be excluded. Below that level, the employees are operational in nature, but could exercise supervisory functions.

President Christeller stated that even though a section head may not report directly to the department head, that employee still has significant management responsibilities with respect to personnel matters subject to negotiation.

Councilman Menke pointed out that it will be hard to make a distinction between sections in departments with just a few people and sections in very large departments.

Mr. Wolfman, MCGEO, stated that it is the desire of MCGEO to extend the benefits of an employees organization to the maximum number of County employees in terms of support derived from being a member of a group and numbers to give them political power.

Mr. Tull inquired as to whether section heads and their assistants really have the authority to hire and fire employees and take disciplinary or budgetary actions. It is his impression that section or division heads can recommend the termination of an employee, but it is strictly a recommendation to the department head.

President Christeller stated that the question raised by Mr. Tull is partly a matter of management style on the part of each particular department head.

In response to a statement that department heads rely heavily on recommendations of division and section heads in making management decisions, Mr. Tull stated that in every process people rely on the next person down the line.

President Christeller inquired as to which elements of the meet and confer or collective bargaining process will be less constructive or impaired in any way if a division head in the Department of Transportation, for example, is permitted to be a member of the bargaining unit.

Mr. Lloyd replied that it is a matter of divided loyalty between management and employees. The CAO is responsible for administering public policy, but he does not do it alone. He depends on department heads, who depend heavily on division heads to carry out policy and generate program needs. Division heads do not act solely on direction from above.

Councilman Menke stated that the line has to be drawn somewhere. The very existence of the meet and confer organization and the identification of employee units is divisive. The Council must look at the issues to be before the bargaining unit. If one of the issues is the working conditions within the Department of Transportation, for example, the Director would have to rely on the advice of division or section heads about those conditions.

With respect to the status of firefighters within the employees organization, President Christeller stated that it is the present position of the County Executive, and he agreed, that firefighters are not County employees. They are employees of the individual fire departments, and therefore are not covered by the provisions of these bills. Until the litigation on this matter is completed, the Council cannot address the issue.

President Christeller suggested that the Council provide that the heads of the next principal constituent level within the departments be excluded from the organization. For example, the Department of Finance is divided into the Divisions of Auditing, Accounts, Revenue, and the Purchasing Office. In the Health Department, however, the next constituent level is divided into two bureaus; he expressed the view that the exclusion should reach farther down into the Health Department. He suggested that at the end of the listing of positions, the Council include a statement to the effect of "and in the Department of Transportation, the heads of offices and divisions as the Department is presently constituted, and in all other departments and offices, such positions as determined by the CAO to carry comparable personnel management responsibilities to those division and office heads in the Department of Transportation." President Christeller stated that the law should specify that the CAO's designations are an issue that is subject to negotiation with the organization.

Mr. Mills stated that President Christeller's suggestion would go too far into the departments. He would prefer that the exclusion be limited to the deputy or assistant department heads.

Mr. Tull suggested that there should be an appeal provision from the process suggested by President Christeller. He stated that, as the Council is having difficulty drawing the line, so will the CAO.

Councilwoman Scull suggested that specific position titles to be excluded from the organization could be put in a resolution of intent.

President Christeller stated that the Council must write the law in such a way that it can be interpreted by the courts, and a resolution of intent would have no weight. The language he suggested would be applicable in the future if the County government reorganizes, but a specific listing in a resolution of intent would not.

At the suggestion of Councilman Potter and without objection, the Council requested that Messrs Lloyd and Mills prepare a specific position listing of those employees who would be excluded from joining the organization, based on the Council's decisions tonight, so that everyone can see where the line would be drawn.

Without objection, the Council agreed to the following wording to follow the listing of types of positions to be excluded: Heads of the constituent offices and divisions in the Department of Transportation existing at the time of enactment of this bill and positions carrying a similar degree of personnel management responsibility in other departments and offices, as determined by the Chief Administrative Officer.

With respect to the question as to whether employees of the County Attorney's Office should be excluded, Councilman Hovsepian stated that Assistant County Attorneys represent specific departments, and may be in a position of advising a department head or the County Executive on a specific grievance in that department. Mr. Hutt added that the County Attorney's Office would also be in the position of defending the County in decisions it makes with respect to the meet and confer and collective bargaining units.

Without objection, the Council agreed that employees of the County Attorney's Office should be excluded from joining the employees organization.

Without objection, the Council tentatively agreed that employees of the Office of Budget and Research should be excluded from joining the organization. President Christeller indicated that he has a question as to whether the individual budget analysts should be excluded.

At the suggestion of Mr. Moser and without objection, the Council agreed to exclude the employees of the Office of Employee Relations and the Office of the Personnel Board.

Without objection, the Council agreed to exclude the employees of the Department of Personnel.

The meeting adjourned at 10:50 P.M.

FROM: Pearl O. Schloo, Legislative Research Coordinator POS

SUBJECT: Draft #2 of Bill 11-76, Employer/Employee Relations

Attached for the Council's consideration is Draft #2 of the subject legislation revised to reflect decisions made by the Council at recent worksessions. Bill 11-76 is scheduled for action on the Council's agenda of December 14.

Please note the following changes from Draft #1:

(1) p. 2, lines 21-29: additional language in the Statement of Legislative Intent;

(2) p. 3, lines 47-78: new definition of "employee" (previous definitions of certain categories of employees deleted). At its worksessions, the Council indicated that, with certain exceptions, all full-time and part-time employees of the County government would be eligible to be included in a unit of recognition. Per Mr. Lloyd's suggestion, we have modified that language as is reflected on lines 47-48;

(3) p. 5, lines 120-124: new definition of "Uniform Services" submitted to us by Mr Lloyd. As an alternative to this definition, Mr. Lloyd suggested modifying Section 33-65(e) lines 164-166 on p. 6 to read as follows:

Police	Fire & Rescue	Corrections	Sheriff
Private	Firefighter (PVT)	Correctional Officer I	Deputy Sheriff I
PFC	Fire Technician	Correctional Officer II	Deputy Sheriff II
Corporal	Rescue Technician	Correctional Officer III
	Paramedic

Council may wish to discuss this alternative;

(4) p. 6, lines 158-160: number of units limited to seven; however, as indicated in the Statement of Legislative Intent, the Council would consider changing that number at a future date upon the recommendation of the Chief Administrative Officer or a group of employees;

(5) p. 6, lines 164-164: units in "uniform services" limited to ranks of corporal, equivalent rank or below (see (3) above);

(6) p. 6, lines 167-169: opportunity for those disputing determination of units to be heard by the Chief Administrative Officer;

(7) p. 7, lines 191-194: elections to be conducted by the Personnel Office;

(8) p. 7 and 8, lines 223-227: County may provide for payroll deductions for dues. Please note that Amendment #2 provides for mandatory deductions. Council vote needed on this matter;

(9) p. 8, lines 248-249: costs of elections borne 50% by the County and 50% by organizations who appear on the ballot;

(10) p. 8, line 257: County to meet at least two times annually with each certified organization.

(11) p. 8 and 9, lines 259-261: Section (b) enumerating matters not to be discussed deleted in its entirety.

(12) p. 11, Effective date provision: Council may wish to consider changing to emergency legislation.

Bill No. 11-76

Introduced: April 6, 1976

Enacted:

COUNTY COUNCIL

FOR MONTGOMERY COUNTY, MARYLAND

April Legislative Session 1976

By: Council President at request of County Executive

AN ACT to add a new Article IV, title "Employer-Employee Relations Act," to Chapter 33, title "Personnel" of the Montgomery County Code, 1972, as amended, to provide for the election and certification of employee organizations for the purposes of meeting with County officials concerning conditions of employment and the resolution of grievances; to provide for the designation of employee units from which such employee organizations are elected and which such organizations represent; to provide for the recognition of such employee organizations by the County; to provide for the preparation of position papers by the County and such employee organizations; to provide for procedures for the decertification of employee organizations; to define certain terms; to provide for the Chief Administrative Officer to finally resolve disputes arising under this Article; to specify responsibilities of the County and the employee organizations; to provide for the protection of those County employees who choose not to become members of an employee organization; and to provide for the retention of existing personnel laws and regulations and the option of any employee to pursue a grievance through procedures set forth therein.

Be It Enacted by the County Council for Montgomery County, Maryland that -

Sec. 1. Chapter ~~18A;~~ 33, title "PERSONNEL," OF THE MONTGOMERY COUNTY COUNCIL IS HEREBY AMENDED TO ADD A NEW ARTICLE IV TITLE "Employer -- Employee Relations," ~~is hereby added~~ to the Montgomery County Code 1972, as amended, ~~to follow immediately after Chapter 18~~ ARTICLE III thereof, and to read as follows:

ARTICLE IV

33-62. Statement of Legislative intent.

The County Council hereby finds that the trend in labor relations between government and its employees is becoming somewhat aligned with the practices of the private sector of representation of employee groups by designated and elected employee organizations. The Council believes that government should take the initiative in providing a vehicle whereby government employee representation can emerge and evolve in a fashion consistent with both the needs of the employee and those of government. The Council further believes that this can best be accomplished by enacting local legislation which provides for the voluntary representation of government employees by their duly designated and elected employee organizations. The Council also believes that the efficient administration of the County government is enhanced by providing employees an opportunity to participate in the formulation and implementation of policies and practices affecting the conditions of their employment. BECAUSE THE COUNCIL BELIEVES IT IS DESIRABLE TO MINIMIZE THE PROLIFERATION OF EMPLOYEE UNITS, IT HAS LIMITED THE NUMBER OF SUCH UNITS TO SEVEN; HOWEVER, THE COUNCIL WOULD CONSIDER CHANGING THAT LIMITATION AT A FUTURE DATE UPON THE RECOMMENDATION OF THE CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICER OR A GROUP OF EMPLOYEES. THE COUNCIL FURTHER STATES THAT THE ELIGIBILITY AS TO MEMBERSHIP IN AN EMPLOYEE UNIT FOR PURPOSES OF MEET AND CONFER WILL NOT NECESSARILY BE EXTENDED IN THE SAME MANNER IF AUTHORITY FOR COLLECTIVE BARGAINING IS GRANTED.

b. Employee units may be established on the basis of groupings of employees who share a clear and identifiable community of interest. Such factors as those employees sharing common skills, working conditions, physical locations, organizational structures, and integrated work processes shall be considered. A unit shall not be established solely on the basis of the extent to which employees in a proposed unit have organized.

c. Determination of units shall be made so as to include the largest possible numbers of employees consistent with maintaining a community interest of employees to avoid proliferation and fragmentation of representative units. ~~No unit may include employees whose duties are management level, supervisory, or confidential in nature.~~ THE PROVISIONS OF THIS SECTION SHALL NOT PRECLUDE THE ESTABLISHMENT OF ONE UNIT TO REPRESENT ALL ELIGIBLE EMPLOYEES. THE NUMBER OF UNITS CERTIFIED SHALL NOT BE GREATER THAN SEVEN.

33-66. Procedures for certification of employee organizations.

a. Initially or where there is no official representative employee organization, the Chief Administrative Officer, upon the petition of an employee organization showing written evidence of interest by at least thirty percent (30%) of the employees of the employee unit, shall arrange for the conducting of a secret ballot election to determine whether the employees desire such organization to act as their representative. Following such petition, the Chief Administrative Officer shall give an appropriate notice to the employees involved.

In every instance, the ballot shall contain a provision for a marking of "no representation." Where more than one employee organization is on the ballot and no one of the organizations receives a majority vote of the employees voting, a runoff election shall be held. The runoff election shall contain the two choices which received the largest and second largest number of votes in the original election.

PROVIDE FOR DEDUCTION FROM THE PAY OF SUCH EMPLOYEE MONIES IN PAYMENT OF MEMBERSHIP DUES IN A DULY CERTIFIED EMPLOYEE ORGANIZATION. SUCH MONIES SHALL BE REMITTED TO THE EMPLOYEE ORGANIZATION.

33-67. Procedure for decertification of employee organizations.

a. An employee organization shall be subject to decertification when thirty percent (30%) of the employees in the employee unit petition for the employee organization to be decertified. The procedures for determining whether, in fact, an employee organization shall be decertified shall be the same as those prescribed in Section 33-66 for the certification of an employee organization, except as provided in subsection b of this Section 33-67.

b. If an employee organization fails to adhere to any of the provisions of Section 33-73 dealing with employee organization responsibilities, then:

However, the County may meet with employee organizations for the purpose of hearing their views on such matters.~~

~~c.~~ b. The requirement to meet shall not obligate either the County or an employee organization to agree to any proposal or to make any concession with respect to any matter discussed by the parties at such a meeting. Any decision made at any such meeting is in no way binding upon the parties.

~~d.~~ c. The County and an employee organization may, if desired, and at the conclusion of their discussions prepare written position papers which reflect for future reference the respective positions of the parties on the issues discussed at such meetings. MONTGOMERY COUNTY

Memorandum

To: Mr. John Menke, President, County Council

From: James A. Mills, President, M.C.G.E.O.

Subject: Bill #11-76, Draft #2

Having recently reviewed Draft #2, of the above, and the Memorandum dated 12/10/76, submitted to you by Mr. Gleason.. I make the following requests and observations.

Mr. Gleason's request to include a management rights clause is unacceptable in its entirety. The position he expounds, though worded differently is one which was thoroughly discussed and rejected during work sessions. If adopted, it would limit labor's right to present its position in written factual form to management. That could seriously hamper proper justification of labor's positions and make thoughtful indepth considerations required in problem solving extremely difficult. Also, the limits and specifics of what these management rights entail are not clearly defined.

Mr. Gleason also points out in his memorandum of 12/10/76, that enactment of Bill #11-76 under emergency legislative conditions will result in "immediate responses" from employee groups for recognition and that would require supplemental funds to implement. I can assure you that Bill #11-76, if passed in its present form, would not produce from this organization any "immediate responses" for recognition. I predicate this opinion on the mood evidenced by our Delegate Assembly at its last meeting.

No two aspects of this bill are of more importance to this organization (and management as well) than membership eligibility and dues check-off. The limits this bill imposes on membership eligibility are totally unacceptable. Not only would it eliminate our Vice-Presicent of Supervisors if enacted, but our organization would be effectively split as well (less than 600 members would remain). Some of the more important results of this split would be immediate fragmentation within the remaining membership, outside unions then would acquire an immediate favorable position because of our failure to secure a voice for all employees. Lack of visible results on this bill have already produced this effect to some degree as Mr. Lloyd is aware, and has made my task a much more difficult one. A large segment of county employees would also be deprived of formal recognition and all the rights that accompany formal recognition. Polarization of staff and supervisors would occur immediately and radical elements would be provided with the necessary "ammunition" to strengthen their causes and direct their actions toward the public arena rather than the conference table. Finally, fragmentation will produce successful demands for an increase in the number of "appropriate" units" (more organizations) if not under this council, then under the next council. This is a situation management as well as this organization would not like to witness and need not occur..

Therefore, I request that lines 47 through 78, in Draft #2 of Bill #11-76 be deleted in its entirety. That strong consideration be given by the County Council to replace the deleted material with the elgibility format contained in our original Bill #23-76 and favorably accepted (almost unanimously) by speakers testifying when the bills were introduced. Certainly lines 25 through 29 ("The Council further states that the eligibility as to membership in an employee unit for purposes of meet and confer will not necessarily be extended in the same manner if authority for collective bargaining is granted.") should eliminate any concern the council might have should they grant our request.

I remember well, my earlier testimony before the council when bills #11-76 and #23-76 were introduced. Councilman Hovsepian requested me not to adopt an inflexible position concerning grievances prior to worksession discussion. His suggestion was thoughtfully considered and later adhered to.

I now request the council not to become inflexible in their position on eligibility and hear our plea. We have an opportunity to establish a formal channel of communication between management and labor that will not be predicated upon the "adversary roll" we have so often heard mentioned. Exployees do not want to become adversaries of management but partners with management so as to effectively and economically carry out the will of the public whom we all serve.

As a parting comment, I would like to emphasize the fact that the employee/employer relations bill is no different than any other law and could be readily amended by this legislative body should it be deemed necessary. Therefore, I urge your most serious consideration and efforts to grant this organization its request. Place your trust in the employees you manage and that trust will bear dividends for management, labor, and the general public. Management can then negociate with an employee organization that represents all the employees and not various groups of outside unions that represent some of the employees. Once the main body of county employees are represented by various outside unions rather than an employee's organization, you will find it impossible to legally limit their participation in "appropriate units". This must be avoided now.

The Council met in worksession on Legislative Bills Nos. 11-76 and 23-76, Employee/Employer Relations, with Director of the Office of Personnel Lloyd; Assistant County Attorney Hutt; Mr. James Mills, President of the Montgomery County Government Employees Organization; Council Staff Director McDonell; and Legislative Research Coordinator Schloo.

President Christeller noted that during the last worksession on Bills No. 11-76 and 23-76, the Council requested that Messrs. Lloyd and Mills prepare a listing of those positions in the Department of Transportation which they believe should be included and excluded from joining a meet and confer employee organization under the Council's revised definition of exclusions. Mr. Lloyd's list is before the Council; Mr. Mills was unable to obtain the necessary information from the Personnel Office. He suggested that the Council review the list and raise any questions they have regarding specific positions. President Christeller noted that the criteria used by Mr. Lloyd is that contained in Bill No. 11-76, proposed by the County Executive, and does not conform to the decisions made by the Council at the last worksession.

In response to questions as to why Mr. Lloyd would exclude the Information & Research Assistant in the Director's office from joining the organization, he stated that this specific position is a confidential employee. This class of positions is not always confidential, however. There are many gray areas that are questionable.

President Christeller stated that the purpose of the list prepared by Mr. Lloyd was to give the Council an opportunity to see how its revised definition of employees to be excluded would be applied to one particular department. He noted that in Mr. Lloyd's listing, the Administrative Aide V would be excluded while the Administrative Aides I and IV would be permitted to be included in the organization. In a seven-member office, it is hard to handle confidential material that does not involve all the employees. The Administrative Aide IV is just as likely to be typing confidential papers as is the Administrative Aide V. The Director can learn to segregate the work, but that may be unwise. He expressed the view that all employees in the Director's Office should be excluded.

Mr. McDonell stated that he attempted to develop language to solve the nomenclature problem associated with "administrative aides" and "administrative assistants." In the new definition of "employees eligible to join an employee organization" he suggested that the Council delete the phrase [administrative aides to director of department, deputy or assistant directors] and insert in lieu thereof: employees providing direct staff or administrative support to the director of the department, or deputy or assistant directors within the director's immediate office.

After discussion and without objection, the Council agreed that all positions in a department head's immediate office should be excluded from joining an employees organization.

A discussion was held regarding the inclusions and exclusions of specific positions within the Office of Right-of-Way Acquisition, Office of Administrative Services and the Office of Transportation Planning within the Department of Transportation. Mr. Lloyd stated that he and CAO Hussmann agree that all supervisory personnel should be excluded from the organization. This would include positions such as Accountant III and Planner IV.

Mr. Mills expressed the opinion that the director and assistant director of departments and offices should be excluded, but that no other employees should be excluded.

Councilwoman Scull stated that since the Council's last worksession on these bills, she attended a seminar on the subject of public sector labor relations. She came away with a strong feeling that supervisors must be on the management team. One speaker made the point that during meet and confer sessions, the employees will bring in proposals for discussion; management should also have its own proposals to offer. Good proposals cannot be developed without input from supervisors from all levels. The speaker also felt that an effective management team must include middle and first line supervisors.

Councilman Menke stated that if the employee organization evolves into a collective bargaining system the County government will have an adversary relationship between two major groups of employees. This, to him, would be an undesirable situation, regardless of how good morale is. However, a meet and confer organization does not necessarily have to evolve into collective bargaining. He has hopes that the organization could develop into something that will provide employees with a strong method of reaching management with their problems without triggering an adversary relationship. Exclusion of supervisors from the organization, especially first and middle line supervisors, would be more likely to cause an adversary relationship. Exclusion of supervisors is a polarizing element.

Mr. Lloyd stated that once the membership of an employee organization has been established it will be difficult to exclude certain members if it evolves into a collective bargaining system. If collective bargaining is permitted by State law, the fact that certain employees were permitted to join the first organization becomes strong precedent for continuing their membership in the new organization.

Councilman Menke agreed that supervisors cannot be permitted to join a collective bargaining unit; however, he is not convinced that collective bargaining is desirable, and believes that many real benefits can be achieved through a less adversary-style process. He inquired as to whether it is reasonable to set a different standard for membership in a meet and confer organization.

President Christeller noted that during the last worksession on these bills, the Council proceeded on the assumption that decisions as to membership would continue if a collective bargaining system is developed.

Mr. McDonell suggested that perhaps the Council could include a caveat in the law that recognizes that the membership will have to be changed if a collective bargaining system is instituted.

Councilman Menke inquired as to whether supervisors could make a legal claim that they have vested rights and should be permitted to join a collective bargaining unit.

Mr. Lloyd stated that courts have been very strongly influenced by "past practices", which would include membership of organizations, personnel policies and working conditions. He stated that loyalty is a key issue in this matter. A program should be developed to improve supervisors' attitudes towards their positions so that they feel they are a part of management.

Councilman Menke stated that if supervisors are excluded from joining the meet and confer organization, the County would be obligated to implement a program such as Mr. Lloyd suggested. However, this would be a polarizing element, and would build momentum towards collective bargaining.

Mr. Tull, MCGEO, urged the Council to experiment with a process that is not typical unionism to see whether, in fact, supervisors can participate in a meet and confer organization without conflict. He expressed the view that Mr. Lloyd's list of employees to be included and excluded is more strict than the usual industrial application of exclusions.

President Christeller stated that he would support Councilman Menke's approach of not excluding all supervisors from the meet and confer organization, with a caveat as suggested by Mr. McDonell to the effect that decisions as to inclusions and exclusions are being made with a conscious recognition of the fact that this is not a collective bargaining situation, and that the membership should not be construed in any way to establish a precedent with regard to County policy as to which positions to exclude from a collective bargaining unit.

Councilman Hovsepian suggested that the Council provide that employees excluded from the meet and confer organization may organize separately. Supervisors frequently have different sets of problems than the employees. President Christeller stated that this approach would be more desirable in a collective bargaining situation.

Councilman Menke stated that he would prefer to begin the process with a single organization; however, a separate organization for supervisors may be desirable in a collective bargaining situation.

Mr. McDonell stated that, in changing the basis for membership in a collective bargaining unit, the County may have to bargain away a lot of things. It is a matter of economics to the organization; a lot of dues-paying members would be excluded from the organization.

Mr. Mills stated that many people within MCGEO share Councilman Menke's viewpoint that it would be desirable to avoid a collective bargaining situation. It is hoped that the meet and confer organization will work effectively, but there has to be a meaningful effort on the part of management to see that it does. If the Council excludes first line supervisors from the meet and confer organization, he is almost certain that the employees would not want recognition under those conditions.

In response to questions, Mr. Lloyd stated that he would consider section heads to be middle management; Mr. Mills stated that he would not consider them as middle management.

Councilman Hovsepian stated that in the Department of Transportation there is one very large section with as many employees as a number of other departments. The size of a section or division is not a criterion for inclusion or exclusion from the organization; it is the level of responsibility that the section head has. He inquired as to whether section heads would be excluded from the organization.

Councilman Menke expressed the view that section heads would have to be excluded. They are an identifiable head of an office with a constant set of responsibilities. Perhaps in the case of a very large section, the assistant section head should be excluded. However, he would not exclude the positions of Work Force Leader II, as Mr. Lloyd has.

Councilman Hovsepian agreed that section heads should be excluded from joining the organization, but not assistant section heads.

Mr. Tull recommended that if section heads are excluded from the organization, the Council permit a separate unit for supervisory personnel.

Councilmembers Christeller and Hovsepian indicated that they cannot support two separate units because there are a lot of supervisory personnel who are not excluded from joining.

President Christeller recommended that the Council's definition of "employee eligible to join an employee organization" be amended in the final phrase to add the words and sections following the words "heads of the constituent offices and divisions", deleting the word [and] between the words "offices" and "divisions". He suggested that the specific names of the offices, divisions and sections within the Department of Transportation be listed in the bill.

Mr. Mills urged the Council not to go below the division level in its exclusions.

Without objection, the Council agreed with President Christeller's suggestion.

With respect to the issue of whether or not "professional employees" should be included in the organization, Mr. Lloyd stated that Bill No. 11-76 provides that professional employees should not be in the same organization as other employees unless they so elect. Professional employees are unique in that they are not necessarily managers and neither are they "rank and file" employees. They are well-paid employees and typically identify with management, yet they are technicians doing specific tasks.

Councilman Hovsepian pointed out that a definition of "professional employee" is unnecessary with the Council's definition of "employees eligible to join an employees organization". He stated that no one has to join the organization if she or he does not want to.

President Christeller stated that it should be left to the discretion of professional employees as to whether or not they want to form a separate unit.

After discussion and without objection, the Council agreed to delete the definition of "professional employee", lines 62 through 74, page 4, Bill No. 11-76, and to delete paragraph d., lines 123 through 125, page 5.

In response to a question regarding the meaning of "employees of the uniform services", Mr. Lloyd stated that that would include police, firefighters, the Sheriff's Office and corrections officers.

President Christeller stated that since the fire departments are independent entities, the firefighters are not County employees and would not be covered by this bill. He stated that the term "uniform services" should be defined.

Mr. Whitney, Executive Vice President of the International Brotherhood of Police Officers, suggested that, within the Police Department, the membership be limited to corporals, privates first class and privates. He stated that he views the organizations permitted by these bills as the forerunners of collective bargaining. It is not workable, nor effective, to include supervisors in the same unit with employees; it results in a lot of conflicts. The entire Department was polled and the results were decisive. The police officers do not want a mix of supervisors and employees. He stated that his organization represents 350 police departments around the country, and he has seen systems that have included officers up to the position of assistant chief of police. This results in situations where employees file grievances against the people who are active members of the organization.

Mr. Lloyd stated that in the uniformed services channels of supervision are more clear than they are in other departments.

Without objection, the Council agreed to delete the word [sergeant] in line 127, Bill No. 11-76, and insert in lieu thereof corporal. The Council also agreed that the term "uniformed services" should be defined.

Mr. Lloyd noted that in the Sheriff's Office, the position of Deputy Sheriff III is the same rank as a corporal in the Police Department.

The Council did not agree with Mr. Lloyd's suggestion that the Council substitute the Personnel Director for the Chief Administrative Officer as the person who shall make the final determination as to the composition of employee units.

In response to a question as to why the Personnel Board recommended that it make the final determination as to the composition of the units, Mr. Lloyd stated that it is common practice to provide for an appeal to a third party. The Executive Branch wanted the procedure to remain within the County government.

Councilman Hovsepian stated that such action would put the Personnel Board in a conflicting situation, as it is the body that hears employee grievances. He noted that non-merit system employees will be excluded from the organization. The CAO is responsible for administration of the merit system and should have the final decision.

President Christeller expressed the view that the Personnel Board is not in a position to make a judgment on the issue of unit determination or composition. The CAO should perform this management function. He would not propose that the decision be appealable to the courts. He suggested that the following language be added to the end of line 129: provided that he has given full opportunity for persons disputing the determination to make their case. President Christeller stated that there should be a method whereby people can be sure that the CAO has personally heard their arguments for unit determination. He further suggested that the law provide that undisputed cases shall be determined within 30 days.

Mr. Hutt stated that regardless of language in the bill, there is an inherent right to appeal arbitrary and capricious decisions to the courts.

After discussion and without objection, the Council added the following language to the end of line 129, Bill No. 11-76: after opportunity is provided for those disputing the determination to be heard by the CAO.

In response to questions regarding Mr. Lloyd's suggested language that the number of employee units certified shall not be greater than five, Mr. Lloyd stated that he tried to anticipate what a normal breakdown of employee units might be. He believes that employees may organize into the following groups: police, service and maintenance, clerical, professional and technical, and one additional unit for unforeseen circumstances. He stated that it is important to avoid a proliferation of units.

President Christeller stated that the Council should not attempt to set a precise number, but should include a number in the law with the understanding that it is an attempt to discourage proliferation of units. If there is a valid reason for having an additional unit, the CAO would have to say to those employees that the Executive Branch will send the Council a bill to amend the law to permit one more unit, and that the employees should explain the need therefor to the Council. He recommended that the law specify no more than six employee units.

After discussion and without objection, the Council agreed to add to the statement of legislative intent a statement to the effect that the bill limits the number of employee units, but does so with the understanding that the Council would always consider changing that limitation upon a recommendation of the Chief Administrative Officer or a group of employees. The Council agreed that the statement of legislative intent would be a part of the bill rather than a separate resolution.

After further discussion, the Council agreed to add the following language to the end of line 122: The provisions of this Section shall not preclude the establishment of one unit to represent all eligible employees. The number of units certified shall not be greater than seven.

At the suggestion of Mr. Lloyd and without objection, the Council deleted the language contained in lines 148 through 151, page 6, Bill No. 11-76, and inserted in lieu thereof: Elections will be conducted by the Personnel Office which may use the services of the Maryland State Department of Labor and Industry or any other third party having similar qualifications. Mr. Lloyd indicated that the Personnel Office would coordinate with employee groups before using a third party.

With respect to the percentage of employees necessary to validate an election, Mr. Lloyd stated that 60% of the employees eligible to participate in the election is commonly used elsewhere, but he does not know the historical reasons therefor. He would be reluctant to require a simple majority.

Mr. Whitney stated that a lot of time and money are put into the election process, and often 60% participation is not achieved. It would be undesirable to have to have another election because only 59% of the eligible employees voted.

Councilwoman Scull stated that she does not understand the requirement for 60% participation, noting that a very small percentage of the electorate participate in primary elections. She further noted that Presidential elections are not invalidated because less than 60% of the electorate participated.

In response to questions as to how the Personnel Office would conduct the elections, Mr. Lloyd stated that voting would be done at multiple work sites, and monitored by either the Personnel Office or a third party.

Councilman Hovsepian suggested that the Council agree to 60%, provided that the balloting takes place at places of employment and other convenient locations. He stated that if employees have to drive several miles to cast their vote, it will cut down on the number participating. He suggested that the statement of legislative intent contain a statement that the procedures for elections and balloting shall be so designed to provide maximum participation and the elections should be held at convenient locations for employees.

President Christeller stated that if only two units are formed, it will be difficult to achieve 60% voter turn-out. There will be some people who do not want any representation or who do not want to become involved in the process. He stated that the bill does not have to provide that balloting shall be convenient to employees. It will be convenient, or there will have to be another election.

Mr. Lloyd added that 10% of the employees are absent at any one time. Mr. Whitney noted that Bill No. 11-76 does not provide for a second election.

In response to questions regarding the intent of lines 178 and 179, page 7, Mr. Lloyd stated that a majority of those voting could vote to have no representation.

At the suggestion of President Christeller and without objection, the Council deleted the language in line 179, page 7, and inserted in lieu thereof: a majority of employees voting voted for no representation.

With respect to the issue of payroll deductions for membership dues, Mr. Lloyd stated that the issue should not be determined at this time. It is normally an item of discussion between the employee unit and management, and should be worked out in that context. He noted that the County government will not be in a position to enforce the payment of dues.

Mr. Mills stated that the position that Mr. Lloyd has taken is totally unacceptable to MCGEO. The law should provide for mandatory collection of dues. Mr. Tull added that the Executive Branch feels no compulsion to negotiate this item.

Councilwoman Scull suggested that the Council agree to provide this service under the meet and confer situation, but indicate in the law that if a collective bargaining situation evolves, it would be an item for negotiation.

In response to a statement that the authority for dues collection exists without writing it into the law, Mr. Mills stated that there has been a total unwillingness on the part of County government to discuss the matter.

President Christeller expressed the view that the Legislative Branch should not grant things that should be bargained for.

Mr. Lloyd stated that if collection of dues is mandated, the Council should address the question of who will pay the cost of collection.

Councilman Hovsepian agreed with Councilwoman Scull's suggestion that payroll collection of dues should be provided for in a meet and confer situation, but that the law should state clearly that this does not set a precedent for collective bargaining situations. The law should also indicate that the expenses will be paid by the organization by agreement.

Mr. Tull noted that the paragraph beginning on line 229, Bill No. 11-76, specifies that no agreements shall be binding on any of the parties.

President Christeller suggested that the statement of legislative intent indicate that the Council recognizes the desirability of payroll collection of dues, but did not include provisions for it in the law because it should not set a precedent for collective bargaining situations that may evolve. The legislative intent should acknowledge that the County government has this authority, but the bill should not make it mandatory. He stated that he supports Mr. Lloyd's suggestion for the addition of a new paragraph j. in Section 33-66, page 7, to read as follows: j. The County may, after discussions with an employee organization and on the basis of a written authorization from each employee, provide for the deduction from the pay of such employee monies in payment of membership dues in a duly certified employee organization. Such deduction shall not be obligatory.

Mr. Tull suggested the addition of the following language to the end of the suggested new paragraph j.: Such monies shall be remitted to the employee organization.

In response to statements that the Executive Branch has been unwilling in the past to provide this service after saying it would, President Christeller stated that the County government has no established mechanism for recognizing employee organizations. Mr. Lloyd added that there are several employee organizations at the present time; some are based on sex and race.

Councilman Menke stated that if the County Executive refuses to provide this service, the Council could amend the law to mandate it.

President Christeller suggested that the final sentence of suggested new paragraph j. be deleted as it is negative.

Due to the absence of a quorum, the Council instructed that the bill be prepared with the suggested paragraph j., with the mandatory language referring to dues collection from Bill No. 23-76 shown as an amendment to the bill. The full Council will take a vote on the matter.

With respect to the issue of who shall bear the cost of conducting elections, Mr. Whitney stated that a recent election to choose a bargaining unit for 4,100 police officers, held at nine different locations, cost $4,000 to $5,000.

Mr. Mills stated that the method by which the election is conducted will affect its cost. A double envelope system would cost considerably less than having a third party conduct the election.

President Christeller stated that if the cost is borne solely by the County, there could be frivolous requests for elections.

Councilman Menke stated that even if the County split the cost with the organization, it would still be a big burden on the organization. He requested specific information as to the cost of an election.

President Christeller inquired as to who would pay the cost if it is to be split between the County and the organization if the organization loses the election. The organization may not be anything other than a group of people who collected enough signatures on a petition to get on the ballot. He suggested that perhaps the County could require a bond from the group submitting the petition. He further suggested that the cost be split, with 50% to be paid by the County, and the remainder to be borne equally by all organizations on the ballot.

Without objection, the Council agreed that the cost of elections would be borne 50% by the County and 50% between the employee organization(s) on the ballot.

Without objection, the Council agreed with Mr. Lloyd's suggestion to delete at least [once every two years] from line 209, page 8, and insert in lieu thereof: two times annually.

With respect to the issue of matters to be discussed with employee organizations, President Christeller expressed the view that Bill No. 11-76 contains too many exclusions.

Mr. Lloyd stated that, once again, he is concerned with setting precedents. The exclusions listed in the bill are typically excluded from collective bargaining agreements. They are items that are the prerogative of management.

Councilman Menke referred to the exclusion of discussions of "technology of performing County work", stating that he understands the Executive Branch does not want to get into discussions of whether a faster printing press should be used, for example. However, the issue of closing the incinerator was a matter of technology which affected many employees. The employee organization should have the right to question how management will take care of the affected employees and make suggestions for constructive changes.

After discussion and without objection, the Council agreed to delete paragraph b., lines 211 through 223, page 8 of Bill No. 11-76, stating that the law should not specify or prohibit items to be discussed. Paragraph a. covers in a broad fashion the types of items to be discussed.

At the suggestion of Mr. Whitney and without objection, the Council added the words or representative after the word "member" on line 237, page 9.

A discussion was held regarding the issue of the responsibilities of the employee organization. It was noted that Bill No. 11-76 prohibits the condoning of strikes, work stoppages or picketing by failing to take affirmative action to stop it. Bill No. 23-76 contains no such prohibition.

Mr. Tull stated that the subject provision was not included in Bill No. 23-76 because it is meaningless. The officers of the organization could say to the employees, "Go back to work," and would be complying with the law.

Councilman Menke referred back to the requirement that the County is required to meet with the employee organizations at least twice a year, and stated that the employee organization should have the same obligation. Councilman Hovsepian stated that if conditions are satisfactory and the employee organization does not have anything to discuss, there should not be a requirement for a meeting.

At the suggestion of President Christeller and without objection, the Council added the words upon request by the County after the word "County" in line 284, page 10.

Mr. Whitney noted that the prohibition in line 278, page 10, for picketing the County has been declared unconstitutional by the courts; it interferes with freedom of speech. However, picketing can be prohibited in connection with a strike or work stoppage. Picketing in itself can be in the nature of providing information.

Without objection, the Council agreed to add the words in connection with a strike, work stoppage or slowdown in lieu of the words [in a County-employee dispute] on line 278, page 10.

The meeting adjourned at midnight.

RECEIVED
'76 DEC 10 PM 3 52
MONTGOMERY COUNTY COUNCIL OFFICE

MEMORANDUM

Date December 10, 1976

To John Menke, President, County Council

From James P. Gleason, County Executive

Subject Bill No. 11-76

I have briefly reviewed the draft of Bill No. 11-76 amended after several work sessions. I am particularly concerned about the absence of any clause clearly delineating the County's sole right to operate the County Government in all management rights inherent therein. Any employee relations bill without a management rights clause makes such legislation extremely defective in my view.

I am mindful of the County's thinking in terms of matters for discussion with employee groups. We have historically and will continue to discuss with employees and employee groups all matters of concern to them. Although such matters may be discussed, those concerning management rights should not proceed to the point of developing position papers any more than we would seek position papers on established employee rights.

Therefore, in keeping with the legislative intent, but also in order to avoid future problems with the absence of a management rights clause, the following language is suggested:

Section 33-69(d). NO POSITION PAPER SHALL INCLUDE THOSE MATTERS CONCERNING THE COUNTY'S SOLE RIGHT TO OPERATE THE COUNTY IN ALL MANAGEMENT RIGHTS INHERENT IN IT. THESE RIGHTS INCLUDE BUT ARE NOT LIMITED TO MATTERS WITH RESPECT TO THE MISSION OF THE COUNTY GOVERNMENT, ITS BUDGET, ITS ORGANIZATION, THE NUMBER OF EMPLOYEES AND THE CLASSIFICATIONS AND GRADES OF POSITIONS OF EMPLOYEES ASSIGNED TO AN EMPLOYEE UNIT, WORK PROJECTS OR TOUR OF DUTY, THE TECHNOLOGY OF PERFORMING COUNTY WORK, OR OTHER PROVISIONS THAT ARE INHERENT IN THE MANAGERIAL PROCESS OF DETERMINING THE NECESSARY STEPS TO CARRY OUT THE PUBLIC SERVICE MISSIONS OF THE COUNTY.

On the matter of the effective date of the bill, I notice that the draft proposes to make Bill No. 11-76 emergency legislation. Please be aware that the enactment of this bill will precipitate immediate responses from employee groups for recognition and will necessitate a supplemental appropriation in order to provide funds for such implementation.

BILL NO. 71-81

Introduced: November 3, 1981
Enacted: April 6, 1982
Executive: April 16, 1982
Effective: July 16, 1982

Sec. 3. Chapter 33, title "Personnel" of the Montgomery County Code 1972, as amended, is hereby amended by adding a new Article V, title "Police Labor Relations", Sections 33-75 through 33-85, to read as follows:

ARTICLE V. POLICE LABOR RELATIONS.

33-75. Declaration of Policy.

It is the public policy of this County, pursuant to Charter Section 510, enacted as a result of citizen initiative, and purpose of this Article to promote a harmonious, peaceful, and cooperative relationship between the County government and its police employees and to protect the public by assuring, at all times, the responsive, orderly, and efficient operation of the Police Department. Since unresolved disputes in the police service are injurious to the public and to police employees as well, adequate means should be provided for preventing such unresolved disputes and for resolving them when they occur. To that end, it is in the public interest that police employees have the opportunity to bargain collectively over wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment through a representative of their choice or to refrain therefrom; and that any collective bargaining between the County government and a representative of those police employees be done in good faith with no interference with the orderly process of government and furthermore, that agreements reached through collective bargaining be implemented.

It is also recognized, however, that police employee organizations and the County government each possess substantial means by which they may initiate actions regarding the wages, hours, and working conditions of employees. Consequently, in order to preserve an appropriate balance between labor and management in the police service, the Council hereby declares that once a representative has been voluntarily selected, collective bargaining shall be utilized in place of, but not in addition to, existing means of initiating governmental action as to those subjects which are defined as appropriate for collective bargaining in this Article.

33-76. Definitions.

When used in this Article:

"Agency shop" means a provision in a collective bargaining agreement requiring, as a condition of continued employment, that bargaining unit employees pay a service fee not to exceed the monthly membership dues uniformly and regularly required by the employee organization of all of its members. An agency shop agreement shall not require the payment of initiation fees, an assessment, fines or any other collections or their equivalent, as a condition of continued employment.

To "bargain collectively" means to meet at reasonable times and places and to negotiate in good faith with respect to appropriate subjects as set out in subsection 33-80(a) of this Article.

"Certified representative" means an employee organization selected in accordance with the procedures of this Chapter to represent the unit.

"Employee" means any police officer in the classification of Master Police Officer I, Master Police Officer II, Police Officer I, Police Officer II, Police Officer III, and Police Officer Candidate, or equivalent non-supervisory classifications, but not those in the classification of Police Sergeant or any equivalent or higher classification.

"Employer" means the County Executive and his designees.

"Employee organization" means any organization which admits to membership employees and which has as a primary purpose the representation of such employees in collective bargaining, and includes any person acting as an officer, representative, or agent of said organization. Such organization shall not admit to membership any person other than law enforcement officers.

"Lockout" means any action taken by the employer to interrupt or prevent the continuity of work properly and usually performed by the employee for the purpose and with the intent of either coercing the employees into relinquishing rights guaranteed by this Article or of bringing economic pressure on employees for the purpose of securing the agreement of their certified representative to certain collective bargaining terms.

"Mediation" means an effort by an impartial third party confidentially to assist in resolving, through interpretation, suggestion, and advice, a dispute arising out of collective bargaining between the employer and the certified representative.

"Strike" means a concerted failure to report for duty, absence, stoppage of work, or abstinence in whole or in part from the full and faithful performance of the duties of employment with the employer, or deviation from normal or proper work duties or activities, where any of the preceding are done in a concerted manner for the purpose of inducing, influencing, or coercing the employer in the determination, implementation, interpretation, or administration of terms or conditions of employment or of the rights, privileges, or obligations of employment or of the status, recognition or authority of the employee or an employee organization.

"Unit" means all employees.

33-77. Permanent Umpire.

(a) There is hereby created the position of Permanent Umpire, so as to provide for the effective implementation and administration of Sections 33-79 and 33-82 of this Article concerning selection, certification and decertification procedures and prohibited practices. The Permanent Umpire shall exercise the following powers and perform the following duties and functions:

(1) Adopt, amend and rescind, from time to time, such rules, regulations and procedures for the implementation and administration of Sections 33-79 and 33-82 as are consistent with this Article;

(2) Request from the employer or any employee organization, and the employer or such organization may at its discretion provide, such relevant assistance, service and data as will enable the Permanent Umpire to properly carry out his functions;

(3) Hold hearings and make inquiries, administer oaths and affirmations, examine witnesses and documents, take testimony and receive evidence, compel by issuance of subpoenas the attendance of witnesses and the production of relevant documents;

(4) Hold and conduct elections for certification or decertification pursuant to the provisions of this Article and issue said certification or decertification;

(5) Investigate and attempt to resolve or settle, as provided in this Article, charges of engaging in prohibited practices. However, if the employer and a certified representative have negotiated a valid grievance procedure, the Permanent Umpire must defer to that procedure for the resolution of disputes properly submissible to the procedure absent a showing that such deferral will result or has resulted in the application of principles repugnant to this Article. Furthermore, the Permanent Umpire shall defer to State procedures in those matters which are governed by the Law Enforcement Officers Bill of Rights, Article 27, Sections 727, et seq., Annotated Code of Maryland;

(6) Obtain any necessary support services and make necessary expenditures in the performance of duties to the extent provided for these purposes in the annual budget of Montgomery County; and,

(7) Exercise any other powers and perform any other duties and functions as may be specified in Sections 33-79 and 33-82 of this Article.

(b) The Permanent Umpire shall be appointed by the County Executive, with the confirmation of the County Council, shall serve for a term of five (5) years and shall be eligible for reappointment; provided, however, that the Permanent Umpire shall not be reappointed if, during the period between 60 days and 30 days prior to the expiration of his term, the certified representative files a written objection to such reappointment with the County Executive. The Permanent Umpire shall be a person with experience as a neutral in the field of labor relations and shall not be a person who, on account of vocation, employment or affiliation can be classed as a representative of the interests of the employer or any employee organization.

(c) The Permanent Umpire shall be paid a per diem fee as set forth by contract with the County and shall be reimbursed for necessary expenses.

33-78. Employee Rights.

(a) Employees shall have the right:

(1) To form, join, support, contribute to, or participate in, or to refrain from forming, joining, supporting, contributing to, or participating in, any employee organization or its lawful activities; and

(2) To be fairly represented by their certified representative, if any.

(b) The employer shall have the duty to extend to the certified representative the exclusive right to represent the employees for the purposes of collective bargaining, including the orderly processing and settlement of grievances as agreed by the parties.

(c) A certified representative shall serve as the bargaining agent for all employees and shall have the duty to represent fairly and without discrimination all employees without regard to whether the employees are or are not members of the employee organization or are paying dues or other contributions to it or participating in its affairs; provided, however, that it shall not be deemed a violation of this duty for a certified representative to seek enforcement of an agency shop provision in a valid collective bargaining agreement.

(d) The right of the certified representative to receive membership dues deductions or agency shop provisions shall be determined through negotiations, unless the authority to negotiate such provisions has been suspended under Section 33-84. No collective bargaining agreement may include a provision requiring membership in, participation in the affairs of, or contributions to an employee organization other than an agency shop provision.

33-79. Selection, Certification and Decertification Procedures.

(a) The certification or decertification of an employee organization as the unit's representative for the purpose of collective bargaining shall be initiated in accordance with the following procedures:

(1) Any employee organization seeking certification as representative of the unit shall file a petition stating its name, address, and its desire to be certified with the Permanent Umpire, and shall transmit forthwith a copy of such, not including the names of the supporting employees, to the employer. Said petition must contain the uncoerced signatures of thirty percent (30%) of the employees within the unit signifying their desire to be represented by the employee organization for purposes of collective bargaining.

(2) Where an employee organization has been certified, an employee within the unit may file a petition with the Permanent Umpire and shall transmit forthwith a copy of such to the employer and the certified representative, not including the names of the supporting employee for decertification of the certified representative. The petition must contain the uncoerced signatures of at least thirty percent (30%) of the employees within the unit alleging that the employee organization presently certified is no longer the choice of the majority of the employees in the unit.

(3) The employer may file a petition with the Permanent Umpire seeking an election for certification of an employee organization or, where an employee organization is so certified, to cause decertification of the representative where the employer has reason to believe that the certified representative is not or is no longer the choice of the majority of the employees of the unit, and shall transmit a copy of such to the employee organization seeking to obtain or retain certification.

(4) Petitions may be filed between May 1, 1982, and June 30, 1982. Thereafter, petitions may be filed between September 1 and September 30 of any year, but no sooner than 22 months following an election held pursuant to this Section.

(5) If a lawful collective bargaining agreement is in effect, no petition shall be entertained unless filed during September of the final year of the agreement.

(6) If, during the period of May 1 to June 30, 1982, a petition is filed by the incumbent representative of unit employees certified under the Employer-Employee Relations Article of this Chapter, and no other employee organization files a valid petition, that incumbent certified representative shall be certified without an election, provided it produces evidence, acceptable to the Permanent Umpire, of majority representation.

(b) If the Permanent Umpire determines that a petition is properly supported and timely filed, the Permanent Umpire shall cause an election of all eligible employees to be held within a reasonable time, but no later than October 20 of that year, to determine if and by whom the employees wish to be represented, as follows:

(1) All elections shall be conducted under the supervision of the Permanent Umpire and shall be conducted by secret ballot at such time and place as the Permanent Umpire may direct. The Permanent Umpire may select and retain services of an agency of the State of Maryland, or similarily neutral body to assist in conducting the election.

(2) The election ballots shall contain, as choices to be made by the voter, the names of the petitioning or certified employee organization, the name or names of any other employee organization showing written proof at least ten (10) days before the election of at least ten percent (10%) representation of the employees within the unit, and a choice that the employee does not desire to be represented by any of the named employee organization(s).

(3) The employer and each party to the election may be represented by observers selected in accordance with such limitations and conditions as the Permanent Umpire may prescribe.

(4) Observers may challenge for good cause the eligibility of any person to vote in the election. Challenged ballots shall be impounded pending either agreement of the parties as to the validity of such challenge or the Permanent Umpire's decision thereon, unless the number of challenges is not determinative, in which latter event the challenged ballot(s) shall be destroyed.

(5) After the polls have been closed, the valid ballots cast shall be counted by the Permanent Umpire in the presence of the observers.

(6) The Permanent Umpire immediately shall prepare and serve upon the employer and each of the parties a report certifying the results of the election. If, and only if, an employee organization has received the votes of a majority of the employees who voted, the Permanent Umpire shall certify the employee organization so elected as the exclusive agent. If no employee organization has received the votes of a majority of the employees, the Permanent Umpire shall certify no representative, but if a majority of the employees do not vote for no representation, a run-off election shall be conducted. The run-off election shall contain the two choices which received the largest and second largest number of votes in the original election.

(c) The aforesaid certification of results shall be final unless, within seven (7) days after service of the report and certification, the employer or any other party serves on all parties and files with the Permanent Umpire objections to the election. Objections shall be verified and shall contain a concise statement of facts constituting the grounds thereof. The Permanent Umpire shall investigate the objections and, if substantial factual issues exist, the Permanent Umpire shall hold a hearing thereon. Otherwise, the Permanent Umpire may determine the matter without hearing. The Permanent Umpire may invite, either by rule or by invitation, written or oral argument to assist in determination of the merits of the objections. If the Permanent Umpire finds that the election was conducted in substantial conformity with this Article, the Permanent Umpire shall confirm the certification initially issued. If the Permanent Umpire finds that the election was not held in substantial conformity with this Article, the Permanent Umpire shall cause another election to be held pursuant to the provisions of this Section.

(d) The cost of conducting an election shall be paid by the County.

(e) Voluntary recognition is prohibited under this Article, and no certification may be issued without an election except as provided for in subsection 33-79(a)(6).

33-80. Collective Bargaining.

(a) Upon certification of an employee organization, as provided in Section 33-79, the employer and the said certified representative shall have the duty, through their designees, to bargain collectively with respect to those subjects as follows:

(1) Salary and wages, provided, however, that salaries and wages shall be uniform for all employees in the same classification;

(2) Pension and retirement benefits for active employees only;

(3) Employee benefits such as, but not limited to, insurance, leave, holidays and vacation;

(4) Hours and working conditions, including the availability and use of personal patrol vehicles;

(5) Provisions for the orderly processing and settlement of grievances concerning the interpretation and implementation of the collective bargaining agreement, which may include binding third party arbitration and provisions for exclusivity of forum;

(6) Matters affecting the health and safety of employees; and,

(7) The effect on employees of the employer's exercise of rights enumerated in subsection (b) hereof.

(b) Employer Rights.

This Article and any agreement pursuant hereto shall not impair the right and responsibility of the employer:

(1) To determine the overall budget and mission of the employer and any agency of County government;

(2) To maintain and improve the efficiency and effectiveness of operations;

(3) To determine the services to be rendered and the operations to be performed;

(4) To determine the overall organizational structure, methods, processes, means, job classifications or personnel by which operations are to be conducted and the location of facilities;

(5) To direct or supervise employees;

(6) To hire, select and establish the standards governing promotion of employees and to classify positions;

(7) To relieve employees from duties because of lack of work or funds, or under conditions when the employer determines continued work would be inefficient or nonproductive;

(8) To make and enforce rules and regulations not inconsistent with this law or a collective bargaining agreement;

(9) To take actions to carry out the mission of government in situations of emergency;

(10) To transfer, assign and schedule employees.

(c) Nothing contained in this Article shall be construed to limit the discretion of the employer voluntarily to discuss with the representatives of its employees any matter concerning the employer's exercise of any of the enumerated rights set forth in subsection 33-80(b) above, but such matters shall not be subject to bargaining.

(d) Collective bargaining shall commence no later than November 1 preceding the beginning of a fiscal year for which there is no contract between the employer and the certified representative and shall be concluded on January 20. The resolution of an impasse in collective bargaining shall be completed by February 1. These time limits may be waived only by prior written consent of the parties.

(e) Any provision for automatic renewal or extension of a collective bargaining agreement shall be void. No agreement shall be valid if it extends for less than one year or for more than three years. All agreements shall become effective July 1 and end June 30.

(f) Any collective bargaining agreement shall become effective only after ratification of the agreement by the employer and the certified representative, except as provided in subsection 33-81(b)(7). A certified representative may provide its own rules for ratification procedures.

(g) A ratified agreement shall be binding on the employer and the certified representative, and shall be reduced to writing and executed by both parties. Any term or condition thereof which requires an appropriation of funds or enactment, repeal or modification of a County law shall be timely submitted to the County Council by the employer and the employer shall make a good faith effort to have such term or condition implemented by Council action. On or before April 25, the County Council shall indicate by a majority vote its intention to appropriate or otherwise implement the agreement, or its intention not to do so, and shall state its reasons for any intent to reject any part or parts of the agreement. In the event the Council indicates its intention to reject, it shall designate a representative to meet with the parties and present the Council's views in their further negotiations. This representative shall also participate fully in stating the Council's position in any ensuing impasse procedure. The parties shall thereafter meet as promptly as possible in an attempt to negotiate an agreement acceptable to the Council. Either of the parties may initiate the impasse procedure set forth in Section 33-81. The results of the negotiation or impasse procedure shall be submitted to the Council on or before May 10. Any agreement shall provide either for automatic reduction or elimination of such conditional wage and/or benefits adjustments if the Council fails to take action necessary to implement the agreement, or if funds are not appropriated, or if a lesser amount is appropriated.

33-81. Impasse Procedure.

(a) Prior to November 10 of any year in which the employer and a certified representative bargain collectively, they shall choose an Impasse Neutral either by agreement or through the processes of the American Arbitration Association. The Impasse Neutral shall be required to be available during the period from January 20 to February 1. Fees, costs and expenses of the Impasse Neutral shall be shared equally by the employer and the certified representative.

(b) (1) During the course of collective bargaining, either party may declare an impasse and request the services of the Impasse Neutral. If the parties have not reached agreement by January 20, an impasse shall be deemed to exist.

(2) Whenever an impasse has been reached, the dispute shall be submitted to the Impasse Neutral. The Impasse Neutral shall attempt mediation by bringing the parties together voluntarily under such favorable auspices as will tend to effectuate the settlement of the dispute.

(3) If the Impasse Neutral, in the Impasse Neutral's sole discretion, finds that the parties are at a bona fide impasse, the Impasse Neutral shall require each party to submit a final offer which shall consist either of a complete draft of a proposed collective bargaining agreement or a complete package proposal, as the Impasse Neutral shall choose. If only complete package proposals are required, the Impasse Neutral shall require the parties to submit jointly a memorandum of all items previously agreed upon.

(4) The Impasse Neutral may, in the Impasse Neutral's discretion, require the parties to submit evidence or make oral or written argument in support of their proposals. The Impasse Neutral may hold a hearing for this purpose at a time, date and place selected by the Impasse Neutral. Said hearing shall not be open to the public.

(5) On February 1 or prior thereto, the Impasse Neutral shall select, as a whole, the more reasonable, in the Impasse Neutral's judgment, of the final offers submitted by the parties. The Impasse Neutral may take into account only the following factors:

a. Past collective bargaining contracts between the parties, including the past bargaining history that led to such contracts, or the pre-collective bargaining history of employee wages, hours, benefits and working conditions;

b. Comparison of wages, hours, benefits and conditions of employment of similar employees of other public employers in the Washington metropolitan area and in Maryland;

c. Comparison of wages, hours, benefits and conditions of employment of other Montgomery County personnel;

d. Wages, benefits, hours and other working conditions of similar employees of private employers in Montgomery County;

e. The interest and welfare of the public;

f. The ability of the employer to finance economic adjustments and the effect of the adjustments upon the normal standard of public services by the employer.

(6) The Impasse Neutral shall not compromise or alter the final offer that he selects. Selection of an offer shall be based on the contents of that offer. No consideration shall be given to, nor shall any evidence or argument be received concerning the history of collective bargaining in this immediate dispute, including offers of settlement not contained in the offers submitted to the Impasse Neutral. However, the Impasse Neutral shall consider all previously agreed upon items integrated with the specific disputed items to determine the single most reasonable offer.

(7) The offer selected by the Impasse Neutral, integrated with the previous agreed upon items, shall be deemed to represent the final agreement between the employer and the certified representative, without the necessity of ratification by the parties, and shall have the force and effect of a contract voluntarily entered into and ratified as set forth in subsection 33-80(g) above. The parties shall execute such agreement.

33-82. Prohibited Practices.

(a) The employer or its agents or representatives are prohibited from:

(1) Interfering with, restraining or coercing employees in the exercise of any rights granted to them under the provisions of this Article;

(3) Encouraging or discouraging membership in any employee organization by discrimination in regard to hiring, tenure, wages, hours or conditions of employment, provided that nothing in this Article shall preclude an agreement from containing a provision for an agency shop;

The charge or charges shall be filed with the Permanent Umpire, with copies to the party alleged to have committed a prohibited practice. All charges shall contain a statement of facts sufficient to enable the Permanent Umpire to investigate the charge. The Permanent Umpire may request withdrawal of and, if necessary, summarily dismiss charges if they are insufficiently supported in fact or in law to warrant a hearing. The Permanent Umpire shall have authority to maintain such independent investigation as the Permanent Umpire determines necessary and to develop rules and regulations therefor. If, upon investigation, the Permanent Umpire finds that a charge is sufficiently supported to raise an issue of fact or law, the Permanent Umpire shall hold a hearing on such charge upon notification to the parties. In any hearing, charging parties shall present evidence in support of the charges and the party or parties charged shall have the right to file an answer to the charges, to appear in person or otherwise and to present evidence in defense of the charges.

(d) If the Permanent Umpire determines that the person charged has committed a prohibited practice, the Permanent Umpire shall make findings of fact and conclusions of law and shall be empowered to issue an order requiring the person charged to cease and desist from the prohibited practice and to take such affirmative action as will remedy the violation(s) of this Article. Remedies of the Permanent Umpire may include, but shall not be limited to, reinstating employees with or without back pay, making employees whole for any loss relating to County employment suffered as a result of any prohibited practice, withdrawing or suspending the employee organization's authority to negotiate or continue membership dues deductions, or agency shop benefits. If the Permanent Umpire finds that the party or parties charged have not committed any prohibited practices, the Permanent Umpire shall make findings of fact and conclusions of law and issue an order dismissing the charges.

(e) The Permanent Umpire shall not receive or entertain charges based upon an alleged prohibited practice occurring more than six (6) months prior to the filing of the charge.

33-83. Expression of Views.

The expression of any views, argument or opinion, or the dissemination thereof, whether orally, in writing or otherwise, shall not constitute or be evidence of a prohibited practice under any of the provisions of this law nor be grounds for invalidating any election conducted under this law if such expression or dissemination contains no threat of reprisal or promise of benefit.

33-84. Strikes and Lockouts.

(a) No employee or employee organization shall either directly or indirectly cause, instigate, encourage, condone or engage in any strike, nor the employer in any lockout. No employee or employee organization shall obstruct, impede, or restrict, either directly or indirectly, any attempt to terminate a strike.

(b) The employer shall not pay, reimburse, make whole or otherwise compensate any employee for or during the period when said employee is directly or indirectly engaged in a strike, nor shall the employer thereafter compensate an employee who struck for wages or benefits lost during such strike.

(c) If an employee or employee organization shall violate the provisions of this Section, the employer, after adequate notice and a fair hearing before the Permanent Umpire who finds that the aforesaid violations have occurred and finds that any or all of the following actions are necessary in the public interest, may, subject to the Law Enforcement Officer's Bill of Rights, Article 27, Sections 727 et seq., Annotated Code of Maryland:

(1) Impose disciplinary action, including dismissal from employment, on employees engaged in such conduct;

(2) Terminate or suspend employee organization's dues deduction privilege, if any;

(3) Revoke the certification of and disqualify the employee organization from participation in representation elections for a period up to a maximum of two (2) years.

(d) Nothing contained herein shall prohibit an employer from seeking any remedy available in a court of competent jurisdiction.

It is hereby declared to be the legislative intent that this Act would have been adopted if such illegal, invalid, or unconstitutional

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS:

Re: Introduction of Bill No. 12-82, Nursing Homes

Upon motion of Councilwoman Gelman, duly seconded and without objection, the Council voted to waive the reading of the title and proceed to introduction of Bill No. 12-82.

Bill No. 12-82 was introduced by the Council President at the request of the County Executive. The title of the bill is set forth below: AN EMERGENCY ACT to amend Chapter 25, title "Hospitals, Sanitariums, Nursing and Care Homes" of the Montgomery County Code 1972, as amended, by repealing and reenacting with amendments Section 25-10, title "Violations and Penalty", and Section 25-22, title "Revocation or Suspension Generally"; to provide for injunctive relief to enforce the Chapter and to correct violations, to provide for an increase in the fine, and to provide for a ban on admissions and related procedures.

Re: Introduction of Bill No. 13-82, Freeze on Salary Maxima of All Grades

Upon motion of Councilwoman Gelman, duly seconded and without objection, the Council voted to waive the reading of the title and proceed to introduction of Bill No. 13-82.

Bill No. 13-82 was introduced by Councilman Scull. The title of the bill is set forth below: AN EMERGENCY ACT to amend Section 33-74, title "Cost of Living Adjustment" of Chapter 33, title "Personnel" of the Montgomery County Code 1972, as amended, to require that the salary maxima for all grades be maintained at the Fiscal Year 82 level, and to eliminate the need for certain findings by the Council in its budget resolution.

Councilwoman Spector inquired as to whether the Council will have time to address a revision of the pay plan prior to May 15, when the budget must be adopted by the Council. During discussion of the concept of the bill last week, Councilmembers indicated that there was a need to examine and compare individual classifications and to do a comprehensive revision of the pay plan if that is found to be necessary. She does not believe the Council has time to give the matter sufficient study.

Councilwoman Crenca agreed, and stated that she has asked Deputy Staff Director Spengler to address what she sees as an inconsistency. The data presented to the Council during the last budget season indicated that the salaries of County employees were below those of other area jurisdictions and large cities. However, Mr. Spengler's memorandum to the Council of March 24, 1982, concludes that "the County's maximum salaries for all grades in the pay plan exceed those of neighboring jurisdictions." She has asked Mr. Spengler to reconcile this data. If this reconciliation can be produced in the timeframe necessary, she would be willing to address the provisions of Bill No. 13-82. However, if the Council freezes the salaries of County employees, she believes that some way must be found to freeze Councilmembers' salaries. She requested that the Council obtain a legal opinion as to what can be done in this regard.

President Potter stated that an amendment to the State Constitution would be required to allow the Council to affect the salaries of elected officials during their term of office. If there is a desire to lower Councilmembers' salaries, a bill could be introduced to establish $10,000 as the salary of the next County Council.

Councilwoman Gelman pointed out that any Councilmember is free to not accept his or her salary and turn it back to the General Fund or give it to a charity. It can be handled very simply and personally. She expressed concern with the idea that perhaps the Council will not have time to address the bill. If the Council does not have time for a thorough review, the bill will not be enacted. However, that is not a reason to oppose introduction of the bill. She stated that the fact the bill was prepared so rapidly shows that there is some will to work on it. She noted that she had wanted the Council to address the entire pay plan in a comprehensive fashion.

President Potter expressed the view that the Council will find time to address the bill after May 15, although it would be most helpful to do it before May 15. He noted that weekends are available for additional Council meetings.

Councilwoman Crenca expressed the view that it would be more significant for the Council to review job classifications in relation to the pay scale than to simply freeze the maximum salary of each grade. She believes that certain positions are in the wrong classification. As soon as the budget deliberations are over, she would like the Council to set in motion a thorough examination of the salary scale in order to end debate over conflicting data.

CALL OF BILLS FOR FINAL READING:

Re: Bill No. 57-81, Amendments to Electrical Code, Deferred

Bill No. 57-81, Amendments to Electrical Code, was called for final reading. The Council had before it for consideration Draft No. 6, dated April 1, 1982.

At the suggestion of President Potter and without objection, the Council deferred enactment of Bill No. 57-81. President Potter indicated that he would provide the Housing Committee with a memorandum detailing his concerns with the bill.

Re: Consideration of Bill No. 53-81, Smoking Prohibitions; Remanded to Environment & Energy Committee

Bill No. 53-81, Smoking Prohibitions, was called for final reading. The Council had before it for consideration Draft No. 4, dated March 31, 1982.

Councilwoman Gelman expressed appreciation to the Environment and Energy Committee for its work on this bill, noting that the effort to regulate smoking was begun many years ago by Councilwoman Scull. When Councilwoman Gelman was elected to the Council, she worked with Councilwoman Scull to enact Section 24-9, Smoking Prohibitions and Restrictions. Now the concept has gained broader support. However, the Committee seems to have excluded certain things that have been part of the existing law, such as the prohibition against smoking in hospital rooms. She related the circumstances under which the former Council added hospital rooms as places in which there shall be no smoking unless agreed to by all patients in the room.

Councilwoman Spector stated that the Environment and Energy Committee has amended the bill to provide that the entire hospital shall be a no smoking area. Specific smoking lounges will have to be designated.

Councilwoman Gelman stated that, if that is the case, she did not understand that the burden of the law has been reversed. She suggested that the following sentence on lines 18 through 20, page 2, is superfluous: A reasonable effort shall be made to assign patients to sleeping rooms according to the patient's individual nonsmoking or smoking preference. In addition, she believes that the sentence would force a hospital which normally permits no smoking at all to allow its patients to smoke in their rooms. If the sentence is not deleted, the phrase "Where hospitals rules permit," should precede the sentence.

Councilwoman Spector pointed out that the sentence is not substantially changed from existing law and has not been confusing to hospital administrators.

Upon motion of Councilwoman Gelman, duly seconded and without objection, the Council added the following phrase prior to the words "A reasonable effort" on line 18, page 2: Where smoking is permitted by the health care facility,.

In response to inquiries by Councilwoman Gelman, it was noted that the bill would require restaurants to designate no-smoking areas, but would not require walls or partitions to separate the smoking and no-smoking areas. The non-smoking areas could be so designated by means of a movable sign.

Councilwoman Gelman suggested that a restaurant that has a very strong filter and ventilation system should be exempted from the requirement to designate a no-smoking area. She further suggested that thought be given to having the requirement on restaurants commence with the establishment of new restaurants. She stated that it has become very fashionable for patrons to request no-smoking sections and many restaurants have accommodated them to the point that it has become a way of life. The places that do not accommodate non-smokers do not get that clientele. She believes that the present law has worked very well and perhaps this bill would impose a requirement that is not needed. She noted that restaurants are facing difficulties now because of the economy.

President Potter stated that the objection of most restauranteurs stems from the lack of flexibility inherent in designating a separate room a no-smoking area. The Committee has accommodated that concern by permitting such an area to be designated by means of a flexible sign and by not requiring walls to separate the area.

Councilwoman Gelman expressed the view that the language of the proposed bill is almost meaningless as it applies to restaurants. If a restaurant is filled with smokers and a non-smoker requests a table, the non-smoker would be seated at the first available table and that area would be designated a non-smoking area. She is not sure that anything positive will be accomplished.

Councilwoman Crenca stated that this bill attempts to do the impossible, i.e., make everyone happy and preserve everyone's rights. The Environment and Energy Committee's best effort is being presented to the Council. There are people who find smoke objectionable and they have requested a fighting chance to breathe reasonably clean air. The Committee received a lot of data concerning the detrimental effects of second-hand smoke. On the other hand, smokers feel that they have certain rights based on tradition. Management of private businesses wants to be able to conduct business without a tremendous amount of governmental interference.

Councilwoman Crenca stated that Bill No. 53-81 is an attempt to legislate courtesy and good health. While the goal cannot be achieved 100%, it is an attempt that will raise the awareness on the part of people that non-smokers have rights and must speak up for those rights. If a person wants to smoke in a public place, he must ask the proprietor to let him do so in a way that is least injurious to the health and comfort of others. However, this must be done in a flexible manner and based on good will. She stated that she cannot think of another way to address this problem without the government spending a tremendous amount of money to enforce it and creating much ill will. She believes that flexibility and awareness will go a long way toward raising the consciousness of smokers to be receptive to the needs of other citizens.

Councilwoman Crenca stated that she has four amendments that have been suggested to her by persons who have read the bill. She would like to thank them and all of the other people who attended the Committee meetings and did a tremendous amount of research. She distributed the four amendments to the Council.

Councilman Scull stated that he did not attend the Committee meetings and would benefit from a brief summary of why the Committee felt it was necessary to weaken the bill. He believes that a strong case has been made that smoking is dangerous to the smoker and non-smoker. The government has the power to legislate changes in behaviour and, therefore, attitude. He referred to the enactment of civil rights legislation in the early 1960s and the resultant changes in people's experiences and attitudes. If the Council feels strongly that smoking is a danger, then it is worthwhile to legislate no smoking; however, the law must be made meaningful. Montgomery County has pioneered in this field, and it has been helpful to have the County set an example. Councilman Scull noted that the Committee has eliminated the criminal penalties for owners of private establishments; he is curious to know if there have been any problems which caused the Committee to eliminate that portion of the law. In the work place, where people spend most of their days, the Committee has eliminated the requirement that there be no smoking except in private office areas. The Committee has made a step forward by requiring the employer to consider the needs of non-smokers; however, he inquired as to what was so compelling about the rights of smokers that caused the Committee to eliminate that restriction.

Councilwoman Crenca stated that the Committee considered the practical aspects of the proposal. Employers objected to being made "referees" where there is a feeling of ill will resulting from someone smoking. A certain amount of flexibility must be provided so that employers can address the problem when asked to do so by a non-smoker. Short of banning smoking completely, there must be a way to address the situation. The Committee did not feel it could go that far. Employers pointed out that employees are assigned work spaces according to the work flow; the flow would be disrupted if they had to be grouped according to smokers and non-smokers. In addition, a ban on smoking except in private offices could be discriminatory. Higher-ranking employees, who enjoy private offices, would be permitted to smoke in the work place while lower-ranking employees could not. The Committee decided to let management address the situation so that employees who do not want to breathe smoke can be accommodated by an individual assessment of their situation. Signs can be posted as to where smoking is permitted and not permitted. It could apply to one desk or a section of a room. Each work place is different; it would be difficult to establish standards that would cover all situations. Councilwoman Crenca stated that she toured a building where the situation is being addressed in this manner and found that it was working well. She pointed out, however, that it works best in work places that have good ventilation systems to begin with.

President Potter noted that that is not true of the Council Offices where a substantial problem exists. If the employer can find a solution, he would like to hear from him.

Councilman Fosler noted that the Council received a statement of economic impact of expanding the smoking prohibition in Montgomery County, prepared by James and Associates. He inquired as to the Committee's reaction to that analysis and the extent to which it affected the Committee's thinking.

President Potter stated that that was a special survey of restaurant owners conducted by a firm hired by the owners. The Committee considered the report and responded by not requiring restaurants to have separate, permanent non-smoking sections. Restaurant owners will have the flexibility to respond to the flow of business.

Councilwoman Spector added that the persons conducting the survey misunderstood the provisions of the bill and the economic impact was somewhat overstated. In addition, the Lung Association called attention to the economic impact to the individual of added health care costs as a result of smoking or second-hand smoke. This impacts as well on the health care delivery system and insurance premiums.

Councilwoman Gelman moved that the words "when requested" be added after the word "areas" in line 8d, page 5. Her motion failed for lack of a second. She expressed the view that it is not as important to keep restaurants smoke-free as it is the Council's Hearing Room. She believes that the burden should be on customers to request non-smoking areas, but that every effort should be made to accommodate that person in the most effective way possible.

Councilwoman Spector stated that the Committee wanted to avoid putting the burden on the non-smoker to request a no-smoking section. Some people are not willing, able or likely to speak up and ask for something which is viewed as an imposition by many. Without adequate signs, many people are not aware that there is a law on the books to back them up in their requests. She believes that the burden should be on restaurants and private establishments to provide non-smoking areas and to indicate the areas with signs.

In response to Councilman Scull's earlier inquiry concerning penalties, Legislative Counsel Frankel stated that the Committee heard from restaurant owners who strongly objected to having criminal penalties imposed on them for refusing to ask a customer to leave who smokes in the non-smoking section.

Councilwoman Gelman pointed out that enforcement of this law by the County government has been nil, and called attention to the great need to enforce it within the County Office Building.

Councilman Scull moved, duly seconded, that the Council restore the original language of the bill in subsection (g), lines 1 through 9, page 5, and in subsection (j)(1), line 26, page 5.

Councilwoman Gelman stated that she would like to have a report on the history of enforcing the existing law. Mr. Frankel pointed out that the Committee was briefed by Ms. Martin, Health Department, who indicated that she had had only one real problem with compliance.

Councilman Scull stated that the effect of his motion would be to apply the same criminal penalty to restaurant owners that hospital administrators and food store managers have been subject to for several years.

President Potter suggested that the weaker penalty section be retained and applied to restaurants only, and that the original language of the penalty section be restored as a separate section to apply to all other establishments. Councilmembers Gelman and Spector indicated agreement with this suggestion.

In response to an inquiry as to why restaurants are different from other types of establishments where people come together for periods of time, Councilman Gudis stated that people to go restaurants primarily for social or business occasions and not out of necessity. Therefore, a certain amount of flexibility should be provided. He believes that the bill as presented accomplishes that goal. Restaurant owners or managers do not want to be placed in an awkward position of having to ask people to stop smoking and take the chance of alienating their customers.

Councilman Scull expressed the view that the problems cited by restaurant owners are severely overstated. So many restaurants have no-smoking sections now and they seem to function smoothly. For 25 years, restaurants have been regarded as public accommodations under the law, just like airplanes and buses. There are times when people have to eat in restaurants out of necessity, such as when working late or travelling. He believes that Councilmembers' views on this bill depend on how strongly they feel about smoking. The case has now been made that it is a serious detriment to health and the health of people breathing second-hand smoke. The right to enjoy a smoke must give way to the right to be free of smoke for reasons of health and comfort. He does not believe it would be an unfair burden to place restaurant owners under the same obligations as owners of other types of establishments.

In response to an inquiry, Mr. Frankel discussed the difference between criminal and civil penalties.

Councilman Scull expressed the view that civil penalties are insufficient and that this bill must be backed up by a criminal penalty. He suggested that the Council defer consideration of this bill and develop language for two penalty structures as suggested by President Potter.

After discussion and without objection, the Council deferred enactment of Bill No. 53-81 and remanded it to the Environment and Energy Committee for further consideration, along with the four amendments distributed by Councilwoman Crenca. Committee members requested that interested Councilmembers who are not members of the Committee attend the meeting or at least make their concerns known to the Committee so that they can be addressed. Councilwoman Crenca, Chairwoman of the Committee, noted that it will be difficult to schedule another Committee meeting during the operating budget worksessions.

Re: Enactment of Bill No. 71-81, Collective Bargaining for Police

Bill No. 71-81, Collective Bargaining for Police, was called for final reading. The Council had before it for consideration Draft No. 4, dated March 30, 1982.

Mr. Hilliard, Director, Office of Personnel, and Mr. Torgesen of his staff, appeared before the Council and responded to questions of Councilmembers concerning the provisions of and amendments to the bill.

Several Councilmembers indicated that their recollection of the Council's actions during worksessions is different than the amendments reflected in Draft No. 4. Another Councilmember who was not present for the worksessions indicated concerns also.

Upon motion of Councilwoman Gelman, duly seconded and without objection, the Council deferred consideration of Bill No. 71-81 until later in the day when Mr. Hillman, Special Counsel for Labor Relations, can be present to respond to questions.

President Potter in the Chair.

Re: Deferral of Bill No. 76-81, Open Meetings for Homeowners Associations

Bill No. 76-81, Open Meetings for Homeowners Associations, was called for final reading. The Council had before it for consideration Draft No. 4, dated March 30, 1982.

Due to lack of time, the Council postponed enactment of Bill No. 76-81, and requested that the Housing Committee meet with interested people to discuss the amendments proposed by the Office of Consumer Affairs.

Re: Enactment of Bill No. 71-81, Collective Bargaining for Police

Bill No. 71-81, Collective Bargaining for Police, was called for final reading. Mr. Hillman, Special Counsel for Labor Relations, appeared before the Council to respond to inquiries.

Mr. Hillman stated that the confusion in the Council's earlier discussion resulted from the fact that Draft No. 4 does not reflect an amendment made by the Council at its last worksession on this bill. Subsection (1), page 20, through subsection (2), page 21, were deleted in their entirety and were included in Draft No. 4 by mistake.

Without objection, the Council agreed to delete all of the language in subsections (1) and (2), pages 20 and 21.

The Council reviewed the remainder of Bill No. 71-81 and raised questions as to the various provisions of the bill.

Councilman Fosler stated that he has had a difference of interpretation with the Executive Branch as to the meaning of the phrase "effect on employees" as used in Section 33-80(a)(7), page 18, as being an item that is subject to collective bargaining as a result of the exercise of an employer's right. Mr. Hilliard would draw a distinction between the decision itself (such as a decision to lay off employees), and the way in which the decision is implemented (which employees to lay off first). The former would be prohibited, but the latter would be bargainable in Mr. Hilliard's interpretation. However, Councilman Fosler expressed the view that the employer's rights extend to the implementation of the decisions; the "effect" is the consequence of the implementation.

Mr. Hillman stated that he would agree with Councilman Fosler's interpretation. The effect is the consequence to the employees. In a common labor relations situation, an employer would not have to bargain over the decision to shut down a plant, nor the implementation of the shutdown. However, the employer does have a duty to bargain over the effects on employees, such as severence pay and seniority rights.

President Potter expressed the view that a more precise phrase would be "bargain over the amelioration of the effects on employees."

Mr. Hillman expressed the view that the phrase suggested by President Potter is unnecessary because the words that have been used already have well-established meanings.

At the suggestion of President Potter and without objection, the Council restored the word Any in line 4, page 22.

Mr. Hillman responded to questions of Councilmembers concerning provisions that have been deleted from the bill because they have been addressed in other contexts or locations in the bill.

Upon motion of Councilman Fosler, duly seconded and without objection, the Council restored the language of subsection (b)(2), page 19, as follows: (2) To maintain and improve the efficiency and effectiveness of operations;.

After discussion and without objection, the Council inserted the word only after "employees" on line 11, page 18, to clarify that collective bargaining is permitted concerning pension and retirement benefits for active employees only.

During the discussion of the addition of the word "only" on line 11, page 18, the Council considered adding the word to the body of Section 33-80 to clarify that the listing of bargainable items was exclusive. However, after consideration of the fact that some subjects may arise in the future that are not enumerated, the Council added the word "only" on line 11 to clarify that the pensions of already-retired employees are not bargainable.

At the suggestion of President Potter, upon motion of Councilman Gudis, duly seconded and without objection, the Council deleted the word [such] from line 18, page 23, and inserted the words necessary to implement the agreement after the word "action" in the same line.

At the suggestion of President Potter and without objection, the Council deleted the word [most] from line 5, page 25, and inserted in lieu thereof more. The Council also corrected the spelling of the word "empowered" on line 18, page 30.

President Potter requested that the record reflect the intent of the Council that deletion of the section concerning "Use of Official Time" from page 31 does not give employees the right to use official time for union business. Mr. Hillman indicated that this is an item that is left to the bargaining process.

At the suggestion of President Potter and without objection, the Council inserted a comma after the word "interest" on the sixth line of subsection (c), page 32.

(The Council recessed from 3:10 P.M. to 3:30 P.M. to allow Councilmembers an opportunity to read through Bill No. 71-81 in view of the error that had been made in Draft No. 4.)

At the suggestion of Mr. Hillman and without objection, the Council deleted [33-80(c)(2)] from line 30, page 9; line 7, page 10; and line 18, page 11; and deleted the phrase [disagreement over obligation to bargain collectively] from line 1, page 10.

At the suggestion of President Potter and without objection, the Council deleted the word [jointly] from line 23, page 24, and inserted the word jointly after the word "submit" on line 24, page 24.

Councilman Fosler stated that the legislative history of Bill No. 71-81 should be clear that the Council defines "effect" as used in Section 33-80(a)(7) in a restrictive sense. The word shall not be used as a way of initiating collective bargaining over any items that are employer rights. If the interpretation is expanded, the Council will have to consider amendments to the law.

Councilman Scull stated that he agrees with Councilman Fosler's views on the meaning of the word "effect;" however, he does not believe that subsection (7) of Section 33-80(a) is needed. He believes that the language of the subsection is vague and the examples given during the worksession as to problems that might arise were not great enough to justify leaving such vague wording in the law.

Mr. Hillman stated that an employer right is the ability to lay off employees. The union might want to bargain about how to achieve the lay off, such as whether it should be done on the basis of seniority, on the basis of job classification, or by department. Those are the kinds of effects on employees that unions traditionally bargain about, and are the kinds of effects intended by Section 33-80(a)(7). The decisions about whether to lay off and how many employees are to be affected are clearly employer's rights.

Councilman Scull moved, duly seconded, that the Council delete subsection (7) from Section 33-80(a), page 18.

Councilman Scull expressed the view that the language of subsection (7) is vague and will raise more problems than it will solve. The employer has certain rights to hire, transfer, assign and schedule employees, and cannot do anything that does not have an effect on employees. He pointed out that establishing a legislative history does not have the force and effect of law; it reflects only the views of Councilmembers. Every word used in labor relations laws is significant. He stated that he has not heard a strong argument for retaining the subsection.

In response to President Potter's suggestion that the phrase "bargain over the amelioration of the effects on employees" be inserted in subsection (7), Mr. Hillman stated that that is largely what the subsection means, but there may be times when the employer does not want to "ameliorate" the effects. An employer may want to bargain and make the effects on employees harsher.

Mr. Katz, representing the Fraternal Order of Police, noted that the Permanent Umpire will make the decision about which items are bargainable and which are not. If the Council does not like his decision, the Council can amend the law.

Councilman Scull's motion failed, Councilmembers Gelman and Scull voting in the affirmative, Councilmembers Potter, Fosler and Crenca voting in the negative, Councilman Gudis not voting and Councilwoman Spector being temporarily absent.

President Potter stated that he voted in the negative because he believes that there is a substantial area of concern. The language may be vague, but he believes that there is a basic advantage in leaving fairly broad what can be negotiated. It would be disadvantageous to both parties if too much is excluded.

Councilman Fosler expressed the view that there are legitimate concerns as to how subsection (7) will be interpreted. One of the key factors in determining whether it will work successfully is how reasonable both parties are and how good the Permanent Umpire is in making his determinations. It is a subject that bears watching to see what develops. It is an item that may require modification in the future.

Upon motion of Councilwoman Crenca, duly seconded and without objection, the Council approved the following amendments as reflected in Draft No. 4 of Bill No. 71-81 (amendments approved by the Council during this Legislative Session are in addition; capital letters indicate language added after introduction and strike-throughs indicate language deleted after introduction of the bill):

Sec. 1. Subsection 33-63(c) of Section 33-63, title "Definitions" of Article IV, title "Employer-Employee Relations" of Chapter 33, title "Personnel", of the Montgomery County Code 1972, as amended, is hereby amended, to read as follows:

Sec. 33-74. Cost of living adjustment.

(a) The county executive shall provide as a part of the annual recommended operating budget for the county government sufficient funds to implement the cost of living adjustment required by this section. The council shall accord one of the highest priorities to the full funding of the cost of living adjustment, shall fund fully the seventy-five percent of Consumer Price Index cost of living adjustment unless reasons are given for not doing so, and shall make a finding in the budget resolution as to the extent to which full funding is achieved. Unless otherwise provided in the approved budget resolution which includes a finding that implementation of the full amount of the adjustment would necessitate substantial lay-offs of personnel or result in other widespread hardship to county government employees, the chief administrative officer shall adjust the uniform salary plan for all classified employees of the county government beginning the first pay period on or after July 1 of each year by an amount not less than seventy-five percent of the change in the Consumer Price Index for all urban consumers in the Washington, D.C. area, although pay grades one through four of the uniform salary plan to which minimum wage and certain seasonal employees are assigned will be adjusted by changes in the minimum wage rates and salary surveys to determine the competitiveness of such salaries. The percentage change shall be based on the latest published index for the calendar year preceding the fiscal year in which the adjustment is to be paid.

The chief administrative officer may adjust the uniform salary plan in excess of the base percentage of seventy-five percent, provided funds are available and approved by the county council for such purpose.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions in (a) above, for FY-82 only the following salary controls shall apply:

1. Salary maxima of grades 5 through 31 will be adjusted by the full cost-of-living granted by the County Council.
2. The salary maximum for grade 40 shall be $70,000.00.

3. The salary maxima for grades 32 through 39 shall be adjusted by the Chief Administrative Officer so that the dollar difference between the salary maxima of grades 31 through 40 is the same.

4. The salary for each merit employee in grades 5-31 will be adjusted by the full cost-of-living granted by the County Council to the extent that such salary adjustment does not exceed the maximum of the employee's grade.

5. The salaries for merit employees in grades 32 through 39 will be adjusted by the full cost-of-living granted by the County Council only to the extent that such salary adjustment does not exceed the maximum of the employee's grade.

6. The cost-of-living adjustment to the salaries of non-merit employees shall be determined by the County Executive but shall not exceed the cost-of-living granted merit employees.

7. No employee's salary is to be reduced below its level as of June 30, 1981 as a result of implementation of the provisions contained in paragraphs 1- 6 above.

(c) The provisions of this section shall not apply to an employee of the police department, as defined in Section 33-76 of this chapter, who is represented by a certified employee organization pursuant to the provisions of Article V, Title "Police Labor Relations" of this chapter.

Sec. 3. Chapter 33, title "Personnel" of the Montgomery County Code 1972, as amended, is hereby amended by adding a new Article V, title "Police Labor Relations", Sections 33-75 through 33-85, to read as follows:

ARTICLE V. POLICE LABOR RELATIONS.

Sec. 33-75. DECLARATION OF POLICY.

It is the public policy of this County, pursuant to Charter Section 510, enacted as a result of citizen initiative, and purpose of this Article to promote a harmonious, peaceful, and cooperative relationship between the County government and its police employees and to protect the public by assuring, at all times, the responsive, orderly, and efficient operation of the police department. Since unresolved disputes in the police service are injurious to the public and to police employees as well, adequate means should be provided for preventing such unresolved disputes and for resolving them when they occur. To that end, it is in the public interest that police employees have the opportunity to bargain collectively OVER WAGES, HOURS, AND OTHER TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF EMPLOYMENT through a representative of their choice or to refrain therefrom; and that any collective bargaining between the County government and a representative of those police employees be done in good faith with no interference with the orderly process of government and furthermore, that ~~the results~~ of AGREEMENTS REACHED THROUGH collective bargaining be implemented.

It is also recognized however, that police employee organizations AND THE COUNTY GOVERNMENT EACH possess substantial means by which they may initiate ~~governmental~~ actions regarding the wages, hours, and working conditions of employees ~~they represent or seek to represent~~. Consequently, in order to preserve ~~the delicate~~ AN APPROPRIATE balance between labor and management in the police service, the Council hereby declares that ~~collective bargaining may~~ be ONCE A REPRESENTATIVE HAS BEEN voluntarily selected COLLECTIVE BARGAINING SHALL BE UTILIZED in place of, but not under Section 33-84. No collective bargaining agreement may include a provision requiring membership in, participation in the affairs of or contributions to an employee organization other than an agency shop provision.

Sec. 33-79. SELECTION, CERTIFICATION AND DECERTIFICATION PROCEDURES.

Said petition must contain the uncoerced signatures of thirty percent (30%) of the employees within the unit signifying their desire to be represented by the employee organization for purposes of collective bargaining.

(2) Where an employee organization has been certified, an employee within the unit may file a petition with the Permanent Umpire and shall transmit forthwith a copy of such to the employer and the certified representative, not including the names of the supporting employee for decertification of the certified representative. The petition must contain the uncoerced signatures of at least thirty percent (30%) of the employees within the unit alleging that the employee organization presently certified is no longer the choice of the majority of the employees in the unit.

(3) The employer may file a petition with the Permanent Umpire seeking an election for certification of an employee organization or, where an employee organization is so certified, to cause decertification of the representative where the employer has reason to believe that the certified representative is not or is no longer the choice of the majority of the employees of the unit, and shall transmit a copy of such to the employee organization seeking to obtain or retain certification.

(4) Petitions may be filed between May 1, 1982, and June 30, 1982. Thereafter, petitions may be filed between September 1 and September 30, of any year, but no sooner than 22 months following an election held pursuant to this section.

(5) If a lawful collective bargaining agreement of no longer than three (3) years' duration is in effect, no petition shall be entertained unless filed during September of the final year of ~~said~~ THE agreement.

(6) If, during the period of May 1, to June 30, 1982, a petition is filed by the incumbent representative of unit employees certified under the Employer/Employee Relations Article of this Chapter, and no other employee organization files a valid petition, that incumbent certified representative shall be certified without an election, provided it produces evidence, acceptable to the Permanent Umpire, of majority representation.

(b) If the Permanent Umpire determines that a petition is properly supported and timely filed, the Permanent Umpire shall cause an election of all eligible employees to be held within a reasonable time, but no later than October 20 of that year, to determine if and by whom the employees wish to be represented, as follows:

(1) All elections shall be conducted under the supervision of the Permanent Umpire and shall be conducted by secret ballot at such time and place as the Permanent Umpire may direct. employees within the unit, and a choice that the employee does not desire to be represented by any of the named employee organization(s).

(3) The employer and each party to the election may be represented by observers selected in accordance with such limitations and conditions as the Permanent Umpire may prescribe.

(4) Observers may challenge for good cause the eligibility of any person to vote in the election. Challenged ballots shall be impounded pending either agreement of the parties as to the validity of such challenge or the Permanent Umpire's decision thereon, unless the number of challenges is not determinative, in which latter event the/CHALLENGED ballot(s) shall be destroyed.

(5) After the polls have been closed, the valid ballots cast shall be counted by the Permanent Umpire in the presence of the observers.

(6) The Permanent Umpire immediately shall prepare and serve upon the employer and each of the parties a report certifying the results of the election. If, and only if, an employee organization has received the votes of a majority of the employees who voted, the Permanent Umpire shall certify the employee organization so elected as the exclusive agent. If no employee organization has received the votes of a majority of the employees, the Permanent Umpire shall certify no representative, ~~No run-off election shall be conducted.~~ BUT IF A MAJORITY

OF THE EMPLOYEES DO NOT VOTE FOR NO REPRESENTATION, A RUN-OFF ELECTION SHALL BE CONDUCTED. THE RUN-OFF ELECTION SHALL CONTAIN THE TWO CHOICES WHICH RECEIVED THE LARGEST AND SECOND LARGEST NUMBER OF VOTES IN THE ORIGINAL ELECTION.

(c) The aforesaid certification of results shall be final unless, within seven (7) days after service of the report and certification, the employer or any other party serves on all parties and files with the Permanent Umpire objections to the election. Objections shall be verified and shall contain a concise statement of facts constituting the grounds thereof. The Permanent Umpire shall investigate the objections and, if substantial factual issues exist, the Permanent Umpire shall hold a hearing thereon. Otherwise, the Permanent Umpire may determine the matter without hearing. The Permanent Umpire may invite, either by rule or by ~~ad hoc~~ invitation, written or oral argument to assist in determination of the merits of the objections. If the Permanent Umpire finds that the election was conducted in substantial conformity with this Article, the Permanent Umpire shall CONFIRM THE ~~make final that~~ certification initially issued. If the Permanent Umpire finds that the election was not held in substantial conformity with this Article, the Permanent Umpire shall cause another election to be held pursuant to the provisions of this section.

(d) The cost of conducting an election shall be paid by the County.

(e) Voluntary recognition is prohibited under this Article, and no certification may be issued without an election except as provided for in subsection 33-79(a)(6).

ON OR BEFORE APRIL 25, THE COUNTY COUNCIL SHALL INDICATE BY A MAJORITY OF FOUR (4) VOTES, ITS INTENTION TO APPROPRIATE OR OTHERWISE IMPLEMENT THE AGREEMENT, OR ITS INTENTION NOT TO DO SO, AND SHALL STATE ITS REASONS FOR ANY INTENT TO REJECT ANY PART OR PARTS OF THE AGREEMENT. IN THE EVENT THE COUNCIL INDICATES ITS INTENTION TO REJECT, IT SHALL DESIGNATE A REPRESENTATIVE TO MEET WITH THE PARTIES AND PRESENT THE COUNCIL'S VIEWS IN THEIR FURTHER NEGOTIATIONS. THIS REPRESENTATIVE SHALL ALSO PARTICIPATE FULLY IN STATING THE COUNCIL'S POSITION IN ANY ENSUING IMPASSE PROCEDURE. THE PARTIES SHALL THEREAFTER MEET AS PROMPTLY AS POSSIBLE IN AN ATTEMPT TO NEGOTIATE AN AGREEMENT ACCEPTABLE TO THE COUNCIL. EITHER OF THE PARTIES MAY INITIATE THE IMPASSE PROCEDURE SET FORTH IN SECTION 33-81. THE RESULTS OF THE NEGOTIATION OR IMPASSE PROCEDURE SHALL BE SUBMITTED TO THE COUNCIL ON OR BEFORE MAY 10. ANY agreement shall provide either for automatic reduction or elimination of such conditional WAGE AND/OR benefits ADJUSTMENTS if the Council fails to take such action or if funds are not appropriated or if a lesser amount is appropriated.

Sec. 33-81. IMPASSE PROCEDURE.

(a) Prior to November 10 of any year in which the employer and a certified representative bargain collectively, they shall choose an Impasse Neutral either by agreement or through the processes of the American Arbitration Association. The Impasse Neutral shall be required to be available during the period from January 20 to February 1. Fees and expenses COSTS OF THE IMPASSE NEUTRAL shall be shared equally by the employer and the certified representative.

(b) (1) During the course of collective bargaining either party may declare an impasse and request the services of the Impasse Neutral. If the parties have not reached agreement by January 20, an impasse shall be deemed to exist.

(2) Whenever an impasse has been reached, the dispute shall be submitted to the Impasse Neutral. The Impasse Neutral shall attempt mediation by bringing the parties together voluntarily under such favorable auspices as will tend to effectuate the settlement of the dispute.

(3) If the Impasse Neutral, in the Impasse Neutral's sole discretion, finds that the parties are at a bona fide impasse, the Impasse Neutral shall require each party to submit a final offer which shall consist either of a complete draft of a proposed collective bargaining agreement or a complete package proposal, as the Impasse Neutral shall choose. If only complete package proposals are required the Impasse Neutral shall require the parties to jointly submit a memorandum of all items previously agreed upon.

(4) The Impasse Neutral may, in the Impasse Neutral's discretion, require the parties to submit evidence or make oral or written argument in support of their proposals. The Impasse Neutral may hold a hearing for this purpose at a time, date, and place selected by the Impasse Neutral. Said hearing shall not be open to the public.

(5) On February 1 or prior thereto, the Impasse Neutral shall select, as a whole, the most reasonable, in the Impasse Neutral's judgment, of the final offers submitted by the parties. The Impasse Neutral may take into account only the following factors:

a. Past collective bargaining contracts between the parties including the past bargaining history that led to such contracts, or the pre-collective bargaining history of employee wages, hours, benefits, and working conditions.

b. Comparison of wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of similar employees of other public employers IN THE WASHINGTON METROPOLITAN AREA AND in Maryland.

c. Comparison of wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of other employees of Montgomery County. PERSONNEL

d. Wages, benefits, hours, and other working conditions of similar employees of private employers in Montgomery County.

e. The interest and welfare of the public.

f. The ability of the employer to finance economic adjustments and the effect of the adjustments upon the normal standard of public services by the employer.

(6) The Impasse Neutral shall not compromise or alter the final offer that he selects. Selection of an offer shall be based on the contents of that offer. No consideration shall be given to, nor shall any evidence or argument be received concerning the history of collective bargaining in this immediate dispute, including offers of settlement not contained in the offers submitted to the Impasse Neutral. However, the Impasse Neutral shall consider all previously agreed upon items integrated with the specific disputed items to determine the single most reasonable offer.

(7) The offer selected by the Impasse Neutral, integrated with the previous agreed upon items, shall be deemed to represent the final agreement between the employer and the certified representative, without the necessity of ratification by the parties, and shall have the force and effect of a contract voluntarily entered into and ratified as set forth in subsection 33-80(h). above. The parties shall execute such agreement.

Sec. 33-82. PROHIBITED PRACTICES.

(a) The employer or its agents or representatives are prohibited from:

Montgomery County, Maryland

OFFICE OF
THE COUNTY ATTORNEY
MONTGOMERY COUNTY, MARYLAND

No. 74.140

Date September 13, 1974

TO: Ronald G. Lloyd, Personnel Director

FROM: Richard S. McKernon, County Attorney

OPINION: The County presently has the legislative authority to "meet and confer" with representatives of County employees, but does not have the authority to enter into binding collective bargaining agreements. The Council has authority to legislate in the field of labor relations, subject to limitations.

You have requested the opinion of this office as to whether or not the County can promulgate an administrative policy of procedure setting forth on a formalized basis policies dealing with employee labor relations. Additionally, you have inquired as to whether the County, through its legislative processes, can pass legislation in the area of employee labor relations. You have indicated that a first step in this process might be the establishment of a "meet and confer" relationship with employee group representatives; as you envision it, the specifics of such a policy would be:

1. Provision for procedures of determining exclusive meet and confer groups;

2. Provision for meeting and conferring in good faith on specific issues not in conflict with existing State and County legislation;

3. Provision for dues collection and the procedures under which such collection will be provided;

4. Provision for good faith bargaining culminating in a memorandum of understanding;

5. Provision for third party resolution of impasses; and

6. Provision for legal recourse in the event of unfair labor practices by either party.

It is the opinion of this office that the County, under its current legislative authority, can establish a "meet and confer" arrangement with representatives of County employees. However, due to the absence of State-enabling legislation, the County is prohibited from entering into binding collective bargaining agreements with such representatives.

There now exist several pieces of legislation which deal with the County's authority in the areas of employee/personnel regulations and rights. Section 5(Q) of Article 25A of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1973 Repl. Vol.) provides the general enabling legislation for the County to establish a merit system. Section 5(Q) states, inter alia, as follows:

> "To provide for the appointment and removal of all county officers except those whose appointment or election is provided for by the Constitution or public general law, and to establish a merit system, if deemed desirable, in connection with the appointment of all county officials and employees not elected or appointed under the Constitution and the public general laws . . . "

The Charter of Montgomery County, Maryland (1968), has three sections which are relevant to this opinion. Section 401 directs the County Council to prescribe by law a merit system for all officers and employees of the County government except certain appointed officials. Section 401 expressly states that "[s]alaries and wages of all classified employees in the merit system shall be determined pursuant to a uniform salary plan." Section 402 indicates that the Chief Administrative Officer, under the direction of the County Executive, has the responsibility for the administration of the County's merit system. Section 404 authorizes the County Personnel Board to adopt regulations, subject to the approval of the County Council, covering all positions of the merit system and, specifically, establishing minimum qualifications for such positions, methods of determining such qualifications, methods of selection for such positions, probationary periods, promotions, transfers, causes for removal and methods of removal, including demotions, furloughs, and reduction of staff, annual, sick and other leave, prohibitions against political activity, maintenance of personnel records, and "similar personnel matters." Section 404 also authorizes the Personnel Board to prepare and recommend to the Council a system of retirement pay.

Section 33-5(1) of the Montgomery County Code 1972, as amended, sets forth the general purposes and definition of the County's merit system. Section 33-5(1) states, in part, as follows:

> "The general purpose of this chapter is to establish regulations not in conflict with the Charter of Montgomery County to implement a system of personnel administration that meets the social, economic, and program needs of the people of Montgomery County based upon merit principles and facilitates the organizational and program objectives of the county government. These regulations provide for the appointment, advancement and retention of employees on the basis of merit and fitness to be ascertained in most cases by competitive examination without regard to sex, marital status, race, religion, national origin, or political affiliation."

Article 25A of the State Code, the County Charter, and Chapter 33 of the County Code constitute the complete set of legislative enactments vesting discretionary authority in various officials of Montgomery County in the areas of personnel and employee matters. These enactments give the County's full discretionary authority over employee issues to the County Executive, the County Council or the Personnel Board of Montgomery County, in their distinct, but complementary, roles. The leading case in Maryland on the issue of a municipal corporation's right to enter into collective bargaining agreements with its employees is Mugford v. City of Baltimore, 185 Md. 266 (1945). In the Mugford case, the City of Baltimore had entered into a collective bargaining agreement with a local union representing Department of Public Works' employees. Taxpayers of the City of Baltimore sued the City, alleging that the agreement was null and void and beyond the authority of the City to execute. The lower court had declared that the agreement was null and void because it gave preferential advantages to some employees over other public employees of the City. The lower court also held that the collection of union dues through the City's payroll system could be accomplished if done on a purely voluntary basis, terminable at any time at the discretion of the employee. Neither the union nor the City appealed the part of the lower court's decision which declared the collective bargaining agreement ultra vires, and the only issue before the Court of Appeals of Maryland was the lower court's decision regarding the union dues checkoff. However, the Court of Appeals indicated that it would have agreed with the lower court had the issue of the validity of the collective bargaining agreement been before it. The Court of Appeals stated the following, at pages 270 and 271:

> "To the extent that they [hours, wages and working conditions of employees] are left to the discretion of any City department or agency, the City authorities cannot delegate or abdicate their continuing discretion. Any exercise of such discretion by the establishment of hours, wages or working conditions is at all times subject to change or revocation in the exercise of the same discretion . . .
> The City has no right under the law to delegate its governing power to any agency. The power of the City is prescribed in its charter, and the City Charter constitutes the measure of power that is possessed by any of its officials. To delegate such power to an independent agency would be a serious violation of the law."

In a recent opinion dated July 23, 1974, (The Daily Record, August 6, 1974, Page 4), the Attorney General of Maryland reviewed the legal status of the Memorandum of Understanding entered into between the Baltimore City Police Commissioner and the local union group representing certain police officers. After a discussion of the Mugford case, the Attorney General concludes that "[a]ccordingly, we are compelled to conclude that the Memorandum of Understanding cannot be considered a binding commitment insofar as it touches any power or authority vested in the Police Commissioner by the Omnibus Act . . .

The Police Commissioner may delegate supervisory duties but cannot irrevocably divest himself or be divested of any management function or prerogative. To the extent that the Memorandum of Understanding purports to bind the Police Commissioner, it must be considered ineffective as an abridgement of his statutory powers." In the last paragraph of his opinion, the Attorney General appears to take the position that the only way such binding collective bargaining authority could be vested in any municipality or municipal official would be through State enabling legislation from the Maryland General Assembly, which the Attorney General notes has only been given with respect to representation of public school employees under Chapter 14 1/2 of Article 77 of the Annotated Code of Maryland.

Although the Mugford decision, the above-cited Attorney General Opinion and the lack of enabling legislation from the General Assembly would at this time preclude the County from entering into binding collective bargaining agreements with County employee representatives, it is the opinion of this office that non-binding "meet and confer" discussions with employee representatives would be permissable under the current status of the law. This "meet and confer" authority is recognized in both the Mugford decision and the Attorney General's Opinion, conditioned upon the fact that no binding agreement would be entered into between the parties. The Court of Appeals in Mugford, supra, stated that although the City authorities could not delegate or abdicate their continuing discretionary functions, "it by no means follows that employees may not designate a representative or spokesman to present grievances." 185 Md. at 270. In the same vein, the Attorney General indicated that "[c]oupled with our advice that the Police Commissioner was not empowered to enter into a collective bargaining agreement with a labor union, we said that he was authorized to discuss terms and conditions of employment with a union representing members of the Police Department provided that he did not enter into a binding agreement."

It is the opinion of this office that the County currently has the authority to promulgate an administrative policy or procedure setting forth on a formalized basis policies dealing with labor relations, provided that they conform to the principles set forth in the Mugford case and the Attorney General's Opinion cited above. If it is determined that the County would prefer to establish such policies and procedure through the format of legislation rather than administrative policy or procedure, then it is the opinion of this office that the County does have the authority to enact a local law to this effect. Although Section 5(Q) of Article 25A of the Annotated Code of Maryland speaks only of the establishment of a merit system, it is our opinion that the County's broad police powers, recited in Section 5(S) of Article 25A and reaffirmed in the recent Court of Appeals' case of County Council v. Investors Funding, 270 Md. 403 (1973), gives the County this authority as enactment of a law "deemed expedient in maintaining the . . . good government . . . of the county." It is our view that such an enactment should be placed as a new chapter in the Montgomery County Code because the scope of Chapter 33, title "Personnel," of the Code is limited to provisions dealing with the County's merit system and individual employee rights and grievances, as opposed to employee group concerns and rights. Needless to say, any such legislation would necessarily have to conform to the principles set forth in the Mugford decision and the above-referenced Attorney General's Opinion.

In the beginning of this opinion, we recited six specifics which you indicated might constitute the "meet and confer" arrangement envisioned as an initial step to a County labor relations program. The first of these specifics is provision for procedures for determining exclusive meet and confer groups. Since the opinion of this office is that the County cannot now enter into binding collective bargaining agreements, it would appear that the need to establish and recognize exclusive bargaining groups is not pressing at this time. If the County were obligated to negotiate and agree with representatives of County employees, then the importance of negotiating a limited number of contracts with a limited number of groups would be apparent. However, this is not the case in a meet and confer group program. It is also the opinion of this office that the impetus for establishing exclusive bargaining units should come from the employees, rather than the management of the County, if the private business sector is to be looked to for examples of this process.

The second specific which you relate is the provision for meeting and conferring in good faith on specific issues not in conflict with existing State and County legislation. This office has several problems with this item. The first is that the provision for bargaining in "good faith" creates a presumption that the County would bargain otherwise. In addition, if either side failed to bargain in "good faith", there would be no sanctions to force correction of such behavior in a meet and confer arrangement, so that the inclusion of the "good faith" language would serve no purpose. However, if the designation of specific issues is desired, then it should be clearly stated that the issues specified could be enlarged or curtailed at the discretion of the County and that any discussions surrounding such issues would be purely for the purpose of non-binding deliberations.

The third specific related by you would be the provision for dues collection and the procedures under which such collection would be provided. It appears from Mugford, supra, that such dues checkoff provisions would not be inconsistent with the principles of merit system government and the discretionary powers of County officials. However, the Mugford Court conditioned use of this procedure on its permissibility under the general regulations applicable to the City of Baltimore's payroll system and on the voluntary request of the employee for this deduction. In addition, the Court indicated that the withdrawal of employee permission for dues deduction would have to be completely discretionary with the individual employee. See also Rockville v. Randolph, 267 Md. 56, 62-63 (1972).

The fourth, fifth, and sixth specifics mentioned in your memorandum to us concern the provision of good faith bargaining culminating in a memorandum of understanding, provision for third party resolution of impasses, and provision for legal recourse in the event of unfair labor practices by either party. It is the opinion of this office that all three of these items are outside the scope of the "meet and confer" system proposed at this time, as well as being in derogation of the principles established by the Mugford case. It is our understanding that, unlike the collective bargaining process, the meet and confer system contemplates non-binding discussions between parties unequal in bargaining power. A memorandum of understanding agreed to through the process of non-binding discussions would be permissible under the meet and confer system, however, so long as the memorandum of understanding did not purport to be a binding commitment on the County in areas (such as hours, wages, or working conditions) which are by law discretionary with County officials. However, the third party resolution of impasses and provision for legal recourse in the event of unfair labor practices are two specifics which could not be provided for in a meet and confer system memorandum of understanding in that they would constitute a unlawful delegation of authority under the Mugford decision, since the only purpose of such provisions would be if they were binding in nature on the parties.

P R O C E E D I N G S

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Ladies and gentlemen, I think we will begin. This is a public forum sponsored by the Montgomery County Charter Review Commission about Questions E and F that willbe before the voters in NOvember.

My name is Bruce Adams. I am the Chairman of the Commission.

The purpose of the forum is to begin and try to add to a public dialogue on these questions that were petitioned to the ballot through the State constitutional provision of citizen initiative. We have tried to -- We have invited the sponsors of the two proposed charter amendments and we have also invited representatives of the County Government who are knowledgeable about these issues to participate in this forum.

In addition, several people have signed up to testify after our invited guests and they will be given that opportunity. If anyone else is in the room who would like to sign up I suggest they talk to Justina Ferber on my far left who is our administrative assistant.

I have received a call or so from people who can't be here tonight who would like to submit something for the record and, of course, we will keep the record open for several days to do that.

The Charter Review Commission was established in June of 1979 pursuant to a Charter Amendment that was approv several years ago. Our main function is to study charter issues and recommend ballot questions to the County Council. We held public hearings and had considerable deliberations and proposed four charter amendments in a report that we issued to the Council in May of this year. Those four amendments have been approved by the Council and will be on the ballot as Questions A through D, hence, the lettering, E through F, of these two amendments.

We will begin tonight with Question F which is a proposal to establish collective bargaining with binding arbitration for the police and to prohibit police strikes. So, I would like to call on two witnesses from the Fraternal Order of Police to take about ten minutes or so, if they would, to summarize their proposal and make known to us their reasons for making the proposals. Then we will proceed to questions after that.

If you could just state your name for the record and your association with the F.O.P., please.

MR. KATZ: I am Allen Katz. I am an attorney in Gaithersburg and I represent the Fraternal Order of Police along with Richard Svertesky. I am associated with the group that is interesteded in Question F. I think the official name of that group is Citizens for Effective Law Enforcement. They have registered with the Supervisor of Elections.

MR. SVERTESKY: My name is Richard Svertesky. I am a police officer assigned to the Bethesda District. For the past three years I have been chairman of the committee which represents police officer and meets with the county under the Meet and Confer legislation.

Montgomery County Police Officers are sponsoring Question F in the November election. Question F, if passed, will mandate the Montgomery County Council to enact legislation to allow for an orderly process of negotiations with the police on issues which affect each officer's safety, welfare and career.

In addition to authorizing negotations, Question F prohibits police officers from engaging in a strike or any type of work stoppage.

Montgomery County is the only large county in the state which does not authorize collective bargaining for police officers. We believe the time has come for our elected officials to recognize the individual and collective rights of the public sector employees and establish a formal mechanism for employee representation and negotiation on issues affecting working conditions, benefits and salaries.

Nothing short of collective bargaining is sufficient in providing and opportunity for meaningful discussions between employer and employee in the absence of formal labor relations procedures, fraternalism or beneign neglect results, both of which are resented by professional police officers.

The Meet and Confer type procedure which was enacted in 1978, has proven to an unworkable process. Instead of facilitating employee organizations in organzing and representing county workers, the Meet and Confer Employee Relations Act has erected barriers which prevent representation. Further, Meet and Confer provides no impartial review plan regardless of the facts and merits of the issue. The individual making the rules also enforces them. When a dispute arises that usually leads to polarization where there is no commitment or compulsion to get things resolved. Meet and Confer is not negotiations, rather it is simply a meeting to discuss problems and issues which employees or management may raise.

This type of arrangement fails. After the issues are raised there is no process for resolving them. The result is that Meet and Confer goes no further than allowing for problems to be identified and articulated.

The unwillingness on the part of our elected officials to go further than this initial step adds frustration and alienation to an already existing problem.

Meet and Confer type labor relations is nothing more than an employee suggestion box with the anonymity removed.

A genuine interest in commitment to good labor relations starts with the idea an employee is a valuable resource who can help decision makers and elected officials operate the government more effectively. Who better knows the problems in providing services than those who actually provide them.

This commitment can only be carried out by providing a formal structure to establish meaningful dialogues between employer and employee with both sides compelled to discuss and negotiate problems in good faith and willingness to seek resolution. We envision this formal structure to include procedures to authorize officers to organize and be represented by the organization of their choice and to negotiate with the employer working conditions, benefits such as disability leave and hospitalization and the results of these negotiations to be reduced to writing and held binding on both parties.

Further, unfair labor practices should be defined for both management and the employee organization. And, most importantly, a procedure must be devised to handle disputes and impasses quickly, fairly and impartially. Nearly all experts in labor relations point to the necessity of having a formal and impartial procedure for settling disputes as being the key to successful management/labor relations.

If government fails to provide an impartial equitable method of resolving disputes the employees are left with two alternatives. First, they could give in and accept management's view which is very unlikely since impasses usually occur over issues being critical by employees. Second, employees could engage in a strike until management is willing to resume negotiations. In both situations the public suffers, either through lower performance by disgruntled, frustrated employees or by the temporary cessation of the essential public services. These situations can and must be avoided.

As professionals, we, more than most, realize how critical police protection and service really are for the citizens of this county.

We propose the following procedure for the resolution of impasses. First, strike and work stoppages by police officers should be explicitly prohibited and this ban be strictly enforced. Second, all disputes arising out of the employees right to organize or involving a dually elected organization's right to represent employees for bargaining purposes or dispute involving recognition as the bargaining agent or involving the implementation or interpretation of any of the provisions of an agreement be resolved through the use of a neutral arbitrator selected jointly by county officials and the employee representative with the power to make a final binding decision on the dispute.

Third, impasses reached as a result of an interest dispute such as salaries, cost of living adjustments, et cetera, should be resolved by a neutral fact finder, who, after reviewing the merits of the case, will make recommendations to both parties for voluntary consideration and acceptance. The recommendations may also be a matter of public record.

What we have outlined above is a contemporary framework for management/labor relations in the public sector. The foundation of this framework is the consideration of characteristics distinctive to public sector employment; namely, the strike ban, the reliance on impartial third parties to peacefully settle disputes and consideration of the proper role of public opinion in politics.

The desire of employees to have a voice in discussing working conditions which affect our whole lives is a desire which will only become stronger in the future years. Question F represents an opportunity for county voters and elected officials to say yes, we recognize the need of police officers to have a meaningful dialogue with management officials and we also recognize the need for the formal procedures to insure the dialogue does not break down.

Question F mandate is not a equality of actual bargaining power but procedural equality through impartiality. Question F will enable us here in Montgomery County to become a progressive jurisdiction in the field of public employee relations by establishing a realistic and viable balance between the public interest and the interest of public employees.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Thank you very much.

Mr. Katz, do you want to add anything to that?

MR. KATZ: No. Only that we have read -- perhaps two of the very few -- who have read the suggestions and recommendations of the Charter Review Commission had in its pamphlet and in its report and I might point out that none of them have been implemented. In fact, none of them are being discussed that we know of. Of course, your recommendations were to bolster essentially Meet and Confer and then at some point get a dialogue going as to whether collective bargaining should come along down the road somewhere.

I think it is fair to say that by the actionsof the county at least that this is certainly a back burner issue and no movement has been made toward it. Unfortunately, in a way, the only way that the police or any employee group has of getting this sort of question, that being collective bargaining, to move along faster is to go on the public referendum. And, there isn't the time for the type of detail and thorough discussions in public at any rate that you have had on the first four of the charter suggestions or the propositions.

Our group or the group of the current police are people that would be involved with this. I know when we spoke previously and when this idea I believe came up that the Charter Review Commission at least talk to us and others and begin what you call the dialogue, the real question that I believe was bothering me, Mr. Chairman, if not others, was this question of binding arbitration. While it is true that the language of the charter change would involve some binding arbitration, our group is certainly interested in going on record now, and I believe we can speak for the police, when we say binding arbitration would not be on issues such as salaries, cost of living adjustments and things of that sort but the fact finding would be our suggestion with regard to that who would review the merits, and as Rich Svertesky said, make recommendations to both parties for voluntary consideration and acceptance.

These, of course, would be a matter of public record which is not what we have now in any sense under Meet and Confer.

The other major point I think is important to discuss is that under collective bargaining an agreement would result instead of the non-binding position papers that currently result. While it is a nice idea to say that Meet and Confer process should be beefed up, no matter what you do to it, in order to make it remain a Meet and Confer process you are not going to come up with a binding agreement because once you do that you are in another area. You are in the collective bargaining area whether you wish to call it that or not.

The other things is that unfortunately in this area of Meet and Confer or union rights or employee rights there are catch phrases that apparently both people a great deal. The Fraternal Order of Police, for example, is not a union, but it is an employee organization and wishes to remain the same and nationally has rules against strikes and work stoppages. The police, I think more than most, realize that it is just not the best way to go about obtaining proper employee benefits. However, as a trade off to the traditional strike or work stoppage, we have drafted this legislation in order to resolve any impasse that might develop.

For those reasons Question F has been petitioned to the referendum.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: I appreciate that and I appreciate your statements.

Let me try to get your views on this binding arbitration question which, I think, many feel is the most significant aspect of the proposal. The proposal reads in part: "Montgomery County Council shall provide by law for collective bargaining with binding arbitration with an authorized representative of the Montgomery County Police Officers." How is it that you square that language with the notion that it doesn't mean binding arbitration for salaries and cost of living and the like? How can the County Council read that and understand that it means collective bargaining as far as you say it means here tonight? It seems rather clear just on the face of it and I am a bit perplexed by it.

MR. SVERTESKY: I think somewhere between the initial drafting and the fact that we had to go back about three or four weeks into the process, based on a County Attorney's opinion, to redraft the entire petition and start from zero again in terms of signatures, somewhere along the line I think the distinction between our intent or recommending binding arbitration on non-interest dispute issues was lost. We have, on the public record, communicated our intent that we do not advocate binding any interest arbitration. We will do so, assuming it passes in November, to the Council in subsequent work sessions on creation of this entire mechanism to carry out the referendum issue.

MR. KATZ: And are happy to go about it now. We will certainly go on record for the Council and the County Executive now that that is exactly what we are asking.

The language squares also because there will be binding arbitration on certain disputes, but on interest disputes certainly fact finding would be sufficient.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: I think the problem is, of course, the amendment as drawn doesn't make the distinction between interest disputes and others. And, under your approach that, gee, this doesn't mean binding arbitration on everything, one could say, well, the County Council passed a collective bargaining law with binding arbitration on lunch hours and that would meet sort of the test it is up to the County Council.

I guess the concern I have is, as someone who is trying to look at the charter not this November 5th, but through time, is that I think that the position -- personally I think that the position you all are taking is a reasonable one but it is not at all clear that you all will be the officers or the leading spokespeople for the group or even that the FOP will be the agent as things work out through the authorized representative, as things work out through time. So, the county is left with the dilemma of having this language which states very clearly "collective bargaining with binding arbitration" and some future group could come in and say, to sue the County Council or something, because the binding arbitration didn't include the interest.

MR. KATZ: I think in any kind of court action the judge has to go back to the intent of the drafters. When you have public statement on top of public statement that says what we recommend and what we meant to say in our position was not binding interest arbitration, you know, I think the suit would be frivilous.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: I apprecaite that but unfortunately there is a legal document and if the language is clear you don't look at the intent. It is not absolutely clear what will happen.

Are there others that --

MR. SVERTESKY: I don't know that it is crystal clear that it must be binding arbitration on all possible issues. I would say quite the opposite.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Are there others?

MR. BANKSON: You would concede this is unclear?

MR. SVERTESKY: I would say it is ambiguous, yes.

MR. BANKSON: I would like to understand how this happened. You had an initial draft which made it clear the distinction between fact finding and binding arbitration and that fell out somewhere along the line? What was the County Attorney's opinion?

MR. KATZ: The original drafters of the petition were given to understand it was their purpose to summarize via the petition what was to go on the ballot and the actual language, the actual meaning of the language would be drafted by the County Council. Actually, what happens is exactly the opposite and because of this foul up that was the reason we went before the County Council later and asked them to place on the ballot a collective bargaining question without recommending or hopefully without recommending against it.

But, in any event, they weren't of a mind to do that. There was a very short time to act and the language that was drafted is what you see but, by the same token, the language is such that it has to have a reasonable interpretation. And, we submit that a reasonable interpretation is just that, binding arbitration on non-interest disputes.

MR. BANKSON: I understood Officer Svertesky's testimony to be that it had been drafted with this in it at some point and there was a change which was brought about by the County Attorney's Office.

MR. KATZ: The original drafting was such that it would be fair to call it a summary of what was attempting to be done.

MR. BANKSON: And it wasn't in charter provision language?

MR. KATZ: That is correct.

MR. BANKSON: But it did mention fact finding for interest type issues?

MR. KATZ: No, it didn't. I think under the original language it is certainly much easier to see this sort of thing. It wouldn't have been binding arbitration across the board as some people have interpreted what we have before us now.

MR. BANKSON: I don't think we are talking about what it could be. I think we are taking about what it could be based on this clear language and the legal doctrine that if the language is explicit you don't look at the legislative history or intent of the drafters because that would not be anything the voters would look at in adopting the amendment.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Are there any others? Bill Chen.

MR. CHEN: Allen, did you get an opinion from the County Attorney that said that the language here is adequate for guiding the County Council in preparing legislation to comply with the proposed charter amendment?

MR. KATZ: I didn't get an official opinion, no. I am not aware of an official opinion from the County Attorney's office.

MR. CHEN: Well, how does the County Council -- Suppose you had a situation with a police officer who said, okay, we now have got this charter that has been adopted by the voters of Montgomery County and we want a collective bargaining statute with binding arbitration and you prepare something and you have a Council member introduce it and then the library workers decide to have one and the Council says we are going to give to the police officers but not the library workers. Do you think that is possible under this charter amendment?

MR. KATZ: Yes, it is. It says police specifically.

MR. CHEN: No. It says to prohibit strikes or work stoppages by police officers. That is what it says. Are you saying this is adequate to say that it only applies to police officers?

MR. KATZ: Yes.

MR. CHEN: What happens when every other county employee of a different department who decides that now the police officers have got their collective bargaining why can't we have it or we have got rights that because we are public workers that are just as important as police officers and we work on snow days and have many of the same problems that police officers have and the county has an obligation to treat us the same way as they treat the police officers. Don't you think the same arguments that justify this type of a charter amendment for police officers are also applicable to other county employees?

MR. SVERTESKY: Certainly.

MR. KATZ: And that is the Council's decision and if that is what they would like, otherwise, if somewhere down the road if they don't want to do that then the other employees can petition for the same sort of referendum.

MR. BANKSON: What happens to the situation that may then obtain where the cases say, and I have heard of cases, that you have got to have a charter amendment and the charter amendment -- or state legislation -- and the charter amendment of Montgomery County permits it as to police officers but does not permit it as to other local public employees in Montgomery County? What happens in that situation?

MR. SVERTESKY: Well, you have got a situation now in the Meet and Confer, for example, for the last three years the Police Department has been the only employee group represented in Meet and Confer. The rest of the employees are not represented. Now, if they want to be represented they have to comply with the Meet and Confer Employee/ Employer Relations Act which is the process for representation and certification.

MR. DALRYMPLE: The mechanisms are there for them if they chose to do it?

MR. SVERTESKY: That is right.

MR. KATZ: Are you saying is there a due process question? Is that what you are trying to get at?

MR. CHEN: I think you are saying it is discriminatory as written, aren't you?

MR. DALRYMPLE: I think there is a lot of problems with that.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: I don't know that there is a legal discrimination. There is a public policy question of whether the voters of Montgomery County want to pass an amendment that simply sets it up for police or not. One might argue it might be better if this were generic kind of proposal but it is not.

Mr. Dalrymple?

MR. DALRYMPLE: As written there is no maximum or minimum as to what can be included in collective bargaining as written, isn't that right?

MR. SVERTESKY: Maximum or mininum --

MR. DALRYMPLE: Of any event, of any function of the department. You said it wasn't your intention to include interest disputes but you don't get that out of reading this. What is to stop -- Suppose this went through and was approved. What is to stop the County Council from passing a law that provides for collective bargaining, to reach the absurbed, to determine whether the day after Christmas or the day after Thanksgiving was going to be a holiday, and that is the only thing that allowed collective bargaining --

MR. SVERTESKY: That is an unreasonable interpretation of the intent here.

MR. DALRYMPLE: Well, I think it gets back to what several people have said, that this is clear, they shall pass a law for collective bargaining. But it doesn't say for what or not for what.

MR. KATZ: Now there is no question that all of the issues that came up would be under the purview of collective bargaining. In other words, bargaining towards an agreement, the two sides that bargain. As we know it now it is a public sector and, of course, it is not under the NLRA. However, I think the problem people are talking about is this question of binding arbitration. At what point does that have to be employed. If you try to oversimplify, obviously, the thing becomes so unreasonable that we have one of those clear cases where everybody could say it is arbitrary.

It is our position that if the Council then adopts reasonable language, certainly the type of language we are proposing here, then there would be no challenge by our group and our group represents not only members of the Fraternal Order of Police, the largest police organization, but also members of other police organizations.

MR. DALRYMPLE: But anyone who is inclined to vote for this with the assurance the collective bargaining would not be applicable to the interest issues --

MR. KATZ: Binding arbitration only.

MR. DALRYMPLE: I understand, okay.

MR. SVERTESKY: Collective bargaining would be applicable to all issues.

MR. DALRYMPLE: All right. The arbitration would not be. Anyone who wanted that assurance would not have that assurance on this amendment any more than you have the assurance that they may only make one silly little issue subject to binding arbitration.

MR. SVERTESKY: I would think that arbitration issues would be taken as class type provisions, not specific issues.

MR. DALRYMPLE: Well, don't you have to define that in the enabling legislation? I think that is the whole point here.

MR. SVERTESKY: Obviously you have a County Attorney When this language was revised felt that this language here was adequate even assuming we are talking about binding arbitration across the board.

MR. DALRYMPLE: He would have to, I think.

MR. SVERTESKY: I think if you have collective bargaining and there are certain types of disputes subject to binding arbitration, then you enacted a law that is consistent with this referendum question.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Let me ask Mr. Dalrymple's question in a slightly different way. Are you saying that this does not authorize binding arbitration on interest issues?

MR. SVERTESKY: No. I am saying it could be interpreted that way. It could be interpreted as collective bargaining with binding -- And that is where the ambiguity exists.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Let me state my understanding of this and see if you all agree. This authorizes collective bargaining with binding arbitration for every imaginable issue. You are saying that if the County Council were to enact an ordnance that had collective bargaining with binding arbitration for certain class of issues but did not include binding arbitration for salaries, cost of living and what you call interest issues, that that would be an acceptable ordnance. Or if they were to pass collective bargaining with binding arbitration for everything that would also be acceptable.

MR. SVERTESKY: Let me say this. In addition to the former being acceptable, that would be exactly our intent.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: That would be what you would want.

MR. SVERTESKY: That would be our intent.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: It would also be a reasonable interpretation that they are now authorized to have collective bargaining with binding arbitration on the interest issues.

MR. KATZ: That is just the point. This doesn't give all the specifics in any event. It is up to the Council to write this and the Council, if, in its wisdom, decides to go with binding arbitration across the board, then that is what they are going to do and I don't think we can challenge that. However, if they wish to have it so that -- apparently there is a great amount of unrest with regard to binding arbitration on interest disputes -- We are saying it certainly would be reasonable to have binding arbitration on the non-interest disputes.

MR. DALRYMPLE: What if it said may provide instead of shall provide? Then your legislation -- I don't think you really get the nitty gritty in the charter but you get it in the legislation.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: The problem is I think they want shall provide collective bargaining.

MR. SVERTESKY: And shall provide binding arbitration on the following issues.

MR. DALRYMPLE: When you do this --

MR. SVERTESKY: Collective bargaining in itself we didn't feel is sufficient enough because there again -- You know, the key to any kind of labor relations is how do you resolve disputes. We believe that the fairest way in certain issues to through arbitration. That is why we inserted that. "It shall be collective bargaining with binding arbitration on certain disputes."

MR. DALRYMPLE: I don't necessarily disagree with that. I guess my point is I am not sure this --

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: If you had the opportunity obviously you would write a few extra words in there.

MR. SVERTESKY: What we would put there would be collective bargaining with binding arbitration on the following types of disputes with a representative of County police officers. I think that would be --

MS. BOERGERS: My question may have been touched on partially by both of you but I would like you to clarify it for everybody else. According to our report, we recommended that the Meet and Confer process be improved and that a mediation and fact finding process be added in order to have a mechanism for impasse resolution that is not evident in the current Meet and Confer legislation. Can you just explain why that is not sufficient going beyond the fact that you are not seeing any movement and you are not seeing any of that happening. If that could happen, what would be the problem with that?

MR. SVERTESKY: That is like putting Corinthian leather seats in an old VW, you know. You have got two -- It is two distinct systems, two distinct processes in labor relations, Meet and Confer, and then you go into collective bargaining. You can't kind of beef up Meet and Confer because when you do beef it up in the key areas where it needs to be beefed up it is no longer Meet and Confer. It is a totally different process. And, you can add on mediation, you can add on arbitration, you know, various permeatations of arbitration/conciliation/mediation and you are still left with the fact that you are not negotiating to begin with.

What will inevitably happen under Meet and Confer is that you will sit there and you will have two monologues and at the end of the monologues you would go to mediation and that is where the real negotiations will be conducted as opposed to sitting down and negotiating at the table and when those issues -- If there is a dispute after negotiations, then you go to mediation. But, with Meet and Confer you have nothing. You might as well simply go to Meet and Confer from the beginning.

MR. KATZ: The end product of Meet and Confer are position papers and under the current Montgomery County law they are non-binding position papers and they say that in each of the position papers. There can be separate position papers where you disagree on some points or they can be joint position papers where you agree and you both sign off together. In any event, even in the joint position papers -- it has been written in the two that has been developed between the Fraternal Order of Police and the County that they are non-binding, period, and they spell out why or where they are non-binding and we cite the law that makes them non-binding.

If you go to some other system whereby there is an agreement, which is what, of course, the police want, -- Call it what you will. It is not Meet and Confer. It really is collective bargaining and collective bargaining is just not that much of -- That is the idea of collective bargaining, two groups that sit down and negotiate and come out eventually with an agreement.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: The problem I have with this is it seems to me that the proposal that we made, while obviously not saying we are for collective bargaining, but by talking about a mediation process and an impasse process and calling for a neutral fact finder is very close to what it is you are describing. I can tell you if I were the personnel director and I knew at the end of the process there was an independent fact finder was going to come in and look at all of this and issue a report, I would negotiate very seriously.

MR. SVERTESKY: You wouldn't negotiate because you couldn't negotiate. All you could so was meet and confer.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: To me that sound symantical.

MR. SVERTESKY: It is not symantical and I think that you would have to sit, as we did for the last three years in these sessions, to really get a feel of what is going on and I think it is very difficult to sit and say to you that there is a very clear distinction between meeting and conferring and negotiations. You know, a lot of it is done with, you know, power whether it is actual perceived leverage from both sides, give and take on propositions, things like that. You have none of that in Meet and Confer. You have simply two individuals who are sitting down and hoping to develop a dialogue and where they agree, fine, and where they don't, all right, end of process.

MS. BOERGERS: Except that the mediation and fact finding is part of the play then you can go to that extra route.

MR. SVERTESKY: As I said earlier, you know, when you go into Meet and Confer knowing what it is, you are not going to get anything developed substantively until you go to mediation. You are just going to be sitting there preparing for mediation.

MS. BOERGERS: Well, is that necessarily a bad thing?

MR. SVERTESKY: Well, it is because any time you have to -- You know, the parties should sit down and bilatera agree upon conditions of employment or whatever the issue happens to be. That is the --

MS. BOERGERS: That is kind of the ideal world.

MR. SVERTESKY: That is the goal of it. You have to come back and face these people every year.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: But if I am the County Executive or his or her representative, I just don't want to get into a situation where a fact finder comes in and says, you were terrible in this process or you didn't pay any attention --

MR. SVERTESKY: They are not going to say that.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Well, if they don't negotiate, if they don't come to some agreements and concede some points it seems to me that the fact finder ought to --

MR. KATZ: Say they do that. Say they come in and say, this is horrible, you haven't done anything. These people are entitled to thus and so and the County Executive says he is right, I am going to make other arrangements and then he comes up with a non-binding position paper. What is to prevent him from changing his mind in three months.

You know, now that I think about it again, I was right before. I think I will just leave the conditions the way they were before. This is a non-binding paper. It says so right there. It is not legally binding. So there is no agreement and that is what Meet and Confer is about.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: I guess my sense is that you underestimate the power that you would have, say, to use a report by this independent fact finder. I would think that the press and opinion leaders in the county would take something like that very seriously. Maybe you all don't agree.

MR. SVERTESKY: No. I don't necessarily agree that there is going to be a public outcry over a fact finder's independent judgment on a particular issue.

MS. BOERGERS: Can I argue the other side of that question for a minute? I guess we could look at some of the court opinions in regard to Larry Hogan's negotiations with the county employees to see how far they got with a court of law saying that he violated collective bargaining processes and where the county employees got in that court of law versus an independent fact finder. They didn't get very far with that. Perhaps, you know, maybe they are right, that while it might add something it wouldn't add sufficiently.

MR. SVERTESKY: And plus the whole key here in November is that nothing is binding to begin with.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: I recognize that point. Are there other questions.

I would like to ask in this system you have other charter provisions, existing charter provisions, that provide for merit system for all county employees and then you have this system which says the police may collectively bargain with binding arbitration. Isn't that a little bit like havin, belt and suspenders. I mean what would you be willing to -- Do you really feel you need both systems. Do you really want to negotiate from a series of guarantees that you already have? What of those guarantees might you be willing to bargain away to get other kinds of benefits?

MR. KATZ: Do you want us to state that in public?

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Just give us an example.

MR. SVERTESKY: I think there are merit principles and there is the civil service system. And, I think a lot of people get confused between a merit principle and a civil service system and it comes out as kind of a merit system. You know, there are merit principles and they are well defined in the scope of bargaining in every collective bargaining agreement and legislation that we see in the country and there is probably as many as 40 states that permit public safety employees to bargain collectively.

But, those type of things where you have certain merit principles, they are totally beyond the scope of bargaining. They are outside the scope of bargaining. And, that has to do with hiring and firing and discipline and promotional processes and things like that. Where you get involved in some of the other grey areas is what has traditionally come under the civil service system such as the number of holidays and things. That is not a merit principle.

MR. KATZ: We understand you when you talk about merit principle to talk in terms of, I guess, historically Jackson's time, the reason that a merit system came about in any event. The mere fact that another party gets in won't sweep out all the current civil servants which I have been told happened a long time ago.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: I guess what I am wondering though is if you get in a situation where you have a series of non-negotiable merit principles, hiring and firing, you are then asking for a system to bargain on top of those benefits and that sort of gives you a double protection that I would worry about also. Wouldn't you have to rewrite the merit system clause and regulations to attempt to marry them with the existence of collective bargaining or are you saying you basically want both?

MR. SVERTESKY: I think there is no doubt that if you were to bring a full fledged collective bargaining system into this county, there would have to be some fairly significant revisions to the personnel regulations; whether you want to talk about superimposing them or you want to talk about rethinking the role of the personnel board and the provisions of the powers of the CAO and other things, it would be for the Council's consideration. But, I think that at this point you can install this collective bargaining system into the county regulations with some minor changes to the personnel regulations.

MS. BOERGERS: The part of the merit system I am concerned with is the part that is written into the charter. Assuming Question A passes some of the detail of the merit system will be taken out of the charter. We can't automatically assume that. Question A could fail and Question F could pass and we would be bound with some pretty detailed descriptions of what the merit system will cover. Even if Question A passes and some of those details are taken out, we will still have as part of our charter the Uniform Salary Plan and I am very concerned about the fact that while you are talking about collective bargaining for the police officers, once you negotiate a particular salary plan that then must be turned over to the whole of the county employees.

MR. SVERTESKY: That is probably a real central problem when you start talking about collective bargaining and it was probably one of the most frustrating things for us to sit in Meet and Confer and discuss salaries when we are representing 650 police officers knowing that the county's retort was, wait a minute, you know that half of percent means X number of millions of dollars because we have to give it to everybody. It was a very frustrating experience needless to say because we suddenly took on the task of representing 6000 Montgomery County employees.

What could be an interpretation of a uniform pay plan to be kind of an umbrella effect as opposed to a list of Grade One through Grade 40 that would be totally consistent and would marry collective bargaining with that concept of a uniform -- In other words, a uniform plan, but it is not one plan where you have to plug everybody in regardless of the diversity of their task or jobs with the county with some grade letter. I think you can have --

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Let me ask you this though. If what you got your collective bargaining was a 10% pay increase -

MR. KATZ: Are you talking about cost of living increase?

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Well, let's say cost of living is eight or something and you negotiated a 10% increase, wouldn't that affect every employee under the Uniform Salary Plan?

MR. SVERTESKY: The way the Uniform Salary Plan is interpreted now it would have to go across the board.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: That is the point. The notion of a different grade --

MR. KATZ: However, let me submit, if the cost of living raise was merely, for example, $2500 per person that would also be uniform. That may weigh more heavily for the median policeman as opposed to a median librarian. That would be unform. The Uniform Pay Plan as such it is just a matrix. If you are a Grade 14 you might be between this area and this area. You are paid at Grade 14 level only because that is the amount of money you are making.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Are there further questions.

MR. CHEN: I apologize but I have had a little bit of experience with charters. You used the term "public safety employees". What kind of employees are they? How would you like to define that?

MR. KATZ: For purposes of this referendum question --

MR. CHEN: No.

MR. KATZ: We are talking about police.

MR. CHEN: No, no. You have used the term "public safety employees". I am asking who you mean by that, only police officers?

MR. SVERTESKY: In the traditional sense, if you look at that terms as it applies to other juridictions, we are talking about police officers and fire fighters. Here we are talking about police officers.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Other further questions?

(No response.)

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Thank you very much.

We will now ask some representatives of the County government -- Mr. Hilliard. Thank you for coming out. If you could just state your names and positions that would be of help. And take 10 minutes or whatever to speak to this question.

MR. HILLIARD: Yes. My name is Clinton Hilliard. I am Personnel Director for Montgomery County Government.

MR. TORGESEN: Jim Torgesen. I am the Assistant to the Personnel Director for Labor Relations.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Thank you for coming.

MR. HILLIARD: Mr. Chairman and members of the Commission, I would like to begin by simply reading a statement on Ballot Question F which was prepared by the County Executive.

After reviewing proposed Ballot Question F which would provide for collective bargaining with binding arbitration for the County Police I oppose the amendment. The principal reason for this position is my consistent opposition to compulsive arbitration of fiscal issues. In my view, elected officials must be accountable for such issues as part of the budget process. Compulsory arbitration interfers with the responsibility of those officials to the electorate by transferring fiscal decisions to outside parties.

The Charter Review Commission ha s studies collective bargaining issues including the operation of the current Meet and Confer process, the problems of impasse resolution and the effect on collective bargaining of other charter provisions such as the requirement for a Uniform Salary Plan. I believe these issues require further discussions as the Charter Review Commission has recommended.

I felt it was important to read that to the Commission so that the position of the County Executive on this particular proposition or this issue rather would be clearly understood.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Thanks.

Would you all have further comments or do you just want us to proceed to questions.

MR. HILLIARD: If there are any questions we would be happy to answer them.

MR. TORGESEN: No, I don't have any thing.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: I guess the first question would have to be that you state that the County Executive is opposed to this amendment because it provides for binding arbitration on fiscal issues and yet we have heard the representative of the FOP say that it does not. Could you speak a little to how you read the language and why you come to that view when they apparently read it in a different way?

MR. HILLIARD: Well, the language I think that has been expressed is open to a variety of interpretations. It does not exclude what would normally be termed interest arbitration. It is not excluded. And, therefore, the range of interpretation that could be considered reasonable is quite broad.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: My understanding is that what these folks are proposing is by no means unique. I mean a number of state and local government employees operate under essentially this kind of provision. I don't know the number of states that have laws like this, but this is not unusual. Mr. Hilliard, particulary I know have been in other jurisdictions. Could you all speak to a little bit to any experiences you are aware of about collective bargaining with binding arbitration for police in other jurisdictions and how that worked? I understand the County Executive's general feeling that he is not providing arbitration on fiscal matters, but could you give us a little of the reasoning as to why that position make sense in your mind from experience you have seen in other places?

MR. HILLIARD: Well, I have not personally operated under a public sector collective bargaining machinery that involved interest arbitration so I couldn't speak directly experientially to that. I think the basic concerns, the concern expressed in the County Executive's statement, and I really can't elaborate very much on that. I think the basic reason for the position is fairly clear. I have personally no experience with a system which involves interest arbitration.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Let me try this another way. If the amendment clearly read in the way that FOP explain they mean it to read; that is not binding arbitration on interest issues, fiscal issues, would the County Executive have a different viewpoint? Is the County Executive opposed to collective bargaining or is he opposed to collective bargaining with binding arbitration on non-fiscal matters. Do you know that or do you have personal feelings that you would like share on --

MR. HILLIARD: No, I really don't know that. I really couldn't speak for the Executive on the issues that have been discussed. So it would really be inappropriate for me to attempt to speak on behalf of the Executive on that.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Let me try this. As I understand it, the police are saying, look, we are safety, public safety employees. We don't want to have the right to strike. We shouldn't have the right to strike. Our national organization says we won't have anything to do with that. And, yet, we have a system in the county, the Meet and Confer Law, that really doesn't give us the chance to properly, strongly negotiate for what we believe in. So, if we are willing to give us the right to strike, we have got to have some kind of stick, if you will, or something that will give us an ability to have our views heard and the only alternative to a right to strike is to give them a legitimate negotiating position would be binding arbitration. What is flawed in that rationale and also if you could speak a little bit about the experience in the county with Meet and Confer so we would have a better sense of the limitations or positive aspects of that.

MR. HILLIARD: I think you have to make certain assumptions and one of the assumptions you have to make is the right to strike as a presumption. I think that is a tremendous leap. I think generally it is considered that public employees, except to the degree that there is a specific provision to the contrary, generally do not have the right to strike.

As far as the experience with Meet and Confer, the -- It is a system designed to have issues presented, discussions on issues, to resolve issues where there are differences, and to jointly develop what is called a position paper that clarifies what the issues are that are being recommended for implementation.

To my knowledge, the provisions of the position papers have, in fact, been honored. That there has been no instance that I am aware of in Montgomery County government where provisions that are set forth in a position paper have been ignored by the government. That is my understanding of the experience.

So, I think to the degree that the Meet and Confer process was designed to give an orderly forum for exchange of ideas, a forum where results of discussions could be put in written form with some specificity and would serve as a basis for actions and procedures and implementation of various processes in the county government; that that, in fact, has happened.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: If I might just break in for a moment, unfortunately we failed to get on the record the police's specific views of the Meet and Confer process but rather heard general statements. But I thought I remembered hearing from them in our previous discussions that at one time or another the whole system kind of broke down and there wasn't even a position paper written. I don't have any details.

MS. BOERGERS: That was last year if I recall --

MR. TORGESEN: That was two years ago.

MS. BOERGERS: The first year was -- Mr. Gilchrist was the County Executive, as I recall.

MR. TORGESEN: The first year was under Mr. Gleason and the last two years have been under Mr. Gilchrist.

MS. BOERGERS: The first time the process broke down and the position papers were not written, as I understand it, and everybody just kind of went home was two years ago.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: What happened there?

MR. TORGESEN: During those particular sessions, one of the primary issues of discussion dealt with the retirement issue and was felt by the County that it was not a sufficient data base in order for us to make reasonable proposals to the FOP. And, through agreement, informal agreement, it was never put in writing. It was agreed that the County would engage the services of Aetna, who was responsible at that time for administrating the retirement system and providing acturial services, to do a major update and cost analysis on a variety of 20-year retirement proposals and resulted in a significant cost to generate those proposals. So, it was not something that was taken lightly but it was felt it was necessary to provide a reasonable data base so that decisions could be made. That data base could not be provided within the time frame of our discussions. On that basis, because that was a primary issue of discussion, the parties agreed not to fall through with a formal position paper.

MS. BOERGERS: Has that report been completed do you know?

MR. TORGESEN: That report has been completed. Upon its completion we had some additional problems. At that time we discovered some problems with the way that our credited service was being calculated which had a significant impact on the acturial evaluation that was being done on a yearly basis. For that reason there were revisions that had to be made in those acturial assumptions. As a result of the revising of the credited service and making sure that was brought up to accuracy, as a result of that we found that the cost for the proposals that we were considering under the 20-year retirement were significant. And, that has resulted now in the County's rethinking the whole area for 20-year retirement in the context of -- Even if we begin to engage in more serious discussions and even lay out a proposal to the FOP it is going to result in a significant cost to the County and one which right now is not a commitment we are prepared to make.

MR. HILLIARD: Mr. Chairman, I might add also that one of the things we are doing in addition to that -- and this came out of the so-called Coleman Committee Report which was looking at various salary issues in the County government was a recommendation of a very careful scrunity of some of the assumptions involved in the evaluation of our pension program and we have gone out to get a second opinion. We have obtained another actuary to come in and look at the system and to give us a report. And, that actuary is collecting the data and we will have that report out in the late fall so there is active analysis of that problem.

The key point is that the retirement issues is, in terms of relationship between cost and retirement benefits, a significant issue. It is not an insignificant current or perspective or future financial, potential financial obligation on the part of the County and it is something that we want to look at very carefully before we commit ourselves to any change in the existing benefit structure.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Thank you.

In our report of May that I think you referred to, we suggested that the Meet and Confer Law could be strengthened, propose some mediation and ultimately the possibility of an outside fact finder. Our proposal was not that the fact finder's findings would be binding but rather that they would be public and apart of the process.

The representatives of the FOP indicated to us, as you have just heard, that they didn't think that process would carry much weight and, in fact, again their discussion by saying it was an indication of how or what a back burner issue all of this was to the County government, that our recommendations have not been looked at. Could you talk a little bit about our recommendations, the possibility of improving the Meet and Confer Law, and speak to the question of whether this could be something the County government would be willing to look at seriously in the near term?

MR. HILLIARD: Well, I think it should be put in the context of what has been occurring since, I guess, late winter or early spring. I think there are two important occurrences. One is that we do have -- The only recognized, formally recognized, organization in the County government is the FOP. So the issue is not applicable to the other organizations since they are not formally recognized.

But, the issue of mediation, there is a mediation provision that is in existence right now in our relationship with the FOP. So there is provision for mediation. And, it is a very traditional kind of mediation provision. I can't speak to its effectiveness in this context because the mechanism has never been used nor has it been requested.

But, the second, I think, important occurrence is that effective last January the voting requirements for designation of a recognized organization were changed by amendment. That was effective, I believe, somewhere around the middle of January 1980. And, as a result there has been a significant increase in potential organizational activity. Right now we have a number of petitions and intervening petitions that have been filed and we will be having -- The Chief Administrative Officer has provided for, under the Employee/Employer Relations Law, will be meeting, in fact, next week to have discussions with each of the organizations concerning the units they have petitioned for.

So we are going through that process with a number of organization. And, I think it would be a untimely point at this point in time to begin introducing major changes in the law. The present Meet and Confer law, you look at its provisions, has really never been fully implemented and the process of recognition, which can be a fairly lengthy process, has really not reached any point of maturation in the County.

So, I think it is not that the County government is not interested in considering the observations and recommendations of the Commission, but we are sort of right in the midst of one of the very fundamental and major provisions of the law, namely, the establishment of representation rights. And, it would not be the best time to begin a dialogue of significant changes in the law right on the eve of potential representation elections.

MS. BOERGERS: Can I mention one point? My understanding of the current mediation provision is that it can only be implemented and put into effect if both sides agree to go to mediation. To me there is a very significant lack in --

MR. HILLIARD: I would like to respond to that.

MS. BOERGERS: Obviously you wouldn't go to mediation about the things you wouldn't want anybody to hear anything about, you know, such as from the police's point of view, 20-year retirement. Our proposal, I think, is really substantially different. While the names are the same and the same mediation and fact finding, it is either party can chose.

MR. HILLIARD: I would like to respond to that. The basic concept of mediation involves mutual consent and I think that in terms of traditional definition of the concept of mediation it is very difficult to have an effective mediation process between two parties if one of the parties does not want to be involved in the mediation process.

MS. BOERGERS: Take the example of fact finding.

MR. HILLIARD: That is a different process altogether.

MS. BOERGERS: But the process we are recommending is mediation if either party wants to go to it and if that breaks down then you go to fact finding. It is kind of an automatic step assuming either party wants to go to fact finding.

MR. HILLIARD: Well, without getting into the specific merits of the provision, I think the key thing is that -- The provision does exist. There is no history of denial by either party of a request to go to mediation because there is no history of request for mediation by either party. So, in the context of the County's experience, I don't think that the voluntary mediation apparatus can be judged on the basis of any statistical profile or utilization analysis. The mechanism is there. It simply has not been used.

MR. BANKSON: Would it be a fair expression of your opinion that you think Meet and Confer has not had time enough to work and there hasn't been enough experience with it yet and should be left the way it is for now?

MR. HILLIARD: Well, that really is kind of a basic policy decision that I have not discussed with the Executive. This is an area where the Executive has a great deal of concern and I think there is some sensitivity. I would be reluctant to say that -- Well, I think it is a factual situation. In terms of the entire County government obviously with only one formal recognized organization, it is hard to talk about the needs and experience of all of the County employees, that that picture will not emerge. I don't know what the County Executive's position, for example, would be on the issue of collective bargaining without interest arbitration or some changes to the Meet and Confer approach.

I do think that the issue of timing is kind of important. I think we are in rather an unusual circumstance where we have one organization that has gone through the formal recognition procedures, has gone through the Meet and Confer process. And, then we have a group of organizations that are just petitioning for recognition under the same basic law and it makes it a little difficult to both talk about from experiential point what is the best approach. It also makes it difficult to involve those organizations in a discussion of changes in the law since we don't have an established pattern of formal recognition in existence at this point.

I expect that once we get down stream and the issue of representation by the other employee organizations is resolved, obviously at that point in time the environment and the forum for discussion will be very significantly changed. But, I really can't in all fairness, you know, represent the County Executive's position on specific policy issues of whether we ought to make certain specific amendments in the existing law at this point.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Bill Chen.

MR. CHEN: Mr. Hilliard, I am not going to ask any questions about the mechanics of the system. Did you hear the definition of the FOP representative of public safety employees of the county? Did you hear that testimony?

MR. HILLIARD: Yes.

MR. CHEN: Would you agree with that testimony?

MR. HILLIARD: Which part of it?

MR. CHEN: The definition of public safety employees?

MR. HILLIARD: I think he used the term police officers.

MR. CHEN: Yes, that is right, and fire fighters.

MR. HILLIARD: My recollection is he used the term police officers.

MR. CHEN: That is right. They also used the term of fire fighters. Do you agree with that?

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: In the amendment they used the term police officers.

MR. CHEN: I am not talking about the amendment. I asked for their meaning of the terminology when the term public safety employees was used.

MR. HILLIARD: Oh, the generic term public safety. Generally that usually is -- Well, would be an umbrella term to cover police, fire, sheriff, and corrections employees.

MR. CHEN: Is that terminology that is pretty well accepted in your profession?

MR. HILLIARD: I think so, yes.

MR. CHEN: Would it include -- I think the County places security guards for public buildings in Montgomery County Court House and this building, would it include those types of employees also?

MR. HILLIARD: Well, generally it -- That varies. Generally, if they are security officers in the context which the County is a security officer, they are really border line. They can be either not in or outside of that. Typically for people involved in security functions, the issue is whether or not they have certain police powers. If they have those police powers they generally fall within the definition. There are a number of employees who serve essentially as security officers or guards who do not have specific police powers or are not charged with the responsibility, for example, of arrest or search and seizure and they very often fall outside the definition of public safety employees.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Mary Boergers?

MS. BOERGERS: I am not sure exactly what my question is but during the year we have been discussing collective bargaining as a subcommittee, one of the major frustrations of employees, both police and the other employee organizations that are not officially recognized under Meet and Confer is the length of time it has taken whereby little or no action has taken place. I am referring to the fact that 1968 was when teachers first got collective bargaining. We now have last year collective bargaining for Montgomery College employees. They started trying to get collective bargaining statewide through a state law back in 1970 and it has been bouncing around now for 10 years. Do you have any answer to the employees? Like you say wait and they say how long do we have to wait.

MR. HILLIARD: I am not saying wait. I am saying that the employees right now are involved in a recognition process and that process is occurring under an existing body of law which has specific procedures and provisions for recognition. I just think it would be inappropriate to begin talking about major changes in the system at the time that very fundamental process is occurring.

I am not saying wait, you know. We are talking about a schedule which anticipates, if our expectations are correct, that sometime in November, you know, within two months from now we will be having representation elections assuming that the, you know, required minimum signatures are verified and all those procedural requirements are met. So we are talking about having a pretty clear pattern of formal recognition and representation before the end of this year. I am not saying wait.

I can't address the issue of why -- There are so many institutional variations when we talk about public employee organization and employer/employee relations provisions. If you look at the number of varied state and local provisions, they are all over the map. I have operated under, when I was in the State of California, under two separate public sector laws, one for state and local -- one for local government, excuse me, not state government, local government and one for schools which were just completely different systems. And, one started off with the label of Meet and Confer and it evolved essentially into something very close to collective bargaining in a number of situations in that we had comprehensive agreements and there have been several tests of -- even though the law says they are essentially non-binding, functionally they are treated almost the same as collective bargaining.

The other extreme was in public education until a few years ago there was another piece of legislation that had variations in it that first of all didn't have any provision for exclusive representation, had representation patterns based on -- for academic faculty people and K through 12 community college system which provided for what they called kind of a portional coalition negotiating, maybe based upon estimates, proportional work force represented by the various organizations. So, you know, people only have a nine-member people, one organization would have three seats, another one one seat, another one two seats. And, it was just a very diverse kind of function. That has changed very rapidly.

The variations among the states and localities in terms of employee/employer relations almost defy any standard or normal kind of description. They are tremendously varied. Why certain patterns have evolved in the State of Maryland and Montgomery County I really can't answer those questions. But, I think it is a major public policy issue. It is a major public administration issue in terms of how you manage the systems that are agreed and I do think it is a system of some importance. I don't know of any particular standard that exists nationally in this area. There are some basic elements in terms of right to join organizations, basic representation rights, that seem to be common. But, when you go beyond that as to the on-going relationship between the employer and employee organizations it is a constellation of varied systems.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Personally my own view would be that I recognize the point that you make that it is not timely to deal with changes in the system as you are having these representation elections, but I would hope that you would at a minimum sort of hear the message that the police and us that there might down the road not too far be a serious look at whether the existing Meet and Confer structure is adequate or whether there might be a move in some of the directions we suggested to strengthening the process.

MR. HILLIARD: I appreciate that. Let me just very briefly summarize. I hope nothing I have said suggests that the County government doesn't consider this a very important issue and is not mindful of the Commission's studies and recommendations.

I suspect that all these items are going to get very careful and serious consideration. I just think -- There are a number of issues I simply have not had an opportunity to discuss with the Executive and it would be inappropriate for me to speak on his behalf when, in fact, he has no idea of what I am saying.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: I understand. Let me just ask one final question. The representatives of the FOP suggested that there were certain merit principles that were well defined in the hiring and firing aspects that were beyond the scope of bargaining. The concern that I would have is if we leave the existing merit system principles and then you add collective bargaining to that, that the government is not in a very strong position. It is sort of like, okay, you have got all of this and now we start to bargain. Is it correct in your view that there are these merit principles that are beyond the scope of bargaining and the notion of hiring or firing or would -- and do you agree with them that the merits between the existing merit system law and provisions and a collective bargaining system would require only minor changes or would it require more major changes to marry those two decisions?

MR. HILLIARD: My own personal and professional experience has been that it has to be done very carefully. There are, in fact, a number of issues. Some of this is done by the merit system law itself. For example, in the area basically of compensation, the merit system law removed that from the jurisdiction of the Personnel Board and in my judgment appropriately. That is an executive reponsibility.

There are some major areas that have to be looked at carefully to determine what is an appropriate arena for the merit system which really speaks to some basic public policy issues, the manner in which employees -- First of all, how people become employees and then what happens to them in terms of promotions, appointments, and a number of other actions which are clearly merit system issues.

But, historically, perhaps simply because of the lack of a more appropriate place to or more appropriate arena to have those issues resolved, a variety of working conditions and compensation issues have been put into the "merit or civil service system" which historically was not the initial purpose of those systems. When you look at the basic purpose of having open access to government employment, ensuring that people are treated fairly, assuring that people are competent to perform their jobs, that at the point of selection and consistently throughout their employment, that promotions and other employment decisions internally are done on the basis that is in compliance with public policy generally concerning non-discrimination and also meet certain, again, requirements of demonstrated job-related fitness for performing the duties.

Those issues and the protection that surrounds that part of the merit system is what I refer to as the core of the merit system. Really the historic foundation purposes of the initial structuring of the institutions that we now call civil service and merit system in the United States.

The other issues, a variety of issues, involving leave, vacation, sick leave, benefits, salary and other operating conditions of employment are more removed from that core. And, a number of those, I think, appropriate are essentially appropriate for the scope of representation within formalized employer/employee relationship system. And, the provisions in the Federal Government, for example, clearly acknowledge that while a number of economic items are not under the negotiation process, a number of working condition items clearly are and that they are really separate and apart from the core objectives and domains so to speak of the formalized Civil Service system.

So, I think there will have to be adaptation. Some of them, I think, have already occurred in the compensation area which will make at least that part of the system a lot easier to deal with. But, it will have to be done carefully.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Thank you very much.

I think there are no further questions. We appreciate your coming tonight.

I would like to move to Question E, the proposal to -- Proposed charter amendment to prohibit the sludge trenching in residential areas. We have invited two representatives of the Citizens for Responsible Disposal and Delegate Robin Ficker. If the three of you would join us. I gather we are going to have a slide show here. Before the slide show introduce yourselves and perhaps explain to us what Citizens for Responsible Disposal for the record is and the role that the three of you played in designing and putting Question E on the ballot.

MR. KNIGHT: Delegate Ficker has graciously agreed to have us precede him and perhaps I can set some context. I am Jim Knight. I am here representing relatively a new group known as Citizens for Responsible Disposal. With me is Mr. Fred Ryland, one of the attorneys who has been assisting us in our efforts. CRD was formed back in the spring as a citizens response to a proposal to take some 1100 to 1200 acres in the upper county for the purposes of sledge entrenchment. The effort that was mounted I suppose could be called multi-faceted. We presented our case to the County Council in public hearing and simultaneously I think it can fairly describe as the inspiration of Delegate Ficker.

We mounted a campaign to bring this question before the publi and gained the necessary signatures to put it on the ballot.

If I may ask you to turn your attention for a moment to the screen behind you. I think I could put this perhaps in context. It is difficult sometimes to get people to focus on something as aesthetically undesirable as sewage disposal.

What you see there is described as a passable scene. It is a site in upper county known as Site 30 before sludge was entrenched. The process is one of digging six foot deep two foot wide trenches all over this area and putting raw sewage sludge mixed with lime in it. If we look at it a little bit later this is the same area. What you see is known as leachate. It is a liquid carrying some of the products of the material that has been buried there to the surface driven by the gases that are generated. I might add that in a somewhat optimistic view of the County and others including the Environmental Protection Administration who had in some way or other espoused sludge entrenchment as a method of sewage disposal. This wasn't supposed to happen or it could be prevented by good engineering. I might add for the record I am an engineer with responsiiblities in fields of geology and I know whereof I speak.

The two problems we have here is the peculiar, in terms of the national picture, a situation in the County with the soil we have and the highly fractured rock underlying those soils. It is quite typical of the County. It is one good reason why they shouldn't engage in this type of a process.

If we continue on just a bit you will see -- These are taken spread over the area that you saw in the first slide. There are two problems here. This material could get into surface water and perhaps more importantly into the ground water. And, if you have been following the recent work that Representative Moffett has been starting on to help prohibit the further contamination of ground water either by chemical, toxic chemicals, or other materials, I think we see a chance here for the County to be in the lead.

That scene you see thickening as it is is caused primarily by methane gas bubbling up at the top of the picture and driving materials, liquid materials, out.

This is the final slide. I just want to point out to you in large measure this is what it is all about, not only preservation of the land but protection of our underground water supply. That is one of the most precious resources that we have and one which has been abused to a terrible extent.

There are no more slides. I think I can say in a very quick summary that it is an abominable process. There is no place for use as a sewage disposal method particularly in this County. It has -- As I said, in addition to the obvious asethetic damage, there is a very real problem associated with contamination of ground water and contamination of surface water.

I think Mr. Ryland could speak to other matters concerning the question.

MR. RYLAND: My name is Fred Ryland. I am an attorney. I practice in the District of Columbia but I also practice in Maryland. My practice is predominately legislative but I do not pretend to be -- Like Sam Irvin, claimed that he was a country lawyer and then proceeded to slice up people with constitution language. I am not Sam Irvin of municipal law and I don't pretend to have any specific expertise in that area. So I come as a lay attorney to discuss some of the concerns that people have raised about this charter amendment and the way the Citizens for Responsible Disposal feel about this.

We did not draft the Charter Amendment E but when it was proposed to us it was hardily endorsed. It was endorsed as a resonable exercise of citizen initiative to restrict spending and licensing powers for the County government for inappropriate activities.

There are predominately three legal type issues that have been raised, brought to my attention, regarding the propriety of this charter amendment. I would say they of the case. In the Cheeks case they had to decide whether the Baltimore City initiative which established the Rent Control Commission violated the Constitution of the State of Maryland and by a nearly unanimous decision except for one judge the court decided, in really a case of first impression and taking logic, that it had never been used before, that what the citizens of Baltimore had done was in violation of the Maryland Constitution because the development of a Rent Control Commission was not "charter material" and was a legislative act which was granted only to the City Council of Baltimore and could not be assumed by the citizenry of Baltimore.

Thus, the Court developed some type of protective sphere of legislative activity which not being coached by citizen initiative. The case, I think, surprised a lot of people when it came out. It is so recent that we don't know whether this case will be restricted in its holding to just the precise issue that was before it. It clearly is a troubling question as far as our initiative is concerned.

However, the sludge disposal question is one which is a far more restrictive intervention into activities of the county than would be a Rent Control Commission proposed in Baltimore City. The restriction drafted by Delegate Ficker does not restrict private entrenchment. It does not restrict public entrenchment. It just restricts entrenchment on residential property. It is a very limited restriction felt necessary to protect citizens of the county against what is perceived by our people as a serious threat to our land, water and future generations.

So to answer the question, Cheeks seriously will be looked at if this charter amendment ever goes before a court for interpretation of whether it is constitutional or not. It is our view that Cheeks clearly would not fairly preclude this charter amendment although we recognize that there is a serious question there.

Now, the third question, is whether the WSSC as opposed to Montgomery County should have been listed as the party to be restricted by this charter amendment. Well, number one, I don't think that WSSC by a Montgomery County charter amendment could be put in there because WSSC is a strange animal. Every case that comes up -- Every year a new cases comes up about WSSC -- says something different. It is clearly not a County organization, a municipal organization. It appears as a state agency for purposes of retaining sovereign immunity but what WSSC is has not been flushed out and I doubt will ever be flushed out totally.

Basically though the citizens felt we had to start some place and the first place to start is the county. Now, clearly a case could be made that WSSC could do some of the things which we have tried to restrict Montgomery County from doing. But that baits the question. It baits the question because if our county officials are told in strong terms that sludge entrenchment will not take place on residential property any more, to violate that through indirect means, we feel, would be politically extremely unwise and as an attorney I think it would be difficult not to find some type of county involvement somewhere along the process.

So, to my feeling, this criticism of the amendment is not nearly as severe a critcism as the Cheeks versus --

That concludes my presentation.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Thank you.

Delegate Ficker, do you have --

DELEGATE FICKER: Thank you very much.

You asked about the Citizens for Responsible Disposal. They were very helpful certainly in getting this question on the ballot in that they were riled up, they had a vested interest. There were many people there who were willing to go out and work and collect signatures. However, the signatures were collected by people from all over the county. We had close to 200 people who collected signatures from all sections of the county if you go and look at the names and addresses of the collectors. I collected about 1000 signature. I live in west Bethesda. We had people in Silver Spring, Wheaton and so on who feel that we should put an obnoxious use of our land like trenching sewage sludge in a residential zone. It is just that simple. Why have a residential zone if you are going to have that type of neighbor such as a sewage trenching sight.

And, you really need to go out and walk some of these neighborhoods right next to the site to get the true feeling of it, to see what type of problem it might present, to see the little children there, see the dogs running around and realizing that sooner or later the dogs are going to get in the trenching site and they are going to walk home with the stuff on their feet and the kids are going to get sick and you are going to wonder really was it the trenching site that made them sick. And, when you drive behind some of these cement mixers you know that there is always somethin, dripping out of a cement mixer, always. And, instead of water it is going to be sewage sludge because that is what they use to haul the sewage sludge. I just don't think this is the type of use that is compatible with homes and schools. And, from seeing the site that were proposed they were going to be very near schools.

In the past various citizenry have gotten all rile up and I have attended some of the meetings. They had this site over in Ednor and Silver Spring and the had the people up in Poolesville and they had various other people, some in Potomac were concerned that they were going to trench Avenal Farm eventually and they got upset and they ended up with the sewage sludge. I thought, well, now is the time to do something a little more drastic about it. And, something that needed to be done was to educate the people of Montgomery County about sewage sludge and what better way to do that than to put a question on the ballot, what better way to get a lot of people involved in a question.

Now, besides that I knew that Montgomery County very seldom terminates any program and they never abruptly halt a program even though it is called an interim program as this was which has been going on for five years. Yet, what we needed was an abrupt halt to a program and the political process, the normal political process, just wouldn't allow an abrupt halt to this sort of a program.

I saw the position of some of our elected officials change quite a bit once we announced the petition and started getting the signatures because they knew this question was going to be on the ballot. They knew it. And, after they thought about that they started changing their position a little bit.

The sewage sludge question is not moot in Montgomery County. It is not moot in Montgomery County dispite what certain people would have you believe. The Calverton question has been up to the Supreme Court once on a technical question. There are five different cases, three in Montgomery County Circuit Court, one in the P.G. Circuit Court, one in U.S. Court of Appeals, all affecting that Calverton site. Dickerson is going to be going to court also. I know. I have some people on the lawyer's committee talk to me about that. And, it is certainly conceivable to put it mildly that that site, that composting site, would not be on line January 1st when the question of whether or not Montgomery Country trenching turn should come again comes up. So we are going to be faced with trenching.

What we have -- It amounts to a political shoving ground in Montgomery County. They are saying trenching is no good but other people are saying that composting is no good.

So the County in the past has taken the path of least political resistence in questions like this and they have, in effect, well, the health and welfare of a few persons isn't that important as long as we can keep most of the people happy or at least keep most of the people from being upset.

And, this type of amendment is very important to protect minorities, to protect groups of people who are very important individually but may not number in the large numbers that impress politicians.

So, the question of sewage sludge is going to be upon us very, very soon. It is now. They are trenching in Germantown now. It is going to be with us for a long time to

to come until we end up with some satisfactory solution to sludge disposal in Montgomery County. And, to my mind, the only satisfactory solution is the Metropolitan Life solution where they get rid of the sludge very near where it ends up through the natural processes of gravity. They have the sewage treatment plant at Blue Plains because gravity pulls it down there. They don't have it up at the top of Sugar Loaf Mountain because gravity doesn't pull it up there. It pulls it the other way. That is why it happens to end up in Blue Plains. It is not that we want it to end up at Blue Plains, gravity pulls it down the hill.

The citizens I know feel very strongly about this. The question is going to be on the ballot and believe it this question is going to pass. There is no doubt about it. This question is going to pass. If you look at the result of Question F in the last election to ban a landfill system of refuge disposal in residential zones. That is 70% of the vote. It won in every single precinct in Montgomery County. This question -- I don't think people think that sewage sludge is any less obnoxious than garbage in a residential zone. This question is going to pass. The Republican Party voted to supported it. It is going to be marked yes on Republican ballots. The Legislative Committee of the Montgomery County Civics Federation has voted to support it. So, I think you are going to see a lot of support. I can't see really a large constituency opposing this question except maybe some teamsters who would be driving the sludge trucks. The alternative, I suppose, to opposing it is to find some legal technicality and challenge it that way. But, I don't think it would be wise for you folks to set yourselves up as the Maryland Court of Appeals and say that there is something wrong with this question legally without having a court test or just having some decisions that may or may not be relevant or may not be entirely relevant. I think you have to look at the realities of the situation. The sludging is unacceptable. If I lived next to a sludge site, and thank goodness I don't because I have two little kids, there wouldn't be anything that I wouldn't do if I couldn't move -- If I didn't have the financial wherewithall to move, there would be absolutely nothing that I wouldn't do to halt that process next door to me, absolutely nothing. Believe me, I would be camping out here in the County Office Building day and night until the process was changed because it is a filthy business and it is not healthy.

It is a good political issue. There isn't a constituency really in favor of putting the sludge in a residential zone. It is getting county-wide attention now simply because we put it on the ballot. It is no longer little old Germantown versus everyone else. It is a county-wide issue. And, people all over the county in citizens groups are thinking is this the kind of land use I want in a residential zone. They are going to answer a resounding no just as they did in Question F.

If you have any other questions I will be glad to answer them. I know that sludge trenching has been very expensive in the past. There was an article June 12, 1980 in one of the downtown papers which talks about $45.00 a ton entrenching process. That doesn't include the cost of the land which is very, very expensive in Montgomery County to trench.

That is about all I have to say. It is going to be very difficult, I think, to mount a campaign to defeat this question because citizens are opposed to sludge trenching in residential zones and that is what the question does. It is a plebicite really beyond the legal technicalities of it. It is a plebicite as to whether or not this sort of horrendous process should go on. Now, should it be in the charter? There is a lot in the charter that nobody every reads and even if you have read them all, even if you have read them at least once you have probably forgotten them. I looked through the charter the other day and I was amazed at some of the things in the charter. You say, well, this is going to clutter up the charter. Look at all the other things in the charter that --

MR. DALRYMPLE: You put some of them in.

DELEGATE FICKER: I put -- I wish there were a lot more of them in there that I could have put in. You look at some of these other sections in here and some people might say, gee, why are you wasting printer's ink and paper printing this. This is a gut issue. This is a politically sexy issue that attracts a lot of people and this is just the sort of thing that -- Believe me, if it is in charter they are going to read.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Thank you all for that.

I have several questions, some technical. Let me start with one more general. It seems to me that you all deserve enormous credit in terms of forcing the county government to look at some alternatives that it was not otherwise looking at. I don't claim to be an expert on what we just saw but I certainly just as a citizen, not in my present capacity, would be concerned with the kind of issues that you talk about, about what might end up in our ground water.

But, Delegate Ficker talked about the political shoving match that is about to occur, that is occurring. I might describe it in another way. What concerns me here is if we look at the waste disposal question as sort of a checkers game and I come up and look up at the checkers game and say, go ahead, I want to stop the game, you all can move anything you want, but this one checker, don't move that. I am going to put my thumb on that and then you come up and put your thumb on another and somebody else puts a thumb on another and all of a sudden it is all thumbs and all moves. I don't know what is to stop people that don't like composting next to them or people who don't like something else next to them. And, I would worry about whether we get into this political shoving match and the end result, as I say, is sort of all thumbs and no moves and the county is in a very bad situation if the charter ends being full of specific remedies to take care of specific things that clearly upset specific groups of people. If you could speak a little more to that I would appreciate it.

MR. KNIGHT: Okay. I guess I would have to maybe very attack your analogy. Each of the pieces on the checker board are of equal weight. I don't believe this is the case here at all. This is a disposal process which would have to argue, and I think could do so successfully in any forum, that, first of all, is not desirable in its space. Secondly, is not technically feasible in this county.

As far as, shall we say, placing the county in the position where they can't move at all, we are just so far from that that I really would have difficulty addressing it. There are a number of very viable options open. They each have their difficulties, there is no question about it. But, that after all is what the county and the technical arm that is available to them, to the Executive, are here for. That is why we support them with our tax dollars.

You mentioned, for example, composting. There are some who would argue with composting. Perhaps true. I think you will find an order of magnitude of greater support, greater support for composting than sludge entrenchment. It is definitely a more desirable approach. I think you will find even those who are decidedly against a given location for composting would not debate the desirability of a process over sludge entrenchment. They might argue about the details of a particular process being used at a site. They might very reasonably say why are we doing it 40 or 50 miles away from the inevitable source of the material as Delegate Ficker described.

To me there is such a difference in the weight that one would have to give to each of these arguments starting with the whole concept of sludge entrenchment in a residential zone to composting in a residential zone to composting in an industrial zone to composting at the plant. And, beyond that there are other -- Let's call them political avenues that we do have after all here. We do have a very severe political problem between the two counties, Prince George's and Montgomery, as reflected in the Calverton fiasco. I think I can call it that safely. We have a question with a child of the Federal Government and with the District of Columbia.

And each of these things are amenable, I would believe, and I think anyone could argue logically to attack on several fronts. If these local governments all got together, for instance, and make a concerted effort with the Federal Government, I think there may be solutions that could develop.

To argue, gee, if we put this on the charter, you know, we are going to restrict the county and I won't be able to do anything and, gee, after all, I have got to do something with it because we are going to keep on making day after day. I really think -- I think the number of avenues and approaches and options that are open are far too broad to try to circumscribe the problem.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: I was suggesting the people near the composte to say, gee, I don't want the composte near me so they go out and get their positions and whatever the alternative to that is, the people near that site go out and you have a charter that has a whole series of thy shall not do this and the other.

MR. KNIGHT: That presumes that each of these would pass, that you could gain the support from the citizenry, that you could get the signatures, that you could make the arguments and they would pass. I guess I would argue that if it really became capricious I would like to think, and I feel personally, if it really became campricious it wouldn't work.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: That doesn't mean the first one ir is okay because the third or fourth times the public would say, oh, my God, we really have to stop this. I am not saying you don't have the first case.

DELEGATE FICKER: Also, look where else in the country this process is used. I don't know of anywhere else where they are trenching. Maybe there are a lot of locations around the country where they are trenching. If it is such a nice process why don't they use it somewhere else?

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Mr. Knight, can you speak to that? Have you all looked into that question?

MR. KNIGHT: There are so many little municipalities. As I said, there is nowhere else. Somebody could probably find the exception. It is rarely used if at all.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Okay.

MR. DALRYMPLE: Let me ask a question while we are on that. I am confused by what you are trying to accomplish in this amendment. It talks about spending, it talks about permits. It limits it to the county and it limits it to residential zones and yet all we are hearing here that the process is a very undesirable process. I don't have any doubt that it is an undesirable process. All you have got to do is look at the few pictures you have got as I have here and see it in action. But, what this does is amend the charter in a way that I don't think is going to have any meaning. How is it going to have any meaning if they have got 2000 acres they intend to trench the sludge and it is residential? What happens if they rezone it to industrial?

DELEGATE FICKER: Well, there are --

MR. DALRYMPLE: Don't give me the poltiically unpopular bit. I know that. I know it is politically unpopular to do it, to avoid this, but doesn't, in fact, that have real possibilities. They are under a court order to get rid of sludge. They can't say, oh, the charter prevents it. The charter says you can't do it in residential so rezone it to industrial and do it.

DELEGATE FICKER: There is no question but this is an obnoxious type of industrial use of land. There is no doubt about that. As for rezoning, you either have to have a comprehensive rezoning which takes times with public hearings and so on.

MR. DALYRMPLE: It doesn't take long when they want to do it.

MR. CHEN: During court proceedings, Robin.

DELEGATE FICKER: Pardon?

MR. CHEN: During court proceedings they can do it.

DELEGATE FICKER: Well, they can but whether or not they would --

MR. CHEN: They have done it.

MR. DALRYMPLE: Well, they have used the comprehensive process to get rid of usage in areas that are politically unpopular. They did it over in Kemp Mill and Four Corners. They just did it in Potomac. You supported that. I was here the night that you came in and supported down zoning. That was political popular to down zone but they used the process to get rid of something.

But, I don't see where what you are proposing here is necessarily effective and probably is very easily defeated by the same body you are attempting to restrict the use of doing it. They are the ones that do the zoning and they very easily can take-- If they want 1000 acres to trench, they take an area of 1000 acres and another 1000 acres around it and say, all right, let's have a comprehensive plan and everything in the middle is industrial where we are going to trench and everything else is buffer and they comprehensively rezone it. And, there has not been a comprehensive zoning upset by the court in Maryland in history. So how is this effective?

DELEGATE FICKER: All I can tell you is that generally there may be an exception with the court involved I suppose -- Where the court is involved in comprehensive rezoning and it is done immediately or a matter of weeks. Generally it takes a long time. And, we are going to be in a time crunch situation focusing on that January 1st date. There is going to be pressure here in Montgomery County, either the composters or trench.

MR. DALRYMPLE: I agree with that but I am suggesting to you that it only takes -- There is a minimum amount of time that it takes except by statute for advertising an action. If they want to preserve the farm land they did it in record time and they just -- Del Swope came in and down zoned the living daylights out of thousands of acres to do it and they wanted to do it. I am only suggesting to you that if it becomes essential for them to do that here and rezone the sludge trenching site to industrial they have done it. They have completely defeated, I think, what your goal is here and we have got an amendment in the charter that has not meaning.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: If I might say for the record there is a perspective that says it is good they have provided -- That they have used the term "residential zone" because in effect that makes it less rigid than if they hadn't provided that.

So perhaps one argument is that that was an example where the authors were attempting to provide some flexibility for --

MR. DALRYMPLE: And, I suspect that was why it was done so you can't say it was just an exclusionary act here, where we are not for all times cut off somebody's right to do something and we bound them in a manner that you are not allowed to bind the government. But, I am still saying that if the goal of this amendment is to bring a rapid halt to trenching this doesn't do it. Why would be gum up the charter for something that is ineffective.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Bill Chen.

MR. CHEN: Aside from the zoning aspect of it, there is even cases in Maryland --Talking about a state agency, they are not going to be bound by those zoning regulations. I will give you -- Where the state DOT went to court on it Robin. It is one thing if you said you can't do it on residentially zoned land that was classified in that district as of June 30, 1980. I don't know how legal that would be but that is tying it down. If you are trying -- We don't sit as a court of appeals and I don't think any of try to be, but I think our role in part is to try to help in focusing on ways the charter can be amended properly and addressed properly. I think the concern I have with this is that I don't question the problem. But how to deal with it in the context of a charter amendment, I don't think this does it to be very honest with you.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Could I ask Delegate Ficker a question whose interest in amending the charter is more long standing than the Citizens for Responsible Disposal. If the State Constitution authorized or allowed citizens at a local government level to initiate ordnances as opposed to charter amendments, which I understand is in some dispute but probably not allowed now, would you, in 1978 and now, use that initiative route? In other words, to initiate an ordnance as opposed to initiating a charter amendment? In other words, do you use the charter amendment approach and have you suggested it to these folks because there is no ability to initiate an ordnance?

DELEGATE FICKER: Well, if we initiated an ordnance it very likely would require a much larger number of signatures. Are you thinking of a state-wide question?

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: No, no. If the State Constitution said, for instance, that in a local government -- I think it would be less signatures rather than more signatures than is required to amend the charter. You would be able to initiate a local ordnance.

In other words, let's say the State Constitution said, rather than take 10,000 signatures to amend the County Charter, with 5000 signatures you could put a proposed ordnance on the ballot to be voted on and then would be part of the laws, part of the code of Montgomery County as opposed to the charter. Would you use that route rather than the charter amendment?

DELEGATE FICKER: Well, that is a hypothetical question. I don't think we are ever going to have that alternative. I sit on the Constitutional and Law Administrative Committee through which those proposals have to pass and I think out of 22 votes such a bill in the past has gotten maybe three votes or four votes. And, unless there is some dramatic change in the make up of the assembly in their thinking, which I don't see despite the popularity of such local initiatives, I don't see such an alternative presenting itself. And, if it did, I suppose that we would evaluate the situation at the time, evaluate the number of signatures, talk to some attorneys to see which is more likely to succeed in the long run and make a choice. Right now we don't have that choice. We are just dealing with what we have and trying to fight this process every step of the way in a reasonable fashion. This is what we came up with. Maybe there is a way that we could have drafted this question better to make it more effective. But, we haven't done it and we don't have the signatures. It takes an awful lot of work to get these signatures and this is what we have now. This is the question that is going before the voters. Now, maybe someone wants to take the trouble to collect a lot of signatures and amend this question and in the next election they can go ahead and do it, but I don't think there are many groups that have the perseverence to get the signatures and go through all the checks you have to go through to amend the question. There have been very few attempts really to amend the County Charte If you look over the history of the County Charter, there have been very few attempts and I think only one citizen initiative has been successful in winning approval of the voters.

So you can start out with a lot of different ideas and attacks on those ideas and look what filters through. Since we have had this charter there has been one that slipped through and that is not very much considering all that has been done in this county.

MR. RYLAND: Mr. Adams, if I could have a couple of comments briefly. Number one, on your assumption -- your hypothetical of the initiative by county voters. First, to make it all analogous to charter amendment, you would have to make it reputable only at the option of the county voters. If you just passed a provision that allowed county voters to pass a local ordnance, I would assume the County Council could vote out that local ordnance at any option unless you provide some mechanism for locking it in.

Number Two, just from the perspective of a public interest lawyer fighting one of the battles using as many tools as you can have, I, for one, would rather have a charter amendment in there that county officials might try to figure a way to get around than to not have that charter amendment in there depicted as it possibly could be.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: That is informative to me because my own feeling is -- My thought was that perhaps some of technical amendments that the court is called in to question perhaps should be ordnances and perhaps some people feel, gee whiz, we don't have any way to express our opinion through an advisory question or an initiative for an ordnance so we have to amend the charter.

I certainly understand your point that if it were only an ordnance it could be repealed as an ordnance unless there was a special provision. But I simply wanted to know if you sort of felt that strongly about the question or whether this was the only vehicle the citizens have to vent their concerns.

DELEGATE FICKER: Well, you know, look at all the sludge battles that have taken place in the county before. The citizens always lost. This the first time the citizens have won and I think this petition had a lot to do with it.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: I think Bill Chen had a question.

MR. CHEN: I was just goint to say, Robin, when Dalrymple and I talked about it, we are not trying to demean the effort. It is a heck of an effort but I am sure you have experienced yourself, sometimes you get these types of provisions where they are so easy to circumvent and I think that is where he and I are coming from when we see something like this. I think you are right. I think it is going to pass. I think there is no doubt. I think you are right when you talk about how sexy this issue is. Certainly we don't have any control over something that appears on the ballot or anything like that. I don't think we have -- But when you see something like that coming down the road and you know the effort behind it and you see how it can be circumvented, then you start to get discouraged yourself. No one has questioned the motives or the goal for what you are going to do.

DELEGATE FICKER: Well, I realize that there are a lot of bright people in the county, a lot of good attorneys who could circumvent one thing or another, but I do know that we have gotten futher now than we have gotten in the past. In 1976, I got sued six different times in attempts to keep three questions off the ballot in the first place. Apparently the county decided against that, decided they don't have a leg to stand on to try to prevent it from being on the ballot in the first place. If someone wants to try to circumvent it, we are going to be right back trying to take care of that problem when the time comes. But, we are going to be that much further down the road and it is going to be a couple of years later and during that time we are going to have a lot of kids and a lot of families that won't be exposed to this process more than likely. It will take a long time to circumvent and that is what we are trying to do here in a sense. It is not the only thing we are trying to do but in a sense we are buying time and I think we are doing it pretty effectively with this petition. Maybe it can be circumvented by some federal judge who wants to set himself up as the supreme being and say all you citizens, 70% of the citiens, who don't want this in a residential zone, you are all worng, you can all go you know where. I am going to put it there and maybe he is going to set himself up like that. Maybe he won't. If he does we will just have to start all over again and not cry about our loss. We have gambled what we had. We will just start over and use whatever clever ideas we can think of to prevail in the end. Maybe we will loss a battle but end up losing the war eventally. If some federal judge or some county officials want to put down this mandate, this plebecite, this view point of the citizens, that is up to them. Maybe somebody will run against them and defeat them.

MR. KNIGHT: I might add just as one of the people who went through seven shades of hell when we first started this exercise will take any tool and will take any forum that we can get. That was one of our biggest single problems, was finding an adequate forum into which we could bring our case and to tell our story. Quite fortunately, and with all due regard to the County Council, after some persistence, we were able to get a forum that was adequate. It wasn't ideal but it was adequate.

So, as I said, I may be out there throwing rocks at the truck if that was the only tool I had. But, I am happy for one, that fits my natural, civilized instincts a little bitter. I will take any one we can have.

MS. DAVIS: I think we would all agree that trenching sludge is both obnoxious and probably technologically an obsolete means of sewage disposal. And, I am beginning to see what your political goals are certainly in this effort and I suspect you have already been successful and be even more successful should this pass.

But I think there are some concerns in terms of misleading voters and residents in the county of what this is going to accomplish. I agree with Mr. Dalrymple and Mr. Chen that if we -- You know, we talked about how the county can circumvent this by a rezoning effort, but I would like to go back to something that Mr. Ryland was talking about. It sort of slid by a little too fast for my purposes. I wonder if the county even has to be the group that does circumvent it because it stands out in some people's minds the extent to which the county is even effective.

Now, you have allowed as how reasonably sure there could be some county involvement found and so forth. But, I was wondering if you could just for a minute address what you all see as the differences between the role the county plays in this whole trenching process and that of the WSSC and how this amendment is going to affect whatever the WSSC role or involvement in this whole trenching issue is.

MR. RYLAND: Okay. Number one, more than one attorney has been involved in this effort and the attorney principally has researched how the county has handled these sludge and sewage permit problems and the payment, the authorization of money, expenditures and appropriation of those expenditures advises me it has been done in a variety of means. Sometimes the county has gone after the permits and sometimes WSSC has gone after them. Sometimes it is state money, sometimes it has been local money. I believe that the law-suit, the Federal suit, involves the county. That is one reason it was constantly thrown up in our face. Well, we are under Federal court order that we have got to get rid of the sludge somehow and, you know, it is our responsibility. Well, it is Montgomery County's responsibility and they are the ones that are acting. I wouldn't might having the handle of this charter amendment as being one means of going after and trying to find our whether they legally can or cannot participate de facto if not de jure in this sludge disposal process.

But, no, I cannot give you a detail answer to the best of my satisfaction.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: So you don't have a specific example of something that the county does that is covered by this amendment?

MS. DAVIS: Other than reviewing WSSC's budget or being a main party --

MR. RYLAND: Clearly under some of the WSSC cases that have reached the Maryland Court of Appeals and statutes in the State of Maryland regarding WSSC, yes, you have reviewed money, expenditures. I believe you also have the county in some instances have gone to the permit themselves, some the state.

MR. DALRYMPLE: They don't have to get the permit. If they wanted to circumvent this, they could tell WSSC to get the permit, tell WSSC to float the loans.

DELEGATE FICKER: Talk about misrepresenting, it seems to me that the county has been holding all the hearings on the sludge and they certainly have been representing to the citizens of Montgomery County it is their baby, they are running the show. The citizens haven't been coming to a hearing held by the WSSC Commissioners on the various sites, on the whole process. The County Council has been receiving eagerly very technical arguments on whether or not trenching should be done, where it should be done, how it should be done over a period of years and so on. If anybody is misrepresenting, it seems to me that the county government is doing the misrepresenting. The county is involved with land acquisition, it is involved with monitoring. Sure, they can play a little shell game and say, well, the WSSC is doing this and we are not even though we are calling them up on the phone and telling them what to do. They can play that little game.

But, I think it is made of very thin fabric and I think the county and WSSC are working hand in glove and have been in the past and we can get all kinds of subponeas and information as to what the county's involvement has been in the past, what it will be in the future. I think this whole sort of process is riddled through and through with county involvement. Maybe it is written into their job description, maybe it isn't. But the impression given to the people through the public hearing process certainly is that is the county's ball game and this is where the misrepresentation has been. We never dreamed that the WSSC actions could be covered by an amendment to the County Charter. We knew that it couldn't. We knew also that there is a lot of county involvement.

MR. DALRYMPLE: Far be it from me to sit here and try to defend the County Council. I am usually sitting down there where you are attacking them. But, I believe the State health laws require the WSSC be the permit receiving agency and the operating agency. There isn't any question that the county has to be involved in it. I think it has to be in their 10-year plan as a matter of fact before they can go at it. But that doesn't get -- Again, the amendment doesn't stop it.

Let me just ask Mr. Ryland a question concerning the Cheeks case and the applicability of this proposed amendment to the doctrine laid down in there. Can you distinguish between what is proposed here, which I think you have concluded is not prohibited by Cheeks. Am I paraphrasing what you said right?

MR. RYLAND: No. There is a very strong question there and I think the question is personally ambiguous which --

MR. DALRYMPLE: Suppose this proposed amendment said the same thing it says except instead of talking about trench and sludge it was hospitals in residential zones. Would you say the same about the Cheeks case or is that affected at all that way?

Do you see where I am heading? If the trenching of sludge is not under Cheeks then hospitals may or may not be and don't you eventually get down to nursing homes and gas stations and everything else and then you get to a point where basically you are writing the zoning ordnance in the charter and then clearly you get under the Cheeks doctrine, don't you?

MR. RYLAND: There I think you are making a significant distinction between hospital use.

MR. DALRYMPLE: I am not making it. I am asking you to make it.

MR. RYLAND: Well, I think part of the problem of the Cheeks case is that it is a very muddy case. It is muddi written. It doesn't provide any clear criteria for determining what is "charter material" and what is not charter material. It rests upon one out of state court precedent which was revised by the state legislature the following year.

I just have some serious questions as to how far the Court of Appeals is going to want to extent that decision. I think it would be grossly premature to evaluate this amendment by virtue of that one holdingof that case.

MR. DALRYMPLE: I think I could agree with that. When you see what it is that was put into the charter. God, it was page after page with the details of it. I think there is clearly the major distinction between that and what is proposed here. I can see enough of a single area there too, that charter is really a general provision and we don't get into the specifics of the local law. Otherwise, you are taking your charter provision or your amendment to your charter provision and granting yourself an initiative of the legislation.

MR. RYLAND: Number one, I want to add that I greatly appreciate those of you on the Commission that are addressing these kinds of issues because it is going to help interest people in the future to help plan these things in a way that will be less subject to these kinds of criticisms. I think the citizens should be alerted to whatever possible ways people may try to get around the prohibition that the county citizens may very well implement in November.

MR. DALYRUMPLE: Believe me, it is a lot easier to criticize the way somebody wrote it than to write it. I know I have sat on the other side of that too. Anything you write, somebody can take a shot at it.

MR. RYLAND: Well, I know you and Mr. Chairman have had far more experience dealing with this kind of question. But, again, I have to go back to the point that if you put in the County Charter, that you are one leg up from not having it in there even if there are possibly ways of getting around it.

DELEGATE FICKER: You can also say how can you have a detailed, overly detailed, County Charter when you only have one or two details. There is such a filtering process involved with getting the signatures and then getting the question passed, going through the campaign and getting it passed, that you are going to end up with very, very few questions at the end of all this as to whether or not it is a detail or whether or not it isn't a detail.

MR. DALRYMPLE: I don't think detail necessarily means it depends on the number of words in there. I think it depends on the generality of application of what it is you are talking about. We could debate that all night.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Yes, and we have some people in the back.

MR. MAXEY: Mr. Chairman, I am Don Maxey. I am on the agenda to speak later but I do have a response within the context of two or three questions just asked that I would like to give you now.

First of all, the question with regard to the financial involvement in the county in trenching and whether or not this would, in fact, serve any purpose. I was concerned about this so I called Mr. Galt's office and spoke to a gentleman there by the name of Ed Raleigh. He went to some trouble to check into this and called me back the next day and informed me that the funding of WSSC projects comes about through general obligation bonds that are backed by the full faith and credit of both counties and the taxing authority of this county. I think most courts would consider that a direct involvement.

If WSSC should ever default, that full debt falls back upon the counties to pay.

The other point is on the direct tie in to the county with the permit, it is absolutely essential and required by law that the county, as just mentioned here, amend the 10-year water and sewage plan prior to any work by WSSC. This amendment has to be approved by a state agency. They have 90 days to respond to it, otherwise it is automatically assumed to be okay. But, it is, in effect, a state permit. It goes to the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene.

So, it would be pretty tough really for the county -- and I don't think they would really would want to, but I think most members of the County Council fully intend to get away from this trenching just as quick as they can.

Now, the other point that was raised just now concerned whether or not simply requiring a zoning change is going to help us that much. I speak to you -- I am not a member of this particular group. The conservation group that I represent has been in operation for about 10 years in conservation hassles. We lost our trenching hassle several years ago. The slides you see up there were taken right up the head of Ten Mile Creek. We are still very bitter about it. We think the whole county should be very bitter about it.

That well you see pumping out 100 gallons a minute in that picture there has been permanently compromised for all practical purposes. That well would have provided survival water for every man, woman and child in Montgomery County in the event of some kind of natural or, God forbid, man-made emergency. Water sheltered from fallout, from toxic spills. It is 140,000 gallons per day, a court for every man, woman and child in this county. And, we don't have such a source really to fall back on. The driller that drilled that was from Baltimore County. He said had that test well #3 been discovered there, the county would have sent people out there to immediately mark it off and permanently mark it as a protected resource.

We cooperated somewhat with the county in trenching there after we realized we were losing hoping we could keep them out of the major fractures going to some of these wells. Unfortunately, they chose not to keep out of those fractures and to convince us that it was okay to trench in the fractures where the deepest dirt happened to be when they got up there and found out how much rock there was. They set up a meeting with Dr. Kenneth Weaver, with the citizens of the Ten Mile Creek group and the Clarksburg and Boyds area. Dr. Kenneth Weaver, who heads the Maryland Geological Survey, Arnold Shifner, from the Department of Natural Resources, and a Dr. Attman from the U.S. Geological Survey. They all informed us it didn't really matter whether they trenched in the fractures or not, that that well, the 100-gallon a minute well, would be compromised for several generations based on their previous experience. That the nitrates alone from the sludge -- We are talking about trenching sludge four feet thick. It is not a topical application like you might do in some oriental countries. It is an injection, a kind of a mainlining injection.

Now, what does this do for us? A zoning change guarantees a site specific public hearing. Do you realize we are not guaranteed that now? The County Council, out of the goodness of their heart, may give us a public hearing but the people in Clarksburg found out about five years ago from a decision from Judge Calhoun they only have to hold a public hearing under the county law for the general topic of a location of a public facility. They do not have to list any site specific. And, we thought that was true.

MR. DALRYMPLE: How about the 10-year plan? They have to show it in that.

MR. MAXEY: In the 10-year plan they would have to show it but I am not even sure what all the requirements are for that in regard to public hearings.

MR. DALRYMPLE: There is a public hearing requirement for that.

MR. MAXEY: The site specific though, I would be very surprised if Judge Calhoun would not tell you even that doesn't require site specific.

Our lawyer could not believe it so he appealed it to the state and we found out about $2000 later that Judge Calhoun was right and he explained to us. I wrote this, he said. I was in on writing the County Charter and the other rules and regulations associated with it and he said, it requires a hearing on the general topic, not on site specific, and that needs to be looked into. At least changing the zoning would require site specific. You have got to post it on the property and all that.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Well, thank you.

We have very patient Alex Greene in the back and we would like to get him in if we could.

Thank you all very much.

Mr. Greene, we are sorry for all this time. We appreciate your patience.

MR. GREENE: For the record, I am Alexander Greene from the Office of the County Executive and this statement represents the views of the Executive.

While this may be a very popular issue, considering the general if not unanimous opposition to further entrenchment of sludge, it is not an appropriate, necessary or effective charter issue.

The Charter of Montgomery County sets forth the basic framework for the structure and orderly processes of our government. The Charter already provides a legislative and executive powers necessary to make responsible decisions to protect the health and safety of our citizens and to provide for proper land use. Narrow or transient limitations such as is proposed under Question E, if effective, would limit the ability of our duly elected representatives to act in the best interests of the people of the county; but more likely would relegate to the courts the decision making process which should be the province of our elected representatives.

The proposed Charter amendment would have limited effect and perhaps would be counterproductive to the best interests of the County. Since funds for construction and operation of sludge entrenchment are provided by the WSSC rather than the County and since WSSC or its agents are the permittees for entrenchment sites, it is not likely that this amendment will serve an purpose. In fact, it may be interpreted as precluding the county from expending funds otherside required to do the inspecting and monitoring needed to protect the public health from the entrenchment which has or is taking place.

The Executive and the Council have, as a matter of policy, decided that sludge composting is a more desirable method of disposal. To that end there has been a consistent effort to have a facility constructed at Site 2. Until that site is in operation, ad ecision has been made to proceed with an interim facility at Dickerson, to be ready by January 1 to receive the County's allotted share of sludge expected by that time. Further sludge entrenchment would be possible only if now unforeseen events preclude us from meeting our scheduled date. But were that necessary, there is grave doubt that this amendment would be effective mainly for the reasons already stated reinforced by the fact that our receipt of sludge which is mandated by Federal Court Order would have to be placed in a site already permitted by the State.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: There is a site that has been approved and --

MR. GREENE: That is right. We have appeared before the County Council to request the amendment to the 10-year water and sewer plan, solid waste plan. We pointed out to them that while Dickerson, by every effort on our part and by the Maryland Environmental Service, and the WSSC, we hoped would be ready by January 1 if something happened. We do have to get it permitted by the state. If something were to happen that precluded that a back up would be necessary and the only back up that would be necessary would be cross trenching at Site 216 which has already been approved and which has a permit.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Which one is that?

MR. GREENE: At Norbeck.

So that was a warning literally that we felt it was our responsibility to advise the Council of and it is one we hope we don't have to pursue. Composting, by policy and every other reason, a much more desirable method of disposal.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Mr. McGukian and Ms. Kanchuger, do you have further thoughts or should we just start asking question? However you would like to proceed.

MS. KANCHUGER: Well, because there has been some questions to how the Charter amendment would be interpreted, I don't think that is the problem. I don't think we are going to have facing us right off court challenges. I think we are going to have facing us right off the tons of sludge that has to be disposed of.

What the amendment says is no expenditure of county funds shall be made or authorized for the construction or operation of a system for bearing or trenching sludge. And, that is not now -- Those are not functions performed by the county. Construction and operation of sludge trenching is the responsibility of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission which is implementing county policy as expressed in the 10-year water and sewer plan which is amended annually and required by state law.

The operation, the day-to-day operation, of the sludge trenching site is contracted by WSSC to the Maryland Environmental Service which is a part of the Department of Natural Resources of the State of Maryland.

The county may also not purchase or contract for the service of burying or trenching sludge.

The county has not purchased any of the sludge trenching sites. The county has held the hearings that were talked about by the gentlemen who were sitting here before. WSSC has been the purchasing agent and the relationship between the county and WSSC is not a contractual one so there is prohibition of a contract for providing that service and is not one that would affect what is going on now.

Also the county did not seek Federal or state permits for burying or trenching.

If, as the gentlemen said, getting approval of the State Department of Health for any amendment to the 10-year water and sewer plan is a permit, perhaps the county would be prohibited from doing that, but I think that trying to pick out how much of an expenditure of county funds has gone into action on the 10-year water and sewer plan is certainly a minor part of the cost of sludge trenching.

So, as the general manager and general counsel at WSSC said to me when I presented this wording to them and said what effect will this have on sludge trenching on Montgomery County, they said none.

MR. MC GUKIAN: I was going to say that I think Delegate Ficker gave the best reason for our not supporting this amendment which is that if there are successful legal challenges to the only two alternatives that are presently possible within the time limits we have, that is Dickerson and Site #2, there is no other place to put the sludge. And we are under a Federal Court Order to take our share of the sludge. There is no alternative because you cannot turn the spigots off. It is there. Montgomery County has to recognize that --which it has recognized -- that it must perform its obligation in the region.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: I don't know whether to get to the substance or the more technical questions.

I sort of have the same response that Delegate Ficker has, that the county is all over this and some way there must be a connection. I am watching the Congress. They look for the most obsecure possible connections. I think they passed an amendment to say that the President may not transmit the census to the Congress because they are worried about the counting of illegal aliens. Well, I -- Somewhere someone will have to spend two dollars to transmit that thing so they cut it off with that little connection. The President doesn't prepare the census reports or anything.

So, I am wondering if the matter you sloughed off a little bit about the permit isn't the little touch of county involvement they might have. I wish you would explain that.

MS. KANCHUGER: You are absolutely right. There is a great deal of county involvement. WSSC was created by state law and is, if you are technical, a state agency. But over the years, since the founding in 1918, actually very recently, there have been a number of amendments to the law giving the counties a great deal of control over the way in which WSSC operates and making the counties the policy-making bodies.

We do not make up how we are going to do either water supply or sewage treatment or sludge disposal in the county. It is county policy that we implement.

However, it is WSSC funds.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Well, my mind is clearly not made up. So I am trying to ask these questions for the record and or my own ability to get a hold of this question.

What then do you think of the expenditures that the county makes, admittedly a bit of an obsecure handle, but the expenditures that the county makes in reviewing and approving sites and authorizing or approving your budget? Don't some of those constitute an expenditure of some money that is related and necessary to the authorization?

MS. KANCHUGER: Right. But I don't think anybody, even the sponsors of this amendment, would want those processes to stop. This is where the responsible planning goes on and if you look at what the county has done recently, they have, as Alex said, declared trenching will no longer be permitted in Montgomery County. I think the citizens near the trenching site have been very successful in convincing the county officials that that is not a policy that the county should adopt. The county is proceeding full speed ahead with composting and the action taken by the county government in purchasing the Dickerson site is unique in that no other sludge disposal site has been purchased by the county. Site #2, the Calverton site, was purchased by the WSSC but the county was very insistent that they make it clear that composting is their priority by going ahead and purchasing that land to get the Dickerson site moving.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Could you all explain briefly the County Council's or the county government's approval of the WSSC budget? What is that process?

MS. KANCHUGER: That is an involved process in which the budget is reviewed by the County Executive. The County Executive makes his recommendations to the County Council for realignment of priorities in the WSSC budget or making cuts or adding to it and the Council does as thorough a job in reviewing the WSSC budget as it does in any of the others not because it is county tax money that is involved but because it is county citizens whose rates will be increased if the WSSC budget gets larger. So, it is a -- CHAIRMAN ADAMS: The money, as I understand it, is from user fees?

MS. KANCHUGER: The money is from user fees in the case of the operating funds. There is an ad valorem tax, a small one in Montgomery County, larger in Prince George's County, to handle storm drainage. And, there is bond money used for capital expenditures.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: So you point is that this amendment reads no expenditure of county funds shall be made or authorized? In other words, the County Council authorizes, in effect, by approving your budget that these activities go on, but they are not authorizing expenditure of county funds.

MS. KANCHUGER: Right.

MR. DALRYMPLE: They approve the CIP but the approval of the CIP doesn't --

MS. KANCHUGER: Once we know the size of the CIP we have to go float bonds on the open market to finance the amount approved.

MR. DALRYMPLE: And, what they are doing now with the CR charges over there, I don't even know whether they are taking away the full faith and credit of the county would have any impact on the county to go float bonds. Now you have so much damned money --

MS. KANCHUGER: Well, the way the WSSC interprets the full faith and credit clause is that we do have to include it on a bond. It is a wording, a phrasing, that is in our bonds. But we have never called upon the county to actually back up those bonds.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: So there is an arguable point that that is a link?

MS. KANCHUGER: Oh, yes. I am not denying there links. We are just saying that the day-to-day operation of a sludge site is not done with county funds.

MR. MC GUKIAN: I don't think that any court could reasonably say that backing up WSSC bond funds constitutes county money.

MS. KANCHUGER: It is your money and mine if you are buying wash tubs.

MR. DALRYMPLE: Didn't Judge Smith in the Calverton thing tell the WSSC I told you to --

MS. KANCHUGER: Yes, that is the overriding, yes. Delegate Ficker is wrong. None of those lawsuits are now pending. All of those suits have been dismissed and Judge Smith has said, get out of my court and don't come back here. Just take care of your sludge.

MR. DALRYMPLE: I think Delegate Ficker said they are pending in Appellate Court so some of them are.

MS. KANCHUGER: We are under construction on Site #2.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Could you explain again under the 10-year plan that you have to go to the state and Health Department for a permit. What is that again?

MS. KANCHUGER: The 10-year water and sewer plan law was enacted by the State legislature a few years back saying that each county in the State of Maryland is responsible for planning ahead to meet their water and sewer needs and -- so there is an annual review just as there is with the budget and of the CIP and annually the 10-year water and sewer plan and also the solid waste plan are submitted to the state saying this is what we state to be county policy in these areas for the coming year.

MR. GREENE: I might point out that is under state law too. It clouds the question as to whether the funds used in that process are funds which are totally under control of the county.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: There is an argument that some money is spent in the design of that but your counter argument is, hey, the state makes us do that.

MR. GREENE: This discussion is fraught with how legal questions and how much the courts would have to be concerned with one's interpretation of --

MR. DALRYMPLE: As I understand it, the 10-year plan is basically a planning document and it is no more of a permit than a master plan would be. It is a plan, not a permit.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Okay. When you said you had to go to the State Health Department to get, what, a permit under that plan --

MS. KANCHUGER: No, no, no. The plan is approved at the state level by the State Department of Health.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: We also have to get --

MS. KANCHUGER: Various of the permits that are applied for also to the State Department of Health.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Who gets the permit?

MS. KANCHUGER: WSSC.

MR. GREENE: The permit will only issue if what they apply for conforms to the 10-year plan.

I might say in the case of the Dickerson facility it will be the Maryland Environmental Service that is the applicant for the permit. They will operate that site under lease from the county.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: The county takes the 10-year plan. The Health Department gets the plan approved. The WSSC goes to get sites specific.

MS. KANCHUGER: In implementing the county's 10-year plan. We implement both the Montgomery County and the Prince George's County plans. Then we proceed and say, because this activity is requested in the county's 10-year plan, we are going to go ahead and we need a permit to do such and such.

MR. BANKSON: There is no relationship between Dickerson and WSSC?

MR. GREENE: The relationship there is by contract. The county owns the land and it leases it to the Maryland Environmental Service. The Maryland Environmental Service has a contract with the Sanitary Commission to provide the composting for materials delivered to it.

MS. KANCHUGER: Now, since we must account for the quantity of sludge that we are acquired to take by law, we are required to handle the county's share of the sludge produced at the Blue Plains --

MS. DAVIS: So the Dickerson site proposal really would be an outright, unique, but outright county involvement because the county does own that land and --

MR. GREENE: Absolutely, but that it not trenching.

MS. KANCHUGER: That is the effort to get away from trenching.

MS. DAVIS: What are the chances, if any, that the Dickerson site could be used for trenching if the composting operation doesn't get under way on schedule?

MR. GREENE: I know it can't be because the sub-surface conditions there really don't permit it. I think there have been tests on it and in addition to the fact that there is a commitment not to. But, it is not available for it. It is not -- conditions are not appropriate for trenching there. In fact, I think it was examined at one time or that general area was.

MS. DAVIS: But, leaving that aside, this proposed charter amendment would at least in theory preclude the county from doing that. I guess what I am trying to get at is this charter amendment will have no effect on sludge trenching because all sludge trenching is a WSSC situation so there is at least one possible situation where this amendment could have some effect.

MR. GREENE: No. The reason for that is simply a matter of time. It is not generic. We have exercised our option on the Dickerson site. The Council has approved the supplementary funds and so on. We have exercised and acquired the Dickerson site so we now own the site. And, the lease arrangements with the Maryland Environmental Service are going through. We would not be expending further funds. In fact, we are in a position now of receiving pay back from the Maryland Environmental Service which is going to pay us rental for the use of the site and which will construct the facilities out of its own finances and be repaid by payments from the Sanitary Commission.

So our investment will amount to the kinds of things I mentioned in the statement which are the counterproductive problems.

What we are going to spend money on at the Dickerson site is in monitoring to make sure that the operation and maintenance are safe in the best interest of the residents of the county. We are going to monitor the wells. We are going to monitor the air. We are going to see to ti that the terms and conditions of the regulations which govern the permit for that site are maintained. And, it is that regulatory process is the kind of money we will be spending. Now, to broadly define that as part of the operation of the site which may be stretching the point, that may be where we would be --

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: It seemed to me to be a little unfair to suggest that this amendment was going to prohibit that kind of monitoring.

MR. GREENE: That is right. In other words, I am not saying --

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: If you are operating and you are monitoring, I don't see how your monitoring can be part of their operation.

MS. KANCHUGER: Actually the monitoring has been turned over by DEP by WSSC in the case of on-going sites. So, very often they find it in their best interest to turn it over to us.

MR. GREENE: It can be defined as part of the operational -- The O&M Manual, the Operations and Maintenance Manual, which is set up for the operation of a facility, includes monitoring to see to it that there are not violations of the requirements.

MR. CHEN: Is the county paying WSSC for the monitoring activities?

MR. GREENE: I think probably not.

MS. KANCHUGER: No. We pay for them when we do them.

We have laboratory to do the test.

MR. CHEN: But you just said that DEP is turning over the monitoring.

MS. KANCHUGER: DEP is giving up that function itself and requesting WSSC to do it.

MR. BANKSON: But the monitoring function is required by some other law, State Health Department or Federal or --

MS. KANCHUGER: No. The monitoring is required by the conscience of the county government.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Well, what is the likelihood that -- I am not sure my thumb is on the checkerboard. What is the likelihood that the composting is going to be stopped? As a casual observer and newspaper -- It seems there is a law-suit under way, is that correct?

MR. MC GUKIAN: There is a lawsuit at Site #2. The litigation continues there. There is no litigation at this point on Dickerson and we are not aware of any.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Is there any contemplated?

MR. MC GUKIAN: Delegate Ficker raised the issue tonight and he says he has talked to some lawyers that are thinking about doing it. That is more than we know.

MR. DALRYMPLE: But you are not enjoined in Calverton?

MR. MC GUKIAN: No, no, we are not enjoined.

MS. KANCHUGER: Prince George's County tried and Judge Smith said you can't enjoin in this. It has to proceed. The General Manager of WSSC is required to proceed in this.

MR. DALRYMPLE: Well, yes. But that wouldn't necessarily be true at Dickerson, would it?

MS. KANCHUGER: No.

MR. DALRYMPLE: But, I think conceivably somebody could go in and try to enjoin the construction of Dickerson while the suit was pending but in order to do that it seems to me they would have to put one very large bond.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Are there further questions?

(No response.)

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: Thank you all. We appreciate your patience and expertise.

MR. MC GUKIAN: May I say one thing on the FOP presentation. As the County Attorney I just want to make it known that I did not approve that amendment, the language of it. We didn't give any opinion on it that I am aware of, at least any official opinion, and it seemed to me that their counsel at one point was saying that in effect what he was told by the County Attorney's Office or someone in it was that it shouldn't be a long and complicated amendment but rather concise, not that that language they wound up with was approved by our office which it was not.

CHAIRMAN ADAMS: I appreciate that because I think the record wasn't clear. At one point I think the attorney said, okay, we are going to get an opinion, and then I think one or the other said, oh, yes, we heard from the County Attorney. So, I appreciate clarifying that.

If there is no further testimony, we will adjourn for the night. We will keep the record open. I believe me may get a written comment or two from other people for about ten days.

Thank you very much.

(Whereupon, at 11:20 o'clock p.m., the hearing was adjourned.)

9:00 p.m.

MR. GUDIS: Good evening Ladies and Gentlemen.

This is the continuation of the public hearing held on January 14, 1982, on Legislative Bill No. 71-81, Collective Bargaining for Police Officers. The bill provides the framework for conducting collective bargaining between County government and police officers in specified classifications and includes establishment of a permanent umpire to implement certain provisions of law; certification procedures for employee organizations; subjects appropriate and inappropriate for bargaining; impasse procedures; prohibited practices; provisions prohibiting strikes and lockouts; use of official working time of employees; and the effect of prior enactments. This legislation amends Chapter 33 of the Montgomery County Code, 1972, as amended.

A worksession on this legislation has been scheduled for Thursday, February 4, 1982, at 3:00 p.m.

The public hearing record will remain open until the close of business on Friday, January 29, 1982.

The first witness to appear before us tonight is Edward Rovner for the County Executive.

MR. ROVNER: Thank you for the opportunity to be here tonight to describe the legislation and summarize the legislation which is before you.

After passage of the amendments last year, or 1980 I should say, negotiations opened between the County and the Fraternal Order of Police and extensive discussions regarding the content of the proposed laws to affectuate the change that was made in the charter regarding collective bargaining.

Mr. Hillman has retained a special counsel to work with the County government in this effort. After some months, as you know, a proposed law was finally prepared and submitted to you.

You have before you what is a series of amendments to that original proposal. Let me describe what the procedure has been which I think will set the framework for where we are at the moment.

Following the submission of the proposed law to the Council the committee working for the executive branch continued to meet with the lawyers and the officers of the Fraternal Order of Police to review that draft proposal originally submitted to you. A number of changes were made in the original recommendation and they have now been incorporated in a single document which constitutes a series of amendments to the original draft and that has been submitted to you. It represents the agreement between the Fraternal Order of Police and the Executive Branch on most issues.

On several issues there was just no agreement between us and the draft represents the judgement of the executives as to what ought to be in the ordinance, and that is before you tonight.

The Fraternal Order of Police will be here to expound on where the areas of agreement are and disagreement are between us.

Mr. Hillman, who is special counsel, is here, and can summarize what is in the bill and answer any specific questions you may have as to the contents of it.

The remnants before you represent the best judgement of the executives on what would be in the ordinance which when adopted by the Council will set the framework for the collective bargaining between the County and the union which represents the police.

If there are no questions as to the history of negotiations, I'd like to ask Mr. Hillman if he would describe what is in the bill before you.

MR. GUDIS: Thank you. Before Mr. Hillman starts, I would like to tell the audience that the amendments Mr. Rovner is talking about are in the memorandum dated today. Unfortunately our print shop did not, they were not able to make copies available, but we can certainly make copies available tomorrow or no later than Wednesday.

MR. ROVNER: The Fraternal Order of Police do have copies.

MR. GUDIS: I was told that, but I was also told that we usually would have copies in the back and the print shop was not able to do that tonight.

MR. HILLMAN: My name is Robert Hillman. I'm a partner in the law firm of Wolf, Pokempner & Hillman. What I'd like to do is give you a brief summary of the law and to highlight for you some of its aspects including what I consider the two most substantive of the amendments that we have proposed.

First, the law repeals certain existing laws for employees who are represented by a collective bargaining organization, the meet and confer law and the present law which automatically give 75 percent of cost of living wage adjustment each year.

The law begins after those repealing provisions with a declaration of policy. That declaration of policy basically says between the County and an organization representing its police officers, matters of wages, hours and certain conditions of employment will be decided by collective bargaining and that the parties other than presenting the results of the collective bargaining to the County Council for its approval will not come to the Council at other times asking for those collective bargaining agreements either to be added to or undone by legislation. And in the trade we call that no end runs.

Constitutionally we can't prohibit end runs, but we hope this declaration of policy will serve all parties as a warning that the County's policy is against such end runs.

We go on to define certain terms. I think the most important for thispiece of legislation is the term employee. Employee includes uniformed police officers below the rank of Sergeant. Now there is some discussion as to why we cut off at Sergeant. Basically for two reasons. One, we have a history under the meet and confer law of negotiating a meeting and conferring for those employees below the rank of Sergeant. And nothing in the amendment to the County charter suggested that should be changed.

Secondly, and probably more important, we feel, the County Executive feels strongly that Sergeants are an essential part of the management of the police force in Montgomery County. In fact, we have some statistics that show that certain hours of the day or really certain hours of the night throughout the county, Sergeants are in charge of the various districts. They are the ranking officers.

The legislation is designed first to provide employee free choice. Employees are free to either bargain collectively or not bargain collectively, and to bargain collectively if they wish through a representative of their own choosing. To ensure that free choice and to ensure fair dealing, we have set up the office of permanent umpire. Now the permanent umpire we have set up is not a large addition to the County bureaucracy. We've set up an office of someone who is a known neutral in the field and who will serve and be paid only when he is needed. It is not a permanent office. He is called on much like arbitrators are called on, only when he is needed. We hope that will be very seldom and will not add additional expense to the County's budget.

The election procedures that we've set up are very similar to those which are standard under the National Labor Relations Act and many other State and subdivision Employee Relations Acts.

The timing of the first election and elections thereafter is carefully set out so that timing will not interfere with orderly collective bargaining which we have set up so it will be coordinated and finished in a timely fashion before the Council's budget deliberations.

The collective bargaining, should there be a representative elected, is of two types. We have two types of subjects for collective bargaining and this is one of the major amendments. That is in the packet of amendments that you got today.

Before we had those subjects which were mandatory and the subjects which were prohibited. After discussions with the FOP we have proposed that we now have two types of subjects. Those which are mandatory which we must bargain about and those which are permissive, which the parties can bargain about if they both agree to bargain about those subjects.

Permissive subjects may not be taken to impasse. If there is any question as to whether a subject is permissive or mandatory, that is decided by the permanent umpire.

Basically the bargaining procedure which we have set up calls for the parties to begin bargaining November 1st of any year, or any fiscal year in which a contract will expire. Contracts must run from July 1st to June 30th. We allow for multi-year contracts.

Bargaining starts November 1st. Bargaining must end by January 20th. If the parties are still at an impasse they then begin an impasse procedure which calls for binding arbitration. The person who conducts that impasse procedure is someone we call the impasse neutral for want of a better name. He's chosen by the two parties and he is chosen back in November shortly after the bargaining begins. So if we are stuck at January 20th, this person is on hand, he has the time set aside and he can do the impasse procedure in a very orderly and timely fashion.

The impasse and the report of the impasse neutral must be completed by February 1st. That report is binding upon the collective bargaining representative and the County Executive. The County Executive is bound to include the results of either collective bargaining or the impasse procedure in the budget he presents to the Council, and if there is any other legislation called for he is bound to present that to the Council and to attempt to use his best offices to have the Council enact such legislation.

That, of course, is then submitted on March 1st to the Council when it gets the budget.

The second of the major amendments in this legislation now comes into play. Originally after the matter goes to the Council we had provided that the Council then would either approve and include in its budget and include in future legislation what was needed to implement the agreement. What we were concerned about is that we would not really have the guidance of the Council if it was with a contract or a result of impasse was presented to them on really a take it or leave it basis. So what we have provided for in the amendment is to allow for some expression of the Council's position as of April 25th, part way through the Council's budget deliberations. And we have provided that if the Council expresses its disapproval of the contract the parties would get back together and try to negotiate a new agreement with the help of the impasse neutral if necessary and resubmit this new agreement along the lines of the Council's guidance by May 10th so it might be included in the final budget on May 15th.

This, we hope, provides us with some guidance with the Council's wisdom and does not present the Council with a take it or leave it package.

The legislation goes on to provide for certain prohibited practices, fairly standard unfair labor practices, with the enforcement by the permanent umpire if necessary.

By the way, I might add that my experience in collective bargaining and various subidivions in Maryland is that the prohibited practices or unfair labor practices are very seldom happening and are very seldom called upon to have hearings and use the permanent umpire on those matters.

And finally the legislation provides for a no strike, no lock-out provision which allows for sanctions for a strike after a hearing. That, I think, fairly well summarizes the legislation and I am certainly willing to answer any questions.

MR. GUDIS: Thank you.

MR. SCULL: The provisions for reply by the Council by April 25th, page 23, cites, "Council shall indicate by a majority of four votes its intention to do or not do." Is there a precedent elsewhere for this procedure? How does it work?

MR. HILLMAN: There are various procedures in various states and various subdivisions. We felt strongly here that under the charter, particularly section 305, that we could not have collective bargaining or binding arbitration that bound the Council, and this was our way of saying, knowing we need the approval of the Council, we would like to hear about it so that we had a second shot to negotiate if needed.

I am not sure that this exact formula is in use at the present time. Connecticut has a formula somewhat like this. How has it worked other places? Well, not ever having experienced this exact formula, I can't tell you. But I can tell you a great deal of what goes on in public sector collective bargaining is, if not unique, has very little experience behind it because we've only been doing public sector collective bargaining for about ten years.

MR. SCULL: What do you see as the legal effect if the Council were to not act on or before April 25th? What happens in the budget process? Do you contemplate that this vote is the same as an appropriation?

MR. HILLMAN: The vote on the 25th?

MR. SCULL: Yes.

MR. HILLMAN: No. I think it's clear that what we're saying the Council state its current intention and it is not obviously binding on the Council in stating their intention.

MR. SCULL: If they fail to do it, could it create an infirmity in their final budget action, if they fail to take an intermediate step? I don't know what other, there are some deadlines in the charter and the laws for action in sending things to Prince Georges and what not. This seems a little different.

MR. HILLMAN: The purpose of this concept is really to provide for an orderly way of dealing with employee representatives rather than saying to them, okay, you have bargained for two months, you've gone perhaps to an impasse procedure, and now we don't like what you do, so tough luck.

Well we're saying the same things perhaps to the Executive. This is a chance we feel for the council to say we like A, B, and C. We don't like D. We like E and we don't like F. So go back and put together another collective bargaining agreement which will be within those parameters because those are the parameters we intend to inact. And it is, as I say, an expression of intention.

MR. FOSLER: Mr. Hillman, I wonder if you could clarify a little more exactly how the process is going to work. There is an agreement between the Executive and the bargaining agent. That agreement then is submitted to the Council?

MR. HILLMAN: That's correct.

MR. FOSLER: The Council then reacts to it on or before April 25th. If the Council, this of course is before there has been any kind of an impasse resolution.

MR. HILLMAN: No, this is after an impasse resolution if there need be, because the impasse resolution --

MR. FOSLER: The Council would be reacting to the arbitrator's decision?

MR. HILLMAN: Either the agreement of the parties or the arbitrator's decision.

MR. FOSLER: And if the Council rejected the arbitrator's decision, it would go back to the parties for further negotiation and for possible further impasse resolution?

MR HILLMAN: That's correct.

MR. FOSLER: What happens the second time if the arbitrator comes up with the same decision?

MR. HILLMAN: Any agreement and an arbitrator's decision which has the force and effect of agreement is finally subject to automatic reduction or elimination of conditions which the Council does not approve.

MR. FOSLER: Say that again.

MR. HiLLMAN: What we are providing for is a final decision by the Council. Since the Council under the charter, under Section 305 of the charter has the power to enact the budget. So what we are saying, let us take an example, the parties agree to a contract which costs a million dollars. The Council looks at thatcontract and sends it back to the parties and says, "We're not going to approve a million dollars. You'd better come up with a contract that costs about $800,000."

The parties go back and they can't agree on anything that costs $800,000. And they come back with something that still costs a million dollars. The Council then has every right to pass a budget for $800,000 in it and the parties live with $800,000.

MR. FOSLER: I wonder if you could indicate again the distinction between interest arbitration and grievance arbitration in the Executive's view on what the charter amendment says and what the legislation would propose.

MR. HILLMAN: The interest arbitration provides for a neutral, the parties, well, if they cannot agree the interest arbitration provides for the neutral to decide between the positions of the party. We have provided here for last best offer. That is the parties will each present a package and the neutral would choose between those packages and that package then becomes the agreement of the parties which is submitted to the Council.

Grievance arbitration on the other hand is arbitration over the implementation of provisions of an already executed contract. How does a provision of a contract apply to a certain set of facts basically.

There was some disagreement as to the exact effect, the exact intention, as to the referendum, the charter amendment. The County Executive however feels it was clear, at least to him, what was proposed was interest arbitration and not grievance arbitration. And that is what is proposed in this legislation.

MR. FOSLER: Another one of the amendments that the Executive is proposing would modify the prohibited subjects of bargaining. As I understand it it makes some of them permissive as opposed to prohibitive. Could you be more specific as to what now under the amended version of the Executive's bill would be the mandatory subjects of bargaining and which would be the permissive subjects and which would be the prohibitive subjects?

MR HILLMAN: The mandatory subject --

MR. FOSLER: And could you give us the Executive's reason or thinking behind it?

MR. HILLMAN: The mandatory subjects are set out on page 18 section 33-80(A). Salary and wages; pension; retirement; employee benefits such as insurance, leave, holidays, vacation, personal patrol vehicles, hours and working conditions, and provisions for the processing of grievances. B and C of that section set out those matters which are permissive. There is a long list of them. Certain things such as pensions of persons who have already retired; recruitment selection; appointment; testing; promotion; position classification. Everything listed in B and C now are permissive subjects of bargaining.

The County does not have to bargain about any of these things if it says it does not wish to bargain. And the thinking behind changing these from prohibitive to permissive is that the parties may wish to talk about some of these things. We felt that by prohibiting discussion of these subjects we were doing a disservice to the county.

Employee organization, for instance, down to technology to be utilized. The employee organization may have some ideas about the technology to be utilized that are good ideas. We did not want to prohibit discussion of those ideas and we did not want to prohibit giving the parties the flexibility to embody good ideas in the collective bargaining agreement. So we made them permissive. The County can discuss if it wishes to. If the County doesn't wish to discuss them they cannot be taken to impasse.

MR. FOSLER: B and C had been a prohibited subjects?

MR. HILLMAN: That's correct.

MR. FOSLER: And the amendment would make them permissive.

MR. HILLMAN: That's correct.

MR. FOSLER: Are there still some that are prohibited?

MR. HILLMAN: No.

MR. FOSLER: There are no subjects that are prohibited from bargaining?

MR. HILLMAN: That's correct.

Those things in C really are management rights, and what we would be discussing there are the effects. For instance, the effects of transfer assignment scheduling. We would talk about the effects of those actions.

MR. GUDIS: You're saying both parties have to agree?

MR. HILLMAN: That's right. They have to agree to discuss them.

MR. GUDIS: I just want to make one comment. I think we're going to have to look very carefully at the April 25th date because we don't normally start working on the operating budget until right after the 15th of April, so I think we're going to have to look at that date and perhaps we may have to suggest some changes, but we will certainly take that up at the work session.

MR. ROVNER: The objective was to provide a date far enough in advance of the adoption of the final budget that if the Council had problems, signal as early as possible to the parties that you're having problems so we can go back and try to resolve it, but close enough to the final date so you'd have a chance to work through a good many of the budget problems and be able to see this contract in some kind of context of the balance of County government.

MR. GUDIS: I understand. I think the question that I'm raising is that since that is so early in the budget process, when we actually start working on the operating budget, that sometimes we aren't always in a position to make a determination. Like the COL, we don't normally determine that until we go through the whole budget process.

If we try to do this too early then the question comes up as to whether we can make this decision without having an effect on other county programs. I'm not saying we can't or that we can. I'm sure we'll try to do our best to try to do it as early as possible to give all parties a chance to participate. I just wanted to alert you to that.

MR. GUDIS: The next speaker will be Kathleen Dolan.

MR. FOSLER: Mr. Rovner, I have a question for you. Mr. Hillman, under B, it says, "The following subjects shall not be the subject of collective bargaining" under the copies that we thought included the amendments.

MR. HILLMAN: The only thing I can say is that it is a typographical error because there is a D, which says "Notwithstanding any provision of this law" and it goes on to say that they can bargain about any matter.

MR. GUDIS: It may be the subject of --

MR. HILLMAN: The bottom of 20 is the permissive language.

MR. FOSLER: LEt me be clear.

MR HILLMAN: I think you could leave that "shall not be" because the "notwithstanding" provision down at the bottom of page 20, allows for the permissive --

MS. SPECTOR: That's not a good way to write it.

MR. HILLMAN: I agree with you.

MR. GUDIS: I think before we get the final bill we'll work that out.

MR. GUDIS: Ms. Dolan?

MS. DOLAN: I'm Kathy Dolan. I reside at 4505 Bennion Road in Wheaton, and I am here to testify on behalf of the Employee Organizations Task Force concerning bill 71-81 "Collective Bargaining for Police Officers."

This bill is a response to the will of the voters expresses in 1980 to support collective bargaining for police officers. We feel that the voters also support collective bargaining for all county employees and we are here to ask that this bill be expanded to cover all Montgomery County employees.

This is not the first time collective bargaining has been discussed in Montgomery County. In 1976, the Special Committee to Review Compensation and Personnel Practices, in their final report to the Council (August 1976) stated, "In the Committee's view there are advantages to the County through increased collective bargaining which outweigh the potential dangers." They went on to state, "Furthermore, it is time to make a positive affirmation of collective bargaining as a right of recognized employee groups." We concur with this advice of six years ago.

Second, the County has had Meet and Confer legislation on the books since 1978 and it has not been successful. Several strong and organized groups were informed by the County that they could not be recognized under this legislation and other groups have not been able to have a successful election. This is in large part due to the restrictions and limitations inherent in the law.

Third, only the Fraternal Order of Police has organized successfully under Meet and Confer and their reaction to the experience was to go to the voters in 1980 to get a charter amendment for real collective bargaining.

Two years ago the Charter Review Commission Personnel Committee stated that, "Many County employees view the "meet and confer' process as a meaningless exercise. They feel this way because any 'position paper' that is written as a result of 'meet and confer' merely details the topics discussed and the views of both sides. It has no legal standing. In addition there is no mandate that both sides come to an agreement and the CAO remains the final authority for most disputes. This situation cuases many employees to believe that there is too little incentive for the County to really consider their point of view. It is simply too easy to put off negotiation of the tough issues to a later date. there does not seem to be anything that can be done to address these problems short of implementing collective bargaining."

Fourth, County employees are reasonable and decent people. We are taxpayers also. We ask only justice and fairness. We do not ask for impossible wages, unreasonable hours or unmeetable working conditions. And we would not ask for these under collective bargaining. We do want the right to ask for what is equitable.

In looking at the specifics of this legislation we have some problems in several areas. First, the definition of strike in section 33-76 is somewhat unusual. There are several model laws that have better definitions.

We also are concerned with the section on the Permanent Umpire. This looks like the bargain basement version of a Public Employee Relations Board and as such has some real flaws. In addition, several provisions under section 33-77 Permanent Umpire especially (2) and (3) will hamper the Umpire in necessary information gathering.

Another area of concern is in terms of time limits on petitions and provisions for decertification. The provisions for petitions seem unnecessarily restrictive and the prohibition of runoff elections is quite questionable.

We have other problems with the bill and will be glad to discuss it further with the Council.

MR. GUDIS: Thank you. Are there any questions?

If not, the next speaker is Mr. Allen Katz representing Lodge 35, Fraternal Order of Police.

MR. KATZ: I'd like to introduce George Driesen who is our special counsel who has helped the Fraternal Order of Police, Lodge 35, during the drafting process. And it will be his comments that I believe you have a copy of now.

MR. DRIESEN: Let me tell you first of all how utterly delighted I am to be here. I'm delighted on two counts.

First of all, I'm a foreigner. I come from several other jurisdictions and I imigrated to this county about 20 years ago. And one of the first things that struck me when I arrived was the entirely different impression of a police force here that I got very early on, I was given a speeding ticket, from the impression that I had in other jurisdictions where I had resided.

As I am sure all of you know, the police in this county are extremely courteous, extremely efficient, and extremely professional and I think anybody who lives here knows that.

So I'm very proud indeed to be representing them. And I think it is that sense of them and not as one of the speakers last time suggested, the idea that the voters in this county didn't know what they were doing that led the voters to enact section 510 of the Montgomery County Code to enable the police officers of this jurisdiction to have collective bargaining with mandatory arbitration. And I'm going to come to that section in a moment.

The second reason I'm delighted to be here is that I have taught the subject of collective bargaining in three of America's major law schools as what they call a guest or adjunct professor. And I've always wondered if I could do a better job than the prior scribblers in drafting a collective bargaining bill. I haven't had the pleasure of drafting this bill, but I must say the FOB and its representatives appreciate the fact that the County Executive has listened carefully to our comments. Alas, we disagree on the fundamentals. But nonetheless we have been listened to with respect to the document which you have before you, and some of our ideas do appear in the document and we had a fair hearing.

But we believe the document before you does not comply with the mandate of the voters when they adopted Section 510 of the Montgomery County Charter.

Collective bargaining with mandatory arbitration if adopted in this county, and we hope that it will be, would bring Montgomery County into line with most of the forward looking jurisdictions in this country that employ police officers. It would substitute collective bargaining in the fixing of terms and conditions of employment of police officers in this jurisdiction. But the voters mandated binding arbitration and the County Executive, and we agree with this on that, takes the position when they're referring to interest arbitration, and what the voters meant and what many many jurisdictions in the United States that have bargaining for police and other uniformed services have is just that, binding arbitration. That is to say the parties negotiate and if no agreement is reached the matter is placed before a neutral who decides the issues.

Now you, ladies and gentlemen, are our employers and when the voters said mandatory arbitration, it is our position that they meant it. And it is our view that good public sector labor relations require that there be a place where we can go with you to get a final adjudication. And therefore, we believe that the document before you is inadequate, both as a matter of law in this county and as a matter of policy. Because you don't have to go to interest arbitration.

Now there are many jurisdictions in which public sector bargaining is provided for by statutes and other employees, if an impasse is reached, have to rely on the good grace of the legislature. It either votes their collective bargaining agreement up or down. But in these same jurisdictions, and I'm going to name them, where that is the procedure for other employees, it is not the procedure for police and other uniformed services. And the reason for that is simple.

The police and other uniformed services are too darned important. We just can't have unresolved impasses and collective bargaining between this county and its police officers.

Among the jurisdictions which do not provide mandatory arbitration for other representative employees but do provide such arbitration for police, are Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Oregon, Washington, Wisconsin, Wyoming, Minnesota, assuming as we do that police are essential employees, and Alaska. And we urge this county do joing that honorable list of jurisdictions which provide for mandatory arbitration of police bargaining impasses. That, we think, is the basic imperfection and failing in this document.

We have provided suggested language in Exhibit 3 which would integrate with the present ordinance. And I think for that reason it is somewhat clumsy as a statute, but we have provided language in our exhibit, I think it's Exhibit 1, I misspoke, which would indeed make possible mandatory arbitration if in the unlikely event there really was an impasse between this council and the police in negotiations.

I might say as I read this ordinance, and we will have some suggestions in the work sessions to clarify it, as I read it you do not get the collective bargaining agreement to pass upon. You only get those which is in my view proper and not at all unusual, you only get those portions which require either the appropriation of funds or the enactment of legislation. Everything else is between the County Executive and the collective bargaining departments.

But that is our basic problem with this document. And there is nothing new in our proposal for mandatory arbitration. Students of collective bargaining are familiar with the practice of mandating arbitration as a substitute for the strike in labor relations statutes governing uniformed employees. That's how impasses are settled in the private sector. We have to have a means of settling impasses with you.

It is widely recognized that there must be a fair and equitable method of resolving once and for all disagreements over the contents of collective bargaining agreements when one of the bargaining parties represents the uniformed services. Otherwise uniformed employees may strike even though a strike is unlawful because they have no other means of obtaining a settlement that is perceived to be fair.

That is the lesson of the PATCO tragedy, as the New York Times pointed out shortly after the PATCO strike occurred. And it is the explanation for the 11 year history of essentially strike free labor relations in the postal service. Only one postal union, one small union, has ever gone to arbitration in the postal service. But because it's there there have always been agreements. And the postal service, I don't want it misunderstood. The FOP is opposed to strikes by police officers. The Fraternal Order of Police, the parent organization, expressly forbids strikes, and that rule binds Lodge 35. But there is no assurance that the FOP will perpetually be representative of the County police, and that's one of the reasons why there is sufficient frustration no matter what the rules are on strikes. We think there ought to be mandatory interest arbitration of the basic issues of collective bargaining with the Council.

Now the next serious deficiency and it's fundamental, is the very narrow range of subjects which this ordinance permits to be bargained about. What could be more frustrating to represented employees than a law which promises them collective bargaining on the one hand but then so narrowly restricts the scope of what may be negotiated that it keeps the word of promise to the ear and breaks it to the hope, and that is precisely what this ordinance does. It has a very short list of five subjects that can be bargained about and it has 15 items that can't be bargained about unless the County agrees. And I might say if you have to have the employer's agreement about what he's going to talk about, what happens in negotiations is you spend half your time talking about what you're going to talk about. And that's the fear we have for an ordinance that is as narrowly conceived as this one is, and that so significantly contracts the scope of collective bargaining.

Indeed, this document prohibits bargaining about some of the very matters that led to the police officers' insistence, or I shouldn't say prohibits, from our standpoint it doesn't require let's put it that way, collective bargaining about some of the matters that led to the police officers' insistence that there be collective bargaining in the county.

For example, schedules are not bargainable. The department's insistence upon a five day instead of a four day week has been a serious bone of contention between the police department and police officers in the very recent past and it still is.

#3 The police do not insist that they have their own way, at least not all the time. But a statute that does not even authorize them to bargain about a subject as important as scheduling carries with it the seeds of difficulty for the future. Similarly, the statute would prohibit bargaining about transfers. This too is a matter of great importance to the police. Where one works is obviously a term and condition of employment and the procedures that will be followed and the matters that will be considered when a transfer becomes necessary are matters that traditionally labor organizations negotiate with employers about.

The narrow scope of bargaining in this ordinance reflects an extended list of management rights which the employer need not bargain about. Statutes with such provisions in them are a frequent source of irritation. And I've heard testimony to that effect in my class by some of the leading practitioners in public sector bargaining. And they provoke litigation. I agree with Mr. Hillman that it would be delightful and desireable if we didn't have any litigation under this ordinance, just bargaining. But this is the kind of thing that leads to litigation and litigation frustrates the collective bargaining process.

For example, we're not allowed to bargain about technology. No one knows what that term means. Does it mean for example that the police have no right to bargain with their employer about matters which vitally affect their safety such as the weapons they use or the protections built into their patrol vehicles? Similarly, what is more important than the procedures and factors that will be considered when an employee seeks promotion? That is not a bargainable subject under this ordinance.

Again, it is a management right to maintain and improve the efficiency of operations. If management asserts that a particular proposal would reduce the efficiency of operations, is the proposal not bargainable and shall the parties argue about that rather than seek to achieve a compromise or suitable arrangement which preserves the interests of both sides?

I fear that under this ordinance the answer is the employer wraps himself in that phrase, efficiency of operations, and we go into some kind of a proceeding to determine whether he is right and we never get to the merits and that's not good policy. No one denies the legitimacy of the objectives which are listed in the enumerated rights of management, but the purpose of collective bargaining is to provide a means of exchanging ideas that will accomodate management's objectives and employees' needs. That's what it's all about.

This statute virtually makes that exchange impossible because of the very narrow scope of bargaining that is left after all the management rights and other prohibitions in the ordinance are taken into consideration.

Exhibit 2 to this testimony is a revised definition of collective bargaining. We took it whole from the New York State statute which applies to police in that jurisdiction, and I might say that it's used elsewhere too. There is no reason why Montgomery County should adopt such a narrow approach to the subjects which we can bargain about under the ordinance.

The remaining concerns that we have listed in the statement and reflected on our exhibit are narrow in scope. Much narrower than the fundamental ones that I've been discussing, but very important to us.

Mr. Hillman passed lightly over the unfair labor practice provisions. There is a laundry list of unfair labor practice provisions in this ordinance which are unprecedented in my view and my experience in labor relations. They go to things like sabotage, violent action to prevent people from entering a place of employment, taking possession of property of the employer and the like. These are criminal violations.

They have no place in a labor relations ordinance, and since the ordinance is hardly venturesome when it comes to affording rights to employees, we see no excuse whatsoever for the laundry list of horribles that is contained in subsection five of subparagraph B of the prohibited practice section of the ordinance. They should be deleted. No one knows what they mean. They obviously have no place in the labor relations statute.

I had wanted to address, but I think our concern has been met by change in provision that would give the entire jurisdiction over the labor organization's internal ratification procedures. Fortunately that appears to have been deleted so I won't take the time except to say that we are pleased about that and would be very upset if it were reinstated. We have a constitution, the state has laws which provide, we have a constitutional provision for ratification of collective bargaining agreements and that is subject to the State Courts if there is some imperfection or ignored, and we think that is the proper place for ratification procedures if at all should be litigated.

Exhibit 3 also contains, and here we are stepping into the shoes of management, it contains a proposed deletion of one of the provisions of the ordinance dealing with strikes and lock-outs. It prohibits the County Executive from compensating any employee for a period when he is directly or indirectly engaged in a strike.

Now as I said before, the FOB opposes strikes and we have no problem with disciplining an employee who goes on strike in violation of applicable law. But a strike by police officers can create a serious emergency and we think it is unwise and imprudent to tie the hands of a future County Executive by absolutely prohibiting him from taking steps he deems essential. There may be circumstances that we cannot foresee when the County Executive may conclude that some employees who were "indirectly", whatever that means, engaged in a strike must out of necessity or in fairness receive some compensation. For that decision the County Executive would be answerable to the voters as he should be. But he is equally answerable if he fails adequately to deal with an emergency of such gravity.

For this Council to decide in advance what a future County Executive should do when faced with circumstances it cannot now foresee, seems to us the height of folly. Again, we don't want to be misunderstood. We anticipate there will be no strikes under this legislation. And as I said, our charter outlaws them, and I'm not referring to the County Council's charter. I'm referring to the FOP's own charter. And this is a disciplined, professional police force that is not going to be a problem. But obviously the draftsman of this legislation wanted to be sure there were controls in the event that occurred. We think he has gone too far in this important respect.

We believe the bill before you does not comply with the voters' mandate. It does not provide for binding arbitration. It's narrow scope of bargaining could make a mockery of the process of collective bargaining. In some respects we believe the ordinance goes too far. For example, in enumerating a series of criminal acts which are to be the subject of prohibited practice provisions of the ordinance without the protections of criminal law and provisions which are unprecedented.

We think the bill represents a step forward. With the changes we have proposed we think the ordinance will provide a useful mechanism for resolving problems and establishing wages and working conditions that are fair to the police and the citizens they serve. With the changes we have proposed adoption of the ordinance, we are confident, will lead to an era of mutual harmony between the police and the County. So amended the bill should be enacted.

Thank you.

MR. GUDIS: Thank you.

MS. SPECTOR: I haven't read through the attachments yet, the Exhibits 1 and 2 and we'll probably get to this in our work session, but in essence are you saying that the process as outlined in the bill is acceptable but it doesn't go far enough if the Council doesn't accept what has gone through the process? That we then need to go to arbitration?

MR. DRIESEN: Yes.

MS. SPECTOR: You don't have a problem with the process up to that point, with the way it starts in November and goes through --

MR. DRIESEN: No, we do not have a problem with that although if you come to the policy position that we have taken it might be possible to simplify the legislation and make the process somewhat less cumbersome.

MR. FOSLER: With respect to the question of the legislative authority of the council and what it ought to be, the FOPs position is that there ought to be some kind of resolution beyond the council's decision. Is there some other legislation? Is there some other collective bargaining or elsewhere that addresses that point?

MR. DRIESEN: There are 11 jurisdictions, as I indicated in my testimony, in which the police have the right to go to binding arbitration with the legislative body, whatever body has the responsibility for appropriating funds.

MR. FOSLER: We really ought to take a look at the specifics of how those laws work, but in those instances, does it work pretty much the same way up until the point as is proposed here, up until the point that it goes to the legislative body, the agreement that is reached by the Executive, be it the governor and the bargaining agent or the decision of the arbitrator, goes to the legislative body if the legislative body rejects it there is then provision for the arbitration of the decision after that?

MR. DRIESEN: We'd have to look at each one at retail, but typically there is no impasse resolution machinery before it gets to the body that has the power to appropriate the funds because that is not necessary. You don't have an agreement unless you have an agreement through collective bargaining. If the legislative body doesn't appropriate the funds or rejects the portion of the agreement which it has to act upon, then the matter has to go to an arbitrator for resolution. But to have an impasse, or to have arbitration before that point is premature unless there has been agreement.

Most of the statutes are not very detailed in terms of how the legislature acts. That's been done sort of behind the scenes. The statute simply provides in the event of an impasse it goes to arbitration.

MR. FOSLER: I think that's something we ought to take a look at. I think it would be very helpful if the Executive Board could get some information on that. Both the laws, any kind of interpretation we have on the basis of Court decisions, and also the practical way that it works. The law is general in that regard. How has the process actually been worked out?

The Executive has taken the position that the charter amendment indicates the binding arbitration or first interest arbitration, the FOP's position, when you propose the amendment was, it did not relate to interest arbitration but only to non-interest items. Isn't that correct?

MR. DRIESEN: There was some unclarity in it at one stage before we actually took the matter to the voters.

MR. FOSLER: But the FOPs position was quite clear. You stated before the Charter Review Commission you believed the amendment you were proposing did not address interest arbitration as a part of the binding arbitration. That is correct, isn't it?

MR. KATZ: Mr. Fosler, when it was proposed, as you know, there wa s a problem with a petition that actually was presented to the Council. As you'll recall, we came before the Council and said in light of the problems that we had with the petition drive, that we asked the Council to propose language, and of course we were denied that, and within a four week period we obtained over 10,000 signatures and that's how this got on the ballot.

Then there was some question as you say before the Charter Review Commission of exactly what we were asking for. But it was the County Executive that suggested the language that we had proposed would mandate the binding arbitration on interest issues and subsequent to that we met with Mr.

Gilchrist and told him whatever problems or whatever questions before, so there would be no misunderstanding, we were asking for interest arbitration. And subsequent to that time the literature that we put out indicated we were asking for interest arbitration.

I know what you're talking about. there was a period when we talked to the Charter Commission that we were in effect, or that we waivered on that, but following --

MR. FOSLER: It was very clear. If you look at the language in the record you stated five or six times quite specifically that it was not interest arbitration that you were referring to.

MR. KATZ: I know what you're talking about and I remember that testimony.

MR. FOSLER: Was there some reason why there was a change in interpretation?

MR. KATZ: As I said the Executive suggested the language that we had proposed, or very well could mandate the interest arbitration and upon reflection, and that's why I went through the business of the fact that the petition was done very quickly, and we went over it very quickly. But we considered the issue and before it was voted on and frankly before literature was put out, the Fraternal Order of Police and the group that was really behind it, the Citizens for Effective Law Enforcement, met with Mr. Gilchrist and said we are adopting your position in effect. His position. And that is, this is going to mandate binding arbitration on interest issues, and put out literature to that effect.

MR. DRIESEN: I might say, I came to this matter cold. I read it and I said well it's got to be interest arbitration for a very simple reason, right alongisde the prohibition of the right to strike. The interest arbitration is as I said in my testimony, the substitute for the strike as the impasse resolution mechanism. I'm not an expert in local government, I confess, but it certainly seems to me, it may take a charter amendment to permit interest arbitration because of its implication. I doubt if it takes a charter amendment to provide for resolution of grievances through some form of third party instrumentation.

In any event the parallelism seems to be persuasive as to what the charter amendment meant.

MR. FOSLER: The other item that you raise is the one that is addressed in one of the amendments that the Executive has proposed which has to do with the perusive items. And I think there again, in gathering information for the work sessions, it would be extremely useful for us to take a look at the specific language and what the practice has been in those jurisdictions which do already have collective bargaining with their police departments. So if we could see if we could come up to some kind of a resolution on that as well.

MR. GUDIS: Mr. Driesen, do you have readily available information on any other jurisdictions that you named in here as to what they provide? I don't mean right this minute. I guess my question is, would it be much of a problem for you to put together a chart which in effect compares the various or summarizes by jurisdiction this information so we would be able to see at a glance as to what they provide?

MR. DRIESEN: It may be a little bit too detailed to look at ina glance, but I do have that material and I'd be happy to make it available.

MS. SPECTOR: My question was related to the other jurisdiction. You namedthe states. Are they all state laws or are local jurisdictions involved also?

MR. DRIESEN: Local jurisdictions are covered in these instances by state statutes. As I see the situation give the charter and its mandate, you are in the same situation as those state legislatures were when they set out to adopt a collective bargaining rule in effect, or laws.

MR. GUDIS: Any other questions?

MR. KATZ: I might take a moment to introduce Philip Nichols who is the legal council for the State Fraternal Order of Police Lodge, and we ask that he be allowed a few minutes to address the Council on our behalf.

MR. NICHOLS: Thank you. i'll be extremely brief.

I appreciate the opportunity to speak before you. I understand and I'm embarrassed that our National President made it and we flew him in and made a big to-do over it, and we were a little short on audience on the Council side, but in any event, we want you to know this is a very serious matter at the National level, the State level and certainly the local level. I understand our National President gave a run-down of the national experience in collective bargaining and found it to be favorable. Our State President has asked me to come to you tonight and tell you that the members of the State Lodge stand behind Lodge 35.

We believe, quite honestly, it's a matter of great social justice that the police employees of Montgomery County have the right to be heard on those matters that affect them most. The destiny of the police department in Montgomery County is in your hands. I can only ask as respectfully as I can on behalf of the other 8,000 police officers in Maryland, that you give as much favorable consideration as you ethically and properly can to the concerns of the FOP.

I don't have to remind you that in every jurisdiction that has considered this matter by election or otherwise, that they have ruled favorably and I believe you should be guided by the voters in this particular case and afford the FOP as great a voice in their own internal work place as any other employee in the private sector which has been the rule for decades.

I haven't had a chance to read through the amendments but there was a stir in the audience when the Sergeants weren't included in the unit and several people out there asked that that be a great concern to you in your work session. That's not the case in other areas of Maryland and I'm sure that you are aware now, and you'll have the benefit of their experience in considering it.

I thank you for allowing me to have this opportunity and the State President also thanks you for allowing us to be heard tonight.

MR. GUDIS: The meeting is adjourned.

(Whereupon, at 10:10 p.m. the Public Hearing was adjourned.)

P R O C E E D I N G S

PRESIDENT POTTER: Good evening ladies and gentlemen. This is a public hearing on Legislative Bill No. 71-81, C llective Bargaining for Police Officers. The bill provides the framework for conducting collective bargaining between the county government and police officers in specified classifications and includes establishment of a permanent umpire to implement certain provisions of law; certification procedures for employee organizations; subjects which are appropriate and inappropriate for bargaining; impasse procedures; prohibited practices; provisions prohibiting strikes and lockouts; use of official working time of employees; and the effect of prior enactments. This legislation amends Chapter 33 of the Montgomery County Code, 1972, as amended.

Because of the snow emergency and resulting difficulties and uncertainties about the holding of the hearing this evening, the Council has arranged a continuation of this hearing on Monday, January 25, starting at 9 p.m. The late hour is because we have had to continue another hearing from last night to that night also. They will proceed from 7:30 until 9. So we will continue this hearing at 9 p.m. on Monday, January 25, and we will hear additional speakers who have signed up, but who do not appear tonight.

Additional Council members should be in attendance at that time. Those Council members who are absent tonight will read the record being transcribed for the use of the staff.

The County Executive witnesses who were to lead off the hearing this evening have called in to say that because one of them has to come from Baltimore, they feel their presentation should be made on the 25th. So we will hear them at that time rather than tonight.

A work session on this legislation has been scheduled for Thursday, February 4, 1982, at 3 p.m. Now because of the continuation of the hearing we may find it necessary to postpone work session. We may not have all the necessary papers ready in time for the work session. So those who want to come for that work session, please call into the Council office to check whether it is proceeding as scheduled.

The record on this hearing will remain open until the close of business on Thursday, January 28th, in case people want to submit additional written comments for our use.

The first of the speakers whom I have listed tonight for appearance on this list is J. David Eberly, speaking for the Montgomery County Education Association. In case Mr. Eberly doesn't run long enough to show the time limiting machine, I want to explain it to you. This gray box here shows the amber light when the speaker has 30 seconds left to go. When the 30 seconds are up, the red light appears, that means your time is up. I know Mr. Eberly is familiar with it because he has appeared before us many times before.

STATEMENT OF J. DAVID EBERLY, PRESIDENT,

MONTGOMERY COUNTY EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

MR. EBERLY: Good evening, Mr. Potter, I am David Eberly, President of the Montgomery County Education Association. Our organization represents all nonsupervisory professional employees of the Montgomery County Public School system in collective bargaining and related matters.

I appear this evening in support of the police labor relations bill providing for collective bargaining for Montgomery County police officers. Formalized negotiations for Maryland teachers began in 1968 as a result of legislation sought by our members. We believe that it is a right, not only of teachers, but of all public employees, to share with our colleagues in the private sector the ability to exercise an equal voice in the determination of those factors affecting their employment.

Private sector bargaining, though taken for granted in many areas of our nation evolved slowly through years of struggle, strife and experimentation. Among the lessons that public management has or should have learned is that employees, both professional and nonprofessional, take as an essential ingredient of their employment the rights outlined for workers by the United States Congress in 1935, namely, that they may organize a union of their choice and bargain collectively.

Unfortunately the nuances of such union organizing have escaped the understanding and acceptance in some areas of the nation, and therefore the urgency to organize and bargain is often accepted only reluctantly or not at all by government.

I genuinely hope that local government in Montgomery County continues to grow in its acceptance of these principles and establishes, not only for the police, but for all public employees procedures to implement these efforts.

Consequently I wish to support the positions taken by our sisters and brothers in the Montgomery County Police Department as they through the Fraternal Order of Police have successfully sought and overwhelmingly won our public's understanding and support for bargaining efforts. We endorse the Fraternal Order of Police position and their statement and urge your approval of the legislation before you with the amendments supported by the FOP.

Specifically I would like to speak to three issues addressed by the legislation. Number one, agency shop. Among those illustrations of union security that are most sought after and misunderstood is the issue of agency shop. This legislation provides the ability of the designated exclusive bargaining agent to negotiate an agency shop agreement. As defined by the bill, agency shop will provide the bargaining agent the financial security to be able to operate outside the realm of competitive activities usually present where two or more unions vie for representation. It is not only good for the union in that it assures a full income of financial support, it is good for management as well. Unions which must continually show their bargaining strength by aggressive acts of confrontation and militancy are often in a position of needing to take actions for internal political purposes rather than for adversarial strategies and bargaining. In plain language, the presence of agency shop brings a period of labor peace and enables management and labor to be about the all-absorbing job of bargaining and administering a contract.

Two, ratification and funding. The experience of teacher bargaining in our county presents a model that should be avoided entirely. In order for legitimate good faith bargaining to proceed, there needs to be an ability for a union to bargain directly with the party who can commit itself to a contract. In our situation, we bargained with a team who must answer to the Superintendent of Schools, who must refer to the Board of Education for ratification, who must defer to the County Executive for review, who must submit to the County Council for final fisacl funding. This is an absurd relationship.

At any point in our bargaining process our constituents could be successful and yet be defeated by a higher reviewing agent. Such a process creates a time bomb calculated to harass and intimidate workers and their bargaining agent rather than provide a mechanism for reasonable resolution of negotiations demands.

I urge you to provide the ability to bargain and ratify at one level. Simplify the process now when you have the opportunity rather than risk a crisis by dividing authority as was done in our situation.

Scope of bargaining. It is my firm belief that nothing should be restricted from the scope of negotiations. The result of bargaining as it has evolved transfers to a joint contractual relationship those powers and decisions formerly held exclusively by management. It is natural for management to want to retain as much power as it can. If we accept the fact that it is good and healthy for bargaining to exist, then we should also accept that the framework of the bargaining should be based on the skills and exigencies of the process at any given time and not by law.

I have about three sentences yet if you permit me to finish. Employees have a right to bargain and discuss anything that is of concern to them, and they should be able to reach agreement and reduce to writing all matters that are mutually acceptable. Neither management nor labor should be able to hide behind a statute that restricts their ability to bargain. Neither can any legislative function anticipate for all time what restrictions will effectively guide the process. Today's laws may bind the hands of tomorrow's negotiators to the end that labor stability and harmony are disrupted rather than affirmed.

I thank you, Mr. President, for your consideration, and urge your attention to these points as you adopt this legislation for police labor relations in Montgomery County.

PRESIDENT POTTER: Thank you, Mr. Eberly.

(Applause)

PRESIDENT POTTER: You certainly raise some important fundamental points that we will certainly be considering in our work sessions and in the passage of the bill.

Let me ask you one question. I see the point of most of them, but you raised the question about buckpassing in effect, or higher agent as you call it, in the bargaining with the School Board. Now I don't think the Executive or Council have ever undertaken to change the bargained contract between the School Board and the MCEA, have they? I think Mr. Gleason on one or two occasions said we could take out $5 million or whatever it was by just not funding. I don't think the School Board ever consented to that, nor did he have authority to order that.

MR. EBERLY: There was one experience which occurred before I became president. I think it was perhaps five, six, seven years ago, where in my recollection I believe in a subsequent year of a multiple year contract a salary increase of something on the order of 10 percent would have resulted in deferring to the cost of living index. Either the County Executive recommended about funding of a half of that, or the County Council at that time funded only about half of it, I am not aware of where that initiative came from. My recollection is that the ultimate increase for that year was approximately half, however, of what the negotiated contract would have called for.

PRESIDENT POTTER: Did the contract provide for that contingency, that if it were not all funded that the negotiated increase would be reduced, or was it renegotiated? I don't quite understand you.

MR. EBERLY: That I don't know because I was not active in the leadership of our union at that time. My guess is that it would have provided for the opportunity at renegotiation if funding by the Council was not forthcoming. I have no recollection of what ultimately came about.

PRESIDENT POTTER: My understanding is that the contract is binding, although like any contract I guess it can be renegotiated, and that if the Board of Education has undertaken a certain salary scale that that is their contract, subject only to mutual consent to be negotiated in view of unforeseen circumstances or something, such as a smaller funding than expected with consequent impacts on the employment program or the salary scales.

I realize that the school personnel may argue from what the Council may appropriate. Unless the contract itself is made contingent on that, that is only an argument.

MR. EBERLY: I think there are a couple of points that in our situation at least that would affect this. Number one, for all practical purposes, if the total number of dollars appropriated by the Council for professional salaries would not cover the salary scale for the people that are involved, then the Board of Education has a choice as to whether or not it will cut back in the number of employees in our unit or else unilaterally seek to cut the salary or enter into renegotiations.

The only point I am trying to make is that it weakens almost to the point of foolishness the whole bargaining process if management which bargains with labor bargains any part of the contract and doesn't have the ultimate authority to follow through or to fund that.

Now the situation which we face in this bill is a little bit different from ours because we are subject yet to another level of government, the Board of Education. But the only point I am trying to make is I think a rather simple one, and that is that we believe that public employees need to bargain with whatever organ of management or government has the authority to deliver on what they promise.

PRESIDENT POTTER: It seems to me that a natural analogy could be the kind of situation in which United Auto Workers now find themselves. They have contracts with Ford, General Motors and Chrysler and American Motors. But if the market doesn't supply the money, something has to be done about it. UAW and General Motors I think are sitting down together and trying to decide what they are going to do about it. General Motors I think recognizes that they have a contract and there is a basis for looking at the changes in the Consumer Price Index and all the rest to negotiate with the union, but also to recognize that there are other impacts that they don't have control over.

MR. EBERLY: Well, that is true, but certainly when you look at the private sector initially when that contract was bargained it was ratified by the union and then ratified by management. Management initially was able in the private sector to deliver without any question at all what the salary increases provided for because management in the private sector did not then need to rely on any kind of ratification by the stockholders. This is kind of an extraordinary situation I think that they are in now.

PRESIDENT POTTER: The market problems of recession and high interest rates and competition can hit them any time.

MR. EBERLY: I understand.

PRESIDENT POTTER: I am just saying that similarly I think the School Board has to recognize there are other forces in it, although the Council and they feel that it is a valid contract, we have to look at the consequences.

MR. EBERLY: Well, I am delighted to put in my plug for our own problem here, although that is not initially why I came.

PRESIDENT POTTER: I think all bargaining, as I am trying to indicate, is under some shadow and the ultimate power to deliver is not something that human institutions, public or private, can guarantee. To its best effort.

MR. EBERLY: Well, to the extent that I believe the structure can provide that, I urge the Council to provide for bargaining on the most fundamental level.

PRESIDENT POTTER: Thank you.

MR. EBERLY: Thank you.

PRESIDENT POTTER: Our next witness is Kathleen Dolan speaking for the Employees Organization Task Force. Is she here? Kathleen Dolan? I don't see her.

All right, then we will go on to Jim Goeden from the Bethesda-Chevy Chase Chamber of Commerce.

STATEMENT OF JIM GOEDEN, BETHESDA-

CHEVY CHASE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

MR. GOEDEN: President Potter, my name is Jim

Goeden. I am speaking this evening for the Bethesday-Chevy Chamber of Commerce.

The Chamber is most supportive of the excellent job done by the Montgomery County Police Department. We realize that their jobs often call for actions that put their safety in jeopardy and that they are often called upon to work long hours to protect the lives and property of our citizens and our businesses. We further believe that because of the nature of their work, the county government should go the extra mile to assure that our police officers are adequately compensated.

The Chamber, however, is concerned about the issue before you. The Chamber was opposed to the Charter amendment that was the source of this proposal because of that portion of the Charter amendment that provided for binding arbitration. We are not in any opposed to collective bargaining, but we are opposed to binding arbitration.

We sincerely believe that because of the ethically questionable campaign to present this issue as a no-strike amendment before the last election, many of our voters were deceived. We also believe that if the question of binding arbitration were put to the voters of the county as a separate issue, it would be rejected overwhelmingly.

We do not feel that the Council is under a mandate to pass legislation implementing the Charter amendment because of the recent Court of Appeals decision requireing charter amendments to be limited to the structure of government.

Another avenue the Council may wish to consider is to separate the binding arbitration question from the remainder of the amendment and place it on the ballot for the next election. We believe that elected officials and only elected officials should be responsible for the spending level of our county government. We feel that binding arbitration can, in some cases, turn this responsibility over to an expert from out of town with a black briefcase.

We are also concerned about two additional probabilities. First, that the wage settlement for police officers will set standards for the remainder of the county government employees, and second, that passage of this bill will encourage other government employees to seek a Charter amendment of their own.

The pressure on local government to reduce spending in the next few years will be intense. It is essential during that period for elected officials to be in complete control and responsible for their actions.

Thank you.

PRESIDENT POTTER: Thank you, Mr. Goeden. You certainly raise important legal points and questions which the Council will consider.

The next witness is Tom Israel, speaking as an individual.

STATEMENT OF THOMAS S. ISRAEL, AN INDIVIDUAL

MR. ISRAEL: Mr. Potter, I am Tom Israel. I reside at 3211 Wake Drive in Kensington.

Both as a concerned private citizen and as a former member of the Board of Education with eight years of experience in collective bargaining issues, I welcome the chance to comment on Bill 71-81. I will confine my comments to Section 33-81, Impasse Procedure, which provides for binding interest arbitration by an impasse neutral if the parties fail to reach agreement on a new contract. However, I want to first place my comments in context by stating that I do not object to collective bargaining by public employees, and strongly believe that binding arbitration of grievances arising from administration of the contract is a fair and valuable approach to resolution of such disputes.

Having said that, I do strongly object to third party binding arbitration of bargaining impasses for the following reasons.

First, binding interest arbitration tends to destroy the collective bargaining process because there is little incentive for an employee group to settle short of an impasse knowing there is a very good chance that an arbitrator will decide in its favor on economic issues.

Second, binding interest arbitration would have the effect of placing substantial control of the county's fiscal affairs in the hands of a nonelected person who probably would not even be a resident of the state, much less the county. With all of the financial grief that arbitrators have caused local governments in this area because of their decisions on Metro contracts, I cannot imagine that this Council would let that happen to Montgomery County in this instance.

Third, it is highly likely that economic settlements imposed by the arbitrator under Section 33-81 of this bill would quickly become the minimum negotiating positions of all other county employees. Why should any employee association bargain seriously until they see what the police get?

Fourth, I call your attention to paragraph (b)(7) of this section which is on page 22. It is totally unclear whether the Council retains the right to reduce the arbitrator's decision as it does in the case of an agreement reached voluntarily. Even if paragraph (b)(7) is clarified to make it crystal clear that the Council retains final authority via its legislative and appropriation powers, I would oppose binding interest arbitration because the process tends to bring extra pressure on the Executive and Council to settle at a higher level than is fiscally prudent.

Finally, I oppose the binding interest arbitration provision because it is quite evident that the public did not know what it was buying when it voted on the Charter amendment a year ago. Every lay citizen I have talked to has been unaware of this provision and is outraged when the potential implications are explained. Frankly, they think they have been had on this matter, and I would have to agree based on the paucity of efforts to explain this issue to them during the last election season.

Fortunately, I think there is a reasonable solution to this matter to which few could object. I suggest that the Council sever Section 33-81 from this bill and submit binding interest arbitration to the voters in the November election. You can proceed to approve and implement the remainder of the bill and collective bargaining with the police could commence on November 1st as scheduled. The electorate will settle the binding interest arbitration issue in early November, and if they approve the Council will have time to pass necessary implementing legislation before the first impasse could occur in late January.

Taking the step I have just suggested would have the great virtue of highlighting the issue for voters, and I guarantee there will be more information for them to base a decision on this time. If the electorate approves binding interest arbitration, then at least they could not in fairness blame you for the consequences.

As a last thought, three years ago I co-chaired a coalition of organizations which barely defeated the proposed Trim Charter amendment by a margin of about 5000 votes out of more than 200,000 cast. The Trim concept would have been bad public policy and would have hit hard at public employees. Among other things, it would have made collective bargaining largely irrelevant.

I oppose binding interest arbitration because it too would be bad public policy, and because its adoption could well be the catalyst which produces another Trim amendment. I urge you to let the voters decide this important public policy issue in November.

Thank you.

PRESIDENT POTTER: Could I ask the audience to please be still. This is a hearing and not a rap session. I know how many of you feel. I know what you want. The Council has to consider the issues in terms of public policy, and we all owe courtesy and order to the public agents who are trying to carry on the public's business.

Mr. Israel, I think you raise the important and very difficult questions. We will try to find our way through them. Surely there are severe conflicts between some of the policy issues you raise and the legislation indicated by the Charter amendment. I appreciate your highlighting those in simple language.

You have an attachment to your testimony from the National School Board Association. We will enter that in the public record.

MR. ISRAEL: Thank you, Mr. Potter.

PRESIDENT POTTER: The next witness is Jean Marie Elkins. Is she here? Jean Marie Elkins. Absent. Perhaps we will hear her on the 25th.

Next is Leo Marchetti for the National Fraternal Order of Police.

(Applause)

STATEMENT OF LEO MARCHETTI, NATIONAL PRESIDENT, FRATERNAL ORDER OF POLICE

MR. MARCHETTI: Mr. Chairman, I am Leo Marchetti. I am the National President of the Fraternal Order of Police, and I am here to give some type of expert input into what binding arbitration does. Being from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and having worked in the arbitrations legislation in 1967 and 1968, I think I can speak with some authority.

I am sure that no matter where we speak of binding arbitration for municipal employees, there is a fear that someone is going to come in and give away the store. But if you look at the history in the states that do have binding arbitration, you will find that that is not happening. Specifically in the state of Pennsylvania where I am from the City of Philadelphia, a first class city, with binding arbitration, makes the lowest police wages of any city in that classification. In the City of Pittsburgh, which is ranked in population 21st, we have just completed an arbitration, and we, incomewise we rated 29th in the nation.

So the bugaboo that by giving our public servants the opportunity to go into a binding arbitration for wages has not caused the financial blight to the community that many people would want us to believe. I have listened to two individuals make speeches here of threats of what could happen in Montgomery County if this law were to pass. I personally don't believe that the people of your county are that naive that they didn't know exactly what they were voting for when they were voting.

(Applause)

MR. MARCHETTI: In the referendum election of 1967 and 1968 in Pennsylvania, we were able to get better than 85 percent of the electorate to vote in favor of giving binding arbitration to their police and firemen. It has been held in good stead. We have had total labor peace in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. There is a good rapport between policemen, firemen, and their communities since the inception. This year, 1981, arbitration season has just ended with the lowest amount of arbitrations ever in the Commonwealth, and basically the answer is that management and the police officers have learned to respect each other. They go into a bargaining session. It is not like it used to be, hat in hand. You go in and you deal for the bargainable issues that you feel as a police officer you have a right to have. Most policemen don't ask for that much out of life. They certainly don't come on the police department to become wealthy. They come on because they have a dire need of giving service to their community. And they live that life. And in the majority of cases they give much more than they receive.

I can say if I gave a copy of the Arbitration Act of 1968 and I left enough for your total Council when they are all present. It is a very simple act.

PRESIDENT POTTER: We will distribute it and enter it into the record.

MR. MARCHETTI: Thank you. It is not a complicated piece of paper, and after 13 years there has not been a change. If I as a police officer were asked what changes I want to make in that piece of paper, that document after 13 years of proven testing, I would say, number one, I think that we should get a specific definition for the word "policeman" simply because, as I see in your text, you are speaking of just patrolmen. In Pennsylvania we deal for all policemen, the Fraternal Order of Police deals for all police officers. And the only police officers who are not covered are the administration. The superintendents aren't involved, the assistant superintendents aren't involved, but everybody under Civil Service is under that arbitration act. And we have found no problems with that.

The only other decision that has ever been handed down is a decision that was made by the Pennsylvania Labor Board in small departments which you people here do not have, but in small departments of 10 or less men the chiefs are included in the arbitrations. If you have over 10 men, the chief is classified administration.

I would like to have had your total Council here so that I could have answered many of your questions. I am sure that you probably have many. But I say to you in the absence of the rest, thank you for coming. It was a terrible night, but at least somebody has showed up because of the interest in this legislation. And I thank you for appearing. I thank the people in the audience that feel that this is a worthwhile endeavor, and I would hope the Council of Montgomery County sees fit to award police officers what the taxpayers, the voters of Montgomery County have asked us to do.

Thank you.

(Applause)

PRESIDENT POTTER: Thank you, Mr. Marchetti. I appreciate, as does the audience, your being here despite the difficulties of the night and the distance and your presenting this act and your experience under it.

I must say that neither I, nor I think anyone else in this county government or I suppose the FOP seeks the result that you mentioned in Philadelphia. We hope we can always keep a good salary and a good force which we have had in recent years.

I wanted to say that a lot of our questions are reserved for the work session. You heard my announcement on the work session. I don't know whether you will be able to be here at such occasion, but we do have a more informal exchange after giving everybody a chance to speak and raise issues, go back and forth on these things, and to check out different views of different issues and different experiences. Can you be there?

MR. MARCHETTI: When will that be, sir?

PRESIDENT POTTER: It is scheduled for February 4. As I said earlier, February 4, Thursday, at 3 p.m. As I said, because of the need to continue this hearing on January 25, we may not have all the preliminary staff work done for that meeting. We are expecting to go forward with it as of now. It would be well if you can be here, we would call you as to the time, if any change occurs in that schedule.

MR. MARCHETTI: I will certainly try to schedule myself so that I can be present.

PRESIDENT POTTER: I appreciate that. We will try to insure that you can be here.

MR. MARCHETTI: Thank you, sir.

PRESIDENT POTTER: The next speaker is Phillip Nichols of the State Office of the FOP. Phillip Nichols? Not here. Perhaps he will be here on the 25th.

Next is Allen Katz from Lodge 35, FOP.

STATEMENT OF ALLEN KATZ, AND GEORGE DRIESEN, LODGE 35, FRATERNAL ORDER OF POLICE

MR. DRIESEN: Mr. President, my name is George Driesen. I am appearing with Mr. Katz on behalf of the FOP. If we may, Mr. President, we would like to reserve our time for the 25th for the reason that there are two very important things that are missing tonight. The first is the bill, as amended, which we have very carefully prepared to address. And the second, if I may say so, is the County Council which we have very thoroughly tried to prepare to address.

I hope, Mr. President, that you will convey to the rest of the members of the Council the intensity of the feeling of the police of this county that the voters have spoken and the police expect that there will be a satisfactory law as a result of what has occurred, and the testimony of the men and women who have come out tonight in this inclement weather to be sure that their message was heard, I hope will be eloquently conveyed to the Council. We would like to reserve our time, however, for the 25th.

PRESIDENT POTTER: Thank you, Mr. Driesen. Would you spell it for the reporter?

MR. DRIESEN: Surely. D-r-i-e-s-e-n.

PRESIDENT POTTER: So that you expect to have 15 minutes plus eight, a total of 23 minutes. Is that right?

MR. DRIESEN: That is right.

PRESIDENT POTTER: Surely, that is all right. Let me say that the absence of the Council members is principally because they expected very few people to be here. Well, last time it did blow up entirely, and the weather forecast was pretty bad for tonight. Although it turns out not to be so. Being an old farmer in Minnesota, it doesn't bother me that much. But I appreciate your being here, and your desire to be on on the 25th, of course we will put you on at that time.

MR. DRIESEN: Thank you very much.

PRESIDENT POTTER: That brings us down to John Fiscella.

STATEMENT OF JOHN P. FISCELLA,

CONSULTANT, LABOR RELATIONS

MR. FISCELLA: Mr. Potter. I am John Fiscella, a private consultant on problems in public sector labor relations. For the past 18 years I have been actively involved as a management and union consultant, lecturer, trainer and practitioner of public sector labor relations. For the past three years I have been a consultant to the United States Department of Labor's Labor Management Services Agency, Division of Public Employee Labor Relations.

After reviewing the recommendations of the County Executive, I felt that I must comment briefly on at least three sections of Bill 71-81. They are Section 33-78, Employee Rights, Section 33-80, Collective Bargaining, and Section 33-81, Impasse Procedure.

Let me start with Section 33-80, Collective Bargaining, Articles (a)and (b) which speak to the subject of the scope of bargaining to be permitted to the parties.

There is an old expression used by both private and public labor relations personnel that states, "Anything, Not Everything, Is Negotiable". Anything that impacts upon the employee's ability to perform the assigned tasks and carry out his or her responsibilities is negotiable. But not everything involved in the management of an enterprise is negotiable. The only exclusions to the scope should be those topics over which management has no control or ability to change or which do not impact on the employees' job.

I call your attention to 33-80, Article (c), numbers 6, 7 and 8. In the areas of suspension, discipline, discharge, transfer, assignment, scheduling, retention, layoff and recall, which have been declared outside the scope, the unit members usually have a strongly felt interest.

In order to analyze the scope of bargaining, one must look at both the number of issues included in the negotiations as well as the degree of employee organization influence on particular issues. Frequently, the parties implicitly reach agreement on a tradeoff between the breadth of negotiations and the depth or degree of influence on particular issues. Some evidence exists that the public sector manager presently opts for breadth rather than depth. In fact, I am quoting from Paul Gerhart: "Management appears willing to place no limit on the number of negotiable issues so long as the actual power of the employee organization is severely limited."

The scope of bargaining is an extremely important aspect of the bargaining relationship. A very narrow scope reduces the significance of collective bargaining. Effective collective bargaining requires a reasonably wide range of negotiable issues.

The common practice in the public sector is to include the issues listed in 33-80(c)6, 7 and 8 within the scope by joint agreement on the procedures to be utilized by management prior to final determination by management. In this way the issues are ventilated and the breadth of the agreement is widened, but the depth is minimized. The princples of just cause and due process are incorporated in a set of equitable procedural rquirements prior to decisions by management that in some way might have a negative impact on the unit members.

Next allow me to comment on Article 33-78, Section (b). This confers on the recognized organization the exclusive right to represent the employees for the purpose of collective bargaining. When read together with Article 33-80, Section (d), there appears to be some confusion. Article 33-80(d) indicates that if the narrow scope proposed is approved then management can engage in an end-run around the exclusive representative on some of the most vital day to day job related issues.

Historically, when this type of limited exclusivity is given to the bargaining agent all types of special interest groups vie for favor with the political and management power structures seeking input. The harmonious labor relations that this bill purports to establish is thereby destroyed.

Public managers and policy makers are best served when they can tell any unit member or group of unit members that are seeking special consideration of an issue to take it to the table next year. This creates for the exclusive representative the real responsibility to adhere to the doctrine of fair representation. The limited exclusivity proposed will do nothing but continue the present climate of lobbying the power structured of change as well as create internal problems for the limited exclusive representative.

In closing, let me address Section 33-81, the Impasse Procedures. I have attached to my remarks a recent study published by Dr. Arvid Anderson, Chairman, Office of Collective Bargaining, City of New York.

I hope the conclusions reached by Dr. Anderson will reduce some of the misunderstanding that most public bodies express when binding interest arbitration is the terminal step in a collective bargaining procedure. My only concern is that the award, when taken in context with Section 33-80(h) is somewhat less than binding.

I would suggest that in the event that the Council fails to fully fund a mutually agreed to contract or an award made by an arbitrator that the parties be required to renegotiate rather than eliminate certain meaningful issues.

Thank you for your kind attention.

(Applause)

PRESIDENT POTTER: Mr. Fiscella, I appreciate your bringing this for us, and the edition that you are submitting for the record. Did you give a copy of your testimony to the secretary?

MR. FISCELLA: Yes, sir.

PRESIDENT POTTER: Then we can Xerox them and pass them around tomorrow. I appreciate that too.

I appreciate many of your points but I have a little difficulty discussing them because I don't have the copy before me, and you were going through some fairly intricate provisions as well as explaining their results. Do you think you could be at the work session and give us some more help there where more questions could be --

MR. FISCELLA: If it is to be held on the fourth of February, I am serving as an advocate on a triparte binding arbitration panel.

PRESIDENT POTTER: So at that time you could not be present.

MR. FISCELLA: No.

PRESIDENT POTTER: But if we have additional work sessions, or if we change the work session we can get in touch with you?

MR. FISCELLA: Yes, sir.

PRESIDENT POTTER: Is there a telephone number on your testimony?

MR. FISCELLA: Yes.

PRESIDENT POTTER: Very good.

MR. FISCELLA: If I might just highlight Dr. Arvid Anderson's study for you, which dealt with this review of binding arbitration in the public sector.

PRESIDENT POTTER: If you would like to hit some of the major points in that, we will it a minute or two and it will be in the record for others to read.

MR. FISCELLA: There are 20 states right now that have binding arbitration, and primarily for police, fire and other public health and safety type employees. I would say that his study has revealed that, number one, the utilization of the binding arbitration has been less than anticipated, ranging from a high at the time his study was done of 26 percent of the possible cases going to arbitration in Pennsylvania, to a low of less than five percent in Iowa. He attributes this high utilization of 26 percent, for instance, in Pennsylvania to the fact there is no fact-finding intermediary step between declaration of impasse, a quick attempt at mediation, and then the ultimate step of arbitration. Whereas in Iowa, the fact-finding procedure normally tends to round off the rough edges of the disagreements and articulates an agreement.

The cost factor that was alluded to by two of the prior speakers is also of interest because his research finds that the settlements awarded have been less than those in the same areas, in the same geographical, same occupational areas, have been less than those agreed to voluntarily in the mutually agreed to contracts. So the awards made by arbitrators in New York, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Iowa, Oregon and so forth have tended to be slightly less, if not greatly less than the awards made, or the agreements reached mutually.

The other thing is, the narcotic effect. A lot of people tend to think that there will be a narcotic effect if the parties have as the ultimate step binding arbitration. Therefore, no true bargaining will occur in the interim, they will all wait for this expert with the black bag, as was referred to by one speaker, who arrives in town and then take their best shot.

The narcotic effect has proven not to be so, and this is demonstrated by the low utilization of it in those states in which it is not only possible but has been in existence for more than four to five years. People do not tend to wait for the man with the black bag. They tend to try to resolve it mutually. People tend to like to live under their own contracts rather than to have someone superimpose an agreement on them.

There are other issues rather than economic that are involved. The economic issue might be highlighted for a week or two weeks, but there are other job rules and regulations and requirements that he will set down that people are going to have to live with for the next 365 or possibly longer. So consequently people want to negotiate their own agreement.

The other thing is the legality of the delegation of powers. Every place that has authorized the utilization of arbitration, every state, there has been a challenge and the courts have ruled right down the line that there is no illegal delegation of responsibility or public power to an arbitrator. Because in most places, and in your legislation also, it sets in some sort of criteria that must be adhered to in making the award. Consequently he cannot with reckless abandon come in and merely flip a coin and say, "I'll take Package A or Package B", without any awareness of the consequences to the tax structure and/or the other needs of the public managers to operate the entreprise.

PRESIDENT POTTER: It fits in the usual criteria of delegating legislative power to administrators if you provide sufficient guidelines, it is not illegal.

MR. FISCELLA: Right.

PRESIDENT POTTER: That sounds like a fairly extensive paper, and I trust it is. I certainly appreciate that. If that highlights it, then we have something to work from. We hope you can be at least at one of the work sessions where we can discuss it.

MR. FISCELLA: Thank you for the invitation.

PRESIDENT POTTER: Thank you very much.

(Applause)

PRESIDENT POTTER: Our next speaker is Vincent Foo, speaking for Montgomery Countil Council of Supporting Services Employees.

STATEMENT OF VINCENT FOO, PRESIDENT,
MONTGOMERY COUNTY COUNCIL OF SUPPORTING SERVICES EMPLOYEES/LOCAL 500

MR. FOO: Good evening, Mr. Potter. My name is Vincent Foo. I am President of the Montgomery County Council of Supporting Services Employees/Local 500, a union representing approximately 5,000 supporting service employees of the Montgomery County Public Schools.

I am not here tonight to speak to the issues. I believe that Mr. Driesen and Mr. Katz have worked with the County Executive and have come up with a bill, with the amendments that satisfy them and will take care of the collective bargaining process for police officers.

I am here tonight to support the organized police officers of Montgomery County in their efforts to achieve true collective bargaining with the county.

Our organization, MCCSSE, asks that the legislation before you, the Police Labor Relations Act, be acted upon favorably by the Council. The citizens of this county approved the referendum giving police officers the right to collective bargaining. We believe it has taken much too long to carry out the wishes of the voters. We urge you to approve this legislation.

Thank you.

(Applause)

PRESIDENT POTTER: Thank you, Mr. Foo. I think the Council feels too that it has taken quite a while, and we would like to shorten. We hope we can act expeditiously on it.

Let me say that as to the issues and the revisions in the bill which we received just today I think, we look forward to the next session to have those changes brought before us, explained and discussed so that we will deal with on the 25th more extensively.

I appreciate your being here to support the basic principle. We enjoyed working with you for a long time even though we are not the bargaining agent.

MR. FOO: I feel there is a lot of discussion on the agency shop issue. As you know, we have had agency shop since 1978. I would be glad to speak to that at the work session if you would like.

PRESIDENT POTTER: If doubts come up about that, or that is one of the issues, we would appreciate your being there to mention it and explain the experience you have had. Thank you very much.

Are there any other of the listed speakers here this evening?

(No response)

PRESIDENT POTTER: If not, we will hear the Executive and the consultant, Mr. Hillman, and the Local Lodge 35 FOP presentation on the 25th, together with I think it is two other speakers. So until 9 p.m., Monday, January 25, good night, and I will see you then.

(Whereupon, at 9:05 p.m., the hearing was adjourned, to reconvene at 9:00 p.m., Monday, January 25, 1982.)

Re: Worksession on Bill 71-81 - Collective Bargaining/Police Officers

The Council met in worksession on Bill 71-81, Collective Bargaining/ Police Officers, with Allen J. Katz and George B. Driesen, Attorneys for the Fraternal Order of Police; Robert S. Hillman, Special Counsel to Montgomery County; Edmund Rovner, staff of the County Executive; Clinton Hilliard, Director of Personnel; Council Staff Director McDonell and Deputy Council Staff Director Spengler.

Mr. Hillman reviewed the following new draft language for Section 33-80 which was prepared in an effort to work out language more acceptable to all parties:

~~Sec. 33-80. COLLECTIVE BARGAINING.~~

Sec. 33-80. COLLECTIVE BARGAINING.

(a) Upon certification of an employee organization, as provided in Section 33-79, the employer and the said certified representative shall have the duty, through their designees, to bargain collectively with respect to those subjects as follows:

(1) Salary and wages, provided however that salaries and wages shall be uniform for all employees in the same classification.

(2) Pension and retirement benefits for active employees.

(3) Employee benefits such as, but not limited to, insurance, leave, holidays and vacation.

(4) Hours and working conditions, including the availability and use of personal patrol vehicles.

(5) Provisions for the orderly processing and settlement of grievances concerning the interpretation and implementation of the collective bargaining agreement, which may include binding third party arbitration and provisions for exclusivity of forum.

(6) Matters affecting the health and safety of employees.

(7) The effect on employees of the employer's exercise of rights enumerated in sub-section (b) hereof.

(b) Employer Rights.

This Article and any agreement pursuant hereto shall not impair the right and responsibility of the employer:

(1) To determine the overall budget and mission of the employer and any agency of County government;

(2) To determine the services to be rendered, and the operations to be performed;

(3) To determine the overall organizational structure, methods, processes, means, job classifications or personnel by which operations are to be conducted, and the location of facilities;

(4) To direct or supervise employees;

(5) To hire, select and appoint and establish the standards governing promotion of employees and to classify positions;

(6) To relieve employees from duties because of lack of work or funds, or under conditions when the employer determines continued work would be inefficient or nonproductive;

(7) To make and enforce rules and regulations not inconsistent with this ordinance or a collective bargaining agreement;

(8) To take actions to carry out the mission of government in situations of emergency; or

(9) To transfer, assign and schedule employees.

(c) Nothing contained in this Article shall be construed to limit the discretion of the employer voluntarily to discuss with the representatives of its employees any matter concerning the employer's exercise of any of the enumerated rights set forth in sub-section 33-80(b) above, but such matters shall not be subject to bargaining.

(d) Collective bargaining shall commence no later than November 1, preceding the beginning of a fiscal year for which there is no contract between the employer and the certified representative and shall be concluded on January 20. The resolution of an impasse in collective bargaining shall be completed by February 1. These time limits may be waived only by prior written consent of the parties.

(e) Any collective bargaining agreement which contains a provision for automatic renewal or extension shall be void in its entirety unless such renewal or extension requires the consent of both parties. No agreement shall be valid if it extends for less than one year or for more than three years. All agreements shall become effective July 1 and end on June 30.

(f) Any collective bargaining agreement shall become effective only after ratification of the agreement by the public employer and the certified representative, except as provided in subsection 33-81(b)(7). A certified representative may provide its own rules for ratification procedures.

(g) A ratified agreement shall be binding on the employer and the certified representative, and shall be reduced to writing and executed by both parties. Any term or condition thereof which requires an appropriation of funds or enactment, repeal or modification of a County law shall be timely submitted to the County Council by the employer and the employer shall make a good faith effort to have such term or condition implemented by Council action. On or before April 25, the County Council shall indicate by a majority, consisting of four (4) of the Council members, its intention to appropriate or otherwise implement the agreement, or its intention not to do so, and shall state its reasons for any intent to reject any part or parts of the agreement. In the event the Council indicates its intention to reject, it shall designate a representative to meet with the parties and present the Council's views in their further negotiations. This representative shall also participate fully in stating the Council's position in any ensuing impasse procedure. The parties shall thereafter meet as promptly as possible in an attempt to negotiate an agreement acceptable to the Council. Either of the parties may initiate the impasse procedure set forth in Section 33-81. The results of the negotiation or impasse procedure shall be submitted to the council on or before May 10. Any agreement shall provide either for automatic reduction or elimination of such conditional wage and/or benefits adjustments if the Council fails to take such action or if funds are not appropriated or if a lesser amount is appropriated.

(End of new draft language)

Mr. Hillman said that he understands that this language is acceptable to the Fraternal Order of Police (FOP) with the exception of (b) Employer Rights (9), to transfer, assign and schedule employees; however, Chief Crooke takes the position that this is essential to the operation of the Police Departmnet. Chief Crooke must have the power to run the Department in order to give proper police protection at all times and to assign officers that can best respond to certain duties at certain places and times. Subsection (c) provides for discussing any matter of employer's rights that are not the subject of bargaining.

In response to Councilman Scull's question about how to distinguish the effect on employees of the employer's exercise of rights, Mr. Driesen stated that, for example, a change in assignment to respond to a domestic relations squabble is not negotiable because it goes to the mission of the Department, but the effect is that it will impose additional strain on the officer & he may need access to a psychiatrist to deal with the effects of this additional strain. The proposal under (a)(7) is the response to the management decision, not negotiable, providing for the right to negotiate about the effects of the employer's exercise of his rights.

Mr. Hilliard added that there is no question about management's right to layoff employees from the Department, but the employee organization might negotiate how the layoff will be accomplished. Mr. Rovner indicated that this language is in the federal statute enacted in 1978.

In answer to Councilman Scull's question about Sec. 33-81, Impasse Procedure and the use of an Impasse Neutral, to be chosen by agreement or through the American Arbitration Association, Mr. Driesen stated that this provision is designed to assure that trade-offs will occur by requiring the Impasse Neutral to choose between the two final offers of the negotiating parties.

In response to Councilman Scull's request for how Mr. Katz justified his change of position from one of saying that the Police had no desire to arbitrate interest issues to the opposite position, Mr. Katz explained that the sponsor of the petition, CELE, was made up of members from the FOP, but not the entire membership. There was confusion on the part of the sponsors of the bill and a second petition drive was required. When the matter came before the Council at the end of September 1980, the leadership of CELE felt it was speaking for the Police in taking a position for binding arbitration on financial matters and not on interest issues. Six days later, on October 6, 1980, at a meeting of the FOP, the members took up this issue and the minutes of that meeting clearly reflect that the FOP was in favor of including interest arbitration; CELE sponsors of the bill went along with the FOP position and it was thereafter reflected that way. For the record, the FOP officials met with the Executive prior to the election to make clear to him that the Police were asking for interest arbitration also.

Mr. Driesen noted that this matter is no longer relevant as this bill does not provide for interest arbitration. The FOP has acquiesced that the provisions of this bill are probably workable; it simply provides for arbitration that binds the Executive in his recommendations to the Council which retains its freedom as to what it has control over. The bill does not represent binding arbitration in the classic sense.

Councilman Scull addressed the vagueness which he believes is embodied in the term "effect" in (a)(7) of the bill, saying that this may cause difficulties in working out disputes and that he believes that precision and specificity is desirable relative to what can be carried to arbitration.

Mr. Driesen responded that there is in this bill a specific forum and procedure for resolving controversies over what is subject to arbitration & what is not. FOP acquiesced in the management rights enumerated, but the effects of those rights becomes negotiable. He is opposed to listing all the things that the Police cannot bargain about, Mr. Drisesn said, in response to a suggestion from Mr. Scull.

Councilman Fosler commended the Executive for the changes in the subject bill, since the last worksession, from virtually everything being subject to bargaining, either as a mandatory requirement or permitted to be, to a clear line being drawn between what is, and is not, subject to bargaining. He also commended the FOP for agreeing with these changes. Mr. Fosler believes it is good to have this framework provided for in the legislation to eliminate ambiguities and protect the rights of both the police employees and management. Working conditions are difficult to define, especially the effect on employees of the employer's exercise of rights; however, he believes this is a legitimate concept. He asked for an explanation of how this provision, (a)(7), would work, noting that there may be disagreement as to what the effects are.

Mr. Hillman responded with an example from the private sector. Management has the right to close a plant, but it has an obligation to discuss the effects of the plant closing with the employees; i.e., will the employees be given a chance to transfer? will they recieve severance pay? and so forth. The plant may be closed even though it takes a longer time to negotiate the effects.

Mr. Fosler observed that, in addition to this provision, he would encourage more discussion outside the bargaining process, as addressed in paragraph (c), since he said employees know a great deal about the practical problems involved in running the Department. He commented that there needs to be a distinction between the collective bargaining process and the general process of managing the Police Department, for which the police officers should also be consulted. He cautioned about the potential danger of establishing an adversary relationship during the bargaining process which might carry over as a general attitude that pervades the Department. Mr. Fosler said he believes the way the legislation is written will go a long way to set the proper tone in a department where everyone has a common interest in having the department run effectively.

Mr. Katz responded to Mr. Fosler's question about FOP's concern regarding inclusion of transfer, assignment and scheduling of employees as an employer right, saying that the Police bill of rights speaks to transfers and that scheduling has been a major sticking point over the past years. He noted that, at the Wheaton Station, actions were taken agains management in this regard and that the Police feel that scheduling is a very important item to bring to the bargaining table.

Councilwoman Crenca suggested that Councilmembers read the minutes when the matter was before the Council at the time the amendment for binding arbitration was being prepared for the ballot. The intent at that time was grievance arbitration, but then there was a "slip twixt cup and lip." What happened was unfortunate, but Mr. Katz acted honorably. Ms. Crenca said a tape of that meeting would be helpful to her.

Ms. Crenca said that the Police tried to make a point and no one wanted to listen so the Council must address the results. She asked whether the state of the art includes specific expressions regarding matters affecting health & safety of employees and the effect on employees of the employer's exercise of rights; or is language being used in the bill that will lead to an impasse during negotiations.

Mr. Hillman responded that there is a body of law which has elaborated on what was meant by management rights and effects on employees, such as the effects on employees of closing a plant, mentioned earlier. There is a means of a neutral person deciding these questions, should they arise. He observed that there will always be ambiguities regarding the effects on employees of the exercise of management rights, but there is a way to resolve them.

Councilman Scull stated that it appears to him that the changes that have come from the Executive are at the request of the Police and represent some weakening of the County's positions. The employer has rights regarding promotions which are vital; in the first draft this was not subject to bargaining, now the right is to set standards.

Mr. Hillman said he tried to sharpen what was meant with respect to eligibility for promotion, etc. One of the things that might be discussed with the employees is how much time will be allotted before an examination. It is essential to reserve standards to management, but employees may want to discuss the amount of notice before a test to allow for study time. Favoritism in selection, if alleged, is something that would be taken to the Merit System Protection Board through the grievance procedure. Mr. Driesen added that through the discussion process, fruitful results are hoped for, even though bargaining is not permissible. The FOP acquiesced, reluctantly, with respect to bargaining about transfers, assignments and schedules which are clearly working conditions and the Executive has listened to many of its concrete ideas and there has been cooperation; professionals have tried to reach compromises on the provisions of the legislation that all parties can live under. The new language for Section 33-80 is the Executive's response to these discussions. Other changes from the last draft include combination of provisions to eliminate redundencies. Under (c) the voluntary discussions will not lead to these matters being placed in a bargaining context; this provision must be read in context with the section on employer rights.

Mr. Rovner said that Chief Crooke wants to be able to discuss matters with the FOP, as a sounding board, but cannot be restricted by a binding agreement in the exercise of his duties as heat of the Police Department; scheduling clearly must be left out of the contract.

Councilwoman Spector suggested that the Council address a main area of concern which is the relationship of the recommendation of the Executive to the process the Council enters into. His recommendation is binding on the Executive, but not on the Council.

Mr. Hillman indicated that paragraph (g) in the new language submitted addresses the Council's intention to appropriate for the agreement reached, or not to do so. There was concern that the Executive and the certified representative of the FOP would reach an agreement either through collective bargaining, or the impasse procedure, and that that agreement for financial, or other, reasons would not be acceptable to the Council. Because it was unsatisfactory to have the Council vote not to implement the agreement, or not to provide the funds in the budget, and have the Police be without a contract for the ensuing fiscal year, there has been a provision written into the legislation that the Council will be asked, prior to April 25th, to look at the agreement with respect to its being funded in the budget and give the negotiating parties some idea of whether the contract negotiated is something the Council can accept, or will reject, and its reasons, so the negotiating parties can go back and address any concerns the Council may have. The Council can address each item in the contract, if it so desires, but in the final analysis, it is the funding which must be acted upon. This takes place after the arbitration process has been completed; the agreement is conditioned upon the Council's action.

To Ms. Spector's comment that this procedure places the Council in a situatio where it has to address the matter late in its budget deliberations, after not having been a party to the negotiations and after the negotiations have already taken place, Mr. Hillman indicated that the Council will get the same amount of time as for the remainder of the budget. The negotiations must be finished on February 1 and on April 25th the Council must say whether the parties must go back to the negotiating table. Ms. Spector responded that this is different in that there is not a contract with other employees, except for the MCPS employees,and that is somewhat different.

Ms. Spector observed that the Council might need to set up a separate procedure to give the subject contract some priority in its budget deliberations.

Some of the points made in the detailed discussion of the bill were that it is a 3-year agreement for which the Council may not want to commit for the last two years; the parties to the negotiation can respond to that; the agreement is conditioned upon the Council's appropriating funds; the Council can only appropriateby the year, except in certain CIP items; the Council could send a letter to the negotiating parties,but discussion with a Councilmember or member of its staff would be more helpful; the bill provides no means of binding the Council which gives the FOP pause as it may give up certain things to gain a 3-year agreement; the negotiating parties could come to the Council earlier than the 15 days specified; it would be unwise to have the Council meet with the parties in the bargaining process; if the Council maintains an attitude of cooperation, the process will work, and this is something the Council, educated in labor relations, is likely to do; a Council representative could spend more time finding out about problems than the Council body could devote to the matter; the difference should be delineated between bargaining and expressing views to provide guidance since the Council is involved in implementing what is bargained; and generally reviewed the provisions of the bill as written.

Mr. Potter called attention to Section 305 of the Charter which provides that 5 affirmative votes are required for approval of the aggregate operating budget excluding the WSSC, the bi-County portion of the N-NCPPC and the WSTC which exceeds the budget for the preceding year by a percentage increase greater than that of the CPI for all urban consumers for the Washington metropolitan area for the preceding calendar year. This is for the entire budget, but it gives the minority important leverage.

Ms. Spector added that the Executive's veto of line items might also affect this process, should he veto something else in order to fund the negotiated agreement with the Police.

President Potter indicated that the Council should consider both of these possibilities.

Councilman Scull asked where the matter stands legally if these procedures do not work out. Is there assurance that the Police will not go to court to overturn the whole procedure? Is there a commitment on the part of the Police to live with these procedures?

Mr. Driesen responded that the FOP is an organization, he and Mr. Katz are its attorneys. He could not make that commitment for the organization. After the recess in the worksession, Mr. Driesen said he had discussed the FOP position with the president of that organization. The FOP still feels strongly about the exclusion of sergeants. He is not in a position to say that the FOP will not litigate that position. He is representing a democratic organization which has a constitutional right to litigate.

Mr. Potter noted that this Council cannot commit for future Councils either.

Mr. Scull asked how this bill relates to the present grievance procedures.

Mr. Driesen responded that grievance procedures are negotiated in this contract; outside the contract, grievances relating to promotions would be heard before the Merit System Protection Board.

Mr. Katz indicated that there is a law enforcement bill of rights and there is a separate procedure for disciplinary matters to be heard by a trial board of 3 police officers convened by the department, pursuant to Article 27 of the Annotated Code of Maryland.

It was the consensus of the Council to indicate in the middle of page three that the Council majority generally consist of 4 Councilmembers; this will be clearer in view of the move to increase the Council to 9 members.

The Council concluded its discussion of Section 33-80 of the bill and turned to discussion of Sec. 33-81, impasse procedure. Mr. Hillman explained this provision to choose someone whom everyone trusts early and have him committed to the time constranits. After mediation, if agreement still cannot be reached, the impasse neutral will choose the last best offer of the employer or union. The impasse neutral has limited freedom with factors set forth on which he can base his decision. The permanent umpire has a five-year appointment. Both will be paid on a fee basis under contract.

Councilmembers expressed no problems with the subject procedure.

President Potter told Councilmembers that he is assuming agreement if Councilmembers do not raise objections.

President Potter summed up, saing that consesnus had been reached on the collective bargaining procedures and impasse procedures. An editorial change was made regarding "Council majority" with respect to collective bargaining, to omit defining Council majority on page 3,by striking "consisting of 4 of the Councilmembers."

The Council then reviewed Section 33-82, prohibited practices. Mr. Hillman observed that he thought there was disapproval of inserting the word "lawful" on page 28, line 2, which he feels creates a loophole.

Upon motion of Councilman Gudis, duly seconded and without objection, the Council voted to omit the word "unlawful" on page 28, line 2.

Mr. Driesen confirmed for Mr. Fosler that if the Executive is ruled against by the impasse neutral or umpire, he is bound not to oppose the agreement. He said that the union cannot be deprived of its first amendment rights, but the likelihood of its coming to the Council and trying to overturn an agreement is slim.

Councilman Fosler noted as a possible problem the possibility of the Council's receiving requests for legislation, from either side, to do by legislation what it cannot do by agreement.

Mr. Potter pointed to the wisdom of Councilmembers not commiting themselves on matters under negotiation until they know the contents of the entire package to prevent unnecessary misunderstandings, as have occurred with MCEA.

Without objection, on page 28, line 6, the "or" was deleted.

Mr. Driesen stated that (b) (5) through (9) are criminal matters and there is no place for them in labor relations law; they are totally unwarranted in this context, in his opinion.

Mr. Rovner noted that there is no guarantee that the FOP will be here forever and these are alternative means of redress.

President Potter asked that Mr. Hillman provide the Council with additional information as to where (b) (5) through (9) appear in law and then the Council will examine the matter carefully.

Mr. Hillman explained, that lines 8-14, page 31, of the bill were struck because the Executive was reminded that after the initial draft of the "meet and confer" law, the use of official time for these activities is allowed. This language has been taken out, but use of official time can be addressed in negotiations.

Without objection, on page 27, line 18, the words "or other" were deleted.

Mr. Hillman explained that, on page 31, lines 15-22, expression of views, that language was taken from the National Labor Relations Act; it is in almost every State and local law with which he is familiar.

Mr. Driesen offered, in connection with discussion of paragraph (3) on page 27, encouraging or discouraging membership in any employee organization by discrimination in regard to hiring, tenure, wages, hours or conditions of employment, to submit language that could appear as a proviso under Section 23.

Mr. Potter indicated that Council would await receipt of that language for its consideration.

With respect to Section 33-84, prohibition of strikes, Mr. Hillman said the normal way to enforce "no strike" is to get an injunction and then the court would normally impose criminal contempt penalties which would take care of this problem.

Mr. Driesen said there is not going to be a stike from the standpoint of the employer, He would not want another enforcement provision in this law; if a strike occurs, there should be a centralized response to it.

Mr. Potter noted that the permanent umpire would impose penalties for any violations, after the fact.

Without objection, the Council did not strike "paid by the County" and insert "borne 50% by the County and 50% by the employee organizations," as suggested.

Mr. Potter indicated, that after the Council has received the material requested during this worksession, he will schedule a short worksession or time for a short worksession at the time the bill is placed on the agenda for final reading.

With respect to Sec. 33-80 (a)(4), hours and working conditions, including the availability and use of personal patrol vehicles, Councilman Fosler said he thought personal patrol vehicles were not to be included as an item for negotiation. He feels this is different from other items included in that list and asked why it should be included; this item has never been negotiated in the past. He sees the use of patrol vehicles as a way of attempting to increase the police presence & to be able to respond more quickly to calls for service for which, in turn, the police would get the use of the vehicles; this use was not begun as a police benefit.

Mr. Hillman noted that Councilwoman Gelman's earlier objection was only that this item be listed as a working condition, rather than as a benefit.

President Potter added that the police vehicles are not only included under working conditions, but are a benefit to the community. The Council's conclusion was that the use of the vehicles is a bonus for the public and, in a sense, a substitute for some wages for the Police; the visibility benefit to the public cannot be eliminated.

Mr. Rovner stated that the Executive has taken the position that the vehicles should be within the scope of bargaining. It was included because, when there was a conflict between the general and the specific, the specific controlled. Those vehicles are a precise means by which the police accomplish their work. In addition, the police have arranged facets of their personal life around the use of these vehicles and, because it is such a major item in their lives, the Executive has decided that when their use is called into question, there should be collective bargaining. The moment the existing equation shifts, before the vehicles are taken away, the Executive believes there should be negotiation, since they also constitute a major benefit to the policemen.

Mr. Fosler asked that it be made clear that the expectation is that these personal patrol vehicles are of equal value to the officers and the public; if this comes into question, bargaining follows.

President Potter asked that the requested material be furnished the Council in a week or so. Upon its receipt he will schedule this legislation for final reading.

Re: SB-935 - A Bill Entitled Community Action Agencies

Mr. Andrew Mansinne, Director of the Office of Legislative Oversight, presented the following memorandum for the Council's consideration:

At the request of Councilmember Spector and Mr. McDonell, I have reviewed Senate Bill 935 and have discussed its contents and implications with Harvey McConnell, Department of Family Resources and Jim Farmer of our own Community Action Agency. In my opinion, Council should support this Bill.

For several years, the Montgomery County Community Action Agency (CAA) has received grants directly from the Federal Community Services Administration. Within the state, there are currently 12 CAA's; Montgomery County and Baltimore City are public Community Action Agencies, the remaining ten are private CAA's. Last year when the Community Services Administration was abolished, Congress stipulated that funds in the form of Federal Community Services Block Grants would be distributed directly to the states from a new Office of Community Services, within the Department of Health and Human Services. For FY 82, 90% of these funds distributed to the State must be used to fund the Community Action Agencies (i.e. the twelve currently organized in the State). The remaining 10% of the funds are for administration and discretionary projects. However, beginning in FY 83, the State can distribute the Federal Community Services Block Grant to any limited purpose agency with the result that the current CAA's could receive no funds.

Senate Bill 935 would guarantee the continued distribution of at least 90% of the Federal Community Services Block Grant Funds to the Community Action Agencies (see Bill lines 189-203).

Upon motion of Councilman Gudis, duly seconded and adopted without objection, the Council authorized Mr. Potter to sign and send the following letter to the Chaiman of the Senate Budget and Taxation Committee:

Members of the Montgomery County Council join with the County Executive, Charles W. Gilchrist, in support of Senate Bill 935, A Bill Entitled Community Action Agencies.

We believe that community action agencies serve a tremendous service to local governments whether they are public or private. The low-income citizens of our great State rely on these agencies to act as liaison between themselves and their governments, to assist them in identifying needs, accessing available services, and assisting them to become self-sufficient and independent.

Please recommend Senate Bill 935 to the full Senate for approval.

Re: Executive Session on Personnel Matter

The Council conducted an executive session on a personnel matter beginning at 9:10 A.M.

Re: Briefing on Public Sector Labor Relations

The Council met with Robert Hillman, Special Counsel for Labor Relations; Council Staff Director McDonell; Mr. Hilliard, Director of Personnel; Mr. Torgesen, Assistant to Personnel Director for Labor Relations; Assistant County Attorney Sorrell; and Legislative Counsel Frankel, to discuss public sector labor relations.

Mr. McDonell stated that the staff was requested to arrange a meeting for the Council to review the principles that have evolved in public sector collective bargaining, and to discuss in detail in executive session some of the implications and approaches that might be taken by the County government in implementing Section 510, Collective Bargaining, of the County Charter.

In introducing the Special Counsel, Mr. Hilliard stated that Mr. Hillman has a background in labor law and an extensive background in public sector collective bargaining. He has a combination of training, skill and understanding of the public sector that uniquely qualifies him to advise the County government in this regard.

Mr. Hillman stated that, from 1940 to 1980, the percentage of public sector employees in the civilian labor force increased from 6.5% to 20%. Accompanying that growth was a tremendous rate of growth in unions and collective bargaining in the public sector, to the extent that it has a tremendous impact on local governments and economies. In the private sector, collective bargaining has a 45-year history; in the public sector, it has only a 15-year history. As someone who has practiced extensively in the private sector, Mr. Hillman stated that there is still much to learn after a 45-year history. In the public sector, problems are compounded by the extensive variety in local governments.

Mr. Hillman stated that one of the underlying reasons for the increase in public sector unions has been the great increase in growth in the urban and suburban areas that has been experienced since World War II. As these areas have grown, there has been a tremendous expansion in the role of local government. As a result of greater social consciousness, new areas of governmental activities have emerged, along with new ways of thinking about government workers. Local government is no longer a small organization. The rise of public sector employment caused local governments to become competitive in labor markets, and many employees during the 1960s and 1970s began to feel that their government jobs were very secure. Unions offered additional security and benefits. In 1961, President Kennedy signed an Executive Order that had a great impact on public sector unions. Although it only authorized collective bargaining for federal government employees, it had a tremendous filtering-down effect. The unions saw that the state and local government employees could be organized if federal employees could be organized, and organized labor unions began to funnel organizing funds into those areas.

Mr. Hillman stated that the mid-1960s to the 1970s was a time when private sector labor unions were declining. As the economy evolves into a more service-oriented economy, the private sector labor force will decline in terms of numbers of organized employees. As a result, unions looked for new members, and with the increase in the number of public sector employees, organizing efforts were very successful. Mr. Hillman stated that slightly under 50% of the total American work force is organized. During the last ten years, this figure has remained constant due to the growth of public sector unions while private sector unions have declined. About 50% of the public sector employees are unionized.

Mr. Hillman reviewed the history of organized labor in the educational field.

Mr. Hillman stated that one reason for the increase in unions in the public sector is that, as inflationary pressures hit local governments, pay increases for government employees have been a very low priority. As employees are also impacted by inflation, this has given them an impetus to organize.

In response to an inquiry as to whether there is a correlation between groups that unionize and the benefits they have, Mr. Hillman stated that there are differences of opinion. It is his opinion that once a government provides a minimum level of benefits, unionization depends on how the government administers those benefits and how it communicates those benefits to the employees. Day-to-day dealings with employees are also important. If a government has a record of no pay increases or very small increases, after a period of time the employees will organize to do something about it. With respect to one of the reasons that the percentage of public sector unions is increasing while private sector unions are decreasing, Mr. Hillman stated that private employers have learned to combat union organizing activities. He described various ways some companies have successfully kept unions out of their businesses, including extensive communications programs and internal grievance procedures. He indicated that he would be happy to provide Councilmembers with a copy of a book concerning union avoidance theories. The inexperience of government management in dealing with unionizing efforts has been one of the biggest factors in the increase of public sector unions. Mr. Hillman stated that a reapportionment decision of the U.S. Supreme Court also had an effect on the increase of public sector labor unions. Many states had legislatures that were traditionally controlled by rural interests who are opposed to unions of state and local employees. However, due to reapportionment, many state legislatures are now controlled by urban interests, and many states have enacted collective bargaining legislation. Once collective bargaining is authorized, an election is held in which the union generally wins representation. There have been very few cases in which a union has lost a public sector election. In the private sector, they lose 50% of such elections.

It was noted that private sector unionization has declined because of the shift from a production-oriented economy to a service-oriented economy, yet many public sector employees are service-oriented. Mr. Hillman stated that private sector service employees are more difficult to organize because they are not all in one place, such as in a large factory. It is very difficult to organize a shop of 100 employees, for instance, when 75 of them are out on trucks during the day cleaning carpets. In addition, white collar workers have a certain image of themselves and the feeling that unions are for factory workers. Private industry has fostered that image. Most local governments do not have someone assigned to combat union organizing activities and to talk with employees about their jobs and concerns. Once a collective bargaining bill is enacted and unions begin organizing employees, they give employees 25 good reasons why they should belong to the union, and no one on the employer's side gives any reasons why they should not join the union. The private sector employer works very hard in this regard. In union representation elections in the private sector, there is virtually 100% participation among employees. The employer makes sure that everyone particiaptes; he does not want a minority or one group of employees to decide the issue. In the public sector, however, election participation is less than 50% because no one on the side of management campaigns against the union and encourages people to vote.

With respect to differences in collective bargaining between the public and private sectors, Mr. Hillman stated that the most obvious difference is economic. The private sector employer has a different set of economic forces at work. He is in a competitive situation, and employees recognize that he must remain competitive in order to stay in business. Private sector negotiations are bilateral; they involve the employer and the union. In the public sector, negotiations are trilateral; they involve the employer, the union and the public which must pay the bill. The public is the true employer, but most citizens do not see themselves in that way, nor realize that negotiations affect their tax dollar. In general, the public wants public sector employees to have very good benefits. Citizens feel that their teachers, police officers and firefighters should have more benefits, but they do not want bigger tax bills. In this regard, certain public sector employees have done a good job of public relations, as evidenced by bumper stickers concerning the important role played by teachers in society. Mr. Hillman stated that public pressures in collective bargaining are very real for elected officials and are intensified by the media which often produce stories about a potential strike when everyone knows that a contract will be signed before the deadline. In the private sector, the employer can come to the bargaining table and make a deal with the union for a certain wage increase. This is not the case in the public sector because of the doctrine of separation of powers. In most cases, the executive branch of government negotiates the agreement; however, this agreement merely serves as the executive's budget recommendation to the legislature. There is a second round of approval, and the negotiators must think in terms of what the executive wants and also what the legislative body will approve. In the private sector, the employer and union can negotiate any subject and come to any agreement that is satisfactory to both sides. In the public sector, there are constraints as to what can be subject to negotiation.

Councilman Gudis pointed out that the separation of powers enables an executive to reach an agreement with a union knowing that the legislative body will not approve it, resulting in politicization of the process.

With respect to the basic structure of a public sector labor law, Mr. Hillman stated that it must address representation rights. In many cases there are already recognized representatives; a basic decision must be made as to whether the law should recognize those representatives or require new elections. The law must address protections for both employees and employer and who shall administer those protections. The issue of protection of rights has not been as important in the public sector as it has in the private sector because most problems occur during the representation process and there have not been sharp contests for representation in the public sector.

Mr. Hillman stated that a basic public sector labor law must address the bargaining process which includes questions such as: Who will represent the County? How much authority does the representative have? What procedures are built in for approval of the negotiated agreement? What is the scope of the bargaining? What can the negotiator give away? What is the procedure for resolving an impasse? Mr. Hillman stated that the timeframe of the bargaining process must coincide with the County's budget process. He reviewed the various forms of mediation, including binding arbitration. He reviewed the states that have binding arbitration, stating that several states are now backing away from binding arbitration. It was noted that strikes are a method of resolving impasses. Every jurisdiction that has had a police strike has had a law prohibiting it. Some laws allow selective strikes as long as vital public services are not affected. Mr. Hillman stated that he is a member of a professional organization of labor relations specialists. There is a strong feeling in that organization that governments can survive any strike; however, there are strong reservations about strikes by police officers and firefighters.

Councilman Fosler agreed, stating that there is a school of thought that says that public sector strikes need not be as damaging as people think of them as being and that the government may be better off not prohibiting them. Instead, it should attempt to deal with strikes more effectively.

Mr. Hillman pointed out that the AFL-CIO in Maryland has not been strongly supportive of strikes by public employees.

MEMORANDUM

August 31, 1981

TO: Councilmembers Fosler and Scull

FROM: David Jay Frankel, Legislative Counsel

SUBJECT: Collective Bargaining Legislation

One aspect of the proposed collective bargaining law for police officers which specifically concerns me is whether the Council has authority to enact this kind of legislation. As you know, the recently approved Charter provision provides that the County shall enact a law to provide for collective bargaining and binding arbitration with a representative of police officers. This, to me, does something other than simply authorize the County to enact such a law. It actually mandates its enactment.

The reason for my concern arises from the recent decision by Judge Fairbanks in the "Ficker" amendment case. In that case, Judge Fairbanks cited Cheeks v. Cedlair Corp., 287 Md. 595, (1980), where the Court of Appeals stated:

> "A charter amendment, therefore, differs in its fundamental character from a simple legislative enactment. Its content cannot transcend its limited office and be made to serve or function as a vehicle through which to adopt local legislation." (emphasis supplied)

In his opinion, Judge Fairbanks went on to say that "the citizens of Montgomery County are not empowered directly or indirectly to exercise any of the police or general welfare powers exclusively granted to the County Council. Nor can they seek to accomplish by Charter initiative what they have no power to accomplish by referendum or otherwise."

It appears that the Cheeks case may be applicable to the Collective Bargaining Charter Amendment, since the thrust of the Amendment is to compel (as opposed to authorize) the Council to enact specific legislation. If, in fact, the purpose of the Amendment is to compel the enactment of specific legislation, it would seem to follow that proponents of the Amendment will accomplish by Charter initiative what they clearly have no power to accomplish by referendum or otherwise.

I would suggest that we meet to discuss this issue and its ramifications and that Bob McDonell be included in the discussions. Please let me know whether you wish to proceed in this manner.

ROCKVILLE, MARYLAND 20850

MEMORANDUM

October 22, 1981

TO: Ruth Spector, President, Montgomery County Council

FROM: Charles W. Gilchrist, County Executive

SUBJECT: Police Collective Bargaining Law

As you know, in November, 1980, the voters of Montgomery County approved a Charter Amendment providing for the establishment of a collective bargaining law for police officers. Consistent with this requirement, special counsel was retained to assist in the drafting of a police collective bargaining law. During the period in which the draft legislation was developed, meetings were held with Council members, the Fraternal Order of Police, and my staff to determine the appropriate framework for the legislation.

I believe that the attached legislation represents a fair and responsible approach to the conduct of police collective bargaining in the County government and I am pleased to present it to you for your consideration. At some point in your work on this bill, I will have further comment on possible amendments.

In compliance with your rules of procedure the following submissions are made.

1. Description - This legislation provides the framework for the conduct of collective bargaining between the County government and police officers in specified classifications. Specifically, the legislation includes the establishment of a permanent umpire to implement certain provisions of the law; certification procedures for employee organizations; subjects appropriate and inappropriate for bargaining; impasse procedures; prohibited practices; provisions prohibiting strikes and lockouts; use of official working time of employees and the effect of prior enactments.

October 22, 1981

2. Problem: Section 510 of the County Charter requires the County Council to enact legislation to implement collective bargaining for police officers.

3. Goals & Objectives - The proposed legislation is intended to promote a harmonious, peaceful, and cooperative relationship between the County government and police officers. This will be accomplished by providing for timely negotiations on subjects appropriate for bargaining and the resolution of negotiation impasses through procedures established by law.

4. Coordination - Employees covered by the proposed legislation will be excluded from coverage under Chapter 33, Article IV, title Employer/ Employee Relations, the County's Meet and Confer Law. Employees covered by this legislation will also be excluded from coverage under Section 33-74, title Cost of Living Adjustment; so that salaries and other economic items are determined by the collective bargaining process.

5. Fiscal Impact - The adoption of this legislation will have a direct impact on the FY83 operating budget because it will require funding for a Permanent Umpire, an Impasse Neutral and costs related to their duties as required by the law. More specifically, these costs are estimated as follows:

Permanent Umpire	$5,000
Impasse Neutral	$4,000
	$9,000

These monies are to be appropriated in the FY83 Personnel Office Operating Budget, and funded from the County general fund.

6. Economic Impact - No specific economic impact is predicted.

7. Evaluation

   a. The effectiveness of the law will be evaluated by reviewing the procedural components of the law which are designed to facilitate negotiation of an agreement in a timely and cooperative manner. The procedural components evaluated in this process will include; the certification procedures, time frame for negotiations, impasse procedures, and employer/employee prohibitions.

October 22, 1981

b. The Personnel Office will be responsible for the evaluation with comment from the affected employee organization.

c. The evaluation will take place after the first full cycle of negotiations.

8. Experience Elsewhere - A review of collective bargaining laws in existence for police employees in other jurisdictions has been made. Many of the definitions and concepts included in this proposed law are taken from an established legislative history in both the private and public sector.

No two bargaining laws in the public sector are identical. This law incorporates those bargaining concepts which have proven successful in other jurisdictions and are conducive to the unique bargaining environment of Montgomery County Government.

9. Source of Information - The following individuals are available as resource persons regarding any questions you may have about this legislation:

Robert Hillman, Special Counsel
Clinton Hilliard, Personnel Director
Paul McGuckian, County Attorney

as amended, is hereby amended, by adding a new Subsection (c), to read as follows:

Sec. 33-74. Cost-of-living adjustment.

(a) The county executive shall provide as a part of the annual recommended operating budget for the county government sufficient funds to implement the cost of living adjustment required by this section. The council shall accord one of the highest priorities to the full funding of the cost-of-living adjustment, shall fund fully the seventy-five percent of Consumer Price Index cost-of-living adjustment unless reasons are given for not doing so, and shall make a finding in the budget resolution as to the extent to which full funding is achieved. Unless otherwise provided in the approved budget resolution which includes a finding that implementation of the full amount of the adjustment would necessitate substantial lay-offs of personnel or result in other widespread hardship to county government employees, the chief administrative officer shall adjust the uniform salary plan for all classified employees of the county government beginning the first pay period on or after July 1 of each year by an amount not less than seventy-five percent of the change in the Consumer Price Index for all urban consumers in the Washington, D.C. area, although pay grades one through four of the uniform salary plan to which minimum wage and certain seasonal employees are assigned will be adjusted by changes in the minimum wage rates and salary surveys to determine the competitiveness of such salaries. The percentage change shall be based on the latest published index for the calendar year preceding the fiscal year in which the adjustment is to be paid.

The chief administrative officer may adjust the uniform salary plan in excess of the base percentage of seventy-five percent, provided funds are available and approved by the county council for such purpose.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions in (a) above, for FY-82 only the following salary controls shall apply:

1. Salary maxima of grades 5 through 31 will be adjusted by the full cost-of-living granted by the County Council.
2. The salary maximum for grade 40 shall be $70,000.00.
3. The salary maxima for grades 32 through 39 shall be adjusted by the Chief Administrative Officer so that the dollar difference between the salary maxima of grades 31 through 40 is the same.
4. The salary for each merit employee in grades 5-31 will be adjusted by the full cost-of-living granted by the County Council to the extent that such salary adjustment does not exceed the maximum of the employee's grade.
5. The salaries for merit employees in grades 32 through 39 will be adjusted by the full cost-of-living granted by the County Council only to the extent that such salary adjustment does not exceed the maximum of the employee's grade.
6. The cost-of-living adjustment to the salaries of non-merit employees shall be determined by the County Executive but shall not exceed the cost-of-living granted merit employees.
7. No employee's salary is to be reduced below its level as of June 30, 1981 as a result of implementation of the provisions contained in paragraphs 1- 6 above.

(c) The provisions of this section shall not apply to an employee of the police department, as defined in Section 33-76 of this Chapter, who is represented by a certified employee organization pursuant to the provisions of Article V, title "Police Labor Relations" of this Chapter.

Sec. 3. Chapter 33, title "Personnel" of the Montgomery County Code 1972, as amended, is hereby amended by adding a new Article V, title "Police Labor Relations", Sections 33-75 through 33-85, to read as follows:

ARTICLE V. POLICE LABOR RELATIONS.

Sec. 33-75. DECLARATION OF POLICY.

It is the public policy of this County, pursuant to Charter Section 510, enacted as a result of citizen initiative, and purpose of this Article to promote a harmonious, peaceful, and cooperative relationship between the County government and its police employees and to protect the public by assuring, at all times, the responsive, orderly, and efficient operation of the police department. Since unresolved disputes in the police service are injurious to the public and to police employees as well, adequate means should be provided for preventing such unresolved disputes and for resolving them when they occur. To that end, it is in the public interest that police employees have the opportunity to bargain collectively through a representative of their choice or to refrain therefrom; and that any collective bargaining between the County government and a representative of those police employees be done in good faith with no interference with the orderly process of government and furthermore, that the results of collective bargaining be implemented.

It is also recognized however, that police employee organizations possess substantial means by which they may initiate governmental actions regarding the wages, hours, and working conditions of employees they represent or seek to represent. Consequently, in order to preserve the delicate balance between labor and management in the police service, the Council hereby declares that collective bargaining may be voluntarily selected in place of, but not in addition to existing means of initiating governmental action as to those subjects which are defined as appropriate for collective bargaining in this Article.

Sec. 33-76. DEFINITIONS.

When used in this Article:

"Agency Shop" means a provision in a collective bargaining agreement requiring, as a condition of continued employment, that bargaining unit employees pay a service fee not to exceed the monthly membership dues uniformly and regularly required by the employee organization of all of its members. An agency shop agreement shall not require the payment of initiation fees, an assessment, fines or any other collections or their equivalent, as a condition of continued employment.

To "bargain collectively" means to meet at reasonable times and places and to negotiate in good faith with respect to appropriate subjects as set out in subsection 33-80(a) of this Article.

"Employee" means any police officer in the classification of Master Police Officer I, Master Police Officer II, Police Officer I, Police Officer II, Police Officer III, and Police Officer Candidate, or equivalent non-supervisory classifications, but not those in the classification of Police Sergeant or any equivalent or higher classification.

"Employer" means the County Executive and his designees.

"Employee Organization" means any organization which admits to membership employees and which has as a primary purpose the representation of such employees in collective bargaining, and includes any person acting as an officer, representative, or agent of said organization.

"Lockout" means any action taken by the employer to interrupt or prevent the continuity of work properly and usually performed by the employee for the purpose and with the intent of either coercing the employees into relinquishing rights guaranteed by this Article or of bringing economic pressure on employees for the purpose of securing the agreement of their certified representative to certain collective bargaining terms.

"Mediation" means an effort by an impartial third party confidentially to assist in resolving, through interpretation, suggestion, and advice, a dispute arising out of collective bargaining between the employer and the certified representative.

"Strike" means the failure to report for duty, or the absence from one's position, or the stoppage of work, or the abstinence in whole or in part from the full, faithful, or proper performance of the duties of employment with the employer, or deviation from normal or proper work duties or activities, where any of the preceding are done in a concerted manner for the purpose of inducing, influencing, or coercing the employer in the determination, implementation, interpretation, or administration of terms or conditions of employment or of the rights, privileges, or obligations of employment or of the status, recognition or authority of the employee or an employee organization.

(a) There is hereby created the position of Permanent Umpire, so as to provide for the effective implementation and administration of Sections 33-79 and 33-82 of this Article concerning Selection and Certification of Employee Organization and Prohibited Practices. The Permanent Umpire shall exercise the following powers and perform the following duties and functions:

(1) To adopt, amend, and rescind, from time to time, such rules, regulations and procedures for the implementation and administration of Sections 33-79 and 33-82 as are consistent with this Article;

(2) To request from the employer or any employee organization, and the employer or such organization may at its discretion provide, such relevant assistance, service and data as will enable the Permanent Umpire to properly carry out his functions;

(3) To hold hearings and make inquiries, to administer oaths and affirmations, examine witnesses and documents, take testimony and receive evidence, compel by issuance of subpoenas the attendance of witnesses, not including elected County officials, and the production of relevant documents;

(4) To hold and conduct elections for unit certification or decertification pursuant to the provisions of this Article and to issue said certification or decertification;

(5) To investigate and attempt to resolve or settle, as provided in this Article charges of engaging in prohibited practices. However, if the employer and a certified representative have negotiated a valid grievance procedure the Permanent Umpire must defer to that procedure for the resolution of disputes properly submissible to the procedure absent a showing that such deferral will result or has resulted in the application of principles repugnant to this Article. Furthermore, the Permanent Umpire shall defer to state procedures in those matters which are governed by the Law Enforcement Officers Bill of Rights, Article 27, Sections 727, et seq., Annotated Code of Maryland;

(6) To obtain any necessary support services and make necessary expenditures in the performance of duties to the extent provided for these purposes in the annual budget of Montgomery County; and

(7) To exercise any other powers and perform any other duties and functions as may be specified in Sections 33-79 and 33-82 of this Article.

(b) The Permanent Umpire shall be appointed by the County Executive, with the confirmation of the County Council, shall serve for a term of five (5) years and shall be eligible for reappointment. The Permanent Umpire shall be a person with experience as a neutral in the field of labor relations and shall not be a person who, on account of vocation, employment or affiliation can be classed as a representative of the interests of the employer or any employee organization.

(c) The Permanent Umpire shall be paid a per diem fee as set forth by contract with the County and shall be reimbursed for necessary expenses.

Sec. 33-78. EMPLOYEE RIGHTS.

(a) Employees shall have the right:

(1) To form, join, support. contribute to, or participate in, or to refrain from forming, joining, supporting, contributing to, or participating in, any employee organization or its lawful activities; and

(2) To be fairly represented by their certified representative, if any.

(b) The Employer shall have the duty to extend to the certified representative the exclusive right to represent the employees for the purposes of collective bargaining including the orderly processing and settlement of grievances as agreed by the parties.

(c) A certified representative shall serve as the bargaining agent for all employees and shall have the duty to represent fairly and without discrimination all unit employees without regard to whether the employees are or are not members of the employee organization or are paying dues or other contributions to it or participating in its affairs, provided, however, that it shall not be deemed a violation of this duty for a certified representative to seek enforcement of an agency shop provision in a valid collective bargaining agreement.

(d) The right of the certified representative to receive membership dues deductions or agency shop provisions shall be determined through negotiations, unless the authority to negotiate such provisions has been suspended under Section 33-84. No collective bargaining agreement may include a provision requiring membership in, participation in the affairs of or contributions to an employee organization other than an agency shop provision.

Sec. 33-79. SELECTION, CERTIFICATION AND DECERTIFICATION PROCEDURES.

(a) Procedures for determining the certified representative for the unit may be initiated in accordance with this subsection as follows:

(1) Any employee organization seeking certification as representative of the unit may file a petition stating its name, address, and its desire to be certified with the Permanent Umpire, and shall transmit forthwith a copy of such, not including the names of the supporting employees, to the employer. Said petition must contain the uncoerced signatures of thirty percent (30%) of the employees within the unit signifying their desire to be represented by the employee organization for purposes of collective bargaining.

(2) Where an employee organization has been certified, an employee within the unit may file a petition with the Permanent Umpire and shall transmit forthwith a copy of such to the employer and the certified representative, not including the names of the supporting employee for decertification of the certified representative. The petition must contain the uncoerced signatures of at least thirty percent (30%) of the employees within the unit alleging that the employee organization presently certified is no longer the choice of the majority of the employees in the unit.

(3) The employer may file a petition with the Permanent Umpire seeking an election for certification of an employee organization or, where an employee organization is so certified, to cause decertification of the representative where the employer has reason to believe that the certified representative is not or is no longer the choice of the majority of the employees of the unit, and shall transmit a copy of such to the employee organization seeking to obtain or retain certification.

(4) Petitions may be filed between May 1, 1982, and June 30, 1982. Thereafter, petitions may be filed between September 1 and September 30, of any year, but no sooner than 22 months following an election held pursuant to this section.

(5) If a lawful collective bargaining agreement of no longer than three (3) years' duration is in effect, no petition shall be entertained unless filed during September of the final year of said agreement.

(6) If, during the period of May 1, to June 30, 1982, a petition is filed by the incumbent representative of unit employees certified under the Employer/Employee Relations Article of this Chapter, and no other employee organization files a valid petition, that incumbent certified representative shall be certified without an election, provided it produces evidence, acceptable to the Permanent Umpire, of majority representation.

(b) If the Permanent Umpire determines that a petition is properly supported and timely filed, the Permanent Umpire shall cause an election of all eligible employees to be held within a reasonable time, but no later than October 20 of that year, to determine if and by whom the employees wish to be represented, as follows:

(1) All elections shall be conducted under the supervision of the Permanent Umpire and shall be conducted by secret ballot at such time and place as the Permanent Umpire may direct. The Permanent Umpire may select and retain services of an agency of the State of Maryland, or similarly neutral body to assist in conducting the election.

(2) The election ballots shall contain, as choices to be made by the voter, the names of the petitioning or certified employee organization, the name or names of any other employee organization showing written proof at least ten (10) days before the election of at least ten percent (10%) representation of the employees within the unit, and a choice that the employee does not desire to be represented by any of the named employee organization(s).

(3) The employer and each party to the election may be represented by observers selected in accordance with such limitations and conditions as the Permanent Umpire may prescribe.

(4) Observers may challenge for good cause the eligibility of any person to vote in the election. Challenged ballots shall be impounded pending either agreement of the parties as to the validity of such challenge or the Permanent Umpire's decision thereon, unless the number of challenges is not determinative, in which latter event the ballot(s) shall be destroyed.

(5) After the polls have been closed, the valid ballots cast shall be counted by the Permanent Umpire in the presence of the observers.

(6) The Permanent Umpire immediately shall prepare and serve upon the employer and each of the parties a report certifying the results of the election. If, and only if, an employee organization has received the votes of a majority of the employees who voted, the Permanent Umpire shall certify the employee organization so elected as the exclusive agent. If no employee organization has received the votes of a majority of the employees, the Permanent Umpire shall certify no representative. No run-off election shall be conducted.

(c) The aforesaid certification of results shall be final unless, within seven (7) days after service of the report and certification, the employer or any other party serves on all parties and files with the Permanent Umpire objections to the election. Objections shall be verified and shall contain a concise statement of facts constituting the grounds thereof. The Permanent Umpire shall investigate the objections and, if substantial factual issues exist, the Permanent Umpire shall hold a hearing thereon. Otherwise, the Permanent Umpire may determine the matter without hearing. The Permanent Umpire may invite, either by rule or by ad hoc invitation, written or oral argument to assist in determination of the merits of the objections. If the Permanent Umpire finds that the election was conducted in substantial conformity with this Article, the Permanent Umpire shall make final that certification initially issued. If the Permanent Umpire finds that the election was not held in substantial conformity with this Article, the Permanent Umpire shall cause another election to be held pursuant to the provisions of this section.

(d) The cost of conducting an election shall be paid by the County.

(e) Voluntary recognition is prohibited under this Article, and no certification may be issued without an election except as provided for in subsection 33-79(a)(6).

Sec. 33-80. COLLECTIVE BARGAINING.

(a) Upon certification of an employee organization, as provided in Section 33-79, the employer and the said certified representative shall have the duty, through their designees, to bargain collectively with respect to those subjects as follows:

(1) Salary and wages, provided however that salaries and wages shall be uniform for all employees in the same classification.

(2) Pension and retirement benefits for active employees.

(3) Employee benefits such as, but not limited to, insurance, leave, holidays and vacation.

(4) Hours and working conditions.

(5) Provisions for the orderly processing and settlement of grievances concerning the interpretation and implementation of the collective bargaining agreement, which may include binding third party arbitration.

(b) The following subjects shall not be the subject of collective bargaining:

(1) Pensions or any other matter related to retired persons.

(2) Recruitment, selection, appointment, testing, promotion, position classification, or any other rule or action of the employer based on merit principles.

(3) Any matter which is the subject of state law including, but not limited to, the Law Enforcement Officers Bill of Rights, Article 27, Sections 727, et seq., Annotated Code of Maryland.

(4) Any matter which would impair the rights of the employer as set forth in subsection 33-80(c).

(c) Employer Rights.

This Article and any agreement pursuant hereto shall not impair the right and responsibility of the employer:

(1) To determine the overall mission of the employer and any agency of County government;

(2) To maintain and improve the efficiency of operations;

(3) To determine the services to be rendered, the operations to be performed and the technology to be utilized;

(4) To determine the overall methods, processes, means, job classifications or personnel by which operations are to be conducted and to prescribe and restrict the utilization of uniforms, vehicles, and equipment.

(5) To direct or supervise employees;

(6) To suspend, discipline or discharge employees;

(7) To transfer, assign, schedule, retain, layoff, or recall employees;

(8) To relieve employees from duties because of lack of work or funds, or under conditions when the employer determines continued work would be inefficient or nonproductive;

(9) To make and enforce rules and regulations not inconsistent with a collective bargaining agreement;

(10) To take whatever other actions may be necessary to carry out the wishes of the public not otherwise specified herein or limited by a collective bargaining agreement; or

(11) To take actions to carry out the mission of government in situations of emergency.

(d) Nothing contained in this Article shall be construed to limit the discretion of the employer voluntarily to confer with any or all of its employees in the process of developing policies to effectuate or implement any of the enumerated rights set forth in subsection 33-80(c). above.

(e) Collective bargaining shall commence no later than November 1, preceding the beginning of a fiscal year for which there is no contract between the employer and the certified representative and shall be concluded on January 20. The resolution of an impasse in collective bargaining shall be completed by February 1. These time limits may be waived only by prior written consent of the parties.

(f) Any collective bargaining agreement which contains a provision for automatic renewal or extension shall be void in its entirety unless such renewal or extension requires the consent of both parties. No agreement shall be valid if it extends for less than one year or for more than three years. All agreements shall become effective July 1 and end on June 30.

(g) Any collective bargaining agreement shall become effective only after ratification of the agreement by the public employer and the employees in the bargaining unit, except as provided in subsection 33-81(b)(7). A certified representative may provide its own rules for ratification procedures, but such rules shall be consistent with the certified representative's duty of fair representation. Any terms of a collective bargaining agreement which purport to restrict the rights of management and of the public as contained in subsection 33-80(c) of this Article or which concern those subjects set forth in subsection 33-80(b) shall be null and void and wholly unenforceable.

(h) A ratified agreement shall be binding on the employer and the certified representative. Any term or condition thereof which requires an appropriation of funds or enactment, repeal or modification of a County law shall be timely submitted to the County Council by the employer and the employer shall make a good faith effort to have such term or condition implemented by Council action, but the agreement shall provide either for automatic reduction or elimination of such conditional benefits if the Council fails to take such action or if funds are not appropriated or if a lesser amount is appropriated.

Sec. 33-81. IMPASSE PROCEDURE.

(a) Prior to November 10 of any year in which the employer and a certified representative bargain collectively, they shall choose an Impasse Neutral either by agreement or through the processes of the American Arbitration Association. The Impasse Neutral shall be required to be available during the period from January 20 to February 1. Fees and expenses shall be shared equally by the employer and the certified representative.

(b) (1) During the course of collective bargaining either party may declare an impasse and request the services of the Impasse Neutral. If the parties have not reached agreement by January 20, an impasse shall be deemed to exist.

(2) Whenever an impasse has been reached, the dispute shall be submitted to the Impasse Neutral. The Impasse Neutral shall attempt mediation by bringing the parties together voluntarily under such favorable auspices as will tend to effectuate the settlement of the dispute.

(3) If the Impasse Neutral, in the Impasse Neutral's sole discretion, finds that the parties are at a bona fide impasse, the Impasse Neutral shall require each party to submit a final offer which shall consist either of a complete draft of a proposed collective bargaining agreement or a complete package proposal, as the Impasse Neutral shall choose. If only complete package proposals are required the Impasse Neutral shall require the parties to jointly submit a memorandum of all items previously agreed upon.

(4) The Impasse Neutral may, in the Impasse Neutral's discretion, require the parties to submit evidence or make oral or written argument in support of their proposals. The Impasse Neutral may hold a hearing for this purpose at a time, date, and place selected by the Impasse Neutral. Said hearing shall not be open to the public.

(5) On February 1 or prior thereto, the Impasse Neutral shall select, as a whole, the most reasonable, in the Impasse Neutral's judgment, of the final offers submitted by the parties. The Impasse Neutral may take into account only the following factors:

a. Past collective bargaining contracts between the parties including the past bargaining history that led to such contracts, or the pre-collective bargaining history of employee wages, hours, benefits, and working conditions.

b. Comparison of wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of similar employees of other public employers in Maryland.

c. Comparison of wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of other employees of Montgomery County.

d. Wages, benefits, hours, and other working conditions of similar employees of private employers in Montgomery County.

e. The interest and welfare of the public.

f. The ability of the employer to finance economic adjustments and the effect of the adjustments upon the normal standard of public services by the employer.

(6) The Impasse Neutral shall not compromise or alter the final offer that he selects. Selection of an offer shall be based on the contents of that offer. No consideration shall be given to, nor shall any evidence or argument be received concerning the history of collective bargaining in this immediate dispute, including offers of settlement not contained in the offers submitted to the Impasse Neutral. However, the Impasse Neutral shall consider all previously agreed upon items integrated with the specific disputed items to determine the single most reasonable offer.

(7) The offer selected by the Impasse Neutral, integrated with the previous agreed upon items, shall be deemed to represent the final agreement between the employer and the certified representative, without the necessity of ratification by the parties, and shall have the force and effect of a contract voluntarily entered into and ratified as set forth in subsection 33-80(h). above. The parties shall execute such agreement.

Sec. 33-82. PROHIBITED PRACTICES.

(a) The employer or its agents or representatives are prohibited from:

(1) Interfering with, restraining, or coercing employees in the exercise of any rights granted to them under the provisions of this Article, provided that the discussion of any matter, argument, or opinion, or the dissemination thereof, whether orally, in writing or otherwise

shall not constitute or be evidence of prohibited practice under any of the provisions of this Article nor be grounds for invalidating any election conducted under this Article, if such discussion or dissemination contains no threat of reprisal or promise of benefit;

(2) Dominating or interfering with the formation or administration of any employee organization, or contributing financial or other support to it, pursuant to contract or otherwise; provided that the employer and a certified representative may agree to and apply a membership dues deduction provision;

(3) Encouraging or discouraging membership in any employee organization by discrimination in regard to hiring, tenure, or other wages, hours or conditions of employment;

(4) Discharging or discriminating against a public employee because he has filed charges, given testimony or otherwise lawfully aided in the administration of this Article;

(5) Refusing to bargain collectively with a certified representative;

(6) Refusing to reduce to writing or refusing to sign a bargaining agreement which has been agreed to in all respects;

(7) Refusing to process or arbitrate a grievance if required under a grievance procedure contained in a collective bargaining agreement;

(b) Employee organizations, their agents or representatives, and employees are prohibited from:

(1) Interfering with, restraining, or coercing the employer or employees in the exercise of any rights granted under this Article;

(2) Restraining, coercing, or interfering with the employer in the selection of its representatives for the purposes of collective bargaining or the adjustment of grievances;

(3) Refusing to bargain collectively with the employer if such employee organization is the certified representative;

(4) Refusing to reduce to writing or refusing to sign a bargaining agreement which has been agreed to in all respects;

(5) Hindering or preventing, by threats, intimidation, force, or coercion of any kind the pursuit of any lawful work or employment by any person, public or private, or obstructing or interfering with the entrance to or egress from any place of employment, or obstructing or interfering with the free and uninterrupted use of public roads, streets, highways, railways, airports, or other ways of travel or conveyance by any person, public or private;

(6) Hindering or preventing by threats, intimidation, force, coercion, or sabotage, the obtaining, use, or disposition of materials, supplies, equipment or services by the employer;

(7) Taking or retaining unauthorized possession of property of the employer, public or private, or engaging in any effort to interfere with production, functions, or services of an employer, public or private, or refusing to do work or use certain goods or materials as lawfully required by the employer;

(8) Forcing or requiring any employer to assign particular work to employees in a particular employee organization or classification rather than to employees in another employee organization or classification;

(9) Causing or attempting to cause the employer to pay or deliver or agree to pay or deliver any money or other thing of value, in the nature of an exaction, for services which are neither performed, to be performed or which are not productive or not desired to be performed by the employer.

(c) A charge of prohibited practice may be filed by any employer, employee organization, or any individual employee. All charges shall be supported by the charging party. The Permanent Umpire may request withdrawal of and, if necessary, summarily dismiss charges if they are insufficiently supported in fact or in law to warrant a hearing; however, the Permanent Umpire shall have authority to maintain such independent investigation as the Permanent Umpire determines necessary and to develop rules and regulations therefor. If the Permanent Umpire finds that a charge is sufficiently supported to raise an issue of fact or law, the Permanent Umpire shall hold a hearing on such charge upon notification to the parties. In any hearing, charging parties shall present evidence in support of the charges and the parties charged shall have the right to file an answer to the charges, to appear in person or otherwise and to present evidence in defense of the charges.

(d) If the Permanent Umpire determines that the person charged has committed a prohibited practice, the Permanent Umpire shall make findings of fact and conclusions of law and shall be empowered to issue an order requiring the person charged to cease and desist from the prohibited practice and to take such affirmative action as will remedy the violation(s) of this Article. Remedies of the Permanent Umpire may include, but shall not be limited to, orders withdrawing certification, withdrawing or suspending the employee organization's authority to negotiate or continue membership dues deductions, or agency shop benefits, withdrawing, suspending, or reinstating with or without back pay the employment or tenure of individual employees. If the Permanent Umpire finds that the party or parties charged have not committed any prohibited practices, the Permanent Umpire shall make findings of fact and conclusions of law and issue an order dismissing the charges.

(e) The Permanent Umpire shall not receive or entertain charges based upon an alleged prohibited practice occurring more than four (4) months prior to the filing of the charge.

Sec. 33-83. USE OF OFFICIAL TIME.

Solicitation of membership or dues payments, or other internal business of employee organizations shall be conducted during the non-duty hours of the employee involved. Employees who represent, or act on behalf of a certified representative, shall not be on paid working time when bargaining collectively with the public employer or when adjusting grievances.

Sec. 33-84. STRIKES AND LOCKOUTS.

(a) No employee or employee organization shall either directly or indirectly cause, instigate, encourage, condone or engage in any strike, nor the employer in any lockout. No employee or employee organization shall obstruct, impede, or restrict either directly or indirectly, any attempt to terminate a strike.

(b) The employer shall not pay, reimburse, make whole, or otherwise compensate any employee for or during the period when said employee is directly or indirectly engaged in a strike, nor shall the employer thereafter compensate an employee who struck for wages or benefits lost during such strike.

(c) If an employee or employee organization shall violate the provisions of this section, the employer may take any and all of the following actions it deems necessary in the public interest:

(1) Imposition of disciplinary action, including termination of employment of employees engaged in such conduct;

(2) Termination of employee organization's dues deduction privilege, if any;

(3) Revocation of certification and disqualification from participation in representation elections for a period up to a maximum of two (2) years.

(d) Nothing contained herein shall prohibit an employer from seeking any remedy available in a court of competent jurisdiction.

Sec. 33-85. EFFECT OF PRIOR ENACTMENTS.

Nothing contained in this Article shall be construed to repeal any law, executive orders, legislation, rules or regulations adopted by the County and any department or agency thereof not inconsistent with the provisions of this Article.

Sec. 4. Severability.

It is hereby declared to be the legislative intent that this Act would have been adopted if such illegal, invalid or unconstitutional provision, sentence, clause, section, word or part had not been included therein, and if the person or circumstances to which the Act or any part thereof is inapplicable had been specifically exempted therefrom.

Sec. 33-74. Cost of living adjustment.

(a) The county executive shall provide as a part of the annual recommended operating budget for the county government sufficient funds to implement the cost of living adjustment required by this section. The council shall accord one of the highest priorities to the full funding of the cost of living adjustment, shall fund fully the seventy-five percent of Consumer Price Index cost of living adjustment unless reasons are given for not doing so, and shall make a finding in the budget resolution as to the extent to which full funding is achieved. Unless otherwise provided in the approved budget resolution which includes a finding that implementation of the full amount of the adjustment would necessitate substantial lay-offs of personnel or result in other widespread hardship to county government employees, the chief administrative officer shall adjust the uniform salary plan for all classified employees of the county government beginning the first pay period on or after July 1 of each year by an amount not less than seventy-five percent of the change in the Consumer Price Index for all urban consumers in the Washington, D.C. area, although pay grades one through four of the uniform salary plan to which minimum wage and certain seasonal employees are assigned will be adjusted by changes in the minimum wage rates and salary surveys to determine the competitiveness of such salaries. The percentage change shall be based on the latest published index for the calendar year preceding the fiscal year in which the adjustment is to be paid.

The chief administrative officer may adjust the uniform salary plan in excess of the base percentage of seventy-five percent, provided funds are available and approved by the county council for such purpose.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions in (a) above, for FY-82 only the following salary controls shall apply:

2. The salary maximum for grade 40 shall be $70,000.00.

3. The salary maxima for grades 32 through 39 shall be adjusted by the Chief Administrative Officer so that the dollar difference between the salary maxima of grades 31 through 40 is the same.

4. The salary for each merit employee in grades 5-31 will be adjusted by the full cost-of-living granted by the County Council to the extent that such salary adjustment does not exceed the maximum of the employee's grade.

5. The salaries for merit employees in grades 32 through 39 will be adjusted by the full cost-of-living granted by the County Council only to the extent that such salary adjustment does not exceed the maximum of the employee's grade.

6. The cost-of-living adjustment to the salaries of non-merit employees shall be determined by the County Executive but shall not exceed the cost-of-living granted merit employees.

7. No employee's salary is to be reduced below its level as of June 30, 1981 as a result of implementation of the provisions contained in paragraphs 1- 6 above.

(c) The provisions of this section shall not apply to an employee of the police department, as defined in Section 33-76 of this chapter, who is represented by a certified employee organization pursuant to the provisions of Article V, Title "Police Labor Relations" of this chapter.

Sec. 3. Chapter 33, title "Personnel" of the Montgomery County Code 1972, as amended, is hereby amended by adding a new Article V, title "Police Labor Relations", Sections 33-75 through 33-85, to read as follows:

ARTICLE V. POLICE LABOR RELATIONS.

Sec. 33-75. DECLARATION OF POLICY.

It is the public policy of this County, pursuant to Charter Section 510, enacted as a result of citizen initiative, and purpose of this Article to promote a harmonious, peaceful, and cooperative relationship between the County government and its police employees and to protect the public by assuring, at all times, the responsive, orderly, and efficient operation of the police department. Since unresolved disputes in the police service are injurious to the public and to police employees as well, adequate means should be provided for preventing such unresolved disputes and for resolving them when they occur. To that end, it is in the public interest that police employees have the opportunity to bargain collectively OVER WAGES, HOURS, AND OTHER TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF EMPLOYMENT through a representative of their choice or to refrain therefrom; and that any collective bargaining between the County government and a representative of those police employees be done in good faith with no interference with the orderly process of government and furthermore, that ~~the results of~~ AGREEMENTS REACHED THROUGH collective bargaining be implemented.

It is also recognized however, that police employee organizations AND THE COUNTY GOVERNMENT EACH possess substantial means by which they may initiate ~~governmental~~ actions regarding the wages, hours, and working conditions of employees ~~they represent or seek to represent~~. Consequently, in order to preserve ~~the delicate~~ AN APPROPRIATE balance between labor and management in the police service, the Council hereby declares that ~~collective bargaining may be~~ ONCE A REPRESENTATIVE HAS BEEN voluntarily selected COLLECTIVE BARGAINING SHALL BE UTILIZED in place of, but not in addition to existing means of initiating governmental action as to those subjects which are defined as appropriate for collective bargaining in this Article.

Sec. 33-76. DEFINITIONS.

When used in this Article:

"Agency Shop" means a provision in a collective bargaining agreement requiring, as a condition of continued employment, that bargaining unit employees pay a service fee not to exceed the monthly membership dues uniformly and regularly required by the employee organization of all of its members. An agency shop agreement shall not require the payment of initiation fees, an assessment, fines or any other collections or their equivalent, as a condition of continued employment.

To "bargain collectively" means to meet at reasonable times and places and to negotiate in good faith with respect to appropriate subjects as set out in subsection 33-80(a) of this Article.

"Employee" means any police officer in the classification of Master Police Officer I, Master Police Officer II, Police Officer I, Police Officer II, Police Officer III, and Police Officer Candidate, or equivalent non-supervisory classifications, but not those in the classification of Police Sergeant or any equivalent or higher classification.

"Employer" means the County Executive and his designees.

"Employee Organization" means any organization which admits to membership employees and which has as a primary purpose the representation of such employees in collective bargaining, and includes any person acting as an officer, representative, or agent of said organization. SUCH ORGANIZATION SHALL NOT ADMIT TO MEMBERSHIP ANY PERSON OTHER THAN LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICERS.

"Lockout" means any action taken by the employer to interrupt or prevent the continuity of work properly and usually performed by the employee for the purpose and with the intent of either coercing the employees into relinguishing rights guaranteed by this Article or of bringing economic pressure on employees for the purpose of securing the agreement of their certified representative to certain collective bargaining terms.

"Mediation" means an effort by an impartial third party confidentially to assist in resolving, through interpretation, suggestion, and advice, a dispute arising out of collective bargaining between the employer and the certified representative.

Sec. 33-77. PERMANENT UMPIRE.

(a) There is hereby created the position of Permanent Umpire, so as to provide for the effective implementation and administration of Sections 33-79 and 33-82 of this Article concerning Selection and Certification of Employee

Organization and Prohibited Practices. The Permanent Umpire shall exercise the following powers and perform the following duties and functions:

(1) To adopt, amend, and rescind, from time to time, such rules, regulations and procedures for the implementation and administration of Sections 33-79 and 33-82 as are consistent with this Article;

(2) To request from the employer or any employee organization, and the employer or such organization may at its discretion provide, such relevant assistance, service and data as will enable the Permanent Umpire to properly carry out his functions;

(3) To hold hearings and make inquiries, to administer oaths and affirmations, examine witnesses and documents, take testimony and receive evidence, compel by issuance of subpoenas the attendance of witnesses ~~, not including elected County officials,~~ and the production of relevant documents;

(4) To hold and conduct elections for unit certification or decertification pursuant to the provisions of this Article and to issue said certification or decertification;

(5) To investigate and attempt to resolve or settle, as provided in this Article charges of engaging in prohibited practices. However, if the employer and a certified representative have negotiated a valid grievance procedure the Permanent Umpire must defer to that procedure for the resolution of disputes properly submissible to the procedure absent a showing that such deferral will result or has resulted in the application of principles repugnant to this Article. Furthermore, the Permanent Umpire shall defer to state procedures in those matters which are governed by the Law Enforcement Officers Bill of Rights, Article 27, Sections 727, et seq., Annotated Code of Maryland;

(6) To obtain any necessary support services and make necessary expenditures in the performance of duties to the extent provided for these purposes in the annual budget of Montgomery County; and

(7) To exercise any other powers and perform any other duties and functions as may be specified in Sections 33-79 and 33-82 of this Article.

(b) The Permanent Umpire shall be appointed by the County Executive, with the confirmation of the County Council, shall serve for a term of five (5) years and shall be eligible for reappointment PROVIDED HOWEVER THAT THE PERMANENT UMPIRE SHALL NOT BE REAPPOINTED IF DURING THE PERIOD BETWEEN 60 DAYS AND 30 DAYS PRIOR TO THE EXPIRATION OF HIS TERM THE CERTIFIED REPRESENTATIVE FILES A WRITTEN OBJECTION TO SUCH RE-APPOINTMENT WITH THE COUNTY EXECUTIVE. The Permanent Umpire shall be a person with experience as a neutral in the field of labor relations and shall not be a person who, on account of vocation, employment or affiliation can be classed as a representative of the interests of the employer or any employee organization.

(c) The Permanent Umpire shall be paid a per diem fee as set forth by contract with the County and shall be reimbursed for necessary expenses.

Sec. 33-78. EMPLOYEE RIGHTS.

(a) Employees shall have the right:

(1) To form, join, support. contribute to, or participate in, or to refrain from forming, joining, supporting, contributing to, or participating in, any employee organization or its lawful activities; and

(2) To be fairly represented by their certified representative, if any.

(b) The Employer shall have the duty to extend to the certified representative the exclusive right to represent the employees for the purposes of collective bargaining including the orderly processing and settlement of grievances as agreed by the parties.

(c) A certified representative shall serve as the bargaining agent for all employees and shall have the duty to represent fairly and without discrimination all unit employees without regard to whether the employees are or are not members of the employee organization or are paying dues or other contributions to it or participating in its affairs, provided, however, that it shall not be deemed a violation of this duty for a certified representative to seek enforcement of an agency shop provision in a valid collective bargaining agreement.

(d) The right of the certified representative to receive membership dues deductions or agency shop provisions shall be determined through negotiations, unless the authority to negotiate such provisions has been suspended under Section 33-84. No collective bargaining agreement may include a provision requiring membership in, participation in the affairs of or contributions to an employee organization other than an agency shop provision.

Sec. 33-79. SELECTION, CERTIFICATION AND DECERTIFICATION PROCEDURES.

(a) Procedures for determining the certified representative for the unit may be initiated in accordance with this subsection as follows:

(1) Any employee organization seeking certification as representative of the unit may file a petition stating its name, address, and its desire to be certified with the Permanent Umpire, and shall transmit forthwith a copy of such, not including the names of the supporting employees, to the employer. Said petition must contain the uncoerced signatures of thirty percent (30%) of the employees within the unit signifying their desire to be represented by the employee organization for purposes of collective bargaining.

(2) Where an employee organization has been certified, an employee within the unit may file a petition with the Permanent Umpire and shall transmit forthwith a copy of such to the employer and the certified representative, not including the names of the supporting employee for decertification of the certified representative. The petition must contain the uncoerced signatures of at least thirty percent (30%) of the employees within the unit alleging that the employee organization presently certified is no longer the choice of the majority of the employees in the unit.

(3) The employer may file a petition with the Permanent Umpire seeking an election for certification of an employee organization or, where an employee organization is so certified, to cause decertification of the representative where the employer has reason to believe that the certified representative is not or is no longer the choice of the majority of the employees of the unit, and shall transmit a copy of such to the employee organization seeking to obtain or retain certification.

(4) Petitions may be filed between May 1, 1982, and June 30, 1982. Thereafter, petitions may be filed between September 1 and September 30, of any year, but no sooner than 22 months following an election held pursuant to this section.

(5) If a lawful collective bargaining agreement of no longer than three (3) year's duration is in effect, no petition shall be entertained unless filed during September of the final year of said agreement. A PROVISION FOR AUTOMATIC RENEWAL SHALL NOT PREVENT AN AGREEMENT FROM BARRING A PETITION, BUT NO SUCH AUTOMATIC RENEWAL SHALL BAR A PETITION IF THE RENEWAL OCCURS DURING THE THIRD YEAR OF AN AGREEMENT (INCLUDING YEARS ADDED AS A RESULT OF SUCH RENEWALS.)

(6) If, during the period of May 1, to June 30, 1982, a petition is filed by the incumbent representative of unit employees certified under the Employer/Employee Relations Article of this Chapter, and no other employee organization files a valid petition, that incumbent certified representative shall be certified without an election, provided it produces evidence, acceptable to the Permanent Umpire, of majority representation.

(b) If the Permanent Umpire determines that a petition is properly supported and timely filed, the Permanent Umpire shall cause an election of all eligible employees to be held within a reasonable time, but no later than October 20 of that year, to determine if and by whom the employees wish to be represented, as follows:

(1) All elections shall be conducted under the supervision of the Permanent Umpire and shall be conducted by secret ballot at such time and place as the Permanent Umpire may direct. The Permanent Umpire may select and retain services of an agency of the State of Maryland, or similarily neutral body to assist in conducting the election.

(2) The election ballots shall contain, as choices to be made by the voter, the names of the petitioning or certified employee organization, the name or names of any other employee organization showing written proof at least ten (10) days before the election of at least ten percent (10%) representation of the employees within the unit, and a choice that the employee does not desire to be represented by any of the named employee organization(s).

(3) The employer and each party to the election may be represented by observers selected in accordance with such limitations and conditions as the Permanent Umpire may prescribe.

(4) Observers may challenge for good cause the eligibility of any person to vote in the election. Challenged ballots shall be impounded pending either agreement of the parties as to the validity of such challenge or the Permanent Umpire's decision thereon, unless the number of challenges is not determinative, in which latter event the ballot(s) shall be destroyed.

(5) After the polls have been closed, the valid ballots cast shall be counted by the Permanent Umpire in the presence of the observers.

(6) The Permanent Umpire immediately shall prepare and serve upon the employer and each of the parties a report certifying the results of the election. If, and only if, an employee organization has received the votes of a majority of the employees who voted, the Permanent Umpire shall certify the employee organization so elected as the exclusive agent. If no employee organization has received the votes of a majority of the employees, the Permanent Umpire shall certify no representative, ~~No run-off election shall be conducted.~~ BUT IF A MAJORITY

OF THE EMPLOYEES DO NOT VOTE FOR NO REPRESENTATION, A RUN-OFF ELECTION SHALL BE CONDUCTED. THE RUN-OFF ELECTION SHALL CONTAIN THE TWO CHOICES WHICH RECEIVED THE LARGEST AND SECOND LARGEST NUMBER OF VOTES IN THE ORIGINAL ELECTION.

(c) The aforesaid certification of results shall be final unless, within seven (7) days after service of the report and certification, the employer or any other party serves on all parties and files with the Permanent Umpire objections to the election. Objections shall be verified and shall contain a concise statement of facts constituting the grounds thereof. The Permanent Umpire shall investigate the objections and, if substantial factual issues exist, the Permanent Umpire shall hold a hearing thereon. Otherwise, the Permanent Umpire may determine the matter without hearing. The Permanent Umpire may invite, either by rule or by ad hoc invitation, written or oral argument to assist in determination of the merits of the objections. If the Permanent Umpire finds that the election was conducted in substantial conformity with this Article, the Permanent Umpire shall make final that certification initially issued. If the Permanent Umpire finds that the election was not held in substantial conformity with this Article, the Permanent Umpire shall cause another election to be held pursuant to the provisions of this section.

(d) The cost of conducting an election shall be paid by the County.

(e) Voluntary recognition is prohibited under this Article, and no certification may be issued without an election except as provided for in subsection 33-79(a)(6).

Sec. 33-80. COLLECTIVE BARGAINING.

(a) Upon certification of an employee organization, as provided in Section 33-79, the employer and the said certified representative shall have the duty, through their designees, to bargain collectively with respect to those subjects as follows:

(1) Salary and wages, provided however that salaries and wages shall be uniform for all employees in the same classification.

(2) Pension and retirement benefits for active employees.

(3) Employee benefits such as, but not limited to, insurance, leave, holidays, ~~and~~ vacation AND PERSONAL PATROL VEHICLES.

(4) Hours and working conditions.

(5) Provisions for the orderly processing and settlement of grievances concerning the interpretation and implementation of the collective bargaining agreement, which may include binding third party arbitration. THE GRIEVANCE PROVISIONS OF ANY COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENT, NOTWITHSTANDING THE PROVISIONS OF SECTION 33-12(b) OF THIS CHAPTER, SHALL BE THE EXCLUSIVE MEANS OF PROCESSING GRIEVANCES CONCERNING ANY SUBJECT MATTER ENUMERATED IN SECTION 33-80(a) OR ANY MATTER ENUMERATED IN SECTION 33-80(b) AND (c), ABOUT WHICH THE PARTIES HAVE VOLUNTARILY BARGAINED DURING THE BARGAINING IMMEDIATELY PRIOR TO THE CURRENT CONTRACT.

(b) The following subjects shall not be the subject of collective bargaining:

(1) Pensions OF or any other matter related to ~~retired~~ persons WHO HAVE RETIRED.

(2) Recruitment, selection, appointment, testing, promotion, AND position classification~~, or any other rule or action of the employer based on merit principles~~.

(3) Any matter which is the subject of state law including, but not limited to, the Law Enforcement Officers Bill of Rights, Article 27, Sections 727, et seq., Annotated Code of Maryland.

(4) Any matter which would impair the rights of the employer as set forth in subsection 33-80(c).

(c) Employer Rights.

This Article and any agreement pursuant hereto shall not impair the right and responsibility of the employer:

(1) To determine the overall mission of the employer and any agency of County government;

(2) To maintain and improve the efficiency of operations;

(3) To determine the services to be rendered, the operations to be performed and the technology to be utilized;

(4) To determine the overall methods, processes, means, job classifications or personnel by which operations are to be conducted and to prescribe and restrict the utilization of uniforms, vehicles, and equipment OTHER THAN PERSONAL PATROL VEHICLES.

(5) To direct or supervise employees;

(6) To suspend, discipline or discharge employees SUBJECT TO APPLICABLE LAW;

(7) To transfer, assign, schedule, retain, layoff, or recall employees;

(8) To relieve employees from duties because of lack of work or funds, or under conditions when the employer determines continued work would be inefficient or nonproductive;

(9) To make and enforce rules and regulations not inconsistent with a collective bargaining agreement AND APPLICABLE LAW;

(10) To take whatever other actions may be necessary to carry out the wishes of the public not otherwise specified herein or limited by a collective bargaining agreement; or

(11) To take actions to carry out the mission of government in situations of emergency.

(d) ~~Nothing contained in this Article shall be construed to limit the discretion of the employer voluntarily to confer with any or all of its employees in the process of developing policies to effectuate or implement any of the enumerated rights set forth in subsection 33-80(c), above.~~

(1) NOTWITHSTANDING ANY OTHER PROVISION OF THIS LAW, THE EMPLOYER MAY VOLUNTARILY BARGAIN ABOUT ANY MATTER ENUMERATED IN SECTION 33-80(b) AND/OR THE EFFECTS UPON EMPLOYEES OF THE EMPLOYER'S EXERCISE OF ANY RIGHTS LISTED IN SECTION 33-80(c). IN THE EVENT THE EMPLOYER DOES AGREE TO BARGAIN ABOUT ANY OF THE ABOVE MATTERS, AND AN AGREEMENT IS REACHED, THAT AGREEMENT SHALL BE INCORPORATED IN THE COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENT. THE EMPLOYER'S ELECTION TO BARGAIN ABOUT A PROPOSAL SHALL NOT CONSTITUTE A WAIVER OF THE EMPLOYER'S RIGHT NOT TO BARGAIN ABOUT THE SUBJECT MATTER THEREOF UPON EXPIRATION OF ANY AGREEMENT REACHED. NOTWITHSTANDING THE EMPLOYER'S ELECTION TO BARGAIN, ABSENT A PROPOSAL AS SET FORTH ABOVE, SUCH PROPOSAL SHALL NOT BE INCLUDED IN EITHER PARTY'S SUBMISSION OF A FINAL OFFER TO THE IMPASSE NEUTRAL.

(2) IN THE EVENT THE EMPLOYER AND THE CERTIFIED REPRESENTATIVE DISAGREE OVER WHETHER EITHER IS OBLIGATED TO BARGAIN OVER ONE OR MORE CONTRACT PROPOSALS UNDER THIS LAW, THAT DISAGREEMENT SHALL BE SUBMITTED UPON THE PETITION OF EITHER PARTY TO THE PERMANENT UMPIRE WHO SHALL RESOLVE THE DISPUTE AS PROMPTLY AS POSSIBLE AND AFTER SUCH EXPEDITIOUS PROCEEDINGS AS THE PERMANENT UMPIRE DEEMS APPROPRIATE IN THE CIRCUMSTANCES. THE PETITION SHALL STATE THE ISSUE OR ISSUES TO BE RESOLVED AND SHALL BE ACCOMPANIED BY A WRITTEN STATEMENT OF THE REASONS WHY THE PETITIONING PARTY BELIEVES THE MATTER IS OR IS NOT BARGAINABLE. THE DECISION OF THE PERMANENT UMPIRE SHALL BE BINDING UPON THE PARTIES. FAILURE TO SUBMIT A PETITION PURSUANT TO THIS SUBSECTION SHALL NOT PRECLUDE A PARTY FROM FILING AN UNFAIR LABOR PRACTICE CHARGE PURSUANT TO SECTION 33-82.

(e) Collective bargaining shall commence no later than November 1, preceding the beginning of a fiscal year for which there is no contract between the employer and the certified representative and shall be concluded on January 20. The resolution of an impasse in collective bargaining shall be completed by February 1. These time limits may be waived only by prior written consent of the parties.

(f) Any collective bargaining agreement which contains a provision for automatic renewal or extension shall be void in its entirety unless such renewal or extension requires the consent of both parties. No agreement shall be valid if it extends for less than one year or for more than three years. All agreements shall become effective July 1 and end on June 30.

(g) Any collective bargaining agreement shall become effective only after ratification of the agreement by the public employer and the CERTIFIED REPRESENTATIVE ~~employees in the bargaining unit~~, except as provided in subsection 33-81(b)(7). A certified representative may provide its own rules for ratification procedures ~~, but such rules shall be consistent with the certified representative's duty of fair representation~~. Any terms of a collective bargaining agreement which purport to restrict the rights of management and of the public as contained in subsection 33-80(c) of this Article or which concern those subjects set forth in subsection 33-80(b) shall be null and void and wholly unenforceable.

(h) A ratified agreement shall be binding on the employer and the certified representative, AND SHALL BE REDUCED TO WRITING AND EXECUTED BY BOTH PARTIES. Any term or condition thereof which requires an appropriation of funds or enactment, repeal or modification of a County law shall be timely submitted to the County Council by the employer and the employer shall make a good faith effort to have such term or condition implemented by Council action. ~~but the~~

ON OR BEFORE APRIL 25, THE COUNTY COUNCIL SHALL INDICATE BY A MAJORITY OF FOUR (4) VOTES, ITS INTENTION TO APPROPRIATE OR OTHERWISE IMPLEMENT THE AGREEMENT, OR ITS INTENTION NOT TO DO SO, AND SHALL STATE ITS REASONS FOR ANY INTENT TO REJECT ANY PART OR PARTS OF THE AGREEMENT. IN THE EVENT THE COUNCIL INDICATES ITS INTENTION TO REJECT, IT SHALL DESIGNATE A REPRESENTATIVE TO MEET WITH THE PARTIES AND PRESENT THE COUNCIL'S VIEWS IN THEIR FURTHER NEGOTIATIONS. THIS REPRESENTATIVE SHALL ALSO PARTICIPATE FULLY IN STATING THE COUNCIL'S POSITION IN ANY ENSUING IMPASSE PROCEDURE. THE PARTIES SHALL THEREAFTER MEET AS PROMPTLY AS POSSIBLE IN AN ATTEMPT TO NEGOTIATE AN AGREEMENT ACCEPTABLE TO THE COUNCIL. EITHER OF THE PARTIES MAY INITIATE THE IMPASSE PROCEDURE SET FORTH IN SECTION 33-81. THE RESULTS OF THE NEGOTIATION OR IMPASSE PROCEDURE SHALL BE SUBMITTED TO THE COUNCIL ON OR BEFORE MAY 10. ANY agreement shall provide either for automatic reduction or elimination of such conditional WAGE AND/OR benefits ADJUSTMENTS if the Council fails to take such action or if funds are not appropriated or if a lesser amount is appropriated.

Sec. 33-81. IMPASSE PROCEDURE.

(a) Prior to November 10 of any year in which the employer and a certified representative bargain collectively, they shall choose an Impasse Neutral either by agreement or through the processes of the American Arbitration Association. The Impasse Neutral shall be required to be available during the period from January 20 to February 1. Fees and expenses shall be shared equally by the employer and the certified representative.

(b) (1) During the course of collective bargaining either party may declare an impasse and request the services of the Impasse Neutral. If the parties have not reached agreement by January 20, an impasse shall be deemed to exist.

(2) Whenever an impasse has been reached, the dispute shall be submitted to the Impasse Neutral. The Impasse Neutral shall attempt mediation by bringing the parties together voluntarily under such favorable auspices as will tend to effectuate the settlement of the dispute.

(3) If the Impasse Neutral, in the Impasse Neutral's sole discretion, finds that the parties are at a bona fide impasse, the Impasse Neutral shall require each party to submit a final offer which shall consist either of a complete draft of a proposed collective bargaining agreement or a complete package proposal, as the Impasse Neutral shall choose. If only complete package proposals are required the Impasse Neutral shall require the parties to jointly submit a memorandum of all items previously agreed upon.

(4) The Impasse Neutral may, in the Impasse Neutral's discretion, require the parties to submit evidence or make oral or written argument in support of their proposals. The Impasse Neutral may hold a hearing for this purpose at a time, date, and place selected by the Impasse Neutral. Said hearing shall not be open to the public.

(5) On February 1 or prior thereto, the Impasse Neutral shall select, as a whole, the most reasonable, in the Impasse Neutral's judgment, of the final offers submitted by the parties. The Impasse Neutral may take into account only the following factors:

a. Past collective bargaining contracts between the parties including the past bargaining history that led to such contracts, or the pre-collective bargaining history of employee wages, hours, benefits, and working conditions.

b. Comparison of wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of similar employees of other public employers IN THE WASHINGTON METROPOLITAN AREA AND in Maryland.

c. Comparison of wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of other employees of Montgomery County.

d. Wages, benefits, hours, and other working conditions of similar employees of private employers in Montgomery County.

e. The interest and welfare of the public.

f. The ability of the employer to finance economic adjustments and the effect of the adjustments upon the normal standard of public services by the employer.

(6) The Impasse Neutral shall not compromise or alter the final offer that he selects. Selection of an offer shall be based on the contents of that offer. No consideration shall be given to, nor shall any evidence or argument be received concerning the history of collective bargaining in this immediate dispute, including offers of settlement not contained in the offers submitted to the Impasse Neutral. However, the Impasse Neutral shall consider all previously agreed upon items integrated with the specific disputed items to determine the single most reasonable offer.

(7) The offer selected by the Impasse Neutral, integrated with the previous agreed upon items, shall be deemed to represent the final agreement between the employer and the certified representative, without the necessity of ratification by the parties, and shall have the force and effect of a contract voluntarily entered into and ratified as set forth in subsection 33-80(h). above. The parties shall execute such agreement.

Sec. 33-82. PROHIBITED PRACTICES.

(a) The employer or its agents or representatives are prohibited from:

(1) Interfering with, restraining, or coercing employees in the exercise of any rights granted to them under the provisions of this Article~~, provided that the discussion of any matter, argument, or opinion, or the dissemination thereof, whether orally, in writing or otherwise~~

~~shall not constitute or be evidence of prohibited practice under any of the provisions of this Article nor be grounds for invalidating any election conducted under this Article, if such discussion or dissemination contains no threat of reprisal or promise of benefit;~~

w/changes to Bill

March 5, 1982

TO: County Council

FROM: David Jay Frankel, Legislative Counsel

SUBJECT: Bill 71-81, "Collective Bargaining/Police Officers

A second worksession on Bill 71-81 has been scheduled for Monday, March 8, 1982 at 1:00 p.m.

Attached is draft 3 of Bill 71-81 which incorporates, as technical amendments, those amendments presented at the last worksession which are agreeable to the Executive staff. A list of these technical amendments is also attached.

In addition to Council's consideration of issues presented in the February 3, 1982 worksession packet, the following substantive amendments are presented for your consideration:

1. Page 17, line 26, strike "paid by the County" and insert in lieu thereof "borne 50% by the County and 50% borne equally by the employee organization(s) whose name(s) appear on the ballots".

   Purpose: This conforms with a similar provision under the County's Meet and Confer Law found at Section 33-68 of the County Code.

2. Page 23, line 1, replace "shall" with "may"; line 1, strike "by a majority of four (4) votes";
   line 4, replace "shall" with "may".

   Purpose: To make it discretionary, rather than mandatory for the Council to indicate its intentions with respect to a proposed collective bargaining agreement. A future Council cannot be bound by a previous Council. Elimination of the requirement for a 4-vote majority would accommodate situations where fewer than 7 Councilmembers are present.

3. Page 31, line 18, strike "or the evidence of".

   Purpose: While the constitutional right of freedom of speech should be protected, there is no reason to prohibit the introduction of expressions as evidence of prohibited practices.

Councilmembers are asked to bring their packets, dated February 3, 1981, from the previous worksession.

The council shall accord one of the highest priorities to the full funding of the cost of living adjustment, shall fund fully the seventy-five percent of Consumer Price Index cost of living adjustment unless reasons are given for not doing so, and shall make a finding in the budget resolution as to the extent to which full funding is achieved. Unless otherwise provided in the approved budget resolution which includes a finding that implementation of the full amount of the adjustment would necessitate substantial lay-offs of personnel or result in other widespread hardship to county government employees, the chief administrative officer shall adjust the uniform salary plan for all classified employees of the county government beginning the first pay period on or after July 1 of each year by an amount not less than seventy-five percent of the change in the Consumer Price Index for all urban consumers in the Washington, D.C. area, although pay grades one through four of the uniform salary plan to which minimum wage and certain seasonal employees are assigned will be adjusted by changes in the minimum wage rates and salary surveys to determine the competitiveness of such salaries. The percentage change shall be based on the latest published index for the calendar year preceding the fiscal year in which the adjustment is to be paid.

It is the public policy of this County, pursuant to Charter Section 510, enacted as a result of citizen initiative, and purpose of this Article to promote a harmonious, peaceful, and cooperative relationship between the County government and its police employees and to protect the public by assuring, at all times, the responsive, orderly, and efficient operation of the police department. Since unresolved disputes in the police service are injurious to the public and to police employees as well, adequate means should be provided for preventing such unresolved disputes and for resolving them when they occur. To that end, it is in the public interest that police employees have the opportunity to bargain collectively OVER WAGES, HOURS, AND OTHER TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF EMPLOYMENT through a representative of their choice or to refrain therefrom; and that any collective bargaining between the County government and a representative of those police employees be done in good faith with no interference with the orderly process of government and furthermore, that ~~the results of~~ AGREEMENTS REACHED THROUGH collective bargaining be implemented.

It is also recognized however, that police employee organizations AND THE COUNTY GOVERNMENT EACH possess substantial means by which they may initiate ~~governmental~~ actions regarding the wages, hours, and working conditions of employees ~~they represent or seek to represent~~. Consequently, in order to preserve ~~the delicate~~ AN APPROPRIATE balance between labor and management in the police service, the Council hereby declares that ~~collective bargaining may~~ ~~be~~ ONCE A REPRESENTATIVE HAS BEEN voluntarily selected COLLECTIVE BARGAINING SHALL BE UTILIZED in place of, but not

"Lockout" means any action taken by the employer to interrupt or prevent the continuity of work properly and usually performed by the employee for the purpose and with the intent of either coercing the employees into relinquishing rights guaranteed by this Article or of bringing economic pressure on employees for the purpose of securing the agreement of their certified representative to certain collective bargaining terms.

(1) Any employee organization seeking certification as representative of the unit ~~may~~ SHALL file a petition stating its name, address, and its desire to be certified with the Permanent Umpire, and shall transmit forthwith a copy of such, not including the names of the supporting employees, to the employer. Said petition must contain the uncoerced signatures of thirty percent (30%) of the employees within the unit signifying their desire to be represented by the employee organization for purposes of collective bargaining.

(2) Where an employee organization has been certified, an employee within the unit may file a petition with the Permanent Umpire and shall transmit forthwith a copy of such to the employer and the certified representative, not including the names of the supporting employee for decertification of the certified representative. The petition must contain the uncoerced signatures of at least thirty percent (30%) of the employees within the unit alleging that the employee organization presently certified is no longer the choice of the majority of the employees in the unit.

(3) The employer may file a petition with the Permanent Umpire seeking an election for certification of an employee organization or, where an employee organization is so certified, to cause decertification of the representative where the employer has reason to believe that the certified representative is not or is no longer the choice of the majority of the employees of the unit, and shall transmit a copy of such to the employee organization seeking to obtain or retain certification.

(4) Petitions may be filed between May 1, 1982, and June 30, 1982. Thereafter, petitions may be filed between September 1 and September 30, of any year, but no sooner than 22 months following an election held pursuant to this section.

(b) If the Permanent Umpire determines that a petition is properly supported and timely filed, the Permanent Umpire shall cause an election of all eligible employees to be held within a reasonable time, but no later than October 20 of that year, to determine if and by whom the employees wish to be represented, as follows:

(1) All elections shall be conducted under the supervision of the Permanent Umpire and shall be conducted by secret ballot at such time and place as the Permanent Umpire may direct. (4) Observers may challenge for good cause the eligibility of any person to vote in the election. Challenged ballots shall be impounded pending either agreement of the parties as to the validity of such challenge or the Permanent Umpire's decision thereon, unless the number of challenges is not determinative, in which latter event the CHALLENGED ballot(s) shall be destroyed.

(5) After the polls have been closed, the valid ballots cast shall be counted by the Permanent Umpire in the presence of the observers.

(6) The Permanent Umpire immediately shall prepare and serve upon the employer and each of the parties a report certifying the results of the election. (c) The aforesaid certification of results shall be final unless, within seven (7) days after service of the report and certification, the employer or any other party serves on all parties and files with the Permanent Umpire objections to the election. Objections shall be verified and shall contain a concise statement of facts constituting the grounds thereof. The Permanent Umpire shall investigate the objections and, if substantial factual issues exist, the Permanent Umpire shall hold a hearing thereon. Otherwise, the Permanent Umpire may determine the matter without hearing. The Permanent Umpire may invite, either by rule or by ~~ad hoc~~ invitation, written or oral argument to assist in determination of the merits of the objections. The Impasse Neutral shall be required to be available during the period from January 20 to February 1. Fees and expenses COSTS OF THE IMPASSE NEUTRAL shall be shared equally by the employer and the certified representative.

If only complete package proposals are required the Impasse Neutral shall require the parties to jointly submit a memorandum of all items previously agreed upon.

(4) The Impasse Neutral may, in the Impasse Neutral's discretion, require the parties to submit evidence or make oral or written argument in support of their proposals. The Impasse Neutral may hold a hearing for this purpose at a time,

(5) On February 1 or prior thereto, the Impasse Neutral shall select, as a whole, the most reasonable, in the Impasse Neutral's judgment, of the final offers submitted by the parties. The Impasse Neutral may take into account only the following factors:

a. Past collective bargaining contracts between the parties including the past bargaining history that led to such contracts, or the pre-collective bargaining history of employee wages, hours, benefits, and working conditions.

No consideration shall be given to, nor shall any evidence or argument be received concerning the history of collective bargaining in this immediate dispute, including offers of settlement not contained in the offers submitted to the Impasse Neutral. However, the Impasse Neutral shall consider all previously agreed upon items integrated with the specific disputed items to determine the single most reasonable offer.

(7) The offer selected by the Impasse Neutral, integrated with the previous agreed upon items, shall be deemed to represent the final agreement between the employer and the certified representative, without the necessity of ratification by the parties, and shall have the force and effect of a contract voluntarily entered into and ratified as set forth in subsection 33-80(b). above. Agenda Item No. 6

April 2, 1982

TO: County Council

FROM: David Jay Frankel, Legislative Counsel

SUBJECT: Bill 71-81, Collective Bargaining/Police Officers

Action on Bill 71-81 has been scheduled for Tuesday, April 6, 1982. Attached is draft no. 4 of Bill 71-81, which incorporates those amendments agreed to by the Council at its March 8, 1982 worksession.

Two additional amendments have been proposed and have been incorporated into draft 4 of the Bill, for your convenience. They are as follows:

1. a. Page 14, line 20, strike "of no longer than three (3) year's duration".

b. Page 14, line 23, replace "a collective bargaining" with with "the".

c. Page 14, line 23, strike the sentence beginning with "A provision for automatic" in its entirety.

d. Page 22, line 3, strike "collective bargaining agreement which contains a".

e. Page 22, line 4, after "extension", insert "of a collective bargaining agreement".

f. Page 22, line 5, strike "in its entirety" through the end of the sentence.

PURPOSE: To provide that collective bargaining agreements may not contain automatic renewal provisions. Automatic renewal provisions are rarely found in collective bargaining agreements, and would be incompatible, as a practical matter, with the procedure to petition for certification of a new certified representative. That procedure calls for a petition to be filed during the month of September. The petition drive, therefore, would have to be conducted over the previous summer. The term of a collective bargaining agreement runs from July 1 through June 30 for up to three years, It would be unfair to foreclose a successful petition drive merely by exercising a renewal option after a petition has been filed. The renewal option, if permitted, would have to be exercised prior to the petition drive. This would call for the exercise of a renewal option shortly after the effective date of the collective bargaining agreement, a practice which does not serve a rational purpose.

2. Page 27, line 19, after "employment", insert "provided, that nothing in this article shall preclude an agreement from containing a provision for an agency shop."

PURPOSE: To alleviate a concern expressed by the FOP during the last worksession.

adjustment, shall fund fully the seventy-five percent of Consumer Price Index cost of living adjustment unless reasons are given for not doing so, and shall make a finding in the budget resolution as to the extent to which full funding is achieved. Unless otherwise provided in the approved budget resolution which includes a finding that implementation of the full amount of the adjustment would necessitate substantial lay-offs of personnel or result in other widespread hardship to county government employees, the chief administrative officer shall adjust the uniform salary plan for all classified employees of the county government beginning the first pay period on or after July 1 of each year by an amount not less than seventy-five percent of the change in the Consumer Price Index for all urban consumers in the Washington, D.C. area, although pay grades one through four of the uniform salary plan to which minimum wage and certain seasonal employees are assigned will be adjusted by changes in the minimum wage rates and salary surveys to determine the competitiveness of such salaries. The percentage change shall be based on the latest published index for the calendar year preceding the fiscal year in which the adjustment is to be paid.

The chief administrative officer may adjust the uniform salary plan in excess of the base percentage of seventy-five percent, provided funds are available and approved by the county council for such purpose.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions in (a) above, for FY-82 only the following salary controls shall apply:

1. Salary maxima of grades 5 through 31 will be adjusted by the full cost-of-living granted by the County Council.
2. The salary maximum for grade 40 shall be $70,000.00.

3. The salary maxima for grades 32 through 39 shall be adjusted by the Chief Administrative Officer so that the dollar difference between the salary maxima of grades 31 through 40 is the same.

4. The salary for each merit employee in grades 5-31 will be adjusted by the full cost-of-living granted by the County Council to the extent that such salary adjustment does not exceed the maximum of the employee's grade.

5. The salaries for merit employees in grades 32 through 39 will be adjusted by the full cost-of-living granted by the County Council only to the extent that such salary adjustment does not exceed the maximum of the employee's grade.

6. The cost-of-living adjustment to the salaries of non-merit employees shall be determined by the County Executive but shall not exceed the cost-of-living granted merit employees.

7. No employee's salary is to be reduced below its level as of June 30, 1981 as a result of implementation of the provisions contained in paragraphs 1- 6 above.

(c) The provisions of this section shall not apply to an employee of the police department, as defined in Section 33-76 of this chapter, who is represented by a certified employee organization pursuant to the provisions of Article V, Title "Police Labor Relations" of this chapter.

Since unresolved disputes in the police service are injurious to the public and to police employees as well, adequate means should be provided for preventing such unresolved disputes and for resolving them when they occur. To that end, it is in the public interest that police employees have the opportunity to bargain collectively OVER WAGES, HOURS, AND OTHER TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF EMPLOYMENT through a representative of their choice or to refrain therefrom; and that any collective bargaining between the County government and a representative of those police employees be done in good faith with no interference with the orderly process of government and furthermore, that ~~the results of~~ AGREEMENTS REACHED THROUGH collective bargaining be implemented.

It is also recognized however, that police employee organizations AND THE COUNTY GOVERNMENT EACH possess substantial means by which they may initiate ~~governmental~~ actions regarding the wages, hours, and working conditions of employees ~~they represent or seek to represent~~. Consequently, in order to preserve ~~the delicate~~ AN APPROPRIATE balance between labor and management in the police service, the Council hereby declares that ~~collective bargaining may be~~ ONCE A REPRESENTATIVE HAS BEEN voluntarily selected COLLECTIVE BARGAINING SHALL BE UTILIZED in place of, but not under Section 33-84. No collective bargaining agreement may include a provision requiring membership in, participation in the affairs of or contributions to an employee organization other than an agency shop provision.

(d) The right of the certified representative to receive membership dues deductions or agency shop provisions shall be determined through negotiations, unless the authority to negotiate such provisions has been suspended

Sec. 33-79. SELECTION, CERTIFICATION AND DECERTIFICATION PROCEDURES.

(a) /~~Procedures for determining the certified representative for the unit may be initiated in accordance with this subsection as follows~~: THE CERTIFICATION OR DECERTIFICATION OF AN EMPLOYEE ORGANIZATION AS THE UNIT'S REPRESENTATIVE FOR THE PURPOSE OF COLLECTIVE BARGAINING SHALL BE INITIATED IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE FOLLOWING PROCEDURES:

(1) Any employee organization seeking certification as representative of the unit ~~may~~/SHALL file a petition stating its name, address, and its desire to be certified with the Permanent Umpire, and shall transmit forthwith a copy of such, not including the names of the supporting employees, to the employer. Said petition must contain the uncoerced signatures of thirty percent (30%) of the employees within the unit signifying their desire to be represented by the employee organization for purposes of collective bargaining.

(2) Where an employee organization has been certified, an employee within the unit may file a petition with the Permanent Umpire and shall transmit forthwith a copy of such to the employer and the certified representative, not including the names of the supporting employee for decertification of the certified representative. The petition must contain the uncoerced signatures of at least thirty percent (30%) of the employees within the unit alleging that the employee organization presently certified is no longer the choice of the majority of the employees in the unit.

(3) The employer may file a petition with the Permanent Umpire seeking an election for certification of an employee organization or, where an employee organization is so certified, to cause decertification of the representative where the employer has reason to believe that the certified representative is not or is no longer the choice of the majority of the employees of the unit, and shall transmit a copy of such to the employee organization seeking to obtain or retain certification.

(4) Petitions may be filed between May 1, 1982, and June 30, 1982. Thereafter, petitions may be filed between September 1 and September 30, of any year, but no sooner than 22 months following an election held pursuant to this section.

(5) If a lawful collective bargaining agreement ~~of no longer than three (3) year's duration~~ is in effect, no petition shall be entertained unless filed during September of the final year of ~~said~~ THE ~~A COLLECTIVE BARGAINING~~ agreement. ~~A PROVISION FOR AUTOMATIC RENEWAL SHALL NOT PREVENT AN AGREEMENT FROM BARRING A PETITION, BUT NO SUCH AUTOMATIC RENEWAL SHALL BAR A PETITION IF THE RENEWAL OCCURS DURING THE THIRD YEAR OF AN AGREEMENT (INCLUDING YEARS ADDED AS A RESULT OF SUCH RENEWALS).~~

(6) If, during the period of May 1, to June 30, 1982, a petition is filed by the incumbent representative of unit employees certified under the Employer/Employee Relations Article of this Chapter, and no other employee organization files a valid petition, that incumbent certified representative shall be certified without an election, provided it produces evidence, acceptable to the Permanent Umpire, of majority representation.

(b) If the Permanent Umpire determines that a petition is properly supported and timely filed, the Permanent Umpire shall cause an election of all eligible employees to be held within a reasonable time, but no later than October 20 of that year, to determine if and by whom the employees wish to be represented, as follows:

(1) All elections shall be conducted under the supervision of the Permanent Umpire and shall be conducted by secret ballot at such time and place as the Permanent Umpire may direct. (2) The election ballots shall contain, as choices to be made by the voter, the names of the petitioning or certified employee organization, the name or names of any other employee organization showing written proof at least ten (10) days before the election of at least ten percent (10%) representation of the employees within the unit, and a choice that the employee does not desire to be represented by any of the named employee organization(s).

(3) The employer and each party to the election may be represented by observers selected in accordance with such limitations and conditions as the Permanent Umpire may prescribe.

(4) Observers may challenge for good cause the eligibility of any person to vote in the election. Challenged ballots shall be impounded pending either agreement of the parties as to the validity of such challenge or the Permanent Umpire's decision thereon, unless the number of challenges is not determinative, in which latter event the CHALLENGED ballot(s) shall be destroyed.

(5) After the polls have been closed, the valid ballots cast shall be counted by the Permanent Umpire in the presence of the observers.

(6) The Permanent Umpire immediately shall prepare and serve upon the employer and each of the parties a report certifying the results of the election. If, and only if, an employee organization has received the votes of a majority of the employees who voted, the Permanent Umpire shall certify the employee organization so elected as the exclusive agent. If no employee organization has received the votes of a majority of the employees, the Permanent Umpire shall certify no representative, ~~No run-off election shall be conducted.~~ BUT IF A MAJORITY

OF THE EMPLOYEES DO NOT VOTE FOR NO REPRESENTATION, A RUN-OFF ELECTION SHALL BE CONDUCTED. THE RUN-OFF ELECTION SHALL CONTAIN THE TWO CHOICES WHICH RECEIVED THE LARGEST AND SECOND LARGEST NUMBER OF VOTES IN THE ORIGINAL ELECTION.

(c) The aforesaid certification of results shall be final unless, within seven (7) days after service of the report and certification, the employer or any other party serves on all parties and files with the Permanent Umpire objections to the election. Objections shall be verified and shall contain a concise statement of facts constituting the grounds thereof. The Permanent Umpire shall investigate the objections and, if substantial factual issues exist, the Permanent Umpire shall hold a hearing thereon. Otherwise, the Permanent Umpire may determine the matter without hearing. The Permanent Umpire may invite, either by rule or by ~~ad hoc~~ invitation, written or oral argument to assist in determination of the merits of the objections. If the Permanent Umpire finds that the election was conducted in substantial conformity with this Article, the Permanent Umpire shall CONFIRM THE ~~make final that~~ certification initially issued. (d) The cost of conducting an election shall be paid by the County.

(e) Voluntary recognition is prohibited under this Article, and no certification may be issued without an election except as provided for in subsection 33-79(a)(6).

The Impasse Neutral shall be required to be available during the period from January 20 to February 1. Fees and expenses COSTS OF THE IMPASSE NEUTRAL shall be shared equally by the employer and the certified representative.

(b) (1) During the course of collective bargaining, either party may declare an impasse and request the services of the Impasse Neutral. If the parties have not reached agreement by January 20, an impasse shall be deemed to exist.

(2) Whenever an impasse has been reached, the dispute shall be submitted to the Impasse Neutral. The Impasse Neutral shall attempt mediation by bringing the parties together voluntarily under such favorable auspices as will tend to effectuate the settlement of the dispute.

(3) If the Impasse Neutral, in the Impasse Neutral's sole discretion, finds that the parties are at a bona fide impasse, the Impasse Neutral shall require each party to submit a final offer which shall consist either of a complete draft of a proposed collective bargaining agreement or a complete package proposal, as the Impasse Neutral shall choose. If only complete package proposals are required the Impasse Neutral shall require the parties to ~~jointly~~ submit jointly a memorandum of all items previously agreed upon.

(6) The Impasse Neutral shall not compromise or alter the final offer that he selects. Selection of an offer shall be based on the contents of that offer. No consideration shall be given to, nor shall any evidence or argument be received concerning the history of collective bargaining in this immediate dispute, including offers of settlement not contained in the offers submitted to the Impasse Neutral. However, the Impasse Neutral shall consider all previously agreed upon items integrated with the specific disputed items to determine the single most reasonable offer.

(7) The offer selected by the Impasse Neutral, integrated with the previous agreed upon items, shall be deemed to represent the final agreement between the employer and the certified representative, without the necessity of ratification by the parties, and shall have the force and effect of a contract voluntarily entered into and ratified as set forth in subsection 33-80(h). above. The parties shall execute such agreement.

Re: Worksession - Legislative Bill No. 71-81, Collective Bargaining, Police Officers

The County Council met in worksession to discuss Legislative Bill No. 71-81, Collective Bargaining/Police Officers, with Fraternal Order of Police (FOP) Counsels Alan Katz and George Driesen; Assistant County Attorney Suzanne Levin; Executive Branch staff member Edward Rovner and Executive Branch Special Counsel Robert Hillman; Council Legislative Counsel David Frankel; Council Staff Director Robert McDonell; County Personnel Director Clinton Hillard; and others.

The Council reviewed Draft #2 of the bill, dated January 25, 1982, as amended by the County Executive. The Council made no objection to amendment of paragraph (13) on page 4, lines 17 through 31, amending the bill as follows: An employee of the police department, as defined in Section 33-76 of this Chapter, who is represented by a certified employee organization pursuant to the provisions of Article V, title "Police Labor Relations" of this Chapter.

Referring to page 6 of the subject bill, Mr. Frankel recommended that paragraph (c), lines 24 through 28, be deleted, as follows: (c) The provisions of this Section shall not apply to an employee of the police department, as defined in Section 33-76 of this chapter, who is represented by a certified employee organization pursuant to the provisions of Article V, Title "Police Labor Relations" of this chapter.

Mr. Rovner advised the Council that the Executive's position is that employees represented by collective bargaining representatives will be negotiating wages and should not be covered by an automatic cost-of-living (COL) increase that is applied to merit system employees. There should be no ceiling or floor regarding wages when negotiations begin. Police officers may get more, or less, but should not be limited by the wages of other employees.

Mr. Frankel expressed the opinion that the proposed amendment exempting police officers from an automatic COL anticipates that this provision may, or may not, appear in a collective bargaining agreement. If an agreement is negotiated that provides for a different COL increase, that would be the appropriate time to change the existing law, in his opinion.

Mr. Katz advised the Council that he discussed the subject issue with the County Executive who is concerned that police employees be assured of receiving a COL increase. He said that the provisions for an automatic increase would not apply to employees who are represented by a certified employee organization. If there is no such organization, the 75% of CPI COL increase would apply to police officers.

Without objection, the Council did not delete paragraph (c), lines 24 through 28 on page 6 of Bill No, 71-81, which would assure police officers a COL increase when not represented by a certified employee organization.

The Council considered an amendment proposed by the County Executive on page 7 of the bill, lines 15 and 16, adding collective bargaining over wages, hours, and other items and conditions of employment which were not in the original bill.

Without objection, the Council accepted the County Executive's proposed amendment on page 7 of the bill, lines 15 and 16, as follows: To that end, it is in the public interest that police employees have the opportunity to bargain collectively over wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment through a representative of their choice or to refrain therefrom;

Mr. Frankel recommended that on page 7, line 20, after "government," the rest of the sentence be deleted inasmuch as it implies that the Council will appropriate all funds and enact any legislation required by a collective bargaining agreement.

Mr. Hillman advised the Council that the Executive recommends that the phrase on page 7, line 20, "and furthermore, that agreements reached through collective bargaining be implemented" be retained in the bill. He said the bill proposes that the Council indicate to the bargaining representatives any problems it has in order to arrive at a contract everyone agrees will be implemented.

It does not bind the Council, but provides that the contract will be implemented if agreement is reached. He explained procedures whereby the Executive would negotiate with bargaining representatives and submit to the Council, as part of the budget, what is needed to implement the contract. The contract is not binding on the Council; however, the Council would appropriate funds and enact legilsation to implement the contract or it could declare its intent and refer the contract back to the Executive, with its reasons, and ask that portions of the contract be renegotiated for further consideration of the Council.

Councilwoman Gelman commented that the proposed collective bargaining agreement is different from other Executive programs funded by the Council because it is a contract and the Executive must spend the funds as provided in the contract.

Mr. Rovner stated that on page 23 of the subject bill, line 15, it is provided that any agreement shall provide either for automatic reduction or elimination of such conditional wage and/or benefit adjustments if the Council fails to take action, funds are not appropriated, or a lesser amount is appropriated. He stated that any collective bargaining agreement would not be final until the Council takes action.

In response to Councilwoman Gelman's inquiry, Mr. Hillman stated that the collective bargaining agreement would be made public after it is signed by the Executive and ratified by the FOP, which would be before it goes to the Council as part of the Executive's budget submission.

President Potter reviewed page 23 of the subject bill and said he believes it meets the Council's intent in that the contract is not final until action is taken by the Council to fund the contract. Lines 15 through 19 represent a contingency clause in case the Council does not take action that would eliminate conditional wage and/or benefit adjustments and that the FOP could not sue for implementation of a contract which the Council did not write.

Mr. Scull requested clarification of "other terms and conditions," on page 7, line 15. Mr. Hillman referred to pages 18 and 19 of the bill wherein the issues that will be subjects of collective bargaining are listed and indicated that those listed on page 19 may be subjects of bargaining. He noted that the first line on page 19 is in error and should be amended to insert, may be for [shall not] after "subjects." In addition, he said that on line 24 of page 20, paragraph (1), [Notwithstanding any other provision of this law,] should be deleted. This will allow those issues listed on page 19 to be collectively bargained for if all parties agree.

Mr. Driesen referred to paragraph (c), Employer's Rights, beginning at line 16 on page 19 of the subject bill, and said there should be full arbitration rights on these issues. He referred to similar legislation in other states that does not provide for consideration of items that cannot be arbitrated. He believes uniforms, vehicles and equipment should be a part of arbitration, as they are in other states.

During a discussion regarding police officer assignments, hours and supervision, and police officer equipment, Mr. Hillman pointed out that the County must be free to direct, supervise and discipline or discharge its employees according to applicable law in order to carry out its responsibility for the health and safety of County citizens. The County has delegated authority to the Chief of Police to make these decisions. Mr. Hillman noted that employee promotions are handled in accordance with the County's Personnel Regulations which must be approved by the Council. In order to make any changes in the personnel regulations, the Council would have to enact legislation. In the event personnel changes are proposed under the bargaining agreement, the County Executive would have to prepare legislation in accordance with the contract to be submitted to the Council for approval.

Councilwoman Crenca expressed concern regarding the rights of other employees whose salaries are funded by the Council, and who will probably seek collective bargaining, and her responsibility to be sure that an across-the-board comparison is made of wages and benefits in the light of fair play.

Mr. Driesen stated that there was a Charter amendment mandating collective bargaining for police officers; therefore, it is the obligation of the Council to pass a workable collective bargaining law. He noted that in many other jurisdictions there are separate collective bargaining agreements covering police and other uniformed services. He believes it is appropriate to focus on how bargaining is going to work efficiently for police officers.

Councilwoman Crenca said that the term "workable" causes her concern. She is concerned as to whether the County has enough experience in this field to know what is likely to work. She feels sure that all Councilmembers are interested in providing a "workable" agreement and suggested that the Council may need better guidelines to make decisions.

Councilman Fosler referred to page 7 of the subject bill, line 15, and expressed concern regarding the phrase "and other terms and conditions of employment"; this is very complicated and could undermine the whole process. He asked whether there is any experience with respect to the inclusion of items that will not be subject to bargaining in the agreement. Mr. Hillman responded that he believes experience has shown it is not practical to have an arbitrator make decisions regarding assignments for police officers. This issue is listed in the agreement under discussion as a permissive subject. The agreement is proposing that police officers may be able to discuss their problems regarding assignments and hours with possible positive results for everyone. Under the Executive's proposal, the Executive could refuse bargaining on this issue and his decision could not be appealed. Mr. Hillman said there will undoubtedly be some question about whether a subject is mandatory or permissible for bargaining. This issue is covered on page 21, paragraph (2), indicating that a petition from either party shall be submitted to the permanent umpire who shall resolve the dispute as soon as possible. The decision of the umpire shall be binding on all parties.

In response to Councilman Fosler's inquiry regarding which issues the FOP believes should be negotiated, Mr. Driesen said he feels it is important that the Executve be able to bargain about any issue. He feels strongly also that all of the issues listed for permissible arbitration are invitations to litigation, as has been proven elsewhere in the country. He commented that he gave Councilman Gudis information regarding ten states where there are no restrictions in collective bargaining contracts. He believes that if all parties are willing to sit down and negotiate, usually there is mutual agreement. If not, the issue should go to arbitration. He believes it is a serious mistake to restrict the issues that can be negotiated by the Executive.

Mr. Rovner said that the Executive's proposal is an economic approach is some respects. The Executive has taken this approach because he believes that there are certain matters with regard to police that should not be decided by a neutral person.

During a discussion of police officers' personal patrol vehicles (PPVs) which officers are allowed to take home, and are listed as an issue for collective bargaining, Councilwoman Gelman said she does not understand why PPVs were removed from police equipment and listed as a separate negotiable item. These cars were provided to police officers in order to create more presence in neighborhoods and act as a deterrent to crime. She said PPVs should not be considered in the same category as vacations and should be considered as part of a police officer's equipment. She believes that the County's PPV program has been of great benefit.

Mr. Rovner pointed out that, if the County Executive decided to change the PPV policy, under the proposed legislation he would negotiate on this item.

Mr. Driesen expressed the opinion that PPVs apply, technically, as affecting working conditions and should be a bargaining issue.

Referring to discussions regarding PPVs over the last several years, President Potter stated that it is both a public and an employee benefit and he does not feel it should be negotiable.

Councilman Gudis pointed out that, although PPV's are shown in the proposed legislation in the same group as fringe benefits, they are not a fringe benefit. The County sees PPV's as a tool that will help the Police be more effective.

President Potter directed the Council's attention to page 7 of the subject bill, Sec. 33-75, Declaration of Policy. After discussion, the Council made no change in the amended language proposed by the County Executive.

The Council reviewed Sec. 33-72, Definitions, on pages 8 and 9 of the proposed bill. Mr. Hillman acknowledged amendments proposed by Mr. Frankel and said he believes that another worksession will be required in view of the fact that the issue of which items should be negotiable, and which should not, needs more study.

With respect to the amendment proposed by Mr. Frankel, on page 8 of the subject bill, after line 18, that the definition of a certified representative be included, Mr. Hillman said he has no objection to the amendment although it is explained elsewhere in the subject bill.

Mr. Frankel recommended an amendment on page 8, line 26, to include the definition of "unit," meaning all employees, for clarification purposes.

Without objection, the Council agreed that the Definition Section be amended to include the definition of "certified representative" and "unit", as set forth above.

Without objection, the Council deferred discussion of Mr. Frankel's amendments for pages 9 and 10, inasmuch as they are related to the issue regarding the scope of bargaining issues, which will be discussed at a later time.

The Council discussed with Mr. Frankel his amendment to add on page 11, line 29, after "affiliation," other than political. Mr. Frankel said he is concerned that there may be some speculation if the umpire is of the same party as the Council. Mr. Hillman pointed out that the umpire would be appointed by the Executive and confirmed by the Council. Councilwoman Gelman commented that she does not feel the umpire's political affiliation would be relevant, unless the person is particularly active in politics.

Without objection, the Council amended proposed Bill No. 71-81 on page 11, line 29, to insert other than political after "affiliation."

Mr. Frankel proposed an amendment on page 12 of the subject bill and recommended that lines 16 and 17 be deleted entirely because the language implies the employer is giving the certified representative the exclusive right to represent an employee in a grievance. There may be a situation when an employee would prefer private counsel.

Mr. Hillman objected strongly to the proposed deletion and said he does not believe a person outside the contractual agreement should be allowed to handle grievances. He noted that the subject legislation pertains to grievances under the collective bargaining agreement only.

Mr. Driesen agreed with Mr. Hillman that the process for handling grievances under the contract agreement must be exclusive unless it is an issue outside the scope of the agreement. Allowing a private counsel to handle contract grievances could weaken the process.

The Council took no action to approve the amendment to delete lines 16 and 17 on page 12 of the subject bill.

Mr. Frankel suggested that the word "employees" be deleted on line 15 and that the word "unit" be inserted therefor.

Without objection, the Council amended line 15 of page 12 to delete [employees] and insert therefor, unit.

The Council considered an amendment to delete "A certified representative" on page 12, line 18, of the subject bill and to insert therefor, "Where certified, an employee organization...." Mr. Frankel said that this technical clarification is needed in paragraph (c) to take into consideration that there may not be a certified representative, or, that an employee may decide to have no representative.

The Council took no action to approve the amendment proposed for line 18 on page 12 of the subject bill, as outlined above.

Without objection, the Council amended the subject bill on page 12, line 20, to delete [unit] after "all," to eliminate a redundancy.

Without objection, the Council amended page 13 of the subject bill, to delete lines 6, 7, and 8, (paragraph (a), entirely and to insert therefor, The certification or decertification of an employee organization as the unit's representative for purposes of collective bargaining shall be initiated in accordance with the following procedures:," for purposes of clarification.

Without objection, the Council amended page 15 of the subject bill on line 10, to delete [may] after "unit," and insert therefor, shall for technical clarification.

The Council took no action to amend lines 2 and 10 on page 14 of the subject bill to delete the phrase, "the majority of the," as recommended by Mr. Frankel.

Mr. Frankel recommended a technical amendment to line 15, on page 14, to delete [Therefore] and to insert therefor, "Except as provided for below," to clarify the text of the bill with respect to petitions and to link paragraphs (4) and (5) together.

Mr. Hillman recommended that line 15 on page 14 not be amended, and explained the reasons for the dates shown in the proposed bill, in relation to elections and the periods when a petition may be barred.

The Council took no action to amend line 15 on page 14 of the subject legislation.

As recommended by Mr. Frankel, the Council agreed that lines 19 through 29, paragraph (c), on page 14 of the subject bill, are not clear and deferred further discussion. Mr. Frankel will try to develop clearer language and report back to the Council at a later time.

Without objection, the Council amended page 15 on line 13 to delete [of] after "election," and to insert therefor, by, for clarification.

After discussion, the Council did not approve the recommended deletion of [eligible] after "all," on line 13 of page 15.

Without objection, the Council amended page 16 on line 15, to insert after "the," challenge, for clarification, as recommended by Mr. Frankel.

The Council considered an amendment to line 2 of page 17, with respect to run-off elections, to insert after "conducted," in the same manner as the original election, for technical clarification.

Mr. Hillman opposed the amendment suggested on line 2 of page 17 of the subject legislation, providing that the umpire has full discretion regarding election procedures.

The Council took no action to amend line 2 of page 17 of the proposed bill.

Councilman Fosler suggested that the Executive staff meet with Mr. Frankel and FOP representatives to prepare amendments of a technical nature, and that the Council discuss any amendments of a substantive nature at the next meeting.

The Council agreed with Mr. Fosler's recommendation and so instructed the staff.

The Council scheduled another worksession on Legislative Bill No. 71-81, Collective Bargaining/Police Officers, for Monday, March 8, 1982, at 1:00 P.M.

The meeting adjourned at 6:00 P.M.

Anna P. Spates

Anna P. Spates, Secretary of the County Council for Montgomery County, Maryland

Statement of George B. Driesen on Behalf of the Fraternal Order of Police, Montgomery County Lodge 35 Before the Montgomery County Council, January 14, 1982

The voters' adoption of Section 510 of the Montgomery County Charter at the last election brings Montgomery County into line with most other forward looking governments that employ police officers in the United States by providing that terms and conditions of those officers' employment may be fixed through collective bargaining, rather than by administrative fiat. Like the law in most of those jurisdictions, the Charter now prohibits strikes or work stoppages by police officers but provides that unresolved disputes over the content of a collective bargaining agreement shall be settled by binding arbitration. That too, as I shall explain more fully later on, brings this County into line with most jurisdictions that have legislated about the matter around the country.

The bill before you presents, in our view, a good faith effort by the County Executive to propose an ordinance that, in many respects, would comply with the voters' mandate. The police of this County appreciate the opportunity which the County Executive afforded them to be heard with respect to the provisions that are included in that bill. We agree with many of them. But it is our position that the proposed ordinance falls short of compliance with the mandate of the voters and, if enacted without the changes we propose, could prove unworkable and generate extreme frustration instead of assuring the harmonious relationship that a well crafted public sector bargaining law is designed to secure.

As I said at the outset, the voters mandated "collective bargaining with binding arbitration." The ordinance before you does not provide for binding arbitration. Instead, it provides that in the event the County Council fails to appropriate funds or enact legislation required to implement an agreement, there will be a fact finding proceeding with recommendations for resolution of the still unresolved dispute. That is not binding arbitration. It is also not in accordance with the law elsewhere.

Many jurisdictions have now adopted laws providing for collective bargaining for public employees generally. Some of these statutes permit strikes as the final arbiter of collective bargaining impasses; others mandate arbitration as the final step. Other statutes prohibit strikes, do not require arbitration and leave the ultimate decision on contract law terms to the legislature. But in most of those jurisdictions, special statutes or provisions of generally applicable public sector bargaining laws do require binding arbitration of bargaining impasses involving the uniformed services - of course, including police. Among the jurisdictions which do not provide mandatory arbitration for other represented employees but do provide such arbitration for police, are Massachussetts, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Oregon, Washington, Wisconsin, Wyoming, Minnesota (assuming as we do that police are essential employees), and Alaska. We urge the County Council to follow that pattern -- as the voters have decreed.

There is nothing new in our proposal for mandatory arbitration to make sure that an agreement is always reached between the County and the certified representative of the police. Students of collective bargaining are familiar with the practice of mandating arbitration as a substitute for the strike in labor relations statutes governing uniformed employees. It is widely recognized that there must be a fair and equitable method of resolving once and for all disagreements over the contents of a collective bargaining agreement when one of the bargaining parties represents the uniformed services. Otherwise, uniformed employees may strike, even though a strike is unlawful, because they have no other means of obtaining a settlement that is -- and is perceived to be -- fair. That, indeed, is the lesson of the PATCO tragedy, as the New York Times pointed out in a thoughtful piece shortly after PATCO employees walked out. And it is the explanation for the eleven year history of essentially strike-free labor relations in the postal service. That is the reason why in so many jurisdictions statutes authorizing police to bargain and providing for mandatory arbitration antedate laws authorizing collective bargaining for other public employees.

Let me not be misunderstood. The FOP is opposed to strikes by police officers. The Fraternal Order of Police has expressly forbidden strikes by its locals and that rule binds Lodge 35. But experience shows, that though very rare, such strikes have occurred despite the efforts of union leaders. And there is no assurance that the FOP will perpetually be the representative of County police officers. It makes good sense, therefore, to provide for mandatory arbitration in the event the parties are unable to agree upon a collective agreement. And make no mistake about it, the Council is a party to the collective bargaining process since it must decide whether to fund agreements reached through bargaining.

We have provided as an exhibit to this statement suggested language that would implement our insistence that the ordinance provide for binding arbitration. We believe that without that provision, or one like it, the proposed ordinance would not comply with the mandate of the voters. They have ordained that there be collective bargaining for police, that strikes be prohibited, and that "binding arbitration" be provided as a substitute for the strike as the final mechanism for resolving disputes over contract terms. The proposed ordinance ignores that requirement.

The next serious deficiency in the bill before you is the very narrow range of subjects that may be bargained about. What could be more frustrating to represented employees than a law which promised them collective bargaining on the one hand but then so narrowly restricts the scope of what may be negotiated that keeps the word of promise to the ear and breaks it to the hope. That is what this ordinance does.

By its terms, it prohibits bargaining about some of the very matters that led to the police officers' insistence that there be collective bargaining with the County. For example, schedules are not bargainable. The Department's insistence upon a five day instead of a four day week has been a serious bone of contention between the Police Department and police officers in the very recent past. It still is. The police do not insist that they have their own way; but a statute that does not even authorize them to bargain about a subject as important as scheduling carries with it the seeds of difficulty for the future. Similarly, the statute would prohibit bargaining about transfers. This, too, is a matter of very great importance to the police. Where one works is obviously a term and condition of employment and the procedures that will be followed and the matters that will be considered when a transfer becomes necessary are matters that traditionally labor organizations negotiate about with employers. Under the proposed ordinance, such negotiations are not required. That borders on being fatuous.

The narrow scope of bargaining in this ordinance reflects an extended list of "management rights" which the employer need not bargain about. Statutes with such provisions in them are a frequent source of irritation. Often, the parties are reduced to bargaining about what they will bargain about and much litigation is provoked where, as here, the statute gives with one hand the right to bargain and then takes it away with the other by a broad, amorphous, series of rights given to management. That is the case here. For example, one of the matters that is not bargainable is "technology". No one knows what that term means. Does it mean, for example, that the police have no right to bargain with their employer about matters which vitally affect their safety, such as the weapons that they may use or the protections built into their patrol vehicles? Similarly, what is more important than the procedures and the factors that will be considered when an employee seeks promotion? Nevertheless, under this ordinance, those matters are not fit subjects for the bargaining table. Again, the restrictive approach taken in this statute is likely to produce frustration and litigation. And so is the kind of language that gives management the right to "maintain and improve the efficiency of operation." If management asserts that a particular proposal would reduce the "efficiency of operations" is the proposal not bargainable and shall the parties argue about that rather than seek to achieve a compromise or suitable arrangement which preserves the interests of both sides?

No one denies the legitimacy of the objectives which are listed in the enumerated rights of management. But the purpose of collective bargaining is to provide a means of exchanging ideas that will accomodate management's objectives and employees' needs. That is what collective bargaining is all about. This statute virtually makes that exchange impossible because of the very narrow scope of bargaining that is left after all the management rights and other prohibitions in the ordinance are taken into consideration.

For that reason, we have provided an Exhibit II to this statement. It contains a revised definition of collective bargaining and what is to be a fit subject for it. That definition, in force in many states, is taken literally from the New York State statute which governs bargaining between municipalities there and police officers, as well as other employees. There is no reason why Montgomery County should adopt a more niggardly approach to the collective bargaining process or to its police officers than other jurisdictions. We urge the Council to substitute the language we have proposed for the narrow scope of bargaining provided in the statute.

The remaining concerns we have are narrow in scope but very important to us. Among those are a series of prohibited practices we think do not belong in a labor relations ordinance. They go to things like sabotage, violent action to prevent people from entering a place of employment, taking possession of property of the employer and the like. All of these actions seem to us likely to be criminal violations. Yet they are made subject to the procedures of the ordinance, procedures that are totally unsuited to the adjudication of what obviously are crimes. Furthermore, we have never seen a list of such law violations in a labor relations statute. Since the ordinance is hardly adventurous when it comes to affording rights to employees, we see no excuse whatsoever for the laundry list of horribles that is contained in subsections 5 through 8 of sub-paragraph B of the prohibited practice sections of the ordinance. They should be deleted. No one knows what they mean and they obviously have no place in a labor relations statute.

The ordinance, which we have indicated is hardly venturesome in affording rights to police, went further in a prior draft than any other law we have seen by attempting to regulate the contract ratification procedures that the certified organization must follow. We regarded this as an improper intrusion in the internal affairs of the FOP or any successor certified representative. Every labor organization has a constitution and by-laws which govern these matters. Under State law, they are subject to the control of the courts. We saw no reason why they should be the subject of litigation between the County Executive and a labor organization. Indeed, given the informality of unfair labor practice proceedings and the ease of access that any person may have to them, we were concerned that the FOP's enemies could have used this procedure as a way of preventing a contract from becoming final. We are pleased that the draft before you no longer contains the offending provision and now provides only that there be ratification. The FOP's internal rules require membership ratification, so that should ordinarily pose no problem.

Exhibit III to this statement contains a suggested change in language with respect to decertification proceedings which we understand is entirely in accord with what the County Executive sought to accomplish but which we think requires a technical change in the ordinance as proposed.

Exhibit III also contains a proposed deletion of one of the provisions of the ordinance dealing with strikes and lockouts. It prohibits the County Executive from compensating any employee for a period when he is directly or indirectly engaged in a strike.

As we have stated, we oppose strikes and we ourselves submitted the Charter Amendment outlawing them. We believe that police strikes will not occur in this County. Of course, we have no objection to a County Executive disciplining an employee who strikes pursuant to existing law. And we agree that employees who break the law by striking should ordinarily not be compensated for periods when they were on strike.

But a strike by police officers can readily create a serious emergency. We think it is unwise and imprudent to tie the hands of a future County Executive by absolutely prohibiting him from taking steps he deems essential. There may be circumstances that we cannot now foresee when a County Executive may conclude that some police who were "indirectly" (whatever that means) engaged in a strike must out of necessity or in fairness should receive some compensation. For that decision the County Executive would be answerable to the voters, as he should be. But he is equally answerable if he fails adequately to deal with an emergency of such gravity. For this Council to decide in advance what a future County Executive should do when faced with circumstances it cannot now foresee seems to us the height of folly.

Again, we do not wish to be misunderstood. We support the view that police strikes should be illegal. And we have no problem with vigorous enforcement of that prohibition in the highly unlikely event it is violated. But the manner and means that a responsible County official chooses to discharge his duty under the law and to the citizens must, in our view, be left to him. The provision should be deleted.

To summarize our position, we believe that the bill before you does not comply with the voters' mandate. It does not provide for binding arbitration. Its narrow scope of bargaining makes a mockery of the process of collective bargaining. In some respects, we believe that the ordinance goes too far -- for example, in enumerating a series of criminal acts which are to be subject to the prohibited practices provisions of the ordinance, provisions which I might add are unprecedented in my experience.

Despite these objections, we think that the bill represents a salutary step forward. With the changes we have proposed, we think the ordinance will provide a useful mechanism for resolving problems and establishing wages and working conditions that are fair both to the police and the citizens they serve. With the changes we have proposed, adoption of the ordaince, we are confident, will lead to an era of mutual harmony between the police and the County. So amended, the bill should be enacted.

Thank you.

EXHIBIT I

Section 33-81 COUNCIL ACTION AND ARBITRATION

A. On or before March 31, 1981, the County Council shall by a majority of four votes indicate and notify the parties of its intent to appropriate funds or otherwise enact legislation to implement an agreement referred to in sub-section VII-H hereof, or its intent not to do so. The Council's failure to act with respect to an agreement as aforesaid shall constitute a commitment to appropriate the funds and enact legislation required to implement the agreement.

B. If the Council indicates its intent not to appropriate funds or not to enact legislation to implement an agreement in whole or in part, it shall forthwith state its reasons and designate an arbitrator to serve on the arbitration panel provided for below. The certified representative shall also select an arbitrator to serve on that panel.

C. The two arbitrators appointed as provided in sub-section B hereof shall immediately appoint a third impartial member who shall serve as chairman of the arbitration panel. If the first two arbitrators are unable to agree upon a third arbitrator, either arbitrator may request the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, or, in the event its services are not available, the American Arbitration Association, to provide a list of five persons willing and able to arbitrate the dispute. Upon receipt of the list, the two arbitrators designated by the parties shall select an arbitrator by alternately striking names from the list. The arbitrator so selected shall serve as chairman of the panel, or, if the parties agree, as sole arbitrator.

D. The single arbitrator or the arbitration panel acting through its chairman, shall conduct a hearing within 10 days after the date of appointment of its chairman, at a place within Montgomery County, where feasible. The chairman shall give at least seven days notice in writing to each of the other arbitrators. The chairman or single arbitrator shall give like notice to the County Council and to the employee organization of the time and place of such hearing.
The single arbitrator or chairman shall preside over the hearing and shall take testimony. The proceedings shall be informal. Any oral or documentary evidence and other data deemed relevant by the arbitration panel or single arbitrator may be received into evidence. The arbitrators shall have the power to administer oaths and to require by subpoena the attendance and testimony of witnesses, the production of books, records, and other evidence relative to or pertinent to the issues presented to them for determination. If any person refuses to obey a subpoena, or refuses to be sworn or to testify, or if any witness, party, or attorney is guilty of any contempt while in attendance at any hearing, the arbitration panel or single arbitrator may, or the County attorney, if requested, shall invoke the aid of the District Court which shall issue an appropriate order.

A record of the proceedings shall be kept, and the chairman or single arbitrator shall arrange for the necessary recording service. Transcripts may be ordered at the expense of the party ordering them, but the transcripts shall not be necessary for an award by the panel or single arbitrator. The hearing may be continued at the discretion of the panel or single arbitrator and shall be concluded not later than April 2oth. At the conclusion of the hearing, each party may submit a written statement containing its last and best offer for each of the issues in dispute and of its contentions to the panel or single arbitrator, who shall take said statements under advisement. Within 10 days after the conclusion of the hearing, a majority of the panel, or the single arbitrator, shall give written notice of his or its award resolving all issues in dispute. The panel or single arbitrator may and, upon request of either party, shall, provide a written statement of reasons for his or its award. In making an award, the panel or single arbitrator shall afford weight to the matters set out in Article VIII, sub-section 5 hereof, to stipulations of the parties, and to such other factors as are normally or traditionally taken into consideration in the determination of wages, hours and conditions of employment through voluntary collective bargaining, mediation, fact-finding, arbitration or otherwise between the parties in the public service and private employment. The award shall be final and binding upon the Council, the Employer, and the employee organization and, if supported by evidence, shall be enforcible against either party in accordance with law. The fees of the impartial arbitrator and all costs except the fees and expenses of the arbitrator designated by the employee organization shall be borne by the County.

[Re-number succeeding Sections.]

EXHIBIT II

Section 33-80 COLLECTIVE BARGAINING

(a) Upon certification of an employee organization, as provided in Section 33-79, the employer and the said certified representative shall have the duty, through their designees, to bargain collectively.

(b) For the purpose of this article, to bargain collectively is the performance of the mutual obligation of the employer and a certified employee organization to meet at reasonable times and confer in good faith with respect to wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment, or the negotiation of an agreement, or any question arising thereunder, and the execution of a written agreement incorporating any agreement reached if requested by either party, but such obligation does not compel either party to agree to a proposal or require the making of a concession.

[Re-designate sub-sections "(e)" and "(f)" as sub-sections "(c)" and "(d)", and omit present sub-sections (b)-(g) inclusive. Re-designate "H." as sub-section "(e)" and include all down to the sentence beginning "On or before April 25," etc., except for the word "ratified" on line 23. For substitution of the omitted portion of sub-section (h), see our Exhibit I].

EXHIBIT III

Amend Section 33-79(b) by substituting for the first paragraph thereof the following:

B. If the Permanent Umpire determines that a petition is properly supported and timely filed, and in the case of a decertification petition filed pursuant to sub-section A. 3. hereof, that the employer has reasonable cause to believe that the certified representative is not or is no longer the choice of the majority of the employees of the unit, the Permanent Umpire shall cause an election of all eligible employees to be held within a reasonable time, but no later than October 20 of that year, to determine if and by whom the employees wish to be represented, as follows:

Sec. 2. Article IV of Chapter 33 is amended to read as follows:

ARTICLE IV. EMPLOYER-EMPLOYEE RELATIONS

33-62. STATEMENT OF LEGISLATIVE INTENT.

THE/COUNTY/COUNCIL/HEREBY/FINDS/THAT/THE/TREND/IN/LABOR/RELATIONS BETWEEN/GOVERNMENT/AND/ITS/EMPLOYEES/IS/BECOMING/SOMEWHAT/ALIGNED/WITH/THE PRACTICES/OF/THE/PRIVATE/SECTOR/OF/REPRESENTATION/OF/EMPLOYEE/GROUPS/BY DESIGNATED/ELECTED/EMPLOYEE/ORGANIZATIONS;//THE/COUNCIL/BELIEVES/THAT GOVERNMENT/SHOULD/TAKE/THE/INITIATIVE/IN/PROVIDING/A/VEHICLE/WHEREBY GOVERNMENT/EMPLOYEE/REPRESENTATION/CAN/EMERGE/AND/EVOLVE/IN/A/FASHION/

CONSISTENT WITH BOTH THE NEEDS OF THE EMPLOYEE AND THOSE OF GOVERNMENT. THE COUNCIL FURTHER BELIEVES THAT THIS CAN BEST BE ACCOMPLISHED BY ENACTING LOCAL LEGISLATION WHICH PROVIDES FOR THE VOLUNTARY REPRESENTATION OF GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES BY THEIR DULY DESIGNATED AND ELECTED EMPLOYEE ORGANIZATIONS. THE COUNCIL ALSO BELIEVES THAT THE EFFICIENT ADMINISTRATION OF THE COUNTY GOVERNMENT IS ENHANCED BY PROVIDING EMPLOYEES AN OPPORTUNITY TO PARTICIPATE IN THE FORMULATION AND IMPLEMENTATION OF POLICIES AND PRACTICES AFFECTING THE CONDITIONS OF THEIR EMPLOYMENT. BECAUSE THE COUNCIL BELIEVES IT IS DESIRABLE TO MINIMIZE THE PROLIFERATION OF EMPLOYEE UNITS, IT HAS LIMITED THE NUMBER OF SUCH UNITS TO SEVEN (7). HOWEVER, THE COUNCIL WOULD CONSIDER CHANGING THAT LIMITATION AT A FUTURE DATE UPON THE RECOMMENDATION OF THE CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICER OR AN AFFECTED GROUP OF EMPLOYEES. THE COUNCIL FURTHER STATES THAT THE ELIGIBILITY AS TO MEMBERSHIP IN AN EMPLOYEE UNIT FOR PURPOSES OF THIS MEET AND CONFER TYPE OF EMPLOYEE REPRESENTATION WOULD NOT NECESSARILY BE EXTENDED IN THE SAME MANNER IF AUTHORITY FOR COLLECTIVE BARGAINING WERE GRANTED. MEMBERSHIP OR NONMEMBERSHIP IN AN EMPLOYEE ORGANIZATION SHALL IN NO WAY LIMIT THE ABILITY OF AN EMPLOYEE TO OBTAIN GOVERNMENT INFORMATION TO WHICH HE/SHE WOULD NORMALLY HAVE ACCESS. NOTHING IN THIS ARTICLE SHALL RESTRICT THE ABILITY OF ANY EMPLOYEE, WHETHER MEMBER OR NONMEMBER OF AN EMPLOYEE ORGANIZATION, TO DISCUSS MATTERS CONCERNING EMPLOYEES OR EMPLOYEE GROUPS TO THE EXTENT THAT SUCH DISCUSSION DOES NOT CONFLICT WITH THE DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES OF THE EMPLOYEE.

IN ENACTING ARTICLE VII OF THIS CHAPTER, WHICH PROVIDES THE OPPORTUNITY AND ESTABLISHES PROCEDURES FOR COLLECTIVE BARGAINING FOR MOST COUNTY MERIT SYSTEM EMPLOYEES, THE COUNTY COUNCIL CONCLUDED:

(1) THAT IT WOULD BE INAPPROPRIATE TO INCLUDE STATE-COUNTY MERIT SYSTEM

EMPLOYEES SUCH AS THOSE IN THE DEPARTMENT OF SOCIAL SERVICES AMONG THE EMPLOYEES ENTITLED TO BE REPRESENTED FOR PURPOSES OF COLLECTIVE BARGAINING UNDER ARTICLE VII; AND

(2) THAT STATE-COUNTY MERIT SYSTEM EMPLOYEES SHOULD CONTINUE TO BE ENTITLED TO MEET AND CONFER REPRESENTATION TO THE EXTENT THEIR SALARIES AND WORKING CONDITIONS ARE SUBJECT TO OR AFFECTED BY COUNTY POLICIES. THE COUNCIL HAS THEREFORE REVISED ARTICLE IV OF THIS CHAPTER TO ACHIEVE THIS INTENT.

Article VII. County Collective Bargaining.

33-101. Declaration of policy.

It is the public policy of Montgomery County to promote a harmonious, peaceful, and cooperative relationship between the County government and its employees and to protect the public by assuring, at all times, the responsive, orderly, and efficient operation of County government and services. Since unresolved disputes in public service are harmful to the public and to employees, adequate means should be available for preventing disputes and for resolving them when they occur. To that end, it is in the public interest that employees have the opportunity to bargain collectively over wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment, as authorized by Charter Section 511, through a representative of their choice, or to refrain from collective bargaining. It is also in the public interest that the County government and a representative of County employees bargain collectively in good faith without interference with the orderly process of government and that they implement any agreements reached through collective bargaining.

The County Council also recognizes that employee organizations and the County government each possess substantial means for initiating actions on wages, hours, and working conditions of employees. Therefore, in order to preserve an appropriate balance between labor and management in the public service, the County Council states that once the employees voluntarily select a representative, collective bargaining shall be used in place of, and not in addition to, existing means for initiating governmental action on subjects that are defined as appropriate for LIKE collective bargaining in this article.

(5) Investigate and attempt to resolve or settle, as provided in this article, charges of engaging in prohibited practices. However, if the employer and a certified representative have negotiated a valid grievance procedure, the Labor Relations Administrator shall defer to that procedure for the resolution of disputes properly submissible to the procedure absent a showing that the deferral results in the application of principles repugnant to this article. Furthermore, the Labor Relations Administrator shall defer to State procedures in those matters which are governed by the Law-Enforcement Officers' Bill of Rights, Article 27, Sections 727-734D, Annotated Code of Maryland.

(6) Determine unresolved issues of a person's inclusion in or exclusion from the units.

the Chief Administrative Officer, which list may include the incumbent Labor Relations Administrator. Such appointment must be confirmed by the County Council. If the County Council does not confirm the appointment, the new appointment shall be from a new agreed list of 5 nominees. Should there be no certified representative, the Labor Relations Administrator shall be appointed under the procedure and for the term set forth in subsection (b)(2).

(c) The Labor Relations Administrator will be paid a daily fee as set forth by contract with the County, and will be reimbursed for necessary expenses.

33-104. Employee rights.

(2) be represented fairly by their certified representative, if any.

(b) The employer has the duty to extend to the certified representative the exclusive right to represent the employees for the purposes of collective bargaining, including the orderly processing and settlement of grievances as agreed by the parties in accordance with this article.

(c) A certified representative serves as the EXCLUSIVE bargaining agent for all employees in the unit for which it is certified and has the duty to represent fairly and without discrimination all employees in the unit without regard to whether the employees are members of the employee organization, pay dues or other contributions to it, or participate in its affairs. However, it is not a violation of this duty for a certified representative to seek enforcement of an agency shop provision in a valid collective bargaining agreement.

(d) The right of a certified representative to receive voluntary dues or service fee deductions or agency shop provisions shall be determined through negotiations, unless the authority to negotiate these provisions has been suspended under this article. A collective bargaining agreement may not include a provision requiring membership in, participation in the affairs of, or contributions to an employee organization other than an agency shop provision.

33-105. Units for collective bargaining.

(a) There are two units for collective bargaining and for purposes of certification and decertification. Persons in these units are all County government merit system employees working on a continuous full-time, career or part-time, career basis, excluding the categories listed as exceptions to the definition of employee in section 33-102(4) of this article. The employees are divided into 2 units in accordance with the following descriptions:

(1) Service, labor, and trades (SLT) unit. This unit is composed of all eligible classes that are associated with service/ maintenance and skilled crafts. This means job classes in which workers perform duties that result in or contribute to the comfort and convenience of the general public or that contribute to the upkeep and care of buildings, facilities, or grounds of public property. Workers in this group may operate specialized machinery or heavy equipment. These job classes may also require special manual skill and a thorough and comprehensive knowledge of the processes involved in the work that is acquired through on the job training and experience or through apprenticeship or other formal training programs.

(2) Office, professional, and technical (OPT) unit. This unit is composed of all eligible classes associated with office, professional, paraprofessional, and technical functions.

(A) Office. Job classes in which workers are responsbile for internal and external communication, recording and retrieval of data and/or information, and other paperwork required in an office.

(B) Professional. Job classes that require special and theoretical knowledge that is usually acquired through college training or through work experience and other training that provides comparable knowledge.

(C) Paraprofessional. Job classes in which workers perform, in a supportive role, some of the duties of a professional or technician. These duties usually require less formal training and/or experience than is normally required for professional or technical status.

(D) Technical. Job classes that require a combination of basic scientific or technical knowledge and manual skill that can be obtained through specialized post secondary school education or through equivalent on the job training.

(b) Specific job classes included in these units of representation, and not otherwise excluded under section 33-102(4), shall be based on the designations made by the Chief Administrative Officer under the prior meet and confer process. In the event a new classification is created by the County, or an existing classification's duties and responsibilities are substantially changed, the County Personnel Director must place the classification in one of the units or state that the classification falls within one of the exceptions to the definition of employee under this article within 60 days of the creation or substantial alteration of the class and must publish the decision in the Montgomery County Register. Any individual or certified representative disagreeing with the decision of the Personnel Director may, within 10 days of publication, file objections to the decision with the Labor Relations Administrator, with notice to the Personnel Director.

The Labor Relations Administrator shall promptly decide the question on the basis of the duties and responsibilities of the job classification, the unit definition, and the community of interests between and among employees in the job classification and collective bargaining unit.

33-106. Selection, certification, and decertification procedures.

(a) The certification or decertification of an employee organization as the representative of a unit for the purpose of collective bargaining shall be initiated in accordance with the following procedures:

(1) Any employee organization seeking certification as representative of a unit shall file a petition with the Labor Relations Administrator stating its name, address, and its desire to be certified. The employee organization shall also send a copy of the petition, not including ~~the/names~~ A COPY OF THE SIGNATURES of the supporting employees ON THE PETITION, to the employer. The petition shall contain the uncoerced signatures of 30 percent of the employees within the unit signifying their desire to be represented by the employee organization for purposes of collective bargaining.

(2) If an employee organization has been certified, an employee within the unit may file a petition with the Labor Relations Administrator for decertification of this certified representative. The employee shall also send a copy of the petition to the employer and the certified representative, not including the names of the supporting employees. The petition shall contain the uncoerced signatures of 30 percent of the employees within the unit alleging that the employee organization presently certified is no longer the choice of the majority of the employees in the unit.

(3) Petitions may be filed within 30 days following the date on which this article becomes effective. Thereafter, if a lawful collective bargaining agreement is not in effect, petitions may be filed between September 1 and September 30 of any year, but not sooner than 22 months after an election held under this section.

(4) If a lawful collective bargaining agreement is in effect, a petition filed under this section shall not be entertained unless it is filed during September of the final year of the agreement.

(b) If the Labor Relations Administrator determines that a petition is properly supported and timely filed, she shall cause an election of all eligible employees to be held within a reasonable time, but no later than October 20 of any year, to determine if and by whom the employees wish to be represented, as follows:

(1) All elections shall be conducted under the supervision of the Labor Relations Administrator and shall be conducted by secret ballot at the time and place that she directs. The Labor Relations Administrator may select and retain the services of an agency of the State of Maryland RESPONSIBLE FOR CONDUCTING LABOR ELECTIONS, or a similarly neutral body, to assist in conducting the election.

(2) The election ballots shall contain, as choices to be made by the voter, the names of the petitioning or certified employee organization, the name or names of any other employee organization showing written proof at least 10 days before the election of at least 10 percent representation of the employees within the unit IN THE SAME MANNER AS DESCRIBED IN PARAGRAPH (a)(1) OF THIS SECTION, and a choice that the employee does not desire to be represented by any of the named employee organizations.

(3) The employer and each party to the election may be represented by observers selected in accordance with limitations and conditions that the Labor Relations Administrator may prescribe.

(4) Observers may challenge for good cause the eligibility of any person to vote in the election. Challenged ballots shall be impounded pending either agreement of the parties as to the validity of the challenge or the Labor Relations Administrator's decision as to the validity of the challenge, unless the number of challenges is not determinative, in which case the challenged ballots shall be destroyed.

(5) After the polls have been closed, the valid ballots cast shall be counted by the Labor Relations Administrator in the presence of the observers.

(6) The Labor Relations Administrator shall immediately prepare and serve upon the employer and each of the parties a report certifying the results of the election. If an employee organization receives the votes of a majority of the employees who voted, the Labor Relations Administrator shall certify the employee organization so elected as the exclusive agent.

(7) If no employee organization receives the votes of a majority of the employees who voted, the Labor Relations Administrator shall not certify a representative. Unless a majority of the employees who vote choose "no representative", a runoff election shall be conducted. The runoff election shall contain the 2 choices that received the largest and second largest number of votes in the original election.

(c) The Labor Relations Administrator's certification of results is final unless within 7 days after service of the report and the certification, any party serves on all other parties and files with the Labor Relations Administrator objections to the election. Objections shall be verified and shall contain a concise statement of facts constituting the grounds for the objections. The Labor Relations Administrator shall investigate the objections and, if substantial factual issues exist, shall hold a hearing. Otherwise, she may determine the matter without a hearing. The Labor Relations Administrator may invite, either by rule or by invitation, written or oral argument to assist her in determining the merits of the objections. If the Labor Relations Administrator finds that the election was conducted in substantial conformity with this article, she shall confirm the certification initially issued. If the Labor Relations Administrator finds that the election was not held in substantial conformity with this article, then she shall hold another election under this section.

(d) The cost of conducting an election shall be paid by the County.

(e) If, during the 30 days following the effective date of this article, a petition is filed by the incumbent representative of unit employees certified under Article IV of this chapter, and no other employee organization files a valid petition, and no petition calling for an election signed by ~~10~~ 20 percent of unit employees has been filed with the Labor Relations Administrator, the incumbent certified representative shall be certified without an election, provided it produces evidence, acceptable to the Labor Relations Administrator and dated after the enactment of this article, that a majority of the employees in the unit desire to be represented by the incumbent representative for the purposes of collective bargaining under the provisions of this article.

33-107. Collective bargaining.

(a) Duty to bargain; matters subject to bargaining.

Upon certification of an employee organization, the employer and the certified representative have the duty to bargain collectively with respect to the following subjects:

(2) ~~With respect to pension and retirement benefits, only defined contribution plans for new employees or current employees who choose to transfer from a defined benefit plan, provided that bargaining rights regarding such plans will not accrue unless and until the County has enacted a law establishing such plans.~~ PENSION AND OTHER RETIREMENT BENEFITS SHALL BE NEGOTIABLE, FOR ACTIVE EMPLOYEES ONLY, ONE YEAR AFTER THE EFFECTIVE DATE OF THIS ARTICLE.

33-108. Bargaining, impasse, fact-finding, and legislative procedures.

(a) Collective bargaining shall begin no later than November 1 before the beginning of a fiscal year for which there is no agreement between the employer and the certified representative (EXCEPT THAT IN 1986, COLLECTIVE BARGAINING MAY BEGIN AS LATE AS DECEMBER 1) and shall be finished on or before January 15. The resolution of a bargaining impasse or fact-finding shall be finished by February 1.

Fees and expenses of the mediator/fact-finder shall be shared equally by the employer and the certified representative.

(e) (1) During the course of collective bargaining, either party may declare an impasse and request the services of the mediator/fact-finder, or the parties may jointly request his services before declaration of an impasse. If the parties do not reach an agreement by January 15, an impasse exists.

(2) The dispute shall be submitted to the mediator/fact-finder whenever an impasse has been reached, or before that as provided in subsection (e)(1). The mediator/fact-finder shall engage in mediation by bringing the parties together voluntarily under such favorable circumstances as will tend to bring about the settlement of the dispute.

(3) If and when the mediator/fact-finder finds in his sole discretion that the parties are at a bona fide impasse, he shall implement the following fact-finding process:

(A) He shall require the parties to submit jointly a memorandum of all items previously agreed upon, and separate memoranda of their proposals on all items not previously agreed upon.

(B) He may require the parties to submit evidence or make oral or written argument in support of their proposals. He may hold a hearing for this purpose at a time, date, and place selected by him. This hearing shall not be open to the public.

(C) On or before February 1, the mediator/fact-finder shall issue a report of his findings of fact and recommendations on those matters still in dispute between the parties. The report shall be submitted to the parties but shall not

(D) In making findings of fact and recommendations, the mediator/fact-finder may take into account only the following factors:

does not accept, in whole or in part, the recommendations of the mediator/fact-finder, the report of the mediator/fact-finder, WITH RECOMMENDATIONS ON AGREED ITEMS DELETED, shall be made public by sending it to the Council. The mediator/fact-finder shall also send the Council the joint memorandum of items agreed upon, up-dated with any items later agreed upon. The parties shall also send to the Council separate memoranda stating their positions on matters still in dispute.

(g) The budget that the employer submits to the Council shall include the items that have been agreed to, as well as the employer's position on matters still in dispute. Any agreed OR DISPUTED term or condition submitted to the Council that requires an appropriation of funds, or the enactment, repeal, or modification of any County law or regulation, OR WHICH HAS OR MAY HAVE A PRESENT OR FUTURE FISCAL IMPACT, MAY BE ACCEPTED OR REJECTED IN WHOLE OR IN PART BY THE COUNCIL. SUCH TERMS OR CONDITIONS shall be identified to the Council by ~~the/employer~~ EITHER OR BOTH PARTIES. The employer shall make a good faith effort to have THE COUNCIL TAKE ACTION TO IMPLEMENT any term or condition ~~that/has/been~~ TO WHICH THE PARTIES HAVE agreed ~~to/implemented/by/Council/action~~.

(h) The Council may hold a public hearing to enable the parties and the public to testify on the agreement and the recommendations for resolving bargaining disputes.

(i) On or before April 15, the Council shall indicate by a majority vote its intention to appropriate or otherwise implement the items that have been agreed to, or its intention not to do so, and shall state its reasons for any intent to reject any part of the items, OF THE KIND SPECIFIED IN SUBSECTION (g), that have been agreed to. The Council shall also indicate by a majority vote its position on disputed matters WHICH COULD REQUIRE AN APPROPRIATION OF FUNDS OR ENACTMENT, REPEAL, OR MODIFICATION OF ANY COUNTY LAW OR REGULATION, OR WHICH HAVE PRESENT OR FUTURE FISCAL IMPACT.

(j) Then the Council shall designate a representative to meet with the parties and present the Council's views in the parties' further ~~negotiations~~ NEGOTIATION on disputed matters and/or agreed matters that the Council has indicated its intention to reject. The results of the negotiation, whether a complete or a partial agreement, shall be submitted to the Council on or before May 1. The Council may extend this deadline for no more than one week. Any agreement shall provide for automatic reduction or elimination of wage and/or benefits adjustments if:

(1) the Council does not take action necessary to implement the agreement, or a part of it;

(2) funds are not appropriated; or

(3) lesser amounts than those stated in the agreement are appropriated.

(k) The Council shall take whatever actions it considers required by the public interest with respect to matters still in dispute between the parties. However, those actions shall not be part of the agreement between the parties unless the parties specifically incorporate them in the agreement.

The President in the Chair.

CALL OF BILLS FOR FINAL READING

SUBJECT: Bill No. 9-86, Montgomery County Urban Districts

ISSUES DISCUSSED: The memorandum, with attachments, dated June 24, 1986, from Legislative Counsel Moran setting forth the issues considered by the Transportation and Environment Committee; whether an urban district should be created in Wheaton.

(The Vice President in the Chair.)

ISSUES DISCUSSED: Mr. Hanna's motion to authorize Wheaton as an urban district, but delay its implementation until such time as development warrants.

(The President in the Chair.)

ISSUES DISCUSSED: Mr. Potter's amendment to Mr. Hanna's motion (accepted by the maker) that the County Executive determine when to implement the Wheaton urban district; Ms. Crenca's statement that Wheaton is in the early stages of revitilization and that the Wheaton Revitilization Advisory Community Board should make the decision regarding designation of the Wheaton urban district when appropriate; the written testimony contained in the packet from the Wheaton/Kensington Citizens Advisory Board indicating its support of the concept of creating urban districts, but that expected development in Wheaton is several years away; the funding for maintenance in the Wheaton business district; Director of the Department of Transportation McGarry's statement that Wheaton does not generate enough in taxes to the Suburban District for maintenance under the present system and his suggestion that the County establish a policy that the Suburban District fund balances not support Wheaton area maintenance; whether the Council can delegate the authority to the County Executive to implement the Wheaton urban district at a later date; whether to amend the legislation to outline specific criteria to be followed for implementation of the Wheaton urban district in order to avoid the delegation of authority problem; Ms. Gelman's concern that amending the bill to exclude Wheaton would be contrary to the Council's intent; Planning Board Chairman Christeller's suggested revision to Mr. Hanna's motion to provide that implementation of the Wheaton urban district would not take place until the Executive submits a budget to the Council and the Council approves it; Mr. Gudis's amendment to the amended motion (accepted by the maker) that Mr. Hanna's motion incorporate Mr. Christeller's suggested revisions; Mr. Scull's suggestion that action on the bill be postponed until later in the week to allow the legal staff time to draft the amendments for Council review.

ACTION: Agreed to postpone final action on the bill until later in the day to allow the attorneys time to draft an amendment incorporating the suggestions by Councilmembers and Mr. Christeller regarding the creation of the Wheaton urban district by motion of Councilmember Fosler, without objection.

SUBJECT: Bill No. 4-86, Compensation of Elected Officials

ISSUES DISCUSSED: Mr. Scull's motion to conform the bill to County Code revisions previously enacted; the question of whether restrictions apply to the State's Attorney and the Sheriff regarding outside income; Mr. Hanna's statement that the Government Structure, Automation and Regulation (GSA) Committee did not recommend changing the law in this regard; the question of whether the law specifically states that the position of councilmember will be full-time or part-time; and Legislative Counsel Fadden's response that the law is silent in this respect; Mr. Potter's suggestion that the retirement system for elected officials be changed to provide vesting, coupled with indexing, prior to the current requirement of five years of service; Mr. Hanna's statement that he will shortly introduce legislation that will address Mr. Potter's concerns; Mr. Potter's response that current limitations of the retirement system regarding when retirement benefits commence affect all County employees and that he would like a legal opinion as to the feasibility of subsequent amendment of the proposed legislation; Assistant County Attorney Stern's response that the issue touches on Section 107 of the Charter and will be reviewed within that context; Mr. Fosler's statement that the position of councilmember should be part-time to allow pursuit of outside employment, that such outside employment has intrinsic value because it provides another perspective, that setting salaries of public officials too high will lead the public to conclude the position of councilmember is a full-time position, that legislators in neighboring jurisdictions, such as Fairfax County, spend less time on the job because the County Manager is full time and the same should hold true for Montgomery County as Montgomery County has a full-time executive; Mr. Gudis's opinion that it seems reasonable to set a councilmember's salary at a level to compensate for the demands on a person's time and energy; Ms. Crenca's remarks that the Council's involvement is greater than previously despite the Council/Executive form of government; Mr. Scull's remarks that the County can benefit from legislators that are actively pursuing other commitments and employment and that the County's ethics law offers protection against potential conflicts of interest, that the proposed salary increase for councilmembers is too great in view of the current rate of inflation and that councilmembers' salaries be set at $43,000 and that of the County Executive at $78,000; Mr. Fosler's statement that a salary increase of 10% and/or dollar amount of $42,000 for councilmembers is reasonable; Ms. Crenca's motion (did not receive a second) to defer action on the bill until next week.

ACTION: Amended Sec. 2-106 to provide that compensation for members of the County Council shall be $43,000 per annum

by motion of Councilmember Fosler

YEAS: Crenca, Fosler, Gelman, Scull
NAYS: Gudis, Potter, Hanna.

ISSUES DISCUSSED: Ms. Crenca's motion to amend the bill to provide that the Sheriff's rate of compensation per annum be the same as councilmembers (the motion failed for lack of a majority vote, with Councilmember Crenca voting in the affirmative, the remaining Councilmebers voting in the negative).

ACTION: Amended Section 2-106 of the bill to provide that the compensation for the County Executive will be $78,000 per annum

by motion of Councilmember Crenca

YEAS: Crenca, Gelman, Gudis, Scull
NAYS: Fosler, Potter, Hanna.

Accepted the Committee's recommendation to delete the ceilings on cost-of-living adjustments for each public office as set forth in the bill by motion of Vice President Potter, without objection.

(The Vice President in the Chair.)

ISSUES DISCUSSED: The provision in the bill to reduce the annual cost-of-living adjustment to officeholders' salaries from the current 75% of the change in the annual Consumer Price Index (CPI) increase to 67%.

ACTION: Defeated Mr. Hanna's motion to amend the bill to provide that the annual cost-of-living adjustment to officeholders' salaries be 75% of the annual CPI change

YEAS: Crenca, Gudis, Hanna
NAYS: Fosler, Gelman, Scull Potter.

(The President in the Chair.)

Waived the reading of the title, and approved the amendments recommended by the Government Structure, Automation and Regulation Committee, as follows, including the amendment earlier moved by Councilmember Scull to conform the bill to Code revisions previously enacted:

Article VII. County Collective Bargaining.

33-101. Declaration of policy.

It is the public policy of Montgomery County to promote a harmonious, peaceful, and cooperative relationship between the County government and its employees and to protect the public by assuring, at all times, the responsive, orderly, and efficient operation of County government and services. Since unresolved disputes in public service are harmful to the public and to employees, adequate means should be available for preventing disputes and for resolving them when they occur. To that end, it is in the public interest that employees have the opportunity to bargain collectively over wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment, as authorized by Charter Section 511, through a representative of their choice, or to refrain from collective bargaining. It is also in the public interest that the County government and a representative of County employees bargain collectively in good faith without interference with the orderly process of government and that they implement any agreements reached through collective bargaining.

The County Council also recognizes that employee organizations and the County government each possess substantial means for initiating actions on wages, hours, and working conditions of employees. Therefore, in order to preserve an appropriate balance between labor and management in the public service, the County Council states that once the employees voluntarily select a representative, collective bargaining shall be used in place of, and not in addition to, existing means for initiating governmental action on subjects that are defined as appropriate for LIKE collective bargaining in this article.

33-102. Definitions.

A collective bargaining agreement shall not require payment of a service fee by any employee who opposes joining or financially supporting an employee organization on religious grounds. However, the COLLECTIVE BARGAINING agreement may require that employee to pay an amount equal to the service fee to a nonreligious, nonunion charity, or to any other charitable organization, agreed to by the employee and the certified representative, WITH PROVISION FOR DISPUTE RESOLUTION IF THERE IS NOT AGREEMENT, and to give to the employer and the certified representative written proof of this payment. (7) "Lockout" means any action that the employer takes to interrupt or prevent the continuity of work properly and usually performed by the employees for the purpose and with the intent of either coercing the employees into relinquishing rights guaranteed by this article or of bringing economic pressure on employees for the purpose of securing the agreement of their certified representative to certain collective bargaining terms.

The Labor Relations Administrator shall exercise the following powers and perform the following duties and functions:

(1) Periodically adopt, amend, and rescind, under method (1) of section 2A-15 of this Code, regulations and procedures for the implementation and administration of the duties of the Labor Relations Administrator under this article.

(4) Hold and conduct elections for certification or decertification pursuant to the provisions of this article and issue the certification or decertification.

(5) Investigate and attempt to resolve or settle, as provided in this article, charges of engaging in prohibited practices. However, if the employer and a certified representative have negotiated a valid grievance procedure, the Labor Relations Administrator shall defer to that procedure for the resolution of disputes properly submissible to the procedure absent a showing that the deferral results in the application of principles repugnant to this article. Furthermore, the Labor Relations Administrator shall defer to State procedures in those matters which are governed by the Law-Enforcement Officers' Bill of Rights, Article 27, Sections 727-734D, Annotated Code of Maryland.

(6) Determine unresolved issues of a person's inclusion in or exclusion from the units.

(7) Obtain any necessary support services and make necessary expenditures in the performance of duties to the extent provided for these purposes in the annual budget of Montgomery County.

(8) Exercise any other powers and perform any other duties and functions as may be specified in this article.

(3) After the initial term of office of the Labor Relations Administrator provided in subsection (b)(2), the County Executive shall thereafter appoint the Labor Relations Administrator for a term of 5 years from a list of 5 nominees agreed upon by any certified employee representative(s) and the Chief Administrative Officer, which list may include the incumbent Labor Relations Administrator. Such appointment must be confirmed by the County Council. If the County Council does not confirm the appointment, the new appointment shall be from a new agreed list of 5 nominees. Should there be no certified representative, the Labor Relations Administrator shall be appointed under the procedure and for the term set forth in subsection (b)(2).

(c) The Labor Relations Administrator will be paid a daily fee as set forth by contract with the County, and will be reimbursed for necessary expenses.

33-104. Employee rights.

(a) Employees have the right to:

(1) form, join, support, contribute to, or participate in, or to refrain from forming, joining, supporting, contributing to, or participating in, any employee organization or its lawful activities; and

(2) be represented fairly by their certified representative, if any.

(b) The employer has the duty to extend to the certified representative the exclusive right to represent the employees for the purposes of collective bargaining, including the orderly processing and settlement of grievances as agreed by the parties in accordance with this article.

(c) A certified representative serves as the EXCLUSIVE bargaining agent for all employees in the unit for which it is certified and has the duty to represent fairly and without discrimination all employees in the unit without regard to whether the employees are members of the employee organization, pay dues or other contributions to it, or participate in its affairs. However, it is not a violation of this duty for a certified representative to seek enforcement of an agency shop provision in a valid collective bargaining agreement.

(d) The right of a certified representative to receive voluntary dues or service fee deductions or agency shop provisions shall be determined through negotiations, unless the authority to negotiate these provisions has been suspended under this article. A collective bargaining agreement may not include a provision requiring membership in, participation in the affairs of, or contributions to an employee organization other than an agency shop provision.

33-105. Units for collective bargaining.

(a) There are two units for collective bargaining and for purposes of certification and decertification. Persons in these units are all County government merit system employees working on a continuous full-time, career or part-time, career basis, excluding the categories listed as exceptions to the definition of employee in section 33-102(4) of this article. The employees are divided into 2 units in accordance with the following descriptions:

(1) Service, labor, and trades (SLT) unit. This unit is composed of all eligible classes that are associated with service/maintenance and skilled crafts. This means job classes in which workers perform duties that result in or contribute to the comfort and convenience of the general public or that contribute to the upkeep and care of buildings, facilities, or grounds of public property. Workers in this group may operate specialized machinery or heavy equipment. These job classes may also require special manual skill and a thorough and comprehensive knowledge of the processes involved in the work that is acquired through on the job training and experience or through apprenticeship or other formal training programs.

(2) Office, professional, and technical (OPT) unit. This unit is composed of all eligible classes associated with office, professional, paraprofessional, and technical functions.

(A) Office. Job classes in which workers are responsbile for internal and external communication, recording and retrieval of data and/or information, and other paperwork required in an office.

(B) Professional. Job classes that require special and theoretical knowledge that is usually acquired through college training or through work experience and other training that provides comparable knowledge.

(C) Paraprofessional. Job classes in which workers perform, in a supportive role, some of the duties of a professional or technician. These duties usually require less formal training and/or experience than is normally required for professional or technical status.

(D) Technical. Job classes that require a combination of basic scientific or technical knowledge and manual skill that can be obtained through specialized post secondary school education or through equivalent on the job training.

(b) Specific job classes included in these units of representation, and not otherwise excluded under section 33-102(4), shall be based on the designations made by the Chief Administrative Officer under the prior meet and confer process. In the event a new classification is created by the County, or an existing classification's duties and responsibilities are substantially changed, the County Personnel Director must place the classification in one of the units or state that the classification falls within one of the exceptions to the definition of employee under this article within 60 days of the creation or substantial alteration of the class and must publish the decision in the Montgomery County Register. Any individual or certified representative disagreeing with the decision of the Personnel Director may, within 10 days of publication, file objections to the decision with the Labor Relations Administrator, with notice to the Personnel Director.

The Labor Relations Administrator shall promptly decide the question on the basis of the duties and responsibilities of the job classification, the unit definition, and the community of interests between and among employees in the job classification and collective bargaining unit.

33-106. Selection, certification, and decertification procedures.

(a) The certification or decertification of an employee organization as the representative of a unit for the purpose of collective bargaining shall be initiated in accordance with the following procedures:

(1) Any employee organization seeking certification as representative of a unit shall file a petition with the Labor Relations Administrator stating its name, address, and its desire to be certified. The employee organization shall also send a copy of the petition, ~~not~~ including ~~the names~~ A COPY OF THE SIGNATURES of the supporting employees ON THE PETITION, to the employer. The petition shall contain the uncoerced signatures of 30 percent of the employees within the unit signifying their desire to be represented by the employee organization for purposes of collective bargaining.

(2) If an employee organization has been certified, an employee within the unit may file a petition with the Labor Relations Administrator for decertification of this certified representative. The employee shall also send a copy of the petition to the employer and the certified representative, not including the names of the supporting employees. The petition shall contain the uncoerced signatures of 30 percent of the employees within the unit alleging that the employee organization presently certified is no longer the choice of the majority of the employees in the unit.

(3) Petitions may be filed within 30 days following the date on which this article becomes effective. Thereafter, if a lawful collective bargaining agreement is not in effect, petitions may be filed between September 1 and September 30 of any year, but not sooner than 22 months after an election held under this section.

(4) If a lawful collective bargaining agreement is in effect, a petition filed under this section shall not be entertained unless it is filed during September of the final year of the agreement.

(b) If the Labor Relations Administrator determines that a petition is properly supported and timely filed, she shall cause an election of all eligible employees to be held within a reasonable time, but no later than October 20 of any year, to determine if and by whom the employees wish to be represented, as follows:

(1) All elections shall be conducted under the supervision of the Labor Relations Administrator and shall be conducted by secret ballot at the time and place that she directs. The Labor Relations Administrator may select and retain the services of an agency of the State of Maryland RESPONSIBLE FOR CONDUCTING LABOR ELECTIONS, or a similarly neutral body, to assist in conducting the election.

(2) The election ballots shall contain, as choices to be made by the voter, the names of the petitioning or certified employee organization, the name or names of any other employee organization showing written proof at least 10 days before the election of at least 10 percent representation of the employees within the unit IN THE SAME MANNER AS DESCRIBED IN PARAGRAPH (a)(1) OF THIS SECTION, and a choice that the employee does not desire to be represented by any of the named employee organizations.

(3) The employer and each party to the election may be represented by observers selected in accordance with limitations and conditions that the Labor Relations Administrator may prescribe.

(4) Observers may challenge for good cause the eligibility of any person to vote in the election. Challenged ballots shall be impounded pending either agreement of the parties as to the validity of the challenge or the Labor Relations Administrator's decision as to the validity of the challenge, unless the number of challenges is not determinative, in which case the challenged ballots shall be destroyed.

(5) After the polls have been closed, the valid ballots cast shall be counted by the Labor Relations Administrator in the presence of the observers.

(6) The Labor Relations Administrator shall immediately prepare and serve upon the employer and each of the parties a report certifying the results of the election. If an employee organization receives the votes of a majority of the employees who voted, the Labor Relations Administrator shall certify the employee organization so elected as the exclusive agent.

(7) If no employee organization receives the votes of a majority of the employees who voted, the Labor Relations Administrator shall not certify a representative. Unless a majority of the employees who vote choose "no representative", a runoff election shall be conducted. The runoff election shall contain the 2 choices that received the largest and second largest number of votes in the original election.

(c) The Labor Relations Administrator's certification of results is final unless within 7 days after service of the report and the certification, any party serves on all other parties and files with the Labor Relations Administrator objections to the election. Objections shall be verified and shall contain a concise statement of facts constituting the grounds for the objections. The Labor Relations Administrator shall investigate the objections and, if substantial factual issues exist, shall hold a hearing. Otherwise, she may determine the matter without a hearing. The Labor Relations Administrator may invite, either by rule or by invitation, written or oral argument to assist her in determining the merits of the objections. If the Labor Relations Administrator finds that the election was conducted in substantial conformity with this article, she shall confirm the certification initially issued. If the Labor Relations Administrator finds that the election was not held in substantial conformity with this article, then she shall hold another election under this section.

(d) The cost of conducting an election shall be paid by the County.

(e) If, during the 30 days following the effective date of this article, a petition is filed by the incumbent representative of unit employees certified under Article IV of this chapter, and no other employee organization files a valid petition, and no petition calling for an election signed by ~~10~~ 20 percent of unit employees has been filed with the Labor Relations Administrator, the incumbent certified representative shall be certified without an election, provided it produces evidence, acceptable to the Labor Relations Administrator and dated after the enactment of this article, that a majority of the employees in the unit desire to be represented by the incumbent representative for the purposes of collective bargaining under the provisions of this article.

33-107. Collective bargaining.

(a) Duty to bargain; matters subject to bargaining.

Upon certification of an employee organization, the employer and the certified representative have the duty to bargain collectively with respect to the following subjects:

(1) Salary and wages, including the percentage of the increase in the salary and wages budget that will be devoted to merit increments and cash awards, provided that salaries and wages shall be uniform for all employees in the same classification.

(2) ~~With respect to pension and retirement benefits, only defined contribution plans for new employees or current employees who choose to transfer from a defined benefit plan, provided that bargaining rights regarding such plans will not accrue unless and until the County has enacted a law establishing such plans.~~ PENSION AND OTHER RETIREMENT BENEFITS SHALL BE NEGOTIABLE, FOR ACTIVE EMPLOYEES ONLY, ONE YEAR AFTER THE EFFECTIVE DATE OF THIS ARTICLE.

(3) Employee benefits such as insurance, leave, holidays, and vacations. ~~, but not including pension and retirement benefits except to the extent stated in subsection (a)(2).~~

(4) Hours and working conditions.

(5) Provisions for the orderly processing and settlement of grievances concerning the interpretation and implementation of a collective bargaining agreement, which may include:

(A) binding third party arbitration, provided that the arbitrator shall have no authority to amend, add to, or subtract from the provisions of the collective bargaining agreement; and

(B) provisions for exclusivity of forum.

(6) Matters affecting the health and safety of employees.

(7) Amelioration of the effect on employees when the exercise of employer rights listed in subsection (b) causes a loss of existing jobs in the unit.

(b) Employer rights.

This article and any agreement made under it shall not impair the right and responsibility of the employer to perform the following:

(1) Determine the overall budget and mission of the employer and any agency of County government.

(2) Maintain and improve the efficiency and effectiveness of operations.

(3) Determine the services to be rendered and the operations to be performed.

(4) Determine the overall organizational structure, methods, processes, means, job classifications, and personnel by which operations are to be conducted and the location of facilities.

(5) Direct and supervise employees.

(6) Hire, select, and establish the standards governing promotion of employees, and classify positions.

(7) Relieve employees from duties because of lack of work or funds, or under conditions when the employer determines continued work would be inefficient or nonproductive.

(8) Take actions to carry out the mission of government in situations of emergency.

(9) Transfer, assign, and schedule employees.

(10) Determine the size, grades, and composition of the work force.

(11) Set the standards of productivity and technology.

(13) Make and implement systems for awarding outstanding service increments, extraordinary performance awards, and other merit awards.

(14) Introduce new or improved technology, research, development, and services.

(15) Control and regulate the use of machinery, equipment, and other property and facilities of the employer, subject to subsection (a)(6) of this section.

(16) Maintain internal security standards.

(17) Create, alter, combine, contract out, or abolish any job classification, department, operation, unit, or other division or service, provided that no contracting of work which will displace employees may be undertaken by the employer unless 90 days prior to signing the contract, OR SUCH OTHER DATE OF NOTICE AS AGREED BY THE PARTIES, written notice has been given to the certified representative.

(18) Suspend, discharge, or otherwise discipline employees for cause, except that, subject to Charter section 404, any such action may be subject to the grievance procedure set forth in the collective bargaining agreement.

(19) Issue and enforce rules, policies, and regulations necessary to carry out these and all other managerial functions which are not inconsistent with this law, Federal or State law, or the terms of the collective bargaining agreement.

(c) Exemption.

This article shall not be construed to limit the discretion of the employer voluntarily to discuss with the representatives of its employees any matter concerning the employer's exercise of any of the rights set forth in this section. However, these matters shall not be subject to bargaining.

(d) The public employer rights set forth in this section are to be considered a part of every agreement reached between the employer and an employee organization.

33-108. Bargaining, impasse, fact-finding, and legislative procedures.

(a) Collective bargaining shall begin no later than November 1 before the beginning of a fiscal year for which there is no agreement between the employer and the certified representative (EXCEPT THAT IN 1986, COLLECTIVE BARGAINING MAY BEGIN AS LATE AS DECEMBER 1) and shall be finished on or before January 15. The resolution of a bargaining impasse or fact-finding shall be finished by February 1.

(b) Any provision for automatic renewal or extension of a collective bargaining agreement is void. An agreement is not valid if it extends for less than one year or for more than 3 years. All agreements become effective July 1 and end June 30.

(c) A collective bargaining agreement becomes effective only after ratification by the employer and by the certified representative. The certified representative may provide its own rules for ratification procedures.

(d) Before November 10 of any year in which the employer and the certified representative bargain collectively, the Labor Relations Administrator shall appoint a mediator/fact-finder, who may be a person recommended to her by both parties. The mediator/fact-finder shall be available during the period from January 2 to February 1. Fees and expenses of the mediator/fact-finder shall be shared equally by the employer and the certified representative.

(e) (1) During the course of collective bargaining, either party may declare an impasse and request the services of the mediator/fact-finder, or the parties may jointly request his services before declaration of an impasse. If the parties do not reach an agreement by January 15, an impasse exists.

(2) The dispute shall be submitted to the mediator/fact-finder whenever an impasse has been reached, or before that as provided in subsection (e)(1). The mediator/fact-finder shall engage in mediation by bringing the parties together voluntarily under such favorable circumstances as will tend to bring about the settlement of the dispute.

(3) If and when the mediator/fact-finder finds in his sole discretion that the parties are at a bona fide impasse, he shall implement the following fact-finding process:

(A) He shall require the parties to submit jointly a memorandum of all items previously agreed upon, and separate memoranda of their proposals on all items not previously agreed upon.

(B) He may require the parties to submit evidence or make oral or written argument in support of their proposals. He may hold a hearing for this purpose at a time, date, and place selected by him. This hearing shall not be open to the public.

(C) On or before February 1, the mediator/fact-finder shall issue a report of his findings of fact and recommendations on those matters still in dispute between the parties. The report shall be submitted to the parties but shall not be made public at this time.

(D) In making findings of fact and recommendations, the mediator/fact-finder may take into account only the following factors:

(i) Past collective bargaining agreements between the parties, including the past bargaining history that led to the agreements, or the pre-collective bargaining history of employee wages, hours, benefits, and working conditions.

(ii) Comparison of wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of similar employees of other public employers in the Washington Metropolitan Area and in Maryland.

(iii) Comparison of wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of other Montgomery County personnel.

(iv) Wages, benefits, hours, and other working conditions of similar employees of private employers in Montgomery County.

(v) The interest and welfare of the public.

(vi) The ability of the employer to finance economic adjustments and the effect of the adjustments upon the normal standard of public services provided by the employer.

(f) After receiving the report of the mediator/fact-finder, the parties shall meet again to bargain. If 10 days after the parties receive the report they have not reached full agreement, or if either party does not accept, in whole or in part, the recommendations of the mediator/fact-finder, the report of the mediator/fact-finder, WITH RECOMMENDATIONS ON AGREED ITEMS DELETED, shall be made public by sending it to the Council. The mediator/fact-finder shall also send the Council the joint memorandum of items agreed upon, up-dated with any items later agreed upon. The parties shall also send to the Council separate memoranda stating their positions on matters still in dispute.

(g) The budget that the employer submits to the Council shall include the items that have been agreed to, as well as the employer's position on matters still in dispute. Any agreed OR DISPUTED term or condition submitted to the Council that requires an appropriation of funds, or the enactment, repeal, or modification of any County law or regulation, OR WHICH HAS OR MAY HAVE A PRESENT OR FUTURE FISCAL IMPACT, MAY BE ACCEPTED OR REJECTED IN WHOLE OR IN PART BY THE COUNCIL. SUCH TERMS OR CONDITIONS shall be identified to the Council by ~~the/employer~~ EITHER OR BOTH PARTIES. The employer shall make a good faith effort to have THE COUNCIL TAKE ACTION TO IMPLEMENT any term or condition ~~that/has/been~~ TO WHICH THE PARTIES HAVE agreed ~~to/implemented/by/Council/action~~.

(h) The Council may hold a public hearing to enable the parties and the public to testify on the agreement and the recommendations for resolving bargaining disputes.

(i) On or before April 15, the Council shall indicate by a majority vote its intention to appropriate or otherwise implement the items that have been agreed to, or its intention not to do so, and shall state its reasons for any intent to reject any part of the items, OF THE KIND SPECIFIED IN SUBSECTION (g), that have been agreed to. The Council shall also indicate by a majority vote its position on disputed matters WHICH COULD REQUIRE AN APPROPRIATION OF FUNDS OR ENACTMENT, REPEAL, OR MODIFICATION OF ANY COUNTY LAW OR REGULATION OR WHICH HAVE PRESENT OR FUTURE FISCAL IMPACT.

(j) Then the Council shall designate a representative to meet with the parties and present the Council's views in the parties' further ~~negotiations~~ NEGOTIATION on disputed matters and/or agreed matters that the Council has indicated its intention to reject. The results of the negotiation, whether a complete or a partial agreement, shall be submitted to the Council on or before May 1. The Council may extend this deadline for no more than one week. Any agreement shall provide for automatic reduction or elimination of wage and/or benefits adjustments if:

(1) the Council does not take action necessary to implement the agreement, or a part of it;

(2) funds are not appropriated; or

(3) lesser amounts than those stated in the agreement are appropriated.

(k) The Council shall take whatever actions it considers required by the public interest with respect to matters still in dispute between the parties. However, those actions shall not be part of the agreement between the parties unless the parties specifically incorporate them in the agreement.

33-109. Prohibited practices.

(a) The employer or its agents or representatives are prohibited from any of the following:

(1) Interfering with, restraining, or coercing employees in the exercise of any rights granted to them under this article.

(2) Dominating or interfering with the formation or administration of any employee organization or contributing financial or other support to it, under an agreement or otherwise. However, the employer and a certified representative may agree to and apply an agency shop provision under this article and a voluntary dues or service fee deduction provision, and may agree to reasonable use of County facilities for communicating with employees.

(3) Encouraging or discouraging membership in any employee organization by discriminating in hiring, tenure, wages, hours, or conditions of employment. However, nothing in this article precludes an agreement from containing a provision for an agency shop.

(4) Discharging or discriminating against a public employee because she or he files charges, gives testimony, or otherwise lawfully aids in the administration of this article.

(5) Refusing to bargain collectively with the certified representative.

(6) Refusing to reduce to writing or refusing to sign a bargaining agreement that has been agreed to in all respects.

(7) Refusing to process or arbitrate a grievance if required under a grievance procedure contained in a collective bargaining agreement.

(8) Directly or indirectly opposing the appropriation of funds or the enactment of legislation by the County Council to implement an agreement reached between the employer and the certified representative under this article.

(9) Engaging in a lockout of employees.

(b) Employee organizations, their agents, representatives, and persons who work for them are prohibited from any of the following:

(1) Interfering with, restraining, or coercing the employer or employees in the exercise of any rights granted under this article.

(2) Restraining, coercing, or interfering with the employer in the selection of its representative for the purposes of collective bargaining or the adjustment of grievances.

(3) Refusing to bargain collectively with the employer if the employee organization is the certified representative.

(4) Refusing to reduce to writing or refusing to sign a bargaining agreement which has been agreed to in all respects.

(5) Hindering or preventing, by threats of violence, intimidation, force, or coercion of any kind, the pursuit of any lawful work or employment by any person, public or private, or obstructing or otherwise unlawfully interfering with the entrance to or exit from any place of employment, or obstructing or unlawfully interfering with the free and uninterrupted use of public roads, streets, highways, railways, airports, or other ways of travel or conveyance by any person, public or private.

(6) Hindering or preventing by threats, intimidation, force, coercion or sabotage, the obtaining, use, or disposition of materials, supplies, equipment, or services by the employer.

(7) Taking or retaining unauthorized possession of property of the employer, or refusing to do work or use certain goods or

(8) Causing or attempting to cause the employer to pay or deliver or agree to pay or deliver any money or other thing of value, in the nature of an exaction, for services which are neither performed nor to be performed.

(c) A charge of prohibited practice may be filed by the employer, an employee organization, or any individual employee. The charge or charges shall be filed with the Labor Relations Administrator, and copies shall be sent to the party alleged to have committed a prohibited practice. All charges shall contain a statement of facts sufficient to enable the Labor Relations Administrator to investigate the charge. The Labor Relations Administrator may request withdrawal of and, if necessary, summarily dismiss charges if they are insufficiently supported in fact or in law to warrant a hearing. The Labor Relations Administrator has the authority to maintain whatever independent investigation she determines is necessary and to develop regulations for an independent investigation. If, upon investigation, the Labor Relations Administrator finds that a charge is sufficiently supported to raise an issue of fact or law, she shall, if she is unable to achieve settlement or resolution of the matter, hold a hearing on the charge after notification to the parties. In any hearing, charging parties shall present evidence in support of the charges, and the party or parties charged shall have the right to file an answer to the charges, to appear in person or otherwise and to present evidence in defense against the charges.

(d) If the Labor Relations Administrator determines that the person charged has committed a prohibited practice, she shall make findings of fact and conclusions of law and may issue an order requiring the person charged to cease and desist from the prohibited practice, and may take affirmative actions that will remedy the violation of this article. Remedies of the Labor Relations Administrator include reinstating employees with or without back pay, making employees whole for any loss relating to County employment suffered as a result of any prohibited practices, or withdrawing or suspending the employee organization's authority to negotiate or continue an agency shop provision or a voluntary dues or service fee deduction provision. If the Labor Relations Administrator finds that the party charged has not committed any prohibited practices, she shall make findings of fact and conclusions of law and issue an order dismissing the charges.

(e) The Labor Relations Administrator shall not receive or entertain charges based upon an alleged prohibited practice occurring more than 6 months before the filing of the charge.

33-110. Expression of views.

(a) The expression or dissemination of any views, argument, or opinion, whether orally, in writing, or otherwise, does not constitute and is not evidence of a prohibited practice under any of the provisions of this law, nor is it grounds for invalidating any election conducted under this law if the expression or dissemination does not contain a threat of reprisal or promise of benefit.

(b) Recognizing an employee organization does not preclude the County from dealing with religious, social, fraternal, professional, or other lawful associations with respect to matters or policies that involve individual members of the associations or are of particular applicability to it or its members.

33-111. Strikes and lockouts.

(a) An employee or employee organization shall not either directly or indirectly cause, instigate, encourage, condone, or engage in any strike, nor the employer in any lockout. An employee or employee organization shall not obstruct, impede, or restrict, either directly or indirectly, any attempt to terminate a strike.

(b) The employer shall not pay, reimburse, make whole, or otherwise compensate any employee for or during the period when that employee is directly or indirectly engaged in a strike, nor shall the employer thereafter compensate an employee who struck for wages or benefits lost during the strike.

(c) If an employee or employee organization violates the provisions of this section, the employer, after adequate notice and a fair hearing before the Labor Relations Administrator who finds that the violations have occurred and finds that any or all of the following actions are necessary in the public interest, may impose any of the following sanctions, subject to the Law-Enforcement Officers' Bill of Rights, Article 27, Sections 727-734D, Annotated Code of Maryland:

(1) Impose disciplinary action, including dismissal from employment, on employees engaged in the conduct.

organization from seeking any remedy available in a court of competent jurisdiction.

33-112. Effect of prior enactments.

~~Any laws, executive orders, or regulations adopted by the County and any department or agency of the County that are or may be considered inconsistent with the provisions of this article shall not be held to be repealed or modified until they are specifically repealed or modified by the County or any department or agency of the County.~~

(a) NOTHING CONTAINED IN THIS ARTICLE SHALL BE CONSTRUED TO REPEAL ANY LAW, EXECUTIVE ORDER, RULE, OR REGULATION ADOPTED BY THE COUNTY OR ANY OF ITS DEPARTMENTS OR AGENCIES THAT IS NOT INCONSISTENT WITH THE PROVISIONS OF THIS ARTICLE.

(b) ANY EXECUTIVE ORDER, RULE, OR REGULATION OF THE COUNTY OR ANY OF ITS DEPARTMENTS OR AGENCIES THAT REGULATES ANY SUBJECT THAT IS BARGAINABLE UNDER THIS ARTICLE SHALL NOT BE HELD TO BE REPEALED OR MODIFIED BY A PROVISION OF A COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENT NEGOTIATED UNDER THIS ARTICLE EXCEPT TO THE EXTENT THAT THE APPLICATION OF THE ORDER, RULE, OR REGULATION IS INCONSISTENT WITH THE PROVISION IN THE COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENT. HOWEVER, IF THE INCONSISTENT ORDER, RULE, OR REGULATION IS SUBJECT TO AND HAS RECEIVED COUNCIL APPROVAL, THE COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENT SHALL NOT GOVERN UNLESS THE ORDER, RULE, OR REGULATION WAS IDENTIFIED TO THE COUNCIL BY THE PARTIES PRIOR TO THE COUNCIL'S RATIFICATION OF THE COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENT, AS REQUIRED BY SECTION 33-108(g); OR UNLESS THE ORDER, RULE, OR REGULATION IS REPEALED OR MODIFIED BY THE COUNCIL.

SUBJECT: Bill No. 36-86, Room Rental and Transient Tax - Exemption

ISSUES DISCUSSED: The amendments to the bill as set forth in the memorandum, dated June 19, 1986, from Senior Assistant County Attorney Malone; Mr. Scull's suggestion to include an amendment to provide an exemption from any County tax in situations where the cost to collect the tax is more than the tax; Ms. Crenca's request that the staff review whether there are religious organizations owning chains of hotels as it has come to her attention that certain nonprofit organizations own profitmaking organizations and therefore should be not be entitled to the room rental tax exemption.

ACTION: Introduced the amendments as set forth in the memorandum earlier referenced from County Attorney Malone, dated June 19, 1986, as amended by Mr. Scull to change a section number to provide an exemption from any County tax where the cost to collect such a tax is more than the actual tax, rather than just an exemption from the room rental tax by motion of Vice President Potter, without objection, Councilmember Gelman temporarily absent.

The meeting adjourned at 12:50 P.M.

This is an accurate account of the meeting.

SUBJECT: County Employee Collective Bargaining Legislation
Bill No. 19-86

This memorandum outlines my general comments regarding the County Employee Collective Bargaining Legislation, Bill No. 19-86, now before the Council. In addition, I have detailed my position on each of the amendments submitted with the legislation initially on April 22, 1986.

INTRODUCTION

Bill No 19-86 is the result of the electorate's adoption of Section 511 of the County Charter in November, 1984. County employees have enjoyed limited rights to representation by employee organizations pursuant to the Montgomery County Employer-Employee Relations Act, commonly known as "meet & confer." However, Bill No. 19-86 establishes a comprehensive labor relations system for all County employees. I support such a program and welcome the opportunity to establish equitable conditions of employment for County employees through the collective bargaining process.

In this regard, the Bill establishes a labor relations system similar to those elsewhere, as are found, for example, in the approximately 35 states which accord collective bargaining rights to public employees, the Federal sector, pursuant to the provisions of Title VII of the Civil Service Reform Act of 1978 and, of course, in the private sector under the National Labor Relations Act.

My comments include general observations, substantive revisions to the Bill and technical corrections which seek to ensure a successful labor relations program which will protect the interests of the electorate in an efficient County government. I have sought the support of the existing employee organizations whenever possible. I urge the County Council to adopt the necessary amendments to Bill No. 19-86 and reject those amendments as I have detailed below:

COMMENTS

I. 33-102 Definitions

Page

6 L16 Change term "certified representative" to "certified exclusive representative"

II. 33-102(4)(Q) Definitions

8 L02 This provision excludes State Merit Employees from coverage under Bill No. 19-86. My position is that these employees' conditions of employment are substantially determined by the State. To include them within the ambit of this Bill, for the small portion of their working conditions set by the County, creates an unnecessarily cumbersome system and a significant burden on the management of County government.

III. 33-102(4)(s) Definitions

8 L10 This provision excludes County employees in grade 27 or above regardless of position, from coverage by Bill No. 19-86. The limitation operates to exclude 22 employees: five Architects at grade 27; seven Physician I's at grade 33; seven Physician II's at grade 34 and three Dentists at grade 29. These employees are top-level professional staff who occupy positions with special relationships and special circumstances to the County government due to their professional standing. Therefore, I support the Bill and they should not be included in the collective bargaining process due to the special circumstances of their employment.

IV. 33-106(a)(1) Selection, Certification and Decertification Procedures

15 L12-13 Strike the words: "Not including the names of the supporting employees" and Add: "including a copy of the signatures of the supporting employees on the petition." Only the employer is in a position to ensure that all persons who signed the petition are active employees and that the signatures on the petition are truly those of the employees. There is no reason to believe that an employee would suffer reprisal for supporting an employee organization based upon the Executive's support of this legislation and the experience pursuant to the Police Collective Bargaining Act. The Montgomery County Government Employees Organization/Local 400 has agreed to this amendment.

V. 33-106 Selection, Certification and Decertification Procedures

16 L27 Add the following language after the words:"... within the unit,": "...in the same manner as described in section (a)(1) above,"

Currently, the Bill provides no procedure for an intervening employee organization to petition for inclusion on the ballot except to say that the organization must show written proof of at least 10% representation of employees in the unit. This purely technical amendment would require the intervenor to meet the same petition standards of the petitioner. MCGEO/Local 400 has agreed to this amendment.

VI. 33-107(a)(7) Collective Bargaining

20 L4-6 This provision permits "effects" bargaining when the exercise of an employer right causes a loss of existing job(s) within the bargaining unit. The exclusive representative would negotiate with the employer in an effort to ameliorate the effects of the loss of job(s). The proposed amendments seek to expand this "effects" bargaining section. Any broader provision will significantly hamper the County in the valid exercise of management/employer rights pursuant to 33-107(b). The present language should be retained with the specific intent of the Council being thereby established that "effects" bargaining cannot limit, delay, infringe, or impair the exercise of employer rights.

VII. 33-111(a) Strikes and Lockouts

31 L03 Strike the period after the word "strike" and add the following: "... or condone any such activity by failing to take appropriate action to prevent or stop any strike."

This amendment places an affirmative duty upon the employee organization to join with the employer in preventing and/or stopping strike activity. The amendment is consistent with the intent of the section and reflects similar language found in the provisions of Title VII of the Civil Service Reform Act of 1978 in the Federal Sector and the provisions of many state comprehensive labor relations statutes in the public sector.

RESPONSES TO AMENDMENTS

I. Amendment #1
Subject: One Unit Instead of Two Units.
Executive's Position: Opposed

Comment:

This amendment seeks to place all County employees to be covered by the provisions of Bill 19-86 into a single bargaining unit. Such an approach to collective bargaining is unsound. Bargaining units have traditionally developed around workers with a community of interest. The County's work force is clearly and easily divided into the two units described in the Bill: Service, Labor and Trades (SLT) and Office, Professional and Technical (OPT). Such a division will facilitate the negotiations process. Moreover, under the County's "meet & confer" these units are already in place. Finally, the Government has experienced no problems or difficulties in relating to employees in this two bargaining unit model. Therefore, I request that the Council REJECT the amendment. MCGEO/Local 400 agrees with the Executive's position.

II. Amendment #2
Subject: Majority of Unit must Participate in Certification Election
Executive's Position: Opposed

Comment:

This amendment would require that over 50% of the bargaining unit vote in any certification election before it would be valid. The amendment is inconsistent with sound democratic principles. It would encourage non-participation in the selection of an employee representative. It is inconsistent with the experience in the Federal sector, private sector and public sector of labor relations. Therefore, I request that the Council REJECT the amendment. MCGEO/Local 400 agrees with the Executive's position.

III. Amendment #3
Subject: No Certification Without an Election
Executive's Position: Opposed

Comment:

This amendment would require an election of an employee organization in all cases regardless of a majority showing of interest on a petition. This amendment would incur the expense and delay of an election even when an employee organization clearly had established itself as the choice of a majority of employees for collective bargaining purposes through a petition. Many states recognize the wastefulness of requiring any election for certification and currently provide for certification without election upon the establishment of a majority showing of interest. This is a sound and frugal model for the County to follow. I request that the Council REJECT this amendment. MCGEO/Local 400 agrees with the Executive's position.

IV. Amendment #4
Subject: No Agency Shop
Executive's Position: Opposed

Comment:

This amendment seeks to place all County employees to be covered by the provisions of Bill 19-86 into a single bargaining unit. Such an approach to collective bargaining is unsound. Bargaining units have traditionally developed around workers with a community of interest. The County's work force is clearly and easily divided into the two units described in the Bill: Service, Labor and Trades (SLT) and Office, Professional and Technical (OPT). Such a division will facilitate the negotiations process. Moreover, under the County's "meet & confer" these units are already in place. Finally, the Government has experienced no problems or difficulties in relating to employees in this two bargaining unit model. Therefore, I request that the Council REJECT the amendment. MCGEO/Local 400 agrees with the Executive's position.

V. Amendment #5
Subject: Agency Shop for Employees With Less Than 10 Years' Service
Executive's Position: Opposed

Comment:

This amendment would permit the employer and the employees' organization to negotiate over the subject of agency shop for all employees except those with more than ten years' service in the County Merit System. The comments in item IV above apply here with equal force. In addition, the amendment creates two classes of employees in relation to agency shop, imposes a record keeping requirement as to years of service upon the employer and lacks any sound, rational purpose. I request that the Council REJECT this Amendment. MCGEO/Local 400 agrees with the Executive's position.

VI. Amendment #6
Subject: All Pensions Non-Bargainable
Executive's Position: Opposed

Comment:

This amendment would eliminate negotiations over employee pensions, leaving the matter to be determined unilaterally by the Executive and the Council. Such a limitation on a significant economic issue is inconsistent with the broad scope of bargaining found throughout the Bill. Both the employer and the employee organization benefit by broad scope bargaining. The elimination of this sort of significant economic issue from the bargaining table hampers the process. I request that the Council REJECT this Amendment. MCGEO/Local 400 agrees with the Executive's position.

VII. Amendment #7
Subject: Advisory Grievance Abritration in all Cases Except Discipline and Discharge Cases.
Executive's Position: Opposed
Comment:

This amendment would make arbitration of all matters, except discharge and discipline, advisory unless the parties agree to binding arbitration. The experience with advisory grievance arbitration in comprehensive labor relations programs in other jurisdictions and sectors has not been good. Grievance procedures and grievance arbitrations are fundamentally dispute resolution procedures. Advisory arbitration fails to provide finality, and in those cases in which the employer fails or refuses to accept the arbitrator's advisory award, acrimony continues between the parties and further litigation usually results. From 1962 through the early 1970's, advisory arbitration was utilized in the Federal sector pursuant to Executive Order 10982 and Executive Order 11491, with unsatisfactory results. The practice was abandoned totally, and in 1975 broad scope grievance and binding arbitration became the rule pursuant to Executive Order 11491, as amended. Finally, the provision of Title VII of the Civil Service Reform Act of 1978, 5 USC section 7101, et seq made broad scope grievances and binding arbitration a statutory requirement in all collective bargaining agreements. I request that the Council REJECT this amendment. MCGEO/Local 400 agrees with the Executive's position.

VIII Amendment #8
Subject: Broader "Effects" Bargaining
Executive's Position: Opposed

Comment:

This amendment would greatly expand the scope of negotiations to include the subject of the effects of the exercise of a management right. The comments made in regard to 33-107(a)(7) above apply as to this amendment. The amendment would severely hamper the exercise of employer rights described in 33-107 (b). Indeed, it is forseeable that management would be prevented from acting at all if this amendment is adopted by the Council. The employer rights listed in 33-107 (b) of the Bill are narrow, traditional and essential management rights which are crucial to the sound and efficient operation of government. The amendment would tip the delicate balance of rights between the parties, creating, at the minimum, delay in the valid exercise of management right or worse, a paralysis in the employer's ability to manage, act and govern at all. I strongly oppose this, or any other effort to further limit the ability of the employer to validly exercise a management right. I request that the Council REJECT this amendment.

IX. Amendment #9
Subject: Short First Year Bargaining
Executive's Position: Opposed
Comment:

Upon certification of an employee organization, this amendment would require bargaining immediately over non-economic subjects only during the fiscal year in which the act, now a Bill, becomes effective.

This amendment is simply impractical due to timing of the legislative process. It is likely that the Bill will become law around the end of June, 1986. Thus, its effective date will be mid-August, 1986. Even if an employee organization were to be certified immediately, which is unlikely, short-term bargaining would not begin until mid-October, 1986. The bill provides for full-fledge bargaining to begin November 1, 1986, and each November 1, thereafter. Therefore, eliminating the need for such short term bargaining since the parties would be bargaining for a term of approximately two weeks or less. This result is not only impractical, it is wasteful. The amendment would establish a pointless obligation on the parties and require a meaningless exercise by the parties. I request that the Council REJECT this amendment.

X. Amendment #10
Subject: Right of the Union to Veto Reappointment of Labor Relations Administrator, But Not Formally Nominate Appointees.
Executive Position: Opposed

Comment:

This amendment would permit the certified employee representative to stop or "veto" the reappointment of the Labor Relations Administrator (LRA). The Bill provides for appointment of the LRA by the Executive with the advice and consent of the Council. The LRA position is a quasi-judicial neutral position which will require, in the fulfillment of the duties assigned, that the LRA administer the provisions of the statute. This charge or obligation may require that the LRA find, in his or her dispositions, against the employer or against the employee organization in matters presented and cases adjudicated. Therefore, it is unwise to permit either party "veto" power over reappointment. The Bill provides a viable and recognized appointment and confirmation procedure for the position, which is followed as a model for many other positions throughout the government. I request that the Council REJECT this amendment. MCGEO/Local 400 agrees with the Executive's position.

XI. Amendment #11
Subject: Council Participation in Nomination of Appointees
Executive's Position: Opposed

Comment:

This amendment would cause the nomination of the LRA to be a three party process involving the employee organization(s), the Chief Administrative Officer (CAO) and the Council. The appointment of the LRA pursuant to the current provisions of the Bill is accomplished by the Executive with the advice and consent, through confirmation by the Council. Thus, the Council has significant authority over the appointment through confirmation of the LRA. Excluding the Council leaves it freer to make an independent judgment on confirmation of a reappointment. Including the Council at the nomination phase unnecessarily complicates an administrative process which has been proven to be successful throughout government. I request that the Council REJECT the amendment.

XII. Amendment #12
Subject: Continuation of State Merit System Employees in Meet and Confer.
Executive's Position: Opposed

Comment:

This amendment would continue coverage of State Merit Employees under the "meet & confer" legislation which Bill No. 19-86 is intended to replace. The comments above concerning 33-102(4)(Q), Definitions, which excludes State Merit Employees from coverage by Bill No. 19-86, apply as to the amendment. It is inconsistent with the comprehensive nature of the labor relations program established by Bill No. 19-86 to continue to include State employees under "meet & confer". As detailed above, only conflict and confusion will result. I request that the Council REJECT the amendment.

XIII. Amendment #13 (Gelman)
Subject: Short First-Year Bargaining with Limited Scope of Subjects of Bargaining.
Executive's Position: Opposed

Comment:

The amendment is essentially the same as Amendment #9, infra, except the scope of the short term first-year bargaining would be limited to specific subjects. As I detailed above in my comment on Amendment #9, this amendment is impractical due to the schedule of the legislative process. I request that the Council REJECT the amendment.

The aggregate operating budget [excluding the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission, the bi-county portion of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission, and the Washington Suburban Transit Commission] which exceeds the aggregate operating budget for the preceding year by a percentage increase greater than that of the Consumer Price Index for all urban consumers for the Washington metropolitan area for the twelve months preceding [calendar] December first of each year, shall be approved by the affirmative vote of five Councilmembers. For the purposes of this limitation the aggregate operating budget shall exclude operating budgets for enterprise funds, the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission, the bi-county portion of the Maryland-National Park and Planning Commission, and the Washington Suburban Transit Commission. Prior to June 30, the Council shall make the tax levies deemed necessary to finance the budgets.

The ballot title shall be designated and read as follows:

"Question A.

Amend Section 305 of the County Charter to exempt the operating budgets of enterprise funds from the computation of the aggregate operating budget when making the determination as to whether the affirmative vote of five Councilmembers is required to approve the budget; to provide that the Consumer Price Index in the computation is computed for the twelve months preceding December first of each year; and to make a clarifying change."

II.

It is proposed to amend Section 401 of the County Charter and to add Section 511 to the County Charter to read as follows:

Officers and employees who are members of a unit for which a collective bargaining contract exists may be excluded from provisions of the merit system, only to the extent that such provisions are subject to collective bargaining pursuant to legislation enacted under Section 510 or Section 511 of this Charter. The merit system shall provide the means to recruit, select, develop, and maintain an effective, non-partisan, and responsive work force with personnel actions based on demonstrated merit and fitness. Salaries and wages of all classified employees in the merit system shall be determined pursuant to a uniform salary plan. The Council shall establish by law a system of retirement pay.

SECTION 511 Collective Bargaining - County Employees

MINORITY VIEWS

CHARTER REVIEW COMMISSION RECOMMENDATION B

A NEW SECTION 511 RE COLLECTIVE BARGAINING FOR COUNTY EMPLOYEES

The undersigned members of the Charter Review Commission wish to make known their views with respect to the Commission's Recommendation B endorsing a Charter amendment relating to collective bargaining for county employees not covered by Section 510 of the Charter. While we support the action of the Commission and applaud its unanimous, bipartisan decision to advance this Charter amendment, we are concerned that the language adopted in the amendment may not accomplish its implied objective.

In 1980, Montgomery County voters approved by an overwhelming majority a Charter amendment, -- Section 510 -- which declared that "the Montgomery County Council shall provide by law for collective bargaining with binding arbitration with an authorized representative of the Montgomery County police officers. Any law so enacted shall prohibit strikes or work stoppages by police officers."

As a result of this action, the subsequent enacting legislation was passed by the County Council, collective bargaining was entered into by County Government and the police and a contract was agreed subsequently upon. The undersigned believe that this process, which eventuated the achievement of collective bargaining rights, occurred solely because the voters had approved this charter amendment which had directed the County Council to pass the appropriate legislation.

However, the language now proposed by the Charter Review Commission in a new Section 511 may not effect this outcome. It provides only that the Montgomery Council "may provide by law for collective bargaining . . ." An effort by members of the Commission to amend Section 511 conform to the "shall provide" language of the existing Section 510 was defeated by a 6-5 roll call vote. The undersigned members of the Commission still advocate the inclusion of the "shall provide" language for several reasons.

First, Charter amendments adopted by the Charter Review Commission in theory and in practice have and should continue to advance specific public policy objective(s) with respect to change(s) in the Charter. Such objective(s), once approved by the County Council for submission to the voters, ask the electorate to pass judgement on the Commission's recommendation(s) in those areas where the Commission and the Council deem that revision of the Charter is either appropriate or necessary.

However, the proposed Section 511 amendment is deficient in this regard specifically with respect to the clarity of its public policy objective. The "may provide" language of the currently proposed is ambiguous and fails to offer the voters a clear choice on the public policy question of whether or not their county employees should have collective bargaining rights. We fear the electorate is very likely to believe that it is rendering a decision on the merits of this issue, as it did in 1980, only to find out that after it has cast its ballots that, in fact, the language of the Charter amendment does not guarantee county workers the statutory right to collective bargaining. That decision is left to the legislative discretion of the County Council by Section 511 as drafted.

While we believe it is appropriate to leave the formulation of the particulars of any subsequent collective bargaining statute to the County Council, it is a disservice to the electorate to have them cast their votes on a public policy matter of this magnitude and then, if it is approved, leave open the distinct possibility that its implementation would be denied by the County Council. The decision of the electorate then would have been circumvented and the Charter amendment process will have been, in this case, effectively reduced to an advisory referenda. This we feel is contrary to the purpose of the Charter Review process. We firmly believe, therefore, that recommendations of the Charter Review Commission ought to be unmistakeably clear with respect to the choice being offered to the voters and that such a choice assures implementation of a specific policy. In this respect, the recommendation of the Commission as now drafted is deficient.

Secondly, we that county employees are being treated somewhat disingenuously by the Charter Review Commission. Given both the exhaustive review of this policy question by this and previous Charter Review Commissions as well as the voter's overwhelming decision in 1980 on this issue, we feel the Commission has an obligation to our county employees to offer voters a decision on a Charter amendment which at a minimum embraces the economic rights already afforded another class of county workers namely, the police. Instead, we have offered them the illusion of collective bargaining and not the assurance that they will ultimately attain by law the right to collective bargaining. To hold out such false hopes is both a disservice to county employees and the voters who will decide this question.

Thirdly, it should be noted that since the voters approved a collective bargaining with binding arbitration for the police in 1980 as a charter amendment, that the Commission is now offering the voters a second, more broad-based decision on this matter -- applicable to the vast majority of other county employees -- which is a weaker statement of public support for the right of collective bargaining than that already approved by the voters. The undersigned believed the Charter Review Commission should provide at least the same policy choice in 1984 as that approved in 1980.

Finally, objection has been heard to the inclusion of the "shall provide" language on the basis that it provides a legislative directive to the County Council which exceeds the responsibility of the Charter Review Commission. The undersigned agree with the point of view that the Commission should not undertake legislative policymaking. However, the majority, which rejected the "shall provide" language, saw fit to do exactly that by incorporating language from Section 510 within the new Section 511 that prohibits "strikes or work stoppages." The undersigned believe that the inclusion of the "no strike" language does in fact interfere with the legislative discretion of the Council in providing for collective bargaining rights by specifiying the parameters of such a statute. We clearly understand, differentiate and respect the need to maintain the legislative discretion of the Montgomery County Council with respect to the Commission's public policy recommendation(s). Yet the majority on this question has seen fit to breach this principle with respect to their amendment to prohibit strikes. We seek here only to clarify for the record the inconsistency of the views offered by the majority in their opposition to the "shall provide" language.

In conclusion, the undersigned members of the Commission continue to support the inclusion of the "shall provide" language for the reasons herein stated. We request, therefore, that these views represent the minority viewpoint on Recommendation B.

APPROVED

COUNTY COUNCIL FOR MONTGOMERY COUNTY, MARYLAND

Thursday, July 26, 1984 Rockville, Md.

The County Council for Montgomery County, Maryland, convened in the Council Hearing Room, Stella B. Werner Council Office Building, Rockville, Maryland, at 9:47 A.M. on Thursday, July 26, 1984.

PRESENT

Esther P. Gelman, President
Rose Crenca
Scott Fosler
Michael L. Gudis, Vice President
Neal Potter
David L. Scull
William E. Hanna, Jr., President Pro Tem

The President in the Chair.

Re: Worksession on Charter Amendments, Petitions and Ballot Questions

The Council reviewed Charter amendments, petitions, and ballot questions in accordance with a memorandum of July 24, 1984 from Myriam Bailey, Office of Legislative Counsel. The Council began its review by considering recommendations of the Charter Review Commission.

Ballot Question A and Proposed Charter Amendment (Approval of the Budget) - This involves an amendment to Section 305 of the Charter which exempts the budgets of certain self-funding programs from the computation of the aggregate operating budget when determining whether an affirmative vote of five Councilmembers is required to approve the budget; provides that the Consumer Price Index shall be computed for the twelve months preceding December first of each year; and makes a clarifying change.

Councilman Potter directed attention to his proposed additional amendment to add the following language after the phrase "For the purposes of this limitation the aggregate operating budget":

> shall include all items for which appropriations were included in the operating budget of the preceding year

Mr. Potter said that his amendment has been discussed with the Office of Management and Budget. The amendment is proposed to ensure that the comparison from one year to the next truly reflects the increase in operating budget expenditures. He said that it might be helpful to add the following clarifying language:

> Unless an item has been shifted from the operating budget to the Capital Improvements Program or from the Capital Improvements Program to the operating budget, in which case the item shall be included, for purposes of calculating the percentage increase in the operating budget, in the aggregate budget or the CIP in the way in which it was included in the preceding year.

Mr. Norman Christeller, Chairman of the Montgomery County Planning Board, said that Mr. Potter's amendment attempts to remove the incentive to shift items from the operating budget to the Capital Improvements Program which should not be part of the CIP.

Councilman Hanna moved, duly seconded, deletion of the last sentence of the proposed Charter amendment:

> Also excluded from aggregate operating budgets for purposes of this limitation shall be the current receipts or accumulated revenues used to finance a part of the Capital Improvements Program.

Councilman Hanna, in moving to delete this sentence, said that anything that is placed in the budget and funded during the current fiscal year is part of the operating budget and should not be excluded.

Councilman Potter explained the need to compare similar items to understand the rise and decline of expenditures. He said a more accurate measure of real financial growth is needed.

Mr. Hanna said that it makes sense to have a reconciliation of the budget figures from year to year, but he is viewing this from an accountant's viewpoint and believes that standard rules should be followed.

Councilwoman Crenca stressed the need for consistency in whatever method is followed.

Mr. Treworgy said that the Office of Management and Budget supports Mr. Potter's amendment for comparability purposes.

Councilman Fosler expressed the view that the retention of the last sentence requires the clarifying language proposed by Mr. Potter.

Councilman Potter said that his amendment would ensure comparability and prevent the shifting of figures.

Councilman Hanna expressed the view that surplus funds should not be shifted to the capital budget because the budget is prepared on an annual basis and taxes should be levied accordingly. He urged the Council to support his motion to delete the last sentence of the Charter amendment.

Councilman Gudis expressed support for Mr. Potter's amendment, noting its desirability in helping the County maintain its triple A bond rating and its fiscal policy.

Councilman Scull expressed support for the Charter amendment without modification because the amendment has been reviewed and recommended by the Charter Review Commission. Mr. Scull said that he does not believe Mr. Potter's amendment is needed at this time because it introduces a new element about general revenue receipts funding and does not provide any benefit to the taxpayer.

Councilman Fosler noted that Mr. Potter's proposed amendment does not just address the last sentence but rather goes beyond it. He expressed the view that, if the last sentence is included in the proposed Charter amendment, Mr. Potter's sentence is needed. He said that he now agrees with Mr. Hanna that the last sentence of the Charter amendment will create a problem. He suggested that the last sentence be deleted and the clarifying language proposed by Mr. Potter be substituted.

Councilwoman Gelman suggested that a balance sheet be prepared to depict the funding changes which have occurred since the previous fiscal year. Council Staff Director Spengler said that this could be done but the level of detail has to be considered, as well as the definition of "item."

Councilman Potter, agreeing with Ms. Gelman's suggestion, said that the balance sheet would have to show the comparability being used to calculate the percentage increase from one year to the next. This could be accomplished by a footnote or be placed in the budget as it is presented by the County Executive.

Councilman Hanna reiterated his concern about the last sentence of the proposed Charter amendment, expressing the view that it will be misunderstood by the public. He noted that the City of Rockville prepares a reconciliation statement on the order of what is being discussed here. He believes that this is the proper form for setting forth an accurate funding comparison.

Councilman Gudis said that the Finance and Intergovernmental Committee has been attempting to address the problem of which items should be included in the capital budget and which ones in the operating budget. This past week, the FIN Committee discussed the fiscal policy question which is a related issue. Mr. Gudis explained that he supports the inclusion of the last sentence in the Charter amendment because the Charter will then provide for the exclusion of current receipts or accumulated revenues used to finance part of the Capital Improvements Program from the aggregate operating budgets. He said that he had objected to previous suggestions from the Office of Management and Budget regarding this procedure because the Charter did not contain this provision.

Councilmembers Hanna, Scull, Fosler, Crenca and Gelman voting in the affirmative and Councilmembers Potter and Gudis voting in the negative, the Council deleted the last sentence of the proposed Charter amendment for Section 305.

Councilman Potter said that it is even more important to prepare a table of comparable items from year to year since the Council has deleted the sentence relating to the exclusion of current receipts from the aggregate operating budget which are used for CIP projects.

Councilman Hanna moved that the Council, by policy resolution, require the County Executive to provide each year a reconciliation between the current fiscal year's budget and the projected fiscal year's budget, so that audit statements will be available for the public. There was no second to Mr. Hanna's motion.

Councilman Fosler proposed that the concept suggested by Mr. Hanna be included in the Charter, i.e. the inclusion of a statement that it shall be the responsibility of the County Executive to provide a reconciliation on funding shifts between the capital and operating budgets.

Councilman Gudis expressed the view that the Charter should not be encumbered with intricate management tools.

Councilman Fosler moved, duly seconded, to prepare a Charter amendment which would add a simple sentence calling for a reconciliation statement. He provided the following suggested language for the sentence:

> For the purposes of this limitation, a reconciliation table shall be provided in each year's budget showing the changes in the aggregate.

Without objection, the Council agreed to defer action on this motion to provide the opportunity for the preparation of language for the Charter amendment proposed by Mr. Fosler.

The Council then turned its attention to another amendment proposed by Mr. Potter, i.e. "All final budget actions shall be taken by roll-call vote of the Council."

Councilman Scull objected to the inclusion of this provision in the Charter because of the complications that arise when procedures such as this are included in a document as formal as the Charter. He noted that a roll call vote is called for in the State Constitution and is a cumbersome, time-consuming procedure. He said that he would be glad to work with Mr. Potter on an amendment to the Council's Rules of Procedures that would address this issue.

Councilman Potter noted that he believes a roll-call vote should be taken on all final budget actions in the same way that roll-call votes are taken on final actions on zoning issues and legislation. He suggested that the language could be amended to say that all final budget actions before May 15 shall be taken by roll-call vote of the Council.

Councilman Hanna said that he would not object to the amendment if it were construed to mean final budget actions. He suggested that the language be amended to say that action on the final annual budget shall be taken by roll-call vote of the Council.

Councilman Gudis said that he feels strongly about the Charter being the constitution of the County; it should not become a set of procedures. He said that he believes that the Council's Rules of Procedures should be amended to to require a roll-call vote on final budget actions or that legislation to this effect should be enacted.

Councilman Fosler said that he believes the language should be included in the Charter and suggested that Mr. Potter's proposed language could be amended to say that action on all final budget resolutions shall be taken by roll-call vote of the Council.

Mr. Spengler suggested that the Charter could be amended to say the Council shall by roll-call vote approve the budgets as amended.

President Gelman expressed the view that the setting of the tax rate should also be done by roll-call vote.

Without objection, the Council agreed to defer consideration of this issue to provide the opportunity for review and recommendation by a Council subcommittee composed of Councilmembers Scull and Potter.

Mr. Spengler directed attention to the Charter Review Commission's proposed Charter language for Section 305, noting that the word "fully" between "for" and "self-supporting" in the proposed language is used to describe enterprise funds which are not necessarily fully self-supporting.

Councilman Gudis moved, duly seconded, to delete the word [fully] between "for" and "self-supporting" in the Charter amendment.

Councilman Hanna suggested that the word "self-supporting" be deleted also. Mr. Gudis accepted Mr. Hanna's suggestion as an amendment to his motion.

Mr. Spengler said that accountants use the term "primarily" self-supporting. If it meets that test, it is considered an enterprise fund.

Councilman Potter moved, duly seconded, an amendment to Mr. Gudis' motion to substitute the word "primarily" for "fully."

Councilman Hanna said that, if the word "primarily" is used, it will have to be defined. In his opinion, it is simpler to say "enterprise funds" without any adjectives.

Councilmembers Potter and Fosler voting in the affirmative and Councilmembers Hanna, Gudis, Scull, Crenca and Gelman voting in the negative, the amendment to Mr. Gudis' motion failed for lack of a majority vote.

Without objection, the Council approved Mr. Gudis' motion, as amended, to delete the words [fully self-supporting].

Upon motion of Councilman Gudis, duly seconded and without objection, the Council agreed to delete [the Parking Lot districts] from the proposed Charter amendment for Section 305 of the Charter.

Ballot Question B and Proposed Charter Amendment (Collective Bargaining - County Employees - This involves an amendment to Section 401 of the Charter and the addition of a new Section 511 authorizing the Council to provide by law for collective bargaining.

President Gelman asked about the distinction between "mediation" and "arbitration." Mr. Newman said that mediation is a resolution of differences by an informal procedure, while arbitration is a resolution of differences by a formal procedure involving the issuance of a decision by an arbitrator. The question of whether the decision is binding or not depends upon the agreements reached by the parties involved. Councilman Fosler noted that "binding arbitration" is another term to be considered.

Councilman Hanna moved, duly seconded, to delete from the proposed Charter amendment for Section 511 the words [arbitration or other impasse resolution procedures] and to substitute mediation or non-binding arbitration.

Ms. Elizabeth Spencer, a member of the Charter Review Commission, said that the Charter Review Commission felt that the language in the Charter should be as broadly permissive as possible because the legislation enacted by the Council may be different for different groups.

President Gelman expressed the view that the language in the Charter amendment should be broad because it empowers the Council to enact legislation.

Councilman Hanna said that he prefers to restrict the law that may be enacted to provide for only non-binding arbitration.

Councilman Potter suggested that Mr. Hanna would only need to add the word "non-binding" before the word "arbitration" to accomplish his objective. Mr. Hanna accepted Mr. Potter's suggestion as an amendment to his motion.

Ms. Spencer pointed out that this will create a conflict with Section 510 of the Charter which provides for binding arbitration with an authorized representative of the Montgomery County police officers.

Mr. Geno Renne, President of the Montgomery County Government Employees' Organization (MCGEO), cited the need for equity among County employees. He said that, regardless of whether it is included in the Charter, the Council has the ultimate responsibility of deciding whether it will accept binding arbitration. He said that both of the groups represented by MCGEO are currently under "meet and confer", and that it was hoped that the Charter amendment would provide one system of arbitration for all employees. He said that binding arbitration is preferred because without it there will be inconsistency and uncertainty about how an impasse will be resolved.

Councilman Potter said that he believes binding arbitration would remove from the Council its authority to make the final decision. Noting that he believes that it might be appropriate in situations where strikes are prohibited, Mr. Potter raised objections to the language proposed for Section 511 that says that "any law so enacted shall prohibit strikes or work stoppages." He believes that the Charter amendment should provide some flexibility and balance. He noted that Section 510 prohibits strikes, but provides for binding arbitration.

Councilman Hanna said that he objects to relinquishing of the Council's responsibility to an arbitrator and believes that it could have negative results. He cited a case where employees negotiated an agreement under binding arbitration which called for salary increases which could not be met without a tax increase. He said that the court ruling in this case was that the only individuals who have the overall responsibility of the government are the elected officials; an arbitrator cannot remove those powers and demand something that is against the public interest. He said that he is in favor of collective bargaining for employees if this is what the employees wish.

Councilmembers Hanna and Scull voting in the affirmative and Councilmembers Gudis, Potter, Crenca, Fosler and Gelman voting in the negative, Mr. Hanna's motion to add non-binding before the word "arbitration" failed for lack of a majority vote.

With respect to the language which indicates that the authority for collective bargaining may be granted to authorized representatives of officers and employees of the County government not covered by Section 510, Mr. Renne pointed out that MCGEO cannot represent non-merit employees. He believes that the Council can address this issue through the legislation it enacts in this regard.

Councilman Potter moved to substitute the word may for "shall" before the word "prohibit" in the language proposed for Section 511. The motion failed for lack of a second. In making the motion, Mr. Potter said that he believes that the issue of prohibiting or permitting strikes could be addressed in legislation the Council enacts.

Mr. Renne requested that the record reflect MCGEO's opposition to the lack of flexibility in the Charter amendment for County employees.

Councilman Potter moved to delete the word [only] between "system" and "to" in the language proposed for Section 401. Following discussion, without objection, the Council agreed to amend this language by including a comma before the word "only", as suggested by Ms. Spencer.

Councilman Hanna raised a question about the language proposed for Section 401 that says that "officers and employees who are members of a unit for which a collective bargaining contract exists may be excluded from the provisions of the merit system." He expressed the view that employees should not have this choice. It was noted that collective bargaining may address only one of several benefits that County employees have under the merit system.

Councilman Hanna took issue with the word "authorize" in the second sentence of Ballot Question B. Following discussion, he requested the record to reflect that it is the Council's understanding that the authorization given to the County Council to provide by law for collective bargaining is enabling only.

Without objection, the Council approved Ballot Question B and the charter language proposed for Sections 401 and 511, as amended to include a comma before the word "only" in the language proposed for Section 401.

Ballot Question C and Proposed Charter Amendment (Council Legal Representative) - This involves the addition of Section 119 and an amendment to Section 213 of the Charter concerning the employment of separate legal counsel by the County Council.

The Council turned its attention to the County Attorney's suggested language for Ballot Question C.:

> Add Section 119 to the County Charter and amend Section 213 of the County Charter to authorize the County Council to employ or retain legal counsel to assist it in the exercise of its powers, without the consent of the County Attorney.

Councilman Gudis moved, duly seconded, to approve the language suggested by the County Attorney.

Councilman Scull expressed opposition to the suggested language, noting that the proposed amendments to the Charter clarify the existing practice, and the language should not be revised to make it sound as if a change is being made.

Councilman Fosler said that he believes the language suggested by the County Attorney is a clear and accurate statement of what the amendment would do. It does not say whether it is a change from what presently exists, but rather what the amendment will accomplish. He said that he is concerned with the language proposed by the Charter Review Commission for Ballot Question C because it seems to imply that there is no change when the amendment would change the existing practice of the County Council in obtaining the consent of the County Attorney for separate legal assistance.

Councilman Potter said that in the early seventies the language of the Charter was interpreted to mean that the County Attorney was the principal legal advisor for the County Council and that the Council could not hire an attorney independently. The Council succeeded in changing this through practice, receiving automatic consent to hire outside legal counsel for particular representations. Although he believes the proposed amendments are desirable, they connote a change from the present practice and should be so stated in the ballot question. Therefore, he prefers the language suggested by the County Attorney.

Councilman Hanna said that he believes a compromise between the two versions of Ballot Question C would be appropriate, suggesting that the language proposed by the Charter Review Commission be amended to include after the word "explicit" the words to clarify.

Councilman Scull said that he supports Mr. Hanna's suggestion. He is opposed to the language suggested by the County Attorney because it might be misinterpreted by the voters.

Councilwoman Crenca expressed the view that the Council had always had the understanding that it had to obtain permission from the County Attorney for separate legal counsel. She believes this has always been done, and that the Council's requests have never been denied. If it is true that the Council has always had this authority, there is no reason to include this question on the ballot.

Without objection, the Council agreed to defer further consideration of this issue until its meeting on Tuesday, July 31, 1984.

Ballot Question D and Proposed Charter Amendment (HOC Bonds Exception) - This involves an amendment to Section 312 to provide that housing revenue bonds issued by the Housing Opportunities Commission may be structured with substantially level debt service payments and payments of interest only during construction of projects financed with bonds and that a portion of the bonds issued may be sold as term bonds structured with mandatory sinking fund payments.

Councilman Potter suggested that the language in the question and the amendment be changed to substitute payments of interest only for the words [interest only payments]. Without objection, the Council approved this change.

Upon motion of Councilman Scull, duly seconded and without objection, the Council approved Ballot Question D and the amendment to Section 312, as amended.

Ballot Question E and Proposed Charter Amendment (Composition and Election of Councilmembers) - This involves an amendment to Section 102 of the Charter which has been petitioned to referendum, providing that five members of the Council shall be elected by voters of the Councilmanic district in which the member resides and that two members will be elected as members-at-large by voters of the entire County.

Councilman Fosler requested that the ballot question be given to a member of the Coalition for Representative Government for review to make certain it is an accurate interpretation of the proposed amendment.

Upon motion of Councilwoman Crenca, duly seconded and without objection, the Council approved Ballot Question E and the proposed amendment to Section 102.

With respect to Ballot Questions F, G and H and accompanying amendments, as more particularly set forth in Ms. Bailey's memorandum of July 24, 1984, Ms. Bailey said that these would be before the Council later if they are certified by the Supervisors of Elections.

(The meeting recessed at 12:26 and reconvened in the Third Floor Conference Room at 12:40 P.M.)

MEMORANDUM

October 27, 1983

TO: Montgomery County Charter Review Commission

FROM: Gino Renne, President, M.C.G.E.O.

SUBJECT: Collective Bargaining

I am Gino Renne, newly elected President of M.C.G.E.O., the recognized representative of twenty-three hundred County employees within the Office, Professional and Technical Units.

Collective bargaining with binding arbitration, agency shop, and a no strike clause is long overdue County employees currently excluded from this process. Since mid 1982, M.C.G.E.O. has had a labor relationship with the County under the provisions of Meet and Confer. Since then, and prior to, County employees have suffered reduced benefits, primarily in terms of Cost of Living Adjustments and yearly increments. R.I.F.'s are becoming more common. County employees are depicted in the media as an over-funded tax burden. In effect, things do not look promising for public employees. This of course is not the County's fault. It is the fault of every employee excluded from Collective Bargaining who is content with the current arrangement of Meet and Confer.

Since recently taking office, I cannot be overly critical of those persons in County Government who represent the interest of the County. I am confident they confer in good faith, and I am pleased with the sincere reception they have given M.C.G.E.O. I would simply like to state our position on this issue as I stated to Mr. Torgesen during our last Meet and Confer session--that Collective Bargaining be a top priority.

Allow me to explain what our concern is with Meet and Confer, and why we think we are entitled to Collective Bargaining.

First, under Meet and Confer the reality is that we request; and they decide. What they decide, is what goes. There is no third party to mediate any dispute or impasse. Basically, what we have is a relationship of paternalism. Generally known in labor circles as "we take care of our own however, we decide what's best." This concept is intellectually offensive to those who can think and reason for themselves regarding issues having impact on working conditions which currently prevail. By the same token, most of the criticism aimed at Collective Bargaining for public employees is based on the following assumptions:

1) Elected Officials should not bargain with employees on budget issues.

2) Collective Bargaining implies that tax dollars are at stake.

3) If Collective Bargaining is adopted, the taxpayers loose because workers will bargain for higher pay, which will ultimately inflate the budget.

Nothing could be further from the truth. Collective Bargaining would not make public workers fiscally irresponsible. No one knows better than us who pays our salaries, and who our bosses really are. We would be the last to place selfish interest to the detriment of the taxpayers. After all, public workers are taxpayers themselves.

In this same light, our electorate are among the most well informed and well educated in the country. I truly believe that the majority of the people in this county do not view Collective Bargaining as a fiscal threat.

In closing, we accept the fact that the Teachers and the Police have won Collective Bargaining as an effective tool to solve labor disputes. To deny other County employees the same consideration would be unjust and contrary to democratic principles.

MONTGOMERY COUNTY COUNCIL

SUMMARY OF BILL providing for COUNTY EMPLOYEE COLLECTIVE BARGAINING

Recommended by the Personnel Committee, 3/17/86, for Introduction 3/25/86

Introduction

This is a bill to permit County Government employees to engage in collective bargaining.

The bill takes its framework and most of its basic language from the police collective bargaining law. However, collective bargaining for County employees presents some different issues from the issues presented by collective bargaining for the police, and therefore the bill differs from the police law in several significant ways. Moreover, the language and format of the police law have been altered somewhat, in line with the Council's plain language rules and principles. The bill has not, however, been fully "plain languaged."

On several of the important issues, alternative proposals have been drafted as amendments to the bill, in order to assure that options are presented for public debate and Council choice.

The bill provides for two bargaining units, in large measure the same units (Service, Labor, and Trades and Office, Professional and Technical) now in existence under the meet and confer law. The bill further provides that there will be no unit of supervisors. An amendment offers the option that there will be only one unit of all eligible employees.

The bill provides for the use of fact-finding and recommendations by a mediator, instead of binding arbitration, when there is a bargaining impasse.

The bill permits the collective bargaining contract to contain an agency shop provision, with a proviso that any employee who objects to paying union dues or a service fee on religious grounds may substitute payment of the same amount of money to a charity. Amendments offer agency shop options (1) that no agency shop be permitted, and (2) that agency shop could only apply to employees who have not yet reached 10 years of service as of the effective date of the bill.

Key Provisions

1. Two bargaining units -- (Service Labor, and Trades [SLT] and Office, Professional, and Technical [OPT] units), with certain exclusions; no supervisory unit. [Sections 33-102(4), 105, 106].

Amendment: Single unit of all employees. [Amendment #1].

2. Exclusions from the bargaining units: The employees excluded from the collective bargaining units are in most respects the same as those excluded from the meet and confer units. There have, however, been some additions to the list of those excluded from the units, principally all employees in the Office of the County Executive and the Office of the CAO, all County Council employees, officers in the uniformed services in the rank of sergeant and above, State Merit System employees, all persons in Grade 27 or above, temporary employees, and newly hired employees on probationary status. [Section 33-102(4)].

3. Choice of Collective Bargaining Representative [Section 33-106].

The draft provides for an election in which the employees may express their desires with respect to collective bargaining. The bill further provides that a majority of those voting will determine the outcome. An amendment provides that a majority of the unit must participate in the election for the result to be determinative. [Amendment #2].

The bill also provides an alternative to an election, which is that the Labor Relations Administrator may accept cards or petitions signed by a majority of the employees designating the incumbent meet and confer Union as the bargaining representative, unless another Union, or 10% of the employees in the unit, have petitioned for an election. An amendment provides that the only method of choice shall be an election. [Amendment #3].

4. Subjects of Bargaining [Section 33-107(a)].

A. Salaries and wages; hours and working conditions; health and safety.

B. Agency Shop, with religious exception (from state teacher law).

Amendments: (1) No agency shop is permissible, or (2) agency shop is permissible only for new employees and employees who have not reached 10 years service as of the effective date of the bill. [Amendments #s 4 & 5].

C. Pensions: (1) The bill states the County must bargain only about defined-contribution pension plans for new employees and for current employees who may choose to switch from their existing defined-benefit plan to a defined-contribution plan. Such bargaining would not occur unless and until the County enacts a law establishing a defined-contributon plan for new employees. The existing defined-benefit plans for current employees would not be subject to bargaining.

Amendment: No bargaining on pensions. [Amendment #6].

D. Binding grievance arbitration.

Amendment: Binding grievance arbitration for discipline and discharge cases only; for other cases arbitration is advisory only, unless the parties agree the decision in a particular case will be binding. [Amendment #7].

E. "Effects" bargaining. The bill does not import the provision of the police law which mandates bargaining about "the effect on employees of management's exercise" of all its management rights. The bill confines "effects" bargaining to bargaining about effects on employees when the exercise of management rights causes the loss of bargaining unit jobs. An amendment uses the police law's broad "effects" bargaining language. [Amendment #8].

5. Management rights [Section 33-107(b)]. The bill adds more detail to the management rights section than is in the police law. Note: One of the stated management rights is the right to contract out, modified by a proviso that no contracting of work which will displace employees may be undertaken by the County without 90 days notice to the Union.

6. Bargaining impasse to be broken with fact-finding, not binding arbitration [Section 33-108]. The fact-finder makes recommendations on disputed issues. Parties bargain 10 more days. If full agreement is not reached, Council gets recommendations of fact-finder and both parties, participates in final bargaining as in police law, and has the final say as in police law.

7. Timing of bargaining [Section 33-108]. Under the bill, bargaining would commence no later than November 1, 1986, if a Union is certified as the bargaining representative. Therefore, bargaining would start with the present Executive, and finish with the new Executive and the new Council. Under this schedule the first contract would be effective July 1, 1987. An amendment provides for bargaining of a short contract for 1986-87 that would contain only non-economic items. [Amendment #9].

8. Labor Relations Administrator [Section 33-103]. This official, appointed by the Executive and confirmed by the Council, conducts elections and judges "prohibited practices", as in police law. The initial term of the LRA is four years. Further terms are five years. The Union is able, if it chooses, to veto the LRA's reappointment. An amendment gives the Union a formal role in the appointment process. [Amendment #10].

9. Mandated 75% cost-of-living law is repealed for all County government personnel if and when the employees eligible for collective bargaining choose a Union pursuant to the new law. [p. 5 of bill].

10. Meet and confer stays on books for now, but would become inapplicable if and when employees choose a Union pursuant to the new law. [p. 4 of bill]. An amendment provides that State merit system employees, who are excluded from collective bargaining under the bill, would keep meet and confer rights. [Amendment #12].

33-11. Classification; salary and wage plans.

(b) Uniform salary plan. [[There is hereby established for all classes of positions in the merit system a uniform salary plan entitled the "general salary schedule" which shall contain grades, salary rates and ranges for each grade. All positions involving comparable duties, experience, responsibilities and authority shall be paid comparable salaries in accordance with the relative value of the services performed. (4)

Article VII. County Collective Bargaining.

33-101. Declaration of policy.

It is the public policy of Montgomery County to promote a harmonious, peaceful, and cooperative relationship between the County government and its employees and to protect the public by assuring, at all times, the responsive, orderly, and efficient operation of County government and services. Since unresolved disputes in public service are harmful to the public and to employees, adequate means should be available for preventing disputes and for resolving them when they occur. To that end, it is in the public interest that employees have the opportunity to bargain collectively over wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment, as authorized by Charter Section 511, through a representative of their choice, or to refrain from collective bargaining. It is also in the public interest that the County government and a representative of County employees bargain collectively in good faith without interference with the orderly process of government and that they implement any agreements reached through collective bargaining.

The County Council also recognizes that employee organizations and the County government each possess substantial means for initiating actions on wages, hours, and working conditions of employees. Therefore, in order to preserve an appropriate balance between labor and management in the public service, the County Council states that once the employees voluntarily select a representative, collective bargaining shall be used in place of, and not in addition to, existing means for initiating governmental action on subjects that are defined as appropriate for collective bargaining in this article.

33-102. Definitions.

The following terms have the meaning indicated when used in this article:

(1) "Agency shop" means a provision in a collective bargaining agreement requiring, as a condition of continued employment, that bargaining unit employees pay a service fee not greater than the monthly membership dues uniformly and regularly required by the employee organization of all of its members. An agency shop agreement shall not require an employee to pay initiation fees, assessments, fines, or any other collections or their equivalent as a condition of continued employment. A collective bargaining agreement shall not require payment of a service fee by any employee who opposes joining or financially supporting an employee organization on religious grounds. The Labor Relations Administrator shall exercise the following powers and perform the following duties and functions:

(1) Periodically adopt, amend, and rescind, under method (1) of section 2A-15 of this Code, regulations and procedures for the implementation and administration of the duties of the Labor Relations Administrator under this article.

(4) Hold and conduct elections for certification or decertification pursuant to the provisions of this article and issue the certification or decertification.

(5) Investigate and attempt to resolve or settle, as provided in this article, charges of engaging in prohibited practices. However, if the employer and a certified representative have negotiated a valid grievance procedure, the Labor Relations Administrator shall defer to that procedure for the resolution of disputes properly submissible to the procedure absent a showing that the deferral results in the application of principles repugnant to this article. Furthermore, the Labor Relations Administrator shall defer to State procedures in those matters which are governed by the Law-Enforcement Officers' Bill of Rights, Article 27, Sections 727-734D, Annotated Code of Maryland.

(6) Determine unresolved issues of a person's inclusion in or exclusion from the units.

(7) Obtain any necessary support services and make necessary expenditures in the performance of duties to the extent provided for these purposes in the annual budget of Montgomery County.

(8) Exercise any other powers and perform any other duties and

(2) The first Labor Relations Administrator is appointed by the County Executive, with the confirmation of the County Council, serves for a term of 4 years, and is eligible for reappointment.

(3) After the initial term of office of the Labor Relations Administrator provided in subsection (b)(2), the County Executive shall thereafter appoint the Labor Relations Administrator for a term of 5 years from a list of 5 nominees agreed upon by any certified employee representative(s) and the Chief Administrative Officer, which list may include the incumbent Labor Relations Administrator. Such appointment must be confirmed by the County Council. If the County Council does not confirm the appointment, the new appointment shall be from a new agreed list of 5 nominees. Should there be no certified representative, the Labor Relations Administrator shall be appointed under the procedure and for the term set forth in subsection (b)(2).

(c) The Labor Relations Administrator will be paid a daily fee as set forth by contract with the County, and will be reimbursed for necessary expenses.

33-104. Employee rights.

(1) form, join, support, contribute to, or participate in, or to refrain from forming, joining, supporting, contributing to, or participating in, any employee organization or its lawful activities; and

(2) be represented fairly by their certified representative, if any.

(b) The employer has the duty to extend to the certified representative the exclusive right to represent the employees for the purposes of collective bargaining, including the orderly processing and settlement of grievances as agreed by the parties in accordance with this article.

(c) A certified representative serves as the bargaining agent for all employees in the unit for which it is certified and has the duty to represent fairly and without discrimination all employees in the unit without regard to whether the employees are members of the employee organization, pay dues or other contributions to it, or participate in its affairs. However, it is not a violation of this duty for a certified representative to seek enforcement of an agency shop provision in a valid collective bargaining agreement.

(d) The right of a certified representative to receive voluntary dues or service fee deductions or agency shop provisions shall be determined through negotiations, unless the authority to negotiate these provisions has been suspended under this article. A collective bargaining agreement may not include a provision requiring membership in, participation in the affairs of, or contributions to an employee organization other than an agency shop provision.

33-105. Units for collective bargaining.

(a) There are two units for collective bargaining and for purposes of certification and decertification. Persons in these units are all County government merit system employees working on a continuous full-time, career or part-time, career basis, excluding the categories listed as exceptions to the definition of employee in section 33-102(4) of this article. The employees are divided into 2 units in accordance with the following descriptions:

(1) Service, labor, and trades (SLT) unit. This unit is composed of all eligible classes that are associated with service/ maintenance and skilled crafts. This means job classes in which workers perform duties that result in or contribute to the comfort and convenience of the general public or that contribute to the upkeep and care of buildings, facilities, or grounds of public property. Workers in this group may operate specialized machinery or heavy equipment. These job classes may also require special manual skill and a thorough and comprehensive knowledge of the processes involved in the work that is acquired through on the job training and experience or through apprenticeship or other formal training programs.

(2) Office, professional, and technical (OPT) unit. This unit is composed of all eligible classes associated with office, professional, paraprofessional, and technical functions.

(A) Office. Job classes in which workers are responsbile for internal and external communication, recording and retrieval of data and/or information, and other paperwork required in an office.

(B) Professional. Job classes that require special and theoretical knowledge that is usually acquired through college training or through work experience and other training that provides comparable knowledge.

(C) Paraprofessional. Job classes in which workers perform, in a supportive role, some of the duties of a professional or technician. These duties usually require less formal training and/or experience than is normally required for professional or technical status.

(D) Technical. Job classes that require a combination of basic scientific or technical knowledge and manual skill that can be obtained through specialized post secondary school education or through equivalent on the job training.

(b) Specific job classes included in these units of representation, and not otherwise excluded under section 33-102(4), shall be based on the designations made by the Chief Administrative Officer under the prior meet and confer process. In the event a new classification is created by the County, or an existing classification's duties and responsibilities are substantially changed, the County Personnel Director must place the classification in one of the units or state that the classification falls within one of the exceptions to the definition of employee under this article within 60 days of the creation or substantial alteration of the class and must publish the decision in the Montgomery County Register. Any individual or certified representative disagreeing with the decision of the Personnel Director may, within 10 days of publication, file objections to the decision with the Labor Relations Administrator, with notice to the Personnel Director.

The Labor Relations Administrator shall promptly decide the question on the basis of the duties and responsibilities of the job classification, the unit definition, and the community of interests between and among employees in the job classification and collective bargaining unit.

33-106. Selection, certification, and decertification procedures.

(a) The certification or decertification of an employee organization as the representative of a unit for the purpose of collective bargaining shall be initiated in accordance with the following procedures:

(1) Any employee organization seeking certification as representative of a unit shall file a petition with the Labor Relations Administrator stating its name, address, and its desire to be certified. The employee organization shall also send a copy of the petition, not including the names of the supporting employees, to the employer. The petition shall contain the uncoerced signatures of 30 percent of the employees within the unit signifying their desire to be represented by the employee organization for purposes of collective bargaining.

(2) If an employee organization has been certified, an employee within the unit may file a petition with the Labor Relations Administrator for decertification of this certified representative. The employee shall also send a copy of the petition to the employer and the certified representative, not including the names of the supporting employees. The petition shall contain the uncoerced signatures of 30 percent of the employees within the unit alleging that the employee organization presently certified is no longer the choice of the majority of the employees in the unit.

(3) Petitions may be filed within 30 days following the date on which this article becomes effective. Thereafter, if a lawful collective bargaining agreement is not in effect, petitions may be filed between September 1 and September 30 of any year, but not sooner than 22 months after an election held under this section.

(4) If a lawful collective bargaining agreement is in effect, a petition filed under this section shall not be entertained unless it is filed during September of the final year of the agreement.

(b) If the Labor Relations Administrator determines that a petition is properly supported and timely filed, she shall cause an election of all eligible employees to be held within a reasonable time, but no later than October 20 of any year, to determine if and by whom the employees wish to be represented, as follows:

(1) All elections shall be conducted under the supervision of the Labor Relations Administrator and shall be conducted by secret ballot at the time and place that she directs. The Labor Relations Administrator may select and retain the services of an agency of the State of Maryland, or a similarly neutral body, to assist in conducting the election.

(2) The election ballots shall contain, as choices to be made by the voter, the names of the petitioning or certified employee organization, the name or names of any other employee organization showing written proof at least 10 days before the election of at least 10 percent representation of the employees within the unit, and a choice that the employee does not desire to be represented by any of the named employee organizations.

(3) The employer and each party to the election may be represented by observers selected in accordance with limitations and conditions that the Labor Relations Administrator may prescribe.

(4) Observers may challenge for good cause the eligibility of any person to vote in the election. Challenged ballots shall be impounded pending either agreement of the parties as to the validity of the challenge or the Labor Relations Administrator's decision as to the validity of the challenge, unless the number of challenges is not determinative, in which case the challenged ballots shall be destroyed.

(5) After the polls have been closed, the valid ballots cast shall be counted by the Labor Relations Administrator in the presence of the observers.

(6) The Labor Relations Administrator shall immediately prepare and serve upon the employer and each of the parties a report certifying the results of the election. If an employee organization receives the votes of a majority of the employees who voted, the Labor Relations Administrator shall certify the employee organization so elected as the exclusive agent.

(7) If no employee organization receives the votes of a majority of the employees who voted, the Labor Relations Administrator shall not certify a representative. Unless a majority of the employees who vote choose "no representative", a runoff election shall be conducted. The runoff election shall contain the 2 choices that received the largest and second largest number of votes in the original election.

(c) The Labor Relations Administrator's certification of results is final unless within 7 days after service of the report and the certification, any party serves on all other parties and files with the Labor Relations Administrator objections to the election. Objections shall be verified and shall contain a concise statement of facts constituting the grounds for the objections. The Labor Relations Administrator shall investigate the objections and, if substantial factual issues exist, shall hold a hearing. Otherwise, she may determine the matter without a hearing. The Labor Relations Administrator may invite, either by rule or by invitation, written or oral argument to assist her in determining the merits of the objections. If the Labor Relations Administrator finds that the election was conducted in substantial conformity with this article, she shall confirm the certification initially issued. If the Labor Relations Administrator finds that the election was not held in substantial conformity with this article, then she shall hold another election under this section.

(d) The cost of conducting an election shall be paid by the County.

(e) If, during the 30 days following the effective date of this article, a petition is filed by the incumbent representative of unit employees certified under Article IV of this chapter, and no other employee organization files a valid petition, and no petition calling for an election signed by 10 percent of unit employees has been filed with the Labor Relations Administrator, the incumbent certified representative shall be certified without an election, provided it produces evidence, acceptable to the Labor Relations Administrator and dated after the enactment of this article, that a majority of the employees in the unit desire to be represented by the incumbent representative for the purposes of collective bargaining under the provisions of this article.

33-107. Collective bargaining.

(a) Duty to bargain; matters subject to bargaining.

Upon certification of an employee organization, the employer and the certified representative have the duty to bargain collectively with respect to the following subjects:

(1) Salary and wages, including the increase and/or decrease in the salary and wages budget, and the percentage of any increase in the salary and wages budget that will be devoted to merit increments and cash awards, provided that salaries and wages shall be uniform for all employees in the same classification.

(2) With respect to pension and retirement benefits, only defined-contribution plans for new employees or current employees who choose to transfer from a defined-benefit plan, provided that bargaining rights regarding such plans will not accrue unless and until the County has enacted a law establishing such plans.

(3) Employee benefits such as insurance, leave, holidays, and vacations, but not including pension and retirement benefits except to the extent stated in subsection (a)(2).

(4) Hours and working conditions.

(5) Provisions for the orderly processing and settlement of grievances concerning the interpretation and implementation of a collective bargaining agreement, which may include:

(B) provisions for exclusivity of forum.

(6) Matters affecting the health and safety of employees.

(7) Amelioration of the effect on employees when the exercise of employer rights listed in subsection (b) causes a loss of existing jobs in the unit.

(b) Employer rights.

This article and any agreement made under it shall not impair the right and responsibility of the employer to perform the following:

(5) Direct and supervise employees.

(8) Take actions to carry out the mission of government in situations of emergency.

(9) Transfer, assign, and schedule employees.

(10) Determine the size, grades, and composition of the work force.

(11) Set the standards of productivity and technology.

(16) Maintain internal security standards.

(17) Create, alter, combine, contract out, or abolish any job classification, department, operation, unit, or other division or service, provided that no contracting of work which will displace employees may be undertaken by the employer unless 90 days prior to signing the contract written notice has been given to the certified representative.

(18) Suspend, discharge, or otherwise discipline employees for cause, except that, subject to Charter section 404, any such action may be subject to the grievance procedure set forth in the collective bargaining agreement.

(19) Issue and enforce rules, policies, and regulations necessary to carry out these and all other managerial functions which are not inconsistent with this law, Federal or State law, or the terms of the collective bargaining agreement.

(c) Exemption.

This article shall not be construed to limit the discretion of the employer voluntarily to discuss with the representatives of its employees any matter concerning the employer's exercise of any of the rights set forth in this section. However, these matters shall not be subject to bargaining.

(d) The public employer rights set forth in this section are to be considered a part of every agreement reached between the employer and an employee organization.

33-108. Bargaining, impasse, fact-finding, and legislative procedures.

(a) Collective bargaining shall begin no later than November 1 before the beginning of a fiscal year for which there is no agreement between the employer and the certified representative and shall be finished on or before January 15. The resolution of a bargaining impasse or fact-finding shall be finished by February 1.

(b) Any provision for automatic renewal or extension of a collective bargaining agreement is void. An agreement is not valid if it extends for less than one year or for more than 3 years. All agreements become effective July 1 and end June 30.

(c) A collective bargaining agreement becomes effective only after ratification by the employer and by the certified representative. The certified representative may provide its own rules for ratification procedures.

(d) Before November 10 of any year in which the employer and the certified representative bargain collectively, the Labor Relations Administrator shall appoint a mediator/fact-finder, who may be a person recommended to her by both parties. The mediator/fact-finder shall be available during the period from January 2 to February 1. Fees and expenses of the mediator/fact-finder shall be shared equally by the employer and the certified representative.

(e) (1) During the course of collective bargaining, either party may declare an impasse and request the services of the mediator/fact-finder, or the parties may jointly request his services before declaration of an impasse. If the parties do not reach an agreement by January 15, an impasse exists.

(2) The dispute shall be submitted to the mediator/fact-finder whenever an impasse has been reached, or before that as provided in subsection (e)(1). The mediator/fact-finder shall engage in mediation by bringing the parties together voluntarily under such favorable circumstances as will tend to bring about the settlement of the dispute.

(3) If and when the mediator/fact-finder finds in his sole discretion that the parties are at a bona fide impasse, he shall implement the following fact-finding process:

(A) He shall require the parties to submit jointly a memorandum of all items previously agreed upon, and separate memoranda of their proposals on all items not previously agreed upon.

(B) He may require the parties to submit evidence or make oral or written argument in support of their proposals. He may hold a hearing for this purpose at a time, date, and place selected by him. This hearing shall not be open to the public.

(C) On or before February 1, the mediator/fact-finder shall issue a report of his findings of fact and recommendations on those matters still in dispute between the parties. The report shall be submitted to the parties but shall not be made public at this time.

(D) In making findings of fact and recommendations, the mediator/fact-finder may take into account only the following factors:

(i) Past collective bargaining agreements between the parties, including the past bargaining history that led to the agreements, or the pre-collective bargaining history of employee wages, hours, benefits, and working conditions.

(ii) Comparison of wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of similar employees of other public employers in the Washington Metropolitan Area and in Maryland.

(iii) Comparison of wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of other Montgomery County personnel.

(iv) Wages, benefits, hours, and other working conditions of similar employees of private employers in Montgomery County.

(v) The interest and welfare of the public.

(vi) The ability of the employer to finance economic adjustments and the effect of the adjustments upon the normal standard of public services provided by the employer.

(f) After receiving the report of the mediator/fact-finder, the parties shall meet again to bargain. If 10 days after the parties receive the report they have not reached full agreement, or if either party does not accept, in whole or in part, the recommendations of the mediator/fact-finder, the report of the mediator/fact-finder shall be made public by sending it to the Council. The mediator/fact-finder shall also send the Council the joint memorandum of items agreed upon, up-dated with any items later agreed upon. The parties shall also send to the Council separate memoranda stating their positions on matters still in dispute.

(g) The budget that the employer submits to the Council shall include the items that have been agreed to, as well as the employer's position on matters still in dispute. Any agreed term or condition submitted to the Council that requires an appropriation of funds or the enactment, repeal, or modification of any County law or regulation shall be identified to the Council by the employer. The employer shall make a good faith effort to have any term or condition that has been agreed to implemented by Council action.

(h) The Council may hold a public hearing to enable the parties and the public to testify on the agreement and the recommendations for resolving bargaining disputes.

(i) On or before April 15, the Council shall indicate by a majority vote its intention to appropriate or otherwise implement the items that have been agreed to, or its intention not to do so, and shall state its reasons for any intent to reject any part of the items that have been agreed to. The Council shall also indicate by a majority vote its positic.. on disputed matters.

(j) Then the Council shall designate a representative to meet with the parties and present the Council's views in the parties' further negotiations on disputed matters and/or agreed matters that the Council has indicated its intention to reject. The results of the negotiation, whether a complete or a partial agreement, shall be submitted to the Council on or before May 1. The Council may extend this deadline for no more than one week. Any agreement shall provide for automatic reduction or elimination of wage and/or benefits adjustments if:

(1) the Council does not take action necessary to implement the agreement, or a part of it;

(2) funds are not appropriated; or

(3) lesser amounts than those stated in the agreement are appropriated.

(k) The Council shall take whatever actions it considers required by the public interest with respect to matters still in dispute between the parties. However, those actions shall not be part of the agreement between the parties unless the parties specifically incorporate them in the agreement.

33-109. Prohibited practices.

(a) The employer or its agents or representatives are prohibited from any of the following:

(1) Interfering with, restraining, or coercing employees in the exercise of any rights granted to them under this article.

(2) Dominating or interfering with the formation or administration of any employee organization or contributing financial or other support to it, under an agreement or otherwise. However, the employer and a certified representative may agree to and apply an agency shop provision under this article and a voluntary dues or service fee deduction provision, and may agree to reasonable use of County facilities for communicating with employees.

(3) Encouraging or discouraging membership in any employee organization by discriminating in hiring, tenure, wages, hours, or conditions of employment. However, nothing in this article precludes an agreement from containing a provision for an agency shop.

(4) Discharging or discriminating against a public employee because she or he files charges, gives testimony, or otherwise lawfully aids in the administration of this article.

(5) Refusing to bargain collectively with the certified representative.

(6) Refusing to reduce to writing or refusing to sign a bargaining agreement that has been agreed to in all respects.

performed nor to be performed.

(c) A charge of prohibited practice may be filed by the employer, an employee organization, or any individual employee. The charge or charges shall be filed with the Labor Relations Administrator, and copies shall be sent to the party alleged to have committed a prohibited practice. All charges shall contain a statement of facts sufficient to enable the Labor Relations Administrator to investigate the charge. The Labor Relations Administrator may request withdrawal of and, if necessary, summarily dismiss charges if they are insufficiently supported in fact or in law to warrant a hearing. The Labor Relations Administrator has the authority to maintain whatever independent investigation she determines is necessary and to develop regulations for an independent investigation. If, upon investigation, the Labor Relations Administrator finds that a charge is sufficiently supported to raise an issue of fact or law, she shall, if she is unable to achieve settlement or resolution of the matter, hold a hearing on the charge after notification to the parties. In any hearing, charging parties shall present evidence in support of the charges, and the party or parties charged shall have the right to file an answer to the charges, to appear in person or otherwise and to present evidence in defense against the charges.

(d) If the Labor Relations Administrator determines that the person charged has committed a prohibited practice, she shall make findings of fact and conclusions of law and may issue an order requiring the person charged to cease and desist from the prohibited practice, and may take affirmative actions that will remedy the violation of this article. Remedies of the Labor Relations Administrator include reinstating employees with or without back pay, making employees whole for any loss relating to County employment suffered as a result of any prohibited practices, or withdrawing or suspending the employee organization's authority to negotiate or continue an agency shop provision or a voluntary dues or service fee deduction provision. If the Labor Relations Administrator finds that the party charged has not committed any prohibited practices, she shall make findings of fact and conclusions of law and issue an order dismissing the charges.

(e) The Labor Relations Administrator shall not receive or entertain charges based upon an alleged prohibited practice occurring more than 6 months before the filing of the charge.

33-110. Expression of views.

(a) The expression or dissemination of any views, argument, or opinion, whether orally, in writing, or otherwise, does not constitute and is not evidence of a prohibited practice under any of the provisions of this law, nor is it grounds for invalidating any election conducted under this law if the expression or dissemination does not contain a threat of reprisal or promise of benefit.

(b) Recognizing an employee organization does not preclude the County from dealing with religious, social, fraternal, professional, or other lawful associations with respect to matters or policies that involve individual members of the associations or are of particular applicability to it or its members.

33-111. Strikes and lockouts.

(a) An employee or employee organization shall not either directly or indirectly cause, instigate, encourage, condone, or engage in any strike, nor the employer in any lockout. An employee or employee organization shall not obstruct, impede, or restrict, either directly or indirectly, any attempt to terminate a strike.

(b) The employer shall not pay, reimburse, make whole, or otherwise compensate any employee for or during the period when that employee is directly or indirectly engaged in a strike, nor shall the employer thereafter compensate an employee who struck for wages or benefits lost during the strike.

(c) If an employee or employee organization violates the provisions of this section, the employer, after adequate notice and a fair hearing before the Labor Relations Administrator who finds that the violations have occurred and finds that any or all of the following actions are necessary in the public interest, may impose any of the following sanctions, subject to the Law-Enforcement Officers' Bill of Rights, Article 27, Sections 727-734D, Annotated Code of Maryland:

(2) Terminate or suspend the employee organization's dues deduction privilege, if any.

(3) Revoke the certification of and disqualify the employee organization from participation in representation elections for a period up to a maximum of 2 years.

(d) This article does not prohibit an employer or a certified employee organization from seeking any remedy available in a court of competent jurisdiction.

33-112. Effect of prior enactments.

Any laws, executive orders, or regulations adopted by the County and any department or agenc[illegible]f the County that are or may b[illegible]onsidered inconsistent with the provisions of this article shall not be held to be repealed or modified until they are specifically repealed or modified by the County or any department or agency of the County.

LEGISLATIVE REQUEST REPORT

Bill 19-86
County Employee Collective Bargaining

DESCRIPTION: This bill:

(1) establishes a framework for public employer-employee labor relations;
(2) provides the method for designating an employee organization as the exclusive representative of public employees in the appropriate unit;
(3) provides procedures for collective bargaining of wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment;
(4) provides for the appointment of a labor relations administrator;
(5) defines the rights of employees, employee organizations, and the public employer;
(6) prohibits certain conduct;
(7) provides procedures for resolving differences between the public employer and employees; and
(8) generally assures uninterrupted operation of government services.

PROBLEM: Under Article IV of Chapter 33 (Personnel) eligible employees presently "meet and confer" with the County through their representative. However, County law does not implement the authority for collective bargaining found in the 1984 Charter amendments in §511.

GOALS AND OBJECTIVES: It is the public policy of Montgomery County to promote a harmonious, peaceful, and cooperative relationship between the County government and its employees and to protect the public by assuring, at all times, the responsive, orderly, and efficient operation of County government and services.

(7:37 p.m.)

MR. HANNA: Good evening, ladies and gentlemen. This is a public hearing on Legislative Bill 19-86, County Employee Collective Bargaining, an act to (1) establish the framework for public employer-employee labor relations; (2) provide the method for designating an employee organization as the exclusive representative of public employees in the appropriate unit; (3) provide procedures for collective bargaining of wages, hours and other terms and conditions of employment; (4) provide for the appointment of a labor relations administrator; (5) define the rights of employees, employee organizations and the public emloyer; (6) prohibit certain conduct; (7) provide procedures for resolving differences between the public employer and employees; (8) generally assure uninterrupted operation of government services; and (9) generally provide for the establishment of County employee collective bargaining.

At the conclusion of the hearing, the record will be kept open for two weeks. The Council has scheduled work sessions on the bill beginning, hopefully, May 29th.

So, okay, the ground rules are as follows.

We go by a system of lights. We have two microphones. I'll ask two people to, the speaker and the one following, to come to the bench up here. If you're the speaker, please give your name, the organization you represent if you do represent one, and your address. And you have had times assigned to you, either as five minutes for an organization or three minutes for an individual. And we operate according to the lights. When you have 30 seconds left of your time, the amber light will go on. When your time is up, the red light will go on. And I would ask when the red light goes on that you finish the sentence you're in the middle of and stop. Otherwise, I will stop you, and you won't like that and I don't like to do it either. But we do have a large number of speakers. And so in order that we run it as efficiently as possible, I'd appreciate your cooperation.

With that, the first two speakers are William Garrett and followed by William Thompson.

Good evening, Mr. Garrett.

MR. GARRETT: Good evening, sir.

MR. HANNA: At your --

MR. GARRETT: Are you going to give me a que or --

MR. HANNA: Take it away!

MR. GARRETT: Mr. President and members of the Council, my name is William Garrett. I'm Personnel Director for Montgomery County Government. And I've been requested by the County Executive, Mr. Charles Gilchrist, to present his views on Bill No. 19-86, County Employee Collective Bargaining.

The voters of Montgomery County adopted Section 511 of the County Charter in November of 1984 permitting the County Council to provide by law for collective bargaining for County employees not otherwise covered.

The introduction of Bill 19-86 complies with this Charter language and represents a significant milestone in personnel administration and labor relations in the County Government.

Formal presentation of employees by employee organizations is not new to the County Government. The County's Employer-employee Relations Act, commonly referred to as Meet and Confer, was adopted by the County Council in 1977. This law has served a vital role in the transition of collective bargaining.

This Council has also had firsthand experience in reviewing negotiated agreements resulting from collective bargaining provisions of the Police Labor Relations Act. As a result, the Government and its employees are now prepared for this important step in the evolution of the employer-employee relationship.

The bill as introduced covers those elements of the bargaining process which are common to most collective bargaining laws. It also recognizes the unique characteristics of public sector employment and the role of elected officials in representing the public as an employer in the areas having physical impact.

My comments this evening will be directed to specific provisions of the law which the Executive finds accurately reflect his opinion or are in the need of further review.

1. The bill includes by definition the units for representation. The net effect of the unit structure as proposed will give bargaining rights to approximately 1270 employees in the service, labor and trades unit, and 2300 employees in the office, professional and technical unit.

Including the unit structure in the legislation will insure greater stability of labor relations by minimizing the potential for a fragmented unit structure and thereby avoiding major differences in the treatment of employees.

The structure will help to focus collective bargaining and subsequent contract administration on uniform and consistent treatment of employeees, the hallmark of the County's merit system. The two units proposed were adopted under the Meet and Confer Law, and this will provide for an easy transition from Meet and Confer to the Collective Bargaining Relationship.

Employee as defined under the law provides for a number of exclusions which affect those employees in confidential, managerment or supervisory positions. These employees have been traditionally excluded from bargaining rights because of their role in the development of management issues, exposure to confidential personnel matters and enforcement of negotiated agreements.

In addition, other exclusions include probationary personnel who have yet to obtain full status as employees, and State-County Merit System employees who are minimally impacted by collective bargaining decisions as their conditions of employment are governed by another system.

The law requires that the selection of the collective bargaining representative be based upon a majority of those voting. The Executive is opposed to the proposed amendment which would require a majority of those eligible to vote in order for there to be a valid election. This amendment creates an unnecessary hurdle to representation and is not consistent with the Democratic tradition of popular elections with which we are all familiar.

The subjects of bargaining and proposed amendments causes some concern. The bill in its present form limits bargaining on retirement to a defined contribution retirement plan. The Montgomery County Employees Retirement System is an intrical part of the Employee Compensation package.

We believe that employees through their representative should have the opportunity to bargain over the rull range of retirement benefits. As all of the covered employees are currently members of the County's retirement system, they do have a clear interest in initiating or reacting to changes which may affect their retirement.

The agency shop issue is also a matter which is probably and properly the subject of negotiations. Union security issues have traditionally been bargained, and we are therefore opposed to any amendment which excludes or limits this area as a subject for bargaining.

The Executive Branch is opposed to any expansion of the meaning of effects bargaining under Section 107(a)(7). Without careful delineation of of the subject matter in this area, negotiating the effects on employees of management actions can undermine the employer's ability to function.

As an example, management must be in a position to transfer employees based on organizational need, typically, to improve the effectiveness of operations and delivery of services. Under the suggested amendment, management could be precluded from transferring bargaining unit employees until the economic impact of the transfer on employees was negotiated.

The preservation of employer rights is important in assuring that the Government's ability to manage programs and provide services in an efficient and effective manner is not obstructed. The Executive Branch supports the clarification and the elaboration of these rights in contrast to what is currently in the Police law.

In particular, management must have the right to set standards and take advantage of new technology or research which improves the delivery of services. The mechanics of the bargaining process are somewhat similar to those now provided under the Police Law. It is noted that bargaining will commence under the law no later than November 1. This is conducive to the Executive Branch budget deliberations and allow for the culmination of bargaining in a time frame compatible with the presentation of the County Executive's budget recommendations to the County Council.

The proposed amendment to permit immediate bargaining on subjects not requiring Council appropriation or legislative action is ill advised. The time frame for passage of this law and the requirement to begin normal bargaining no later than November 1 would not leave sufficient time to implement the other aspects of the law relating to the appointment of the Labor Relations Administrator, the conduct of elections if necessary, and the appropriate preparation for bargaining with the two designated units.

Moreover, the full range of issues under subjects of bargaining should be available to the parties in order to fashion an agreement which is fair to the Government and its employees.

Finally, we concur in the use of factfinding with recommendations as the basis for obtaining resolution of bargaining impasses. We believe that the public airing of disputes will create the appropriate incentive for the parties to make their best efforts in obtaining an agreement.

This approach is used in many state and local jurisdictions and has been shown to be effective. In those situations where significant differences exist in the parties' positions, Council involvement will provide an additional catalyst for resolution.

In conclusion, there are other issues of a more minor nature for which we will reserve comment as the bill proceeds through the legislative process. In the main, the Executive Branch is supportive of the legislation as proposed and pledges its full support in upcoming Council work sessions to obtain legislation that is equitable to all parties and that will foster a harmonious relationship between the County Government and its employees.

Thank you for your attention.

MR. HANNA: Thank you, Mr. Garrett. Mrs. Gelman has -- whoops, don't run away. Ms. Gelman has a question.

MS. GELMAN: I don't know how to turn this on anymore. Mr. Garrett, am I reading between the lines and am I reading too much into it, to find in here that the Executive does not want us to do the defined contributions?

MR. GARRETT: No, I don't believe you can --

MS. GELMAN: I shouldn't infer that?

MR. GARRETT: No. My statements refer to the fact that the elements of the bill only specifically relate to bargaining on defined contributions.

MS. GELMAN: That's right. And we don't have it yet, but we want to have it?

MR. GARRETT: Right. My statement refers to the fact that not only does the Executive believe that defined contribution plans -- MS. GELMAN: Can be bargained?

MR. GARRETT: -- can be bargained, but also our current defined benefit plans as well, the full range of retirement programs.

MS. GELMAN: Is there any representative of the employees group on the Board now, supervises the investments?

MR. GARRETT: No, we have no such structur.

MS. GELMAN: No such Board at all?

MR. GARRETT: There is a proposed Board.

MS. GELMAN: But there's -- who supervises the investments now?

MR. GARRETT: Currently, it falls to my responsibility with the final authority being vested in the Chief Administrative Officer.

MS. GELMAN: I see, okay. So there really is nobody that sits on the Board. Even years ago at the Planning Commission, there was always somebody at the Board to oversee the pension arm.

MR. GARRETT: That's right. That structure is missing here in Montgomery County.

MS. GELMAN: I sat on that Board, that's why.

MR. GARRETT: Which is strange.

MR. HANNA: Thank you, Mr. Garrett. That's it? William Thompson.

MR. RENNE: Mr. President, Gino Renne. I'm going to cede my time to Mr. Thompson. Ken Reichard and Rex Trabue will be the same.

MR. HANNA: All right.

MR. THOMPSON: Good evening. My name is William W. Thompson, II. I am a member of the law firm of Zwerdling, Paul, Leibig, Kahn & Thompson, 1025 Connecticut Avenue, N.W., Suite 307, D.C., 20036.

I am here representing MCGEO UFCW Local 400. MCGEO Local 400 is the incumbent employee organization representing approximately 3500 County Merit System employees, pursuant to the County's present Meet and Confer Employee Relations Procedure.

On behalf of approximately 2300 office, professional and technical employees and 1200 serivce, labor and trades employees of the County, McGeo Local 400 has been at the forefront of the struggle to obtain a comprehensive and equitable collective bargaining law for Merit System employees.

This effort has culminated in the proposal which the Council has before it today. However, the struggle is not over. The proposed bill as reported out of the Personnel Committee of the Council includes a number of provisions and optional provisions which seriously undermine the overall effectiveness of the legislation, should these provisions be included in the statute as passed by the full Council.

We will briefly discuss the most important of these shortcomings in the time remaining. However, I should point out that by not discussing a particular section of the bill, we are indicating our complete support of it at this time.

First, the bill, while making provision for two collective bargaining units, includes an option that one unit of all eligible Merit System employees be created. MCGEO-Local 400 is uniquely qualified to comment on this issue since we have been representing the two units, SLT and OPT, under Meet and Confer.

We strongly urge that the single unit concept be rejected. The present unit structure was created by the County after extensive review of the natural and appropriate communities of interest among Merit System employees.

We respectfully request that the Council adopt the two-unit structure as set forth in the principal body of the bill.

Second, the bill would exclude from coverage of collective bargaining rights many Merit System personnel who are currently included in the Meet and Confer system. Among the employees to be excluded are all employees in the Department of Social Services and all persons in Merit Grade 27 and above.

The County's several hundred DSS employees are hybrid State-County employees. We do not believe that it is fair to deny these employees a voice in the determination of that portion of their salary which is set by the County. Bargaining over such a narrow question would not be disruptive or even significantly time consuming in the context of the parties' overall relationship.

DSS employeees who are principally female should not be treated as second class citizens.

The County Administration has also sought to have all employees at Grade 27 and above declared to be exempt from collective bargaining, apparently on the theory that they are ipso facto managers. MCGEO-Local 400 currently represents dozens of these employees under Meet and Confer.

The County's proposal is thus contradicting its own earlier determination that many employees at Grade 27 and above have been appropriately included in the community of interest of the present Meet and Confer unit structure.

Third, the principal text of the bill permits a one-time opportunity for the incumbent Meet and Confer union to be recertified for collective bargaining upon written proof that more than 50 per cent of the collective bargaining unit wishes to be represented by it.

Thus, when collective bargaining goes into effect, another election would not be necessary. However, an amendment would require MCGEO-Local 400 to go through the expensive and time-consuming process of yet another election. This proposed requirement is not necessary, especially in light of the fact that MCGEO-Local 400 doesn't want an election in the SLT unit with 70 per cent of the vote. We strongly oppose any automatic requirement for yet another election.

The bill also proposes that 10 per cent of the employees can petition to force an election under that circumstance rather than the utilization of the procedure for written proof of majority status. We are absolutely opposed to permitting 10 per cent of any group to dictate to the majority how a determination of the incumbent's majority status will be made.

We concede that if 30 per cent of the employees in a unit wish to have an election rather than a card check when this law goes into effect, then an election would be appropriate. Thirty per cent is a significant proportion of the group. Ten per cent is not.

In most labor relations laws, includding this bill, 30 per cent of the employees can petition for an election to decertify a union. We submit that the same number should be required to force an election rather than a card check.

Fourth, we strongly support the provision of the bill permitting the parties to bargain an agency shop. Agency shop would require nonmembers to pay a certain fee for representation by the certified representative unless such a payment is objected to upon bona fide religious grounds. This provision represents the normal rule in most jurisdictions.

We urge that the Council reject the options that either no agency shop is permissible or that agency shop can only be applied to employees who have less than ten years of service.

Fifth, we wholeheartedly support the Executive's position that all pensions should be bargainable. That is a fundamental term and condition of employment which should not in any way be excised from the purview of collective bargaining under this bill.

The bill as it stands limits bargaining over pensions only to any new defined contribution plan which might be promulgated by the County. We vehemently object to limiting bargaining of any new plan, assuming that it's so limited, to a defined contribution plan.

What if the Council or the Administration seek to establish a new defined benefit as opposed to defined contribution plan? There is no reason only to allow bargaining rights if a new defined contribution plan is enacted.

Sixth, we absolutely support the provision of the bill which permits the parties to bargain binding grievance arbitration. Grievance arbitration provides a relatively quick and inexpensive method for collective bargaining partners to insure that their formal agreement is faithfully observed and implemented.

Binding grievance arbitration is a hallmark of collective bargaining in both the public and private sectors. Without binding grievance arbitration, both the County and the employee organization could be subjected to endless contract litigation in the courts.

The option appended to the bill which would limit binding arbitration only to disciplinary matters would take away from the employees the primary method for enforcing contractual promises in collective bargaining. A contract without binding arbitration to enforce all of its provisions is not a complete collective bargaining agreement.

Seventh, we strongly urge the Council to reject the bill's proposed limitation on the County's duty to bargain over the effects on emloyees of the exercise of nonbargainable management rights. Often management decisions such as the movement of workplace from one area of the County to another cause serious effects on employees. We believe that such effects as transportation problems of affected employees must be bargained. The bill would not permit such effects bargain.

MCGEO-Local 400 urges the Council to adopt the proposed option which is taken from the County's Police Bargaining Bill and which requires that all effects of the exercise of management rights be bargained. Such a provision does not in any way limit management's right to make the management decisions.

Eighth, MCGEO-Local 400 submits that one of the principal shortcomings of the body of the bill is its failure to provide for any collective bargaining agreement until July 1, 1987. If we assume that this law will go into effect sometime in mid-1986, it is absolutely unconscionable for the County to be able to delay its implementation for approximately a year.

If the County has determined that public policy is served by granting collective bargaining to Merit employees, then Merit employees should be able to bargain. We support the bill's option which would permit simplified bargaining for a short agreement on non-economic items only.

Finally, we strongly urge that the Meet and Confer System be maintained and continued for all employees who now enjoy its benefits but who are not included in the collective bargaining system.

We have made our position clear that all Meet and Confer employees should also be included under collective bargaining. Should the Council, however, choose otherwise, we urgently request that at the very least, you do not take away from these employees that right which they already have and leave them consequently in a Meet and Confer relationship with the County.

In conclusion, MCGEO-Local 400 congratulates the County and particularly Personnel Committee Chairperson Gelman and the other members of that committee for having brought thus far an issue which is of enormous interest and importance to the County employees as well as the rest of the labor movement in this area.

We urge the Council to seriously consider the points that we have made to further improve the bill which is now before you. MCGEO-Local 400 looks forward eagerly to the early passge of this legislation and to working with the Council and Executive under this law in the years to come to foster responsible and effective employeee relations.

We believe that the morale and high quality of service of County Merit System employees can be considerably enhanced as a result of the recognition that employees are partners with the County and service to the public.

Thank you very much.

MR. HANNA: Thank you, Mr. Thompson.

(General Applause)

MR. HANNA: Ms. Gelman, is your light on?

MS. GELMAN: Yes, it is. It's on now. Mr. Thompson, thank you for the kind words. Let me assure everyone that we have spent more time together in the last year than either of us has with our own families.

MR. THOMPSON: That's true.

MS. GELMAN: And the fact that we're still talking to each other is a mark of our stability and our respect for one another. We've both learned a lot. I think I've learned more than you have.

MR. THOMPSON: I've learned quite a bit myself.

MS. GELMAN: But anyway, the way this bill is presented, -- and we should have said this right at the beginning -- we gave all the options for all the possible clauses. And the first bill had many substitutions made by the -- some of the options were chosen over the included language by the Committee. And we expect that the Council will do some of the same.

But we hoped to save time -- and I certainly hope we did -- because we spent enormous amounts of time outlining all the possible options. For example, those people under ten years were simply one option in a series of options of how to do it. It wasn't that anyone necessarily advocated it.

Now that I've thoroughly confused the issue, thank you again.

MR. HANNA: Mr. Potter.

MR. POTTER: Does MCGEO represent all the employees in these two categories of office, professional and technical and service, labor and trades?

MR. THOMPSON: Essentially, yes. There are, I believe, a few changes which might be made when the law goes into effect. One or two or three job classifications might at the edges of those units be in or out because of changes over the years in the work force. The work force, the job classifications constantly change.

But essentially, the answer to the question is yes. It's the same two units.

MR. POTTER: They've all signed up and support your testimony? Or what's your -- what are your operating rules?

MR. THOMPSON: Well, the members of the union, of course, are extremely supportive of this bill and are understanding. And information is that an overwhelming majority of both of the units are cheering from the sidelines that this bill be passed.

Recently there was a service, labor and trades election in December of 1985, and MCGEO-Local 400 won in that election an absolute majority of all the votes that could be cast in the whole unit. So I think there's no question of the support of the employees for collective bargaining because one of the main issues in that election was the fact that collective bargaining was a goal of MCGEO-Local 400.

MR. POTTER: Sir, I understand that. I'm just trying to understand to what extent there's participation by all these people in your operations.

MR. RENNE: Gino Renne, Vice President, MCGEO-Local 400.

MR. POTTER: Thank you.

MR. RENNE: I have to learn how to use the mike before I can speak. To be specific to your question, Mr. Potter, in the SLT Unit, we have better than 65 to 70 per cent sign-up ratio. And in the OPT Unit, we're closing the gap on approximately 50 per cent. We're somewhere between 43 per cent and 50 per cent sign-up. Those are the ratios as far as membership is concerned.

MR. POTTER: Thank you.

MR. RENNE: You're welcome.

MR. POTTER: Thank you, gentlemen.

MR. THOMPSON: Thank you very much.

MR. HANNA: All right, Keith Prouty, followed by Robert Allnutt.

(Mr. Prouty approaches stand)

MR. HANNA: Good evening, Keith.

MR. PROUTY: Mr. President, Member of the Council, my name is Keith Prouty. I live at 9714 Rutley Road in Bethesda. I appear before you as a friend of the Council and as a friend of employee representation and of the collective bargaining process.

I want to make three very simple points in my comments this evening, Mr. President. First, I urge that the Council move with alacrity to bring Bill 19-86 through the work session process before the Council in legislative session so that it can be adopted in final form well before the summer is upon us.

My purpose is not to find fault with any member of the Council but simply to remind all of the members that the enabling legislation permitting a collective bargaining bill was approved by the voters on November 6, 1984. This is now April 22, 1986, and it's time we put democracy and the will of the voters into practice with an absolute minimum of delay.

Second, adoption of collective bargaining for County emloyees is going to require a change in attitude toward employee relations on the part of both the County Executive and the County Council. Collective bargaining means that employees have a voice in the terms and conditions under which they work.

The days of unilateral decisions will soon be gone. Employee relations will become a two-way street. This is not an easy election for management in most cases to learn. I urge each member of the Council to begin now to shift gears, whether you are a candidate for re-election or whether you are moving on to other arenas and to fulfill other ambitions.

Thirdly, as you deliberate on the details of Bill 19-86, remember that you are creating the climate under which labor relations will be conducted with County employees. You can make a positive contribution and build an attitude of trust and of mutual responsibility by constructing a broad-based bill which gives the parties the latitude to develop a mature and a responsive relationship.

If, on the other hand, you haggle over commas and threat over covering every contingency, you will be breeding distrust, thereby sowing the seeds of a devisive and a non-constructive relationship.

I have great respect for the members of the Council. I have great faith that you will bargain in good faith in producing a sound, a flexible, and a broadly-conceived document, one which is inclusive rather than exclusive, in terms of subject matter for negotiations, thereby no only establishing stable labor relations but in gendering a cooperative and a productive work force.

Thank you.

MR. HANNA: Thank you, Mr. Prouty. It looks like you're getting off easy tonight. I don't see any lights.

MR. PROUTY: Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. HANNA: Mr. Allnutt, followed by Gustavo Caballero.

DR. ALLNUTT: Good evening, Mr. Hanna. My name is Dr. Robert Allnutt. I live at 9104 Alton Parkway in Silver Spring. A system of checks and balances is essential to the continued democratic function of our government. Providing collective bargaining for the employees of Montgomery County is a long-awaited step which will augment our system.

Careful consideration is required to produce legislation which will be as fair as possible and beneficial to all concerned.

As a member of a class who presently has Meet and Confer status and whose right to collective bargaining would be refused under this bill, I would like to point out to the Council that blanket exclusion of Grades 27 and above should be considered an oversimplification.

It is understood why supervisory personnel are to be carefully excluded from collective bargaining. However, supervisory personnel can be found at many different grade levels throughout County service. And a specific grade is not necessarily an indication of supervisory or management function.

Arbitrarily drawing a line at Grade 27 discriminates unfairly against employees who by virtue of their training and experience are in Grade 27 and above. This is particularly true among County dentists, physicians and psychologists who in the current structure of the Health Department are not supervisory in function.

I would like to suggest an amendment that would strike the Grade 27 provision and instead rely upon the definition of supervisor as put forth immediately prior to that section. That is to strike lines 10 and 11 on page 8. I am concerend that there is an underlying message in this provision, that in the foreseeable future the County Government does not plan to emloy non-managerial Merit employees at Grade 27 or above.

As a member of a program which has also had to face repeated threats of contracting out, I would recommend passage of Amendment A which allows broader effects bargaining so that employees may gain the fairest possible treatment.

Collective bargaining will best serve all of us if the Council addresses the structure the bill conceptually as well as specifically to provide desirable results, not just relying on simplicity but instead by appraising the situation independently and making judgments based on fact.

Thank you.

MR. HANNA: Thank you, Mr. Allnutt. Mr. Gudis?

MR. GUDIS: Ms. Gelman, don't run away. As Chairperson of the Personnel Committee, was there anything -- maybe I should ask Mr. Wilcox. The doctor is concerned that there's an implication, something that we don't see here, about the fact that since Grade 27 and above are not included, that the County may be faced with the fact you had absolutely no --

MR. GELMAN: We had no --

MR. GUDIS: Nothing like that in mind?

MS. GELMAN: No, but I understand where he's coming from. We all know that the Executive has tried to contract out --

MR. GUDIS: Constantly, constantly.

MS. GELMAN: -- the physician services and all. That was certainly not in our minds. The -- had nothing to do -- I don't even know how the 27 -- we needed a cutoff at some point. And --

MR. GUDIS: So that's it's possible that as we go through these sessions here, if we decide that we want to include people 27 and above that are nonsupervisory, we might -- well, we would certainly consider them?

MS. GELMAN: You might have another -- there are many options. Somebody later tonight is going to suggest a separate unit for medical. There are many options. There's no one way, but none of that came before us.

MR. GUDIS: But I just think we want to make sure we have on the record that it had nothing to do with the idea --

MS. GELMAN: Now may I call my husband whom I haven't spoken to since 6 o'clock this morning? Thank you. He came in the other day just to see if he could pick me out of the line-up.

MR. HANNA: Gustavo Caballero -- not with us. All right. Sarita Kubli followed by Ron Phillips. Is Ron Phillips with us?

(Ms. Kubli approaches stand.)

MS. KUBLI: My name is Sarita Kubli. I live at 8012 Park Lane in Bethesda. I speak tonight as President of the Montgomery County Department of Public Libraries Staff Association, an organization representing over 70 per cent of all eligible library employees.

Seven days a week, including four evenings,

(for which we have never received shift differentials), we provide the best possible public library service and an ever-expanding range of other services to County citizens.

Many of our members support collective bargaining for County employees. The reasons are simple. Although County Government public policy assures the responsive, orderly, and efficient operation of County Government and services, the reality is a daily battle to maintain our own and our patrons' safety, security and health.

We have always worked through the proper channels to try to achieve a safe and secure working environment, but this has not worked very well. Perhaps working conditions are tolerable in the EOB and COB, but we invite you to come out of the main County office buildings and visit libraries and other work sites.

For over five years, computer and telephone wires dangled under desks in the branches. These wires caused several accidents including a broken rib. Basic supplies and services are also a problem. We fight daily for light bulbs, soap, toilet paper, dusting, trash cans emptied.

Needless to say, contract cleaning isn't working. How can buildings be properly maintained when, we understand, there are only four carpenters and four painters for 150 County buildings? Security within the libraries is a constant worry. We handle increasing amounts of money. And as other community services are added, there will be even more.

Frankly, since, in our view, the County Government has not assured the safety, security, and decent working conditions that all employees deserve, many library personnel feel they must use collective bargaining to get decent working conditions.

Pay equity is also a major concern. We believe there is gender-based wage discrimination in County Government. One of the ways to achieve pay equity is through collective bargaining. It has been effective in other areas of the Country, and it may be the most effective method for us.

We read in the local press on March 6th of a pay equity proposal. We suspect this is nothing but election year rhetoric. We've exhausted other routes, and we are counting on collective bargaining to hasten pay equity implementation and improved working conditions for all County employees.

Thank you.

MR. HANNA: Thank you, Ms. Kubli.

(General Applause)

MR. HANNA: Is your light on? No questions.

Ron Phillips followed by Dr. Rochelle Herman.

MR. PHILLIPS: Thank you. My name is Ron Phillips. I am the National Representative for the Union of American Physicians and Dentists. My address is 3815 Rodman Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. And I thank you for the opportunity to speak before the Council.

The Union of American Physicians and Dentists is a bona fide labor union registered with the United States Department of Labor that has been in existence for 13 years. At present, we represent over 30,000 physicians and dentists in all practice settings.

At the behest of the majority of physicians employed by Montgomery County, I come before you to petition for the inclusion of physicians in the collective bargaining process.

As presently drafted, Bill 19-86 would exclude all employees holding a Grade 27 or above classification from the collective bargaining process. The Union of American Physicians and Dentists concludes from this language that employees Grade 27 or above are being excluded from the collective bargaining process solely on the basis of their salary range.

If we are correct in our assumptions, we submit to you that there is no rationale, basis or legal precedent for such a position. Indeed, one merely needs to review the trends of collective bargaining in recent years to learn that professional baseball players, football players, movie producers and directors are now being legally represented in contract negotiations by their union.

Moreover, notwithstanding a general decline in nationwide union membership due to the decline in our industrial base, there has been a steady rise in union membership in the white collar professional and government employee areas.

Legally speaking, the Annotated Code of Maryland, Article 89, Section 29 defines amonst other things, an employer as the state, county, city and municipal governments in any agency thereof. And it defines an employee as an employee of the state, county, city, and municipal government in any agency thereof.

In my review of the above-cited Code, I could find no reference in this enabling legislation that would exclude government employees from collective bargaining on the basis of salary range.

In addition to the question of exclusion on the basis of salary range, it is well established in both the public and private sectors that physicians are properly placed in their own bargaining unit, separate from other employees, health care and non-health care professional and nonprofessional. In numerous instances, the Union of American Physicians and Dentists has more than adequately demonstrated the distinct community of interest that exists amongst physicians based ont he work situation of physicians in state and federal law.

However, it appears that in the drafting of Bill 19-86, the authors have arbitrarily refused to recognize not only the physicians right to collective bargaining but also to the question of the right of physicians to their own unit.

Furthermore, the authors have taken a position that runs contrary to the preponderance of expressed statutory and case law which grants physicians these rights.

For the reasons stated above, the Union of American Physicians and Dentists requests that a separate full and fair hearing be on the issues raised and any other issues deemed to be relevant to the question of representation of physicians and their right to a separate bargaining unit as soon as possible to insure the physicians' right to full access to the law.

Thank you.

MR. HANNA: Thank you, Mr. Phillips. Dr. Herman, followed by Darlene Taper.

DR. HERMAN: My name is Rochelle Herman. I live at 5125 King Charles Way, Bethesda. I have been a psychiatrist with the County for six and a half years. And I am a member of the Union of American Physicians and Dentists even though I have no Meet and Confer rights presently.

The medical profession has been under siege from every direction. The same serious problems affecting quality care in the private sector are now facing medical care in the County. Essentially, control over the quality of care is being wrested from our profession and handed over to non-medical personnel.

My Director is a Budget Analyst from OMB whose professional abilities, as good as they are, do not include any mental health experience whatsoever. For one year now -- any clinical administrative support.

My memos about health care are given low priority in favor of the pressing political issues. There are no positions assigned to the Committee for the Mental Health Reorganizations, and our opinions have gone unheard.

Because of our ongoing concerns, we have appealed to the American Psychiatric Association for help. Dr. Roman testified before this Council in April voicing strenuous objections to the de-medicalization of mental health. Those objections were transmitted to the administration and dismissed.

The recent mental health study which cost the taxpayers $60,000 was conducted by non-physicians who declared that the medical model was no longer relevant. Those investigators, heralded by the administration, wanted to define physician roles as just writing prescriptions and signing off Medicaid forms, such as the role psychiatrists have in P.G. County. And they have a poor reputation for mental health care.

The social model promulgated by cost-conscious administrators is indeed cheaper because it utilizes lesser-trained personnel. But it has its consequences. To cite a few examples from my cases, a seriously ill patient in the highest risk category for suicide was treated for two years by a lesser trained counselor before a psychiatric evaluation was requested.

A minimally trained counselor sat with my patient who was vomiting for 12 hours attempting to determine if his symptoms were "nerves or physical." Nonmedical counselors have often told my patients that their medication should be increased or decreased or changed. One of my patients is convinced she has a serious complication because of a nonmedical counselor.

Not only am I told how to practice medicine by nonmedical clinicians, but management retains the right to do so also. I was told that I ordered too many lab tests in December. The intrusion of non-medical personnel to the daily practice of medicine requires some counterbalancing force.

If quality care is not a persuasive argument for collective bargaining, then consider medical malpractice suits. The HMO's are learning quickly that cost-cutting efficiency produces increased liability.

In conclusion, I urge you to consider what kind of treatment you yourselves would wish to receive if you were less fortunate among our citizens and consider that collective bargaining for physicians is not merely an issue of salary but of basic quality of care.

Thank you.

MR. HANNA: Thank you, Dr. Herman.

(General Applause.)

MR. HANNA: Mr. Gudis has a question.

MR. GUDIS: Yeah. Dr. Herman, can we get a copy of your testimony?

DR. HERMAN: Yes, I will provide later. I didn't have the time to type it tonight. I'll provide it. Shall I send it to each member?

MR. GUDIS: Just send it to the President, and we'll all get a copy automatically. Thank you.

MR. HANNA: Darlene Taper followed by Lulu Richardson.

(Ms. Taper approaches stand.)

MS. TAPER: My name is Darlene Taper, Chairperson of the Staff Nurse Council. I reside at 8024 Park Lane in Bethesda, Maryland. I am here tonight to testify on behalf of the Staff Nurse Council of Montgomery County.

The Staff Nurse Council represents professional community health nurses employed in the Health Department working in a variety of settings which includes schools, health centers, clinics and homes. They provide numerous services which improve and maintain the quality of life in this County.

Some of their numerous responsibilities include the administration of immunizations, health assessments of the newborn, school-age child and the elderly, counseling and teaching for maternity patients, screening for tuberculosis and other communicable diseases with contact studies to prevent their further spread, crisis intervention for child abuse, adult abuse, suicide prevention, counseling and referral for alcohol and drug abuse within our school age and adult population, and counseling and referral for needed mental health services.

Our patients range in age from the unborn to the elderly, transcending all socio-economic levels. We are frequently called upon to provide nursing intervention in situations that may be considered the dark side of life in our County.

We the nurses of Montgomery County Health Department have experienced firsthand the limitations of Meet and Confer. Our nurses were intimately involved in the Joint Committee for Classification Review which was established in July of 1984 to review the classification of the Nurse Series which was to have been reviewed in 1981. This action was taken only after numerous attempts had been made over a two-year period to have a consultant study of our series released. This study was made available to us only after a grievance was filed and the study found to be deficient and inaccurate in many areas.

After nine months of Joint Committee meetings, which included representatives from the Personnel Department, Montgomery County Health Department staff and nursing professionals outside of the Health Department, the final personnel recommendations were not consistent with the quantifiable evidence as to our qualifications and present job responsibilities.

It was only after the intervention of William Thompson, the attorney for MCGEO, that the nurses obtained the appropriate pay grades. Phase two of this struggle over classification continues and will probably not be resolved until the summer of 1986 in the Circuit Court of Appeals.

The County trend toward contracting out has caused much unrest and anxiety among the community health nurses. Although from a purely theoretical economic standpoint it may seem the logical thing to do, studies have shown that not only the employees, but clients suffer in the long run.

The recently-publicized employee attitudes survey initiated by the Merit Systems Protection Board indicated that all is not well with the employees of Montgomery County Government. Wurther & Lockhart in discussing labor relations in the health profession stated the following: Advanced educational requirements, years of study, and the proliferation of other professionals have changed the character of health care providers. Although still influenced by humanitarian consideration, they are primarily employees. Their motivations include more than just the esteem needs of achievement and recognition derived from helping others. They are also motivated to work by economic and interpersonal need. Unlike their predecessors, these employees demand more than just humanitarian satisfaction. This is especially true when you consider the growing number of single, divorced and widowed nurses who in many cases are supporting not only themselves but oftentimes children and parents.

It is difficult to pay for the necessities of life, not to mention medical and dental expenses, with humanitarian satisfaction. This point becomes even more of a reality when you consider that this year teachers in Montgomery County will be getting a 5 per cent cost of living allocation, police, 4 per cent, and we the nurses of Montgomery County Health Department, 3 per cent at best.

Wurther & Lockhart go on to say that when the multiple economic, social and esteem needs of today's health care workers are not satisfied, the repercussions reverberate throughout the facility. Whether employees resign or become less productive, these responses create problems that could diminish the quality of health care. Sooner or later, these problems require action by management. If that action does not result in sufficient and properly-distributed rewards, the employees taken action.

With that in mind, I would like to conclude by saying that the Community Health Nurses of Montgomery County have found the policy of Meet and Confer to be unsatisfactory. The voters of the County have given us the privilege of collective bargaining, and it is the consensus of the staff nurses of the Montgomery County Health Department that they wish to be represented by MCGEO in this endeavor.

I thank you.

(General Applause)

MR. HANNA: Mr. Scull.

MR. SCULL: What was the result of your Merit Board action in terms of a percentage pay increase?

MS. TAPER: It was a grade increase. It was not to exceed 5 per cent in most cases. We initially had all staff nurses at a Grade 18. As a result of the Joint Committee, it was recommended that we be reclassified as incoming at Grade 19 and full performance as Grade 21. However, the majority recommendations were at Grade 19 and Grade 22. And it was a result of the intervention of Mr. Thompson that we indeed did get Grades 19's and 22's.

MR. SCULL: What did that work out to for the average nurse?

MS. TAPER: The average nurse was to get a pay increase not to exceed 5 per cent in most cases.

MR. SCULL: And it was retroactive for some?

MS. TAPER: It was retroactive. The initial agreement was for retroactivity to December 31st of 1984.

MR. SCULL: Is that the way it came out?

MS. TAPER: At present, that's what the standing is. What is now within the, what is now going to, probably going to the Court of Appeals is retroactivity back to August of 1981.

MR. SCULL: But it did work out to 5 per cent average for all?

MS. TAPER: There were some people because of where they were within the pay scale that I believe received more than 5 per cent. But the majority of us received a pay increase that did not exceed 5 per cent.

MR. SCULL: Thank you.

MS. TAPER: Thank you.

MR. HANNA: Mr. Gudis.

MR. GUDIS: Yes. The reason it went to court was because?

MS. TAPER: The Merit Protection, Merit Systems Protection Board had originally agreed with the recommendation for the retroactivity. But it was appealed by the Montgomery County Government.

MR. GUDIS: It was appealed by the Montgomery County Government?

MS. TAPER: It is being appealed. It's in the process of being appealed.

MR. GUDIS: I'm just trying to think of -- did we know about that?

MS. TAPER: I believe so.

MR. GUDIS: But that's the only reason it went to court? It went to court because of the retroactivity?

MS. TAPER: That's correct.

MR. GUDIS: Of course, it didn't go to court on the basis of the grades?

MS. TAPER: No. No, it didn't.

MR. GUDIS: I -- the reason I am especially interested is because I met with the group of nurses. Gosh, I don't remember how many -- at least two to three years ago.

MS. TAPER: That's correct.

MR. GUDIS: And I remember we talked about it. And I went to the Personnel Department after that, and they told me they were working on it. It sure took a long time.

MS. TAPER: It took a very long time.

MR. GUDIS: We have to do something about that. Thank you.

MS. TAPER: Thank you.

MR. HANNA: Thank you, Ms. Taper. Lulu Richardson followed by Diana Tash.

MS. RICHARDSON: I am Lulu Richardson. I work for the Montgomery County Health Department, the Dennis Avenue facility. And I live at 1106

Ednor Road, Silver Spring Maryland.

You have, I'm sure, often heard the expression, I was an Army brat or I was a Navy brat. Well, I was a union brat. My father was for 40 years the National President of a strong and effective government union.

I grew up during the time when great reforms were brought about by collective bargaining. Wage reforms, tremendous strides in environmental safety in the work arena, reasonable and compassionate changes in sick and annual leave policies, fair recognition of longevity and better retirement benefits are just a few of the important elements in a safe, secure and more efficient working atmosphere brought about by the unity of the workers for collective bargaining.

By following many individual demands to be heard in one strong voice, you are not only benefiting the workers and the laborers, but management as well. By allowing the union to gather, collate and present the views and proposals of the workers, you are eliminating the frustration, anger, dissatisfaction and belligerency of the individual and exchanging it for an unemotional unification of facts through the voice of the union.

There is a problem in the work theater of the Montgomery County Government. In fact, there are several. The one with which I am most concerned is the feeling among my fellow workers that there is little or no communication between management and the working population.

There seems to be a laxity on the part of management in assuring we are advised of policy changes and/or proposals for changes. Memos advising us of changes which affect our security and our jobs or our well being as employees often go astray.

A number of times we have received such information after the fact or not at all, thus effectively preventing us from voicing our views or opinions before the deadline. And there is always a deadline. We are left with no alternatives.

Year after year we are plagued by the budget blues. Like the sword of Damocles, the threat of being RIF'd hangs by a thread over our heads. Family economic security and plans for a predictable future are a constant concern.

By allowing us the privilege of a collective bargaining system, we feel much of this problem will be alleviated by having the burden of furthering issues voiced by our collective bargaining representative.

I thank you for permitting me to present my views and would like to close by saying, make us happy, make our day, give us the means to have our say. Help us to bargain effectively by letting us do it collectively.

(General Applause)

MR. HANNA: Thank you, Ms. Richardson. Diana Tash followed by Fred Keeney.

MS. TASH: Good evening. My name is Diana Tash. I live at 1216 North Belgrade Road in Silver Spring. For the past nine years, I have been a Health Room Technician for the Health Department based in the public schools.

I feel that collective bargaining would be very beneficial to all of us. As things stand now, we have no strong way to make our opinions heard or to protest when we feel injustices. Because teachers and supporting services personnel who are also County employees have had collective bargaining for some time, they have much more say in wages, benefits and working conditions than we.

There are 100 Health Room Technicians assigned throughout the County with very little opportunity to meet and discuss problems or job-related concerns.

In January of 1981, the Health Room Techs felt we deserved a reallocation of pay as we thought there was an inequity of pay within the County. Three of us worked for 15 months putting together a packet which we presented to personnel in July of 1982. We worked alone with very limited knowledge of the system.

It took until March of 1984 for our upgrade to be realized. Had we had a union and collective bargaining, our endeavors could have been much more expedient. Professionals could have given us guidelines to follow and spoken for or with us to Personnel and the Merit Board.

Had we had some expertise and been fully aware of time constraints, we would not have lost retroactive pay due to timeliness.

It is proposed that next year the Vision and Hearing Screening Program be contracted out. There are only seven Vision Techs serving the entire County. These women are very experienced, in the implementation of this State-mandated program. It seems to me that these positions are being abolished to save benefits, not cost.

There was no staff input into this decision. It is very possible that the entire program could suffer from the absence of these experienced personnel.

Collective bargaining would give us input into the decisions affecting our employment and the opportunity to propose ideas and solutions that might make the implementation of these decisions smoother and more equitable for all.

We need to know that our wages, benefits, hours and working conditions will remain constant and fair. Collective bargaining would give us a sense of security in our jobs, a feeling of stability, and the knowledge that someone would speak for us and with us and that we would be heard.

Thank you.

(General Applause)

MR. HANNA: Thank you, Ms. Tash. Fred Keeney? No Fred Keeney. All right. In that case, Abe Bloom followed by Maureen Walter.

(Pause)

MR. RISKIND: My name is Irv Riskind of the Grey Panthers. I'm sorry Mr. Bloom couldn't be here this evening, but he asked if I would make a statement for him.

I represent the Montgomery County and the Grey Panthers. And we support Bill No. 19-86. We support the right of collective bargaining for all employees, a right engaged County employees, a right enjoyed by workers in the private sector by law and enjoyed by millions of State, County, and municipal workers in other jurisdictions.

To deny these Montgomery County employees this right places them in a status of second class citizenship. We urge you to support Bill No. 19-86.

MR. HANNA: That was short.

MR. RISKIND: Very short. I don't want to -- just want to let you know that.

MR. HANNA: Thanks, Irv. Maureen Walter followed by Vincent Foo.

MS. WALTER: My name is Maureen Walter. I live at 17419 Hoskinson Road, Poolesville, Maryland. And I'm speaking for the Police Service Aides Association.

I have worked for Montgomery County for 16½ years. My group has 35 members, and the PSA's work around the clock at the Police District Stations. Many of us used to want to be career employees. Now we're not so sure.

Frankly, I never thought I would be here speaking up for collective bargaining. However, in the last couple of years, I have seen a glaring need for a system that would allow fair and equitable treatment for County employees.

County employees are at a disadvantage when it comes to dealing with the bureaucracy of the government. We need to have a set of rules and regulations that can't be bent arbitrarily to suit either side's needs.

We need to have the security of a contract with set standards for wages, pensions and working conditions. We need to know what to expect when we go to work. There must be some recourse for employees when the rules are not followed.

Almost two years ago our group put in for a reclassification. We have been assigned many jobs that were outside of our current class specifications. These specs were thoroughly researched, and we submitted a very complete request package which included economic growth, population growth, commercial growth, job comparisons from other metropolitan police agencies, and job assignments we have been assigned due to budget constraints. This was fully endorsed by the Police Department administrative personnel.

We met in December of 1985 with the Personnel Director. And he again stated that we were performing duties that were not in our class specs. This was to be straightened out with the Chief of Police.

However, we were notified that we were to go to a classification review committee who unanimously recommended an upgrade.

It is our understanding that yesterday the CAO decided that it was up to the Police Department to include these duties in the position description and not personnel.

After almost two years of going through the present system, writing memo after memo justifying our request time and time again, we are right back where we started doing job duties that are outside of our class specs. It is no wonder that many County employees and supervisors are not satisfied, thereby affecting the citizens of Montgomery County.

County employees have no say in their employment issues. We have a very complicated system to go through in order to make any changes. There is no recourse for employees who along with their supervisors feel there is a problem that needs to be corrected.

Our particular position of PSA is caught between the County Personnel Department and the Police Department, both with their own sets of rules and regulations. When we have a problem, we get passed from one to the other with no satisfaction.

Collective bargaining is sorely needed to improve this lot of County workers and ultimately the citizens of Montgomery County.

(General Applause)

MR. HANNA: Thank you, Ms. Walter. Mr. Potter has a question.

MR. POTTER: Yeah. Some of the arbitrated unfair treatment that you complained about in the first part of your statement sounds like a basis for grievances. Have you ever, any of you gone that route?

MS. WALTER: Well, we just found this out yesterday. This has been two years that this -- almost two years that this has been going on. We've met with everybody in Personnel. We've done everything that we did, that we had to. We got out the Personnel Regulations, the administrative procedures. We've just done everything.

MR. POTTER: Yeah. I can understand the class job description and that kind of thing goes through a lot of red tape and takes time. But you spoke of arbitrated unfair treatment. You're talking about with respect to this classification rather than individual mistreatment. Is that it?

MS. WALTER: No. Along in the job -- there's just so many things. I mean it's the Police Department. We have the Police Department telling us this is what we need to have done, and this is what you're going to do.

As it turns out, these things are, according to Personnel, not in our class specs and therefore, we shouldn't be doing them. And yet we go to the Police Department and they say that -- Personnel says it's not in our class specs, and they say this is in your class specs. This is what we tell you to do, and this is what you have to do. So we're kind of stuck.

MR. HANNA: All right. Vincent Foo followed by Mark Simon.

MR. FOO: Good evening, Mr. President and members of the Council. I have with me a few people that represent labor. And I ask your indulgence or your permission to modify the agenda here. Ed Lamon --

MR. HANNA: You can do anything with it as long as it doesn't take more than five minutes.

MR. FOO: That's right. Ed Lamon, President of Maryland/DC AFL-CIO is not here, but Mr. Joseph Williams from Metropolitan Washington Council will speak for him. And I have cleared with two other people ahead of Mr. Lamon, Mark Simon and Dave Robbins, for us to come up here together so that if it's okay with you, we'll go ahead with the testament. Mine is short, and I'd like to cede my time to Mr. Williams. Thank you very much.

I'd like to introduce the people up here. On my right is James Morrow, the Chairman of the Montgomery County Court. On my left, Mr. Ernie Greco from the Maryland State/D.C. AFL-CIO. And my extreme left, Mr. Josh Williams, the President of the Metropolitan/Washington Council.

MR. HANNA: All right.

MR. FOO: My name is Vincent Foo. I'm the President of MCCSSE Local 500 of the Service Employees International Union, AFL-CIO, representing 5500 non-certificated employees of the public schools in Montgomery County.

I'm here tonight to support the collective bargaining bill for County Government employees. Perhaps it should be noted that the citizens of Montgomery County gave the employees the right to bargain collectively with their employer. And we are here tonight to help determine the procedures to be sued to carry out the mandate of the electorate.

Let me address some of the key issues. One, I believe collective bargaining rights were approved by the citizens for all County Government employees. And this Council has no right to exclude any employee group.

Two, there should be no exclusions to the subjects of bargaining, especially the pension plans. And three, once an agreement is negotiated, all matters in the agreement must be grievable and subject to binding arbitration or the harmonious, peaceful and cooperative relationship which the Council wants with the employees will not exist.

The referendum on collective bargaining for County employees was approved in November, 1984. It is high time the County Council heed the voice of the people and sit down at the negotiating table with their employees.

Thank you very much.

(General Applause)

MR. GRECO: Mr. President and members of the Council, my name is Ernie Greco of the Maryland State and D.C. AFL-CIO. I'm here to give support to the testimony you're about to hear from our Second Vice President of our organization and also the President of the Metropolitan Washington Central Labor Council, Josh Williams.

MR. WILLIAMS: Mr. Chairman, members of the Council, my name is Joshlin Williams. I am Second Vice President of the Maryland State/D.C. AFL-CIO. I'm also President of the Metropolitan Washington Council AFL-CIO, address, 1012 14th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C.

I would like to commend the Council for holding this hearing. And we look forward certainly to a speedy action on the part of the Council. I would like to comment upon a few sections with which we have particular concerns.

One, we are opposed to the exclusion of employees who work for the County Executive, the County Council, the County Attorney, the Office of Management and Budget, the Personnel Office, and the Merit Systems Protection Board. While we agree that confidential employees should be exempt, everyone who works in these departments cannot be so categorized, and they should be part of the appropriately defined units.

Two, we oppose defining supervisor as anyone directing the activities of three or more people. Unless an employee has the authority to do the activities outlined in the first part of that definition, they are not truly a supervisor and should be part of the appropriate unit.

Three, most public sector bargaining laws and the private sector allow for elections to be held among employees no sooner than 12 months after an election at which no union was chosen. The 22 months outlined in this bill seems inordinately

Four, we have several problems with the Management Rights clause. Aside from being overly exhaustive, it includes several things which we feel should be subject to bargaining. Item 7, allowing the employer to arbitrarily decide when a job is inefficient or nonproductive, and item 17, allowing contracting out or abolishing of jobs with only notice to employees is not acceptable language.

These items as well as work rules and regulations should be subject to bargaining.

Five, we would recommend eliminating the list of items which limit the mediator when making recommendations to the parties. It is unnecessarily limiting and could work against the best interests of management, labor and the public.

For example, another jurisdiction outside the metro area may be more appropriate for certain types of comparison.

Six, we do not agree with the process outlined for impasse resolution. We are sympathetic with the Council's interest in being an active part of the collective bargaining process and in changing the current situation which required the Council to either approve or disapprove the final package. But the process as outlined requires in effect that the union bargain with the employees simultaneously and would wreak havoc on the already complex and time consuming activites.

To allow the Council to take votes on disputed matters and to appropriate monies to pay for either management or labor's position before agreement has been reached makes the Council the final and binding arbitrator and the real necessity of management and labor come into an equitable agreement.

Seven, the language of the Prohibited Practices section seem to promote the idea that unions are violent, coercive, destruction organizations by specifically prohibiting sabotage, etcetera. We would like to see this type of language removed or added to that, that the Employer Section language prohibiting surveillance of employees, threats, harassment and intimidation by the employer activities which we see evidence of every day of the week.

Eight, in reference to the suggested amendment we support two units instead of one as more appropriately representing the interests of the affected employees. We oppose requiring a majority of employees to participate in an election before it can be certified. Elected officials do not have to live with this restriction. And we see no reason why public employees should.

We are in favor of allowing agency shop. Since the union is required by law to represent all workers in the bargaining unit, whether or not they are a member, and since the union would have been chosen by a majority of those voting, it is only fair that the union be allowed to charge a fee to those who choose not to belong.

The agency shop should extend to all, regardless of length of service. Pensions as a form of deferred wages and salaries should be a subject of bargaining. Binding arbitration should be applicable to all grievances including discipline and discharge. And we support the right of the union to veto re-appointment of the Labor Relations Administrator.

We have attached a summary of our position to our testimony. Again, we commend the County Council for tackling this legislation, and we look forward to working with you on its passage through the legislative process.

Thank you.

(General Applause)

MR. HANNA: Thank you, gentlemen. I don't see any questions, so thank you.

Mark Simon, followed by Dave Robbins.

MR. SIMON: Council President Hanna, members of the Council, my name is Mark Simon. I'm President of the Montgomery County Education Association representing the 6500 teachers of Montgomery County.

I'm here tonight to testify concerning Bill 19-86 which would provide for County employees collective bargaining rights. As members of the Council are aware, the collective bargaining rights of the County's public school teachers are separately regulated by State and County law. Thus, employees represented by MCEA would not be covered by 19-86 if it is enacted.

Nevertheless, we support any iniative which recognizes the right of public employees to engage in legitimate collective bargaining. To the extent that Bill 19-86 accomplishes this aim by scrapping Meet and Confer, and giving Montgomery County employees some semblance of the right enjoyed by their counterparts in the private sector to bargain over wages, hours, working conditions, health and safety, we applaud the effort.

There are, however, certain aspects of Bill 19-86 that trouble MCEA. For example, the bill proposes to exclude all person who are State Merit System employees and persons in Grade 27 or above from the unit eligible for collective bargaining rights. These employees are currently represented by Montgomery County Government Employees' Organization under Meet and Confer. And it's both arbitrary and unfair to exclude them from collective bargaining.

Under Bill 19-86 the Labor Relations Administrator may accept cards or petitions signed by a majority of the employees designating the incumbent union as the bargaining agent unless another union or 10 per cent of the employees petition for an election.

We believe the alternative of accepting cards is a good one, and it's one teachers also enjoy. However, allowing 10 per cent of the employees to thwart card certification is counter-productive because it allows a very small minority to require the majority to undergo the time, effort and expense associated with an election.

It goes without saying that MCEA opposes the proposed amendment to Bill 19-86 which would make an election the only method for choosing a collective bargaining representative.

While MCEA applauds the right to bargaining concerning wages, hours and working conditions which Bill 19-86 would guarantee, we do not understand the limitations on bargaining applicable to pensions. Bill 19-86 would not require the County to bargain about the defined benefit plans which now provide pensions for current employees.

The County would be required to bargain only about defined contribution plans which do not now exist. Furthermore, the County would be required to bargain over defined contribution plans only if the County enacts a law establishing a defined contribution plan for new employees and for current employees who choose to switch from their defined benefit plan to a defined contribution plan.

There is no question that pensions are among the most important of employee benefits. To limit the type of plans about which the County must bargain to plans which don't exist is thoroughly inequitable and guts much of the impact of the ability to bargain over basic conditions of employment with which Bill 19-86 supposedly empowers public employees.

Finally, a word must be said about Bill 19-

86's impasse procedure. Under Bill 19-86, impasse will be broken by factfinding, which the County may choose to accept or to ignore. County teachers are familiar with this kind of factfinding as a way to break impasse because a process similar to that prescribed by 19-86 governs collective bargaining for the County schools.

All that needs to be said is this. When the employer is ultimately free to accept or reject the recommendations of the factfinder and in the end institutes whatever terms and conditions of employment it wishes, there is little incentive for the employer to engage in good faith bargaining becasue there is little risk in denying the Union's proposal.

For bargaining to be effective, there must be some semblance of parity between the parties. Otherwise, bargaining is all, all too often becomes a meaningless charade. If the County is truly interested in meaningful collective bargaining, it must either endow County employees with the right to strike, or at the very least provide for binding arbitration of impasse.

Thank you.

MR. HANNA: Thank you, Mr. Simon.

(General Applause)

MR. HANNA: No questions. Mr. Robbins.

MR. ROBBINS: Thank you, Mr. President. I am Dave Robbins, and I reside at 17 Lodge Drive, Rockville, Maryland.

I am pleased that the Montgomery County Council is moving to implement Section 511 of the Charter. With the introduciton and hopefully the passage of Bill 19-86, Montgomery County Merit System employees can look forward to a new and, I believe, very positive era in their relationship to government management.

As an individual who has spent 23 of my 29 years in government as a Merit System or Civil Service employee, I can readily identify with the aspirations of public service employees who want to play a greater role in determining their own destinies.

I am convinced that the productivity of public employees and the quality of the public service they render is influenced by their relationship with governmental management and the degree of influence they feel they have with management.

Collective bargaining is an idea whose time has come in public sector labor relations and is certainly a logical evolution step for Meet and Confer. Bill 19-86 provides for a sound and workable collective bargaining process. I would, however, recommend that in the area of retirement plans, the bargaining not be limited to any single plan but that any and all plans or proposed plans be subject to the bargaining process.

On the issue of breaking bargaining deadlocks, I would hope that the Council would take a hard look at binding arbitration models currently in practice in the public sector to see if one could be adopted to the proposed collective bargaining process.

In summary, the Council's Personnel Committee is to be commended for introducing this progressive legislation. And I urge the full Council to act favorably on it.

Thank you very much.

MR. HANNA: Thank you, Dave.

(General Applause)

MR. HANNA: Ms. Gelman has a question.

MS. GELMAN: Just a quick question, David.

MR. ROBBINS: Yes.

MS. GELMAN: We accept your thanks. We did it because it was assigned to us, not because we were looking for things to do. Very interesting year and a half.

Let me ask you, when you transferred your various years of government -- and I don't mean to be too personal. I know you went from the Planning Commission to the Federal Government -- were you able to consolidate it all into our retirement plan?

MR. ROBBINS: No. Unfortunately, --

MS. GELMAN: I'm not going to ask you to explain that to me here.

MR. ROBBINS: No.

MS. GELMAN: I just am becoming more and more aware --

MR. ROBBINS: There was a way of buying some service, but it became so outrageously expensive when you came back that it just wasn't economically possible.

MS. GELMAN: I'm becoming more and more concerned about portability for -- we'll talk about it another time. Your answer of no is --

MR. ROBBINS: But you bring up a real serious problem.

MS. GELMAN: It's a major problem. And what happens is people become tethered to a particular unit, you know, a unit of government. And it may be wrong for both. Okay, that's the next thing we'll deal with.

MR. HANNA: Thanks, David. All right, Ed Lamon followed by Minor Christian.

No, not with us? All right, Minor Christian followed by Betty Valdes.

MR. CASEY: Mr. President, my name is Earl Casey. I am sitting in for Mr. Christian tonight. I am Executive Director for the Food and Allied Service Trades, Washington Metropolitan Council.

MR. HANNA: Okay.

MR. CASEY: I reside at 6940 Westmoreland Road, Falls Church, Virginia. We support the bill's option which would permit simplified bargaining for a short agreement on non-economic issues. Such an agreement would only be in effect until July 1 of '87.

Such a contract would serve to establish many of the more basic standard type contract' clauses so that bargaining for the first full-blown contract could proceed more efficiently. We respectfully request that the Council decide to grant the process of collective bargaining as soon as possible system be maintained and continued for all employees who now enjoy its benefits but who are included in a collective bargaining system.

We strongly urge that the Meet and Confer

We urgently request that at the very least you do not take away from these employees that right which they already had. Meet and Confer does not require the County to sit down and come to an agreement regarding any employees concerned. Surely the County has nothing to lose by continuing to offer this group of employees at least a formal mechanism for conducting representative discussions with their employeees.

We urge the County to seriously consider the points that we have made and to further improve the bill which is now before you.

Thank you very much.

(General Applause)

MR. HANNA: Thank you, Mr. Casey. Betty Valdes, not with us. Okay, Maria Coleman followed by Mark Simon. This is a different Mark Simon?

MS. GELMAN: Two mothers with but a single thought.

MS. COLEMAN: Thank you, Mr. President and Council members. My name is Maria Coleman, and I'm President of Latin American Council for Advancement.

I reside at 6979 Barrett Road, Falls Church, Virginia. And I applaud this effort on your part for Bill 19-86. However, as representative of a group of minority or Hispanics, some of the areas here concerns my membership. And as their representative, I'm here addressing these issues.

And I would strongly urge you to take a closer look at certain provisions and amendments that you have proposed. Reading and quoting from your statements, you seek to establish a framework for public employee-employer labor relationships. You also are seeking to provide procedures for resolving differences between the public employer and employee.

Your provisions are calling for a single unit versus a two bargaining unit. This amendment attaches or attacks the principal of the basic rights, the right to be well represented in our society. We have developed certain categories and specializations to handle the needs of each individual.

What you are proposing takes away from those rights. An example would be that you may be suggesting that a plumber intercede for a physician, and one cannot relate to the other's needs.

Another provision that you have suggested or amended is binding grievances. How can a framework be established for labor relations if discrepancies and disagreements cannot be ventilated to the process of arbitration except for those cases of discipline and discharge?

This amendment alone I feel will compound, not eliminate, the problems and discrepancies that will be existing.

The amendment for a majority of the eligible units to participate in the election to be, for the result to be determinative, the right to vote as one of my colleagues earlier said, also consists on the right not to vote because in the U.S. of A, there are more people that do not vote than those who are. And if we follow this theory, our honorable President, Ronald Reagan, would never have been elected to the Presidency of the United States because he was elected by 27 per cent of the eligible vote, not of the people who voted, not of those who voted, the total citizens voting within the U.S. of A.

So I seek your attention to these and many other amendments that you propose to this bill. I thank you for the opportunity to addressing this Council. And we hope we can work together in this and many other situations.

Thank you.

MR. HANNA: Thank you, Ms. Coleman. Mark Simon followed by Dr. Mauricio Cortina.

MR. SIMON: Mr. President, I am also Mark Simon. I'm here to tell you that the Mark Simons of this world support this legislation.

(General Laughter)

I am a representative of the Washington Building and Construction Trades Council. I reside at 6923 Jefferson Avenue in Falls Church. On behalf of 30,000 area union construction workers who understand and appreciate the importance of collective bargaining, I urge you to extend collective bargaining to County employees.

The cornerstone of our democracy is free association. Without that right, labor unions as we know them would not exist. In communist countries, there are no free trade unions. In the United States, labor unions seek to improve wages and working conditions, insure respect for individual dignity, and provide security ont he job.

The process through which this is accomplished is collective bargaining. The fundamental purpose of collective bargaining is to provide a forum to reach accord on matters of concern to management and labor. It is a means of matching employee desire with employer needs. It is also a system designed to protect the public welfare from strife and unrest. When there is no such system to settle differences or when bargaining breaks down because inequality exists at the table, society suffers.

In construction we know collective bargaining as a system that has provided a fair living wage, health insurance, retirement income, and protection from arbitrary and abusive treatment. The system also works for management.

Within the last several years union contractors were able to win cost-reducing changes from unions at the table they thought were necessary to compete with the open shop. Both labor and management benefit from mature and respected bargaining relationships.

It has been established through careful academic analysis that a unionized work force will be more productive than a non-union. In construction a 1983 study by Steven G. Allen at North Carolina State University found square foot production per man hour to be 38 per cent higher in construction of office buildings built predominantly by union labor.

Allen cited apprenticeship programs, less supervision requirements, hiring halls and increased management efficiency. Sleicher, Healy & Livernash of Harvard Business School also have carefully examined the effects unionization has on management practices. They report more rational personnel practices and careful monitoring of work raise productivity by reducing organization slack.

Other studies by Brown and Medoff, University of Maryland, Leonard, California State, Berkeley, and Margaret Connerton at the U.S. Department of Labor report superior union productivity in various other settings.

As a basic right in our democratic society, as a proven method of settling differences and because of its effect on productivity, the ability to form unions and engage in collective bargaining is in all our interests.

The Washington Building and Construction Trades Council supports this legislation to permit County employees to engage in collective bargaining as defined by MCGEO-Local 400.

Thank you.

MR. HANNA: Thank you, Mr. Simon.

(General Applause)

MR. HANNA: Dr. Cortina followed by Heidi Hsia.

DR. CORTINA: My name is Mauricio Cortina. My address is 5 Sunnyside Road, Silver Spring, Maryland. I'm a psychiatrist employed half time by the Montgomery County Health Department. Dr. Shaw and I have brought with us a petition signed by other members of the Health Department that support our testimony.

I shall begin my testimony by telling a true story. A committee was set up with representatives from two different divisions in the County Government to promote communication and understanding among staff of the programs in the respective divisions.

After having met for some times, the committee members requested a meeting with managers to clarify the committee's responsibility and authority and to question why they were not being asked to participate in the broader reorganization.

In the meeting, one of the managers finally admitted that it was no accident that employees were excluded. The decision was deliberate and based on higher management's belief that line workers should not participate in reorganizations or policy matters.

When one employee protested, he was told, "employees have no rights." Unfortunately, this obsolete type of management seems to be the norm rather than the exception in the County. The recent survey of employee attitudes sponsored by the Merit Systems Protection Board confirms this. And I quote: "The consultant based on elective experiencing conducting surveys stated that he never seen more cynicism, despair or general lack of trust in management by a group of employees as found in these surveys."

It was his belief that the results showed a form of "absentee management as those responsible for administration, supervision are not in touch with their subordinates and exhibit a lack of concern for them and their problems."

Many of us providing direct professional services to Montgomery County citizens through the County Government have turned to the union not because we want better salaries or fringe benefits but because we see the union as a viable channel to voice our collective concerns and to participate cooperatively with managers in developing more effective and efficient programs.

The decision to exclude employees with Grades 27 and above is both arbitrary and unjust, arbitrary because many employees like myself with Grades 27 and above are primarily providing direct services, and there is no reason why we should be excluded from collective bargaining.

Clearly, the distinction should be made based on managerial supervisory responsibility and not on grade. The proposed rule is unjust because under Meet and Confer Grades 27 and above had been represented by the union. The exclusion would penalize County employees because of our professional degrees and leave us no channels to contribute to the organization of our workplace.

I would like to point out that union-management relations need not be adversarial. Both managers and employees have many interests in common. Some of the largest and most important companies in the United States are sponsoring significant, cooperative union-management projects to deal with problems of productivity and low morale.

Among them are AT&T and the Communications Workers of America, General Motors and Ford, and the United Auto Workers and Jamestown, an impressive example of a decaying city that was revitalized by government management and union cooperation. Can I finish the testimony?

MR. HANNA: You have 30 seconds.

DR. CORTINA: Okay. Montgomery County has prided itself in being a leader. Union-management cooperative projects can be a groundbreaking and hopeful alternative to bureaucratic cynicism and more effective programs.

I for one as a union member would welcome the opportunity to help develop cooperative union-management efforts in Montgomery County. But first you have to let me stay in the union.

Thank you.

MR. HANNA: Dr. Cortina, thank you.

(General Applause)

DR. HANNA: I don't see any questions, so thank you. Heidi Hsia followed by Roger Wolfe. How close did I come to your name?

MS. HSIA: "SHA."

MR. HANNA: "SHA." Not even close.

MS. HSIA: Very close. Good evening, President Hanna and members of the County Council. My name is Heidi Hsia, and I'm a psychologist who has worked in the Division of Mental Health Services of the County Health Department for 13 years. I'm presenting my testimony as an individual employee rather than as a representative of my agency.

I support the enactment of the collective bargaining law. I also support the idea that as contracting out affects the job security of the employees, then it becomes a bargainable issue.

However, the proposed bill would exclude from collective bargaining persons of Grade 27 or above who are currently included under the Meet and Confer provisions.

I'm here tonight to advocate for the inclusion of these employees in the proposed collective bargaining unit because I strongly believe that a grade cutoff at Grade 27 is extremely arbitrary.

First of all, in our department those of us who occupy positions Grade 27 or above do so largely because of the highly technical nature of our jobs which required many years of postgraduate training. We are the front line service providers who do not possess power to make policies and to influence work conditions. To exclude us from the bargaining unit is to penalize us for our additional training and skills as well as to preclude a highly educated group of people from contributing to the collective bargaining process.

Secondly, if the intent of the proposed law is to exclude supervisory personnel, then clearly it cannot be done by grade level as there exists supervisors below the Grade 27 and nonsupervisors above Grade 27.

Thirdly, even for those of us who also serve as clinic or program directors and/or professional chiefs in addition to our clinical duties, we have been penalized for the second time in a different way. That is, not one of us is compensated with salary increases for our additional administrative and supervisory duties because the Personnel Office considers them coordinative rather than supervisory in nature. Therefore, we are called coordinators sometimes when the Personnel Office decides to deny us our salary increases and supervisors at other times when it decides to deny us union representation.

Such inconsistencies in our personnel system lead to utter frustration and low morale in our County employees which has been so timely demonstrated in the recent employees' attitudes survey.

In light of recent and still anticipated change of leadership in the Health Department, we the front line service providers Grade 27 or above more than ever before need an effective avenue to voice our expertise, to assist the new leaders, and most of all, to assure continuity of quality service to our community.

I urge you to support the inclusion in collective bargaining units of persons currently included in the Meet and Confer units so we may become active participants in what I hope is a continuously forward movement of our County Government.

Thank you.

(General Applause)

MR. HANNA: All right, Roger Wolfe followed by Don Shaw.

MR. WOLFE: Mr. President and County Council, I'm representing, of course, the Equipment Section on Seven Lockes Road.

(Microphone adjusted)

Mr. President and County Council, I'm representing, of course, the Equipment Section on Seven Lockes Road. And being a mechanic and the people there, we -- they wanted me to address this bill to keep what we already have in benefits.

And one thing that we have had a great concern about is our differences in our cost of living raises between the Police Department and the School Board and of course which don't seem to be inconsistent and our insurance which seems to be unreal because it, which is much higher than we feel is applicable.

Some of the departments or a majority of the departments are furnished with tools and things of this nature, and our department is not.

(Long Pause)

That's all I have. Thank you.

MR. HANNA: All right, Mr. Wolfe. Thank you very much.

(General Applause)

MR. HANNA: Don Shaw followed by Harold Wirth.

MR. SHAW: My name is Donald C. Shaw. I live at 124 Whittier Street, Takoma Park, D.C. I'm employed by Montgomery County Department of Transportation, Rockville-Gaithersburg Ride-On. I'm here speaking on behalf of the bus operators and mechanic helpers and controllers at the Gaithersburg office to voice our support for Bill 19-86, collective bargaining for County employees.

With collective bargaining and strong union representation for County employees, I believe it will improve a lot of things for us, especially in seniority violations and management doing whatever they want to do in telling you that you have no rights if you want to do anything about it, even if they do something and you can prove them wrong. By the time you prove it, you've already been punished.

So it's no outlet for you. You don't have any say-so in anything that affects you. Also, we feel that all of the employees currently represented by MCGEO-Local 400 should be a part of the collective bargaining process.

We also feel that the County accepting cards is a good idea. The 10 per cent provision to turn that election around, we don't agree with that. We feel that there should be a minimum of 30 per cent because if the majority wants it, it should be something close to the majority that can turn everything around again.

Okay, on pensions, we feel that bargaining should be allowed on any new pension plan. Also, we feel that some form of binding arbitration is necessary, period. Factfinding and Meet and Confer, that's pretty much the way things are now, and it's not working.

On agency shop, we feel that anybody who benefits from the work of the union and the majority of the people in that union, if they're going to, you know, receive the benefits, then they should have to pay a fee whether they want to join the union or not. It's only fair to the majority.

Thank you.

(General Applause)

MR. HANNA: Thank you, Mr. Shaw. I thank you.

MR. SHAW: You're welcome.

MR. HANNA: Harold Wirth.

MR. WIRTH: Mr. President and members of our County Council, before I begin my testimony, I'd like to introduce you to the Chairman of the Board of the Montgomery County Taxpayers League who is with me on my right, Mr. Richard Mancuso.

My name is Harold Wirth. It hink you all know me and my address. But at our regular meeting of the Board of Directors on April 7th, the Montgomery County Taxpayers League voted unanimously to unalterably oppose the approval of Bill 19-86.

Since union control of government inevitably leads to higher costs of government, our responsibility to the taxpayers of our County dictates that we impress upon you the unfairness of approving any act leading to higher costs and therefore taxes.

There are several additional reasons why we oppose enactment of such an unneeded and as possibly leading to dual sovereignty law which is a contradiction in terms.

Thomas Hobbes and John Locke in 17th Century Great Britain stated that in order for a democratic form of government to retain its integrity, it cannot permit dual sovereignty which is a contradiction in terms.

In recent times, Sylvester Petro, a professor of law at Wake Forest University in North Carolina, has stated in the Wake Forest Law Review: "Government sovereignty and compulsive public sector bargaining are contradictory as well in practice as in logic. The contradiction is so corrosive indeed as to dissolve all into meaningless.

Sovereignty means the supreme and unchallengable power of compulsion. Now, how therefore can a genuine soverign be forced by a private person or agency to do something and remain still soverign?"

The Missouri Supreme Court has stated: "Public office or employment never has been and cannot become a matter of bargaining and contracts."

Our County employees have great advantages over employees in private industry. They have tenure, are assured of steady work, an excellent vacation schedule, and a pension far and above their neighbors in the private sector.

I have friends who retired in the late sixties and seventies whose pensions today far exceed their salaries and wages while in full time County employment. No private organization can possibly afford such a pension program. It would bankrupt any industry which attempted it.

To illustrate the lack of planning on the part of those responsible for the preparation of Bill 19-86, you will note on page 33 of the Legislative Request Report dated March 25, 1986, which states as follows, and I quote:

"Coordination:

Fiscal Impact -- not available.

Economic Impact -- not available.

Evaluation -- not available.

Experience Elsewhere -- not available."

How can any intelligent government enact a law with no knowledge of its financial or economic impact on its taxpaying citizens or with no evaluation or research on the impact of similar actions elsewhere?

On page 30, paragraph 33.111a states that no strikes or lockouts will be permitted. But immediately following on paragraphs 33.111b and c, provisions are outlined as to actions to be taken should a strike occur, which implies that our County Government is powerless to prevent a strike from taking place if this bill is enacted.

Our final plea to you to reject this bill is the fact that you will be breaking faith with your constituents who elected you in good faith, assuming you would justly govern them. This bill takes your elective power right out of your hands and places this power in the hands of union bosses who will control our government. After unions find themselves in power, they immediately endeavor to force their members to pay for political beliefs and candidates they oppose. It becomes apparent that union bosses will elect your members in the future, not your loyal constituents.

Therefore, you should reject this bill, 19-86, in toto.

MR. HANNA: Thank you, Mr. Wirth. Mr. Potter has a question.

MR. POTTER: Yeah. About the will of the electorate, how do you account for the passage of Section 511 of the Charter two years ago?

(General Applause)

MR. WIRTH: Mr. Potter, I really don't believe I understand your question.

MR. POTTER: Well, I understand that a majority of people voting in that election voted to approve Section 511 which provides the power to provide collective bargaining. So it has been to referendum.

MR. WIRTH: You mean your own employees did this?

MR. POTTER: No. I'm talking about a valid question in the election of 1984. I agree with you we should check into experience elsewhere. I don't think it would confirm your ominous testimony. The -- I'm wondering if you're familiar with the basic tenets of the Federal system which does imply divided sovereignty. There are certain things which the states can rule on and certain things which the Federal Government can rule on. And when there is conflict, the Federal Government supersedes. There are a lot of things where there is not conflict, and the Federal Government has no power to interfere. So I think that's an illustration of divided sovereignty, contrary to the quotes that you give from certain academic sources.

MR. WIRTH: I have here, Mr. Potter and Mr. Chairman, Mr. President, several very, very extensive studies on the effects of public unions. I'd like to give them to you for study by your members before you actually enter into a work session on this bill.

MR. POTTER: We'd appreciate the loan.

MR. WIRTH: These are written by authorities on the subject from all over the United States. And I'd like to present them to you.

MR. HANNA: Fine. We'll see that they are available for circulation and reading.

MR. WIRTH: They're all different, Mr. Chairman. So I would appreciate it if you would arrange to have your various members pass them around among each other so they can get the various viewpoints of the authorities on this subject.

MR. HANNA: We'll make them all available to all of the Council.

MR. WIRTH: Thank you, sir.

MR. HANNA: Ms. Gelman.

MS. GELMAN: Yes. Mr. Wirth, the material that's attached to the bill that gives the fiscal and economic impact comes over from the Office of Management and Budget. And I claim no credit for it.

But we will try to get more updated material. Okay? Because that certainly is insufficient. You're absolutely right. We want more material. Thank you.

MR. HANNA: Mr. Scull.

MR. SCULL: I don't recall the Taxpayers League taking the position on the Charter Amendment last time that authorized collective bargaining. I don't remember any testimony at the hearing we held before we put that on the ballot at the recommendation of the Charter Review Commission. It wasn't a matter of discussion at the Taxpayers League in '84, was it?

MR. WIRTH: Not that I recall, Mr. Scull.

MR. SCULL: Thank you.

MR. HANNA: I believe that's all the questions.

MR. WIRTH: It's very possible that the Taxpayers League didn't realize the import of that bill at the time.

MR. SCULL: Well, it was -- as Mr. Potter said, it was approved by some totally overwhelmingly vote, 99 per cent or something like that. There wasn't any --

MR. POTTER: Not quite that much.

MR. SCULL: I don't what it was, but it was --

MEMBER: It was 72.

MR. SCULL: Seventy-two. Well, was there any organized opposition?

MEMBER: None whatsoever.

MR. SCULL: I didn't recall any. Okay, thank you.

MR. WIRTH: I think you'll find a lot of reasons why you want to consider this very carefully before you pass this bill anyway.

MR. HANNA: Thank you, Mr. Wirth. I understand one of the speakers who wasn't here at the time he was called has come in. So I -- Fred Keeney? Is he here? Oh, there he is. Now he is our last speaker.

MR. KEENEY: Mr. President and members of the Council, I feel like I've been around the world tonight. I started off tonight in Bethesda and had to rush to Upper Marlboro to testify before the Prince George's County Council and rushed back over here before you concluded your meetings.

So I'll try to be as brief as possible. I did write up something short. Excuse me? I'm trying to get Metro Station between Rockville and Upper Marlboro.

When you're having joint council sessions on the Park and Planning Budget, everybody gets -- not tonight. They've got over 100 speakers out there.

The Fraternal Order of Police, the Maryland

National County and Park Police, support the rights of the Montgomery County employees to have collective bargaining.

We have reviewed the bill and would make the following suggestions for your review. We would like for you to allow employees of the uniformed services serving at the rank of Lieutenant and below to be included in the unit. To exclude these ranks from the unit would cause eventual compression of salary.

Montgomery County is the only county that I know of at this point in Maryland that excludes Sergeants from bargaining. If you will recall the collective bargaining bill just passed for the Park Police, that includes Sergeants and below.

The recall of the union that there be a requirement of 30 per cent of the employees' signatures on petition, the proposed 10 per cent recall allows union busting by management, that all pensions be allowed to be negotiated, to provide binding arbitration on bargaining impasse. This provides a fair and equitable resolution to problems.

That State Merit System employees be allowed to keep at minimum the Meet and Confer status they enjoy now. The FOP also supports the ability of the union to have involvement in the selection of the Labor Relations Administrator. Collective bargaining fosters good relationships between employee and employer through participatory management. One only needs to look towards Prince George's County where collective bargaining and employeee-management relations over the last five years to realize that it works.

That concludes my written statement. One thing I did want to add. If you recall two or three years ago, Prince George's County was under TRIM. The Labor Relations Administrator for Prince George's County sat down with all the unions -- and I believe they have about 25 different bargaining units they have to bargain with.

They explained the County situation, the predicament they were under TRIM, and the County employees agreed not to ask for cost of living in their budget. And they have binding arbitration. They could have probably gone to an arbitrator and gotten it. But because the relationship was there between the County's administration and the unions, they were dealt with fairly and equitably, and the unions felt right to see the side of the County Government at that point.

I think if you go into collective bargaining with an open mind and you're willing to work with each other, you're going to resolve a lot of problems very quickly and without a lot of problems.

MR. HANNA: Thank you, Mr. Keeney. Thank you all, ladies and gentlemen. That concludes our hearing for this evening.

(Whereupon, at 9:42 o'clock p.m., the hearing was concluded.)

The President in the Chair.

SUBJECT: Bill No. 19-86. County Employee Collective Bargaining

ISSUES DISCUSSED: President Hanna's offer to grant five minutes for summarizing positions on issues to be discussed today to Mr. Willcox, special attorney for the Council, representatives of MCGEO (Local 400), and Mr. Sean Rogers, representing the County Executive, with Mr. Rogers noting that he has spoken with representatives from MCGEO and that the positions of the County Executive and MCGEO on the major issues are substantially similar; explanation provided by Councilmember Gelman regarding the preparation of the subject bill and the attempt made by the Personnel Committee to include the alternatives raised for every major provision; the distinction between trade and technical work, as defined on pages 13 and 14 of the subject bill.

ACTION: Agreed to the provision of two bargaining units (service labor and trades, and office, professional and technical) as set forth in the subject bill.

SUBJECT: Certificate of Appreciation

President Hanna presented a certificate of appreciation to Myriam Bailey, Senior Attorney, Office of Legislative Counsel, in recognition of the legal assistance provided to the Council for the past several years.

SUBJECT: Bill No. 19-86, County Employee Collective Bargaining Legislation (Cont'd)

ISSUES DISCUSSED: Whether the State/County merit employees in the Department of Social Services and all persons in Grade 27 or above should be excluded from the bargaining units; the feasibility of permitting the supplementary salary provided by the County for State/County merit employees to be a bargaining item; comments of Mr. Thompson, representing MCGEO, suggesting that Section 33-63A of the bill could be amended to retain the "meet and confer" benefit for the State/County employees and those individuals above Grade 27 who have been under the "meet and confer" law, which benefit is proposed to be terminated after the collective bargaining units have been established; comments of Mr. Rogers concerning the County Executive's opposition to including County/State merit employees and individuals over Grade 27 under the collective bargaining provisions of the subject bill because the conditions of employment for the State/County positions are substantially determined by the State and because the positions above Grade 27 are held by top level professional staff with special relationships and special circumstances to the County Government; comments of Mr. Willcox that, when collective bargaining is established, the "meet and confer" benefit should be discontinued; Mr. Thompson's comments that, if the employees of these positions were allowed to continue to have the "meet and confer" benefit as set forth in existing law, the Chief Administrative Officer would determine how to place them in employee units.

ACTION: Agreed to amend the subject bill to retain the "meet and confer" provision for County/State employees.

Agreed to exclude employees at Grade 27 and above from the "meet and confer" benefit.

It was noted that, should some reason become apparent in the future for the "meet and confer" benefit for employees at Grade 27 and above, the law could be amended to provide this benefit.

ISSUES DISCUSSED: The provision in the bill for an election in which the employees express their desires with respect to collective bargaining as well as an alternative to an election in which the Labor Relations Administrator accepts cards or petitions signed by a majority of the employees designating the incumbent "meet and confer" union as the bargaining representative unless another union or ten percent of the employees in the unit have petitioned for an election.

ACTION: Amended the bill, page 18, line 23, to substitute 20 for [10] percent of unit employees

by motion of Councilmember Fosler, without objection.

ISSUES DISCUSSED: Whether there is a need to change the "10 percent" on line 26, page 16, (showing support for intervention by another union in certification or decertification election) to "20 percent" representation of the employees within the unit because of the percentage change made on page 18, with Councilmembers noting the distinctions between the two provisions which would not require a change to be made to page 16; amendments proposed by the County Executive in his memorandum of May 29, 1986, page 2, IV, and V.

ACTION: Amended the bill, page 15, line 13, to delete [not]; and on page 16, line 27, added the following phrase in the same manner as described in section (a)(1) above

Mr. Thompson indicated that MCGEO supports the amendment to page 15, providing that the Labor Relations Administrator is the individual who makes a determination concerning the validity of the names submitted on the petition, with Mr. Willcox assuring him that that is the intent of the bill.

ISSUES DISCUSSED: The provision in the bill allowing a majority of those voting to choose the collective bargaining representative; Councilmember Potter's comments regarding his preference for a minimum percentage of employees, approximately 25 percent, to be the determining body rather than a majority of those voting; the amendment which provides that decisions on collective bargaining to be made by a majority of eligible employees; Councilmember Potter's motion, which did not come to a vote, to amend the bill, page 17, line 20, to add after "agent" provided that a majority of the eligible employees voted in the election; the application of the majority vote provisions to both the certification and decertification of an employee organization as the exclusive agent; comments of Mr. Potter with respect to his decision to support the language in the bill rather than the amendment because the provision requiring a majority of employees to vote applies to both certification and decertification; Councilmember Crenca's question regarding the reasons for excluding County Council staff from collective bargaining, with Councilmember Gelman noting that she was told that the Council's role in the collective bargaining process is the basis for excluding employees of the Legislative Branch; the provision in the bill that makes "agency shop" a subject of collective bargaining; Assistant County Attorney Sherman's comments regarding the opinion of the Supreme Court, in the Chicago Teachers' Union v. Hudson case, that an agency shop is permissible and employees can be required to join but the dues they pay must be for collective bargaining purposes only; Councilmember Hanna's concern with respect to requiring an employee to join a union to keep his job; the amendments proposed for page 12, lines 15 through 20, that would remove "agency shop" as a bargaining subject; the requirement under an agency shop that an employee, who for any reason does not wish to join the union, pay a service fee for benefits obtained through collective bargaining or, in lieu of the service fee if the objection is a religious objection, to pay a service fee to a charitable organization which is approved by the certified representative; how a disagreement between the union and the employee about whether a charitable organization chosen by the employee is appropriate might be resolved, with Mr. Rogers noting that this would be part of the dispute resolution process; Councilmember Potter's concern regarding the potential for abuse that exists in providing that the union has to approve the charitable organization to which a service charge is made; Mr. Willcox's proposed amendment to the bill to provide for dispute resolutions in such instances.

ACTION: Amended the bill, page 6, line 13, to add after the word "representative," with provision for dispute resolution if there is not agreement.

ISSUES DISCUSSED: Councilmember Crenca's question regarding whether employees excluded from collective bargaining would be required to pay a service charge for benefits received as a result of collective bargaining, with Mr. Willcox, Mr. Rogers, and Mr. Thompson responding in the negative; the collective bargaining provision for defined contribution pension plans for new employees and for current employees who may decide to transfer from their existing defined benefit plan to a defined contribution plan; the advantages and disadvantages of including pension plans as a subject of collective bargaining; the position of the County Executive in support of the inclusion of all pension plans; the amendments proposed that exclude pension plans from collective bargaining; Mr. Willcox's comments regarding the problem of including pension plans as a subject of collective bargaining because the pension plans are very complicated and, during the collective bargaining process, decisions may be made without time to consider the consequences; Councilmember Potter's comments concerning the reduced liability the County would have under a defined contribution plan as a reason that it may have been included as a subject for collective bargaining; Councilmember Potter's motion to include all pension plans as subjects of collective bargaining; Councilmember Gelman's amendment to Mr. Potter's motion, accepted by Mr. Potter, that the defined benefit plan will be a subject of collective bargaining if a defined contribution plan is not adopted within one year of the effective date of this law; Councilmember Potter's amendment to his motion to provide that a defined benefit plan would not be subject to bargaining unless a defined contribution plan failed to be adopted within one year of the effective date of the law (restated by Mr. Potter, using the following language suggested by Mr. Thompson: For one year from the effective date of the law, pensions will not be open to collective bargaining.).

ACTION: Adopted Mr. Potter's motion as amended and restated to amend the bill to add the following: For one year from the effective date of the law, pensions will not be open to collective bargaining by motion of Councilmember Potter, Councilmember Crenca abstaining.

The meeting adjourned at 5:03 P.M.

TESTIMONY ON COLLECTIVE BARGAINING BILL 19-86 April 22, 1986

Good Evening. My name is Gail Ewing. I live at 12804 North Commons Way, Potomac, Md.

I am a candidate for the Montgomery County Council and prior to February of this year was a County Council employee for 5 years.

I applaud the Council's effort to bring to Montgomery County employees a choice -- Collective Bargaining.

The voter referendum which signaled the public's endorsement of County employees' right to collective bargaining is well served by the intent of the bill before you. At last employees will have a chance to let their voices be heard.

Bill 19-86 contains many provisions and several amendments. I will be submitting written testimony for the record which highlights my position on many of the various areas addressed by the bill.

There are two items, however, which I would like to speak to, tonight.

First, I am particularly pleased that the Council addresses Pay Equity in Section 1 #4 (on page 3). This item reads "All positions involving comparable duties, experience, responsibilities and authority must be paid comparable salaries..." This item goes on to say, however, "inaccordance with the relative value of the service performed." I ask for your consideration of additional wording that clearly states an intention not to tolerate discrimination and to assure pay equity across the board -- in determining the "relative value of the service performed." It is past time for Pay Equity in Montgomery County and certainly any collective bargaining bill must contain Pay Equity as a part of its framework.

The second issue of concern is the fact-finding provision, when there is an impasse in collective bargaining negotiations. Fact-finding is an unsatisfactory end of the road -- management maintains a heavy-hand in the process rather than promoting a management-employee partnership. Fact-finding which draws the Council -- our legislative body -- into the final impasse resolution through public hearings and negotiations (through their representative) with the Union is unwise and unfair. The County Executive, or his designate, must be the good-faith bargainer to the end. County Government must speak with one voice in negotiations and it is imperative that the work of the Executive Branch not be simply a stepping stone to the Council. Collective bargaining by the 7-member legislative body spells trouble. The Council should help determine the parameters of the County Government's position --but once the negotiations have started the Council's role should be in support of the Executive's role as negotiator. With the fact-finding procedure outlined in this bill I forsee major problems ahead and ask that the Council consider stepping back from it's involvement at impasse.

I further request your consideration of binding arbitration, rather than fact-finding at impasse. Leaving an impasse to an impartial judge is fair -- fair to management, employees and the public.

By the same token, just as employees may reject a negotiated settlement between the Union and County Government, the Council should be able to reject the agreement, as well. In both cases, rejection should send the parties back to the bargaining table.

I realize that the issues that I bring to you are controversial. However, in this instance, as with every issue, I have tried to put myself in the place of each party involved. What would I as a voter who voted for the 1982 referendum expect the Council to do? What would I as a County employee expect the Council to do? And, what should I, as a Councilmember, do to live up to the fiscal responsibilities of governing as well as meet the obligation to the citizens of the County who will have to pay for whatever negotiations produce. I am confident that a Collective Bargaining Bill with Pay Equity and binding arbitration will give employees a clear choice and -- is a responsible approach.

I thank you for your consideration of my position on these issues and look forward to the Council's worksessions on the bill in the weeks ahead.

TESTIMONY ON MC 19-86
BY SENATOR STEWART BAINUM, JR.
MONTGOMERY COUNTY COUNCIL
APRIL 22, 1986

I regret being unable to attend today's hearing, but appreciate the opportunity to submit written testimony in support of MC 19-86, which authorizes collective bargaining for 3600 Montgomery County employees. I understand the bill before you represents the result of a year long effort by the County Executive, the Personnel Committee of the County Council, and MCGEO-Local 400 to reach agreement on this issue, and I want to commend these parties for their contributions.

In general, I am pleased with the legislation. For over 50 years private sector employees have enjoyed the right of collective bargaining, as granted by the National Labor Relations Act of 1935. In a democratic society, discrimination should not exist between private and public sector workers. In many cases, employees in both sectors possess the same skills and perform the same functions. Fairness dictates that public sector workers be accorded the rights of their private sector counterparts.

Collective bargaining simply grants employees a voice in determining the economic and non-economic conditions of their employment. Under "meet and confer" conditions, the employer is not obligated to act in good faith towards the resolution of conflict. Collective bargaining, on the other hand, bestows real power on the workers. Subsequent negotiation between equal units can and does result in the amicable resolution of grievances, and achieves greater consistency in personnel policies.

Twenty-two states recognize the fairness in this policy, and have thus conferred such power on all public employees. Eighteen other states, including Maryland, have provided collective bargaining for selected employees by means of county and local ordinances. At present, various Montgomery County workers possess this right, including the police, the firefighters and employees of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission and the Montgomery County Education Association. MC 19-86 simply expands collective bargaining to incorporate a greater number of County workers.

As stated earlier, I do support the legislation. However, I am concerned about the provision defining the topics of negotiation. Pensions constitute an important, if not the most important, element in a worker's benefits package. At present, defined contribution pension plans do not exist, and if the legislation is not approved, no discussion of pensions will be allowed.

I am also concerned about the procedures for ending negotiation impasses. Although the method outlined in the bill parallels the existing process for Montgomery County police, I am afraid an increasing amount of County Council time may have to be devoted towards this end, and I wonder whether such activity is appropriate.

Again, thank you for allowing me the opportunity to offer my comments. I am convinced MC 19-86 will result in more harmonious labor relations and greater efficiency in public administration, and therefore hope you will approve the measure.

Article VII. County Collective Bargaining.

33-101. Declaration of policy.

It is the public policy of Montgomery County to promote a harmonious, peaceful, and cooperative relationship between the County government and its employees and to protect the public by assuring, at all times, the responsive, orderly, and efficient operation of County government and services. Since unresolved disputes in public service are harmful to the public and to employees, adequate means should be available for preventing disputes and for resolving them when they occur. To that end, it is in the public interest that employees have the opportunity to bargain collectively over wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment, as authorized by Charter Section 511, through a representative of their choice, or to refrain from collective bargaining. It is also in the public interest that the County government and a representative of County employees bargain collectively in good faith without interference with the orderly process of government and that they implement any agreements reached through collective bargaining.

The County Council also recognizes that employee organizations and the County government each possess substantial means for initiating actions on wages, hours, and working conditions of employees. Therefore, in order to preserve an appropriate balance between labor and management in the public service, the County Council states that once the employees voluntarily select a representative, collective bargaining shall be used in place of, and not in addition to, existing means for initiating governmental action on subjects that are defined as appropriate for collective bargaining in this article.

33-102. Definitions.

The following terms have the meaning indicated when used in this article:

(1) "Agency shop" means a provision in a collective bargaining agreement requiring, as a condition of continued employment, that bargaining unit employees pay a service fee not greater than the monthly membership dues uniformly and regularly required by the employee organization of all of its members. An agency shop agreement shall not require an employee to pay initiation fees, assessments, fines, or any other collections or their equivalent as a condition of continued employment. A collective bargaining agreement shall not require payment of a service fee by any employee who opposes joining or financially supporting an employee organization on religious grounds. However, the agreement may require that employee to pay an amount equal to the service fee to a nonreligious, nonunion charity, or to any other charitable organization, agreed to by the employee and the certified representative, and to give to the employer and the certified representative written proof of this payment.

(2) "Certified representative" means an employee organization chosen to represent one or both units in accordance with the procedures of this article.

(3) "Collective bargaining" means meeting at reasonable times and places and negotiating in good faith on appropriate subjects as defined under this article. This article shall not be interpreted to compel either party to agree to a proposal or make a concession.

(4) "Employee" means any person who works under the County government merit system on a continuous full-time, career or part-time, career basis, except for the following:

(A) Confidential aides to elected officials.

(B) All persons who are not covered by the County government merit system.

(C) Heads of principal departments, offices, and agencies.

(D) Deputies and assistants to heads of principal departments, offices, and agencies.

(E) Persons who provide direct staff or administrative support to the head of a principal department, office, or agency, or to a deputy or assistant within the immediate office of a head of a principal department, office, or agency.

(F) Persons who report directly to or whose immediate supervisor is the County Executive or the Chief Administrative Officer or their principal aides.

(G) Persons who work for the office of the County Executive and the office of the Chief Administrative Officer.

(H) Persons who work for the County Council.

(I) Persons who work for the office of the County Attorney.

(J) Persons who work for the Office of Management and Budget.

(K) Persons who work for the Personnel Office.

(L) Persons who work for the Merit System Protection Board.

(M) Persons who work on a temporary, seasonal, or substitute basis.

(N) Newly hired persons on probationary status.

(O) Persons who work for the police department who are represented by a certified employee organization under Article V of this chapter.

(P) Officers in the uniformed services (corrections, fire and rescue, police, office of the sheriff) in the rank of sergeant and above. Subject to any limitations in State law, deputy sheriffs below the rank of sergeant are employees.

(Q) Persons who are members of the State merit system.

(R) Supervisors, which means persons having authority to do any of the following:

(i) Hire, assign, transfer, lay off, recall, promote, evaluate, reward, discipline, suspend, or discharge employees, or effectively to recommend any one of these actions.

(ii) Direct the activity of three or more employees.

(iii) Adjust or recommend adjustment of grievances.

(S) Persons in grade 27 or above, whether or not they are supervisors.

(5) "Employee organization" means any organization that admits employees to membership and that has as a primary purpose the representation of employees in collective bargaining.

(6) "Employer" means the County Executive and his or her designees.

(7) "Lockout" means any action that the employer takes to interrupt or prevent the continuity of work properly and usually performed by the employees for the purpose and with the intent of either coercing the employees into relinquishing rights guaranteed by this article or of bringing economic pressure on employees for the purpose of securing the agreement of their certified representative to certain collective bargaining terms.

(8) "Mediation" means an effort by the mediator/fact-finder chosen under this article to assist confidentially in resolving, through interpretation, suggestion, and advice, a dispute arising out of collective bargaining between the employer and the certified representative.

(9) "Strike" means a concerted failure to report for duty, absence, stoppage of work, or abstinence in whole or in part from the full and faithful performance of the duties of employment with the employer, or deviation from normal or proper work duties or activities, where any of the preceding are done in a concerted manner for the purpose of inducing, influencing, or coercing the employer in the determination, implementation, interpretation, or administration of terms or conditions of employment or of the rights, privileges, or obligations of employment or of the status, recognition, or authority of the employee or an employee organization.

(10) "Unit" means either of the units defined in section 33-105.

(11) When either the female or the male pronoun appears herein, it is to be read to include both genders.

33-103. Labor Relations Administrator.

(a) There is established the position of Labor Relations Administrator, to provide for the effective implementation and administration of this article concerning selection, certification and decertification procedures, prohibited practices, and the choice of a mediator/fact-finder. The Labor Relations Administrator shall exercise the following powers and perform the following duties and functions:

(1) Periodically adopt, amend, and rescind, under method (1) of section 2A-15 of this Code, regulations and procedures for the implementation and administration of the duties of the Labor Relations Administrator under this article.

(2) Request from the employer or an employee organization, and the employer or such organization may at its discretion provide, any relevant assistance, service, and data that will enable her properly to carry out her duties under this article.

(3) Hold hearings and make inquiries, administer oaths and affirmations, examine witnesses and documents, take testimony and receive evidence, and compel by issuance of subpoenas the attendance of witnesses and the production of relevant documents.

(4) Hold and conduct elections for certification or decertification pursuant to the provisions of this article and issue the certification or decertification.

(5) Investigate and attempt to resolve or settle, as provided in this article, charges of engaging in prohibited practices. However, if the employer and a certified representative have negotiated a valid grievance procedure, the Labor Relations Administrator shall defer to that procedure for the resolution of disputes properly submissible to the procedure absent a showing that the deferral results in the application of principles repugnant to this article. Furthermore, the Labor Relations Administrator shall defer to State procedures in those matters which are governed by the Law-Enforcement Officers' Bill of Rights, Article 27, Sections 727-734D, Annotated Code of Maryland.

(6) Determine unresolved issues of a person's inclusion in or exclusion from the units.

(7) Obtain any necessary support services and make necessary expenditures in the performance of duties to the extent provided for these purposes in the annual budget of Montgomery County.

(8) Exercise any other powers and perform any other duties and functions as may be specified in this article.

(b) (1) The Labor Relations Administrator must be a person with experience as a neutral in the field of labor relations and must not be a person who, on account of vocation, employment, or affiliation, can be classed as a representative of the interest of the employer or any employee organization.

(2) The first Labor Relations Administrator is appointed by the County Executive, with the confirmation of the County Council, serves for a term of 4 years; and is eligible for reappointment.

(3) After the initial term of office of the Labor Relations Administrator provided in subsection (b)(2), the County Executive shall thereafter appoint the Labor Relations Administrator for a term of 5 years from a list of 5 nominees agreed upon by any certified employee representative(s) and the Chief Administrative Officer, which list may include the incumbent Labor Relations Administrator. Such appointment must be confirmed by the County Council. If the County Council does not confirm the appointment, the new appointment shall be from a new agreed list of 5 nominees. Should there be no certified representative, the Labor Relations Administrator shall be appointed under the procedure and for the term set forth in subsection (b)(2).

(c) The Labor Relations Administrator will be paid a daily fee as set forth by contract with the County, and will be reimbursed for necessary expenses.

33-104. Employee rights.

(a) Employees have the right to:

(1) fo , join, support, contribute to r participate in, or to refrain from forming, joining, supporting, contributing to, or participating in, any employee organization or its lawful activities; and

(2) be represented fairly by their certified representative, if any.

(b) The employer has the duty to extend to the certified representative the exclusive right to represent the employees for the purposes of collective bargaining, including the orderly processing and settlement of grievances as agreed by the parties in accordance with this article.

(c) A certified representative serves as the bargaining agent for all employees in the unit for which it is certified and has the duty to represent fairly and without discrimination all employees in the unit without regard to whether the employees are members of the employee organization, pay dues or other contributions to it, or participate in its affairs. However, it is not a violation of this duty for a certified representative to seek enforcement of an agency shop provision in a valid collective bargaining agreement.

(d) The right of a certified representative to receive voluntary dues or service fee deductions or agency shop provisions shall be determined through negotiations, unless the authority to negotiate these provisions has been suspended under this article. A collective bargaining agreement may not include a provision requiring membership in, participation in the affairs of, or contributions to an employee organization other than an agency shop provision.

33-105. Units for collective bargaining.

(a) There are two units for collective bargaining and for purposes of certification and decertification. Persons in these units are all County government merit system employees working on a continuous full-time, career or part-time, career basis, excluding the categories listed as exceptions to the definition of employee in section 33-102(4) of this article. The employees are divided into 2 units in accordance with the following descriptions:

(1) Service, labor, and trades (SLT) unit. This unit is composed of all eligible classes that are associated with service/ maintenance and skilled crafts. This means job classes in which workers perform duties that result in or contribute to the comfort and convenience of the general public or that contribute to the upkeep and care of buildings, facilities, or grounds of public property. Workers in this group may operate specialized machinery or heavy equipment. These job classes may also require special manual skill and a thorough and comprehensive knowledge of the processes involved in the work that is acquired through on the job training and experience or through apprenticeship or other formal training programs.

(2) Office, professional, and technical (OPT) unit. This unit is composed of all eligible classes associated with office, professional, paraprofessional, and technical functions.

(A) Office. Job classes in which workers are responsbile for internal and external communication, recording and retrieval of data and/or information, and other paperwork required in an office.

(B) Professional. Job classes that require special and theoretical knowledge that is usually acquired through college training or through work experience and other training that provides comparable knowledge.

(C) Paraprofessional. Job classes in which workers perform, in a supportive role, some of the duties of a professional or technician. These duties usually require less formal training and/or experience than is normally required for professional or technical status.

(D) Technical. Job classes that require a combination of basic scientific or technical knowledge and manual skill that can be obtained through specialized post secondary school education or through equivalent on the job training.

(b) Specific job classes included in these units of representation, and not otherwise excluded under section 33-102(4), shall be based on the designations made by the Chief Administrative Officer under the prior meet and confer process. In the event a new classification is created by the County, or an existing classification's duties and responsibilities are substantially changed, the County Personnel Director must place the classification in one of the units or state that the classification falls within one of the exceptions to the definition of employee under this article within 60 days of the creation or substantial alteration of the class and must publish the decision in the Montgomery County Register. Any individual or certified representative disagreeing with the decision of the Personnel Director may, within 10 days of publication, file objections to the decision with the Labor Relations Administrator, with notice to the Personnel Director.

The Labor Relations Administrator shall promptly decide the question on the basis of the duties and responsibilities of the job classification, the unit definition, and the community of interests between and among employees in the job classification and collective bargaining unit.

33-106. Selection, certification, and decertification procedures.

(a) The certification or decertification of an employee organization as the representative of a unit for the purpose of collective bargaining shall be initiated in accordance with the following procedures:

(1) Any employee organization seeking certification as representative of a unit shall file a petition with the Labor Relations Administrator stating its name, address, and its desire to be certified. The employee organization shall also send a copy of the petition, not including the names of the supporting employees, to the employer. The petition shall contain the uncoerced signatures of 30 percent of the employees within the unit signifying their desire to be represented by the employee organization for purposes of collective bargaining.

(2) If an employee organization has been certified, an employee within the unit may file a petition with the Labor Relations Administrator for decertification of this certified representative. The employee shall also send a copy of the petition to the employer and the certified representative, not including the names of the supporting employees. The petition shall contain the uncoerced signatures of 30 percent of the employees within the unit alleging that the employee organization presently certified is no longer the choice of the majority of the employees in the unit.

(3) Petitions may be filed within 30 days following the date on which this article becomes effective. Thereafter, if a lawful collective bargaining agreement is not in effect, petitions may be filed between September 1 and September 30 of any year, but not sooner than 22 months after an election held under this section.

(4) If a lawful collective bargaining agreement is in effect, a petition filed under this section shall not be entertained unless it is filed during September of the final year of the agreement.

(b) If the Labor Relations Administrator determines that a petition is properly supported and timely filed, she shall cause an election of all eligible employees to be held within a reasonable time, but no later than October 20 of any year, to determine if and by whom the employees wish to be represented, as follows:

(1) All elections shall be conducted under the supervision of the Labor Relations Administrator and shall be conducted by secret ballot at the time and place that she directs. The Labor Relations Administrator may select and retain the services of an agency of the State of Maryland, or a similarly neutral body, to assist in conducting the election.

(2) The election ballots shall contain, as choices to be made by the voter, the names of the petitioning or certified employee organization, the name or names of any other employee organization showing written proof at least 10 days before the election of at least 10 percent representation of the employees within the unit, and a choice that the employee does not desire to be represented by any of the named employee organizations.

(3) The employer and each party to the election may be represented by observers selected in accordance with limitations and conditions that the Labor Relations Administrator may prescribe.

(4) Observers may challenge for good cause the eligibility of any person to vote in the election. Challenged ballots shall be impounded pending either agreement of the parties as to the validity of the challenge or the Labor Relations Administrator's decision as to the validity of the challenge, unless the number of challenges is not determinative, in which case the challenged ballots shall be destroyed.

(5) After the polls have been closed, the valid ballots cast shall be counted by the Labor Relations Administrator in the presence of the observers.

(6) The Labor Relations Administrator shall immediately prepare and serve upon the employer and each of the parties a report certifying the results of the election. If an employee organization receives the votes of a majority of the employees who voted, the Labor Relations Administrator shall certify the employee organization so elected as the exclusive agent.

(7) If no employee organization receives the votes of a majority of the employees who voted, the Labor Relations Administrator shall not certify a representative. Unless a majority of the employees who vote choose "no representative", a runoff election shall be conducted. The runoff election shall contain the 2 choices that received the largest and second largest number of votes in the original election.

(c) The Labor Relations Administrator's certification of results is final unless within 7 days after service of the report and the certification, any party serves on all other parties and files with the Labor Relations Administrator objections to the election. Objections shall be verified and shall contain a concise statement of facts constituting the grounds for the objections. The Labor Relations Administrator shall investigate the objections and, if substantial factual issues exist, shall hold a hearing. Otherwise, she may determine the matter without a hearing. The Labor Relations Administrator may invite, either by rule or by invitation, written or oral argument to assist her in determining the merits of the objections. If the Labor Relations Administrator finds that the election was conducted in substantial conformity with this article, she shall confirm the certification initially issued. If the Labor Relations Administrator finds that the election was not held in substantial conformity with this article, then she shall hold another election under this section.

(d) The cost of conducting an election shall be paid by the County.

(e) If, during the 30 days following the effective date of this article, a petition is filed by the incumbent representative of unit employees certified under Article IV of this chapter, and no other employee organization files a valid petition, and no petition calling for an election signed by 10 percent of unit employees has been filed with the Labor Relations Administrator, the incumbent certified representative shall be certified without an election, provided it produces evidence, acceptable to the Labor Relations Administrator and dated after the enactment of this article, that a majority of the employees in the unit desire to be represented by the incumbent representative for the purposes of collective bargaining under the provisions of this article.

33-107. Collective bargaining.

(a) Duty to bargain; matters subject to bargaining.

Upon certification of an employee organization, the employer and the certified representative have the duty to bargain collectively with respect to the following subjects:

(1) Salary and wages, including the increase and/or decrease in the salary and wages budget, and the percentage of any increase in the salary and wages budget that will be devoted to merit increments and cash awards, provided that salaries and wages shall be uniform for all employees in the same classification.

(2) With respect to pension and retirement benefits, only defined-contribution plans for new employees or current employees who choose to transfer from a defined-benefit plan, provided that bargaining rights regarding such plans will not accrue unless and until the County has enacted a law establishing such plans.

(3) Employee benefits such as insurance, leave, holidays, and vacations, but not including pension and retirement benefits except to the extent stated in subsection (a)(2).

(4) Hours and working conditions.

(5) Provisions for the orderly processing and settlement of grievances concerning the interpretation and implementation of a collective bargaining agreement, which may include:

(A) binding third party arbitration, provided that the arbitrator shall have no authority to amend, add to, or subtract from the provisions of the collective bargaining

agreement; and

(B) provisions for exclusivity of forum.

(6) Matters affecting the health and safety of employees.

(7) Amelioration of the effect on employees when the exercise of employer rights listed in subsection (b) causes a loss of existing jobs in the unit.

(b) Employer rights.

This article and any agreement made under it shall not impair the right and responsibility of the employer to perform the following:

(1) Determine the overall budget and mission of the employer and any agency of County government.

(2) Maintain and improve the efficiency and effectiveness of operations.

(3) Determine the services to be rendered and the operations to be performed.

(4) Determine the overall organizational structure, methods, processes, means, job classifications, and personnel by which operations are to be conducted and the location of facilities.

(5) Direct and supervise employees.

(6) Hire, select, and establish the standards governing promotion of employees, and classify positions.

(7) Relieve employees from duties because of lack of work or funds, or under conditions when the employer determines continued work would be inefficient or nonproductive.

(8) Take actions to carry out the mission of government in situations of emergency.

(9) Transfer, assign, and schedule employees.

(10) Determine the size, grades, and composition of the work force.

(11) Set the standards of productivity and technology.

(12) Establish employee performance standards and evaluate employees, except that evaluation procedures shall be a subject for bargaining.

(13) Make and implement systems for awarding outstanding service increments, extraordinary performance awards, and other merit awards.

(14) Introduce new or improved technology, research, development, and services.

(15) Control and regulate the use of machinery, equipment, and other property and facilities of the employer, subject to subsection (a)(6) of this section.

(16) Maintain internal security standards.

(17) Create, alter, combine, contract out, or abolish any job classification, department, operation, unit, or other division or service, provided that no contracting of work which will displace employees may be undertaken by the employer unless 90 days prior to signing the contract written notice has been given to the certified representative.

(18) Suspend, discharge, or otherwise discipline employees for cause, except that, subject to Charter section 404, any such action may be subject to the grievance procedure set forth in the collective bargaining agreement.

(19) Issue and enforce rules, policies, and regulations necessary to carry out these and all other managerial functions which are not inconsistent with this law, Federal or State law, or the terms of the collective bargaining agreement.

(c) Exemption.

This article shall not be construed to limit the discretion of the employer voluntarily to discuss with the representatives of its employees any matter concerning the employer's exercise of any of the rights set forth in this section. However, these matters shall not be subject to bargaining.

(d) The public employer rights set forth in this section are to be considered a part of every agreement reached between the employer and an employee organization.

33-108. Bargaining, impasse, fact-finding, and legislative procedures.

(a) Collective bargaining shall begin no later than November 1 before the beginning of a fiscal year for which there is no agreement between the employer and the certified representative and shall be finished on or before January 15. The resolution of a bargaining impasse or fact-finding shall be finished by February 1.

(b) Any provision for automatic renewal or extension of a collective bargaining agreement is void. An agreement is not valid if it extends for less than one year or for more than 3 years. All agreements become effective July 1 and end June 30.

(c) A collective bargaining agreement becomes effective only after ratification by the employer and by the certified representative. The certified representative may provide its own rules for ratification procedures.

(d) Before November 10 of any year in which the employer and the certified representative bargain collectively, the Labor Relations Administrator shall appoint a mediator/fact-finder, who may be a person recommended to her by both parties. The mediator/fact-finder shall be available during the period from January 2 to February 1. Fees and expenses of the mediator/fact-finder shall be shared equally by the employer and the certified representative.

(e) (1) During the course of collective bargaining, either party may declare an impasse and request the services of the mediator/fact-finder, or the parties may jointly request his services before declaration of an impasse. If the parties do not reach an agreement by January 15, an impasse exists.

(2) The dispute shall be submitted to the mediator/fact-finder whenever an impasse has been reached, or before that as provided in subsection (e)(1). The mediator/fact-finder shall engage in mediation by bringing the parties together voluntarily under such favorable circumstances as will tend to bring about the settlement of the dispute.

(3) If and when the mediator/fact-finder finds in his sole discretion that the parties are at a bona fide impasse, he shall implement the following fact-finding process:

(A) He shall require the parties to submit jointly a memorandum of all items previously agreed upon, and separate memoranda of their proposals on all items not previously agreed upon.

(B) He may require the parties to submit evidence or make oral or written argument in support of their proposals. He may hold a hearing for this purpose at a time, date, and place selected by him. This hearing shall not be open to the public.

(C) On or before February 1, the mediator/fact-finder shall issue a report of his findings of fact and recommendations on those matters still in dispute between the parties. The report shall be submitted to the parties but shall not be made public at this time.

(D) In making findings of fact and recommendations, the mediator/fact-finder may take into account only the following factors:

(i) Past collective bargaining agreements between the parties, including the past bargaining history that led to the agreements, or the pre-collective bargaining history of employee wages, hours, benefits, and working conditions.

(ii) Comparison of wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of similar employees of other public employers in the Washington Metropolitan Area and in Maryland.

(iii) Comparison of wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of other Montgomery County personnel.

(iv) Wages, benefits, hours, and other working conditions of similar employees of private employers in Montgomery County.

(v) The interest and welfare of the public.

(vi) The ability of the employer to finance economic adjustments and the effect of the adjustments upon the normal standard of public services provided by the employer.

(f) After receiving the report of the mediator/fact-finder, the parties shall meet again to bargain. If 10 days after the parties receive the report they have not reached full agreement, or if either party does not accept, in whole or in part, the recommendations of the mediator/fact-finder, the report of the mediator/fact-finder shall be made public by sending it to the Council. The mediator/fact-finder shall also send the Council the joint memorandum of items agreed upon, up-dated with any items later agreed upon. The parties shall also send to the Council separate memoranda stating their positions on matters still in dispute.

(g) The budget that the employer submits to the Council shall include the items that have been agreed to, as well as the employer's position on matters still in dispute. Any agreed term or condition submitted to the Council that requires an appropriation of funds or the enactment, repeal, or modification of any County law or regulation shall be identified to the Council by the employer. The employer shall make a good faith effort to have any term or condition that has been agreed to implemented by Council action.

(h) The Council may hold a public hearing to enable the parties and the public to testify on the agreement and the recommendations for resolving bargaining disputes.

(i) On or before April 15, the Council shall indicate by a majority vote its intention to appropriate or otherwise implement the items that have been agreed to, or its intention not to do so, and shall state its reasons for any intent to reject any part of the items that have been agreed to. The Council shall also indicate by a majority vote its pos on on disputed matters.

(j) Then the Council shall designate a representative to meet with the parties and present the Council's views in the parties' further negotiations on disputed matters and/or agreed matters that the Council has indicated its intention to reject. The results of the negotiation, whether a complete or a partial agreement, shall be submitted to the Council on or before May 1. The Council may extend this deadline for no more than one week. Any agreement shall provide for automatic reduction or elimination of wage and/or benefits adjustments if:

(1) the Council does not take action necessary to implement the agreement, or a part of it;

(2) funds are not appropriated; or

(3) lesser amounts than those stated in the agreement are appropriated.

(k) The Council shall take whatever actions it considers required by the public interest with respect to matters still in dispute between the parties. However, those actions shall not be part of the agreement between the parties unless the parties specifically incorporate them in the agreement.

33-109. Prohibited practices.

(a) The employer or its agents or representatives are prohibited from any of the following:

(1) Interfering with, restraining, or coercing employees in the exercise of any rights granted to them under this article.

(2) Dominating or interfering with the formation or administration of any employee organization or contributing financial or other support to it, under an agreement or otherwise. However, the employer and a certified representative may agree to and apply an agency shop provision under this article and a voluntary dues or service fee deduction provision, and may agree to reasonable use of County facilities for communicating with employees.

(3) Encouraging or discouraging membership in any employee organization by discriminating in hiring, tenure, wages, hours, or conditions of employment. However, nothing in this article precludes an agreement from containing a provision for an agency shop.

(4) Discharging or discriminating against a public employee because she or he files charges, gives testimony, or otherwise lawfully aids in the administration of this article.

(5) Refusing to bargain collectively with the certified representative.

(6) Refusing to reduce to writing or refusing to sign a bargaining agreement that has been agreed to in all respects.

(7) Refusing to process or arbitrate a grievance if required under a grievance procedure contained in a collective bargaining agreement.

(8) Directly or indirectly opposing the appropriation of funds or the enactment of legislation by the County Council to implement an agreement reached between the employer and the certified representative under this article.

(9) Engaging in a lockout of employees.

(b) Employee organizations, their agents, representatives, and persons who work for them are prohibited from any of the following:

(1) Interfering with, restraining, or coercing the employer or employees in the exercise of any rights granted under this article.

(2) Restraining, coercing, or interfering with the employer in the selection of its representative for the purposes of collective bargaining or the adjustment of grievances.

(3) Refusing to bargain collectively with the employer if the employee organization is the certified representative.

(4) Refusing to reduce to writing or refusing to sign a bargaining agreement which has been agreed to in all respects.

(5) Hindering or preventing, by threats of violence, intimidation, force, or coercion of any kind, the pursuit of any lawful work or employment by any person, public or private, or obstructing or otherwise unlawfully interfering with the entrance to or exit from any place of employment, or obstructing or unlawfully interfering with the free and uninterrupted use of public roads, streets, highways, railways, airports, or other ways of travel or conveyance by any person, public or private.

(6) Hindering or preventing by threats, intimidation, force, coercion or sabotage, the obtaining, use, or disposition of materials, supplies, equipment, or services by the employer.

(7) Taking or retaining unauthorized possession of property of the employer, or refusing to do work or use certain goods or materials as lawfully required by the employer.

(8) Causing or attempting to cause the employer to pay or deliver or agree to pay or deliver any money or other thing of value, in the nature of an exaction, for services which are neither performed nor to be performed.

(c) A charge of prohibited practice may be filed by the employer, an employee organization, or any individual employee. The charge or charges shall be filed with the Labor Relations Administrator, and copies shall be sent to the party alleged to have committed a prohibited practice. All charges shall contain a statement of facts sufficient to enable the Labor Relations Administrator to investigate the charge. The Labor Relations Administrator may request withdrawal of and, if necessary, summarily dismiss charges if they are insufficiently supported in fact or in law to warrant a hearing. The Labor Relations Administrator has the authority to maintain whatever independent investigation she determines is necessary and to develop regulations for an independent investigation. If, upon investigation, the Labor Relations Administrator finds that a charge is sufficiently supported to raise an issue of fact or law, she shall, if she is unable to achieve settlement or resolution of the matter, hold a hearing on the charge after notification to the parties. In any hearing, charging parties shall present evidence in support of the charges, and the party or parties charged shall have the right to file an answer to the charges, to appear in person or otherwise and to present evidence in defense against the charges.

(d) If the Labor Relations Administrator determines that the person charged has committed a prohibited practice, she shall make findings of fact and conclusions of law and may issue an order requiring the person charged to cease and desist from the prohibited practice, and may take affirmative actions that will remedy the violation of this article. Remedies of the Labor Relations Administrator include reinsta. .g employees with or without ba pay, making employees whole for any loss relating to County employment suffered as a result of any prohibited practices, or withdrawing or suspending the employee organization's authority to negotiate or continue an agency shop provision or a voluntary dues or service fee deduction provision. If the Labor Relations Administrator finds that the party charged has not committed any prohibited practices, she shall make findings of fact and conclusions of law and issue an order dismissing the charges.

(e) The Labor Relations Administrator shall not receive or entertain charges based upon an alleged prohibited practice occurring more than 6 months before the filing of the charge.

33-110. Expression of views.

(a) The expression or dissemination of any views, argument, or opinion; whether orally, in writing, or otherwise, does not constitute and is not evidence of a prohibited practice under any of the provisions of this law, nor is it grounds for invalidating any election conducted under this law if the expression or dissemination does not contain a threat of reprisal or promise of benefit.

(b) Recognizing an employee organization does not preclude the County from dealing with religious, social, fraternal, professional, or other lawful associations with respect to matters or policies that involve individual members of the associations or are of particular applicability to it or its members.

33-111. Strikes and lockouts.

(a) An employee or employee organization shall not either directly or indirectly cause, instigate, encourage, condone, or engage in any strike, or the employer in any lockout. An employee or employee organization shall not obstruct, impede, or restrict, either directly or indirectly, any attempt to terminate a strike.

(b) The employer shall not pay, reimburse, make whole, or otherwise compensate any employee for or during the period when that employee is directly or indirectly engaged in a strike, nor shall the employer thereafter compensate an employee who struck for wages or benefits lost during the strike.

(c) If an employee or employee organization violates the provisions of this section, the employer, after adequate notice and a fair hearing before the Labor Relations Administrator who finds that the violations have occurred and finds that any or all of the following actions are necessary in the public interest, may impose any of the following sanctions, subject to the Law-Enforcement Officers' Bill of Rights, Article 27, Sections 727-734D, Annotated Code of Maryland:

(1) Impose disciplinary action, including dismissal from employment, on employees engaged in the conduct.

33-112. Effect of prior enactments.

Any laws, executive orders, or regulations adopted by the County and any department or ac cy of the County that are or m be considered inconsistent with the provisions of this article shall not be held to be repealed or modified until they are specifically repealed or modified by the County or any department or agency of the County.

Key Provisions

1. Two bargaining units -- (Service Labor, and Trades [SLT] and Office, Professional, and Technical [OPT] units), with certain exclusions; no supervisory unit. [Sections 33-102(4), 105, 106].

Amendment: Single unit of all employees. [Amendment #1]. (35)(36)

2. Exclusions from the bargaining units: The employees excluded from the collective bargaining units are in most respects the same as those excluded from the meet and confer units. There have, however, been some additions to the list of those excluded from the units, principally all employees in the Office of the County Executive and the Office of the CAO, all County Council employees, officers in the uniformed services in the rank of sergeant and above, State Merit System employees, all persons in Grade 27 or above, temporary employees, and newly hired employees on probationary status. [Section 33-102(4)].

3. Choice of Collective Bargaining Representative [Section 33-106].

The draft provides for an election in which the employees may express their desires with respect to collective bargaining. The bill further provides that a majority of those voting will determine the outcome. An amendment provides that a majority of the unit must participate in the election for the result to be determinative. [Amendment #2]. (37)

The bill also provides an alternative to an election, which is that the Labor Relations Administrator may accept cards or petitions signed by a majority of the employees designating the incumbent meet and confer Union as the bargaining representative, unless another Union, or 10% of the employees in the unit, have petitioned for an election. An amendment provides that the only method of choice shall be an election. [Amendment #3]. (38)

4. Subjects of Bargaining [Section 33-107(a)].

A. Salaries and wages; hours and working conditions; health and safety.

B. Agency Shop, with religious exception (from state teacher law).

Amendments: (1) No agency shop is permissible, or (2) agency shop is permissible only for new employees and employees who have not reached 10 years service as of the effective date of the bill. [Amendments #s 4 & 5]. (39) (40)

C. Pensions: (1) The bill states the County must bargain only about defined-contribution pension plans for new employees and for current employees who may choose to switch from their existing defined-benefit plan to a defined-contribution plan. Such bargaining would not occur unless and until the County enacts a law establishing a defined-contributon plan for new employees. The existing defined-benefit plans for current employees would not be subject to bargaining.

Amendment: No bargaining on pensions. [Amendment #6]. (41)

D. Binding grievance arbitration.

Amendment: Binding grievance arbitration for discipline and discharge cases only; for other cases arbitration is advisory only, unless the parties agree the decision in a particular case will be binding. [Amendment #7]. (42)

E. "Effects" bargaining. The bill does not import the provision of the police law which mandates bargaining about "the effect on employees of management's exercise" of all its management rights. The bill confines "effects" bargaining to bargaining about effects on employees when the exercise of management rights causes the loss of bargaining unit jobs. An amendment uses the police law's broad "effects" bargaining language. [Amendment #8]. (43)

5. Management rights [Section 33-107(b)]. The bill adds more detail to the management rights section than is in the police law. Note: One of the stated management rights is the right to contract out, modified by a proviso that no contracting of work which will displace employees may be undertaken by the County without 90 days notice to the Union.

6. Bargaining impasse to be broken with fact-finding, not binding arbitration [Section 33-108]. The fact-finder makes recommendations on disputed issues. Parties bargain 10 more days. If full agreement is not reached, Council gets recommendations of fact-finder and both parties, participates in final bargaining as in police law, and has the final say as in police law.

7. Timing of bargaining [Section 33-108]. Under the bill, bargaining would commence no later than November 1, 1986, if a Union is certified as the bargaining representative. Therefore, bargaining would start with the present Executive, and finish with the new Executive and the new Council. Under this schedule the first contract would be effective July 1, 1987. An amendment provides for bargaining of a short contract for 1986-87 that would contain only non-economic items. [Amendment #9 and #13] (44) (48)

8. Labor Relations Administrator [Section 33-103]. This official, appointed by the Executive and confirmed by the Council, conducts elections and judges "prohibited practices", as in police law. The initial term of the LRA is four years. Further terms are five years. The Union is able, if it chooses, to veto the LRA's reappointment. An amendment gives the Union a formal role in the appointment process. [Amendment #10]. (45)

9. Mandated 75% cost-of-living law is repealed for all County government personnel if and when the employees eligible for collective bargaining choose a Union pursuant to the new law. [p. 5 of bill].

10. Meet and confer stays on books for now, but would become inapplicable if and when employees choose a Union pursuant to the new law. [p. 4 of bill]. An amendment provides that State merit system employees, who are excluded from collective bargaining under the bill, would keep meet and confer rights. [Amendment #12]. (47)

33-11. Classification; salary and wage plans.

(b) Uniform salary plan. [[There is hereby established for all classes of positions in the merit system a uniform salary plan entitled the "general salary schedule" which shall contain grades, salary rates and ranges for each grade. All classes of positions shall be assigned an appropriate grade under the general salary schedule by the chief administrative officer. All positions involving comparable duties, experience, responsibilities and authority shall be paid comparable salaries in accordance with the relative value of the services performed. The chief administrative officer shall, subject to the approval of the county council, promulgate and from time to time amend the general salary schedule, compensation policies for overtime, pay differential and other appropriate salary and wage benefits.]]

(1) Subject to approval by the County Council, the Chief Administrative Officer must issue and periodically amend a uniform salary plan known as the "general salary schedule" for all classes of positions in the merit system.

(2) The general salary schedule must contain grades, salary rates, and salary ranges for each grade.

(3) The Chief Administrative Officer must assign an appropriate grade under the general salary schedule to all classes of positions.

(4) All positions involving comparable duties, experience, responsibilities, and authority must be paid comparable salaries in accordance with the relative value of the services performed.

(5) In setting salary rates, the Chief Administrative Officer must consider experience, prevailing salary rates for comparable services in both the public and private sectors, living costs, and fringe and other benefits received by the employee under the merit system.

(6) Subject to approval by the County Council, the Chief Administrative Officer must also issue and periodically amend compensation policies for overtime, pay differentials, and other appropriate salary and wage benefits.

(7) Any plan, policy, or schedule issued by the Chief Administrative Officer under this subsection is subject to the limitations in Articles V and VII of this chapter regarding County police department and government employees who are represented by a certified employee organization.

Sec. 2. Sections 33-63A and 33-74(d) and Article VII of Chapter 33 are added as follows:

33-74. Cost-of-living adjustment.

(d) This section is automatically repealed upon certification that the employees in the units are represented for the purpose of collective bargaining under Article VII of this chapter.

Article VII. County Collective Bargaining.

33-101. Declaration of policy.

It is the public policy of Montgomery County to promote a harmonious, peaceful, and cooperative relationship between the County government and its employees and to protect the public by assuring, at all times, the responsive, orderly, and efficient operation of County government and services. Since unresolved disputes in public service are harmful to the public and to employees, adequate means should be available for preventing disputes and for resolving them when they occur. To that end, it is in the public interest that employees have the opportunity to bargain collectively over wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment, as authorized by Charter Section 511, through a representative of their choice, or to refrain from collective bargaining. It is also in the public interest that the County government and a representative of County employees bargain collectively in good faith without interference with the orderly process of government and that they implement any agreements reached through collective bargaining.

The County Council also recognizes that employee organizations and the County government each possess substantial means for initiating actions on wages, hours, and working conditions of employees. Therefore, in order to preserve an appropriate balance between labor and management in the public service, the County Council states that once the employees voluntarily select a representative, collective bargaining shall be used in place of, and not in addition to, existing means for initiating governmental action on subjects that are defined as appropriate for collective bargaining in this article.

33-102. Definitions.

A collective bargaining agreement shall not require payment of a service fee by any employee who opposes joining or financially supporting an employee organization on religious grounds. However, the agreement may require that employee to pay an amount equal to the service fee to a nonreligious, nonunion charity, or to any other charitable organization, agreed to by the employee and the certified representative, and to give to the employer and the certified representative written proof of this payment.

The Labor Relations Administrator shall exercise the following powers and perform the following duties and functions:

(4) Hold and conduct elections for certification or decertification pursuant to the provisions of this article and issue the certification or decertification.

(5) Investigate and attempt to resolve or settle, as provided in this article, charges of engaging in prohibited practices. However, if the employer and a certified representative have negotiated a valid grievance procedure, the Labor Relations Administrator shall defer to that procedure for the resolution of disputes properly submissible to the procedure absent a showing that the deferral results in the application of principles repugnant to this article. Furthermore, the Labor Relations Administrator shall defer to State procedures in those matters which are governed by the Law-Enforcement Officers' Bill of Rights, Article 27, Sections 727-734D, Annotated Code of Maryland.

(6) Determine unresolved issues of a person's inclusion in or exclusion from the units.

(7) Obtain any necessary support services and make necessary expenditures in the performance of duties to the extent provided for these purposes in the annual budget of Montgomery County.

(8) Exercise any other powers and perform any other duties and

(2) The first Labor Relations Administrator is appointed by the County Executive, with the confirmation of the County Council, serves for a term of 4 years, and is eligible for reappointment.

(3) After the initial term of office of the Labor Relations Administrator provided in subsection (b)(2), the County Executive shall thereafter appoint the Labor Relations Administrator for a term of 5 years from a list of 5 nominees agreed upon by any certified employee representative(s) and the Chief Administrative Officer, which list may include the incumbent Labor Relations Administrator. Such appointment must be confirmed by the County Council. If the County Council does not confirm the appointment, the new appointment shall be from a new agreed list of 5 nominees. Should there be no certified representative, the Labor Relations Administrator shall be appointed under the procedure and for the term set forth in subsection (b)(2).

(c) The Labor Relations Administrator will be paid a daily fee as set forth by contract with the County, and will be reimbursed for necessary expenses.

33-104. Employee rights.

(2) be represented fairly by their certified representative, if any.

(b) The employer has the duty to extend to the certified representative the exclusive right to represent the employees for the purposes of collective bargaining, including the orderly processing and settlement of grievances as agreed by the parties in accordance with this article.

(c) A certified representative serves as the bargaining agent for all employees in the unit for which it is certified and has the duty to represent fairly and without discrimination all employees in the unit without regard to whether the employees are members of the employee organization, pay dues or other contributions to it, or participate in its affairs. However, it is not a violation of this duty for a certified representative to seek enforcement of an agency shop provision in a valid collective bargaining agreement.

(d) The right of a certified representative to receive voluntary dues or service fee deductions or agency shop provisions shall be determined through negotiations, unless the authority to negotiate these provisions has been suspended under this article. A collective bargaining agreement may not include a provision requiring membership in, participation in the affairs of, or contributions to an employee organization other than an agency shop provision.

33-105. Units for collective bargaining.

(a) There are two units for collective bargaining and for purposes of certification and decertification. Persons in these units are all County government merit system employees working on a continuous full-time, career or part-time, career basis, excluding the categories listed as exceptions to the definition of employee in section 33-102(4) of this article. The employees are divided into 2 units in accordance with the following descriptions:

(1) Service, labor, and trades (SLT) unit. This unit is composed of all eligible classes that are associated with service/ maintenance and skilled crafts. This means job classes in which workers perform duties that result in or contribute to the comfort and convenience of the general public or that contribute to the upkeep and care of buildings, facilities, or grounds of public property. Workers in this group may operate specialized machinery or heavy equipment. These job classes may also require special manual skill and a thorough and comprehensive knowledge of the processes involved in the work that is acquired through on the job training and experience or through apprenticeship or other formal training programs.

(2) Office, professional, and technical (OPT) unit. This unit is composed of all eligible classes associated with office, professional, paraprofessional, and technical functions.

(A) Office. Job classes in which workers are responsbile for internal and external communication, recording and retrieval of data and/or information, and other paperwork required in an office.

(B) Professional. Job classes that require special and theoretical knowledge that is usually acquired through college training or through work experience and other training that provides comparable knowledge.

(C) Paraprofessional. Job classes in which workers perform, in a supportive role, some of the duties of a professional or technician. These duties usually require less formal training and/or experience than is normally required for professional or technical status.

(D) Technical. Job classes that require a combination of basic scientific or technical knowledge and manual skill that can be obtained through specialized post secondary school education or through equivalent on the job training.

(b) Specific job classes included in these units of representation, and not otherwise excluded under section 33-102(4), shall be based on the designations made by the Chief Administrative Officer under the prior meet and confer process. In the event a new classification is created by the County, or an existing classification's duties and responsibilities are substantially changed, the County Personnel Director must place the classification in one of the units or state that the classification falls within one of the exceptions to the definition of employee under this article within 60 days of the creation or substantial alteration of the class and must publish the decision in the Montgomery County Register. Any individual or certified representative disagreeing with the decision of the Personnel Director may, within 10 days of publication, file objections to the decision with the Labor Relations Administrator, with notice to the Personnel Director.

The Labor Relations Administrator shall promptly decide the question on the basis of the duties and responsibilities of the job classification, the unit definition, and the community of interests between and among employees in the job classification and collective bargaining unit.

33-106. Selection, certification, and decertification procedures.

(a) The certification or decertification of an employee organization as the representative of a unit for the purpose of collective bargaining shall be initiated in accordance with the following procedures:

(1) Any employee organization seeking certification as representative of a unit shall file a petition with the Labor Relations Administrator stating its name, address, and its desire to be certified. The employee organization shall also send a copy of the petition, not including the names of the supporting employees, to the employer. The petition shall contain the uncoerced signatures of 30 percent of the employees within the unit signifying their desire to be represented by the employee organization for purposes of collective bargaining.

(2) If an employee organization has been certified, an employee within the unit may file a petition with the Labor Relations Administrator for decertification of this certified representative. The employee shall also send a copy of the petition to the employer and the certified representative, not including the names of the supporting employees. The petition shall contain the uncoerced signatures of 30 percent of the employees within the unit alleging that the employee organization presently certified is no longer the choice of the majority of the employees in the unit.

(3) Petitions may be filed within 30 days following the date on which this article becomes effective. Thereafter, if a lawful collective bargaining agreement is not in effect, petitions may be filed between September 1 and September 30 of any year, but not sooner than 22 months after an election held under this section.

(4) If a lawful collective bargaining agreement is in effect, a petition filed under this section shall not be entertained unless it is filed during September of the final year of the agreement.

(b) If the Labor Relations Administrator determines that a petition is properly supported and timely filed, she shall cause an election of all eligible employees to be held within a reasonable time, but no later than October 20 of any year, to determine if and by whom the employees wish to be represented, as follows:

(1) All elections shall be conducted under the supervision of the Labor Relations Administrator and shall be conducted by secret ballot at the time and place that she directs. The Labor Relations Administrator may select and retain the services of an agency of the State of Maryland, or a similarly neutral body, to assist in conducting the election.

(2) The election ballots shall contain, as choices to be made by the voter, the names of the petitioning or certified employee organization, the name or names of any other employee organization showing written proof at least 10 days before the election of at least 10 percent representation of the employees within the unit, and a choice that the employee does not desire to be represented by any of the named employee organizations.

(3) The employer and each party to the election may be represented by observers selected in accordance with limitations and conditions that the Labor Relations Administrator may prescribe.

(4) Observers may challenge for good cause the eligibility of any person to vote in the election. Challenged ballots shall be impounded pending either agreement of the parties as to the validity of the challenge or the Labor Relations Administrator's decision as to the validity of the challenge, unless the number of challenges is not determinative, in which case the challenged ballots shall be destroyed.

(5) After the polls have been closed, the valid ballots cast shall be counted by the Labor Relations Administrator in the presence of the observers.

(6) The Labor Relations Administrator shall immediately prepare and serve upon the employer and each of the parties a report certifying the results of the election. If an employee organization receives the votes of a majority of the employees who voted, the Labor Relations Administrator shall certify the employee organization so elected as the exclusive agent.

(7) If no employee organization receives the votes of a majority of the employees who voted, the Labor Relations Administrator shall not certify a representative. Unless a majority of the employees who vote choose "no representative", a runoff election shall be conducted. The runoff election shall contain the 2 choices that received the largest and second largest number of votes in the original election.

(c) The Labor Relations Administrator's certification of results is final unless within 7 days after service of the report and the certification, any party serves on all other parties and files with the Labor Relations Administrator objections to the election. Objections shall be verified and shall contain a concise statement of facts constituting the grounds for the objections. The Labor Relations Administrator shall investigate the objections and, if substantial factual issues exist, shall hold a hearing. Otherwise, she may determine the matter without a hearing. The Labor Relations Administrator may invite, either by rule or by invitation, written or oral argument to assist her in determining the merits of the objections. If the Labor Relations Administrator finds that the election was conducted in substantial conformity with this article, she shall confirm the certification initially issued. If the Labor Relations Administrator finds that the election was not held in substantial conformity with this article, then she shall hold another election under this section.

(d) The cost of conducting an election shall be paid by the County.

(e) If, during the 30 days following the effective date of this article, a petition is filed by the incumbent representative of unit employees certified under Article IV of this chapter, and no other employee organization files a valid petition, and no petition calling for an election signed by 10 percent of unit employees has been filed with the Labor Relations Administrator, the incumbent certified representative shall be certified without an election, provided it produces evidence, acceptable to the Labor Relations Administrator and dated after the enactment of this article, that a majority of the employees in the unit desire to be represented by the incumbent representative for the purposes of collective bargaining under the provisions of this article.

33-107. Collective bargaining.

(a) Duty to bargain; matters subject to bargaining.

Upon certification of an employee organization, the employer and the certified representative have the duty to bargain collectively with respect to the following subjects:

(1) Salary and wages, including the increase and/or decrease in the salary and wages budget, and the percentage of any increase in the salary and wages budget that will be devoted to merit increments and cash awards, provided that salaries and wages shall be uniform for all employees in the same classification.

(2) With respect to pension and retirement benefits, only defined-contribution plans for new employees or current employees who choose to transfer from a defined-benefit plan, provided that bargaining rights regarding such plans will not accrue unless and until the County has enacted a law establishing such plans.

(3) Employee benefits such as insurance, leave, holidays, and vacations, but not including pension and retirement benefits except to the extent stated in subsection (a)(2).

(4) Hours and working conditions.

(5) Provisions for the orderly processing and settlement of grievances concerning the interpretation and implementation of a collective bargaining agreement, which may include:

(A) binding third party arbitration, provided that the arbitrator shall have no authority to amend, add to, or subtract from the provisions of the collective bargaining

agreement; and

(B) provisions for exclusivity of forum.

(6) Matters affecting the health and safety of employees.

(7) Amelioration of the effect on employees when the exercise of employer rights listed in subsection (b) causes a loss of existing jobs in the unit.

(b) Employer rights.

This article and any agreement made under it shall not impair the right and responsibility of the employer to perform the following:

(1) Determine the overall budget and mission of the employer and any agency of County government.

(2) Maintain and improve the efficiency and effectiveness of operations.

(3) Determine the services to be rendered and the operations to be performed.

(4) Determine the overall organizational structure, methods, processes, means, job classifications, and personnel by which operations are to be conducted and the location of facilities.

(5) Direct and supervise employees.

(6) Hire, select, and establish the standards governing promotion of employees, and classify positions.

(7) Relieve employees from duties because of lack of work or funds, or under conditions when the employer determines continued work would be inefficient or nonproductive.

(8) Take actions to carry out the mission of government in situations of emergency.

(9) Transfer, assign, and schedule employees.

(10) Determine the size, grades, and composition of the work force.

(11) Set the standards of productivity and technology.

(12) Establish employee performance standards and evaluate employees, except that evaluation procedures shall be a subject for bargaining.

(13) Make and implement systems for awarding outstanding service increments, extraordinary performance awards, and other merit awards.

(14) Introduce new or improved technology, research, development, and services.

(15) Control and regulate the use of machinery, equipment, and other property and facilities of the employer, subject to subsection (a)(6) of this section.

(16) Maintain internal security standards.

(17) Create, alter, combine, contract out, or abolish any job classification, department, operation, unit, or other division or service, provided that no contracting of work which will displace employees may be undertaken by the employer unless 90 days prior to signing the contract written notice has been given to the certified representative.

(18) Suspend, discharge, or otherwise discipline employees for cause, except that, subject to Charter section 404, any such action may be subject to the grievance procedure set forth in the collective bargaining agreement.

(19) Issue and enforce rules, policies, and regulations necessary to carry out these and all other managerial functions which are not inconsistent with this law, Federal or State law, or the terms of the collective bargaining agreement.

(c) Exemption.

This article shall not be construed to limit the discretion of the employer voluntarily to discuss with the representatives of its employees any matter concerning the employer's exercise of any of the rights set forth in this section. However, these matters shall not be subject to bargaining.

(d) The public employer rights set forth in this section are to be considered a part of every agreement reached between the employer and an employee organization.

33-108. Bargaining, impasse, fact-finding, and legislative procedures.

(a) Collective bargaining shall begin no later than November 1 before the beginning of a fiscal year for which there is no agreement between the employer and the certified representative and shall be finished on or before January 15. The resolution of a bargaining impasse or fact-finding shall be finished by February 1.

(b) Any provision for automatic renewal or extension of a collective bargaining agreement is void. An agreement is not valid if it extends for less than one year or for more than 3 years. All agreements become effective July 1 and end June 30.

(c) A collective bargaining agreement becomes effective only after ratification by the employer and by the certified representative. The certified representative may provide its own rules for ratification procedures.

(d) Before November 10 of any year in which the employer and the certified representative bargain collectively, the Labor Relations Administrator shall appoint a mediator/fact-finder, who may be a person recommended to her by both parties. The mediator/fact-finder shall be available during the period from January 2 to February 1. Fees and expenses of the mediator/fact-finder shall be shared equally by the employer and the certified representative.

(e) (1) During the course of collective bargaining, either party may declare an impasse and request the services of the mediator/fact-finder, or the parties may jointly request his services before declaration of an impasse. If the parties do not reach an agreement by January 15, an impasse exists.

(2) The dispute shall be submitted to the mediator/fact-finder whenever an impasse has been reached, or before that as provided in subsection (e)(1). The mediator/fact-finder shall engage in mediation by bringing the parties together voluntarily under such favorable circumstances as will tend to bring about the settlement of the dispute.

(3) If and when the mediator/fact-finder finds in his sole discretion that the parties are at a bona fide impasse, he shall implement the following fact-finding process:

(A) He shall require the parties to submit jointly a memorandum of all items previously agreed upon, and separate memoranda of their proposals on all items not previously agreed upon.

(B) He may require the parties to submit evidence or make oral or written argument in support of their proposals. He may hold a hearing for this purpose at a time, date, and place selected by him. This hearing shall not be open to the public.

(C) On or before February 1, the mediator/fact-finder shall issue a report of his findings of fact and recommendations on those matters still in dispute between the parties. The report shall be submitted to the parties but shall not be made public at this time.

(D) In making findings of fact and recommendations, the mediator/fact-finder may take into account only the following factors:

(i) Past collective bargaining agreements between the parties, including the past bargaining history that led to the agreements, or the pre-collective bargaining history of employee wages, hours, benefits, and working conditions.

(ii) Comparison of wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of similar employees of other public employers in the Washington Metropolitan Area and in Maryland.

(iii) Comparison of wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of other Montgomery County personnel.

(iv) Wages, benefits, hours, and other working conditions of similar employees of private employers in Montgomery County.

(v) The interest and welfare of the public.

(vi) The ability of the employer to finance economic adjustments and the effect of the adjustments upon the normal standard of public services provided by the employer.

(f) After receiving the report of the mediator/fact-finder, the parties shall meet again to bargain. If 10 days after the parties receive the report they have not reached full agreement, or if either party does not accept, in whole or in part, the recommendations of the mediator/fact-finder, the report of the mediator/fact-finder shall be made public by sending it to the Council. The mediator/fact-finder shall also send the Council the joint memorandum of items agreed upon, up-dated with any items later agreed upon. The parties shall also send to the Council separate memoranda stating their positions on matters still in dispute.

(g) The budget that the employer submits to the Council shall include the items that have been agreed to, as well as the employer's position on matters still in dispute. Any agreed term or condition submitted to the Council that requires an appropriation of funds or the enactment, repeal, or modification of any County law or regulation shall be identified to the Council by the employer. The employer shall make a good faith effort to have any term or condition that has been agreed to implemented by Council action.

(h) The Council may hold a public hearing to enable the parties and the public to testify on the agreement and the recommendations for resolving bargaining disputes.

(i) On or before April 15, the Council shall indicate by a majority vote its intention to appropriate or otherwise implement the items that have been agreed to, or its intention not to do so, and shall state its reasons for any intent to reject any part of the items that have been agreed to. The Council shall also indicate by a majority vote its position on disputed matters.

(j) Then the Council shall designate a representative to meet with the parties and present the Council's views in the parties' further negotiations on disputed matters and/or agreed matters that the Council has indicated its intention to reject. The results of the negotiation, whether a complete or a partial agreement, shall be submitted to the Council on or before May 1. The Council may extend this deadline for no more than one week. Any agreement shall provide for automatic reduction or elimination of wage and/or benefits adjustments if:

(1) the Council does not take action necessary to implement the agreement, or a part of it;

(2) funds are not appropriated; or

(3) lesser amounts than those stated in the agreement are appropriated.

(k) The Council shall take whatever actions it considers required by the public interest with respect to matters still in dispute between the parties. However, those actions shall not be part of the agreement between the parties unless the parties specifically incorporate them in the agreement.

33-109. Prohibited practices.

(a) The employer or its agents or representatives are prohibited from any of the following:

(1) Interfering with, restraining, or coercing employees in the exercise of any rights granted to them under this article.

(2) Dominating or interfering with the formation or administration of any employee organization or contributing financial or other support to it, under an agreement or otherwise. However, the employer and a certified representative may agree to and apply an agency shop provision under this article and a voluntary dues or service fee deduction provision, and may agree to reasonable use of County facilities for communicating with employees.

(3) Encouraging or discouraging membership in any employee organization by discriminating in hiring, tenure, wages, hours, or conditions of employment. However, nothing in this article precludes an agreement from containing a provision for an agency shop.

(4) Discharging or discriminating against a public employee because she or he files charges, gives testimony, or otherwise lawfully aids in the administration of this article.

(5) Refusing to bargain collectively with the certified representative.

(6) Refusing to reduce to writing or refusing to sign a bargaining agreement that has been agreed to in all respects.

(7) Refusing to process or arbitrate a grievance if required under a grievance procedure contained in a collective bargaining agreement.

(8) Directly or indirectly opposing the appropriation of funds or the enactment of legislation by the County Council to implement an agreement reached between the employer and the certified representative under this article.

(9) Engaging in a lockout of employees.

(b) Employee organizations, their agents, representatives, and persons who work for them are prohibited from any of the following:

(1) Interfering with, restraining, or coercing the employer or employees in the exercise of any rights granted under this article.

(2) Restraining, coercing, or interfering with the employer in the selection of its representative for the purposes of collective bargaining or the adjustment of grievances.

(3) Refusing to bargain collectively with the employer if the employee organization is the certified representative.

(4) Refusing to reduce to writing or refusing to sign a bargaining agreement which has been agreed to in all respects.

(5) Hindering or preventing, by threats of violence, intimidation, force, or coercion of any kind, the pursuit of any lawful work or employment by any person, public or private, or obstructing or otherwise unlawfully interfering with the entrance to or exit from any place of employment, or obstructing or unlawfully interfering with the free and uninterrupted use of public roads, streets, highways, railways, airports, or other ways of travel or conveyance by any person, public or private.

(6) Hindering or preventing by threats, intimidation, force, coercion or sabotage, the obtaining, use, or disposition of materials, supplies, equipment, or services by the employer.

(7) Taking or retaining unauthorized possession of property of the employer, or refusing to do work or use certain goods or materials as lawfully required by the employer.

(8) Causing or attempting to cause the employer to pay or deliver or agree to pay or deliver any money or other thing of value, in the nature of an exaction, for services which are neither performed nor to be performed.

(c) A charge of prohibited practice may be filed by the employer, an employee organization, or any individual employee. The charge or charges shall be filed with the Labor Relations Administrator, and copies shall be sent to the party alleged to have committed a prohibited practice. All charges shall contain a statement of facts sufficient to enable the Labor Relations Administrator to investigate the charge. The Labor Relations Administrator may request withdrawal of and, if necessary, summarily dismiss charges if they are insufficiently supported in fact or in law to warrant a hearing. The Labor Relations Administrator has the authority to maintain whatever independent investigation she determines is necessary and to develop regulations for an independent investigation. If, upon investigation, the Labor Relations Administrator finds that a charge is sufficiently supported to raise an issue of fact or law, she shall, if she is unable to achieve settlement or resolution of the matter, hold a hearing on the charge after notification to the parties. In any hearing, charging parties shall present evidence in support of the charges, and the party or parties charged shall have the right to file an answer to the charges, to appear in person or otherwise and to present evidence in defense against the charges.

(d) If the Labor Relations Administrator determines that the person charged has committed a prohibited practice, she shall make findings of fact and conclusions of law and may issue an order requiring the person charged to cease and desist from the prohibited practice, and may take affirmative actions that will remedy the violation of this article. Remedies of the Labor Relations Administrator include reinstating employees with or without back pay, making employees whole for any loss relating to County employment suffered as a result of any prohibited practices, or withdrawing or suspending the employee organization's authority to negotiate or continue an agency shop provision or a voluntary dues or service fee deduction provision. If the Labor Relations Administrator finds that the party charged has not committed any prohibited practices, she shall make findings of fact and conclusions of law and issue an order dismissing the charges.

(e) The Labor Relations Administrator shall not receive or entertain charges based upon an alleged prohibited practice occurring more than 6 months before the filing of the charge.

33-110. Expression of views.

(a) The expression or dissemination of any views, argument, or opinion, whether orally, in writing, or otherwise, does not constitute and is not evidence of a prohibited practice under any of the provisions of this law, nor is it grounds for invalidating any election conducted under this law if the expression or dissemination does not contain a threat of reprisal or promise of benefit.

(b) Recognizing an employee organization does not preclude the County from dealing with religious, social, fraternal, professional, or other lawful associations with respect to matters or policies that involve individual members of the associations or are of particular applicability to it or its members.

33-111. Strikes and lockouts.

(a) An employee or employee organization shall not either directly or indirectly cause, instigate, encourage, condone, or engage in any strike, nor the employer in any lockout. An employee or employee organization shall not obstruct, impede, or restrict, either directly or indirectly, any attempt to terminate a strike.

(b) The employer shall not pay, reimburse, make whole, or otherwise compensate any employee for or during the period when that employee is directly or indirectly engaged in a strike, nor shall the employer thereafter compensate an employee who struck for wages or benefits lost during the strike.

(c) If an employee or employee organization violates the provisions of this section, the employer, after adequate notice and a fair hearing before the Labor Relations Administrator who finds that the violations have occurred and finds that any or all of the following actions are necessary in the public interest, may impose any of the following sanctions, subject to the Law-Enforcement Officers' Bill of Rights, Article 27, Sections 727-734D, Annotated Code of Maryland:

(1) Impose disciplinary action, including dismissal from employment, on employees engaged in the conduct.

(2) Terminate or suspend the employee organization's dues deduction privilege, if any.

(3) Revoke the certification of and disqualify the employee organization from participation in representation elections for a period up to a maximum of 2 years.

(d) This article does not prohibit an employer or a certified employee organization from seeking any remedy available in a court of competent jurisdiction.

33-112. Effect of prior enactments.

Any laws, executive orders, or regulations adopted by the County and any department or agency of the County that are or may be considered inconsistent with the provisions of this article shall not be held to be repealed or modified until they are specifically repealed or modified by the County or any department or agency of the County.

Sec. 3. Severability.

If a court holds that part of this act is invalid, the invalidity does not affect other parts.

Sec. 4. Effective Date.

This act takes effect 91 days after it becomes law.

(3) provides procedures for collective bargaining of wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment;
(4) provides for the appointment of a labor relations administrator;

Correspondence Received

Requested Amendments

1. Dr. Thomas Sumners, a Grade 27 Psychologist, wishes to be included in Collective Bargaining.

2. Denise Morton, a member of the dental staff, wishes to have "contracting out" as a bargainable issue.

3. 87 letters were received from DSS employees asking to be included in collective bargaining.

Opposition

1. Ms. Claire Gunster-Kuby:

   - opposes forced requirement for an agency shop;
   - does not want those not covered by bargaining to have bargaining agreement forced on them;
   - thinks employees are compensated fairly.

2. Ms. Patricia Ross has the following concerns:

   - wants a majority participation in any election; a few should not be able to choose for the entire workforce;
   - current employees must be given a choice for union membership; opposes paying a union fee to keep her present job; supports no agency shop;
   - union should not be able to bargain pensions; supports all pensions being non-bargainable;
   - opposes an interim bargain in an election year.

3. Ms. Margaret Mansfield has following suggestions:

   - exclude Administrative Aides from bargaining;
   - require majority participation in an election.

Dear Bill:

The purpose of this letter is to confirm the status of the merit system and its implementing rules and regulations once the proposed collective bargaining bill becomes law.

It is our understanding that proposed Section 33-112 of the collective bargaining bill means inter alia, that all merit system rules, policies, and procedures in effect at the time this bill becomes law, and which concern subjects for bargaining, will continue in effect unless and until they are directly amended or affected by a collective bargaining agreement executed by the County and a certified representative.

Section 33-112 exists, in part, to ensure that there will not be a "void" in the merit system inadvertently created as the result of a time delay between the effective date of the law and the first collective bargaining agreement.

If you or anyone else who receives a copy of this letter have any disagreement with our understanding of the meaning of Section 33-112, please inform me as soon as possible.

Sincerely,

William W. Thompson, II

Dear Bill:

This is a response to your letter dated April 18, 1986. As you are perhaps aware, the full Council will begin deliberation of the draft bargaining law in work sessions in late May. As a result of those worksessions, there may be amendments to the draft resulting in additions or deletions of language which would otherwise alter the meaning of the bill as it is now constituted. We believe that it is therefore premature to make any assumptions as to the status of " merit system rules, policies and procedures" during the initial stages of the law, although your position is not unreasonable.

Nevertheless, our reading of Section 33-112 does not coincide with your interpretation that "all merit system rules, policies and procedures in effect at the time this bill becomes law, and which concern subjects of bargaining will continue in effect unless and until they are directly amended or affected by a collective bargaining agreement...." To the contrary, the bill currently states that laws, executive orders, regulations adopted by the County that "are or may be considered inconsistent with the provisions of this article shall not be repealed or modified until they are specifically repealed or modified by the County or any department or agency of the County." The language appears to permit inconsistences to remain in effect until they are specifically repealed or modified. I would recommend that this issue be raised at future Council work sessions so that the language can be clarified and/or the legislative intent be further understood.

Sincerely,

William P. Garrett
Personnel Director

Re: Collective bargaining bill and the status of the Merit System

Dear Bill:

In reference to my letter of April 18th and Garrett's letter of April 25th, in response I would like to suggest that the bill might be clarified at section 33-112, to read as follows:

> Any laws, executive orders, or regulations of the County and any department or agency of the County that are or may be considered inconsistent with the provisions of this article, shall not be held to be repealed or modidfied until they are specifically repealed or modified by the County, any department or agency of the County, or the provisions of the collective bargaining agreement between the County and a certified representative.

I would welcome any comments you might have.

Very truly yours,

William W. Thompson, II

Petition

Petition to include Montgomery County Department of Social Services Employees in Collective Bargining Bill 19-86.

Montgomery County Department of Social Services employees have limited representation at the County level. Presently, they have the right only to meet and confer. A bill is being presented to the County Council on April 22, 1986 that would allow County employees to engage in collective bargaining. Montgomery County Department of Social Services employees will not be included in this bill since it states that they are members of the State merit system and are therefore not County employees.

We wish to demonstrate that Montgomery County Department of Social Services employees are indeed County employees, and have the right to and therefore the desire to be included in the collective bargaining bill or, at the very least, retain the right to meet and confer.

As Montgomery County Department of Social Services employees we:

1. Receive salaries determined by the County salary scale.
2. Work County hours which include one half hour longer than the State workday.
3. Are categorized under the County merit system.
4. Are eligible for health, life, and dental insurance from the County.
5. Can join the County credit union.
6. Accrue annual and sick leave from the County.
7. Are allowed State holidays but lose annual leave from the County if the holiday is not recognized by the County.
8. Are located in County buildings and allowed County parking privileges.
9. Work under the guidance of a director who is selected by the County Board of Social Services.

We feel that we provide the citizens of Montgomery County with special services and the county will support the programs we administer with $12,388,650.00 in fiscal year 1987. Services include the following functions:

1. Maintaining office hours daily for an additional half hour longer than State hours.
2. Processing additional administrative work associated with the County's supplementation of the majority of income maintenance programs and the programs provided through Adult and Family Services, Child Support Enforcement, Child Welfare Services, Foster Care, Refugee Programs, Natural Parent Services, Protective Services, Respite Care, Single Parent Services, and Day Care Programs.
3. Administering County funded programs such as County Day Care, Home Care, Local Emergency Shelter, Family Independence Project, and Burial Assistance.
4. Assisting in processing the rental assistance program.

We, the undersigned, support recognition of Montgomery County Department of Social Services employees as County employees. We also wish to be included in the bill 19-86 for collective bargaining or, at the very least, retain the right to meet and confer.

Montgomery County Government

MEMORADUM

002195

June 13, 1986

TO: William E. Hanna, Jr., President
Montogomery County Council

FROM: Sean J. Rogers, Chief, Labor/Employee Relations and Training

SUBJECT: Amendments to Bill No. 19-86, County Employee Collective Bargaining, Section 33-107(a)(2) and (3) concerning negotiability of pension and retirement benefits.

At the last Council work session concerning the above-captioned bill, the Council determined to amend section 33-107(a)(2) to provide for the negotiability of pensions and retirement benefits one year after the effective date of the statute. The Staff Director, Counselor Willcox, Couselor Thompson and I met to draft legislative language representing the will of the Council as stated on May 29, 1986. The parties found that they were unable to agree on the appropriate language for Section 33-107(a)(2). Therefore, I have suggested that we each draft language on the section and present it to the Council for approval. This memorandum represents the position of the Executive and of MCGEO/Local 400 on the appropriate language which we inferred from the Council's last work session .

Mr. Spengler and Mr. Willcox inferred that it was the sense of the Council to limit negotiations to pension benefits covered by legislative enactment, excluding any additional retirement benefits, such as, insurance benefits related to retirement. Neither the Executive nor MCGEO/Local 400 agrees with this inference.

The Executive proposed an amendment to the bill in this section at the May twenty-ninth work session to broaden negotiations in this area. The Council was not opposed to the amendment, but sought a one year delay in negotiations to allow the legislative body the opportunity to revise existing pension and retirement systems. The Executive sought, in his amendment to the section, to permit both pension benefits prescribed by law and other retirement benefits to be immediately and fully negotiable. As a compromise and to accomodate the Council, the Executive and MCGEO/Local 400 proposed a one year delay in the negotiability of pension and retirement benefits. This position was adopted by the Council with little discussion or debate. In order to clarify the scope of bargaining regarding the retirement issue the Executive proposes and the union concurs with the following language:

> Section 33-107(a)(2):
> With respect to pension and retirement benefits, pension benefits derived from County law and additional retirement benefits, including but not limited to those not specifically derived from law, shall be negotiable one year after the effective date of the statute.

In addition, to ensure legislative consistency, the provisions of 33-107(a)(3) need to be amended by striking the words:

> ...,but not including pension and retirement benefits except to the extent stated in subsection (a)(2).

These proposed amendments in no way imply a right to bargain pension and retirement benefits on behalf of current retirees as they are not defined as "employees" under the statute. Therefore, the Executive, joined by MCGEO/Local 400, requests that the Council amend the provisions of Bill No. 19-86 with the language presented above.

SUBJECT: Collective Bargaining Legislation

Staff has one issue for the Council to discuss before the final draft of the collective bargaining bill can be completed -- i.e., should retiree benefits, in addition to pension benefits, be bargainable for active employees?

Council staff's recollection is that the Council's debate on retiree benefits was confined to pension benefits (i.e., defined benefit versus defined contribution plans); we do not recall any discussion regarding other retiree benefits (e.g., medical and dental benefits; cost sharings).

With regard to these non-pension retirement benefits, I would make the following points:

- unlike pensions, these benefits are not established in law;
- since they are not established by law, it would be possible for a bargaining agreement to reduce these benefits and there would be no opportunity for the Council to veto such changes.
- employees who might be adversely impacted would not have their voices heard in a public proceeding; this becomes more critical when the average age and length of service of unit members declines.
- these benefits are not bargainable for MCPS or College employees.

There are two alternative amendments for consideration:

County Executive and MCGEO

"With respect to pension and retirement benefits, pension benefits derived from County law and additional retirement benefits, including but not limited to those not specifically derived from law, shall be negotiable one year after the effective date of the statute."

Also amend Section 33-107(a)(3) by striking the words:

". . . but not including pension and retirement benefits except to the extent stated in subsection (a)(2)."

Council Staff

"With respect to pension and retirement benefits, pension benefits only shall be negotiable, for active employees only, one year after the effective date of this statute."

employees in the unit desire to be represented by the incumbent representative for the purposes of collective bargaining under the provisions of this article.

33-107. Collective bargaining.

(a) Duty to bargain; matters subject to bargaining.

Upon certification of an employee organization, the employer and the certified representative have the duty to bargain collectively with respect to the following subjects:

(1) Salary and wages, including the increase and/or decrease in the salary and wages budget, and the percentage of any increase in the salary and wages budget that will be devoted to merit increments and cash awards, provided that salaries and wages shall be uniform for all employees in the same classification.

(2) With respect to pension and retirement benefits, only defined-contribution plans for new employees or current employees who choose to transfer from a defined-benefit plan, provided that bargaining rights regarding such plans will not accrue unless and until the County has enacted a law establishing such plans.

(3) Employee benefits such as insurance, leave, holidays, and vacations, but not including pension and retirement benefits except to the extent stated in subsection (a)(2).

(4) Hours and working conditions.

(5) Provisions for the orderly processing and settlement of grievances concerning the interpretation and implementation of a collective bargaining agreement, which may include:

(A) binding third party arbitration, provided that the arbitrator shall have no authority to amend, add to, or subtract from the provisions of the collective bargaining

agreement; and

(B) provisions for exclusivity of forum.

(6) Matters affecting the health and safety of employees.

(7) Amelioration of the effect on employees when the exercise of employer rights listed in subsection (b) causes a loss of existing jobs in the unit.

(b) Employer rights.

This article and any agreement made under it shall not impair the right and responsibility of the employer to perform the following:

(1) Determine the overall budget and mission of the employer and any agency of County government.

(2) Maintain and improve the efficiency and effectiveness of operations.

(3) Determine the services to be rendered and the operations to be performed.

(4) Determine the overall organizational structure, methods, processes, means, job classifications, and personnel by which operations are to be conducted and the location of facilities.

(5) Direct and supervise employees.

(6) Hire, select, and establish the standards governing promotion of employees, and classify positions.

(7) Relieve employees from duties because of lack of work or funds, or under conditions when the employer determines continued work would be inefficient or nonproductive.

(8) Take actions to carry out the mission of government in situations of emergency.

(9) Transfer, assign, and schedule employees.

ISSUES DISCUSSED: The memorandum to the Council from Council Staff Director Spengler, dated June 13, 1986, setting forth the issues for discussion and attaching the regulations; Section 7-4, Position Classification, and the procedures for appeal under the existing and proposed regulations; the position of the Montgomery County Government Employees' Organization (MCGEO) that it is important to retain the employees' right of appeal in all classification actions, not just on downgradings; the suggestion of Councilmember Potter that some criteria be established to prevent every classification case from being appealed and his suggestion that a small charge to the employee might prevent frivolous appeals; the recommendation of Mr. Spengler and MCGEO that the Chief Administrative Officer (CAO) make the final decision on classification issues, rather than the Personnel Director as proposed, so that the decision is not purely internal to the Personnel Office; the statement of Mr. Brewster, Chief, Classification Division, that he will provide the Council with precise statistics on the number of classification appeals and the County's rate of success; the suggestion of MCGEO representatives that a compromise be adopted to permit employees whose positions are downgraded or recommended for no change to appeal classification decisions, but not permit employees whose positions have been upgraded to appeal for a further upgrading; the observation of Mr. Spengler that the Council may not amend the Personnel Regulations, and his suggestion that the Council could delete certain language in the hope that it will force the County Executive to make certain amendments.

SUBJECT: Executive Regulation No. 145-85, Personnel Regulations

ISSUES DISCUSSED: Elimination of the retroactivity provision and the immediate pay increases associated with reclassifications; the position of Mr. Brewster that six months is an adequate amount of time for his office to complete individual position reclassifications, but that large classes, such as Community Health Nurse, cannot be done in that amount of time; the explanation of Mr. Sherman, Assistant County Attorney, that the reason for the effective date of six months after the filing of requests for reclassifications is that, if 30 requests are filed during the June/December filing period, the Classification Division must choose which to do first, and it would not be fair to employees whose requests are addressed first to have immediate pay increases, while those employees whose requests are addressed later in the six month period must wait.

The Vice President in the Chair.

ACTION: Agreed with the suggestion of Vice President Potter that the Regulations should be amended to provide that pay increases as a result of reclassifications shall be effective as of the date the review is due, Councilmembers Hanna, Crenca and Scull temporarily absent.

ISSUES DISCUSSED: The memorandum to the Council from Mr. Spengler, dated June 17, 1986, setting forth a final issue for discussion on Bill No. 19-86 prior to completion of the final draft of the bill, i.e., whether retiree benefits, such as medical and dental benefits or cost-sharing, should be bargainable for active employees, and his recommendation that they not be because, if reduced by a bargaining agreement, it would be impossible for the Council to veto the changes; Councilmember Gelman's motion that the following language be added to the bill as proposed by Mr. Spengler: "With respect to pension and retirement benefits, pension benefits only shall be negotiable, for active employees only, one year after the effective date of this statute."; Vice President Potter's request that the motion be divided to permit the Council to vote separately on the question of bargaining for active employees only, and on the question of whether non-pension benefits can be negotiated;

ACTION: Agreed that pension and retirements benefits would be bargainable for active employees only by motion of Councilmember Gelman, without objection, Councilmember Hanna temporarily absent.

Agreed that the bill be amended to provide that the date for the start of negotiations for the first year the law is in effect only would be December 1, rather than November 1

by motion of Councilmember Gelman, without objection, Councilmember Hanna temporarily absent.

SUBJECT: Executive Regulation No. 145-85. Personnel Regulations

ISSUES DISCUSSED: The lack of flexibility in Section 29-5 for the Merit System Protection Board (MSPB) to decide whether an appeal should be dismissed; the ability of the MSPB to adopt its own rules of procedure; the retention of records of commendations, reprimands and disciplinary actions for five years rather than two; the objection of MCGEO representatives to keeping records of disciplinary actions for five years; the opinion of Councilmember Scull that the Personnel Regulations should be renumbered to conform to the numbering system of the Code of Montgomery County Regulations.

ACTION: Agreed to delete Section 29-5, Dismissal of an Appeal by motion of Councilmember Scull, without objection, Councilmembers Fosler and Hanna temporarily absent.

Directed staff to draft a bill to clarify that the Merit System Protection Board adopts its own rules of procedure which would be codified as part of the Code of Montgomery County Regulations

SUBJECT: Executive Regulation No. 145-85, Personnel Regulations

ISSUES DISCUSSED: The memorandum to the Council from Council Staff Director Spengler, dated June 3, 1986, setting forth the issues to be reviewed; the provision in Section 1-13(c) regarding the time frame for which an employee can receive a remedy from the date of filing the action; the position of the Personnel Office that no harm is done to the employee until a decision is made regarding the reclassification request, grievance, or appeal, and, therefore, there is no need for a retroactive provision; the concern of Mr. Thompson, attorney for the Montgomery County Government Employees' Organization (MCGEO) that the provision of Section 1-13 eliminates the retroactive provision for reallocations, which are likely to affect large classes of employees such as the nurses, but retains it for individual position reclassifications; concerns expressed by various Councilmembers that future reclassification/reallocation actions not take as long as it took to reclassify the nurses; the five-year cycle for reclassification reviews and the ability of the Personnel Office to keep up with that schedule; the opinion of Councilmember Gelman that it was inappropriate for the County to appeal a decision of the Merit System Protection Board regarding the reclassification of the nurses, and her desire for the County Attorney to brief and consult with the Council before initiating such action; the desire of Councilmember Potter to differentiate in Section 1-13 between those persons who file a request routinely at the beginning of a five-year reclassification review cycle in order to obtain the maximum benefit if their position is reclassified or reallocated upwards, and those cases where retroactivity is justified, and his inability to find the appropriate language to make the distinction; the concern of Councilmember Scull that the provisions of Section 1-11, Prohibited Activities, does not include all of the activities which are prohibited under the ethics chapter of the law nor do they inform employees that there are further prohibitions and provisions for obtaining waivers from the Ethics Commission, and his suggestion that the regulations be amended to include a statement that "all County employees are subject to the ethics requirements of the Charter and Chapter 19A of the Montgomery County Code, and information is available from the Ethics Commission;" Councilmember Scull's concern regarding the definition of "family" in the Personnel Regulations and its apparent conflict with the definition of "family" in the ethics chapter of the Code; Councilmember Scull's concerns that certain sections of the Montgomery County Charter are reprinted in the Personnel Regulations and his statement that, in the Code revision process, the Council has decided not to repeat provisions of the Code; the provisions of Section 3-2 and 5-9 which define a "displaced homemaker" and allow the Chief Administrative Officer (CAO) to provide special scoring credits for a merit system examination for displaced homemakers; President Hanna's desire to delete the special credits for displaced homemakers; Councilmember Gelman's desire to retain special credits for displaced homemakers; Councilmember Fosler's belief that recognition be given to women who stay at home to care for their families but that, as a practical matter, he is concerned about how the system would be administered, and he does not believe that it can be done without the potential for abuse; Councilmember Scull's inquiry as to the statutory authority for the policy of preferential points for displaced homemakers, his belief that such a policy should not be instituted through the regulation process but rather through the legislative process, his suggestion that these provisions be deleted from the Personnel Regulations without the Council having made a final policy decision as to whether the County should have such a policy, and his statement that the preferential treatment for veterans is a matter of State law that cannot be repealed by the Council by removing it from the Personnel Regulations; the recommendation of the Personnel Committee that Section 6-4(d) be amended to delete the requirement that employees serving a probationary period must be advised of the steps to be taken to achieve an acceptable level of performance; President Hanna's belief that it is not necessary to advise a probationary employee in writing as to what must be done to achieve an acceptable level of performance; the statement by Mr. Garrett that the original draft required that employees be advised in writing but that it has been changed to require that the employees be "advised"; the opinion of Mr. Renne, President, MCGEO, that, if an employee is not working at an acceptable level of performance, he should be informed and given the opportunity to improve before the end of the probationary period.

ACTION: Recommended that the County Executive make the following amendments to the Personnel Regulations:

On page 11 of the draft, dated 5/20/86, delete [effect] from line 13 and insert in lieu thereof the word affect;

On page 19, lines 7 through 16, delete Section 3-2 in its entirety; and page 27, delete the language on line 22 through the end of line 23, as follows: [and to County residents who are displaced homemakers (as defined in Section 3-2 of these regulations)];

On page 31, lines 13 through 17, delete subsection (d) of Section 6-4, Probationary Period, in its entirety;

Agreed to meet again to review the Personnel Regulations from 1:30 to 4:30 P.M. on June 6 and from 2:00 to 5:00 P.M. on June 19, with the day of June 27 being held for an additional worksession if needed.

(The Council recessed at 12:20 P.M. and reconvened at 2:14 P.M.

SUBJECT: Bill No. 19-86, County Employee Collective Bargaining

ISSUES DISCUSSED: The staff summary, dated June 5, 1986, setting forth issues on the subject continued from the last worksession of May 29, 1986; Issue 4.D. of the summary, Binding Grievance Arbitration; the proposed amendment to pages 19 and 20 of the subject bill that would require binding grievance arbitration for discipline and discharge cases and advisory arbitration for other cases, unless the parties agree that the decision in a particular case will be binding.

ACTION: Agreed to retain the language contained in the bill on pages 19 and 20 regarding binding arbitration.

ISSUES DISCUSSED: Issue 4.E. of the summary, "Effects" Bargaining; the proposed amendment to page 20, lines 4 through 6, that would substitute the broad language from the police collective bargaining law on "effects" bargaining for the language in the bill which confines "effects" bargaining to the exercise of management rights when the exercise of management rights causes the loss of bargaining unit jobs; the County Executive's opposition to the amendment, as set forth on pages three and seven of his memorandum of May 29, 1986; the statement by Mr. Thompson, attorney representing MCGEO (Local 400), that the broader language is usually included in collective bargaining legislation, and is needed in the subject bill; the statement by Mr. Rogers, representing the County Executive, that the amendment should not be included in the bill because it would limit the power of the government to act in emergency and security situations and to make changes within the government involving technology and standards; the statement by Mr. Torgesen, staff of the Personnel Office, that the broader language was included in the police law because, when it was written, management was unaware of the potential impact of "effects" bargaining; the opinion of Mr. Willcox, special attorney, that the inclusion of the amendment could delay the implementation of a government action which might result in litigation; President Hanna's belief that inclusion of the amendment might interfere with the government's ability to implement improvements; Councilmember Potter's suggestion that an amendment might be drafted that would distinguish between actions the government must take in carrying out its responsibilities and actions the government could take to harass employees; Councilmember Potter's belief that a broader definition of "grievance procedure" is needed; the statement by Councilmember Fosler concerning the need for continuous communication between employees and employers when collective bargaining for public employees is initiated to avoid misunderstandings, and his support of the provision included in the bill on "effects" bargaining; whether a government action resulting in the relocation of an employee's work place should be a subject of collective bargaining; Councilmember Gelman's suggestion that the bill could be amended to provide priority transfer to other County positions for employees who are being relocated similar to the priority granted to County employees who have lost their jobs as a result of a reduction in force action.

ACTION: Agreed to support the language in the subject bill regarding "effects" bargaining (subsection 33-107(7)) unless an acceptable amendment is drafted, as suggested by Councilmember Potter, that would distinguish between employer rights that must be exercised by the government and employer rights that might be exercised by the government as a form of employee harassment.

Adopted the following amendment proposed by Mr. Thompson:

In subsection 33-107(b)(17), after "representative," substitute , for [.] and add unless another date for notification is agreed upon by the parties.

ISSUES DISCUSSED: Issue 6 of the summary, Bargaining Impasse to be Broken with Fact-finding, not Binding Arbitration (Section 33-108); the statement by Mr. Thompson in opposition to the procedure set forth in the subject bill for the submission of the recommendations of the mediator/fact-finder and both negotiating parties to the County Council because he believes negotiators will make a greater effort to reach an agreement on issues if only the report of the mediator/fact-finder is submitted to the Council when the parties fail to reach an agreement; Councilmember Hanna's observation that the subject bill provides that, after the mediator/fact-finder makes recommendations on dispute issues, the parties are permitted to bargain an additional 10 days before the report of the mediator/fact-finder and the position of the two parties are submitted to the Council; the statement by Councilmember Fosler concerning the Personnel Committee's review of this issue, and its support of Section 33-108, as written; Councilmember Scull's concern that the Council's role in the bargaining process under the subject legislation is too broad and should be limited to budgetary and legislative actions; the language in the law (subsection 33-108(k)) which indicates that actions taken by the Council in resolving issues that are in dispute shall not be part of the agreement between parties unless the parties specifically incorporate them in the agreement; Mr. Willcox's suggestion that additional language could be added to indicate that matters that are still in dispute or that do not involve legislation or significant expenditure of capital will not be included in the contract; Councilmember Potter's concern regarding the language in subsection 33-108(i) which indicates that the Council will state its reasons for any intent to reject any part of the items agreed to by the negotiating parties; Mr. Willcox's suggestion that subsection 33-108(i) could be revised for clarification; the need for a technical amendment in the last sentence of 33-108(g).

ACTION: Amended, without objection, subsection 33-108(g), the last sentence, to substitute to which the parties have for [that has been agreed] and to add , after "to."

ISSUES DISCUSSED: Issue 7 of the summary, Timing of Bargaining (Section 33-108); the statement by Mr. Thompson withdrawing the amendment proposed by MCGEO that would provide for bargaining of a short contract for 1986-87 that would contain only non-economic items; Issue 8 of the summary, Labor Relations Administrator (Section 33-103); the proposed amendment that makes the first term of the Labor Relations Administrator five years, deletes the list of future appointees agreed upon by any certified employee representative(s) and the Chief Administrative Officer, and limits the participation in appointments by any certified employee representative(s) to the right to veto any reappointment; statements by Messrs. Thompson and Rogers indicating their support of the language included in the bill for Section 33-103 rather than the proposed amendment; Issue 9 of the summary, Repeal of the Mandated 75% Cost-of-Living Law (subsection 33-74(d)); the effect of the repeal upon County employees excluded from collective bargaining under subsection 33-102(4); Issue 10 of the summary, Meet and Confer (subsection-33-63A); the provision in this section which indicates that "meet and confer" respresentation will not be applicable to any person upon certification that the employees in the units are represented for collective bargaining; the proposed amendment that provides that State Merit System employees, who are excluded from collective bargaining under the bill, would retain "meet and confer" rights; the following amendment proposed by MCGEO to Section 33-112, Effect of Prior Enactments:

> (a) Nothing contained in this article shall be construed to repeal any laws, executive orders, rules, or regulations adopted by the County and any department or agency thereof not inconsistent with the provisions of this article.
> (b) Any executive orders, rules or regulations of the County and any department or agency of the County which concern any subject for bargaining pursuant to the provisions of this article shall not be held to be repealed or modified except to the extent that their subject matter is governed by the provisions of a collective bargaining agreement between the County and a certified exclusive employee representative.;

the statement by Mr. Thompson that the (b) paragraph of the proposed amendment provides that the collective bargaining agreement supersedes any executive order, rule or regulation of the County which is a subject for bargaining and is in conflict with the agreement; the statement by Mr. Willcox that the amendment might interfere with the implementation of subsection 33-108(g) which provides for the identification of any term or condition agreed to in the contract that requires an appropriation of funds or the enactment, repeal, or modification of any County law or regulation; the statement by Councilmember Potter that clarifying language needs to be added to this section to indicate that the agreement will not supersede any order, rule, or regulation which is in conflict with the collective bargaining agreement if it has not been identified as being in conflict; the need to add clarifying language to subsection 33-108(g) and to redraft the (b) paragraph of the amendment proposed by MCGEO.

ACTION: Asked that clarifying amendments be made to subsection 33-108(g) to emphasize the need for identification of County orders, rules or regulations that are in conflict with the collective bargaining agreement;

Approved the amendment proposed by MCGEO for Section 33-112, as redrafted to conform to subsection 33-108(g), as amended.

Approved Bill No. 19-86, as amended, by a straw vote.

by motion of Councilmember Gelman, without objection.

(SECRETARY'S NOTE: The bill is scheduled for final reading by the Council on June 24, 1986.)

(The Council recessed at 4:55 P.M. and reconvened at 7:30 P.M.)

SUBJECT: Public Hearing on Zoning Text Amendment No. 86007, Prohibiting Off-Site Commercial Signs

ACTION: The public hearing was conducted as reflected in the transcript of the hearing. The Council instructed that the record be kept open until close of business on June 19, 1986.

(b) Any provision for automatic renewal or extension of a collective bargaining agreement is void. An agreement is not valid if it extends for less than one year or for more than 3 years. All agreements [become effective] take effect July 1 and end June 30.

(c) A collective bargaining agreement [becomes effective] takes effect only after ratification by the employer and [by] the certified representative. The certified representative may [provide] adopt its own [rules for] ratification procedures.

(d) Before November 10 of any year in which the employer and the certified representative bargain collectively, the Labor Relations Administrator [shall] must appoint a mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator, who may be a person recommended [to her] by both parties. (j) [Then] If the Council indicates its intention to reject any item [[of the final agreement]] that requires Council review, the Council [shall] must designate a representative to meet with the parties and present the Council's views in the parties' further negotiation on [disputed matters and/or agreed upon] [[matters]] items that the Council has indicated its intention to reject. This representative must also participate fully in stating the Council's position in any ensuing impasse procedure. The parties must meet as promptly as possible and attempt to negotiate an agreement acceptable to the Council. Either party may at this time initiate impasse procedures under this Section. The parties must submit the results of the negotiation, whether a complete or a partial agreement, [shall be submitted] to the Council on or before May 10. The Council then must consider the agreement as renegotiated by the parties and indicate by resolution its intention to appropriate funds for or otherwise implement the agreement, or its intention not to do so.

(k) Any agreement [shall] must provide for automatic reduction or elimination of wage [and/]or benefits adjustments if:

ABSENT

Derick Berlage

The President in the Chair.

SUBJECT: Approval of Legislative Journal

ACTION: Approved the legislative journals of February 8 and 15, 2000, as amended.

The journals were approved by motion of Councilmember Praisner, without objection, Councilmember Berlage absent.

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS

SUBJECT: Bill 8-00. Streets and Roads – Ground Cover in Public Rights-of-Way

Councilmember Ewing, a sponsor of the legislation, stated that the bill would allow property owners to place alternative, conservation-promoting plants or other ground cover on their property in the public right-of-way. At present, residents are not allowed to grow anything in these strips of property except turf grass despite the lack of existing legislation or regulations concerning this matter. Mr. Ewing expressed the view that the bill represents a good environmental proposal.

Councilmember Praisner stated that she is sympathetic with the concerns that led to the legislation, but questions whether there are broader issues that need to be addressed such as how the right-of-way is defined and the possibility of addressing the issue through regulation rather than legislation. Ms. Praisner expressed the hope that the Council will examine this issue from a broader perspective rather than attempting to enact legislation for uses in rights-of-way.

Councilmember Dacek said that there are issues that need to be addressed such as the penalty for not applying the appropriate ground cover to rights-of-way and identifying the agency that would be responsible for enforcing the legislation. Ms. Dacek stated that she could not support the legislation as it is currently written.

President Subin said that if Councilmembers have questions concerning the bill, they should present them to the Council committee that will review the legislation.

ACTION: Introduced Draft 4 of the bill sponsored by Councilmembers Ewing and Krahnke.

SUBJECT: Bill 26-99, Collective Bargaining Amendments

Councilmember Andrews, lead Councilmember for Personnel, presented the report of the Management and Fiscal Policy (MFP) Committee, in accordance with the information contained in the memorandum from Senior Legislative Attorney Faden, dated March 7, 2000. He said that the Committee majority recommended against enactment of the bill and that the Committee majority indicated that if the Council enacts the bill the Committee amendments would offer a reasonable approach. Mr. Andrews said that he did not support the Committee's recommendation.

With respect to the type of binding arbitration, Councilmember Andrews stated that the Committee is recommending a two package approach, last best offer approach in which the arbitrator would review an economic package and a non-economic package and select the more reasonable of each. He said that in Committee, he voted against this approach, preferring instead the original "hybrid" approach: the economic issues would be decided on a last best offer total package basis. The arbitrator would decide which issues are economic and which are non-economic, could decide each non-economic item separately, and would not be bound by the parties' offers.

Councilmember Andrews moved, duly seconded, a substitute motion to amend the bill to substitute the last best offer total package approach for the two-package approach recommended by the Committee majority. He distributed to the Council a written amendment in this regard.

Councilmember Praisner discussed the Committee's review of the bill and explained the Committee majority's rationale for recommending "a two-package, last best offer approach," if the bill is enacted. She said that the majority of the Committee was concerned that without a separation of fiscal and non-fiscal issues, there would not be adequate consideration of the non-compensation issues as the arbitrators tended to focus on that one item. Furthermore the MCGEO bargaining unit, unlike police and fire, incorporated many different functions and positions which also argued for different consideration. She said that in Committee, Councilmember Andrews continued to support the hybrid approach, as originally proposed.

Councilmember Dacek commented on issues related to the types of binding arbitration, expressed concern about binding arbitration in general, and stated that she does not support the bill.

ACTION: Amended the bill to make the technical amendments recommended by Council Staff and incorporate Councilmember Andrews' amendment concerning the type of binding arbitration.

The amendments were approved by motion of Councilmember Andrews:

YEAS: Andrews, Leggett, Ewing, Subin, Silverman
NAYS: Dacek, Praisner, Krahnke

33-108. Bargaining, impasse, fact-finding, and legislative procedures.

(a) Collective bargaining [shall] must begin no later than November 1 before the beginning of a fiscal year for which there is no agreement between the employer and the certified representative, and [shall] must be finished on or before [January] February 15. [The resolution of a bargaining impasse or fact-finding shall be finished by February 1.]

(b) Any provision for automatic renewal or extension of a collective bargaining agreement is void. An agreement is not valid if it extends for less than one year or for more than 3 years. All agreements [become effective] take effect July 1 and end June 30.

(c) A collective bargaining agreement [becomes effective] takes effect only after ratification by the employer and [by] the certified representative. The certified representative may [provide] adopt its own [rules for] ratification procedures.

(d) Before November 10 of any year in which the employer and the certified representative bargain collectively, the Labor Relations Administrator [shall] must appoint a mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator, who may be a person recommended [to her] by both parties. The mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator [shall] must be available [during the

(2) This dispute [shall] must be submitted to the mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator whenever an impasse has been reached, or [before that] as provided in subsection (e)(1). The mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator [shall] must engage in mediation by bringing the parties together voluntarily under such favorable circumstances as will [tend to bring about the] encourage settlement of the dispute.

(3) If [and when] the mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator finds, in [his] the mediator/arbitrator's sole discretion, that the parties are at a bona fide impasse, [he shall implement the following fact-finding process:] or as of February 15 when an impasse is automatically reached, whichever occurs earlier, the dispute must be submitted to binding arbitration.

[(a.) He shall require the parties to submit jointly a memorandum of all items previously agreed upon, and separate memoranda of their proposals on all items not previously agreed upon.]

(f)(1) If binding arbitration is invoked, the mediator/arbitrator must require each party to submit a final offer, which must consist either of a complete draft of a proposed collective bargaining agreement or a complete package proposal, as the mediator/arbitrator directs. If only complete package proposals are required, the mediator/arbitrator must require the parties to submit jointly a memorandum of all items previously agreed on. The final offer submitted by each party must separately identify economic and non-economic proposals. Economic proposals must include salary and wages, pension and other welfare benefits, such as health insurance. The mediator/arbitrator must decide any issue regarding whether a particular proposal is economic or non-economic.

[(b.)] (2) [He] The mediator/arbitrator may require the parties to submit oral or written evidence [or make oral or written] and arguments in support of their proposals. [He] The mediator/arbitrator may hold a hearing for this purpose at a time, date, and place selected by [him] the mediator/arbitrator. This hearing [shall] must not be open to the public.

[(c.)] (3) [On or before February 1, the mediator/fact-finder shall issue a report of his findings of fact and recommendations on those matters still in dispute between the parties. The report shall be submitted to the parties but shall not be made public at this time.]

On or before March 1, the mediator/arbitrator must select, as a whole, the more reasonable of the final economic offers submitted by the parties. With regard to the economic offers, the mediator/arbitrator must not compromise or alter a final offer. The mediator/arbitrator must not consider or receive any argument or evidence related to the history of collective bargaining in the immediate dispute, including any previous settlement offer not contained in the final offers. However, the mediator/arbitrator must consider all previously agreed-on economic items, integrated with the disputed economic items, to decide which economic offer is the most reasonable. The mediator/arbitrator must also decide which of each of the parties' non-economic proposals is the most reasonable under all the circumstances. The mediator/arbitrator may compromise, alter, or reject any non-economic proposal.

[(d.)] (4) In making [findings of fact and recommendations] a determination under this subsection, the mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator may [take into account] consider only the following factors:

[(i)] (A) Past collective bargaining agreements between the parties, including the past bargaining history that led to the agreements, or the pre-collective bargaining history of employee wages, hours, benefits, and working conditions.

[(ii)] (B) Comparison of wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of similar employees of other public

The parties must execute the agreement, and any provision which requires action in the County budget must be included in the budget which the employer submits to the County Council.

[(f) After receiving the report of the mediator/fact-finder, the parties shall meet again to bargain. The mediator/fact-finder shall also send the Council the joint memorandum of items agreed upon, up-dated with any items later agreed upon. [The Council shall also indicate by resolution its position on disputed matters which could require an appropriation of funds or enactment, repeal, or modification of any County law or regulation, or which have present or future fiscal impact.]

(j) [Then] If the Council indicates its intention to reject any item of the final agreement, the Council [shall] must designate a representative to meet with the parties and present the Council's views in the parties' further negotiation on [disputed matters and/or agreed upon] matters that the Council has indicated its intention to reject. The parties must submit the results of the negotiation, whether a complete or a partial agreement, [shall be submitted] to the Council on or before May 10.

(k) Any agreement [shall] must provide for automatic reduction or elimination of wage [and/]or benefits adjustments if:

TESTIMONY FOR COUNTY EXECUTIVE
BILL NO. 26-99
COLLECTIVE BARGAINING - AMENDMENTS

GOOD AFTERNOON, MY NAME IS JAMES TORGESEN, LABOR/EMPLOYEE RELATONS MANAGER IN THE OFFICE OF HUMAN RESOURCES, I HAVE BEEN ASKED BY THE COUNTY EXECUTIVE TO PROVIDE THE POSITION OF THE EXECUTIVE BRANCH CONCERNING BILL NO 26-99. IN GENERAL, WE SUPPORT THE DIRECTION OF THE PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE COUNTY COLLECTIVE BARGAINING LAW. THE COUNTY COLLECTIVE BARGAINING LAW WAS PASSED BY COUNCIL IN JUNE 1986 AND HAS REMAINED UNCHANGED, EXCEPT FOR AMENDMENTS AFFECTING THE BARGAINING UNIT STATUS OF FIRE/RESCUE EMPLOYEES. THE COUNTY EXECUTIVE AND MCGEO, UFCW/LOCAL 1994, THE CERTIFED REPRESENTATIVE WHICH REPRESENTS THE OPT AND SLT BARGAINING UNITS, HAVE BEEN SERVED WELL BY THE FRAMEWORK THAT THE LAW PROVIDES FOR THE CONDUCT OF COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AND THE DAY TO DAY RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN THE PARTIES. OVER THE YEARS THE PARTIES HAVE UTILIZED VIRTUALLY ALL OF THE KEY ELEMENTS OF THE LAW. WITH THIS EXPERIENCE IN MIND, THE FOLLOWING COMMENTS CONCERNING THE PROPOSED AMENDMENTS, AS WELL AS OTHERS I WILL SUGGEST, ARE MADE FOR THE COUNCIL'S CONSIDERATION.

- THE MOST SIGNIFICANT CHANGES IN THE PROPOSED AMENDMENTS AFFECT THE IMPASSE RESOLUTION PROCESS. THE CURRENT LAW CULMINATES IMPASSE WITH A FACT-FINDING PROCESS, THAT ALLOWS A NEUTRAL THIRD PARTY TO RECOMMEND TO THE PARTIES A RESOLUTION FOR EACH IMPASSE ITEM. THE PARTIES MAY ACCEPT OR MODIFY THE RECOMMENDATION TO ACHIEVE AGREEMENT. ITEMS WHICH REMAIN IN DISPUTE ARE SUBMITTED TO COUNCIL FOR DISPOSITION. THE BILL REPLACES THE FACTFINDING PROCESS WITH BINDING ARBITRATION. IT BIFURCATES ECONOMIC AND NON-ECONOMIC ISSUES AND REQUIRES THE PARTIES TO SUBMIT A TOTAL PACKAGE OFFER ON ECONOMIC ITEMS AND SEPARATE OFFERS ON EACH NON-ECONOMIC ITEM. FOR THE ECONOMIC ITEMS, THE ARBITRATOR MUST CHOOSE AS A TOTAL PACKAGE THE EMPLOYER'S OFFER OR THE UNION'S OFFER. IN CONTRAST, ON NON-ECONOMIC ITEMS THE ARBITRATOR MAY FASHION A SEPARATE AWARD ON EACH ITEM. WE DO NOT FAVOR THE TREATMENT OF ECONOMIC AND NON-ECONOMIC ITEMS AS PROPOSED IN THE BILL. WE PROPOSE THAT THE ARBITRATOR MAKE AN AWARD ON EACH ITEM, ACCEPTING EITHER THE EMPLOYER'S OR UNION'S OFFER, WITHOUT PERMITTING THE ARBITRATOR TO MODIFY AN OFFER. THE PARTIES ARE ACCUSTOMED TO AN ITEM BY ITEM REVIEW UNDER THE CURRENT FACTFINDING PROCESS. IT IS PREFERABLE TO HAVE THE PARTIES WRITE THE LANGUAGE, RATHER THAN ALLOW AN ARBITRATOR TO IMPOSE A

HYBRID ON THE PARTIES WHICH CREATES A POTENTIAL FOR AMBIGUITY.

- IF THE COUNCIL DECIDES TO ADOPT THE AMENDMENTS AS PROPOSED, THE LAW SHOULD BE AMENDED TO PROVIDE, AT THE VERY LEAST, GREATER DEFINITION AS TO WHAT CONSTITUES AN ECONOMIC ITEM, RATHER THAT LEAVING THAT DETERMINATION SOLELY TO THE ARBITRATOR.
- THE AMENDMENTS PROPOSE TO MOVE THE DATE FOR ISSUANCE OF THE ARBITRATOR'S AWARD FROM FEBRUARY 1 TO MARCH 1. WE AGREE THAT SOME ADJUSTMENT IS NEEDED TO THE DATES IN THE IMPASSE PROCESS. MORE TIME IS NEEDED TO ALLOW THE PARTIES TO REACH AGREEMENT ON THEIR OWN. MOREOVER, ADDITIONAL TIME IS NEEDED TO FIRM UP ECONOMIC PARAMETERS IN THE EARLY PART OF THE CALENDAR YEAR. HOWEVER, THE PROPOSED MARCH 1 DATE LEAVES LITTLE TIME FOR THE EXECUTIVE TO FINALIZE BUDGET RECOMMENDATIONS AND DOCUMENTS FOR PUBLICATION ON MARCH 15. WE PROPOSE THAT THE DATE OF THE AWARD BE MOVED BACK TO FEBRUARY 15 AND THE INITIAL IMPASSE DATE BE ADJUSTED TO FEBRUARY 1. THUS GIVING THE PARTIES ADDITIONAL TIME TO BARGAIN.

IN ADDITION, TO THESE MODIFICATIONS THE COUNTY EXECUTIVE REQUESTS THAT THE COUNCIL CONSIDER THE FOLLOWING ADDITIONAL AMENDMENTS TO THE LAW.

- IN SECTION 33-102, THE DEFINITION SECTION OF THE LAW, WE BELIEVE TWO CHANGES ARE NEEDED. UNDER THE DEFINITION OF "EMPLOYEE" THE LAW DEFINES WHICH EMPLOYEES ARE ELIGIBLE FOR COLLECTIVE BARGAINING RIGHTS. CURRENTLY PROBATIONARY EMPLOYEES ARE EXCLUDED, BUT THE LAW DOES NOT DEFINE THE LENGTH OF THE PROBATIONARY PERIOD. TO INSURE THAT THE LENGTH OF THE PROBATIONARY PERIOD IS ESTABLISHED AND IS NOT OTHERWISE SUBJECT TO NEGOTIATION, WE RECOMMEND THAT A 12 MONTH PROBATIONARY PERIOD BE INCLUDED IN THE LAW. THIS IS CONSISTENT WITH THE NEW HIRE PROBATIONARY PERIOD FOR UNREPRESENTED EMPLOYEES. SECONDLY, WE REQUEST THAT AN ADDITIONAL EXEMPTION BE ADDED TO COVER "CONFIDENTIAL EMPLOYEES" THIS IS A COMMON EXCLUSION IN A COLLECTIVE BARGAINING ENVIRONMENT. CONFIDENTIAL EMPLOYEES ARE THOSE EMPLOYEES WHO PREPARE OR REVIEW CONFIDENTIAL PERSONEL MATTERS INVOLVING BARGAINING UNIT EMPLOYEES OR THE DEVELOPMENT OF POLICIES AFFECTING WAGES, HOURS AND WORKING CONDITIONS OF THOSE EMPLOYEES. IN ORDER TO AVOID CONFLICTS OF INTEREST, EMPLOYEES WITH THESE RESPONSIBILITIES ARE TYPICALLY EXCLUDED FROM THE BARGAINING UNIT IN OTHER JURISDICTIONS. THIS PROPOSAL WOULD PRIMARILY IMPACT EMPLOYEES PROVIDING CLERICAL SUPPORT TO SECTION AND DIVISION CHIIEFS WITHIN THE GOVERNMENT AND WOULD EFFECT APPROXIMATELY 50-75 POSITIONS.

- WE PROPOSE THAT THE CURRENT LANGUGE AT SECTION 33-108(b), WHICH LIMITS THE TERM OF ANY COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENT TO THREE YEARS, BE AMENDED TO PERMIT AGREEMENTS OF UP TO FIVE YEARS. THE PARTIES MAY FIND IT IN THEIR MUTUAL INTEREST TO HAVE LONGER AGREEMENTS TO ENCOURAGE THE STABILITY OF LABOR RELATIONS.
- THE BILL DOES NOT CHANGE THE CRITERIA USED TO DETERMINE THE REASONABLENESS OF THE PARTIES FINAL OFFERS. IN PARTICULAR, THE ARBITRATOR UNDER 33-108(f)(4)(D) MAY REVIEW THE WAGES HOURS AND WORKING CONDITIONS OF SIMILAR EMPLOYEES OF PRIVATE EMPLOYERS IN MONTGOMERY COUNTY WITH COUNTY BARGAINING UNIT EMPLOYEES. HOWEVER, IN COMPARING SIMILAR EMPLOYEES IN PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT, THE WASHINGTON METROPOLITAN AREA AND MARYLYAND ARE USED. PROPER BALANCING OF PUBLIC AND PRIVATE EMPLOYER COMPARISONS SHOULD ALLOW FOR SIMILAR JURISDICTIONS TO BE USED IN BOTH SECTORS. WE PROPOSE THAT PRIVATE EMPLOYER COMPARISONS BE EXPANDED TO INCLUDE THE WASHINGTON METROPOLITAN AREA AND MARYLAND.

- FINALLY, AS YOU KNOW, THE COUNTY COLLECTIVE BARGAINING LAW ESTABLISHES CERTAIN EMPLOYER RIGHTS WHICH ARE DESIGNED TO RESERVE TO THE EMPLOYER RESPONSIBILITIES WHICH ARE CRITICAL TO THE EFFECTIVE MANAGEMENT OF THE COUNTY GOVERNMENT. UNDER THE LAW, COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENTS OR THE APPLICATION OF PROVISIONS OF THE LABOR LAW ARE NOT SUPPOSED TO IMPAIR THE EMPLOYER'S EXERCISE OF THESE RIGHTS. A FAIR AMOUNT OF TIME, WHETHER IN NEGOTIATIONS OR IN THE DAY TO DAY ADMINISTRATION OF THE LABOR AGREEMENTS THE PARTIES FOCUS ON ISSUES THAT FALL UNDER THE AMBIT OF THESE ARTICULTED RIGHTS, SUCH AS MATTERS PERTAINING TO ASSIGNMENT OF WORK, SCHEDULING OF EMPLOYEES AND DETERMINATION OF PROMOTIONAL STANDARDS. WE PROPOSE THAT THE PREFATORY LANGUAGE UNDER SECTION 33-107(b) BE AMENDED TO INSURE THAT EMPLOYER RIGHTS ARE NOT DIMINISHED, RESTRICTED OR OTHERWISE CONDITIONED. THIS CHANGE WILL SERVE AS ADDITIONAL GUIDANCE TO THE PARTIES, AND IN PARTICULAR, TO THE LABOR RELATIONS ADMINISTRATOR, WHO IS REQUIRED BY THE LAW TO INTERPRET AND ADJUDICATE NEGOTIABILITY OR OTHER DISPUTED APPLICATIONS OF THE LAW.

I HAVE INCLUDED DRAFT LANGUAGE FOR PROPOSED CHANGES WITH COPIES OF MY WRITTEN TESTIMONY.

WITH THESE CHANGES, WE BELIEVE WE WILL CONTINUE TO HAVE A WORKABLE COLLECTIVE BARGAINING FRAMEWORK THAT WILL PROVIDE LABOR RELATIONS STABILITY TO INSURE THAT THE SERVICES TO THE CITIZENS OF THE COUNTY ARE PROVIDED IN AN EFFICIENT AND EFFECTIVE MANNER. THANK YOU.

STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE
MONTGOMERY COUNTY GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES' ORGANIZATION, A DIVISION OF UNITED FOOD AND COMMERCIAL
WORKERS, LOCAL 400

My name is William W. Thompson, II. I am a member of the law firm of Zwerdling, Paul, Leibig, Kahn & Thompson, P. C., and am here representing MCGEO-Local 400.

MCGEO-Local 400 is the incumbent employee organization representing approximately 3,500 County merit system employees pursuant to the County's present "meet and confer" employee relations procedure. On behalf of 2,300 Office, Professional, and Technical employees, and 1,200 Service, Labor, and Trades employees of the County, MCGEO-Local 400 has been at the forefront of the struggle to obtain a comprehensive and equitable collective bargaining law for merit system employees. This effort has culminated in the proposal which the Council has before it today.

MCGEO-Local 400 is proud of the central role it has played in the endeavor to obtain for merit system employees an effective share of the responsibility for determining their salaries and working conditions. This hearing marks a historic milestone in the road to full recognition by Montgomery County that its merit system employees deserve collective bargaining rights similar to those already accorded to almost all other employees of the County and its agencies.

However, the struggle is not over. The proposal Bill, as reported out of the Personnel Committee of the Council includes a number of provisions and "optional" provisions which seriously undermine the overall effectiveness of this legislation, should those provisions be included in the statute as passed by the full Council. We will briefly discuss the most important of these shortcomings in the time remaining. We will address these matters in the order that they appear in the proposed Bill.

First, the Bill, while making provision for two collective bargaining units, includes an option that one unit of all eligible merit system employees be created. MCGEO-Local 400 is uniquely qualified to comment on this issue, since we have been representing the two units - Service Labor and Trades, and Office Professional and Technical, under meet-and-confer. We strongly urge that the single-unit concept be rejected. The present unit structure was created by the County after extensive review of the natural and appropriate communities of interest among merit system employees. Service Labor and Trades employees have distinct needs and interest which should not be subsumed in a larger unit made up primarily of Office, Professional, and Technical employees. We believe the vast majority of both groups wish the units to remain as they now exist. We respectfully request that the Council adopt the two-unit structure as set forth in the principal body of the Bill.

Second, the Bill would exclude from coverage of collective bargaining rights many merit system personnel who are currently included in the meet-and-confer system. Among the employees to be excluded are all employees in the Department of Social Services (DSS) and all persons in Merit Grade 27 and above. The County's several hundred DSS employees are "hybrid" state-County employees. We do not believe that it is fair to deny these employees a voice in the determination of that portion of their salary which is set by the County. Bargaining over such a narrow question would not be disruptive or even significantly time-consuming in the context of the parties' overall relationship. DSS employees, who are principally female, should not be treated as second-class citizens.

The County administration has also sought to have all employees at Grade 27 and above, declared to be exempt from collective bargaining, apparently on the theory that they are, ipso facto, managers. MCGEO-Local 400 currently represents dozens of these employees under meet and confer. The County is thus contradicting its own earlier determination that many employees at Grade 27 and above have been appropriately included in the community of interest of the present meet-and-confer unit structure. One's salary level does not always correlate directly to whether one is a "manager." Many professional positions in the Grade 27 and above range have no supervisory or managerial role at all. Such non-managerial employees must not be denied the right to bargain.

Zwerdling, Paul, Leibig, Kahn & Thompson, P.C.

Third, the principal text of the Bill permits a one-time opportunity for the incumbent meet-and-confer union to be recertified for collective bargaining upon written proof that more than 50% of the collective bargaining unit wish to be represented by it. Thus, when collective bargaining goes into effect, another election would not be necessary. However, an amendment would require MCGEO-Local 400 to go through the expensive and time-consuming process of another election. This proposed requirement is not necessary, especially in light of the fact that MCGEO-Local 400 just won an election in December in the SLT unit with 70% of the vote. We strongly oppose any automatic requirement for another election. We are prepared to prove to the County that a majority of the employees in both units wish to continue to be represented by MCGEO-Local 400 for collective bargaining purposes.

The Bill also proposes that 10% of the employees can petition to force an election rather than the utilization of the procedure for written proof of majority status. We are absolutely opposed to permitting 10% of any group to dictate to the majority how a determination of the incumbent's majority status will be made. We concede that if 30% of the employees in a unit wish to have an election rather than a card check when this law goes into effect, then an election would be appropriate. 30% is a significant proportion of the group. 10% is not. In most labor relations laws, including this Bill, 30% of the employees can petition for an election to decertify a union. We submit that the same number should be required to force an election rather than a card check.

Law Offices

Fourth, we strongly support the provision of the Bill permitting the parties to bargain an agency shop. Agency shop would require nonmembers to pay a certain fee for representation by the certified representative, unless such a payment is objected to upon bona fide religious grounds. This provision represents the normal rule in most jurisdictions. We urge that the Council reject the options that either no agency shop is permissable, or that agency shop can only be applied to employees who have less than 10 years of service. A recognized employee organization is given the duty under the Bill to represent fairly and vigorously all unit employees, not just those who are members. Any union could well be crippled and rendered unable effectively to represent members or nonmembers if it received insufficient income to pay for the service representatives and professional assistance necessary to effectively do the job for 3,500 employees.

Fifth, the Bill limits bargaining over pensions only to any new "defined contribution" plan which might be promulgated by the County. We vehemently object to limiting bargaining of any new plan solely to a defined-contribution plan. What if the Council and the Administration seek to establish a new defined benefit, as opposed to defined contribution plan. There is no reason only to allow bargaining rights if a new defined contribution plan is enacted. Employees should have input into any new pension plans. There is no logic to this limitation in the Bill. Of course, we are also absolutely opposed to the option attached to the Bill which would foreclose any pension bargaining whatsoever. Pension coverage is a major term and condition of employment and is bargained in almost every jurisdiction around the country.

Sixth, we absolutely support the provision of the Bill which permits the parties to bargain binding grievance arbitration. Grievance arbitration provides a relatively quick and inexpensive method for collective bargaining partners to ensure that their formal agreement is faithfully observed and implemented. Binding grievance arbitration is a hallmark of collective bargaining in both the public and private sectors. Without binding grievance arbitration, both the County and the employee organization could be subjected to endless contract litigation in the Courts. The option appended to the Bill which would limit binding arbitration only to disciplinary matters, would take away from the employees the primary method for enforcing contractual promises in collective bargaining. A contract without binding arbitration to enforce all of its provisions, is not a complete collective bargaining agreement.

Seventh, we strongly urge the Council to reject the bill's proposed limitation on the County's duty to bargain over the effects on employees of the exercise of nonbargainable managment rights. Often, management decisions, such as the movement of a workplace from one area of the County to another, cause serious effects on the employees, who, for instance, must report to work in Germantown rather than Bethesda. We believe that such effects as the transportation problems of affected employees must be bargained. The Bill would not permit such effects bargaining. The Bill would limit effects bargaining solely to the loss of a job position by a merit system employee. MCGEO-Local 400 urges the Council to adopt the proposed option, which is taken from the County's police bargaining bill, and which requires that all effects of the exercise of management rights be bargained. Such a provision does not in any way limit management's right to make management decisions. Such an approach is the rule in most jurisdictions.

Eighth, MCGEO-Local 400 submits that one of the principal shortcomings of the body of the Bill is its failure to provide for any collective bargaining agreement until July 1, 1987. If we assume that this law will go into effect sometime in mid-1986, it is absolutely unconscionable for the County to be able to delay its implementation for approximately a year. If the County has determined that public policy is served by granting collective bargaining to merit employees, then merit employees should be able to bargain. We support the Bill's option which would permit simplified bargaining for a short agreement on noneconomic items only. Such an agreement would only be in effect until July 1, 1987. This proposal meets any legitimate concerns that bargaining would interefere with the budget cycle, since no monies would be spent by reason of the preliminary, short-term agreement. Furthermore, such a contract could serve to establish many of the more basic "standard" type contract clauses, so that bargaining for the first full-blown contract could proceed more efficiently. We respectfully request that the Council act decisively to grant the process of collective bargaining as well as the right of collective bargaining as soon as possible. There is no reason to have approximately a year in which the law provides a right without the ability to exercise that right.

Zwerdling, Paul, Leibig, Kahn & Thompson, P.C.

Finally, we strongly urge that the meet-and-confer system be maintained and continued for all employees who now enjoy its benefits, but who are not included in the collective bargaining system. We have made our position clear that all meet-and-confer employees should also be included under collective bargaining. Should the Council choose otherwise, we urgently request that, at the very least, you not take away from these employees that right which they already have. Meet-and-confer does not require the County to sit down and come to an agreement regarding any employee concerns. Surely the County has nothing to lose by continuing to offer this group of employees at least a formal mechanism for conducting representative discussions with their employees.

In conclusion, MCGEO-Local 400 congratulates the Council and particulary Personnel Committee Chairperson Gelman and the other members of that committee for having brought thus far an issue which is of enormous interest and importance to the County employees as well as the rest of the labor movement in this area.

Law Offices
Zwerdling, Paul, Leibig, Kahn & Thompson, P.C.

We urge the Council to seriously consider the points that we have made and to further improve the Bill which is now before you. MCGEO-Local 400 looks forward eagerly to the early passage of this legislation, and to working with the Council and the Executive under this law in the years to come, to foster responsible and effective employee relations. We believe that the morale and high quality of service of County merit system employees can be considerably enhanced as a result of the recognition that employees are partners with the County in service to the public.

MFP ITEM 1
November 29, 1999
Worksession

MEMORANDUM

TO: Management and Fiscal Policy Committee

FROM: Michael Faden, Senior Legislative Attorney

SUBJECT: Worksession: Bill 26-99, Collective Bargaining - Amendments

Bill 26-99, Collective Bargaining – Amendments, sponsored by Councilmembers Subin and Silverman, was introduced September 14. Bill 26-99 requires arbitration of collective bargaining agreements for County government employees. The form of binding arbitration proposed is last best offer for the entire economic package, and last best offer item-by-item for non-economic items. The arbitrator would decide which issues are economic or non-economic. Bill 26-99 also revises the process for certifying employee organizations and the timetable for certain collective bargaining actions.

A public hearing was held on November 16. The only speakers were James Torgesen of the Office of Human Resources, representing the County Executive, and representatives of the Municipal & County Government Employees Organization (MCGEO), the bargaining agent for County employees. Both supported the bill but suggested different amendments. See testimony, ©15-30.

Attorneys for MCGEO requested corrective amendments to clarify the Council's role in reviewing collective bargaining agreements. See MCGEO letter, ©31-39. They also responded to amendments proposed on behalf of the County Executive (see Executive testimony, ©22-27).

Summary

Bill 26-99 would make the folowing changes in the current County employee collective bargaining law:

1) It allows the Labor Relations Administrator to resolve issues regarding the negotiability of any collective bargaining proposal. See ©2, lines 12-13. This is consistent with current practice.

2) It maintains continuity in a collective bargaining agreement when a different union takes over representation. See ©3, lines 22-26. In staff's view, this is a sensible clarification.
3) It allows a combined decertification/certification election if proper petitions have been filed. See ©2, lines 28-39. This appears to be reasonable, but may already be allowed under current law.
4) It moves the collective bargaining agreement schedule back 1 month, so that the report from the fact finder (under the bill, the arbitrator) would be due on March 1 instead of February 1.
5) It converts the current mediation/fact finding collective bargaining process for the County employees bargaining units to a binding arbitration system.

In 1998, Council staff sought the County Attorney's opinion on an initial legal issue raised then by Bill 45-97, the predecessor to Bill 26-99. Binding arbitration was mandated for employees in the public safety (police and fire) bargaining units by express provisions in the County Charter (§§510, 510A). In contrast, Charter §511 authorizes the Council to provide "arbitration or other impasse resolution procedures" for the remaining bargaining units but does not expressly authorize binding arbitration. Bill 26-99 would grant binding arbitration rights to employees, and impose similar legal obligations on the County Executive, by legislation. The legal issue this posed is whether, without expressly amending the Charter to permit it, delegating the County Executive's decision-making authority regarding a collective bargaining agreement to a private arbitrator would amount to an unlawful delegation of the executive power assigned to the Executive by §201 of the Charter. The County Attorney concluded that this issue is not squarely posed because, in drafting Charter §511 in 1984, the Council intended the term "arbitration" to include binding arbitration and expressly rejected an amendment to allow only "non-binding" arbitration. (See County Attorney memo, ©40-51.)

Major Issues

Binding arbitration for non-public safety employees? Until now, binding arbitration has been legislatively adopted in Montgomery County only when the Charter requires it, and only for public safety (police, fire) employees. (Unlike some other jurisdictions, the distinction between employee groups is not based on the presence or absence of a right to strike; here the Charter expressly prohibits strikes by any employee group.) Binding arbitration transfers authority from the County Executive to a third-party arbitrator; it directly removes the Executive's discretion to accept or not accept a collective bargaining agreement, and indirectly increases the pressure on the Council to fund the arbitrator's award. Experts argue about whether binding arbitration increases or reduces the willingness of the parties to reach agreement on their own, and whether it increases an employer's costs over time.

A major difference between the public safety employee groups and the broader County employee bargaining units is the greater uniformity of issues in the public safety bargaining units. Each unit has fewer employees, they are in a single occupation, and they work for a single department with its own unique set of demands and work requirements. By contrast, MCGEO represents a larger and more heterogeneous group of employees, who are subject to widely varied demands, and who work in more than two dozen different departments and offices and many dissimilar work settings and working conditions. (The larger size of the MCGEO units also means, of course, that the fiscal impact of an arbitrator's award can be much greater than it is for the public safety units.) In addition, without diminishing the risks and stresses faced by non-public safety employees, they rarely if ever rise to the life-threatening levels that public safety employees may face at any time.

Of other Maryland jurisdictions, only Prince George's County has adopted a form of binding arbitration for non-public safety employees; however, it can only be used if the employer and union both agree. Prince George's County also has binding arbitration for its public safety employees, broadly defined. The District of Columbia has binding arbitration on compensation issues for all represented employees, and on all issues for police and firefighters. Baltimore City has binding arbitration for firefighters only. No other Maryland jurisdiction employs binding arbitration. Nor does the federal government or any Virginia jurisdiction (Virginia does not allow public employee collective bargaining).

Type of binding arbitration The form of binding arbitration that now applies to the County fire and police collective bargaining units is last best offer for the entire contract ("total package"), rather than last best offer issue-by-issue ("line item") or conventional (arbitrator's discretion or "split the difference") arbitration. The binding arbitration proposed by Bill 26-99 for the MCGEO units is a hybrid: the economic issues would be decided on a last best offer total package basis, but the arbitrator could decide each non-economic issue separately and would not be limited to the parties' offers. Under the bill the arbitrator would decide which issues are economic and which are non-economic.

For the parties' views on which form of binding arbitration is preferable, see ©16-17 (Executive) and ©28-33 (MCGEO). In Council staff's view, a bifurcated system may offer little incentive for the parties to compromise on non-economic issues, which are mainly day-to-day operating issues. On the other hand, one can argue that in total package arbitration the economic issues normally drive the arbitrator's decision and the non-economic issues are "along for the ride"; in that system the arbitrator would give the non-economic issues scant separate consideration. If so, the system proposed in Bill 26-99 would elevate the importance and visibility of the non-economic issues.

If the economic/non-economic distinction is maintained in the law, Executive staff suggest limits on what issues are defined as economic. See item #8 on ©25-26. MCGEO did not respond to this definition.

Scope of bargaining unit The Executive would exclude from the bargaining unit those probationary employees whose probationary period is 12 months or more, and certain confidential employees. See ©23. MCGEO opposes these exclusions and would broaden the bargaining unit to cover non-attorneys in the State's Attorney's Office, temporary employees, and sergeants in the Sheriff's Office. See ©37-38. As Councilmember Subin announced at the hearing, he plans to introduce separate legislation next week to expand the bargaining unit along the lines of some of MCGEO's proposals. Council staff suggest that issues regarding the scope of the bargaining unit be handled in the context of Councilmember Subin's bill.

Collective bargaining agreement calendar Bill 26-99 would move the deadline for the arbitrator's award from February to March 1. The Executive prefers February 15. While the bill moves the deadline closer to the operating budget submission deadlines, in our view it reflects how the process has actually operated in recent years.

Economic comparisons Executive staff proposed an amendment to allow the arbitrator to consider private sector wages and benefits in the entire Washington metropolitan area and the state, rather than only the County. See ©24. MCGEO strongly opposes this. See ©35. In our view, this amendment seems reasonable because public sector wages and benefits are already compared across these jurisdictions, and the arbitrator can certainly take differing costs of living in the various areas into account as well.

Management rights Executive staff proposed language that would direct the arbitrator to not diminish or condition management rights in determining whether a collective bargaining item is negotiable. See ©24-25. MCGEO strongly opposes this. See ©35-36. While we agree that management rights may need more protection, Council staff is not sure what the actual effect of this language would be.

5-year term Executive staff would lengthen the maximum term of a collective bargaining agreement with MCGEO from 3 to 5 years. MCGEO did not comment on this amendment. The collective bargaining agreement could, of course, allow one or more issues to be reopened during that period. This amendment seems reasonable.

Council role MCGEO proposed several amendments to clarify that the Council, in reviewing a collective bargaining agreement, only can act on those terms and conditions that require funding or a change in law. While the thrust of these amendments is consistent with the intent of the current law, Council staff would prefer to work with the parties in sharpening the language to make sure that the Council's role is not inadvertently limited.

33-103. Labor Relations Administrator.

(a) [There is established the position of] A Labor Relations Administrator[, to provide for the effective implementation and administration of] must be appointed to effectively administer this Article [concerning] as it governs selection, certification and decertification procedures, prohibited practices, and the choice of a mediator/fact-finder. The [Labor Relations] Administrator [shall exercise the following powers and perform the following duties and functions] must:

* * *

(8) Determine any issue regarding the negotiability of any collective bargaining proposal.

[(8)] (9) Exercise any other powers and perform any other duties and functions [as may be] specified in this Article.

33-106 Selection, certification, and decertification procedures.

(a) The certification or decertification of an employee organization as the representative of a unit for [the purpose of] collective bargaining [shall be initiated in accordance with] must comply with the following procedures:

* * *

(5) If a different employee organization is certified as the result of an election carried out under subsection (b)(8), that organization must be treated in all respects as a successor in interest and party to any collective bargaining agreement that the previous employee organization was a party to.

(b) * * *

(8) If a properly supported and timely filed petition to decertify an existing certified employee organization, and a properly supported and timely filed petition to certify another employee organization, are filed during the same time period under subsection (a)(3) or (a)(4), one election must be held to determine which organization, if any, the employees in the unit desire to represent them. The election ballot must contain, as choices to be made by the voter, the names of the petitioning and certified employee organizations, and a choice that the employee does not desire to be represented by any of the named employee organizations. All other applicable requirements and procedures for the election must be followed.

* * *

33-108. Bargaining, impasse, fact-finding, and legislative procedures.

(a) Collective bargaining [shall] must begin no later than November 1 before the beginning of a fiscal year for which there is no agreement between the employer and the certified representative, and [shall] must be finished on or before [January] February 15. [The resolution of a bargaining impasse or fact-finding shall be finished by February 1.]

(b) Any provision for automatic renewal or extension of a collective bargaining agreement is void. An agreement is not valid if it extends for less than one year or for more than 3 years. All agreements [become effective] take effect July 1 and end June 30.

(c) A collective bargaining agreement [becomes effective] takes effect only after ratification by the employer and [by] the certified representative. The certified representative may [provide] adopt its own [rules for] ratification procedures.

(d) Before November 10 of any year in which the employer and the certified representative bargain collectively, the Labor Relations Administrator [shall] must appoint a mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator, who may be a person recommended [to her] by both parties. The mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator [shall] must be available [during the period] from January 2 to [February 1] June 30. Fees and expenses of the mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator [shall] must be shared equally by the employer and the certified representative.

(e) (1) During the course of collective bargaining, either party may declare an impasse and request the services of the mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator, or the parties may jointly request [his] those services before [declaration of] an impasse is declared. If the parties do not reach an agreement by [January] February 15, an impasse exists. Any issue regarding the negotiability of any bargaining proposal must be referred to the Labor Relations Administrator for an expedited determination.

(2) This dispute [shall] must be submitted to the mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator whenever an impasse has been reached, or [before that] as provided in subsection (e)(1). The mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator [shall] must engage in mediation by bringing the parties together voluntarily under such favorable circumstances as will [tend to bring about the] encourage settlement of the dispute.

(3) If [and when] the mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator finds, in [his] the mediator/arbitrator's sole discretion, that the parties are at a bona fide impasse, [he shall implement the following fact-finding process:] or as of February 15 when an impasse is automatically reached, whichever occurs earlier, the dispute must be submitted to binding arbitration.

[(a.) He shall require the parties to submit jointly a memorandum of all items previously agreed upon, and separate memoranda of their proposals on all items not previously agreed upon.]

(f)(1) If binding arbitration is invoked, the mediator/arbitrator must require each party to submit a final offer, which must consist either of a complete draft of a proposed collective bargaining agreement or a complete package proposal, as the mediator/arbitrator directs. If only complete package proposals are required, the mediator/arbitrator must require the parties to submit jointly a memorandum of all items previously agreed on. The final offer submitted by each party must separately identify economic and non-economic proposals. Economic proposals must include salary and wages, pension and other welfare benefits, such as health insurance. The mediator/arbitrator must decide any issue regarding whether a particular proposal is economic or non-economic.

[(b.)] (2) [He] The mediator/arbitrator may require the parties to submit oral or written evidence [or make oral or written] and arguments in support of their proposals. [He] The mediator/arbitrator may hold a hearing for this purpose at a time, date, and place selected by [him] the mediator/arbitrator. This hearing [shall] must not be open to the public.

[(c.)] (3) [On or before February 1, the mediator/fact-finder shall issue a report of his findings of fact and recommendations on those matters still in dispute between the parties. The report shall be submitted to the parties but shall not be made public at this time.]

On or before March 1, the mediator/arbitrator must select, as a whole, the more reasonable of the final economic offers submitted by the parties. With regard to the economic offers, the mediator/arbitrator must not compromise or alter a final offer. The mediator/arbitrator must not consider or receive any argument or evidence related to the history of collective bargaining in the immediate dispute, including any previous settlement offer not contained in the final offers. However, the mediator/arbitrator must consider all previously agreed-on economic items, integrated with the disputed economic items, to decide which economic offer is the most reasonable. The mediator/arbitrator must also decide which of each of the parties' non-economic proposals is the most reasonable under all the circumstances. The mediator/arbitrator may compromise, alter, or reject any non-economic proposal.

[(d.)] (4) In making [findings of fact and recommendations] a determination under this subsection, the mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator may [take into account] consider only the following factors:

[(i)] (A) Past collective bargaining agreements between the parties, including the past bargaining history that led to the agreements, or the pre-collective bargaining history of employee wages, hours, benefits, and working conditions.

[(ii)] (B) Comparison of wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of similar employees of other public employers in the Washington Metropolitan Area and in Maryland.

(iii) Comparison of wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of other Montgomery County personnel.

[(iv)] (D) Wages, benefits, hours, and other working conditions of similar employees of private employers in Montgomery County.

[(v)] (E) The interest and welfare of the public.

[(vi)] (F) The ability of the employer to finance economic adjustments, and the effect of the adjustments [upon] on the normal standard of public services provided by the employer.

(5) The economic offer selected by the mediator/arbitrator, together with the mediator/arbitrator's conclusion on each non-economic proposal, integrated with all previously agreed on items, is the final agreement between the employer and the certified representative, need not be ratified by any party, and has the effect of a contract ratified by the parties under subsection (c). The parties must execute the agreement, and any provision which requires action in the County budget must be included in the budget which the employer submits to the County Council.

[(f) After receiving the report of the mediator/fact-finder, the parties shall meet again to bargain. If 10 days after the parties receive the report they have not reached full agreement, or if either party does not accept, in whole or in part, the recommendations of the mediator-fact-finder, the report of the mediator-fact-finder, with recommendations on agreed items deleted, shall be made public by sending it to the Council. The mediator/fact-finder shall also send the Council the joint memorandum of items agreed upon, up-dated with any items later agreed upon. The parties shall also send to the Council separate memoranda stating their positions on matters still in dispute.]

(g) The budget that the employer submits to the Council [shall] must include the items that have been agreed to, as well as the employer's position on matters still in dispute. Any agreed or disputed term or condition submitted to the Council that requires an appropriation of funds, or the enactment[, repeal, or modification] or adoption of any County law or regulation, or which has or may have a present or future fiscal impact, may be accepted or rejected in whole or in part by the Council. [Such terms or conditions shall be identified to the Council by either or both parties.] The employer must expressly identify any term or condition that requires Council review. The employer [shall] must make a good faith effort to have the Council take action to implement [any term or condition to which the parties have agreed] all terms of the final agreement.

(h) The Council may hold a public hearing to enable the parties and the public to testify on the agreement [and the recommendations for resolving bargaining disputes].

(i) On or before May 1, the Council [shall] must indicate by resolution its intention to appropriate funds for or otherwise implement the [items that have been agreed to] agreement or its intention not to do so, and [shall] must state its reasons for any intent to reject any [items of the kind specified in subsection (g) that have been agreed to] item of the final agreement. [The Council shall also indicate by resolution its position on disputed matters which could require an appropriation of funds or enactment, repeal, or modification of any County law or regulation, or which have present or future fiscal impact.]

(j) [Then] If the Council indicates its intention to reject any item of the final agreement, the Council [shall] must designate a representative to meet with the parties and present the Council's views in the parties' further negotiation on [disputed matters and/or agreed upon] matters that the Council has indicated its intention to reject. The parties must submit the results of the negotiation, whether a complete or a partial agreement, [shall be submitted] to the Council on or before May 10.

(k) Any agreement [shall] must provide for automatic reduction or elimination of wage [and/]or benefits adjustments if:

(1) The Council does not take action necessary to implement the agreement, or a part of it; or

(2) Sufficient funds are not appropriated for any fiscal year [in which] when the agreement is in effect.

[(k)] (l) The Council [shall] must take [whatever actions it considers] any action required by the public interest with respect to [matters] any matter still in dispute between the parties. However, [those actions shall not be] any action taken by the Council is not part of the agreement between the parties unless the parties specifically incorporate [them] it in the agreement.

TESTIMONY FOR COUNTY EXECUTIVE
BILL NO. 26-99
COLLECTIVE BARGAINING - AMENDMENTS

GOOD AFTERNOON, MY NAME IS JAMES TORGESEN, LABOR/EMPLOYEE RELATONS MANAGER IN THE OFFICE OF HUMAN RESOURCES, I HAVE BEEN ASKED BY THE COUNTY EXECUTIVE TO PROVIDE THE POSITION OF THE EXECUTIVE BRANCH CONCERNING BILL NO 26-99. IN GENERAL, WE SUPPORT THE DIRECTION OF THE PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE COUNTY COLLECTIVE BARGAINING LAW. THE COUNTY COLLECTIVE BARGAINING LAW WAS PASSED BY COUNCIL IN JUNE 1986 AND HAS REMAINED UNCHANGED, EXCEPT FOR AMENDMENTS AFFECTING THE BARGAINING UNIT STATUS OF FIRE/RESCUE EMPLOYEES. THE COUNTY EXECUTIVE AND MCGEO, UFCW/LOCAL 1994, THE CERTIFED REPRESENTATIVE WHICH REPRESENTS THE OPT AND SLT BARGAINING UNITS, HAVE BEEN SERVED WELL BY THE FRAMEWORK THAT THE LAW PROVIDES FOR THE CONDUCT OF COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AND THE DAY TO DAY RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN THE PARTIES. OVER THE YEARS THE PARTIES HAVE UTILIZED VIRTUALLY ALL OF THE KEY ELEMENTS OF THE LAW. WITH THIS EXPERIENCE IN MIND, THE FOLLOWING COMMENTS CONCERNING THE PROPOSED AMENDMENTS, AS WELL AS OTHERS I WILL SUGGEST, ARE MADE FOR THE COUNCIL'S CONSIDERATION.

- THE MOST SIGNIFICANT CHANGES IN THE PROPOSED AMENDMENTS AFFECT THE IMPASSE RESOLUTION PROCESS. THE CURRENT LAW CULMINATES IMPASSE WITH A FACT-FINDING PROCESS, THAT ALLOWS A NEUTRAL THIRD PARTY TO RECOMMEND TO THE PARTIES A RESOLUTION FOR EACH IMPASSE ITEM. THE PARTIES MAY ACCEPT OR MODIFY THE RECOMMENDATION TO ACHIEVE AGREEMENT. ITEMS WHICH REMAIN IN DISPUTE ARE SUBMITTED TO COUNCIL FOR DISPOSITION. THE BILL REPLACES THE FACTFINDING PROCESS WITH BINDING ARBITRATION. IT BIFURCATES ECONOMIC AND NON-ECONOMIC ISSUES AND REQUIRES THE PARTIES TO SUBMIT A TOTAL PACKAGE OFFER ON ECONOMIC ITEMS AND SEPARATE OFFERS ON EACH NON-ECONOMIC ITEM. FOR THE ECONOMIC ITEMS, THE ARBITRATOR MUST CHOOSE AS A TOTAL PACKAGE THE EMPLOYER'S OFFER OR THE UNION'S OFFER. IN CONTRAST, ON NON-ECONOMIC ITEMS THE ARBITRATOR MAY FASHION A SEPARATE AWARD ON EACH ITEM. WE DO NOT FAVOR THE TREATMENT OF ECONOMIC AND NON-ECONOMIC ITEMS AS PROPOSED IN THE BILL. WE PROPOSE THAT THE ARBITRATOR MAKE AN AWARD ON EACH ITEM, ACCEPTING EITHER THE EMPLOYER'S OR UNION'S OFFER, WITHOUT PERMITTING THE ARBITRATOR TO MODIFY AN OFFER. THE PARTIES ARE ACCUSTOMED TO AN ITEM BY ITEM REVIEW UNDER THE CURRENT FACTFINDING PROCESS. IT IS PREFERABLE TO HAVE THE PARTIES WRITE THE LANGUAGE, RATHER THAN ALLOW AN ARBITRATOR TO IMPOSE A

HYBRID ON THE PARTIES WHICH CREATES A POTENTIAL FOR AMBIGUITY.

- IF THE COUNCIL DECIDES TO ADOPT THE AMENDMENTS AS PROPOSED, THE LAW SHOULD BE AMENDED TO PROVIDE, AT THE VERY LEAST, GREATER DEFINITION AS TO WHAT CONSTITUES AN ECONOMIC ITEM, RATHER THAT LEAVING THAT DETERMINATION SOLELY TO THE ARBITRATOR.
- THE AMENDMENTS PROPOSE TO MOVE THE DATE FOR ISSUANCE OF THE ARBITRATOR'S AWARD FROM FEBRUARY 1 TO MARCH 1. WE AGREE THAT SOME ADJUSTMENT IS NEEDED TO THE DATES IN THE IMPASSE PROCESS. MORE TIME IS NEEDED TO ALLOW THE PARTIES TO REACH AGREEMENT ON THEIR OWN. MOREOVER, ADDITIONAL TIME IS NEEDED TO FIRM UP ECONOMIC PARAMETERS IN THE EARLY PART OF THE CALENDAR YEAR. HOWEVER, THE PROPOSED MARCH 1 DATE LEAVES LITTLE TIME FOR THE EXECUTIVE TO FINALIZE BUDGET RECOMMENDATIONS AND DOCUMENTS FOR PUBLICATION ON MARCH 15. WE PROPOSE THAT THE DATE OF THE AWARD BE MOVED BACK TO FEBRUARY 15 AND THE INITIAL IMPASSE DATE BE ADJUSTED TO FEBRUARY 1. THUS GIVING THE PARTIES ADDITIONAL TIME TO BARGAIN.

IN ADDITION, TO THESE MODIFICATIONS THE COUNTY EXECUTIVE REQUESTS THAT THE COUNCIL CONSIDER THE FOLLOWING ADDITIONAL AMENDMENTS TO THE LAW.

- IN SECTION 33-102, THE DEFINITION SECTION OF THE LAW, WE BELIEVE TWO CHANGES ARE NEEDED. UNDER THE DEFINITION OF "EMPLOYEE" THE LAW DEFINES WHICH EMPLOYEES ARE ELIGIBLE FOR COLLECTIVE BARGAINING RIGHTS. CURRENTLY PROBATIONARY EMPLOYEES ARE EXCLUDED, BUT THE LAW DOES NOT DEFINE THE LENGTH OF THE PROBATIONARY PERIOD. TO INSURE THAT THE LENGTH OF THE PROBATIONARY PERIOD IS ESTABLISHED AND IS NOT OTHERWISE SUBJECT TO NEGOTIATION, WE RECOMMEND THAT A 12 MONTH PROBATIONARY PERIOD BE INCLUDED IN THE LAW. THIS IS CONSISTENT WITH THE NEW HIRE PROBATIONARY PERIOD FOR UNREPRESENTED EMPLOYEES. SECONDLY, WE REQUEST THAT AN ADDITIONAL EXEMPTION BE ADDED TO COVER "CONFIDENTIAL EMPLOYEES" THIS IS A COMMON EXCLUSION IN A COLLECTIVE BARGAINING ENVIRONMENT. CONFIDENTIAL EMPLOYEES ARE THOSE EMPLOYEES WHO PREPARE OR REVIEW CONFIDENTIAL PERSONEL MATTERS INVOLVING BARGAINING UNIT EMPLOYEES OR THE DEVELOPMENT OF POLICIES AFFECTING WAGES, HOURS AND WORKING CONDITIONS OF THOSE EMPLOYEES. IN ORDER TO AVOID CONFLICTS OF INTEREST, EMPLOYEES WITH THESE RESPONSIBILITIES ARE TYPICALLY EXCLUDED FROM THE BARGAINING UNIT IN OTHER JURISDICTIONS. THIS PROPOSAL WOULD PRIMARILY IMPACT EMPLOYEES PROVIDING CLERICAL SUPPORT TO SECTION AND DIVISION CHIIEFS WITHIN THE GOVERNMENT AND WOULD EFFECT APPROXIMATELY 50-75 POSITIONS.

- WE PROPOSE THAT THE CURRENT LANGUGE AT SECTION 33-108(b), WHICH LIMITS THE TERM OF ANY COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENT TO THREE YEARS, BE AMENDED TO PERMIT AGREEMENTS OF UP TO FIVE YEARS. THE PARTIES MAY FIND IT IN THEIR MUTUAL INTEREST TO HAVE LONGER AGREEMENTS TO ENCOURAGE THE STABILITY OF LABOR RELATIONS.
- THE BILL DOES NOT CHANGE THE CRITERIA USED TO DETERMINE THE REASONABLENESS OF THE PARTIES FINAL OFFERS. IN PARTICULAR, THE ARBITRATOR UNDER 33-108(f)(4)(D) MAY REVIEW THE WAGES HOURS AND WORKING CONDITIONS OF SIMILAR EMPLOYEES OF PRIVATE EMPLOYERS IN MONTGOMERY COUNTY WITH COUNTY BARGAINING UNIT EMPLOYEES. HOWEVER, IN COMPARING SIMILAR EMPLOYEES IN PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT, THE WASHINGTON METROPOLITAN AREA AND MARYLYAND ARE USED. PROPER BALANCING OF PUBLIC AND PRIVATE EMPLOYER COMPARISONS SHOULD ALLOW FOR SIMILAR JURISDICTIONS TO BE USED IN BOTH SECTORS. WE PROPOSE THAT PRIVATE EMPLOYER COMPARISONS BE EXPANDED TO INCLUDE THE WASHINGTON METROPOLITAN AREA AND MARYLAND.

- FINALLY, AS YOU KNOW, THE COUNTY COLLECTIVE BARGAINING LAW ESTABLISHES CERTAIN EMPLOYER RIGHTS WHICH ARE DESIGNED TO RESERVE TO THE EMPLOYER RESPONSIBILITIES WHICH ARE CRITICAL TO THE EFFECTIVE MANAGEMENT OF THE COUNTY GOVERNMENT. UNDER THE LAW, COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENTS OR THE APPLICATION OF PROVISIONS OF THE LABOR LAW ARE NOT SUPPOSED TO IMPAIR THE EMPLOYER'S EXERCISE OF THESE RIGHTS. A FAIR AMOUNT OF TIME, WHETHER IN NEGOTIATIONS OR IN THE DAY TO DAY ADMINISTRATION OF THE LABOR AGREEMENTS THE PARTIES FOCUS ON ISSUES THAT FALL UNDER THE AMBIT OF THESE ARTICULTED RIGHTS, SUCH AS MATTERS PERTAINING TO ASSIGNMENT OF WORK, SCHEDULING OF EMPLOYEES AND DETERMINATION OF PROMOTIONAL STANDARDS. WE PROPOSE THAT THE PREFATORY LANGUAGE UNDER SECTION 33-107(b) BE AMENDED TO INSURE THAT EMPLOYER RIGHTS ARE NOT DIMINISHED, RESTRICTED OR OTHERWISE CONDITIONED. THIS CHANGE WILL SERVE AS ADDITIONAL GUIDANCE TO THE PARTIES, AND IN PARTICULAR, TO THE LABOR RELATIONS ADMINISTRATOR, WHO IS REQUIRED BY THE LAW TO INTERPRET AND ADJUDICATE NEGOTIABILITY OR OTHER DISPUTED APPLICATIONS OF THE LAW.

I HAVE INCLUDED DRAFT LANGUAGE FOR PROPOSED CHANGES WITH COPIES OF MY WRITTEN TESTIMONY.

WITH THESE CHANGES, WE BELIEVE WE WILL CONTINUE TO HAVE A WORKABLE COLLECTIVE BARGAINING FRAMEWORK THAT WILL PROVIDE LABOR RELATIONS STABILITY TO INSURE THAT THE SERVICES TO THE CITIZENS OF THE COUNTY ARE PROVIDED IN AN EFFICIENT AND EFFECTIVE MANNER. THANK YOU.

and employee benefits such as insurance, leave, holidays, and vacations. The mediator/arbitrator must decide any issue regarding whether a particular proposal is economic or non-economic.

COUNTY COLLECTIVE BARGAINING LAW AMENDMENTS

Impasse resolution – Proposed legislation differentiates treatment of economic and non-economic items in dispute. As an alternative to the proposed language the arbitrator would determine reasonableness on each item in dispute. The current fact-finding process permits this and this would provide a balanced opportunity for the Arbitrator to review each offer separately or in combination with others, rather that deciding economics as a package and non-economics item by item. In addition, a clearer definition of what is "economic" is needed, tracking the definition contained in the scope of bargaining.

Minimum 12 month probationary period – law needs to be clarified to insure that newly hired employees are not eligible to participate in the bargaining unit until having completed 12 months probation.

Confidential Employees- defines a group of employees currently not excluded from the bargaining unit who regularly handle personnel matters concerning bargaining unit employees. Many of these employees provide clerical support to division and section level heads and process discipline or other employee related actions.

Deadline dates for declaring and resolving bargaining impasse – move the proposed impasse deadlines back by two weeks to provide adequate time to finalize the Executive's budget recommendations.

Term of labor agreements – increase capability to negotiate agreements up to 5 years in duration. Provides flexibility for parties to establish long term contracts and enhance the stability of labor relations.

Comparison of wages, benefits and working conditions – parties to include comparable jurisdictions in comparison of private sector employers during impasse proceedings. Currently, comparisons are limited to Montgomery County.

Labor Relations Administrator decision parameters- include language which directs LRA not to interpret the bargaining law in such a way so as to diminish or restrict in any way issues which touch on enumerated management rights.

TESTIMONY IN SUPPORT OF BILL 26-99
COLLECTIVE BARGAINING - AMENDMENTS

Good afternoon, my name is Bill Thompson. I am a principal in the firm of Zwerdling, Paul, Leibig, Kahn, Thompson & Wolly, P.C., 1025 Connecticut Avenue, N. W., Suite 712, Washington, D.C. 20036, 202-857-5000. I am the General Counsel of MCGEO-UFCW Local 1994, and have been its attorney since the early 1980's. I was also one of the drafters of the County Collective Bargaining Law in 1986.

The County now has three collective bargaining laws: for police, for fire and rescue, and for general blue collar and white collar employees. This last law is colloquially known as the "MCGEO" law.

The proposed amendments to the MCGEO law which are before you this afternoon, if adopted by the Council, will add to the MCGEO law highly effective impasse resolution procedures which already exist both in the police bargaining law and the fire and rescue bargaining law.

Specifically, the MCGEO law lacks a binding arbitration provision. As you know, both the police and fire and rescue statutes force a definitive closure to the bargaining process by means of an arbitrator's binding award. Such an award resolves outstanding unsettled bargaining issues by requiring the union and the Executive to accept the arbitrator's decision regarding those issues, as their final contract. Whether or not the final contract results from arbitration, the Council thereafter reviews and acts upon any provisions of the agreement which require its involvement.

The current MCGEO law is flawed by lack of a binding arbitration provision. Instead of forcing finality both on the union and the Executive, the MCGEO fact-finding process replicates the procedure of binding arbitration -- final offers and a hearing before the fact-finder (who is invariably an arbitrator) -- but lacks the substance of a binding decision. Instead of ending the bargaining process, the fact-finder can only issue toothless recommendations. And, as the current MCGEO law provides:

> After receiving the report of the mediator/fact-finder, the parties shall meet again to bargain.

Section 108(f). Thus, we have an entirely circular process.

Today the MCGEO bargaining law has the "worst of both worlds" in this regard. If an impasse in negotiations is reached, the Executive and MCGEO are forced to spend the time, money, and effort to present and defend their respective proposals in a formal proceeding before the fact-finder. However, unlike binding arbitration the resulting "recommendations" don't force the parties to a resolution. Rather, the fact-finder's toothless recommendations invariably drop into a proverbial "file 13," and the parties go back to the table again.

Furthermore, this non-binding fact-finding procedure also robs the initial stage of third party intervention in a bargaining dispute of any real possibility of success. Here we are speaking of mediation, which proceeds both binding arbitration in the two public safety laws, and fact-finding in the MCGEO law. At mediation the third party neutral arbitrator or fact-finder attempts to bring the parties together without the need for a formal proceeding. Common sense dictates that a mediator can be more persuasive in leading both sides into a mediated settlement, if the parties know that he or she will later have the power to bind them via an ultimate arbitration award. We strongly urge that the Council add binding arbitration of impasses to the MCGEO law.

Other bargaining process-related proposals in this bill are more technical. The bill would amend the statutory deadlines for various stages of the bargaining process, so that they are more realistically in tune with the Executive and Council operating budget cycle. Another proposed amendment will enable employees to make more efficient choices about which, if any, union they want to represent them. Also included are several clarifications of the authority of the Labor Relations Administrator, and the parameters of bargaining subjects. We urge that these aspects of Bill 26-99 be adopted, as well.

As the certified collective bargaining representative for more than 3000 blue and white collar County Merit System employees, we respectfully urge the Council to pass Bill 26-99.

Re: Bill 26-99

Dear Mike:

As was requested by the Council during the November 16, 1999 hearing regarding this bill, these are MCGEO-UFCW Local 1994's comments regarding the County Executive's proposed amendments to the bill introduced at the hearing, together with some criticisms and suggestions we have regarding a few aspects of the existing bill.

The Executive's Proposed Amendments

Executive Item #1: Change Impasse Process In Bill.

- The bill proposes an interest arbitration procedure bifurcated between economic and non-economic proposals. (See bill pages 6-8). Economic proposals of each side will be decided as a complete package, "winner-take-all." This is the same method which exists for all proposals in the Police and Fire and Rescue bargaining laws. Non-economic "working condition" proposals will be decided item by item, and the Arbitrator will be empowered to compromise or alter the proposals in his/her final award.

- The reason this bill (as did its predecessor bill 45-97) varies from the complete "winner-take-all" system used in the two other bargaining laws it that while the economic benefits of employment for those in the MCGEO bargaining units are basically uniform, working conditions vary greatly. In the Police and Fire and Rescue bargaining units, working conditions as well as economic benefits are relatively homogeneous. However, MCGEO-represented employees have working conditions which are as varied as the myriad of job classifications included in the blue collar and white collar units.

- Therefore, it may be very difficult and unwieldy for any Arbitrator to reach a decision choosing one or the other final offer, each of which includes many working conditions which only affect subgroups of employees within the MCGEO bargaining units. By removing non-economic working conditions from the winner-take-all system, we feel that the Arbitrator will have the appropriate flexibility to arrive at a coherent non-economic working condition award which he/she can integrate logically with the winner-take-all economic award.

- The Executive's proposed amendment would authorize item-by-item choices by the Arbitrator for all proposals, economic and non-economic, but without giving the Arbitrator the ability to compromise or vary from one or the other proposal. This suggestion is a recipe for bargaining chaos. What if the parties have differing proposals which do not mirror the same subject matter? For instance, if MCGEO presents a final proposal for some item and there is no directly corresponding County counter proposal, does that mean MCGEO automatically wins? Without the ability to compromise or ignore various aspects of each side's proposals, the Arbitrator will be hard pressed to correlate them on a "one-to-one" basis.

- Regardless of how the Arbitrator differentiates between economic and non-economic proposals, his determinations of what is "economic" or "non-economic" will not be binding on the Council. Under the bill, the Arbitrator's final award including both categories of proposals becomes the parties' complete collective bargaining agreement. (See bill pages 9 and 10). Only after that agreement has been concluded does the Council review process begin. That separate review process in the bill requires that the Council approve "[a]ny ... term or condition ... that requires an appropriation of funds, or the enactment or adoption of any County law or regulation, or which has or may have a present or future fiscal impact." With one purely technical amendment, this substantive standard for Council review continues the system which has existed since 1986.

- Therefore, we request that the Council reject the Executive's proposed item by item impasse resolution system.

Executive Item #2: Require A Minimum 12-Month Probationary Period.

- This proposed amendment is an effort by the County to have the Council overturn a recent decision by the County Labor Relations Administrator that determined the length of the new hire probationary period to be bargainable under the law. The County has appealed the LRA's decision to Circuit Court.

- We strongly object to the County's effort to overturn the LRA's decision. That critical piece of background information was deleted from the County's explanation. The County's desire to delay for six months the graduation of probationary employees into the MCGEO bargaining units is a matter which must be negotiated between the Executive and MCGEO, not improperly injected into the political process.

Executive Item #3: Exclude Confidential Employees From The Bargaining Unit.

- The law already excludes from the bargaining units:

  (A) Confidential aides to elected officials.

  * * *

  (D) Deputies and assistants to heads of principal departments, offices, and agencies.

(E) Persons who provide direct staff or administrative support to the head ... or to a deputy or assistant within the immediate office of a head of a principal department, office, or agency.

* * *

(G) Persons who work for the Office of the County Executive and the Office of the Chief Administrative Officer.

* * *

(J) Persons who work for the Office of Management and Budget.

(K) Persons who work for the Office of Human Resources.

(S) Supervisors....

(T) Persons in Grade 27 or above....

Section 33-102(4).

- Given the breadth of these and other existing exclusions from the bargaining units, the proposed exclusion of "those employees whose regular duties include the preparation or review of confidential personnel matters affecting bargaining unit employees or the development of policies affecting the wages, hours, or working conditions of bargaining unit employees..." constitutes either a repetition of an existing exclusions, or an effort by the County Executive to stretch the concept of "policies affecting" working conditions far beyond what is necessary to safeguard management's privacy. Under this definition, a decision by a building service work to move a water cooler closer to the office door could be argued to constitute a policy decision affecting working conditions.

- We urge the Council to reject this suggestion.

Executive Item #4: Establish Earlier Deadline Dates For Declaring And Resolving Bargaining Impasses.

Executive Item #5: Allow Labor Agreements To Have A Maximum 5-Year Term.

- We are reviewing these suggestions, and have not yet concluded our considerations.

Executive Item #6: Allow The Arbitrator To Consider The Wages, Benefits, And Working Conditions Of Similar Employees Of Private Employers In The Washington Metropolitan Area And In Maryland.

- We are strenuously opposed to any effort to dilute the economic comparisons between County employees and who usually live in the Montgomery County vicinity with those in the distant suburbs, the Eastern Shore, Baltimore, and Western Maryland. Many of these proposed "comparables" are radically less expensive communities with much lower costs of living.

Executive Item #7: Include Language In The Bill That Prohibits The Labor Relations Administrator From Diminishing Management Rights When He Makes A Negotiability Determination.

- The current law includes the following provision at Section 33-107(b):

  > Employer rights. This article and any agreement made under it shall not impair the right and responsibility of the employer to perform the following [management rights].

  Any negotiability determination made by the LRA under the current law cannot "impair the right and responsibility of the employer...." Therefore this proposal is entirely unnecessary.

- Moreover, all negotiability determinations must balance management rights with the subjects which are negotiable. We are concerned that the County will try to use this proposed new language to shift the balance which has existed since 1986 by claiming in a court appeal that the Council has enacted this amendment to criticize or somehow repudiate the LRA decisions regarding negotiability which have been issued between 1986 and 1999.

- We request that the Council reject this proposal.

Executive Item #8: Proposed Amendment To Impasse Process If Council Bifurcates Consideration Of Economic And Non-Economic Items.

- We are reviewing this suggestion and have not yet completed our deliberations.

MCGEO's Suggested Amendments

We have several suggested amendments to the current bill as follows:

Item A: Clarification of Council Review Language

§33-108(g) [p. 10 line 171]:

(g) The budget that the employer submits to the Council [shall] must include any term or condition of the parties' agreement [[the items that have been agreed to, as well as the employer's position on matters still in dispute. Any agreed or disputed term or condition submitted to the Council]] that requires an appropriation of funds, or the enactment [, repeal, or modification] or adoption of any County law or regulation, or which has or may have a present or future fiscal impact [[,]]. Any such term or condition of the agreement, may be accepted or rejected in whole or in part by the Council. [Such terms or conditions shall be identified to the Council by either or both parties.] The employer must expressly identify any term or condition that requires Council review, and simultaneously provide notice of that identification to the other party. The employer [shall] must make a good faith effort to have the Council take action to implement [any term or condition [[to which the parties have agreed] all terms of the final agreement]] so identified.

33-108(i) [p. 11, lines 190-2]

...[shall] must state its reasons for any intent to reject any [items of the agreement of the kind specified in subsection (g) that have been agreed to] [[item of the final agreement]].

33-108(j) [p. 11, lines 196-7]

(j) [Then] If the Council indicates its intention to reject any item of the final agreement of the kind specified in subsection (g), the Council must....

- The purpose for these proposed additional amendments is to ensure that the language accurately reflects the facts that a complete agreement between the parties, whether or not as the result of arbitration, must exist prior to the transmittal of the Executive's proposed budget, and that council review is not of the complete agreement, but only the specifically identified terms and conditions.

Item B: Amendments To Definitions Of Employees Included In The Collective Bargaining Units.

Section 33-102:

(4) Employee means any person who works under the County government merit system, or any non-attorneys who work for the Office of the State's Attorney for Montgomery County, on a continuous full-time, career or part-time, career basis, except:

* * *

- This proposed amendment would extend collective bargaining rights for the specified employees only to the extent their terms and conditions of employment (including, e.g., health insurance and retirement benefits) are regulated by the County.

[(M) Persons who work on a temporary, seasonal or substitute basis.]

- We are deeply concerned that the Executive is increasing the use of temporary, seasonal and substitute employees at sub-par wages and benefits to do regular work which should be performed by merit system employees. We ask the Council to provide collective bargaining protection to these working members of our community, so that the principles of work place fairness can be extended to them, as well.

[(P) Officers in the uniformed services (Corrections, ~~Fire and Rescue, Police,~~ Office of the Sheriff) in the rank of ~~sergeant~~ lieutenant and above. Subject to any limitations in State law, Deputy Sheriffs below the rank of ~~sergeant~~ lieutenant are employees.]

- This proposed amendment clarifies the fact that no sworn police officers or firefighters in the uniformed services are included in the MCGEO law. Furthermore, police and/or Sheriffs office sergeants are often included in collective bargaining units because, while they are often supervisors, they are not members of the command staff. Local jurisdictions where police sergeants are in the bargaining unit include Baltimore City, Baltimore County, and Prince George's County.

We will be happy to discuss all these matters with you, Council staff, and/or Council members at your convenience. Feel free to contact me if you have any questions.

Very truly yours,

RE: Bill 45-97, Collective Bargaining - Binding Arbitration

QUESTION

You have asked for our opinion regarding the legality of a provision in Bill 45-97, Collective Bargaining - Amendments, which requires a neutral party to resolve a collective bargaining impasse between the County Executive and the representative of non-public safety employees. You state, "The fundamental legal issue this poses is whether, without expressly amending the Charter to permit it, delegating the County Executive's decision-making authority with respect to a collective-bargaining agreement to a private arbitrator would amount to an unlawful delegation of the executive power assigned to the Executive by §201 of the Charter."

SHORT ANSWER

Because Charter §511 authorizes the County Council by legislation to provide for arbitration to resolve an impasse in reaching a collective bargaining agreement, Bill 45-97 may authorize a third party to resolve that impasse.

ANALYSIS

The Court of Appeals has on several occasions concluded that authorization to engage in arbitration to resolve an impasse in collective bargaining must arise from a public general law or County charter. See, Anne Arundel County v. Fraternal Order of Anne Arundel Detention Officers and Personnel, 313 Md. 98, 543 A.2d 841 (1988).[1] The key issue, therefore, is whether Charter §511 authorizes the Council to provide for arbitration. If it does, Bill 45-97 may validly impose a binding dispute resolution process to resolve an impasse in collective bargaining.

You have pointed out that Charter §§510 and 510A require the Council to provide by law for collective bargaining with "binding" arbitration.[2] Charter §511, on the other hand, omits the term "binding." You have raised the question whether the failure to use the term "binding" in Charter §511 means that the Council is not authorized to provide for "binding" arbitration in Bill 45-97.

We do not believe that the failure to use the term "binding" in Charter §511 is significant in this case. Both the plain meaning of the language used in Charter §511 and its legislative history leave little doubt that Charter § 511 authorizes the Council to provide by law for a binding dispute resolution process to resolve collective bargaining impasses.

A county charter is to be read and construed in the same manner as a statute and its words generally are to be given their natural meaning. Anderson v. Harford County, 50 Md. App. 48, 435 A.2d 496 (1981). Charter §511 provides:

> The Montgomery County Council may provide by law for collective bargaining, with arbitration or other impasse-resolution procedures, with authorized representatives of officers and employees of the County Government not covered by either Section 510

[1]In Anne Arundel County v. Fraternal Order, the Court of Appeals indicated that a charter provision authorizing collective bargaining arbitration must be consistent with Article XI-A of the Maryland Constitution. Id, at 111. Because neither Charter §511 nor Bill 45-97 attempts to limit the decision-making authority of the County Council, we do not believe that Article XI-A of the Maryland Constitution would be violated by imposing binding arbitration on representatives of the collective-bargaining unit and the County Executive. See Ritchmount Partnership v. Bd. of Supervisors of Elections, 283 Md. 48, 388 A.2d 523 (1977) (County Council of a charter county must serve as the primary legislative body of the county.)

[2]Charter §510 (collective bargaining for police officers) was approved in 1980; Charter §511 was approved in 1984; and Charter §510A (collective bargaining for firefighters) was approved in 1994. While Charter §511 was placed on the ballot by the County Council, Charter §§510 and 510A were placed on the ballot as the result of citizen petition.

> or Section 510A of this Charter. Any law so enacted shall prohibit strikes or work-stoppages for such officers and employees. (Emphasis added.)

Webster's dictionary defines the term "arbitration" as: "settlement of a dispute by a person or persons chosen to hear both sides and come to a decision."[3] Black's Law Dictionary defines "arbitration" as, "a method of dispute resolution involving one or more neutral third parties who are chosen by or agreed to by the disputing parties, and whose decision is binding." (Emphasis added.)[4] Accordingly, the normal meaning of the term "arbitration" involves as a key element a binding dispute resolution process.

The legislative history concerning Charter §511 confirms that §511 was intended to authorize a binding dispute resolution process. The 1984 report of the Charter Review Commission recommended that the County Council place on the ballot for approval by the voters Charter §511.[5] The Charter Review Commission report states, "The Commission believes that the Council should have the opportunity and the clear authority to deal uniformly with the issue of collective bargaining for County employees other than police officers; that position was unanimous and bi-partisan." (Emphasis added.) As noted, Charter §510, which had been approved in 1980, mandated binding arbitration to resolve an impasse in collective bargaining for police officers.

On July 26, 1984, the County Council discussed placing Charter §511 on the ballot. There was considerable discussion regarding whether Charter §511 should authorize the Council to provide for a binding dispute resolution process.[6] The Council minutes reflect that Council member Hanna moved to delete from Charter §511 the phrase "arbitration or other impasse-resolution procedures," and substitute "mediation or non-binding arbitration." (Emphasis added.) Ms. Spencer, a member of the Charter Review Commission, pointed out that Mr. Hanna's amendment would create a conflict with §510, which provides for binding arbitration for police officers. Mr. Renne, president of the Montgomery County Government Employees Organization, indicated that his organization hoped that the Charter would provide for "one system of arbitration for all employees." Mr. Renne indicated that "binding arbitration is preferred because without it there will be inconsistency and uncertainty about how an impasse will be resolved."

[5]Relevant portions of the 1984 Charter Review Commission Report are attached.

[6]Relevant portions of the Council minutes for July 26, 1984, are attached.

In short, the legislative history of Charter §511 clearly indicates that the Charter amendment was intended to enable the Council to provide for binding dispute resolution, and the actual words used in Charter §511 are consistent with that intent.

CONCLUSION

Unless authorized by the County Charter, the Council would be without the authority to enact legislation to impose a binding dispute-resolution process on the exercise of an executive function—like agreeing to a collective bargaining agreement—by the County Executive. But Charter §511 does authorize the Council to enact legislation providing for arbitration to resolve collective bargaining impasses. Bill 45-97 accordingly may legally provide for arbitration to resolve an impasse in the collective bargaining process.

1984 REPORT of the CHARTER REVIEW COMMISSION

May 1984

(44)

Montgomery County, Maryland

RECOMMENDATION B. Collective Bargaining for County employees.

A new Section 511 should be added to the Charter to authorize the County Council to provide by law for collective bargaining with arbitration or other impasse resolution procedures, with authorized representatives of officers and employees of the county government not covered by Section 510 of the Charter; such law would prohibit strikes and work stoppages.

PROPOSED CHARTER LANGUAGE

Revised Section 511

SECTION 511 Collective Bargaining - County Employees

The Montgomery County Council may provide by law for collective bargaining, with arbitration or other impasse resolution procedures, with authorized representatives of officers and employees of the county government not covered by Section 510 of this Charter. Any law so enacted shall prohibit strikes or work stoppages for such officers and employees.

A new second sentence for Section 401 shall be added as follows:

PROPOSED CHARTER LANGUAGE

Revised Section 401

SECTION 401 Merit System

The Council shall prescribe by law a merit system for all officers and employees of the County government, except members of the Council, the County Executive, the Chief Administrative Officer, the County Attorney, the heads of the departments, the heads of the principal offices and agencies, as defined by law, one confidential aide for each member of the Council, two senior professional staff positions for the Council as a whole as may be designated from time to time by the Council, three special assistant positions in the office of the County Executive as may be designated from time to time by the County Executive, special legal counsel employed pursuant to this Charter, and members of boards and commissions and other officers authorized by law to be appointed to serve in a quasi-judicial capacity. Officers and employees who are members of a unit for which a collective bargaining contract exists may be excluded from provisions of the merit system only to the extent that such provisions are subject to collective bargaining pursuant to legislation enacted under Section 510 or Section 511 of this Charter. The merit system shall provide the means to recruit, select, develop, and maintain an effective, non-partisan, and responsive work force with personnel actions based on demonstrated merit and fitness. Salaries and wages of all classified employees in the merit system shall be determined pursuant to a uniform salary plan. The Council shall establish by law a system of retirement pay.

Note: New matter: underscored

DISCUSSION

Collective bargaining for county employees has been considered by previous Charter Review Commissions and County Councils. Other public employees (i.e. teachers, school supporting service employees, and employees of Montgomery College) have obtained collective bargaining through passage of public general laws by the Maryland General Assembly. In addition, Montgomery County Police Officers obtained the right to bargain collectively through a Charter amendment which they proposed by initiative.

The Commission believes that the Council should have the opportunity and the clear authority to deal uniformly with the issue of collective bargaining for County employees other than police officers; that position was unanimous and bipartisan.

The proposed amendment would leave to the discretion of the Council the decision as to whether or not county employees should have the right to bargain collectively. The proposed amendment also leaves to Council discretion the extent to which county employees under collective bargaining should remain within the merit system. The proposed amendment would also prohibit strikes by county employees who are the subject of a collective bargaining agreement.

There was disagreement among the Commission members as to whether the proposed amendment should mandate action by the Council to create a framework for collective bargaining (five members favored the mandatory language) and on whether there should be a "no strike" provision in the proposal (the same five members opposed the strike ban). Commissioner Michael Gildea has written a minority statement covering these two positions, and Commissioners Goldman, Garber, and Gildenhorn subscribed to those views. They are included in this report, pages 21-26. Commissioner Frosh has also written a minority statement on these two positions. His comments are included on page 27 of this report.

The Commission does not recommend any action at this time on the issues of a separate merit system for legislative and/or judicial employees, RIF/replacement rights between and among executive, legislative, and judicial employees, or increased non-merit staff for the County Council. The Commission believes that these issues require further study.

Re: Worksession on Charter Amendments, Petitions and Ballot Questions

The Council reviewed Charter amendments, petitions, and ballot questions in accordance with a memorandum of July 24, 1984 from Myriam Bailey, Office of Legislative Counsel. The Council began its review by considering recommendations of the Charter Review Commission.

Ballot Question A and Proposed Charter Amendment (Approval of the Budget) - This involves an amendment to Section 305 of the Charter which exempts the budgets of certain self-funding programs from the computation of the aggregate operating budget when determining whether an affirmative vote of five Councilmembers is required to approve the budget; provides that the Consumer Price Index shall be computed for the twelve months preceding December first of each year; and makes a clarifying change.

Councilman Potter directed attention to his proposed additional amendment to add the following language after the phrase "For the purposes of this limitation the aggregate operating budget":

shall include all items for which appropriations were included in the operating budget of the preceding year

Mr. Potter said that his amendment has been discussed with the Office of Management and Budget. The amendment is proposed to ensure that the comparison from one year to the next truly reflects the increase in operating budget expenditures. He said that it might be helpful to add the following clarifying language:

Mr. Spengler directed attention to the Charter Review Commission's proposed Charter language for Section 305, noting that the word "fully" between "for" and "self-supporting" in the proposed language is used to describe enterprise funds which are not necessarily fully self-supporting.

Councilman Gudis moved, duly seconded, to delete the word [fully] between "for" and "self-supporting" in the Charter amendment.

Councilman Hanna suggested that the word "self-supporting" be deleted also. Mr. Gudis accepted Mr. Hanna's suggestion as an amendment to his motion.

Mr. Spengler said that accountants use the term "primarily" self-supporting. If it meets that test, it is considered an enterprise fund.

Councilman Potter moved, duly seconded, an amendment to Mr. Gudis' motion to substitute the word "primarily" for "fully."

Councilman Hanna said that, if the word "primarily" is used, it will have to be defined. In his opinion, it is simpler to say "enterprise funds" without any adjectives.

Councilmembers Potter and Fosler voting in the affirmative and Councilmembers Hanna, Gudis, Scull, Crenca and Gelman voting in the negative, the amendment to Mr. Gudis' motion failed for lack of a majority vote.

Without objection, the Council approved Mr. Gudis' motion, as amended, to delete the words [fully self-supporting].

Upon motion of Councilman Gudis, duly seconded and without objection, the Council agreed to delete [the Parking Lot districts] from the proposed Charter amendment for Section 305 of the Charter.

Ballot Question B and Proposed Charter Amendment (Collective Bargaining - County Employees - This involves an amendment to Section 401 of the Charter and the addition of a new Section 511 authorizing the Council to provide by law for collective bargaining.

President Gelman asked about the distinction between "mediation" and "arbitration." Mr. Newman said that mediation is a resolution of differences by an informal procedure, while arbitration is a resolution of differences by a formal procedure involving the issuance of a decision by an arbitrator. The question of whether the decision is binding or not depends upon the agreements reached by the parties involved. Councilman Fosler noted that "binding arbitration" is another term to be considered.

Councilman Hanna moved, duly seconded, to delete from the proposed Charter amendment for Section 511 the words [arbitration or other impasse resolution procedures] and to substitute mediation or non-binding arbitration.

Ms. Elizabeth Spencer, a member of the Charter Review Commission, said that the Charter Review Commission felt that the language in the Charter should be as broadly permissive as possible because the legislation enacted by the Council may be different for different groups.

President Gelman expressed the view that the language in the Charter amendment should be broad because it empowers the Council to enact legislation.

Councilman Hanna said that he prefers to restrict the law that may be enacted to provide for only non-binding arbitration.

Councilman Potter suggested that Mr. Hanna would only need to add the word "non-binding" before the word "arbitration" to accomplish his objective. Mr. Hanna accepted Mr. Potter's suggestion as an amendment to his motion.

Ms. Spencer pointed out that this will create a conflict with Section 510 of the Charter which provides for binding arbitration with an authorized representative of the Montgomery County police officers.

Mr. Geno Renne, President of the Montgomery County Government Employees' Organization (MCGEO), cited the need for equity among County employees. He said that, regardless of whether it is included in the Charter, the Council has the ultimate responsibility of deciding whether it will accept binding arbitration. He said that both of the groups represented by MCGEO are currently under "meet and confer", and that it was hoped that the Charter amendment would provide one system of arbitration for all employees. He said that binding arbitration is preferred because without it there will be inconsistency and uncertainty about how an impasse will be resolved.

Councilman Potter said that he believes binding arbitration would remove from the Council its authority to make the final decision. Noting that he believes that it might be appropriate in situations where strikes are prohibited, Mr. Potter raised objections to the language proposed for Section 511 that says that "any law so enacted shall prohibit strikes or work stoppages." He believes that the Charter amendment should provide some flexibility and balance. He noted that Section 510 prohibits strikes, but provides for binding arbitration.

Councilman Hanna said that he objects to relinquishing of the Council's responsibility to an arbitrator and believes that it could have negative results. He cited a case where employees negotiated an agreement under binding arbitration which called for salary increases which could not be met without a tax increase. He said that the court ruling in this case was that the only individuals who have the overall responsibility of the government are the elected officials; an arbitrator cannot remove those powers and demand something that is against the public interest. He said that he is in favor of collective bargaining for employees if this is what the employees wish.

Councilmembers Hanna and Scull voting in the affirmative and Councilmembers Gudis, Potter, Crenca, Fosler and Gelman voting in the negative, Mr. Hanna's motion to add non-binding before the word "arbitration" failed for lack of a majority vote.

With respect to the language which indicates that the authority for collective bargaining may be granted to authorized representatives of officers and employees of the County government not covered by Section 510, Mr. Renne pointed out that MCGEO cannot represent non-merit employees. He believes that the Council can address this issue through the legislation it enacts in this regard.

Councilman Potter moved to substitute the word may for "shall" before the word "prohibit" in the language proposed for Section 511. The motion failed for lack of a second. In making the motion, Mr. Potter said that he believes that the issue of prohibiting or permitting strikes could be addressed in legislation the Council enacts.

Mr. Renne requested that the record reflect MCGEO's opposition to the lack of flexibility in the Charter amendment for County employees.

Councilman Potter moved to delete the word [only] between "system" and "to" in the language proposed for Section 401. Following discussion, without objection, the Council agreed to amend this language by including a comma before the word "only", as suggested by Ms. Spencer.

Councilman Hanna raised a question about the language proposed for Section 401 that says that "officers and employees who are members of a unit for which a collective bargaining contract exists may be excluded from the provisions of the merit system." He expressed the view that employees should

MEMORANDUM

TO: Management and Fiscal Policy Committee

FROM: MF Michael Faden, Senior Legislative Attorney

SUBJECT: Worksession: Bill 26-99, Collective Bargaining - Amendments

Bill 26-99, Collective Bargaining – Amendments, sponsored by Councilmembers Subin and Silverman, was introduced September 14, 1999. Bill 26-99 requires arbitration of collective bargaining agreements for County government employees. The form of binding arbitration proposed is last best offer for the entire economic package, and last best offer item-by-item for non-economic items. The arbitrator would decide which issues are economic or non-economic. Bill 26-99 also revises the process for certifying employee organizations and the timetable for certain collective bargaining actions.

A public hearing was held on November 16. The only speakers were James Torgesen of the Office of Human Resources (OHR), representing the County Executive, and representatives of the Municipal & County Government Employees Organization (MCGEO), the bargaining agent for County employees. Both supported the bill but suggested different amendments. See testimony, ©15-30.

Attorneys for MCGEO requested corrective amendments to clarify the Council's role in reviewing collective bargaining agreements. See MCGEO letter, ©31-39. They also responded to amendments proposed on behalf of the County Executive (see Executive testimony, ©22-27).

At a worksession held on November 29, this Committee made tentative decisions on certain issues, described below, and encouraged OHR and MCGEO to work together, if possible, to reconcile their views on the kind of binding arbitration that should be adopted.

Summary

Bill 26-99 would make the following changes in the current County employee collective bargaining law:

1) It allows the Labor Relations Administrator to resolve issues regarding the negotiability of any collective bargaining proposal. See ©2, lines 12-13. This is consistent with current practice.
2) It maintains continuity in a collective bargaining agreement when a different union takes over representation. See ©3, lines 22-26. In staff's view, this is a sensible clarification.
3) It permits a combined decertification/certification election if proper petitions have been filed. See ©2, lines 28-39. This appears to be reasonable, but may already be allowed under current law.
4) It moves the collective bargaining agreement schedule back 1 month, so that the report from the fact finder (under the bill, the arbitrator) would be due on March 1 instead of February 1.
5) It converts the current mediation/fact finding collective bargaining process for the County employees bargaining units to a binding arbitration system.

In 1998, Council staff sought the County Attorney's opinion on an initial legal issue raised then by Bill 45-97, the predecessor to Bill 26-99. Binding arbitration was mandated for employees in the public safety (police and fire) bargaining units by express provisions in the County Charter (§§510, 510A). In contrast, Charter §511 authorizes the Council to provide "arbitration or other impasse resolution procedures" for the remaining bargaining units but does not expressly authorize binding arbitration. Bill 26-99 would grant binding arbitration rights to employees, and impose similar legal obligations on the County Executive, by legislation. The legal issue this posed is whether, without expressly amending the Charter to permit it, delegating the County Executive's decision-making authority regarding a collective bargaining agreement to a private arbitrator would amount to an unlawful delegation of the executive power assigned to the Executive by §201 of the Charter. The County Attorney concluded that this issue is not squarely posed because, in drafting Charter §511 in 1984, the Council intended the term "arbitration" to include binding arbitration and expressly rejected an amendment to allow only "non-binding" arbitration. (See County Attorney memo, ©40-51.)

Major Issues

Binding arbitration for non-public safety employees? Until now, binding arbitration has been legislatively adopted in Montgomery County only when the Charter requires it, which is only for public safety (police, fire) employees. (Unlike other jurisdictions, the distinction between employee groups is not based on the presence or absence of a right to strike; our Charter expressly prohibits strikes by any employee group.) Binding arbitration transfers authority from the County Executive to a third-party arbitrator; it directly removes the Executive's discretion to accept or not accept a collective bargaining agreement, and indirectly increases the pressure on the Council to fund the arbitrator's award. Experts argue about whether binding arbitration increases or reduces the willingness of the parties to reach agreement on their own, and whether it increases an employer's costs over time.

A major difference between the public safety employee groups and the broader County employee bargaining units is the greater uniformity of issues in the public safety bargaining units. Each unit has fewer employees, they are in a single occupation, and they work for a single department with its own unique set of demands and work requirements. By contrast, MCGEO represents a larger and more heterogeneous group of employees, who are subject to widely varied demands, and who work in more than two dozen different departments and offices and many dissimilar work settings and working conditions. (The larger size of the MCGEO units also means, of course, that the fiscal impact of an arbitrator's award can be much greater than it is for the public safety units.) In addition, without diminishing the risks and stresses faced by non-public safety employees, they rarely if ever rise to the life-threatening levels that public safety employees may face at any time.

Of other Maryland jurisdictions, only Prince George's County has adopted a form of binding arbitration for non-public safety employees; however, it can only be used if the employer and union both agree. (See excerpts of Prince George's County law, ©52.) Prince George's County also has binding arbitration for its public safety employees, broadly defined. The District of Columbia has binding arbitration on compensation issues for all represented employees, and on all issues for police and firefighters. Baltimore City has binding arbitration for firefighters only. No other Maryland jurisdiction allows binding arbitration. Nor does the federal government or any Virginia jurisdiction (Virginia does not allow any public employee collective bargaining).

Type of binding arbitration The form of binding arbitration that now applies to the County fire and police collective bargaining units is last best offer for the entire contract ("total package"), rather than last best offer issue-by-issue ("line item") or conventional (arbitrator's discretion or "split the difference") arbitration. The binding arbitration proposed by Bill 26-99 for the MCGEO units is a hybrid: the economic issues would be decided on a last best offer total package basis, but the arbitrator could decide each non-economic item separately and would not be bound by the parties' offers. Under the bill the arbitrator decides which issues are economic and which are non-economic.

For the parties' views on which form of binding arbitration is preferable, see ©16-17 (Executive) and ©28-33 (MCGEO). In Council staff's view, a bifurcated system may offer little incentive for the parties to compromise on non-economic issues, which are mainly day-to-day operating issues. On the other hand, one can argue that in total package arbitration the economic issues normally drive the arbitrator's decision and the non-economic issues "go along for the ride" and are given scant separate consideration. In that case, the system proposed in Bill 26-99 would elevate the importance and visibility of the non-economic issues.

If the economic/non-economic distinction is maintained in the law, Executive staff suggested limits on what issues are defined as economic. See item #8 on ©25-26. At the worksession OHR Director Perez reiterated that the economic issues should be limited to wages, pensions, and health benefits. MCGEO preferred the broader definition in Bill 26-99.

After negotiations since the November worksession, OHR and MCGEO agreed to support an amendment to adopt the last best offer for the entire contract ("total package") process that is used in the police bargaining unit. If the Committee endorses this approach, Council staff will draft appropriate language, based generally on the current provisions in County Code §33-81, for the Committee's approval. A "total package" approach would eliminate the need for the arbitrator to decide which issues are economic or non-economic. In staff's view, it would also continue the pattern we have observed in the police bargaining unit, where the arbitrator's award effectively hinges on the economic issues, especially the proposed wage and salary adjustments. Whether this process makes equal sense in the more varied MCGEO units merits further discussion.

Scope of bargaining unit The Executive would exclude from the bargaining unit those probationary employees whose probationary period is 12 months or more, and certain confidential employees. See ©23. MCGEO opposes these exclusions and would broaden the bargaining unit to cover non-attorneys in the State's Attorney's Office, temporary employees, and sergeants in the Sheriff's Office. See ©37-38. At the November worksession the Committee recommended that changes in the scope of the bargaining unit not be addressed in this bill.

Collective bargaining agreement calendar Bill 26-99 would move the deadline for the arbitrator's award from February 1 to March 1. The Executive preferred February 15. While these changes move the bargaining deadline closer to the operating budget submission deadline, in our view they reflect how the process has actually functioned in recent years. After negotiations since the November worksession, OHR and MCGEO agreed to split their difference and move the relevant dates forward a half-month. In other words, they agreed to require impasse to be declared by February 1 (the current law says January 15), and the arbitrator's report would be due by February 15 (the current law says February 1).

Economic comparisons Executive staff proposed an amendment to allow the arbitrator to consider private sector wages and benefits in the entire Washington metropolitan area and the state, rather than only the County. See ©24. MCGEO strongly opposes this. See ©35. In our view, this amendment seems reasonable because public sector wages and benefits are already compared across these jurisdictions, and the arbitrator can certainly take differing costs of living in the various areas into account as well. After negotiations since the November worksession, OHR and MCGEO agreed to leave the current law unchanged on this point.

Management rights Executive staff proposed language that would direct the arbitrator to not diminish or condition management rights in determining whether a collective bargaining item is negotiable. See ©24-25. MCGEO strongly opposes this. See ©35-36. While we agree that management rights may need more protection, Council staff is not sure what the actual effect of this language would be. After negotiations since the November worksession, OHR and MCGEO agreed to leave the current law unchanged on this point.

5-year term Executive staff would lengthen the maximum term of a collective bargaining agreement with MCGEO from 3 to 5 years. The collective bargaining agreement could, of course, allow one or more issues to be reopened during that period. At the November worksession OHR staff argued that a 5-year term would send a message of stability to County employees and bond rating agencies. Committee Chair Praisner noted that a 5-year contract could bypass an entire Council term, effectively taking major collective bargaining issues of the table during that period and allowing only isolated consideration of any reopeners. (However, the bypassed Council could decline to fund a cost item approved by the previous Council.)

Councilmember Andrews asked about the experience of other jurisdictions with length of collective bargaining agreements. In negotiations since the November worksession, OHR and MCGEO agreed to support this amendment.

Council role MCGEO proposed several amendments to clarify that the Council, in reviewing a collective bargaining agreement, only can act on those terms and conditions that require funding or a change in law. While the thrust of these amendments is consistent with the intent of the current law, in redrafting this bill Council staff will work with the parties to make sure that the Council's role is preserved as originally intended.

(8) If a properly supported and timely filed petition to decertify an existing certified employee organization, and a properly supported and timely filed petition to certify another employee organization, are filed during the same time period under subsection (a)(3) or (a)(4), one election must be held to determine which organization, if any, the employees in the unit desire to represent them. The election ballot must contain, as choices to be made by the voter, the names of the petitioning and certified employee organizations, and a choice that the employee does not desire to be represented by any of the named employee organizations. All other applicable requirements and procedures for the election must be followed.

33-108. Bargaining, impasse, fact-finding, and legislative procedures.

(a) Collective bargaining [shall] must begin no later than November 1 before the beginning of a fiscal year for which there is no agreement between the employer and the certified representative, and [shall] must be finished on or before [January] February 15. [The resolution of a bargaining impasse or fact-finding shall be finished by February 1.]

(b) Any provision for automatic renewal or extension of a collective bargaining agreement is void. An agreement is not valid if it extends for less than one year or for more than 3 years. All agreements [become effective] take effect July 1 and end June 30.

(c) A collective bargaining agreement [becomes effective] takes effect only after ratification by the employer and [by] the certified representative. The certified representative may [provide] adopt its own [rules for] ratification procedures.

(d) Before November 10 of any year in which the employer and the certified representative bargain collectively, the Labor Relations Administrator [shall] must appoint a mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator, who may be a person recommended [to her] by both parties. The mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator [shall] must be available [during the period] from January 2 to [February 1] June 30. Fees and expenses of the mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator [shall] must be shared equally by the employer and the certified representative.

(e) (1) During the course of collective bargaining, either party may declare an impasse and request the services of the mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator, or the parties may jointly request [his] those services before [declaration of] an impasse is declared. If the parties do not reach an agreement by [January] February 15, an impasse exists. Any issue regarding the negotiability of any bargaining proposal must be referred to the Labor Relations Administrator for an expedited determination.

(2) This dispute [shall] must be submitted to the mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator whenever an impasse has been reached, or [before that] as provided in subsection (e)(1). The mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator [shall] must engage in mediation by bringing the parties together voluntarily under such favorable circumstances as will [tend to bring about the] encourage settlement of the dispute.

(3) If [and when] the mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator finds, in [his] the mediator/arbitrator's sole discretion, that the parties are at a bona fide impasse, [he shall implement the following fact-finding process:] or as of February 15 when an impasse is automatically reached, whichever occurs earlier, the dispute must be submitted to binding arbitration.

[(a.) He shall require the parties to submit jointly a memorandum of all items previously agreed upon, and separate memoranda of their proposals on all items not previously agreed upon.]

(f)(1) If binding arbitration is invoked, the mediator/arbitrator must require each party to submit a final offer, which must consist either of a complete draft of a proposed collective bargaining agreement or a complete package proposal, as the mediator/arbitrator directs. If only complete package proposals are required, the mediator/arbitrator must require the parties to submit jointly a memorandum of all items previously agreed on. The final offer submitted by each party must separately identify economic and non-economic proposals. Economic proposals must include salary and wages, pension and other welfare benefits, such as health insurance. The mediator/arbitrator must decide any issue regarding whether a particular proposal is economic or non-economic.

[(b.)] (2) [He] The mediator/arbitrator may require the parties to submit oral or written evidence [or make oral or written] and arguments in support of their proposals. [He] The mediator/arbitrator may hold a hearing for this purpose at a time, date, and place selected by [him] the mediator/arbitrator. This hearing [shall] must not be open to the public.

[(c.)] (3) [On or before February 1, the mediator/fact-finder shall issue a report of his findings of fact and recommendations on those matters still in dispute between the parties. The report shall be submitted to the parties but shall not be made public at this time.]

On or before March 1, the mediator/arbitrator must select, as a whole, the more reasonable of the final economic offers submitted by the parties. With regard to the economic offers, the mediator/arbitrator must not compromise or alter a final offer. The mediator/arbitrator must not consider or receive any argument or evidence related to the history of collective bargaining in the immediate dispute, including any previous settlement offer not contained in the final offers. However, the mediator/arbitrator must consider all previously agreed-on economic items, integrated with the disputed economic items, to decide which economic offer is the most reasonable. The mediator/arbitrator must also decide which of each of the parties' non-economic proposals is the most reasonable under all the circumstances. The mediator/arbitrator may compromise, alter, or reject any non-economic proposal.

[(d.)] (4) In making [findings of fact and recommendations] a determination under this subsection, the mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator may [take into account] consider only the following factors:

[(i)] (A) Past collective bargaining agreements between the parties, including the past bargaining history that led to the agreements, or the pre-collective bargaining history of employee wages, hours, benefits, and working conditions.

[(ii)] (B) Comparison of wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of similar employees of other public employers in the Washington Metropolitan Area and in Maryland.

(iii) Comparison of wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of other Montgomery County personnel.

[(iv)] (D) Wages, benefits, hours, and other working conditions of similar employees of private employers in Montgomery County.

[(v)] (E) The interest and welfare of the public.

[(vi)] (F) The ability of the employer to finance economic adjustments, and the effect of the adjustments [upon] on the normal standard of public services provided by the employer.

(5) The economic offer selected by the mediator/arbitrator, together with the mediator/arbitrator's conclusion on each non-economic proposal, integrated with all previously agreed on items, is the final agreement between the employer and the certified representative, need not be ratified by any party, and has the effect of a contract ratified by the parties under subsection (c). The parties must execute the agreement, and any provision which requires action in the County budget must be included in the budget which the employer submits to the County Council.

[(f) After receiving the report of the mediator/fact-finder, the parties shall meet again to bargain. If 10 days after the parties receive the report they have not reached full agreement, or if either party does not accept, in whole or in part, the recommendations of the mediator-fact-finder, the report of the mediator-fact-finder, with recommendations on agreed items deleted, shall be made public by sending it to the Council. The mediator/fact-finder shall also send the Council the joint memorandum of items agreed upon, up-dated with any items later agreed upon. The parties shall also send to the Council separate memoranda stating their positions on matters still in dispute.]

(g) The budget that the employer submits to the Council [shall] must include the items that have been agreed to, as well as the employer's position on matters still in dispute. Any agreed or disputed term or condition submitted to the Council that requires an appropriation of funds, or the enactment[, repeal, or modification] or adoption of any County law or regulation, or which has or may have a present or future fiscal impact, may be accepted or rejected in whole or in part by the Council. [Such terms or conditions shall be identified to the Council by either or both parties.] The employer must expressly identify any term or condition that requires Council review. The employer [shall] must make a good faith effort to have the Council take action to implement [any term or condition to which the parties have agreed] all terms of the final agreement.

(h) The Council may hold a public hearing to enable the parties and the public to testify on the agreement [and the recommendations for resolving bargaining disputes].

(i) On or before May 1, the Council [shall] must indicate by resolution its intention to appropriate funds for or otherwise implement the [items that have been agreed to] agreement or its intention not to do so, and [shall] must state its reasons for any intent to reject any [items of the kind specified in subsection (g) that have been agreed to] item of the final agreement. [The Council shall also indicate by resolution its position on disputed matters which could require an appropriation of funds or enactment, repeal, or modification of any County law or regulation, or which have present or future fiscal impact.]

(j) [Then] If the Council indicates its intention to reject any item of the final agreement, the Council [shall] must designate a representative to meet with the parties and present the Council's views in the parties' further negotiation on [disputed matters and/or agreed upon] matters that the Council has indicated its intention to reject. The parties must submit the results of the negotiation, whether a complete or a partial agreement, [shall be submitted] to the Council on or before May 10.

(k) Any agreement [shall] must provide for automatic reduction or elimination of wage [and/]or benefits adjustments if:

(1) The Council does not take action necessary to implement the agreement, or a part of it; or

(2) Sufficient funds are not appropriated for any fiscal year [in which] when the agreement is in effect.

[(k)] (l) The Council [shall] must take [whatever actions it considers] any action required by the public interest with respect to [matters] any matter still in dispute between the parties. However, [those actions shall not be] any action taken by the Council is not part of the agreement between the parties unless the parties specifically incorporate [them] it in the agreement.

TESTIMONY FOR COUNTY EXECUTIVE
BILL NO. 26-99
COLLECTIVE BARGAINING - AMENDMENTS

GOOD AFTERNOON, MY NAME IS JAMES TORGESEN, LABOR/EMPLOYEE RELATONS MANAGER IN THE OFFICE OF HUMAN RESOURCES, I HAVE BEEN ASKED BY THE COUNTY EXECUTIVE TO PROVIDE THE POSITION OF THE EXECUTIVE BRANCH CONCERNING BILL NO 26-99. IN GENERAL, WE SUPPORT THE DIRECTION OF THE PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE COUNTY COLLECTIVE BARGAINING LAW. THE COUNTY COLLECTIVE BARGAINING LAW WAS PASSED BY COUNCIL IN JUNE 1986 AND HAS REMAINED UNCHANGED, EXCEPT FOR AMENDMENTS AFFECTING THE BARGAINING UNIT STATUS OF FIRE/RESCUE EMPLOYEES. THE COUNTY EXECUTIVE AND MCGEO, UFCW/LOCAL 1994, THE CERTIFED REPRESENTATIVE WHICH REPRESENTS THE OPT AND SLT BARGAINING UNITS, HAVE BEEN SERVED WELL BY THE FRAMEWORK THAT THE LAW PROVIDES FOR THE CONDUCT OF COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AND THE DAY TO DAY RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN THE PARTIES. OVER THE YEARS THE PARTIES HAVE UTILIZED VIRTUALLY ALL OF THE KEY ELEMENTS OF THE LAW. WITH THIS EXPERIENCE IN MIND, THE FOLLOWING COMMENTS CONCERNING THE PROPOSED AMENDMENTS, AS WELL AS OTHERS I WILL SUGGEST, ARE MADE FOR THE COUNCIL'S CONSIDERATION.

- THE MOST SIGNIFICANT CHANGES IN THE PROPOSED AMENDMENTS AFFECT THE IMPASSE RESOLUTION PROCESS. THE CURRENT LAW CULMINATES IMPASSE WITH A FACT-FINDING PROCESS, THAT ALLOWS A NEUTRAL THIRD PARTY TO RECOMMEND TO THE PARTIES A RESOLUTION FOR EACH IMPASSE ITEM. THE PARTIES MAY ACCEPT OR MODIFY THE RECOMMENDATION TO ACHIEVE AGREEMENT. ITEMS WHICH REMAIN IN DISPUTE ARE SUBMITTED TO COUNCIL FOR DISPOSITION. THE BILL REPLACES THE FACTFINDING PROCESS WITH BINDING ARBITRATION. IT BIFURCATES ECONOMIC AND NON-ECONOMIC ISSUES AND REQUIRES THE PARTIES TO SUBMIT A TOTAL PACKAGE OFFER ON ECONOMIC ITEMS AND SEPARATE OFFERS ON EACH NON-ECONOMIC ITEM. FOR THE ECONOMIC ITEMS, THE ARBITRATOR MUST CHOOSE AS A TOTAL PACKAGE THE EMPLOYER'S OFFER OR THE UNION'S OFFER. IN CONTRAST, ON NON-ECONOMIC ITEMS THE ARBITRATOR MAY FASHION A SEPARATE AWARD ON EACH ITEM. WE DO NOT FAVOR THE TREATMENT OF ECONOMIC AND NON-ECONOMIC ITEMS AS PROPOSED IN THE BILL. WE PROPOSE THAT THE ARBITRATOR MAKE AN AWARD ON EACH ITEM, ACCEPTING EITHER THE EMPLOYER'S OR UNION'S OFFER, WITHOUT PERMITTING THE ARBITRATOR TO MODIFY AN OFFER. THE PARTIES ARE ACCUSTOMED TO AN ITEM BY ITEM REVIEW UNDER THE CURRENT FACTFINDING PROCESS. IT IS PREFERABLE TO HAVE THE PARTIES WRITE THE LANGUAGE, RATHER THAN ALLOW AN ARBITRATOR TO IMPOSE A

HYBRID ON THE PARTIES WHICH CREATES A POTENTIAL FOR AMBIGUITY.

- IF THE COUNCIL DECIDES TO ADOPT THE AMENDMENTS AS PROPOSED, THE LAW SHOULD BE AMENDED TO PROVIDE, AT THE VERY LEAST, GREATER DEFINITION AS TO WHAT CONSTITUES AN ECONOMIC ITEM, RATHER THAT LEAVING THAT DETERMINATION SOLELY TO THE ARBITRATOR.
- THE AMENDMENTS PROPOSE TO MOVE THE DATE FOR ISSUANCE OF THE ARBITRATOR'S AWARD FROM FEBRUARY 1 TO MARCH 1. WE AGREE THAT SOME ADJUSTMENT IS NEEDED TO THE DATES IN THE IMPASSE PROCESS. MORE TIME IS NEEDED TO ALLOW THE PARTIES TO REACH AGREEMENT ON THEIR OWN. MOREOVER, ADDITIONAL TIME IS NEEDED TO FIRM UP ECONOMIC PARAMETERS IN THE EARLY PART OF THE CALENDAR YEAR. HOWEVER, THE PROPOSED MARCH 1 DATE LEAVES LITTLE TIME FOR THE EXECUTIVE TO FINALIZE BUDGET RECOMMENDATIONS AND DOCUMENTS FOR PUBLICATION ON MARCH 15. WE PROPOSE THAT THE DATE OF THE AWARD BE MOVED BACK TO FEBRUARY 15 AND THE INITIAL IMPASSE DATE BE ADJUSTED TO FEBRUARY 1. THUS GIVING THE PARTIES ADDITIONAL TIME TO BARGAIN.

IN ADDITION, TO THESE MODIFICATIONS THE COUNTY EXECUTIVE REQUESTS THAT THE COUNCIL CONSIDER THE FOLLOWING ADDITIONAL AMENDMENTS TO THE LAW.

- IN SECTION 33-102, THE DEFINITION SECTION OF THE LAW, WE BELIEVE TWO CHANGES ARE NEEDED. UNDER THE DEFINITION OF "EMPLOYEE" THE LAW DEFINES WHICH EMPLOYEES ARE ELIGIBLE FOR COLLECTIVE BARGAINING RIGHTS. CURRENTLY PROBATIONARY EMPLOYEES ARE EXCLUDED, BUT THE LAW DOES NOT DEFINE THE LENGTH OF THE PROBATIONARY PERIOD. TO INSURE THAT THE LENGTH OF THE PROBATIONARY PERIOD IS ESTABLISHED AND IS NOT OTHERWISE SUBJECT TO NEGOTIATION, WE RECOMMEND THAT A 12 MONTH PROBATIONARY PERIOD BE INCLUDED IN THE LAW. THIS IS CONSISTENT WITH THE NEW HIRE PROBATIONARY PERIOD FOR UNREPRESENTED EMPLOYEES. SECONDLY, WE REQUEST THAT AN ADDITIONAL EXEMPTION BE ADDED TO COVER "CONFIDENTIAL EMPLOYEES" THIS IS A COMMON EXCLUSION IN A COLLECTIVE BARGAINING ENVIRONMENT. CONFIDENTIAL EMPLOYEES ARE THOSE EMPLOYEES WHO PREPARE OR REVIEW CONFIDENTIAL PERSONEL MATTERS INVOLVING BARGAINING UNIT EMPLOYEES OR THE DEVELOPMENT OF POLICIES AFFECTING WAGES, HOURS AND WORKING CONDITIONS OF THOSE EMPLOYEES. IN ORDER TO AVOID CONFLICTS OF INTEREST, EMPLOYEES WITH THESE RESPONSIBILITIES ARE TYPICALLY EXCLUDED FROM THE BARGAINING UNIT IN OTHER JURISDICTIONS. THIS PROPOSAL WOULD PRIMARILY IMPACT EMPLOYEES PROVIDING CLERICAL SUPPORT TO SECTION AND DIVISION CHIIEFS WITHIN THE GOVERNMENT AND WOULD EFFECT APPROXIMATELY 50-75 POSITIONS.

- WE PROPOSE THAT THE CURRENT LANGUGE AT SECTION 33-108(b), WHICH LIMITS THE TERM OF ANY COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENT TO THREE YEARS, BE AMENDED TO PERMIT AGREEMENTS OF UP TO FIVE YEARS. THE PARTIES MAY FIND IT IN THEIR MUTUAL INTEREST TO HAVE LONGER AGREEMENTS TO ENCOURAGE THE STABILITY OF LABOR RELATIONS.
- THE BILL DOES NOT CHANGE THE CRITERIA USED TO DETERMINE THE REASONABLENESS OF THE PARTIES FINAL OFFERS. IN PARTICULAR, THE ARBITRATOR UNDER 33-108(f)(4)(D) MAY REVIEW THE WAGES HOURS AND WORKING CONDITIONS OF SIMILAR EMPLOYEES OF PRIVATE EMPLOYERS IN MONTGOMERY COUNTY WITH COUNTY BARGAINING UNIT EMPLOYEES. HOWEVER, IN COMPARING SIMILAR EMPLOYEES IN PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT, THE WASHINGTON METROPOLITAN AREA AND MARYLYAND ARE USED. PROPER BALANCING OF PUBLIC AND PRIVATE EMPLOYER COMPARISONS SHOULD ALLOW FOR SIMILAR JURISDICTIONS TO BE USED IN BOTH SECTORS. WE PROPOSE THAT PRIVATE EMPLOYER COMPARISONS BE EXPANDED TO INCLUDE THE WASHINGTON METROPOLITAN AREA AND MARYLAND.

- FINALLY, AS YOU KNOW, THE COUNTY COLLECTIVE BARGAINING LAW ESTABLISHES CERTAIN EMPLOYER RIGHTS WHICH ARE DESIGNED TO RESERVE TO THE EMPLOYER RESPONSIBILITIES WHICH ARE CRITICAL TO THE EFFECTIVE MANAGEMENT OF THE COUNTY GOVERNMENT. UNDER THE LAW, COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENTS OR THE APPLICATION OF PROVISIONS OF THE LABOR LAW ARE NOT SUPPOSED TO IMPAIR THE EMPLOYER'S EXERCISE OF THESE RIGHTS. A FAIR AMOUNT OF TIME, WHETHER IN NEGOTIATIONS OR IN THE DAY TO DAY ADMINISTRATION OF THE LABOR AGREEMENTS THE PARTIES FOCUS ON ISSUES THAT FALL UNDER THE AMBIT OF THESE ARTICULTED RIGHTS, SUCH AS MATTERS PERTAINING TO ASSIGNMENT OF WORK, SCHEDULING OF EMPLOYEES AND DETERMINATION OF PROMOTIONAL STANDARDS. WE PROPOSE THAT THE PREFATORY LANGUAGE UNDER SECTION 33-107(b) BE AMENDED TO INSURE THAT EMPLOYER RIGHTS ARE NOT DIMINISHED, RESTRICTED OR OTHERWISE CONDITIONED. THIS CHANGE WILL SERVE AS ADDITIONAL GUIDANCE TO THE PARTIES, AND IN PARTICULAR, TO THE LABOR RELATIONS ADMINISTRATOR, WHO IS REQUIRED BY THE LAW TO INTERPRET AND ADJUDICATE NEGOTIABILITY OR OTHER DISPUTED APPLICATIONS OF THE LAW.

I HAVE INCLUDED DRAFT LANGUAGE FOR PROPOSED CHANGES WITH COPIES OF MY WRITTEN TESTIMONY.

WITH THESE CHANGES, WE BELIEVE WE WILL CONTINUE TO HAVE A WORKABLE COLLECTIVE BARGAINING FRAMEWORK THAT WILL PROVIDE LABOR RELATIONS STABILITY TO INSURE THAT THE SERVICES TO THE CITIZENS OF THE COUNTY ARE PROVIDED IN AN EFFICIENT AND EFFECTIVE MANNER. THANK YOU.

and employee benefits such as insurance, leave, holidays, and vacations. The mediator/arbitrator must decide any issue regarding whether a particular proposal is economic or non-economic.

COUNTY COLLECTIVE BARGAINING LAW AMENDMENTS

Impasse resolution – Proposed legislation differentiates treatment of economic and non-economic items in dispute. As an alternative to the proposed language the arbitrator would determine reasonableness on each item in dispute. The current fact-finding process permits this and this would provide a balanced opportunity for the Arbitrator to review each offer separately or in combination with others, rather that deciding economics as a package and non-economics item by item. In addition, a clearer definition of what is "economic" is needed, tracking the definition contained in the scope of bargaining.

Minimum 12 month probationary period – law needs to be clarified to insure that newly hired employees are not eligible to participate in the bargaining unit until having completed 12 months probation.

Confidential Employees- defines a group of employees currently not excluded from the bargaining unit who regularly handle personnel matters concerning bargaining unit employees. Many of these employees provide clerical support to division and section level heads and process discipline or other employee related actions.

Deadline dates for declaring and resolving bargaining impasse – move the proposed impasse deadlines back by two weeks to provide adequate time to finalize the Executive's budget recommendations.

Term of labor agreements – increase capability to negotiate agreements up to 5 years in duration. Provides flexibility for parties to establish long term contracts and enhance the stability of labor relations.

Comparison of wages, benefits and working conditions – parties to include comparable jurisdictions in comparison of private sector employers during impasse proceedings. Currently, comparisons are limited to Montgomery County.

Labor Relations Administrator decision parameters- include language which directs LRA not to interpret the bargaining law in such a way so as to diminish or restrict in any way issues which touch on enumerated management rights.

TESTIMONY IN SUPPORT OF BILL 26-99
COLLECTIVE BARGAINING - AMENDMENTS

Good afternoon, my name is Bill Thompson. I am a principal in the firm of Zwerdling, Paul, Leibig, Kahn, Thompson & Wolly, P.C., 1025 Connecticut Avenue, N. W., Suite 712, Washington, D.C. 20036, 202-857-5000. I am the General Counsel of MCGEO-UFCW Local 1994, and have been its attorney since the early 1980's. I was also one of the drafters of the County Collective Bargaining Law in 1986.

The County now has three collective bargaining laws: for police, for fire and rescue, and for general blue collar and white collar employees. This last law is colloquially known as the "MCGEO" law.

The proposed amendments to the MCGEO law which are before you this afternoon, if adopted by the Council, will add to the MCGEO law highly effective impasse resolution procedures which already exist both in the police bargaining law and the fire and rescue bargaining law.

Specifically, the MCGEO law lacks a binding arbitration provision. As you know, both the police and fire and rescue statutes force a definitive closure to the bargaining process by means of an arbitrator's binding award. Such an award resolves outstanding unsettled bargaining issues by requiring the union and the Executive to accept the arbitrator's decision regarding those issues, as their final contract. Whether or not the final contract results from arbitration, the Council thereafter reviews and acts upon any provisions of the agreement which require its involvement.

The current MCGEO law is flawed by lack of a binding arbitration provision. Instead of forcing finality both on the union and the Executive, the MCGEO fact-finding process replicates the procedure of binding arbitration -- final offers and a hearing before the fact-finder (who is invariably an arbitrator) -- but lacks the substance of a binding decision. Instead of ending the bargaining process, the fact-finder can only issue toothless recommendations. And, as the current MCGEO law provides:

> After receiving the report of the mediator/fact-finder, the parties shall meet again to bargain.

Section 108(f). Thus, we have an entirely circular process.

Today the MCGEO bargaining law has the "worst of both worlds" in this regard. If an impasse in negotiations is reached, the Executive and MCGEO are forced to spend the time, money, and effort to present and defend their respective proposals in a formal proceeding before the fact-finder. However, unlike binding arbitration the resulting "recommendations" don't force the parties to a resolution. Rather, the fact-finder's toothless recommendations invariably drop into a proverbial "file 13," and the parties go back to the table again.

Furthermore, this non-binding fact-finding procedure also robs the initial stage of third party intervention in a bargaining dispute of any real possibility of success. Here we are speaking of mediation, which proceeds both binding arbitration in the two public safety laws, and fact-finding in the MCGEO law. At mediation the third party neutral arbitrator or fact-finder attempts to bring the parties together without the need for a formal proceeding. Common sense dictates that a mediator can be more persuasive in leading both sides into a mediated settlement, if the parties know that he or she will later have the power to bind them via an ultimate arbitration award. We strongly urge that the Council add binding arbitration of impasses to the MCGEO law.

Other bargaining process-related proposals in this bill are more technical. The bill would amend the statutory deadlines for various stages of the bargaining process, so that they are more realistically in tune with the Executive and Council operating budget cycle. Another proposed amendment will enable employees to make more efficient choices about which, if any, union they want to represent them. Also included are several clarifications of the authority of the Labor Relations Administrator, and the parameters of bargaining subjects. We urge that these aspects of Bill 26-99 be adopted, as well.

As the certified collective bargaining representative for more than 3000 blue and white collar County Merit System employees, we respectfully urge the Council to pass Bill 26-99.

Re: Bill 26-99

Dear Mike:

As was requested by the Council during the November 16, 1999 hearing regarding this bill, these are MCGEO-UFCW Local 1994's comments regarding the County Executive's proposed amendments to the bill introduced at the hearing, together with some criticisms and suggestions we have regarding a few aspects of the existing bill.

The Executive's Proposed Amendments

Executive Item #1: Change Impasse Process In Bill.

- The bill proposes an interest arbitration procedure bifurcated between economic and non-economic proposals. (See bill pages 6-8). Economic proposals of each side will be decided as a complete package, "winner-take-all." This is the same method which exists for all proposals in the Police and Fire and Rescue bargaining laws. Non-economic "working condition" proposals will be decided item by item, and the Arbitrator will be empowered to compromise or alter the proposals in his/her final award.

- The reason this bill (as did its predecessor bill 45-97) varies from the complete "winner-take-all" system used in the two other bargaining laws it that while the economic benefits of employment for those in the MCGEO bargaining units are basically uniform, working conditions vary greatly. In the Police and Fire and Rescue bargaining units, working conditions as well as economic benefits are relatively homogeneous. However, MCGEO-represented employees have working conditions which are as varied as the myriad of job classifications included in the blue collar and white collar units.

- Therefore, it may be very difficult and unwieldy for any Arbitrator to reach a decision choosing one or the other final offer, each of which includes many working conditions which only affect subgroups of employees within the MCGEO bargaining units. By removing non-economic working conditions from the winner-take-all system, we feel that the Arbitrator will have the appropriate flexibility to arrive at a coherent non-economic working condition award which he/she can integrate logically with the winner-take-all economic award.

- The Executive's proposed amendment would authorize item-by-item choices by the Arbitrator for all proposals, economic and non-economic, but without giving the Arbitrator the ability to compromise or vary from one or the other proposal. This suggestion is a recipe for bargaining chaos. What if the parties have differing proposals which do not mirror the same subject matter? For instance, if MCGEO presents a final proposal for some item and there is no directly corresponding County counter proposal, does that mean MCGEO automatically wins? Without the ability to compromise or ignore various aspects of each side's proposals, the Arbitrator will be hard pressed to correlate them on a "one-to-one" basis.

- Regardless of how the Arbitrator differentiates between economic and non-economic proposals, his determinations of what is "economic" or "non-economic" will not be binding on the Council. Under the bill, the Arbitrator's final award including both categories of proposals becomes the parties' complete collective bargaining agreement. (See bill pages 9 and 10). Only after that agreement has been concluded does the Council review process begin. That separate review process in the bill requires that the Council approve "[a]ny ... term or condition ... that requires an appropriation of funds, or the enactment or adoption of any County law or regulation, or which has or may have a present or future fiscal impact." With one purely technical amendment, this substantive standard for Council review continues the system which has existed since 1986.

- Therefore, we request that the Council reject the Executive's proposed item by item impasse resolution system.

Executive Item #2: Require A Minimum 12-Month Probationary Period.

- This proposed amendment is an effort by the County to have the Council overturn a recent decision by the County Labor Relations Administrator that determined the length of the new hire probationary period to be bargainable under the law. The County has appealed the LRA's decision to Circuit Court.

- We strongly object to the County's effort to overturn the LRA's decision. That critical piece of background information was deleted from the County's explanation. The County's desire to delay for six months the graduation of probationary employees into the MCGEO bargaining units is a matter which must be negotiated between the Executive and MCGEO, not improperly injected into the political process.

Executive Item #3: Exclude Confidential Employees From The Bargaining Unit.

- The law already excludes from the bargaining units:

  (A) Confidential aides to elected officials.

  * * *

  (D) Deputies and assistants to heads of principal departments, offices, and agencies.

(E) Persons who provide direct staff or administrative support to the head ... or to a deputy or assistant within the immediate office of a head of a principal department, office, or agency.

* * *

(G) Persons who work for the Office of the County Executive and the Office of the Chief Administrative Officer.

* * *

(J) Persons who work for the Office of Management and Budget.

(K) Persons who work for the Office of Human Resources.

(S) Supervisors....

(T) Persons in Grade 27 or above....

Section 33-102(4).

- Given the breadth of these and other existing exclusions from the bargaining units, the proposed exclusion of "those employees whose regular duties include the preparation or review of confidential personnel matters affecting bargaining unit employees or the development of policies affecting the wages, hours, or working conditions of bargaining unit employees..." constitutes either a repetition of an existing exclusions, or an effort by the County Executive to stretch the concept of "policies affecting" working conditions far beyond what is necessary to safeguard management's privacy. Under this definition, a decision by a building service work to move a water cooler closer to the office door could be argued to constitute a policy decision affecting working conditions.

- We urge the Council to reject this suggestion.

Executive Item #4: Establish Earlier Deadline Dates For Declaring And Resolving Bargaining Impasses.

Executive Item #5: Allow Labor Agreements To Have A Maximum 5-Year Term.

- We are reviewing these suggestions, and have not yet concluded our considerations.

Executive Item #6: Allow The Arbitrator To Consider The Wages, Benefits, And Working Conditions Of Similar Employees Of Private Employers In The Washington Metropolitan Area And In Maryland.

- We are strenuously opposed to any effort to dilute the economic comparisons between County employees and who usually live in the Montgomery County vicinity with those in the distant suburbs, the Eastern Shore, Baltimore, and Western Maryland. Many of these proposed "comparables" are radically less expensive communities with much lower costs of living.

Executive Item #7: Include Language In The Bill That Prohibits The Labor Relations Administrator From Diminishing Management Rights When He Makes A Negotiability Determination.

- The current law includes the following provision at Section 33-107(b):

> Employer rights. This article and any agreement made under it shall not impair the right and responsibility of the employer to perform the following [management rights].

Any negotiability determination made by the LRA under the current law cannot "impair the right and responsibility of the employer...." Therefore this proposal is entirely unnecessary.

- Moreover, all negotiability determinations must balance management rights with the subjects which are negotiable. We are concerned that the County will try to use this proposed new language to shift the balance which has existed since 1986 by claiming in a court appeal that the Council has enacted this amendment to criticize or somehow repudiate the LRA decisions regarding negotiability which have been issued between 1986 and 1999.

- We request that the Council reject this proposal.

Executive Item #8: Proposed Amendment To Impasse Process If Council Bifurcates Consideration Of Economic And Non-Economic Items.

- We are reviewing this suggestion and have not yet completed our deliberations.

MCGEO's Suggested Amendments

We have several suggested amendments to the current bill as follows:

Item A: Clarification of Council Review Language

§33-108(g) [p. 10 line 171]:

(g) The budget that the employer submits to the Council [shall] must include any term or condition of the parties' agreement [[the items that have been agreed to, as well as the employer's position on matters still in dispute. Any agreed or disputed term or condition submitted to the Council]] that requires an appropriation of funds, or the enactment [, repeal, or modification] or adoption of any County law or regulation, or which has or may have a present or future fiscal impact [[,]]. Any such term or condition of the agreement, may be accepted or rejected in whole or in part by the Council. [Such terms or conditions shall be identified to the Council by either or both parties.] The employer must expressly identify any term or condition that requires Council review, and simultaneously provide notice of that identification to the other party. The employer [shall] must make a good faith effort to have the Council take action to implement [any term or condition [[to which the parties have agreed] all terms of the final agreement]] so identified.

33-108(i) [p. 11, lines 190-2]

...[shall] must state its reasons for any intent to reject any [items of the agreement of the kind specified in subsection (g) that have been agreed to] [[item of the final agreement]].

33-108(j) [p. 11, lines 196-7]

(j) [Then] If the Council indicates its intention to reject any item of the final agreement of the kind specified in subsection (g), the Council must....

- The purpose for these proposed additional amendments is to ensure that the language accurately reflects the facts that a complete agreement between the parties, whether or not as the result of arbitration, must exist prior to the transmittal of the Executive's proposed budget, and that council review is not of the complete agreement, but only the specifically identified terms and conditions.

Item B: Amendments To Definitions Of Employees Included In The Collective Bargaining Units.

Section 33-102:

(4) Employee means any person who works under the County government merit system, or any non-attorneys who work for the Office of the State's Attorney for Montgomery County, on a continuous full-time, career or part-time, career basis, except:

* * *

- This proposed amendment would extend collective bargaining rights for the specified employees only to the extent their terms and conditions of employment (including, e.g., health insurance and retirement benefits) are regulated by the County.

[(M) Persons who work on a temporary, seasonal or substitute basis.]

- We are deeply concerned that the Executive is increasing the use of temporary, seasonal and substitute employees at sub-par wages and benefits to do regular work which should be performed by merit system employees. We ask the Council to provide collective bargaining protection to these working members of our community, so that the principles of work place fairness can be extended to them, as well.

[(P) Officers in the uniformed services (Corrections, ~~Fire and Rescue, Police,~~ Office of the Sheriff) in the rank of ~~sergeant~~ lieutenant and above. Subject to any limitations in State law, Deputy Sheriffs below the rank of ~~sergeant~~ lieutenant are employees.]

- This proposed amendment clarifies the fact that no sworn police officers or firefighters in the uniformed services are included in the MCGEO law. Furthermore, police and/or Sheriffs office sergeants are often included in collective bargaining units because, while they are often supervisors, they are not members of the command staff. Local jurisdictions where police sergeants are in the bargaining unit include Baltimore City, Baltimore County, and Prince George's County.

We will be happy to discuss all these matters with you, Council staff, and/or Council members at your convenience. Feel free to contact me if you have any questions.

Very truly yours,

RE: Bill 45-97, Collective Bargaining - Binding Arbitration

QUESTION

You have asked for our opinion regarding the legality of a provision in Bill 45-97, Collective Bargaining - Amendments, which requires a neutral party to resolve a collective bargaining impasse between the County Executive and the representative of non-public safety employees. You state, "The fundamental legal issue this poses is whether, without expressly amending the Charter to permit it, delegating the County Executive's decision-making authority with respect to a collective-bargaining agreement to a private arbitrator would amount to an unlawful delegation of the executive power assigned to the Executive by §201 of the Charter."

SHORT ANSWER

Because Charter §511 authorizes the County Council by legislation to provide for arbitration to resolve an impasse in reaching a collective bargaining agreement, Bill 45-97 may authorize a third party to resolve that impasse.

ANALYSIS

The Court of Appeals has on several occasions concluded that authorization to engage in arbitration to resolve an impasse in collective bargaining must arise from a public general law or County charter. See, Anne Arundel County v. Fraternal Order of Anne Arundel Detention Officers and Personnel, 313 Md. 98, 543 A.2d 841 (1988).[1] The key issue, therefore, is whether Charter §511 authorizes the Council to provide for arbitration. If it does, Bill 45-97 may validly impose a binding dispute resolution process to resolve an impasse in collective bargaining.

You have pointed out that Charter §§510 and 510A require the Council to provide by law for collective bargaining with "binding" arbitration.[2] Charter §511, on the other hand, omits the term "binding." You have raised the question whether the failure to use the term "binding" in Charter §511 means that the Council is not authorized to provide for "binding" arbitration in Bill 45-97.

We do not believe that the failure to use the term "binding" in Charter §511 is significant in this case. Both the plain meaning of the language used in Charter §511 and its legislative history leave little doubt that Charter § 511 authorizes the Council to provide by law for a binding dispute resolution process to resolve collective bargaining impasses.

A county charter is to be read and construed in the same manner as a statute and its words generally are to be given their natural meaning. Anderson v. Harford County, 50 Md. App. 48, 435 A.2d 496 (1981). Charter §511 provides:

> The Montgomery County Council may provide by law for collective bargaining, with arbitration or other impasse-resolution procedures, with authorized representatives of officers and employees of the County Government not covered by either Section 510

---

[1]In Anne Arundel County v. Fraternal Order, the Court of Appeals indicated that a charter provision authorizing collective bargaining arbitration must be consistent with Article XI-A of the Maryland Constitution. Id, at 111. Because neither Charter §511 nor Bill 45-97 attempts to limit the decision-making authority of the County Council, we do not believe that Article XI-A of the Maryland Constitution would be violated by imposing binding arbitration on representatives of the collective-bargaining unit and the County Executive. See Ritchmount Partnership v. Bd. of Supervisors of Elections, 283 Md. 48, 388 A.2d 523 (1977) (County Council of a charter county must serve as the primary legislative body of the county.)

(41)

[2]Charter §510 (collective bargaining for police officers) was approved in 1980; Charter §511 was approved in 1984; and Charter §510A (collective bargaining for firefighters) was approved in 1994. While Charter §511 was placed on the ballot by the County Council, Charter §§510 and 510A were placed on the ballot as the result of citizen petition.

> or Section 510A of this Charter. Any law so enacted shall prohibit strikes or work-stoppages for such officers and employees. (Emphasis added.)

Webster's dictionary defines the term "arbitration" as: "settlement of a dispute by a person or persons chosen to hear both sides and come to a decision."[3] Black's Law Dictionary defines "arbitration" as, "a method of dispute resolution involving one or more neutral third parties who are chosen by or agreed to by the disputing parties, and whose decision is binding." (Emphasis added.)[4] Accordingly, the normal meaning of the term "arbitration" involves as a key element a binding dispute resolution process.

The legislative history concerning Charter §511 confirms that §511 was intended to authorize a binding dispute resolution process. The 1984 report of the Charter Review Commission recommended that the County Council place on the ballot for approval by the voters Charter §511.[5] The Charter Review Commission report states, "The Commission believes that the Council should have the opportunity and the clear authority to deal uniformly with the issue of collective bargaining for County employees other than police officers; that position was unanimous and bi-partisan." (Emphasis added.) As noted, Charter §510, which had been approved in 1980, mandated binding arbitration to resolve an impasse in collective bargaining for police officers.

On July 26, 1984, the County Council discussed placing Charter §511 on the ballot. There was considerable discussion regarding whether Charter §511 should authorize the Council to provide for a binding dispute resolution process.[6] The Council minutes reflect that Council member Hanna moved to delete from Charter §511 the phrase "arbitration or other impasse-resolution procedures," and substitute "mediation or non-binding arbitration." (Emphasis added.) Ms. Spencer, a member of the Charter Review Commission, pointed out that Mr. Hanna's amendment would create a conflict with §510, which provides for binding arbitration for police officers. Mr. Renne, president of the Montgomery County Government Employees Organization, indicated that his organization hoped that the Charter would provide for "one system of arbitration for all employees." Mr. Renne indicated that "binding arbitration is preferred because without it there will be inconsistency and uncertainty about how an impasse will be resolved."

[5]Relevant portions of the 1984 Charter Review Commission Report are attached.

[6]Relevant portions of the Council minutes for July 26, 1984, are attached.

In short, the legislative history of Charter §511 clearly indicates that the Charter amendment was intended to enable the Council to provide for binding dispute resolution, and the actual words used in Charter §511 are consistent with that intent.

CONCLUSION

Unless authorized by the County Charter, the Council would be without the authority to enact legislation to impose a binding dispute-resolution process on the exercise of an executive function—like agreeing to a collective bargaining agreement—by the County Executive. But Charter §511 does authorize the Council to enact legislation providing for arbitration to resolve collective bargaining impasses. Bill 45-97 accordingly may legally provide for arbitration to resolve an impasse in the collective bargaining process.

We trust you will find this memorandum responsive to your inquiry. If you have any concerns or questions regarding our advice, please let us know.

Montgomery County, Maryland

RECOMMENDATION B. Collective Bargaining for County employees.

A new Section 511 should be added to the Charter to authorize the County Council to provide by law for collective bargaining with arbitration or other impasse resolution procedures, with authorized representatives of officers and employees of the county government not covered by Section 510 of the Charter; such law would prohibit strikes and work stoppages.

PROPOSED CHARTER LANGUAGE

Revised Section 511

SECTION 511 Collective Bargaining - County Employees

The Montgomery County Council may provide by law for collective bargaining, with arbitration or other impasse resolution procedures, with authorized representatives of officers and employees of the county government not covered by Section 510 of this Charter. Any law so enacted shall prohibit strikes or work stoppages for such officers and employees.

A new second sentence for Section 401 shall be added as follows:

PROPOSED CHARTER LANGUAGE

Revised Section 401

SECTION 401 Merit System

The Council shall prescribe by law a merit system for all officers and employees of the County government, except members of the Council, the County Executive, the Chief Administrative Officer, the County Attorney, the heads of the departments, the heads of the principal offices and agencies, as defined by law, one confidential aide for each member of the Council, two senior professional staff positions for the Council as a whole as may be designated from time to time by the Council, three special assistant positions in the office of the County Executive as may be designated from time to time by the County Executive, special legal counsel employed pursuant to this Charter, and members of boards and commissions and other officers authorized by law to be appointed to serve in a quasi-judicial capacity. Officers and employees who are members of a unit for which a collective bargaining contract exists may be excluded from provisions of the merit system only to the extent that such provisions are subject to collective bargaining pursuant to legislation enacted under Section 510 or Section 511 of this Charter. The merit system shall provide the means to recruit, select, develop, and maintain an effective, non-partisan, and responsive work force with personnel actions based on demonstrated merit and fitness. Salaries and wages of all classified employees in the merit system shall be determined pursuant to a uniform salary plan. The Council shall establish by law a system of retirement pay.

Note: New matter: underscored

DISCUSSION

Collective bargaining for county employees has been considered by previous Charter Review Commissions and County Councils. Other public employees (i.e. teachers, school supporting service employees, and employees of Montgomery College) have obtained collective bargaining through passage of public general laws by the Maryland General Assembly. In addition, Montgomery County Police Officers obtained the right to bargain collectively through a Charter amendment which they proposed by initiative.

The Commission believes that the Council should have the opportunity and the clear authority to deal uniformly with the issue of collective bargaining for County employees other than police officers; that position was unanimous and bipartisan.

The proposed amendment would leave to the discretion of the Council the decision as to whether or not county employees should have the right to bargain collectively. The proposed amendment also leaves to Council discretion the extent to which county employees under collective bargaining should remain within the merit system. The proposed amendment would also prohibit strikes by county employees who are the subject of a collective bargaining agreement.

There was disagreement among the Commission members as to whether the proposed amendment should mandate action by the Council to create a framework for collective bargaining (five members favored the mandatory language) and on whether there should be a "no strike" provision in the proposal (the same five members opposed the strike ban). Commissioner Michael Gildea has written a minority statement covering these two positions, and Commissioners Goldman, Garber, and Gildenhorn subscribed to those views. They are included in this report, pages 21-26. Commissioner Frosh has also written a minority statement on these two positions. His comments are included on page 27 of this report.

The Commission does not recommend any action at this time on the issues of a separate merit system for legislative and/or judicial employees, RIF/replacement rights between and among executive, legislative, and judicial employees, or increased non-merit staff for the County Council. The Commission believes that these issues require further study.

Re: Worksession on Charter Amendments, Petitions and Ballot Questions

The Council reviewed Charter amendments, petitions, and ballot questions in accordance with a memorandum of July 24, 1984 from Myriam Bailey, Office of Legislative Counsel. The Council began its review by considering recommendations of the Charter Review Commission.

Ballot Question A and Proposed Charter Amendment (Approval of the Budget) - This involves an amendment to Section 305 of the Charter which exempts the budgets of certain self-funding programs from the computation of the aggregate operating budget when determining whether an affirmative vote of five Councilmembers is required to approve the budget; provides that the Consumer Price Index shall be computed for the twelve months preceding December first of each year; and makes a clarifying change.

Councilman Potter directed attention to his proposed additional amendment to add the following language after the phrase "For the purposes of this limitation the aggregate operating budget":

shall include all items for which appropriations were included in the operating budget of the preceding year

Mr. Potter said that his amendment has been discussed with the Office of Management and Budget. The amendment is proposed to ensure that the comparison from one year to the next truly reflects the increase in operating budget expenditures. He said that it might be helpful to add the following clarifying language:

Mr. Spengler directed attention to the Charter Review Commission's proposed Charter language for Section 305, noting that the word "fully" between "for" and "self-supporting" in the proposed language is used to describe enterprise funds which are not necessarily fully self-supporting.

Councilman Gudis moved, duly seconded, to delete the word [fully] between "for" and "self-supporting" in the Charter amendment.

Councilman Hanna suggested that the word "self-supporting" be deleted also. Mr. Gudis accepted Mr. Hanna's suggestion as an amendment to his motion.

Mr. Spengler said that accountants use the term "primarily" self-supporting. If it meets that test, it is considered an enterprise fund.

Councilman Potter moved, duly seconded, an amendment to Mr. Gudis' motion to substitute the word "primarily" for "fully."

Councilman Hanna said that, if the word "primarily" is used, it will have to be defined. In his opinion, it is simpler to say "enterprise funds" without any adjectives.

Councilmembers Potter and Fosler voting in the affirmative and Councilmembers Hanna, Gudis, Scull, Crenca and Gelman voting in the negative, the amendment to Mr. Gudis' motion failed for lack of a majority vote.

Without objection, the Council approved Mr. Gudis' motion, as amended, to delete the words [fully self-supporting].

Upon motion of Councilman Gudis, duly seconded and without objection, the Council agreed to delete [the Parking Lot districts] from the proposed Charter amendment for Section 305 of the Charter.

Ballot Question B and Proposed Charter Amendment (Collective Bargaining - County Employees - This involves an amendment to Section 401 of the Charter and the addition of a new Section 511 authorizing the Council to provide by law for collective bargaining.

President Gelman asked about the distinction between "mediation" and "arbitration." Mr. Newman said that mediation is a resolution of differences by an informal procedure, while arbitration is a resolution of differences by a formal procedure involving the issuance of a decision by an arbitrator. The question of whether the decision is binding or not depends upon the agreements reached by the parties involved. Councilman Fosler noted that "binding arbitration" is another term to be considered.

Councilman Hanna moved, duly seconded, to delete from the proposed Charter amendment for Section 511 the words [arbitration or other impasse resolution procedures] and to substitute mediation or non-binding arbitration.

Ms. Elizabeth Spencer, a member of the Charter Review Commission, said that the Charter Review Commission felt that the language in the Charter should be as broadly permissive as possible because the legislation enacted by the Council may be different for different groups.

President Gelman expressed the view that the language in the Charter amendment should be broad because it empowers the Council to enact legislation.

Councilman Hanna said that he prefers to restrict the law that may be enacted to provide for only non-binding arbitration.

Councilman Potter suggested that Mr. Hanna would only need to add the word "non-binding" before the word "arbitration" to accomplish his objective. Mr. Hanna accepted Mr. Potter's suggestion as an amendment to his motion.

Ms. Spencer pointed out that this will create a conflict with Section 510 of the Charter which provides for binding arbitration with an authorized representative of the Montgomery County police officers.

Mr. Geno Renne, President of the Montgomery County Government Employees' Organization (MCGEO), cited the need for equity among County employees. He said that, regardless of whether it is included in the Charter, the Council has the ultimate responsibility of deciding whether it will accept binding arbitration. He said that both of the groups represented by MCGEO are currently under "meet and confer", and that it was hoped that the Charter amendment would provide one system of arbitration for all employees. He said that binding arbitration is preferred because without it there will be inconsistency and uncertainty about how an impasse will be resolved.

Councilman Potter said that he believes binding arbitration would remove from the Council its authority to make the final decision. Noting that he believes that it might be appropriate in situations where strikes are prohibited, Mr. Potter raised objections to the language proposed for Section 511 that says that "any law so enacted shall prohibit strikes or work stoppages." He believes that the Charter amendment should provide some flexibility and balance. He noted that Section 510 prohibits strikes, but provides for binding arbitration.

Councilman Hanna said that he objects to relinquishing of the Council's responsibility to an arbitrator and believes that it could have negative results. He cited a case where employees negotiated an agreement under binding arbitration which called for salary increases which could not be met without a tax increase. He said that the court ruling in this case was that the only individuals who have the overall responsibility of the government are the elected officials; an arbitrator cannot remove those powers and demand something that is against the public interest. He said that he is in favor of collective bargaining for employees if this is what the employees wish.

Councilmembers Hanna and Scull voting in the affirmative and Councilmembers Gudis, Potter, Crenca, Fosler and Gelman voting in the negative, Mr. Hanna's motion to add non-binding before the word "arbitration" failed for lack of a majority vote.

With respect to the language which indicates that the authority for collective bargaining may be granted to authorized representatives of officers and employees of the County government not covered by Section 510, Mr. Renne pointed out that MCGEO cannot represent non-merit employees. He believes that the Council can address this issue through the legislation it enacts in this regard.

Councilman Potter moved to substitute the word may for "shall" before the word "prohibit" in the language proposed for Section 511. The motion failed for lack of a second. In making the motion, Mr. Potter said that he believes that the issue of prohibiting or permitting strikes could be addressed in legislation the Council enacts.

Mr. Renne requested that the record reflect MCGEO's opposition to the lack of flexibility in the Charter amendment for County employees.

Councilman Potter moved to delete the word [only] between "system" and "to" in the language proposed for Section 401. Following discussion, without objection, the Council agreed to amend this language by including a comma before the word "only", as suggested by Ms. Spencer.

Councilman Hanna raised a question about the language proposed for Section 401 that says that "officers and employees who are members of a unit for which a collective bargaining contract exists may be excluded from the provisions of the merit system." He expressed the view that employees should

(d) No election shall be conducted pursuant to this Section in any appropriate bargaining unit within which in the preceding 12-month period an election shall have been held nor during the term of any lawful collective bargaining agreement between the employer and a labor organization, except that this restriction shall not apply to that period of time covered by any collective bargaining agreement which exceeds three years. For the purposes of this Section, extensions of agreement shall not affect the expiration date of the original agreement. Where a valid collective bargaining agreement is in existence, a petition for election may be filed only during the period beginning November 1 and ending on November 30 of the fiscal year in which said agreement will terminate.
(CB-1-1973)

Sec. 13A-108. Rights accompanying exclusive recognition.

(a) The labor organization which has been certified by the Panel shall be the exclusive representative of all employees in the unit and as such shall have the right to act for and negotiate agreements covering all employees in the unit and shall be responsible for representing the interest of all such employees without discrimination and without regard to membership in the labor organization.

(b) When the collective bargaining agreement provides for a grievance procedure, only that procedure shall be applicable to the employees in the unit.

(c) Where a labor organization has been certified as the exclusive representative of the employees in a unit, it shall be the only labor organization eligible to obtain an agreement from the employer to deduct from the pay of those employees in the unit, who provide written authorization, any fees designated or certified by the appropriate officer of the labor organization and to remit said fees to said labor organization, provided that any such authorization shall not be irrevocable for a period of more than one year or beyond the termination date of the applicable collective bargaining agreement, whichever occurs sooner.
(CB-1-1973)

Sec. 13A-109. Negotiations.

(a) The employer and the exclusive representative shall meet at reasonable times, including meetings in advance of the employer's budget-making process, and shall negotiate in good faith with respect to wages, hours and other terms and conditions of employment which are subject to negotiation under this law and which are to be embodied in a written agreement, or any question arising thereunder, but such obligation shall not compel either the employer or the exclusive representative to agree to a proposal or require the making of a concession. The County Executive, or his designated authorized representative(s), shall represent the employer in collective bargaining, except as otherwise provided herein. Where a collective bargaining agreement pertains to fire fighters, the President of the Prince George's County Volunteer Fire Association and the Chairman of the Prince George's Fire Commission shall be notified of all negotiations between the County and the fire fighters union and the County Executive or his designated representative shall, prior to concluding negotiations, meet and confer with the President of the Volunteer Fire Association or his representative and the Chairman of the Fire Commission or his representative who shall be a Fire Commissioner. The purpose of said conference or conferences shall be to apprise the President and Chairman of the terms of the proposed contract so that an opportunity is afforded the Volunteer representatives to advise the Executive of any concerns the proposed contract may have on the volunteer service.

(b) The employer shall not be obligated to negotiate with respect to those Countywide matters which must necessarily be uniform for all employees, such as a Countywide pension plan or reductions-in-force, unless a labor organization or council or group of labor organizations represent more than 50 percent of all employees, within the meaning of this law, subject to such uniform rules. However, the foregoing shall not prevent the employer from meeting with any other labor organization for the purpose of hearing the views and requests of its members on such matters, provided that the organization or council or group designated as representing more than 50 percent of such employees is informed in advance of the meeting, and any changes in the terms of such Countywide matters is effected only through negotiations with it; or be construed to deny to the employer or an exclusive representative the right to bargain for a variation of a particular application of any Countywide policy or variation of an agreement reached pursuant to these provisions, where considerations are special and unique to the class of employees or unit involved. Disputes over the identification of matters "which must necessarily be uniform" may be resolved pursuant to the procedures provided in Section 13A-111.

(c) Because effective and orderly operations of government are essential to the public, it is declared to be in the public interest that in the course of collective bargaining, the employer and the exclusive representative shall make every reasonable effort to conclude negotiations no later than March 1 of each year, and shall include provisions for an effective date, a reopening date, and an expiration date. Where an agreement is a multiyear agreement, negotiations thereon should be concluded by March 1 of the year in which the existing agreement will expire. With respect to matters requiring the appropriation of funds, the effective date of an agreement shall coincide with the employer's fiscal year.

(d) An agreement may contain a grievance procedure culminating in final and binding arbitration of grievances and disputed interpretations of such agreement. The grievance procedure shall set forth requirements for an election of remedies where other avenues of appeal may be equally available. The employer is authorized to agree, in his discretion, to voluntary binding arbitration with respect to negotiation impasse, which involves employees other than protective service employees. Negotiation impasses involving protective service employees are covered separately by the procedures contained in Section 13A-111.01.

(e) Any agreement reached by the negotiators shall be reduced to writing and shall be executed by both parties. Such agreement shall be valid and enforced under its terms when entered into, in accordance with the provisions of this law and County Charter.

(f) A request for funds necessary to implement such written agreement and for approval of any provision of the agreement which is in conflict with any County Law, Ordinance, Rule or Regulation, including those adopted by its agents such as the Personnel Board, or other action adopted by the employer with the force of law, shall be submitted to the County Council by the employer within the time schedule provided in the agreement. The County Council, except for agreements covering protective service employees governed by Section 13A-111.01 and Section 908 of the County Charter, may approve or reject such request as a whole. If the submission is rejected, the entire agreement shall be returned to the parties for further bargaining and either party may reopen all or part of the agreement. Rejection shall be accompanied by a detailed bargaining. Such request shall be considered rejected if the Council fails within ninety (90) days after submission to said body to take final action thereon. Failure by the bargaining representative of the employer to submit request within the designated time period shall be considered an unfair labor practice committed by the employer.

(g) If upon approval of the County Council, there is a conflict between the collective bargaining agreement and any rule or regulation adopted by the employer, including merit system or other personnel regulations, the terms of such agreement shall prevail, except where specifically precluded by Charter or State law. Similarly, County Council, upon approval of such agreement, shall enact such legislation and appropriate whatever funds are required to comply with the collective bargaining agreement.

(h) The employer shall have the obligation to bargain on matters which, although otherwise within the scope of bargaining, require action by a body, agency, or official other than the County Executive or the County Council. In addition, the employer shall have the obligation to bargain on the question of whether it should request such body, agency or official to take such action or support such request, provided, however, that no impasse panel or other third party neutral utilized for impasse resolution shall be empowered to recommend that the employer make or support such a request.

(i) If the provisions of the Constitution or By-Laws of the exclusive representative require ratification of a collective bargaining agreement by its membership, only those members who belong to the bargaining unit involved shall be entitled to vote on such ratification notwithstanding such provisions.

(j) At least one representative of the exclusive representative shall be given reasonable time off without loss of compensation during normal working hours to participate in collective bargaining, subject to such terms as an agreement between the parties may provide.
(CB-1-1973; CB-172-1974; CB-24-1981; CB-24-1995)

Sec. 13A-118. Negotiability disputes.

(a) General. A negotiability dispute shall exist when a labor organization and an employer disagree on whether the collective bargaining agreement, applicable rules or regulations, this law, other law or the County Charter, as the case may be, prohibits bargaining with respect to a specified matter. For the purposes of this law, a negotiability dispute shall not refer to the situation where a party refuses to bargain as a matter of choice and not as the result of a purported legal or contractual prohibition or to the situation where the parties are unable to agree upon the terms of a collective bargaining agreement, insofar as the issue in dispute is not "what is negotiable."

(b) Grievances. An issue which involves the interpretation of a controlling agreement in existence shall be resolved under the procedures of the controlling agreement. Additionally, disputes over what is subject to a grievance procedure and what is arbitrable under such procedure shall not be resolved under the procedures set forth in this Section.

(c) Procedure.

(1) The services of the Unfair Labor Practices Panel shall be invoked in the manner prescribed in Section 13A-104(c), provided however, that the parties submit a sworn statement verifying that tentative agreement has been reached on all items of negotiations except those presented to the Panel, or, if this is not the case, a statement indicating why agreement has not

Sec. 13A-111. Procedures pertaining to collective bargaining impasses other than those involving protective service employees.

(a) General.

(1) "Impasse" means the failure of the employer and the exclusive representative to reach a collective bargaining agreement despite good faith efforts to do so. However, the Impasse Panel shall be empowered to provide such dispute resolution services as deemed needed either by the parties or as found by the Panel to be essential to the public interest and welfare, even if impasse has not been reached.

(2) An Impasse Panel member shall have power to mediate, hold hearings, compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of documents, review data, make public any recommendations or findings after notice to the parties and take whatever action he considers necessary to resolve the impasse, provided that such action does not impose a final and binding settlement on the parties except as mutually authorized by the parties or except where the Impasse Panel has denied a labor organization the right to strike and has in its discretion required compulsory binding arbitration. In such cases, the decision of the Impasse Panel shall be submitted to the Council for approval. Unless the parties otherwise provide, a single Panel member rather than multiple members shall provide the services herein described, provided further that a member acting as a mediator shall not act as a fact finder or arbitrator in the same matter without the consent of the parties.

(3) Confidential information disclosed by the parties to a mediator in the performance of his mediation functions shall not be divulged voluntarily or by compulsion. All files, records, reports, documents or other papers received or prepared by a mediator while serving in such capacity shall be classified as confidential. The mediator shall not produce any confidential records of, or testify in regard to, any mediation conducted by him on behalf of any party to any case pending in any type of proceeding. A party shall have the right to bar a Panel member who becomes privy to confidential information about that party gained through mediation techniques, from serving in any fact finding or arbitration role relevant to that dispute.

(b) Action by the Parties.

(1) The employer shall have the power to enter into a written agreement with the exclusive representative setting forth an impasse procedure to resolve disputes over the terms or conditions of an initial or renewed collective bargaining agreement. The parties are not precluded from using third party neutrals other than on the impasse panel described in Section 13A-111(c)(4).

(2) The employer, by collective bargaining agreement or by written memorandum, may at any time agree to submit any or all of the issues in dispute to final and binding arbitration.

(3) Any final and binding settlement imposed upon the parties shall be subject to the same conditions for approval as set forth in Section 13A-110(f).

(c) Procedures.

(1) At least 30 days prior to the expiration date of any collective bargaining agreement but not later than March 1, or when 90 days have passed after the commencement of negotiations of an initial agreement, the parties shall notify the Panel of the status of negotiations. The Panel may on its own motion invoke mediation, except if the parties have provided otherwise pursuant to Section 13A-111(b)(1).

been reached on such other matters and why the Panel nevertheless should assert jurisdiction.

(2) The Impasse Panel, while dealing with an impasse, may invoke the provisions of this Section, pursuant to Section 13A-111(c)(2), without the consent of the parties.

(3) The parties, upon request of the Panel, or in petitioning the Panel to settle the dispute, shall stipulate the precise issue to be resolved. Each party shall file within 5 days after the submission of such stipulation, a brief supporting its position along with proof of service of a copy of such brief to all parties.

(4) If the parties cannot agree on a stipulation after reasonable attempts to do so, each shall file a written statement as to what it believes the issue to be, why agreement could not be reached on phrasing of the issue, what attempts were made to reach a stipulation and a brief in support of its position on the issue in dispute.

(d) Powers of the Panel. The Panel, at its discretion, may:

(1) Request the parties to file reply briefs;

(2) Refuse to entertain the matter, or a part thereof, and return the dispute to the parties;

(3) Rephrase the issue and request the parties to submit additional briefs;

(4) Call upon mediation or fact finding to be used by the parties prior to the Panel's acceptance of the case;

(5) Compel the parties to continue bargaining while the Panel is trying to resolve the issue; or

(6) Render a decision on the issue, in whole or in part.

(e) Panel Procedures upon acceptance of the issue.

(1) The Panel may decide the issue on the record or, after having notified the parties its phrasing of the issue to be resolved, may hear oral argument. Before, during, or after formal proceedings, the Panel may request evidence of added briefs on specified items.

(2) The Panel may invite as participants, experts, witnesses and others who may have an interest, direct or indirect, in the disputed issue or whose participation may assist the Board in reaching a determination. The Panel may also grant requests for the appearance of witnesses and the production of documents or records. The Panel may also take or cause to be taken depositions. Failure to comply with such requests shall be subject to the Panel sanctions applicable to unfair labor practices.

(3) An issue once submitted to the Panel may be withdrawn only upon consent of the Panel and subject to whatever conditions the Panel may prescribe.

(f) The Panel's Decision.

(1) The Panel may issue a statement, accompanied by reasons therefor, indicating whether item in dispute is negotiable. The statement may be accompanied also, when the Panel deems necessary, by an order directing the parties to take or pursue the actions specified in the order. The Panel by means of such order may compel the parties to bargain on such matter. The Panel may also determine, subject to the procedures set forth in Sections 13A-113 and 114, that an unfair labor practice has been committed and may also provide remedies therefor.

(2) To minimize the potential recurrence of similar disputes, the Panel shall publish periodically such decisions and shall distribute copies to all employers within the meaning of this law and to all labor organizations that have attained exclusive recognition.

(CB-1-1973)

(2) The Panel, except as otherwise provided by mutual agreement of the parties, may return the parties to collective bargaining for any or all items in dispute or may refer such items as deemed necessary to the procedure outlines in Section 13A-111 with respect to deciding the negotiability of a matter within the meaning of this law, other applicable laws and the County Charter.

(3) Nothing shall preclude a third party neutral from returning to mediation even after the institution of fact finding or arbitration, or from utilizing such mediation techniques as may be appropriate while engaged in fact finding or arbitration.

(4) The Impasse Panel may not make recommendations or findings upon any matter which requires implementation by a body, agency or official which is not a party to the negotiations and who have not agreed to be a party to such impasse resolution.

(5) From the date on which a collective bargaining notice is filed and ending on the date on which a collective bargaining agreement is concluded or, if impasse procedures have been invoked, until such time as the Panel has certified that it or other authorized parties have terminated efforts to resolve the dispute, the labor organization party to the negotiations and the public employees it represents, shall not induce or engage in any strikes, and the employer shall refrain from unilateral changes in wages, hours or working conditions.

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision of this Section or Subtitle, any clause in a collective bargaining agreement which sets forth procedures for a reduction-in-force, layoff, and recall, and/or guarantees against a reduction-in-force or a furlough of employees subject to that agreement, shall expire on the date that agreement expires by its express terms. If a collective bargaining agreement, which has remained in effect beyond its expiration date, provides for an annual merit increase for employees, payment of such increase shall be eliminated unless provided for in a successor bargaining agreement.

(e) Costs. The costs for mediation shall be borne by the County. All other costs shall be borne equally by the parties involved in the dispute, except in the unusual event that the National Center or an arbitrator appointed by it shall find pursuant to such rules as it shall issue, that the impasse has been caused or prolonged by flagrant conduct of one of the parties.
(CB-1-1973; CB-24-1981; CB-24-1995).

Sec. 13A-111.01. Procedures pertaining to collective bargaining impasses involving protective service employees.

(a) An impasse in collective bargaining shall exist if, by March 1 of the calendar year in which a collective bargaining agreement covering sworn police officers, uniformed firefighters, correctional officers, and deputy sheriffs (hereinafter "protective service employees") expires, the County and the organization recognized as the exclusive collective bargaining representative for such employees (hereinafter "Exclusive Representative") have failed to reach agreement in regard to wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment, provided that the County and the exclusive representative may, by written agreement, extend the period for collective bargaining beyond the last day of February, in which event an impasse shall exist if, by the first calendar day after the end of any period of extension, the parties have failed to reach agreement.

(b) Within three (3) calendar days after there is an impasse in collective bargaining, the County Executive shall send a written notice to the American Arbitration Association (hereinafter "AAA"), with a copy to the exclusive representative, informing them of the impasse and requesting that the disputed matters be subm to an arbitrator who shall make findings of fact an opose terms of settlement which shall be binding upon the parties. If the County Executive fai. .o send the aforesaid notice within the time allowed, the exclusive representative may send such a notice to the AAA and, for purposes of this Section, the notice shall have the same effect as if it had been sent by the County Executive.
