(c) Within five (5) calendar days after receipt of the written notice provided for in Subsection (b), above, the AAA shall designate an arbitrator. Said designation shall be made in accordance with the general rules of the AAA for the designation of arbitrators, provided that the person designated shall be a member of a special panel of three (3) arbitrators that the AAA shall maintain to perform the functions provided for in this Section. The members of this panel shall be designated by the County Executive, from among persons recommended to him by the AAA, and shall be subject to approval by a majority vote of the full County Council. Said designation shall stand approved if not acted upon by the County Council within thirty (30) working days. The County Council shall consider the views of the County Executive and all exclusive representatives in deciding whether to approve a panel nominee. Panel members shall be selected to serve for a period of three (3) years and shall be eligible for reappointment. A member of the panel may be removed upon recommendation of the County Executive and approval by a majority vote of the full County Council for just cause. A vacancy on the panel, whether created by removal, resignation or otherwise, shall be filled by the County Executive with the approval of the County Council promptly in accordance with the procedure set forth herein, and the person appointed to fill a vacancy shall serve pursuant to such appointment only for the unexpired period of the member whom he or she succeeds. Arbitrators shall be compensated for actual services performed on a case by case basis in accordance with the prevailing rates for such service in the Washington Metropolitan Area. The prevailing rate shall be established in the annual budget based upon information supplied to the County from AAA not later than March 1 of each year.

(d) Following notice of an impasse the AAA, within two (2) calendar days after an arbitrator has been designated, shall send a written notice to the County Executive and the exclusive representative informing them, among other things, of the name and address of the arbitrator. Within five (5) calendar days after receipt of said notice, the County Executive and the exclusive representative each shall submit to the arbitrator and the other party, a list which sets forth:

(1) Any agreement which that party contends the parties have reached in regard to any position of each subject of bargaining, the party's understanding of such agreement, and if the agreement has been reduced to writing, a copy of the document in question; and

(2) Any portion of each subject of bargaining in regard to which it contends the parties have not reached agreement and its position in regard to such disputed portion. As used in this Section, the phrase "subject of bargaining" means a subject matter area (e.g., a grievance procedure) and not the specific items within a subject matter area (e.g., a grievance procedure) and not the specific items within a subject matter area (e.g., the number and nature of the steps in a grievance procedure).

(e) Within seven (7) calendar days after receipt of the submissions provided for in Subsection (d), above, the arbitrator shall hold a prehearing conference with the County Executive and the exclusive representative in order to identify any portion of each subject of bargaining in regard to which the parties:

(1) Have reached agreement and the nature of such agreement; and

(2) Have not reached agreement and the nature of the dispute.

17:50 NO.172 003

At this prehearing conference, the arbitrator also shall obtain from the County Executive and the exclusive representative, their position in regard to any portion of each subject of bargaining as to which the parties have not reached agreement. This position shall be referred to as the party's "final position" and need not be the same as the position set forth in the list submitted pursuant to Subsection (d), above.

(f) If the impasse is not resolved prior to the conclusion of the prehearing conference, the arbitrator shall schedule a hearing in Prince George's County to begin as soon thereafter as possible, but in no event more than twenty (20) calendar days after the conclusion of the prehearing conference. Said hearing shall be open to the public and shall be conducted in accordance with rules and regulations adopted by the AAA for such purpose, provided that the arbitrator shall have the power, at the request of either party or at his or her own initiative, to request the County Council to issue subpoenas pursuant to rules established by the Council for the issuance of subpoenas, requesting the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of any records, papers or other information relating to any matter in issue before the arbitrator. The arbitrator shall have the power to request that testimony be under oath and may administer the oath or affirmation of the witness.

(g) If the impasse is not resolved prior to the conclusion of the hearing, the arbitrator shall prepare a written report, which shall include findings of fact and conclusions to which shall be attached a collective bargaining agreement between the County and the exclusive representative. This collective bargaining agreement shall include all agreements reached by the parties at any time prior to the conclusion of the hearing in regard to any portion of each subject of bargaining or other matter, and the final position of either the County or the exclusive representative in regard to the entire disputed portion of each separate subject of bargaining. In determining, for each separate subject of bargaining, whether to include in the collective bargaining agreement the final position of the County or the exclusive representative in regard to the entire disputed portion of each such subject of bargaining, the arbitrator shall consider, among other relevant factors, the following:

(1) The existing terms and conditions of employment of the employees in the bargaining unit;

(2) The ability of the County to meet costs, including both available financial resources and sources of additional financial resources;

(3) (A) The annual increase or decrease in consumer prices for goods and services as reflected in the most recent Consumer Price Index for the Washington Metropolitan Area published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, United States Department of Labor, commonly known as the cost of living;

(B) The cost of living in the Washington, D.C. Metropolitan Area as compared to the national average and to other comparable metropolitan areas;

(4) The developments in regard to the wages and terms and conditions of employment of other employees performing similar services in other jurisdictions in the Washington Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area and comparable communities;

(5) The special nature of the work performed by the employees in the bargaining unit, including specifically, hazards of employment, physical requirements, educational qualifications, job training and skills, shift assignments and the demands placed upon such employees as compared to other County employees; and

(6) The interest and welfare of the public and the employees in the bargaining unit.

Re: Bill 26-99

Dear Mr. Faden:

At yesterday's MFP hearing, we indicated that MCGEO would provide some case law regarding two issues: the relationship between interest arbitration and the legislative authority of the Council, and the classic "balancing" test which labor tribunals such as the County's Labor Relations Administrator utilize in determining whether particular subjects or negotiating proposals are bargainable, or impinge too directly on management rights.

Enclosed is a copy of Baltimore Teachers Union v. Mayor and CC of Baltimore, 151 LRRM 2706, cert. denied, 677 A.2d 565 (Ct. Spec. App. 1996). The BTU case is a detailed treatment of the whole subject of arbitration in the public sector in Maryland. In particular, the nature of the relationship between interest arbitration and the legislative budget making authority is discussed in "Section II" at pages 2716-20. BTU follows the general rule around the country that any labor contract provisions requiring the itemized legislative appropriation of implementing funds, or changes in the formal statutes of a jurisdiction, are only binding upon the legislature after such implementing actions are taken.

Also enclosed is the classic decision of the Wisconsin Supreme Court in City of Beloit v. Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission, 92 LRRM 3318 (1976). As I indicated yesterday, this case is considered to be a persuasive demonstration of the "balancing" process required for any tribunal to reach a determination regarding the negotiability of any subject matter in the public sector. Of course, the specific application of the balancing principle must begin with the specific language of whatever state or local statute is being applied.

We will be happy to discuss this matter with the members of the Committee or with staff. Please ensure that this letter and material is provided to the members of the Committee. Thanks.

Very truly yours,

William W. Thompson, II

BALTIMORE TEACHERS UNION, AMERICAN FEDERATION OF TEACHERS, LOCAL 340, AFL-CIO
v.
MAYOR AND CITY COUNCIL OF BALTIMORE.

No. 710, Sept. Term, 1995.
Court of Special Appeals of Maryland.
Feb. 7, 1996.

City teachers union moved to modify or vacate arbitrator's decision not to grant remedy for city's alleged breach of wage agreement. The Circuit Court for Baltimore City, Thomas Ward, J., denied union's motion, and union appealed. The Court of Special Appeals, Davis, J., held that: (1) arbitrator's refusal to grant remedy for city's breach of wage agreement was improper abdication of his jurisdiction, but (2) arbitrator erred in determining that wage agreement was valid and binding agreement without Board of Estimate's approval.

[671 A.2d 81] 170 Joel A. Smith (Christyne L. Neff and Kahn, Smith & Collins, P.A., on the brief), Baltimore, for appellant.

James S. Ruckle, Jr. (Otho M. Thompson, Deputy City Solicitor, on the brief), Baltimore, for appellee.

Argued before BLOOM, CATHELL and DAVIS, JJ.

171 DAVIS, Judge.

This appeal arises out of a dispute between the Baltimore Teachers Union, American Federation of Teachers, Local 340, AFL-CIO (appellant) and the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore (appellee) over appellee's alleged breach of a wage agreement between the parties. Although a number of questions are presented for our review, we [671 A.2d 82] restate them, distilled to two substantive issues, as follows:

I. Was it a "mistake so gross as to work manifest injustice" for the arbitrator to determine that he was without authority to award a remedy for the breach of contract?

II. Was it a "mistake so gross as to work manifest injustice" for the arbitrator to determine that a valid contract existed under which appellee could be liable?

We answer both questions in the affirmative. As we shall explain, the result of our disposition of these questions is that the judgment of the Circuit Court for Baltimore City (Ward, J.) must be affirmed.

FACTS

The sad affair that gives rise to this appeal presents yet another setback for the most noble of professions whose members perform the most essential function in a well-ordered society. Appellants won a Pyhrric victory in their quest for parity in pay with the jurisdictions surrounding Baltimore City--that victory coming in the form of an agreement with appellees to grant the pay increases--only to then face the dual obstacles of procedural barriers and budget shortfalls.

On June 24, 1992, appellant filed suit against appellee in the Circuit Court for Baltimore City to compel appellee to submit to arbitration a contract grievance between the parties, the details of which are fully discussed below. On June 25, 1993, the circuit court ordered that the parties submit their dispute to arbitration. The circuit court amended this order on August 3, 1993, directing "that the Parties proceed to arbitration on all issues, both procedural and substantive." Collectively, 172 these orders shall be referred to as the circuit court's Orders to Arbitrate.

As ordered, the matter proceeded to arbitration. Over the course of several days in April and May of 1994, full hearings were held before an arbitrator from the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. Evidence was presented, testimony was taken, and arguments were submitted. On December 7, 1994, the arbitrator issued a lengthy written Opinion and Award. The Opinion and Award comprehensively recites the underlying facts of this dispute. As the parties do not dispute these facts, our discussion below summarizes the facts as set forth in the Opinion and Award.

Appellant represents appellee's teachers in collective bargaining negotiations with appellee. Salaries of Baltimore City teachers have historically been lower than the salaries of teachers in surrounding jurisdictions. This gap between salaries has reached $5,000 per year in recent years, and has caused difficulty in attracting quality teachers to Baltimore City and an ongoing loss of experienced teachers to higher paying surrounding jurisdictions. This disparity has been a concern of elected officials, including Mayor Schmoke, administrators, teachers, and appellant.

According to the testimony of witnesses for appellant, to address the wage disparity problem, appellant desired an 8% wage increase in the first two years of a three-year collective bargaining agreement and, in the third year, wage parity with surrounding jurisdictions. Appellant states that, in response, Mayor Schmoke stated something to the effect of "you've got it." According to appellant's witnesses, the Mayor was aware of anticipated APEX funding (FN1) from the State, and the parties contemplated that parity would be achieved out of those funds.

Copyright (c) West Group 1999 No claim to original U.S. Govt. works

173 In 1988, appellee and appellant entered into negotiations over a collective bargaining agreement (Agreement). During these negotiations, then-Labor Commissioner Richard J. Whalen represented appellee. Whalen opposed the concept of automatic parity and refused to agree to the parity package. Appellant went to the Mayor, who supported appellant's position, and worked with appellant[671 A.2d 83] to craft a comparability formula. (FN2) According to appellant's witnesses, appellee thereupon changed its position at the bargaining table and accepted appellant's parity concept.

The agreement that was eventually negotiated covered the period July 1, 1989 through June 30, 1992 (fiscal years 1990, 1991 and 1992). (FN3) The agreement provided wage increases of 8% in each of the first two fiscal years. The following "wage reopener" provision (Section 5.1.3. of Article V, Compensation and Related Matters, of the Agreement) controlled in the third year of the Agreement (fiscal year 1992):

> The Employer and the Union agree to reopen negotiations on salaries for the 1991-92 school year. It is the goal of the City of Baltimore and the [Union] to support salary levels for teachers comparable to competitive area districts. Adjustments to the salary schedule for the third year shall be determined by the following methods:
> a. A list of districts shall be identified and 1991-92 salary schedules obtained from those districts.
> 174 b. Benchmark positions are the minimum and maximum positions on each lane of the schedule.
> c. The benchmark positions shall be averaged for all districts in the sample.
> d. The City will cooperate with [Union] requests for revenue or expenditure estimates.
> e. Once implemented, the schedule shall remain in effect until modified through subsequent agreements.

By the fall of 1990, when negotiations began between appellee and appellant under the wage reopener provision, the economy was stagnant, and appellee and the State were experiencing serious financial problems. The Opinion and Award refers to Baltimore Teachers Union v. Mayor and City Council of Baltimore, 6 F.3d 1012, 1020 (4th Cir.1993), wherein appellee's poor financial condition and its operational and budgetary actions in response thereto are fully described.

In early February 1991, in advance of fiscal year 1992, the parties attempted to negotiate a successor agreement to the 1989-1992 Agreement. Appellant sought both general and parity wage increases, asserting that such increases were due under the wage parity reopener provision of the Agreement and that revenues were available to fund the increases. Furthermore, appellant asserted that a wage gap between appellee's teachers and surrounding jurisdictions remained. Appellant's calculations for fiscal year 1992 indicated a 12.9% wage gap. Appellant insisted that the agreed-upon parity "goal" meant a definite commitment to "do something" about achieving parity, assuming revenues could be identified.

Appellee's position, on the other hand, was that there were no funds available for wage increases for fiscal year 1992. Moreover, based on arguments concerning national wage levels for teachers in large cities, appellee asserted that parity increases were not due. Appellee further argued that the Agreement's use of the word "goal" was insufficient to constitute a binding promise. The parties ultimately agreed to a wage freeze for fiscal year 1992.

175 The wage agreement for the fiscal year 1992 wage reopener was embodied in a September 12, 1991 letter from Jesse E. Hoskins, appellee's acting Labor Commissioner, to Irene Dandridge, appellant's President. The parties refer to this letter as the first "Side Letter." Dandridge counter-signed and dated the first Side Letter in an underlined space corresponding to the typed-word "ACCEPTED." Paragraph 3 of the first Side Letter reads, in pertinent part, as follows:

> [671 A.2d 84] [Appellee] and [appellant] agree to restate our position on Article V--Compensation and Related Matters, Paragraph 5.1(3). The parties agree that the goal of [appellee] and [appellant] is to support salary levels for teachers comparable to our competitive area districts. To further our mutual commitment, effective July 1, 1992, a minimum annual parity increase of not less than one percent (1%) will be received. Such parity increases in the aggregate shall not exceed six percent (6%). During FY 1993 and subsequent years both parties agree that the parity increase will only be received provided revenues can be identified.

(Emphasis added).

During fiscal year 1992, the State cut funding to appellee twice, totalling approximately $37.5 million. These cuts, along with a decline in tax revenues, forced appellee to terminate or cut programs, and furlough and lay off employees. During the course of fiscal year 1992, appellee also imposed several unpaid furlough days ("K days") on teachers.

The Agreement and first Side Letter were set to expire at the end of fiscal year 1992. For fiscal year 1993, the parties signed a second Side Letter, dated June 19, 1992, in which the parties confirmed their agreement to extend for one year the Agreement and the terms of the first Side Letter. The Opinion and Award states that appellant had the second Side Letter approved by appellee's Board of Estimates, committing appellee to honor its terms for fiscal year 1993. The second Side Letter was stamped "APPROVED BY THE BOARD OF ESTIMATES JUL 29 1992," and signed by appellee's comptroller. According to the arbitrator, Board of Estimates 176 approval of the second Side Letter was consistent with its treatment of contracts with vendors and others, but not consistent with its general practice in reviewing collective bargaining agreements.

During negotiations for fiscal year 1993 (and also for previous fiscal year 1992), Hoskins reviewed the proposed "provided revenues can be identified" language of the first Side Letter with Edward Gallagher, appellee's Director of Finance. Gallagher assumed that Hoskins wrote that language, and indicated to Hoskins that Gallagher could "live with it." Gallagher testified that he understood the language to "obligat[e] the [appellee] to try, if it could identify revenues, to provide th[e] parity adjustment," and asserted that the identification of revenues was the right of appellee, rather than a joint task of appellee and appellant. Gallagher testified that "identifying revenues" was a budget term of art for finding revenues from new or unanticipated sources, over and above the current budget allocation. Gallagher conceded that appellee's administration was obligated to make a good-faith effort to identify revenues to fund the parity increase.

Notwithstanding this understanding, Gallagher stated that neither he nor his department carried out this obligation. Gallagher confirmed that the Board was ultimately responsible for identifying revenues, based on, though not necessarily adopting, appellee's recommendations. Gallagher conceded that neither the wage increase nor the obligation to identify revenues was included in his transmittals submitted to the Board of Estimates. Nor did Gallagher do anything else to alert the Board of Estimates of appellee's obligation to identify revenues. Gallagher conceded that it was appellee's duty to do this, and that the Board of Estimates might not have been aware of the obligation to identify revenues. In sum, Gallagher dismissed the process of identifying revenues as being much less important than his overall efforts to balance the budget that year.

Appellee spent its fiscal year 1993 APEX monies on fixed assets, additional administrators, a new management information 177 system, and other items, none of which included salary increases for teachers, despite the fact that $16 million of the $38 million of APEX money that the State directed to appellee for education was considered "unrestricted." (FN4) The Department of Finance did not allocate [671 A.2d 85] revenues in its proposals for the fiscal year 1993 budget for a parity increase. When the budget proposals reached the Board of Estimates, neither the Department of Finance nor the Board raised the issue of wage parity. The budget recommendations adopted by the Board of Estimates for fiscal year 1993 included no such monies.

By letter dated June 15, 1992, appellant reiterated its position that revenues were available in the budget for a parity increase for fiscal year 1993. Appellant requested arbitration as to the meaning of the term "revenues" and the nature of the parties' obligations under the Side Letter for fiscal year 1993. (FN5) Appellee refused to arbitrate, whereupon appellant obtained the circuit court's Order to Arbitrate the fiscal year 1993 dispute.

After presenting these facts, the arbitrator made certain determinations. Central was the determination that the Side Letters constituted a binding contract for fiscal year 1993. Under this contract, the fiscal year 1993 wage increase to achieve parity was conditioned on the identification of revenues. The arbitrator further determined that appellee had an obligation to review its revenues and priorities diligently and in good faith in an attempt to identify sufficient revenues from which wage parity could be funded. According to the arbitrator, 178 however, appellee failed to do this, thereby breaching its contract under the Side Letters for fiscal year 1993.

Although finding that appellee breached the fiscal year 1993 wage increase agreement, the arbitrator determined that he was without authority to grant a remedy for the breach. In this regard, the Opinion and Award reads, in pertinent part, as follows:

> Wages paid to teachers, including any parity increase for [fiscal year] 1993 which might have been paid pursuant to the Side Letters, come from appropriated funds. To be paid, the funds must be approved in accordance with the budget process. I have searched the language of the Agreement; and I am not persuaded that it gives me authority to direct the budget process and, in particular, no authority to direct the policy or legislative processes. I have searched [appellant's] arguments and case law for authorities which would support my authority to direct such a result. I find none.
> Indeed, the facts that the political and budget process have been completed for [fiscal year] 1993, the revenues (including the APEX funds) spent, and the books closed would appear to require that any monetary award be paid from funds from the current or subsequent fiscal year. And those payments would also require authorization from the appropriate legislative bodies. Thus, it does not appear that there is any effective way for any forum other than the Board of Estimates to remedy [appellee's] breach of its obligation.
> To require [appellee], at this time, to conduct a review to determine whether [fiscal year] 1993 APEX monies were required to have been spent on the parity increase, or whether other revenues might have been identified, would be an exercise in futility. The actual spending figures for that year superseded the budget figures prepared in advance. To require [appellee], retroactively, to pay the parity increase assumes the very determination as to revenue identification and priorities which the Side Letters did not require.
> 179 Of [appellant's] argument that State law (the Maryland Educational Code) binds [appellee] to accept both arbitral determination and remedy, notwithstanding limitations the Charter might impose, I am not convinced. Neither the Agreement nor the general provision of the Code give me authority to order the appropriation of taxpayer funds. That is the exclusive prerogative of the legislature. Further, the most that I can enforce is the agreement of the Parties themselves. As the discussion in the foregoing sections indicates, I am not [671 A.2d 86] persuaded that the Side Letters required [appellee] to pay a parity increase.
> It may well be that other forums, judicial or political, have authority to compel [appellee] and Board to take concrete steps toward the goal of pay equity, based on the [fiscal year] 1993 obligation of [appellee], as expressed in the Side Letters. I express no opinion as to the existence of such authority by any other forum. If so, my conclusion and Award that [appellee] violated its obligation under those Letters may be a useful finding. However, I am not persuaded that I have authority to more than make such a declaration. The Award so reflects.

After the issuance of the arbitrator's Opinion and Award, appellant filed a motion with the circuit court to modify or vacate the arbitrator's decision. Therein, appellant requested, among other things, that the circuit court order the "payment of the parity wages due in Fiscal Year 1993 to the City's teachers" in order to correct the arbitrator's "palpable mistake of law" in refusing to fashion a remedy. Both parties filed motions for summary judgment. In support of its motion, appellee argued that the arbitrator's Opinion and Award should not be modified or vacated because: (1) the arbitrator did not commit a "palpable error of law" in determining that he was without authority to order or appropriate the expenditure of taxpayer money, and (2) since there was not a genuine dispute of material fact that the Board of Estimates did not appropriate the money for the wage increase, there was not a final approval of the wage increase agreement for fiscal year 180 1993, and thus, a valid and binding contract did not exist between the parties under which appellee could be liable.

On April 10, 1995, the circuit court granted appellee's motion for summary judgment and denied appellant's motion for summary judgment. In so doing, the circuit court "adopt[ed] the reasoning of [appellee]," without any further explanation. This appeal follows.

Standard of Review

[1] The principles controlling the standard of appellate review of an arbitrator's award are crucial in the case at hand. Because neither the Agreement nor Side Letters expressly provided that the Maryland Uniform Arbitration Act (MUAA) should apply, the MUAA does not apply here. MD.CODE ANN., CTS. & JUD.PROC. § 3-206(b) (1995); Board of Educ. v. Prince George's County Educators' Ass'n., 309 Md. 85, 96, 522 A.2d 931 (1987). "Rather, the Maryland common law principles for reviewing arbitration awards are controlling." Prince George's County Educators' Ass'n., 309 Md. at 98, 522 A.2d 931. In Prince George's County Educators' Ass'n., the Court of Appeals held:

> Under Maryland common law standards for reviewing arbitration awards ... we hold that an award is subject to being vacated for a "palpable mistake of law or fact ... apparent on the face of the award" or for a "mistake so gross as to work manifest injustice."

Id. at 105, 522 A.2d 931. Additionally, Prince George's County Educators' Ass'n. recognized that courts have vacated arbitration awards based on the similar standard of "manifest disregard of law." Id. at 101-05, 522 A.2d 931. According to the Court of Appeals, courts consider a " 'manifest disregard of law ... [to] be something beyond and different from a mere error in the law or failure on the part of the arbitrators to understand or apply the law.' " Id. at 102, 522 A.2d 931 (quoting San Martine Compania De Navegacion, SA v. Saguenay Terminals, Ltd., 293 F.2d 796, 801 (9th Cir.1961)). 181 See also Jih v. Long & Foster Real Estate, Inc., 800 F.Supp. 312, 317, 320 (D.Md.1992) ("manifest disregard of the law" is a common law basis for judicial review of arbitration awards connoting more than a mere legal error or misunderstanding).

[2] [3] Similarly, in Chillum-Adelphi Volunteer Fire Dep't v. Button & Goode, Inc., 242 Md. 509, 517, 219 A.2d 801 (1966) (citations omitted), the Court of Appeals stated:

> [671 A.2d 87] Although a court may modify an arbitration award for a mistake of form such as an evident miscalculation of figures, an arbitrator's honest decision will not be vacated or modified for a mistake going to the merits of the controversy and resulting in an erroneous arbitration award, unless the mistake is so gross as to evidence misconduct or fraud on his part.

Indeed, because Maryland courts have historically considered arbitration to be a "favored" dispute resolution method, common law rule dictates that courts generally must defer to the arbitrator's findings of fact and applications of law. Baltimore County v. City of Baltimore, 329 Md. 692, 701, 621 A.2d 864 (1993). Thus, courts are fairly reluctant to disturb the award of an arbitrator where the award reflects the honest decision of the arbitrator and is the product of a full and fair hearing of the parties. Id. (citing Prince George's County Educators' Ass'n, 309 Md. at 98, 522 A.2d 931). See also Mayor & City Council of Baltimore v. Allied Contractors, Inc., 236 Md. 534, 545, 204 A.2d 546 (1964) ("an award is final and conclusive on both parties in the absence of fraud or mistake so gross as to imply bad faith or the failure to exercise honest judgment.").

[4] Distinguishing between a "palpable mistake of law or fact ... apparent on the face of the award" or a "mistake so gross as to work manifest injustice," or a "manifest disregard" is like shoveling smoke. Williams v. Superintendent, 43 Md.App. 588, 591, 406 A.2d 1302 (1979), vacated, 288 Md. 523, 419 A.2d 383 (1980). Indeed, these standards are so closely related to each other that they appear to be no more than different ways of describing the same thing. However the 182 mistake is characterized, the burden of showing that an award is invalid rests with the party attacking the award. Parr Constr. Co. v. Pomer, 217 Md. 539, 543, 144 A.2d 69 (1958). In view of the foregoing, this burden is a heavy one.

[5] [6] In addition to these principles, we must be mindful that the circuit court granted appellee's motion for summary judgment and denied appellant's motion for summary judgment, thereby denying appellee's petition to modify or vacate the arbitrator's award. Where no issue of fact exists to be tried before the circuit court, as in this case, summary judgment may properly be granted in a judicial proceeding challenging an arbitration award. Chillum-Adelphi Volunteer Fire Dep't, 242 Md. at 519, 219 A.2d 801. Thus, in reviewing a trial court's grant of summary judgment, an appellate court is required to determine whether the trial court's ruling was legally correct. Nationwide Mut. Ins. Co. v. Scherr, 101 Md.App. 690, 694, 647 A.2d 1297 (1994); Hrehorovich v. Harbor Hosp. Ctr., Inc., 93 Md.App. 772, 785, 614 A.2d 1021

(1992), cert. denied, 330 Md. 319, 624 A.2d 490 (1993). If, therefore, the arbitrator's award should, as a matter of law, remain undisturbed, then the trial court was legally correct in entering summary judgment against appellant and in favor of appellee. Chillum-Adelphi Volunteer Fire Dep't, 242 Md. at 519, 219 A.2d 801.

Before turning to the merits of this appeal, while keeping in mind the above principles, it is necessary to bring into focus our specific task on this review, in light of the nature of the circuit court's order granting summary judgment in favor of appellee and against appellant. As we stated above, the trial judge adopted appellee's reasoning in ruling as it did. Also as mentioned above, appellee's reasoning was that it was entitled to summary judgment on two grounds: (1) the arbitrator did not commit a "palpable error of law" in determining that he was without authority to grant a remedy; and (2) since it was undisputed that the Board of Estimates did not appropriate funds for the wage increase, the Board of Estimates did not 183 finally approve the wage increase agreement, and, therefore, a binding, valid agreement did not exist.

Because the circuit court did not state on which of these two grounds its grant of summary judgment was based, we must operate on the basis that the circuit court's ruling was alternative in nature. In other words, under the circuit court's ruling, appellee was entitled to judgment as a matter of law because the arbitrator's determination that he was without authority to grant a remedy (assuming a valid contract existed) was not so erroneous under the above standard of [671 A.2d 88] review principles as to require that determination to be set aside or modified, or, in the alternative, because there was no contract between the parties. This means that on this review we must determine whether the circuit court was legally correct in basing its grant of summary judgment in favor of appellee and against appellant on either of the two alternative grounds.

I

[7] Our first task, under the above enunciated principles of judicial review, is to determine whether the circuit court was legally correct in leaving undisturbed the arbitrator's conclusion that he was without authority to grant a remedy. Essentially, appellant argues that the arbitrator's refusal to grant a remedy was a palpable error of law apparent on its face, which will work a manifest injustice. In this regard, appellant contends that the arbitrator "ducked" his responsibilities under the circuit court's Orders to Arbitrate, which required arbitration of "all issues, both procedural and substantive." Moreover, appellant asserts that the arbitrator defeated the strong public policy underlying arbitration (namely, that arbitration bring the dispute to a final resolution) by finding a breach of contract but not awarding a remedy therefor. Appellant relies on Snyder v. Berliner Constr. Co., 79 Md.App. 29, 555 A.2d 523 (1989), for this proposition.

We agree with appellant's position. The arbitrator's decision declining to award a remedy was a palpable error resulting in a manifest injustice requiring the vacation or modification 184 of the arbitrator's Opinion and Award. As fully explained below, consistent with the principles of appellate review of an arbitration award, we find that the arbitrator's refusal to grant appellant a remedy, after so definitely determining that appellee had breached the fiscal year 1993 wage parity agreement, to be an improper abdication of his jurisdiction.

Our holding rests largely on Snyder. While we recognize that Snyder may not be controlling on this appeal, because it was decided under the MUAA, the case is highly persuasive and is instructive in the resolution of this issue. In Snyder, a building owner refused to pay a contractor the final installment under a renovation contract. Id. at 31, 555 A.2d 523. The contract contained an arbitration clause, and the owner submitted the dispute by letter to the American Arbitration Association (AAA). Id. at 32, 555 A.2d 523. The letter, among other things, stated that "no money is due from the owner to the contractor." Id. The contractor responded with an "Answer and Counterclaim," stating that all work was properly performed under the contract, and that the final installment was therefore due and owing. Id. AAA then advised the contractor that the counterclaim was not necessary since the question of liability for the installment had been submitted by the owner's initial letter. Id. Accordingly, the contractor withdrew the counterclaim, reserving it as a defense to the owner's claim. Id. at 32-33, 555 A.2d 523.

After an evidentiary hearing, the arbitrator issued an order and opinion granting the owner's claim that it was not liable to the contractor for the final installment. Id. at 33, 555 A.2d 523. "In the same breath, however, the arbitrator stated that [the contractor's] claim was meritorious, lacking only a request for monetary relief." Id. In this regard, the arbitrator concluded that he was without authority to grant monetary relief since the counterclaim requesting such relief had been withdrawn. Id. The arbitrator "nevertheless granted [the owner] a monetary award of $1,500.00, 'in full settlement of all claims submitted.' " Id.

185 In response, the contractor requested the circuit court to vacate the arbitrator's award. Id. Finding the arbitrator's award to be "clearly irrational," the trial judge vacated the award and remanded the case to AAA for a determination of the owner's liability. Id. The owner appealed the trial judge's remand order to this Court, and we affirmed the circuit court. Id.

[8] [9] During our discussion of an appellate court's standard of review under the MUAA of an arbitrator's award, we made several important observations. First, we noted that an arbitrator will be deemed to have exceeded his powers where he issues [671 A.2d 89] "an award which cannot be supported by any rational construction of the parties' substantive contractual provisions. " Id. at 37, 555 A.2d 523 (citing O.S. Corp. v. Samuel A. Kroll, Inc., 29 Md.App. 406, 408-09, 348 A.2d 870 (1975)). (FN6) Second, we observed that "arbitrators exceed their jurisdiction by refusing to consider all claims that are properly before them." Id. at 37-38, 555 A.2d 523 (citing McKinney Drilling Co. v. Mach I Ltd. Partnership, 32 Md.App. 205, 211, 359 A.2d 100 (1976)).

With these principles in tow, we then set out to determine whether the arbitrator's failure to fashion a remedy warranted correction of the award. In so doing, we explained as follows:

> We begin by reiterating that [the owner's] original letter of submission to AAA requested a finding that "no money is due from the [owner] to the [contractor]." [The owner] plainly was referring to the final $86,767.28 contract installment.... Whether the arbitrator ever resolved this issue is difficult to ascertain due to the sparse record of the arbitration proceedings and the rather obtuse opinion issued by the arbitrator when announcing his award. While the arbitrator ultimately found that [the owner] owed no money to [the contractor], the basis for this decision is at best 186 murky. He either decided the matter on a substantive basis, concluding that the [contractor's] work on [the owner's] property was deficient, or he decided the case on a procedural basis, concluding that he lacked the jurisdiction to grant an award in response to [the contractor's] perhaps otherwise meritorious position. In either case, we will affirm the ruling of the trial court.

Id. at 38, 555 A.2d 523. Accordingly, we held that if the arbitrator's decision was a substantive determination, then it was completely irrational. Id. at 39, 555 A.2d 523. In this regard, we stated that it approached the "height of irrationality" for the arbitrator to deny the contractor relief, yet state that the contractor's position was meritorious. Id. at 39, 555 A.2d 523.

Alternatively, if the arbitrator concluded that he was without authority to grant a remedy to the contractor for the owner's breach, then this was improper as a matter of law. Id. We held that the arbitrator's belief that the contractor's withdrawal of the counterclaim precluded monetary relief was an "unduly restrictive view of his jurisdiction." Id. at 39-40, 555 A.2d 523. This was because the arbitrator's power to grant an award emanated not from the contractor's counterclaim, but from the owner's original submission of the dispute to arbitration. Id. at 40, 555 A.2d 523. "Indeed, there would have been no need for an arbitration had this central issue of contract liability been removed from consideration." Id. at 39, 555 A.2d 523. We therefore affirmed the trial court's ruling remanding the case to the arbitrator for a full and complete determination. Id. at 40, 555 A.2d 523.

As mentioned, Snyder is not necessarily controlling on this appeal. Most obviously, Snyder was a MUAA case, and the instant appeal is under the common law. This, however, does not render Snyder uninstructive here. Although we need not decide conclusively, the common law principles discussed above relating to our standard of review appear to be quite similar to those embodied in the MUAA. As we explained in Snyder

> 187 Section 3-223 of the MUAA provides that the court shall modify or correct an arbitrator's award if:
> (1) There was an evident miscalculation of figures or an evident mistake in the description of any person, thing, or property referred to in the award;
> (2) The arbitrators have awarded upon a matter not submitted to them and the award may be corrected without affecting the merits of the decision upon the issues submitted; or not affecting the merits of the controversy.
> (3) The award is imperfect in a matter of form,

Copyright (c) West Group 1999 No claim to original U.S. Govt. works

[671 A.2d 90] Section 3-224(b) further provides that an arbitrator's award will be vacated if:

(1) An award was procured by corruption, fraud, or other undue means;
(2) There was evident partiality by an arbitrator appointed as a neutral, corruption in any arbitrator, or misconduct prejudicing the rights of any party;
(3) The arbitrators exceeded their powers;
(4) The arbitrators refused to postpone the hearing upon sufficient cause being shown for the postponement, refused to hear evidence material to the controversy, or otherwise so conducted the hearing ... as to prejudice substantially the rights of a party; or
(5) There was no arbitration agreement ..., the issue was not adversely determined in proceedings under § 3-208, and the party did not participate in the arbitration hearing without raising the objection.

Id. at 36, 555 A.2d 523 (quoting MD.CODE ANN., CTS. & JUD.PROC. § 3-223(b) & § 3-224(b)).

As Snyder explained, under the provisions of the MUAA, an arbitrator will be deemed to have exceeded its powers where the arbitrator issues an award not supported by any rational construction of the parties' substantive contractual provisions, or refuses to consider all properly submitted claims. These principles provided the basis upon which Snyder held that the 188 arbitrator's refusal to grant a remedy, after having found a breach, warranted correction of the arbitrator's award. These principles also appear to be embodied in the common law standard of a "mistake so gross as to work manifest injustice." In other words, an arbitrator's refusal to grant a remedy where empowered to do so would seem to result in a mistake so gross as to work manifest injustice. We are satisfied, therefore, that Snyder 's legal principles relating to an arbitrator's failure to provide a remedy, after having found a breach, are, at a minimum, helpful here. (FN7)

Thus, with Snyder as our guide, we are convinced that it was a mistake so gross as to work manifest injustice for the arbitrator to refuse to provide a remedy after determining that appellee breached the fiscal year 1993 wage parity agreement. Despite appellee's suggestion to the contrary, after our review of the arbitrator's Opinion and Award, we have no doubt that the arbitrator determined that a valid wage contract for fiscal year 1993 did in fact exist between the parties. (FN8) It is equally clear that the arbitrator found that appellee breached the contract by failing to undertake a good-faith effort to identify revenues with which to fund the pay increase. Having determined that appellee breached its obligation to identify revenues--a "precondition," according to the arbitrator, 189 of appellee's duty to actually increase teacher salaries--that obligation was excused and appellant was entitled to damages. See, e.g., Kahn v. Schleisner, 165 Md. 106, 113, 166 A. 435 (1933) (where a promise is conditioned upon the happening of an event, the condition is dispensed with if the promisor prevents the event from happening). See also Bushmiller v. Schiller, 35 Md.App. 1, 368 A.2d 1044 (1977) (where a home buyer failed to make a good faith effort to satisfy the condition precedent of obtaining financing, seller was entitled to damages for the breach).

[671 A.2d 91] The arbitrator, however, determined that he was without authority to award damages. In this regard, the arbitrator concluded that, since the political and budget processes were completed for fiscal year 1993 and the revenues have been spent, any monetary damages would have to be paid from current or future fiscal years, which would "require authorization from the appropriate legislative bodies. Thus, it does not appear that there is any effective way for any forum other than the Board of Estimates to remedy [appellee's] breach of its obligation." Similarly, appellee argues that the arbitrator's factual finding that the Board of Estimates did not appropriate funds for the pay increase precluded the arbitrator from fashioning a remedy. In this regard, the arbitrator was not empowered to appropriate taxpayer funds to provide a remedy because this would be in contravention of the "virtually unfettered authority [that] the Board of Estimates has over the budget." Furthermore, appellee argues that "the arbitrator was required to keep within the limits set by law. Those limits included the State law making salaries of teachers subject to the approval of the City. See Maryland Education Code Annotated § 4-304(a)(3)." With all of these assertions, we disagree.

In this case, as in Snyder, both appellee and the arbitrator have an "unduly restrictive view of [the arbitrator's] jurisdiction." See Snyder, 79 Md.App. at 39-40, 555 A.2d 523. Preliminarily, we observe that the arbitrator made the critical mistake of believing that "[t]o require the City, retroactively, to pay the parity increase assumes the very determination as 190 to revenue identification and priorities which the Side Letters did not require." Although it is true that the Side Letters conditioned the payment of wage increases on the identification of funds, appellee's failure to satisfy its good faith obligation to identify funds resulted in the condition being excused, as we just pointed out. The practical effect, therefore, is as if the condition precedent never existed in the first place. As a result, in awarding a remedy, the arbitrator should not have been concerned by the fact that revenues remained unidentified.

[10] The arbitrator made a second critical mistake in concluding that "[n]either the Agreement nor the general provision of the Code g[a]ve [him] authority to order the appropriation of taxpayer funds. That is the exclusive prerogative of the legislature." We fail to see why appellee's breach of contract in this case should be treated differently than any other instance when a municipality (or any other party for that matter) breaches a contract. Municipalities and counties are routinely sued for breach of contract and held answerable for contract damages. American Structures, Inc. v. Mayor & City Council of Baltimore, 278 Md. 356, 359-60, 364 A.2d 55 (1976). "Municipal contracts, particularly those made in furtherance of the proprietary functions of a municipality, are controlled by the same rules of construction as are applicable to the contracts of private corporations and individuals." City of Frederick v. Brosius Homes Corp., 247 Md. 88, 92, 230 A.2d 306 (1967). See also Anne Arundel County v. Crofton Corp., 286 Md. 666, 673, 410 A.2d 228 (1980).

Under the reasoning of the arbitrator and appellee, binding and final arbitration is rendered utterly impotent. The arbitrator determined that a contract existed, that appellee breached it, but that appellant was not entitled to a remedy. Such a result frustrates the very purpose of binding arbitration, and can only be described as a gross mistake resulting in manifest injustice.

[11] Additionally, we disagree with appellee that MD.CODE ANN., EDUC. § 4-304(a)(3) (1989) divested the arbitrator of the 191 power to award contract damages in this case. Section 4-304 reads as follows:

> (a) Powers.--Subject to the applicable provisions of this article, the Board of School Commissioners of Baltimore City may:
> (1) Examine, appoint, and remove teachers;
> (2) Set teacher qualifications;
> (3) Subject to the approval of the Mayor and City Council, set teacher salaries; and
> (4) Select textbooks for the public schools in Baltimore City, except that [671 A.2d 92] the textbooks may not contain anything of a sectarian or partisan character.
> (b) Duties.--(1) The Board of School Commissioners shall report annually to the State Board on the condition of the schools under its jurisdiction.
> (2) The report shall include a statement of:
> (i) Expenditures;
> (ii) The number of children taught; and
> (iii) Any other statistical information the State Board requires.

For three reasons, § 4-304(a)(3) does not operate as appellee suggests. First, § 4-304 generally defines the "Powers" and the "Duties" of the Board of School Commissioners as limited by the Education Article. Subsection (a)(3) specifically defines the salary setting "Powers" of the Board of School Commissioners as limited by both the Education Article and the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore City. Thus, this provision focuses on what the Board of School Commissioners can and cannot do in relation to the Education Article, generally; and in relation to the Education Article and Mayor and City Council, specifically with respect to setting teacher salaries. The provision does not define the arbitrator's power to provide remedies for the breach of salary agreements between the appellee and its teachers. Second, the arbitrator, by ordering a remedy, is not compelling the Board of School Commissioners to "set teacher salaries." Rather, such an 192 order compels appellee to follow procedure to set teacher salaries. After all, the arbitrator found that a valid wage contract previously existed between appellee and appellant. Third, MD.CODE ANN., EDUC. § 6-408(a)(2) specifically allows agreements for the employment of public school teachers to provide for binding arbitration of grievances. Binding arbitration would certainly lose much of its utility if the arbitrator could not issue a remedy for a breach of such an agreement.

[12] Thus, despite the large degree of deference afforded to an arbitrator, the arbitrator's failure to provide a remedy for the breach would normally warrant the vacation or correction of his Opinion and Award. "Arbitrators have broad discretion in fashioning a remedy for the injustice which is found to have occurred." Baltimore County, 329 Md. at 708, 621 A.2d 864. The record reflects, and the arbitrator acknowledged, that appellant "offer[ed] for consideration a number of alternative calculations" for determining a monetary award for appellee's breach.

In light of the foregoing, the circuit court was not legally correct in granting summary judgment against appellant and in favor of appellee on the first alternative ground. Ordinarily, we would be compelled to reverse the circuit court and remand this case to the arbitrator to fashion an appropriate remedy for the breach. Because in Part II of this opinion we hold that the circuit court was legally correct in granting summary judgment as it did based on the second alternative ground, however, we shall not reverse the circuit court.

II

[13] Next, we must determine whether the trial court was legally correct in entering summary judgment against appellant and in favor of appellee based on the second alternative ground. As we noted, the second alternative ground was that, since there was no genuine dispute of material fact, the Board of Estimates did not appropriate the money for the wage increase, there was not a final approval of the wage increase 193 agreement for fiscal year 1993, and thus, a valid and binding contract did not exist between the parties.

If this assertion is correct--namely, that a valid contract never existed between the parties--then the circuit court must have necessarily (albeit implicitly) determined that the arbitrator manifestly disregarded the law or committed a "palpable mistake" or a "mistake so gross as to work manifest injustice" in determining that a valid contract existed. Although the circuit court provided no explanation, this must be the case since there is no doubt that the arbitrator found that a valid and binding contract existed between the parties. In other words, for the circuit court to grant summary judgment against appellant and in favor of appellee on this ground, [671 A.2d 93] it had to disagree with the arbitrator's finding of a valid contract. This disagreement, however, did not result in the modification or vacation of the arbitration award because the arbitrator ultimately concluded that appellant was not entitled to any relief. Stated differently, because the outcome in arbitration was identical to the outcome in the circuit court (though based on different grounds) the circuit court could leave the arbitrator's award intact. (FN9)

194 As a result, our review of this issue is limited under the above principles of judicial review to whether the arbitrator's determination that a legally binding wage contract existed between the parties should be set aside. As we alluded to in the closing paragraph of Part I, we agree with the circuit court that the arbitrator erred in determining that a valid contract existed, and that this error was "so gross as to work manifest injustice."

As we shall explain, our holding is required under Mayor & City Council of Baltimore v. American Fed'n of State, County & Mun. Employees, 281 Md. 463, 379 A.2d 1031 (1977) (AFSCME), and Baltimore Teachers Union v. Mayor & City Council of Baltimore, 6 F.3d 1012 (4th Cir.1993) (BTU). These cases fully support appellee's position that a legally binding contract between appellee and appellant did not exist because the Board of Estimates never appropriated the funds for the wage increase.

AFSCME is a Court of Appeals case that comprehensively examines the role of the Board of Estimates in the appropriation process of Baltimore City. In AFSCME, various employee organizations (unions) exclusively represented certain Baltimore City employees pursuant to the provisions of the Municipal Employee Relations Ordinance (MERO) of the Baltimore City Code. AFSCME, 281 Md. at 466, 379 A.2d 1031. Following negotiations in 1976, each union executed a "Memorandum of Understanding" (memorandum) with the Board of Estimates covering the two-year period from July 1, 1976 to June 30, 1978. Id. The memoranda provided pay raises in each of the two years. Id. In addition, each memorandum contained the following preamble:

> To the extent that implementation of these points requires action by the City Council, this memorandum will 195 serve as a request and recommendation to such body that it be so implemented.

For the first contract year, the Board of Estimates included in its Ordinance of Estimates (FN10) that was submitted to the City Council appropriations sufficient to cover the pay increases. Id. at 467, 379 A.2d 1031. The Ordinance of Estimates for the second contract year, however, did not include appropriations for the pay increase for that year. Id. "Because, under the Baltimore City Charter, the City Council may neither increase any appropriation in the proposed Ordinance of Estimates nor include any new appropriations, the action of the Board of [671 A.2d 94] Estimates precluded the payment of annual increments to city employees." Id.

The unions contended that the memoranda constituted binding two-year contracts with the Board of Estimates, and that MERO authorized these contracts. Id. In this regard, the unions maintained that the agreements obligated the Board to include in the Ordinance of Estimates appropriations sufficient to cover the pay increase. Id. at 467-68, 379 A.2d 1031. The City, however, denied that the Board was contractually obligated to include the appropriations in the Ordinance of Estimates, arguing that the memoranda did not constitute a binding contract. Id. at 468, 379 A.2d 1031. Alternatively, the City contended that, under the terms of the memoranda, the parties intended that the pay increase promises were conditioned upon the Board's discretion to withhold payment of the pay increases in any contract year for financial reasons. Id. Finally, the City argued that, if the memoranda required the Board to appropriate the money for the pay increase, the memoranda would be invalid because "a municipality 'may not contract so as to deprive itself of powers conferred upon it' by its charter." Id. at 468, 379 A.2d 1031.

The unions filed suit and the Baltimore City Court agreed with their position, issuing an injunction requiring the Board 196 to submit to the City Council an amended Ordinance of Estimates containing the appropriations. Id. at 465, 379 A.2d 1031. The City appealed to this Court, but the Court of Appeals granted a writ of certiorari before proceedings commenced here. Id.

Before resolving the dispute, the Court of Appeals reviewed the role of the Board in the appropriation process as provided in the Charter of Baltimore City. The Court of Appeals comprehensively delineated the mechanism by which appropriations become law:

The City of Baltimore, like the State of Maryland, has what is commonly known as an "executive budget system." At the heart of the City's system is the Board of Estimates which is composed of the Mayor, the President of the City Council, the Comptroller, the City Solicitor, and the Director of Public Works. Charter, Art. VI, § 1. Under the City Charter, the Board of Estimates is vested with broad discretionary powers concerning the City's fiscal management. The Board is "responsible for formulating, determining, and executing the fiscal policy of the City...." Art. VI, § 2(a). Accordingly, it is required to submit to the City Council for each fiscal year a proposed Ordinance of Estimates, Art. VI, § 2(b). The proposed ordinance must contain "[e]stimates of appropriations needed for the operations of each municipal agency," estimates for appropriations for other purposes, and a separate listing of appropriations needed for capital improvements, Art. VI, §§ 2(c)(1), (2). Accompanying the proposed Ordinance of Estimates must be "[a] breakdown of the amounts stated for each ... purpose ... of each municipal agency," including information concerning "the compensation of every officer and salaried employee of the City," Art. VI, § 2(f)(1). The Board also must submit comparisons between the appropriations actually contained in the ordinance for each agency with the appropriation requested by the agency, as well as the amounts appropriated for the current fiscal year compared to the amounts expended in the prior year, Art. VI, § 2(f)(2). Detailed information as to the source of funding 197 for the appropriations must be submitted, Art. VI, § 2(f)(3). And the Mayor must send to the Council a message "explaining the major emphasis and objectives of the City's budget for the next ensuing fiscal year." Art. VI, § 2(f)(6).

The City Council has only limited powers in relation to the proposed Ordinance of Estimates. It "may reduce or eliminate any of the amounts fixed by the Board in the proposed Ordinance of Estimates...." However, the City Council does not have "the power to increase the amounts fixed by the Board or to insert any amount for any new purpose in the proposed Ordinance of Estimates," Art. VI, § 2(g). After the passage of the Ordinance of Estimates by the City Council, the Board of Estimates must certify to the City Council the difference between the anticipated expenditures [671 A.2d 95] contained in the ordinance and expected revenues other than those from the property tax. The Board must then state a property tax rate sufficient to meet this difference and the City Council must by ordinance set a property tax rate not less than that stated by the Board so as to insure a balanced budget, Art. VI, § 2(g). Once funds are appropriated, they may not be "diverted or used for any purpose other than that named in said ordinance," except under certain circumstances requiring the approval of the Board of Estimates, Art. VI, § 2(i).

Id. at 468-70, 379 A.2d 1031.

According to the Court of Appeals, "It is the Board of Estimates which is initially required to review the financial status of the City on an annual basis and to determine, in its sole discretion, which items should be included in the City budget." Id. at 471, 379 A.2d 1031. The Court of Appeals also stated that "if the Board determines, in its judgment, that an appropriation for a certain purpose should not be included in the budget, this determination is final, as the City Council is without power to include any new item in the Ordinance of Estimates." Id. The Court further explained:

> Consequently, under the Baltimore City Charter, the Board of Estimates plays a critical role in the appropriation process. The submission by the Board of Estimates to the 198 City Council of the Ordinance of Estimates is not merely a request or a recommendation for an appropriation of funds. Instead, the Board finally determines the maximum appropriation for any particular purpose. The Board's submission of the Ordinance of Estimates is, therefore, an integral part of the law-making function.

Turning to the facts in AFSCME, the Court of Appeals recognized that "the Board attempted to bind itself to include in the Ordinance of Estimates sufficient appropriations for payment of the annual [pay] increments." Id. The Court determined, however, that the Board was without authority to do so under MERO. Id. According to the Court of Appeals, MERO "is made expressly subject to the City Charter provision governing public employment and fiscal practices." Id. at 472, 379 A.2d 1031. Additionally, MERO states that any memorandum of understanding between the employer and union is subject to the provisions of the City Charter. Id. Furthermore, MERO requires that labor negotiations be conducted between the union and a committee named by the Mayor--not between the union and the Board. Id. at 472-73, 379 A.2d 1031. Finally, the Court of Appeals recognized that MERO treated memoranda of understanding as recommendations to the Board. Id. at 473-74, 379 A.2d 1031. Consequently, the Board's final approval of appropriations recommendations occurs when the Board actually includes the appropriations in the Ordinance of Estimates. Id. at 474, 379 A.2d 1031. As a result, therefore, the memoranda accepted by the Board were not binding upon the Board, and the unions were not entitled to relief. Id.

Because the facts of the instant case are extremely similar to those in AFSCME, we are satisfied that the principles of AFSCME control the outcome of the instant case. Here, as in AFSCME, despite the Board's prior approval, the Board did not appropriate funds in the Ordinance of Estimates for the fiscal year 1993 wage increase. For the same reasons that the Board's attempt to bind itself to include in the Ordinance of Estimates sufficient appropriations to cover pay increases was 199 ineffective under the City Charter in AFSCME, the Board's similar attempt in the instant case is ineffective. In other words, just as the memoranda of understanding were not binding in AFSCME under the City Charter, the stamped-approved Side Letter is not binding here.

We recognize that AFSCME relied heavily on the provisions of MERO, which are not applicable here, in determining that the memoranda of understanding were not binding. From our reading of AFSCME, however, we believe that the Court of Appeals would have reached the same conclusion, based exclusively on the provisions of the City Charter, even had MERO not applied. Indicative of the fact that the result would have been the same is that the Court of [671 A.2d 96] Appeals recognized that MERO "is made expressly subject to the City Charter provision governing public employment and fiscal practices." Id. at 472, 379 A.2d 1031. "This would embrace the Charter provisions vesting in the Board of Estimates the duty of determining, according to the standard set forth in the Charter, the maximum limits of appropriations for particular purposes in the Ordinance of Estimates submitted to the City Council." Id. Furthermore, the Court of Appeals held:

> Considering this language [of MERO providing that agreements contained in memoranda of understanding are recommendations to the Board] and the provisions of the City Charter together, it is reasonable to conclude that final "approval" by the Board of Estimates of recommendations requiring appropriations will only take place by the Board's including such appropriations in the Ordinance of Estimates.

Id. at 474, 379 A.2d 1031 (emphasis added). Thus, it reasonably appears that AFSCME 's holding applies in full force to the instant case, regardless of the fact that MERO is not involved in this case.

As a result, the language in AFSCME relating to the finality of the Board's decision to appropriate or not to appropriate funds in the budget is determinative of this issue. AFSCME makes clear that the Board "finally determines the 200 maximum appropriation for any particular purpose." AFSCME, 281 Md. at 471, 379 A.2d 1031. See Baker v. Mayor & City Council of Baltimore, 894 F.2d 679, 681 (4th Cir.1990) ("The Board's determination to exclude an appropriation for a given purpose, e.g., an agency position, is final."). Thus, without the appropriation, the Side Letter wage agreement, like the memoranda of understanding in AFSCME, was never really an agreement at all, the Board's stamp of approval falling short of actual appropriation. In other words, under AFSCME, the Side Letter wage agreement was not binding unless and until the Board actually included the appropriations to fund the wage increase in the Ordinance of Estimates and the City Council passed the Ordinance of Estimates pursuant to the Baltimore City Charter.

In addition to AFSCME, BTU--a fairly recent United States Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals case--supports our holding. In BTU, Baltimore City implemented one-percent salary reductions for city employees, including public school teachers, in response to budgetary shortfalls. BTU, 6 F.3d at 1014. The Baltimore Teachers Union (union) filed suit under the Contract Clause of the U.S. Constitution against the City in the United States District Court for the District of Maryland, alleging that the pay cuts were an impermissible impairment of their employment contracts with the City. Id. The District Court ruled in the union's favor, and the City appealed. Id. The Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit agreed "that the City substantially impaired an extant contract with its teachers ...", but concluded that, "affording the requisite degree of deference to the City's legislature ... the impairment was in exercise of the City's legitimate powers and thus permissible under the Contract Clause." Id. at 1015. In so doing, the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals made certain observations that support appellee's position.

First, the Court stated:

> We have little trouble concluding, as did the district court, that Baltimore intended to and did enter into contractual relationships with its teachers and police, at least upon enactment into law of the Ordinance of Estimates. Upon *201 enactment of the Ordinance [of Estimates], the City Council formally ratified the essential agreement between the City and its employees embodied in the memoranda of understanding and authorized funding for the City's obligations under those memoranda.

Id. (citations omitted) (emphasis added). In addition, the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals explained:

> [T]he Contract Clause does not ... require the courts--even where public contracts have been impaired--to sit as superlegislatures, determining, for example, whether it would have been more appropriate instead for Baltimore to close its schools for a week, an option actually considered but rejected, or to reduce funding to the arts, as [the union] argue[s] should have been [671 A.2d 97] done. Not only are we ill-equipped even to consider the evidence that would be relevant to such conflicting policy alternatives; we have no objective standards against which to assess the merit of the multitude of alternatives.

Id. at 1021-22.

[14] As the above-italicized language plainly indicates, it is not until the enactment of the Ordinance of Estimates that the City Council formally ratifies an agreement between the City and its employees. In other words, the above language makes clear that the City enters into contractual relationships with its teachers only upon enactment into law of the Ordinance of Estimates. Thus, because the Ordinance of Estimates in the instant dispute did not contain appropriations for the parity increase, there was not a final and binding agreement to increase the teachers' pay in this regard. Although we recognize that BTU deals with the constitutional issue of whether the City impaired various employment contracts under the Contract Clause--an entirely different analysis than a breach of contract claim (FN11)--much of the language in BTU is instructive here.

202 Appellant, however, argues as follows that

reliance on BTU is inappropriate:

> [Appellee] also argues that an arbitrator or court must not act as a super legislature. ... That concern is not at issue here where the relevant legislative body blessed the contractual instrument and it [sic] content. In [BTU], the Union was challenging a wage cut approved by the Board of Estimates. Here, [appellant] seeks to enforce an instrument approved by the Board of Estimates. Accord Baker v. Mayor and City Council of Baltimore, 894 F.2d 679, 682 (4th Cir.1990) (cited for the proposition that the Board has broad discretionary powers whether or not to adopt fiscal policy--not whether a policy once adopted must be enforced). [Appellant] seeks simply to enforce an official action taken by the Board of Estimates, an action never rescinded, altered or rejected later by the Board of Estimates.

The obvious retort to this assertion, of course, is that it is only "[u]pon enactment of the Ordinance [of Estimates], [that] the City Council formally ratifie[s] the essential agreement between the City and its employees embodied in the memoranda of understanding and authoriz[es] funding for the City's obligations under those memoranda." Id. at 1015.

In addition, in its reply brief and during oral argument, appellant strenuously argued that Fraternal Order of Police v. Baltimore County, 340 Md. 157, 665 A.2d 1029 (1995) (FOP)--a very recently decided case from the Court of Appeals--supports its position that a contract existed between the parties and that appellant is entitled to a remedy. We, however, find FOP to directly cut against appellant's position.

In FOP, Baltimore County entered into a collective bargaining agreement with its police officers' union for fiscal year 203 1992. Id. at 160, 665 A.2d 1029. This agreement contained a provision prohibiting the furlough of police officers during that year. Id. Subsequent to the County Executive's signing of the agreement, the County Executive submitted the budget for fiscal year 1992 to the Baltimore County Council, which enacted the budget. Id. at 161, 665 A.2d 1029. Included in the 1992 budget were appropriations for the full wages and benefits of the police officers as provided in the agreement. Id. In January 1992, despite the agreement's furlough prohibition provision, the County enacted a five-day furlough plan for all County employees, including police officers. Id. The police officers' union objected and the matter ultimately proceeded to arbitration, where the union sought reimbursement of lost wages resulting from the furlough plan. Id. Finding that the County breached the agreement, the arbitrator ordered that the police officers be reimbursed for lost wages. Id. at 162, 665 A.2d 1029. The County filed a petition in circuit court to vacate the arbitrator's[671 A.2d 98] award. Id. Among other things, the circuit court ruled that the County had impermissibly delegated its budget-making authority (including compensation-setting authority) by submitting to an arbitrator the issue of whether the County breached the agreement. Id. at 163, 665 A.2d 1029. The Court of Appeals granted certiorari before this Court heard the matter. Id. at 163-64, 665 A.2d 1029.

The Court of Appeals reversed the circuit court, holding that the arbitrator correctly determined that the County breached its contract. Id. at 164, 171, 665 A.2d 1029. In so doing, the Court recognized that the County works under an "executive budget system." Id. In many respects, the County's budget system is very similar to the City's. Under the County system, the County Executive must submit the budget to the Council for approval or disapproval of the appropriations made therein. Id. at 165, 665 A.2d 1029. Agreements between the County and its employees are made in advance of that submission and appropriations are fully subject to the County's annual budget process. Id. at 166, 665 A.2d 1029.

204 The following portion of FOP 's holding speaks directly to the central issue of the instant case:

> Simply put, there was no violation of the Charter in this case [when the arbitrator determined that the County breached its agreement and was liable to the police officers]. The County Executive and County Council exercised their appropriation function under the Charter. The annual budget enacted by the Executive and Council could have appropriated less money for police officers than the collective bargaining agreement called for and could have provided that the shortfall be made up by furloughs of police officers. If the enacted annual budget had done this, the budget provisions, and not the collective bargaining agreement's terms, would prevail under our [prior] opinions.... But the enacted annual budget for fiscal 1992 did not appropriate less money for police officers' compensation than contemplated by the collective bargaining agreement. The arbitrator's decision did not alter the amount of compensation set forth in the budget. Rather, the arbitrator determined only that the County had violated the terms of the contract which it had made, and that the County should pay to the police officers the compensation that had already been appropriated in the annual budget pursuant to the County Charter.

Id. at 171, 665 A.2d 1029 (emphasis added). The obvious import of the Court's teaching in FOP can be summed up as follows: If the final enacted budget contains the agreed upon appropriations from which compensation should have been paid, then the County or City is obligated to pay; but, if the final enacted budget contains less appropriations than were previously agreed upon, then the budget controls and the County or City is only liable up to the amount actually appropriated. In our case, appellant and appellee entered into an agreement for a wage increase, but the money to cover the wage increase was not specifically appropriated in the final enacted budget. Therefore, under FOP, there was not a final binding contract under which appellee is liable.

205 [15] Before concluding, we shall address appellant's suggestion that Section 65(b) of Article VII of the Baltimore City Charter somehow renders the wage parity agreement for fiscal year 1993 final and binding upon appellee. This provision reads, in pertinent part, as follows:

> The salaries of superintendents, assistant superintendents, directors, supervisors, assistant supervisors, principals, assistant principals, teachers, secretaries, clerks and employees shall be fixed by the Board [of School Commissioners], not to exceed in the aggregate the amount appropriated for such personnel in the Ordinance of Estimates; ... The Board [of School Commissioners], in submitting its budget each year, shall also include a maximum compensation scale for superintendents, assistant superintendents, directors, supervisors, assistant supervisors, principals, assistant principals, teachers, and all other employees ... and no increase above the maximum scale shall be made during the ensuing year without the approval of the Board of Estimates.

[671 A.2d 99] BALTIMORE CITY CHARTER, Art. VII, § 65(b) (1994) (emphasis added). (FN12) We do not believe that this provision operates in the manner in which appellant suggests. Rather, we find § 65(b) to be completely supportive of our holding. Section 65(b) makes clear that no increase in teacher salaries above the maximum scale shall be made during the ensuing fiscal year without the Board of Estimate's approval. Under AFSCME and BTU, "approval" occurs when the Board of Estimates actually includes the pay increase in the Ordinance of Estimates. Thus, because the pay increase was not included in the Ordinance of Estimates in the instant case, the Board of Estimates never formally gave its "approval" as was required under § 65(b).

Based on the foregoing, we hold that the fiscal year 1993 wage parity agreement, as embodied in the Side Letters, was 206. not a final and binding agreement. As a result, the arbitrator erred in determining that a binding and valid agreement existed between the parties. The consequence of this mistake is extremely severe. It results in the subversion of the internal governmental and political operations and procedures of appellee as set forth in the City Charter. In our opinion, this is a mistake so gross as to work manifest injustice. Consequently, the circuit court correctly determined, based on the second alternative ground, that summary judgment should be granted in favor of appellee and against appellant. We therefore affirm the circuit court's ruling in this regard.

JUDGMENT OF THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR BALTIMORE CITY AFFIRMED.

COSTS TO BE PAID BY APPELLANT.

FN1. According to appellant, "APEX (the 'State and Federal Aid to Education' statute) is codified at [MD.CODE ANN., EDUC. § 5-201]. Each year the City receives hundreds of millions of dollars in APEX monies according to the requirements set forth in the Education article. Sec[tion] 5-401(a)(2)(i) authorizes local government expenditure of 'compensatory education funds' (discretionary APEX money) in any of seven expense categories, one of them being teacher salaries."

FN2. The comparability formula was a formula by which the wages of appellee's teachers and teachers in other jurisdictions could be effectively and accurately compared.

FN3. The Opinion and Award initially states that the Agreement covered years 1988 through 1991. This, however, appears to be a mistake. The record reflects that the correct date of the Agreement is 1989-1992. The parties refer in their briefs to the 1989-1992 Agreement, and the date of the Agreement in the Record Extract is 1989-1992.

In addition, farther into the Opinion and Award, the arbitrator refers to the 1989-1992 Agreement.

FN4. Appellant points out that a one-percent pay increase would have cost appellee $2.5 million. The arbitrator recognized this when he wrote in his Opinion and Award that in a budget of $460 million for the Department of Education, "184 $2.5 million 'chunks' " may have been found to cover the pay increase.

FN5. In the event of contract disagreements between the parties, dispute resolution procedures are provided for in Article IV of the Agreement. These procedures culminate in final and binding arbitration. Apparently, it was under these provisions that appellant demanded arbitration of the matter.

FN6. We note that the "completely irrational" standard discussed in O.S. Corp. has neither been accepted nor rejected by the Court of Appeals. See Stephen L. Messersmith, Inc. v. Barclay Townhouse Assocs., 313 Md. 652, 659, 547 A.2d 1048 (1988).

FN7. Whether an arbitration award under the MUAA may be vacated for a "mistake so gross as to work manifest injustice" or for a "manifest disregard" of the law remains an open question. See Prince George's County Educators' Ass'n, 309 Md. at 105, 522 A.2d 931. See also Stephen L. Messersmith, Inc., 313 Md. at 659 n. 2, 547 A.2d 1048.

FN8. As one of many examples, the Opinion and Award reads at pages 26-27, as follows:

> As indicated, I am persuaded that the Side Letters amended a contract between the Parties. By their terms, the Side Letters constitute valid amendments. They are possessed of all the elements and formalities of a contract; and [appellee] represented to [appellant], and led it to believe, that there was a contract. I am persuaded that [appellant] had every right to require [appellee] to perform its obligations under the resulting contract. I reject [appellee's] intimations that Paragraph 3 of the [first Side Letter] did not bind the Parties to do anything. The question for interpretation is what the Side Letters obligated [appellee] to do.

FN9. When it raised the argument before the circuit court that a valid and binding contract never existed between the parties, appellee was not challenging the validity of the arbitrator's findings, even though, as we explained above, the Opinion and Award clearly reflects that the arbitrator found a valid and binding contract. Rather, appellee maintained that the arbitrator "reached the opposite conclusion" and determined that a valid and binding contract did not exist. Most probably because appellee was under this mistaken belief, appellee did not cross-appeal from the Opinion and Award, challenging the finding of a valid contract, but maintaining that the arbitrator ultimately reached the correct outcome. Nonetheless, it was within the circuit court's power to render a determination in this regard. See, e.g., C.W. Jackson & Assocs., Inc. v. Brooks, 289 Md. 658, 666-67, 426 A.2d 378 (1981) (Under the MUAA, the circuit court is an equity court empowered to adjust and determine all rights of the parties, and will ordinarily retain such power for all purposes, deciding all issues raised by the subject matter of the dispute, and awarding complete relief, even as to matters over which it would not have taken jurisdiction originally) (citing non-Uniform Arbitration Act cases). Cf., Chillum-Adelphi Volunteer Fire Dep't, 242 Md. at 517, 219 A.2d 801 ("A court does not act in an appellate capacity in reviewing the arbitration award, but enters judgment on what may be considered a contract of the parties, after it has made an independent determination that the contract should be enforced.... The trial court was exercising common law jurisdiction....") (emphasis added) (non-MUAA case).

FN11. To determine whether the government has violated the Contract Clause of the U.S. Constitution, the following must be determined: (1) whether there has been an impairment of a contract; (2) whether state law has actually operated to substantially impair a contractual relationship; and (3) whether, assuming a substantial impairment, that impairment is permissible as a legitimate exercise of the government's sovereign powers. BTU, 6 F.3d at 1015.

FN12. Section 65(b) was formerly codified as § 59(b) in the 1964 version of the Baltimore City Charter. The 1994 codification is nearly identical to the 1964 version.

for injunctive relief is denied.[10] In all other respects, plaintiff's claims for relief are denied. Plaintiff's counsel will prepare a proposed form of judgment, to be approved as to form by defendant's counsel and submitted for entry by the Court.

Wisconsin Supreme Court

CITY OF BELOIT, etc. v. WISCONSIN EMPLOYMENT RELATIONS COMMISSION; BELOIT EDUCATION ASSOCIATION and WISCONSIN EDUCATION ASSOCIATION COUNCIL v. Same, Nos. 75-105 and 75-106, June 2, 1976

STATE PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT RELATIONS ACTS

—Teachers — Evaluation procedures—Subject for bargaining—Wisconsin Act ▶ 100.02

Teacher evaluation procedures is mandatory subject of bargaining between teachers association and board of education under Wisconsin Municipal Employment Relations Act (SLL 60:243), since procedures relate to teachers' rights to have notice of and input into procedures that affect their job security.

—Teachers — Files and records — Subjects for bargaining — Wisconsin Act ▶ 100.02

Scope of teachers' files and records kept for purposes of teacher evaluation or continued employment and right of teacher access to files and records are mandatory subjects of bargaining between teachers association and board of education under Wisconsin Municipal Employment Relations Act (SLL 60:243), since such matters relate primarily to teachers' wages, hours, and conditions of employment.

—Teachers — Non-renewal of contract—'Just cause'—Subjects for bargaining—Wisconsin Act ▶ 100.02

Establishment of "just cause" standard for non-renewal of teachers' contracts is mandatory subject of bargaining between teachers association and board of education under Wisconsin Municipal Employment Relations Act (SLL 60:243), despite board's contention that Wisconsin statute requiring board to give teachers annual notice of renewal or nonrenewal of contracts is inconsistent with requirement of mandatory bargaining; setting of minimum procedure for notice and hearing before board may decide not to rehire teacher does not limit or negate right of teachers to bargain collectively on matters primarily related to teachers' wages, hours, and conditions of employment.

—Teachers — Layoffs — Subjects for bargaining — Wisconsin Act ▶ 100.02

Teacher layoffs in inverse order of appointment of teachers as result of decrease in student population is mandatory subject of bargaining between teachers association and board of education under Wisconsin Municipal Employment Relations Act (SLL 60:243), since such matters primarily relate to teachers' wages, hours, and conditions of employment and do not invade board's right to determine curriculum and to retain, in case of layoff, teachers qualified to teach particular subjects in curriculum.

—Teachers — 'Problem students' — Subjects for bargaining — Wisconsin Act ▶ 100.02

Misbehavior of "problem students" that presents physical threat to teacher safety is mandatory subject of bargaining between teachers association and board of education under Wisconsin Municipal Employment Relations Act (SLL 60:243), since such matter primarily relates to teachers' wages, hours, and conditions of employment. However, referral of problem students for counseling is not mandatory subject of bargaining.

—Teachers — School calendar — In-service training — Subjects for bargaining—Wisconsin Act ▶ 100.02

School calendar and number of in-service training days during school year are mandatory subjects of bargaining between teachers association and board of education under Wisconsin Municipal Employment Relations Act (SLL 60:243), since such matters primarily relate to teachers' wages, hours, and conditions of employment. Board need only bargain in good faith with respect to proposals and need not reach agreement with respect to particular proposal.

—Teachers — Impact of class size —Subjects for bargaining—Wisconsin Act ▶ 100.02

Impact of class size is mandatory subject of bargaining between teachers association and board of education under Wisconsin Municipal Employment Relations Act (SLL 60:243), since class size has impact upon teachers' wages, hours, and conditions of employment.

—Assistance to teachers having professional problems — Subjects for bargaining—Wisconsin Act ▶ 100.02

Teachers association's proposal for training assistance to teachers having professional problems is not mandatory subject of bargaining under Wisconsin Municipal Employment Relations Act (SLL 60:243), even though such assistance is related to teachers' continued employment or promotion, since it primarily relates to "management and direction" of school system.

Text of Statement of Facts

The Beloit Education Association, the exclusive collective bargaining agent for school teachers in the Beloit city school system, and the Beloit City School Board were parties to a collective bargaining agreement which expired on August 24, 1973. On February 8, 1973, the parties began negotiating a successor contract. The negotiations continued until April 25, 1973. On that date the board filed a petition with the Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission, seeking a declaratory ruling under sec. 111.70(4)(b), Stats., as to whether certain proposals submitted by the Beloit Education association were mandatory subjects of collective bargaining under sec. 111.70(1)(d)., Stats. The subjects on which such declaratory ruling was sought were as follows:

(1) the manner in which supervision and evaluation of teachers will be conducted.

(2) the structure and maintenance and availability to teachers of school district files and records,

(3) right of representation prior to reprimand, warning or discipline,

(4) whether or not "just cause" shall be the standard applied in ilmitation of the Board's actions with respect to renewal of individual teachers contracts,

(5) the procedure and order of preference to be utilized in event of teacher layoffs,

(6) the treatment and disposition of problem students.

(7) class size,

(8) type and extent of in-service training to be conducted,

(9) the type and extent of reading program to be utilized,

(10) the establishment and structure of summer programs,

(11) the school calendar.

On September 11, 1974, following a hearing, the Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission issued a declaratory ruling finding certain subject matters to be matters for mandatory collective bargaining, and certain others not to be such. On September 23, 1974, the Beloit Education Association moved for reconsideration of the ruling, and, in response thereto, certain changes were made in the commission's ruling. Both parties filed petitions for review with the circuit court. On March 31, 1975, 89 LRRM 2052, the circuit court modified the ruling of the commission and affirmed the ruling, as modified. From this judgment both parties have appealed.

ROBERT W. HANSEN, Justice:— This is an appeal by a school board and by a teachers' association from a circuit court judgment. That judgment modified and affirmed a ruling of the state employment relations commission. That ruling declared the rights of the school board as employer and of the teachers' association as collective bargaining agent under sec. 111.70(1)(d), Stats.

THE STATUTE. This statute (sec. 111.70(1)(d), Stats.), establishing the right of "collective bargaining" in the public sector in this state, provides as follows:

"(d) 'Collective bargaining' means the performance of the mutual obligation of a municipal employer, through its officers and agents, and the representatives of its employes, to meet and confer at reasonable times, in good faith, with respect to wages, hours and conditions of employment with the intention of reaching an agreement, or to resolve questions arising under such an agreement. The duty to bargain, however, does not compel either party to agree to a proposal or require the making of a concession. Collective bargaining includes the reduction of any agreement reached to a written and signed document. The employer shall not be required to bargain on subjects reserved to management and direction of the governmental unit except insofar as the manner of exercise of such functions affects the wages, hours and conditions of employment of the employees. In creating this subchapter the legislature recognizes that the public employer must exercise its powers and responsibilities to act for the government and good order of the municipality, its commercial benefit and the health, safety and welfare of the public to assure orderly operations and functions within its jurisdiction, subject to those rights secured to public employes by the constitutions of this state and of the United States and by this subchapter." [Emphasis supplied.]

THE LIMITS. As to collective bargaining in the public sector, the italicized portions of the statute establish three categories: (1) Where collective bargaining is required; (2) where collective bargaining is permitted, but not required; and (3) where collective bargaining agreements are prohibited.[1] The obligation of the public employer to "meet and confer" and its right to agree to a policy in a "written and signed document" extends only to matters of "wages, hours and conditions of employment." Beyond such limit is the area of "subjects reserved to management and direction of the governmental unit," where the public employer may, but is not required, to "meet and confer" and may, but is not required, to agree in a "written and signed document." Beyond such limit of voluntary bargaining is the area involving the exercise of the public employer's "powers and responsibilities to act for the . . . good order of the municipality, its commercial benefit and the health, safety and welfare of the public." Here the proper forum for the determination of the appropriate public policy is not the closed session at the bargaining table. More than the bilateral input of the public employer and the employees' bargaining agent is required for deciding the appropriate public policy. Here the multilateral input of employer, employees, taxpayers, citizen groups and individual citizens is an integral part of the decision-reaching process, and bargaining sessions are not to replace public meetings of public bodies in the determination of the appropriate policy.

THE PARTIES. Here we deal with collective bargaining between a local school board and a teachers' association. Both board and association are involved, not only in the collective bargaining process as statutorily defined,[2] but also in the political process as constitutionally assured.[3] The school board is an employer under the statute,[4] and it is also a public body of elected officials with powers and duties for the operation of the school system in the public interest.[5] As such employer, it must bilaterally "meet and confer" and may agree in a "written and signed document" as to matters involving "wages, hours and conditions of employment." As such public body and as to matters of school management and educational policy, it cannot be required to collectively bargain with the collective bargaining agent for its employees. The teachers' association here is a collective bargaining agent under the statute,[6] and also a professional association of teachers concerned with matters of school system management and educational policy.[7] As such bargaining agent the association can collectively bargain with the board as to matters of "wages, hour and conditions of employment." As professional association it may also be heard as to matters of school and educational policies, but it makes such contribution or input along with other groups and individuals similarly concerned.[8]

THE PROBLEM. The difficulty encountered in interpreting and applying sec. 111.70(1)(d), Stats., is that many subject areas relate to "wages, hours and conditions of employment," but not only to such area of concern. Many such subjects also have a relatedness to matters of educational policy and school management and operation. What then is the result if a matter involving "wages, hours and conditions of employment" also relates to educational policy or school administration? An illustration is the matter of classroom size, subsequently discussed. The number of pupils in a classroom has an obvious relatedness to a "condition of employment" for the teacher in such classroom. But the question of optimum classroom size can also be a matter of educational policy. And if a demand for lowered classroom size were to require the construction of a new school building for the reduced-in-size classes, relatedness to management and direction of the school system is obvious. Would such required result of a new building not be a matter on which groups involved, beyond school board and teachers' association, are entitled to have their say and input? Other courts have faced this same problem. Some limit required bargaining to matters "directly" related to "wages, hours and conditions of employment."[9] Some make the test whether the subject matter is "significantly" related to "wages, hours and conditions of employment."[10] Some make the test whether the subject "materially" affects the working conditions.[11] Commentators appear to agree that drawing the line or making the distinction is not easy.[12]

THE CONSTRUCTION. The state employment relations commission was petitioned to determine by declaratory ruling which of various proposals for bargaining were mandatorily bargainable. It responded by initially concluding that only subject matters that were primarily related to wages or hours or conditions of employment were mandatorily bargainable.[13] As to such matters, the school board was required to "meet and confer" and collectively bargain as to demands of the teachers' association. This construction of the statute was upheld as reasonable by the reviewing court. We agree. The dictionary defines "primarily" as meaning "fundamentally."[14] It is in this sense of the word that "primarily" is here used. What is fundamentally or basically or essentially a matter involving "wages, hours and conditions of employment" is, under the statute, a matter that is required to be bargained. The commission construed the statute to require mandatory bargaining as to (1) matters which are primarily related to "wages, hours and conditions of employment," and (2) the impact of the "establishment of educational policy" affecting the "wages, hours and conditions of employment." We agree with that construction.

It means only that the bargaining table is the wrong forum and the collective agreement is the wrong instrument. . . . [N]o organization should purport to act as an exclusive representative; the discussions should not be closed; and the decision should not be bargained for or solidified as an agreement. In addition, all of the ordinary political processes should remain open for individuals or groups of teachers to make their views known to the politically responsible officials and thus to infuence the decision."

THE APPLICATION. Having adopted the "primarily so" test as to the matters where mandatory bargaining is required by the statute, the commission proceeded to apply that test to a variety of the teachers' association demands submitted to the commission for testing. That was correct for we have here a case-by-case approach to specific situations. There was no attempt by the commission and there is none by this court to develop broad and sweeping rules that are to apply across the board to all situations.[15] As did the commission and the reviewing court, we will now proceed to discuss the application of the "primarily so" test to each of the subject areas claimed by the teachers' association to be appropriate subjects for required bargaining.

(A) TEACHER EVALUATION. A series of proposals relating to teacher evaluation were submitted to the school board by the teachers' association as appropriate subjects for required bargaining. As to two of them, (1) who were to evaluate teacher performance, and (2) assistance to teachers whose evaluations were poor, the commission held that they did not primarily involve "wages, hours and conditions of employment." As to the others,[16] involving procedures to be used in evaluation, the commission held that they did primarily relate to "wages, hours and conditions of employment." The circuit court affirmed these holdings. Obviously the area of teacher evaluation relates to "management and direction" as well as to "wages, hours and conditions of employment." However, as to the procedures followed, these matters go to the right of teachers to have notice and input into procedures that affect their job security. On the record that was before it, we uphold the conclusions reached by the commission as to teacher evaluation procedures being mandatorily bargainable.[17]

(B) TEACHER FILES. The teachers' association suggested as required bargaining matters certain proposals concerning teacher files and records.[18] The commission found these proposals to relate primarily to "wages, hours and conditions of employment," with bargaining required. The commission incorporated the rationale of its holding as to teacher evaluation, and the reviewing court affirmed, holding the purpose of keeping teacher files to be "for the purpose of evaluating teachers and may well affect their continued employment." Once again it is clear that the proposals relate to "management and direction" as well as to "wages, hours and conditions of employment." However, the trial court noted that the proposals go only to those complaints or files which have effect on evaluation or continued employment. So limited, the scope of a teacher's personnel file and the right of teacher access to it would appear to relate primarily to "wages, hours and conditions of employment." At least, on the record before us, we affirm the commission holding as to teacher files and records.

(C) JUST CAUSE STANDARD. The

(1975), 461 Pa. 494, 337 A.2d 262, 265, 90 LRRM 2081, the court holding: "We also recognize the wisdom of refraining from attempting to fashion broad and general rules that would serve as a panacea. The obviously wiser course is to resolve disputes on a case-by-case basis until we develop, through experience in the area, a sound basis for developing overall principles."

16 The proposals can be summarized as follows: "Teacher Supervision and Evaluation (1) Orientation of new teachers as to evaluative procedures and techniques, (2) Length of observation period and openness of observation, (3) Number and frequency of observations, (4) Copies of observation reports and conferences regarding same, and teachers' objections to evaluations, and (5) Notification of complaints made by parents, students and others."

17 Clark County School Dist. v. Local Government Employee Management Rel Bd., supra, footnote 10, using the "significantly related" test, stating: ". . . the evaluation of a teacher's performance is significantly related to a teacher's working conditions inasmuch as the evaluation affects transfer, retention, promotion and the compensation scale."

18 The proposals can be summarized as follows: "Teacher Files and Records (1) Review of personal files and copies of contents therein, and entitlement to representation at such review, (2) Identification of obsolete matters in teacher files, and if obsolete, or otherwise inappropriate to retain, the same shall be destroyed, (3) Prior review of derogatory material and right to submit written answer thereto, the latter to be included in personal file, (4) Conclusion of final evaluation prior to severance, and exclusion of material, received after severance or following receipt of notice or resignation or notice of 'consideration of nonrenewal' from teacher files, (5) Limitation on establishment of more than one file per teacher, and (6) Notification, in writing, to teacher of alleged delinquencies, indication of expected correction, and time period therefor, as well as notification of breaches of discipline, and, where possibility of termination exists, notification thereof to Beloit Education Association."

teachers' association claimed bargaining was required under the statute as to its proposals regarding the "just cause standard" for disciplinary action against teachers.[19] The commission held that these "just cause" proposals primarily relate to "wages, hours and conditions of employment," and mandated bargaining. The trial court affirmed this holding. As to this holding the school board does not challenge the requirement of bargaining as to a just cause for dismissal. Instead it challenges the bargainability of renewal or nonrenewal of a teacher's contract. Outside of Milwaukee county where teachers have tenure,[20] the state statute provides that, on or before March 15 of each year, the school board "shall give the teacher written notice of renewal or refusal to renew his contract."[21] While there are restrictions on the right to renew,[22] the school board contends that this statute is not consistent with required bargaining as to renewal or nonrenewal of teacher contracts. The trial court found no conflict, finding the only effect of the "written notice" statute to be that "no labor agreement can alter the dates on which notice of nonrenewal is to be given, or any of its other terms." (Absent notice of nonrenewal, the contract renews itself.) We agree that such setting of a minimum procedure for notice and hearing, before a school board can decide not to rehire a teacher, does not limit or negative the right, also granted by the legislature, to teachers to collectively bargain in areas primarily related to "wages, hours and conditions of employment."[23] On the facts before it the commission was entitled to hold that the proposals relating to the "just cause standard" were mandatorily bargainable.

(D) TEACHER LAYOFFS. The teachers' association submitted certain proposals in the field of teacher layoffs as mandatorily bargainable items.[24] As to a decrease in the number of teachers "by reason of a substantial decrease of pupil population," the association's proposal was that such layoffs be "only in the inverse order of the appointment of such teachers."[25] While the commission held all of the teacher layoff proposals to primarily relate to "wages, hours and conditions of employment," it is the proposal for seniority in case of layoffs that was challenged on review and is challenged on this appeal. The school board claims an impingement on the right of the board to determine what programs will be reduced and what staff qualifications are needed. The trial court held that nothing in the association proposal, as worded, went to what school programs were to be reduced or eliminated in case of layoff due to a decrease in pupil population. To the suggestion that "a more senior Fourth Grade athletic teacher must displace a less senior Twelfth Grade physics teacher," the trial court responded that "such an absurd result was not required." While terming it a clarification, it then modified the commission holding to require that "a reasonable clarification to that effect be inserted in the collective bargaining agreement if proposed by the School Board." As so clarified and modified, the proposals stop well short of invading the school board's

19 The "just cause" proposals can be summarized as follows: "Just Cause Standard (1) A just cause basis prior to discharge, nonrenewal, suspension, discipline, reprimand, reduction in rank or compensation, or deprivation of any professional advantage, (2) Permissible suspension with pay, (3) Charges forwarded to School Board, and copies thereof to suspended teacher, Association president, and chairman of Grievance Committee, by certified mail, and (4) Hearing on charges, together with appeal procedures."

Distinguishing Adamczyk v. Caledonia (1971), 52 Wis.2d 270, 190 N.W.2d 137, handed down prior to the enactment of sec. 111.70(1)(d), Stats., and involving "a personal employment contract rather than a collective bargaining agreement enacted in accordance with sec. 111.70, Stats."

24 The teacher layoff proposals can be summarized as follows: "Teacher Layoffs (1) The basis for layoffs, (1) Order of recall, (3) Qualification for recall, (4) Non-loss of previous service credits, and (5) No new or substitute appointments while qualified teachers are in layoff status."

25 The actual proposal states in part: "If necessary to decrease the number of teachers by reason of a substantial decrease of pupil population . . . [the employer] may lay off the necessary number of teachers, but only in the inverse order of the appointment of such teachers."

right to determine the curriculum,[26] and to retain, in case of layoff, teachers qualified to teach particular subjects in such curriculum. As so limited and modified, the proposal, we hold, is one primarily related to "wages, hours and conditions of employment," and hence required to be bargained.

(E) PROBLEM STUDENTS. The teachers association submitted as proper subjects for mandated bargaining a number of proposals involving "problem students."[27] The commission found the proposals to be "ambiguous" and divided them into two categories of student misbehavior: (1) Misbehavior that does not involve threats to physical safety (of the teachers); and (2) misbehavior of students that presents a physical threat to the teacher's safety. It then held that the first category was not mandatorily bargainable, and that the second was. The reviewing court continued this sharp distinction, upholding the commission ruling that held the portions of the association's proposals that were required bargaining subjects to be confined "strictly to student misbehavior involving physical threats to the teacher's safety." The trial court also noted a particular association proposal dealing with referral of problem students for needed counseling.[28] The trial court held that this proposal did not primarily relate to "wages, hours and conditions of employment," and held it not to be mandatorily bargainable. With the limitations set by the commission and the modification made by the reviewing court, we affirm the holding that the proposals as to the problem students who present a physical threat to teacher safety are primarily related to "wages, hours and conditions of employment," and are required by the statute to be bargained.

(F) SCHOOL CALENDAR. The teachers' association suggested the school calendar as a required bargaining topic.[29] The commission ruled that "all aspects of the school calendar" were mandatorily bargainable. The reviewing court affirmed this holding, adding that "all that is required of the employer in collective bargaining is to bargain in good faith with respect to proposals submitted by the collective bargaining agent of the employees. An agreement with respect to a particular proposal is not required." The school board challenges this finding of bargainability, relying heavily upon the case, decided prior to the enactment of sec. 111.70(1)(d), Stats., in which our court held that a school board ". . . need neither surrender its discretion in determining calendar policy nor come to an agreement in the collective-bargaining sense."[30] However, subsequently, our court has held: "The school calendar and in-service days are subject to negotiation with the bargaining agent under sec. 111.70(2), Stats."[31] Given this applicable ruling by this court, we affirm the trial court holding that, while the school board cannot be required to agree or concede to an association demand as to calendar days, it is required to meet, confer and bargain as to any calendaring proposal that is primarily related to "wages, hours and conditions of employment."

(G) IN-SERVICE TRAINING. A variety of proposals regarding teach-

Subjects to study are within the scope of basic educational policy and additionally are not related to wages, hours and conditions of employment."

27 The proposals as to problem students can be summarized as follows: "Problem Students (1) Referral of problem students to specialized personnel and others, (2) Relief of teacher responsibility with respect to problem students, (3) Consent of teacher to whom problem student is assigned, (4) Exclusion of problem student from classroom, report thereof, and consultation prior to return to classroom, (5) Teacher self-protection and report of action taken, and (6) Liability insurance coverage and compensation resulting in absence from duty from injuries in performance of teaching and related duties, with no deduction from accumulated sick leave."

28 The particular proposal was as follows: ". . . . Whenever it appears that a particular pupil requires the attention of special counselors, special teachers, social workers, law enforcement personnel, physicians or other professional persons, such students shall be referred to that particular person."

29 The association's original proposals raised the subject of school calendar, but no specific proposal was made.

Board, supra, footnote 26, at page 494, 155 N.W.2d at page 83, this court also stating: "If the school calendar was subject to collective bargaining in the conventional sense in which that term is used in industrial labor relations under sec. 111.02(5), Stats., there would be merit to the argument of the school board that its legislative function is being delegated or surrendered and thus the calendar could not constitutionally be a subject of negotiation although it fell within the broad terms of the statute."

31 Board of Education v. WERC (1971), 52 Wis.2d 625, 633, 634, 191 N.W.2d 242, 246, 78 LRRM 3040, 3042, this court also holding: "Likewise educational conventions, and whether they are to be considered in-service or school days, and questions of compensation for such days are, we believe, within the statutorily defined area of negotiation on 'wages, hours and conditions of employment.'" er in-service training were submitted by the teachers' association as proper subjects for required bargaining.[32] With a single exception all such proposals were held by the commission not to primarily relate to "wages, hours and conditions of employment," and, therefore, not to be subject matters where bargaining is required.[33] The single exception and the only proposal in this area held to be mandatorily bargainable was the one regarding: "The number of in-service days during the school year and the day of the week such days will fall." The trial court held this proposal to be a matter of calendaring, and to be governed by the holding, heretofore upheld, as to calendar day proposals being mandatorily bargainable. We agree, noting that the decision of this court making the school calendar subject to negotiation included "in-service days" in its holding.[34] On the record before it the commission was entitled to hold the "in-service days" proposal mandatorily bargainable.

(H) CLASSROOM SIZE. The teachers' association submitted to the commission as a subject matter requiring mandated bargaining a proposal concerning class size.[35] The commission, on the evidence before it, concluded that the size of a class is not primarily a matter of "wages, hours and conditions of employment" but is primarily a matter of basic educational policy.[36] Therefore, it concluded, "decisions on class size are permissive and not mandatory subjects of bargaining." The trial court affirmed this holding, stating that, on the basis of the evidence before it, the commission could conclude that a school board's prerogatives in making educational policy include the power to decide that class size does affect the quality of education and to set class size accordingly. The commission also held that the size of a class has an impact upon conditions of employment of teachers.[37] So it concluded that: "While the School Board has the right to unilaterally establish class size, it nevertheless has the duty to bargain the impact of the class size, as it affects hours, conditions of employment and salaries." The reviewing court also affirmed this commission holding that, while class size was not bargainable, the impact of class size upon "wages, hours and conditions of employment" was mandatorily bargainable. We affirm the trial court holding, agreeing that the commission was warranted in reaching the conclusions it did.

(I) READING PROGRAM. The teachers' association claimed that its proposal as to a school reading program was a matter that required bargaining.[38] The commission held that the association's proposal on "reading" related primarily to educational policy,[39] and not to "wages, 32 The in-service training proposals included: "The afternoon of the third Thursday of each month will be designated as in-service day," if the third Thursday of any given month falls on a holiday or during a vacation, another appropriate day will be substituted. The calendar for in-service days will be structured jointly by representatives of the association and the central administration. Although the in-service program will be planned to make maximum use of staff talents, outside consultants may be required. In such cases, the board agrees to pay the reasonable costs of said consultants provided that the cost does not exceed $1,000 (one thousand dollars). The time of in-service will be 12:00-4:00. Adequate time for lunch will be provided."

33 The WERC memorandum stated: "However, we conclude that the type of programs to be held on such days, and the participants therein are not subjects to mandatory bargaining, since we are satisfied that such programs and the participants therein have only a minor impact on working conditions, as compared to the impact on educational policy."

34 Board of Education v. WERC, supra, footnote 31, at page 633, 191 N.W.2d 242, 78 LRRM 3040.

35 The proposal as to class size was as follows: "Because the pupil-teacher ratio is an important aspect of an effective educational program, the Board agrees that class size should be lowered wherever possible to meet the optimum standards of one (1) to twenty-five (25). Exceptions may be allowed in traditional large group instruction or experimental classes, where the Association has agreed in writing to exceed this standard."

36 The WERC memorandum stated: "The size of a class is a matter of basic educational policy because there is very strong evidence that the student-teacher ratio is a determinant of educational quality. Therefore, decisions on class size are permissive and not mandatory subjects of bargaining."

37 Id., continuing: "On the other hand, the size of the class affects the conditions of employment of teachers. The larger the class, the greater the teacher's work load, e.g., more preparation, more papers to correct, more work projects to supervise, the probability of more disciplinary problems, etc."

38 The proposal as to a reading program was as follows: "The Board and the Association agree that each child shall have the opportunity to enhance and expand reading skills necessary to allow a child to reach his optimum reading expectancy level. Therefore the Board agrees to assess the reading achievement and the native ability of each child annually. These figures shall be made available to the Association. The necessary staff, materials, and programs shall be furnished for the child found to be one or more years below his optimum reading expectancy level, to remedy his reading deficit."

39 The WERC memorandum stated: "It is clear to the Commission that the Association's proposal on 'reading' relates primarily to basic educational policy, and therefore hours and conditions of employment." It concluded that such proposal was subject to voluntary or permissive bargaining, but that bargaining as to it was not required. The trial court affirmed this holding. The commission further held that: "If a reading program is established, which involves teachers, the impact of the same upon their wages, hours and working conditions, is a subject of mandatory bargaining." This commission ruling was not challenged on appeal, and is here set forth in the interest of completeness. We see no basis upon which it could be successfully challenged.

(J) SUMMER SCHOOL. The teachers' association sought to have declared mandatorily bargainable its proposals for the initiation of a summer school program.[40] The commission held that such proposal for initiating a summer school program related primarily to basic educational policy, and did not primarily relate to "wages, hours and conditions of employment." Therefore it concluded the proposals for a summer school were subject to permissive, but not mandatory bargaining. However the commission also held, should the school board determine unilaterally to establish a summer school session, "matters relating to wages, hours and working conditions of teachers participating in a summer school session, are subject to mandatory bargaining." This holding by the commission is not challenged by either party on appeal, and is set forth, this being an action for declaring of rights, in the interests of completeness. We find it to be entirely correct as a conclusion of law.

(K) ASSISTANCE TO TEACHERS. The teachers' association urged that the commission find mandatorily bargainable its proposals for assistance to teachers having professional difficulties.[41] The commission declined so to do, holding instead that the proposals for teacher assistance primarily related to the management of the school system, and were not primarily or even significantly related to "wages, hours and conditions of employment." In explaining its reasons for so concluding, the commission stated in its memorandum: ". . . the proposals involving . . . assistance to teachers having professional difficulties, and the techniques to be employed in dealing with teachers found to be suffering professional difficulties, reflect efforts to determine management techniques rather than 'conditions of employment.' As such, they are not subjects of mandatory bargaining." The trial court affirmed this holding. While such assistance to teachers having professional difficulties is not unrelated to their continued employment or promotion, it is evident that the primary relatedness is to the "management and direction" of the school system. On the record before it the commission acted properly in so concluding.

THE STANDARD. As its standard of review for the commission rulings, the trial court held that standard to be ". . . whether each ruling constitutes a rational interpretation of sec. 111.70(1)(d), Stats." The trial court held that it is ". . . only when the interpretation by the administrative agency is an irrational one that a reviewing court does not defer to it."[42] It is certainly true, as the trial court observed, that the general rule in this state is that ". . . the construction and interpretation of a statute adopted by the administrative agency charged by the legislature with the duty of applying it concerns a matter subject to permissive, but not mandatory bargaining. The need for such a program is essentially a determination of whether the District should direct itself toward certain educational goals."

40 The proposals for a summer program included in relevant part: (1) That a summer program be initiated; (2) that a maximum of ten teachers be employed for a period of one month at a total salary cost of $10,000; (3) that all other teachers involved receive six credits on the salary schedule; (4) all students participating to do so free of charge; (5) federal grants or aid be applied for when and if possible; (6) that the program be under the direction of the director of curriculum; and (7) that the summer workshop be for one month with hours of 8-12 and 1-4.

41 The teacher assistance proposals were as follows: "1. Definite positive assistance shall be immediately provided to teachers upon recognition of 'professional difficulties.' . . . 2. Beginning immediately with the conference after the classroom observation, specific appropriate direction shall be offered to guide the individual toward the solution of his particular professional problem. Suggested actions shall include at least three of the following: (a) Demonstration in an actual classroom situation (b) Direction of the teacher toward a model for emulation, allowing opportunities for observation (c) Initiation of conferences with evaluator, teacher and area coordinator or department chairmen to plan positive moves toward improvement of professional classroom performance (d) Guidance for the teacher toward professional growth workshops (e) Observation, continued and sustained, by the evaluator to note the day-to-day lessons and their interrelationships (f) Maintenance and expansion of the collection of professional literature with assigned reading, designed to suggest possible solutions to indentified problems."

is entitled to great weight."[43] However, as this court has made clear, the rule that great weight is to be given and any rational basis will sustain the practical interpretation of the agency charged with enforcement of a statute ". . . does not apply unless the administrative practice is long continued, substantially uniform and without challenge by governmental authorities and courts."[44] In this petition for declaratory rulings, addressed to the state employment relations commission, we have very nearly questions of first impression raised concerning the areas of mandatory bargaining between a school board and a teachers' association under sec. 111.70(1)(d), Stats.[45] Given this situation, we would hold, quoting a very recent case, that ". . . this court is not bound by the interpretation given to a statute by an administrative agency. Nevertheless, that interpretation has great bearing on the determination as to what the appropriate construction should be."[46] It is such "great bearing" of "due weight" standard, not the "any rational basis" test, that we find here applicable. However we here hold that the applicability of such higher standard does not affect the validity of the reviewing court's upholding of the rulings of the commission. The commission's holdings were conclusions of law. We find that, under either standard of review, due weight or great weight, the holdings of the employment relations commission met either test on judicial review.

THE EVIDENCE. As to each ruling or conclusion of law reached by the employment relations commission, the trial court and this court have upheld each such holding as sufficiently supported by the evidence in the record before the commission. The teachers' association attacks the evidence admitted as part of that record, specifically contending that the admission and use of certain book and magazine articles offered by the school board was improper. The claim is that such evidence, admitted over objection, was (1) hearsay, (2) without foundation having been laid, (3) inadmissible as opinion evidence, (4) admitted without opportunity to cross-examine the authors of the articles, and (5) irrelevant and immaterial. The articles objected to referred to many of the subjects involved in the commission's ruling. The exhibits challenged were copies of articles that appeared in various educational journals on these subjects. We hold that they were properly admitted. The employment relations commission has broad discretion as to what evidence it can consider. The applicable statute provides that: "Agencies may take official notice of any generally recognized fact or any established technical or scientific fact; but parties shall be notified either before or during hearing or by full reference in preliminary reports or otherwise, of the facts so noticed, and they shall be afforded an opportunity to contest the validity of the official notice." [Emphasis supplied.][47] With notice given as to admission of the articles and that they would be considered by the commission, we would find the "notified during hearing" provisions of the statute here complied with. In any event, with this a petition for a declaring of rights under a statute, we find no error committed by the commission or prejudice established to the Beloit Education Association. Here the commission set forth the proposals of the association and, in its findings and conclusions, moved directly from such proposals to determining whether each proposal related primarily to "wages, hours and conditions of employment" so that bargaining was required. As the trial court held: "The test of whether a finding is supported by substantial evidence is whether the evidence supporting the finding is such that a reasonable man could accept the same to support the conclusion made."[48] And, exactly as the trial court concluded, "[U]nder this test the questioned finding needs no evidentiary facts to support it other than the wording of the Association's proposal to which this finding relates." The state employment relations commission was asked for a declaratory ruling as to whether each or all of various proposals were subjects of mandatory bargaining. The commission examined each such proposal and ruled as to whether it was a subject of required bargaining under sec. 111.70(1)(d) Stats. Its holdings or conclusions as to each have been modified in part and, as modified, affirmed by the circuit court and again affirmed for reversal in the procedures followed by the commission and upheld on judicial review.

Judgment affirmed.

YONKERS SCHOOL DIST. v. TEACHERS

New York Court of Appeals

In the Matter of BOARD OF EDUCATION, YONKERS CITY SCHOOL DISTRICT v. YONKERS FEDERATION OF TEACHERS, et al., No. 278, July 1, 1976

ARBITRATION

—Teachers — Reduction in staff — Job-seniority clause—Financial emergency—Arbitrability ▶ 100.07 ▶ 100.35

Board of education may be compelled to arbitrate grievance of teachers federation arising from board's termination, because of city's severe financial crisis, of some teachers covered by collective bargaining contract providing that no person in bargaining unit be terminated due to budgetary reasons or abolition of programs during life of contract, despite contention that contract's job security provision is invalid as contrary to public policy. (1) Public employer is free to bargain voluntarily about job security and also free, under contractual provisions, to submit to arbitration disputes about job security; (2) provision in contract guaranteeing public employees job security for reasonable period of time is not prohibited by any statute or controlling decisional law and is not contrary to public policy; and (3) no merit is found in board's contention that New York State Financial Emergency Act evinces legislative determination of public policy that job abolition must be permitted, since Act provides that it should not be construed to impair right of employees to bargain collectively and specifies that primary recourse must be had to attrition to effect any reduction in work force.

James R. Sandner, David N. Stein, and Thomas C. Greble, New York, N.Y., for appellant.

Eugene J. Fox, Corporation Counsel (William N. Carroll, of counsel), Yonkers, N.Y., for respondent.

William H. Englander and Robert E. Sapir, Yonkers, N.Y., for Levittown UFSD, amicus curiae.

Full Text of Opinion

BREITEL, Chief Judge:—This appeal, in arbitration, involves a so-called "job security" clause in a collective agreement between a public employer and public employees. The Yonkers City Board of Education, because of the City's severe financial stringency, terminated the services of some teachers covered by the "job security" clause. The Yonkers City School District is not "independent" but receives its funds from the City of Yonkers.

The teachers' union demanded arbitration under the collective agreement and the board brought this proceeding to stay arbitration (CPLR art. 75). Supreme Court granted the stay and declared the job security provision invalid as contrary to public policy. The Appellate Division affirmed and the teachers' union appeals.

The issue is whether a public employer is free to bargain voluntarily about job security and also free, under the collective agreement's provisions, to submit to arbitration disputes about job security.

There should be a reversal. A provision in a collective bargaining guaranteeing public employees job security for a reasonable period of time is not prohibited by any statute or controlling decisional law and is not contrary to public policy. Hence, the board of education was free to bargain voluntarily about job security and was also, therefore, free to agree

SUBJECT: Bill 1-00, Inspector General – Extension

The Committee had before it the memorandum and attachments from Senior Legislative Attorney Faden, dated February 24, 2000, and a memorandum from County Executive Duncan, dated February 23, 2000.

ACTION: Recommended approval of the following technical amendments:

Insert on page ©4 of the Committee's packet, at the end of the first sentence of § 2-151(g)(1), line 62, the following sentence: The term of each employee should be coterminous with the Inspector General's term unless the Inspector General specifies a different term when appointing the employee.

Insert the following language on page ©8 of the Committee's packet, line 156, and renumber current paragraph (3): (3) The Inspector General may administer an oath or affirmation or take an affidavit from any person as necessary to perform the Inspector General's duties.

Reviewed the proposed amendments contained in the County Executive's memorandum.

Recommended on page ©2 of the Committee packet, lines 10 and 11, the addition of the word and between the words "waste" and "abuse," and the deletion of the words [[and management]]; and on page ©8, in renumbered paragraph (4), the deletion of the following words: [[or other mismanagement]]. Councilmember Praisner noted that the term "mismanagement" is subsumed in the words "fraud, waste, and abuse" which precede the word "mismanagement in both instances."

Recommended approval of the changes to the term and qualifications of the Inspector General as contained in the bill on page ©3.

Reviewed the language on page ©4, lines 69-76, concerning legal services to be provided by the County Attorney and responsibilities of the County Attorney when the Inspector General requests special counsel.

In connection with lines 108-109 of the bill, discussed the intent of the Inspector General to uphold the objective of complying with applicable generally accepted government auditing standards. Recommended the deletion on page ©6, lines 108-109, of the words [[When appropriate, the Inspector General should comply with generally accepted government auditing standards.]] Agreed to add appropriate language in another section of the bill to indicate that the goal is to comply with applicable generally accepted government auditing standards.

On page ©6, after (k)(2), agreed to insert the following language: The Inspector General may keep any report or information gathered for use in any report confidential until the report is final. Requested that Mr. Faden revise the language as appropriate to make certain that it would apply to "work plan items" as well as reports.

In connection with the issues raised in the County Executive's memorandum concerning §(l)(1) of the bill, agreed on the need to pursue at a later date issues regarding the availability of personnel information to the Inspector General, and whether the concept of Executive privilege applies to the Inspector General.

Agreed with the language on page ©7 that gives the Inspector General authority to issue subpoenas and administer oaths.

Recommended approval of Bill 1-00, as amended. Councilmember Praisner supported an amendment to the bill to extend the sunset date of the Office of the Inspector General to 2005 rather than to repeal it as will occur under the bill as introduced.

Councilmember Andrews, lead Councilmember for Personnel, in the Chair.

SUBJECT: Bill 26-99, Collective Bargaining - Amendments

The Committee had before it the memorandum and attachments from Mr. Faden, dated February 24, 2000.

ACTION: Received comments from a representative of the Office of Human Resources (OHR) that representatives of the Municipal and County Government Employees Organization (MCGEO) and OHR believed that the hybrid approach to binding arbitration might be confusing and therefore, opted for the total package approach (the last best offer for the entire contract).

Received comments from Councilmember Krahnke in opposition to the last best offer approach because of the focus it places on economic issues, and comments from Councilmember Andrews on his preference for a hybrid approach because the focus would be on a wider range of issues.

Received comments from Mr. Renne, MCGEO, that the last best offer approach ensures that non-economic issues will be addressed before entering into mediation.

Recommended a two package last best offer approach in which the arbitrator would review an economic package and a non-economic package and select the more reasonable of each. Councilmember Andrews indicated his preference for the original hybrid approach.

Recommended that changes in the scope of the bargaining unit not be addressed in this bill.

Instructed staff to modify the definition of "economic" so that is not narrowly drawn but retains the language requiring the mediator/arbitrator to decide any issue regarding whether a particular proposal is economic or non-economic; and to provide Committee members the opportunity to review the definition before the bill is brought before the Council.

Recommended amending the bill to require an impasse to be declared by February 1 and the arbitrator's report by February 15 rather than as contained in existing law, January 15 and February 1, respectively.

Concurred with OHR and MCGEO not to amend the current law to allow the arbitrator to go beyond the County in considering private sector wages and benefits, or to direct the arbitrator to not diminish or condition management rights in determining whether a collective bargaining item is negotiable.

Recommended against Executive Branch Staff's recommendation to lengthen the maximum term of a collective bargaining agreement with MCGEO from three to five years. Councilmember Praisner indicated her preference for a four-year maximum term.

Recommended against Bill 26-99, but indicated if the Council is inclined to adopt it, the Committee amendments would offer a reasonable approach. Councilmember Andrews voted for a positive recommendation, indicating that he supports binding arbitration for County employees.

The Committee had before it the memorandum from Legislative Analyst Sherer, dated February 17, 2000.

ACTION: Approved the total cost and funding for Glen Echo Park as was approved last year; added a statement to the position description form as follows: The County will reconsider the amount of County funding if the Federal or State governments do not contribute the amount of funding assumed in the Funding Schedule. This reconsideration will occur next year when the FY 00 and 01 actual Federal and State funding amount will be known, and can be used as a basis to better forecast State and Federal funding amounts for FY 02.

Reviewed the Moneysworth Farm House Reuse Project. Councilmember Andrews recommended approval of the FY 01 request of $734,000; Councilmember Praisner recommended approval of $441,000, the amount requested two years ago; and Councilmember Krahnke recommended that the project not be funded because of her opposition to the Correctional Facility.

Deferred a decision on the Rockville Parking project until the County has further information on the State's decisions regarding the new District Court, the Rockville Library, the Rockville Core study, and the justification for the number of additional parking spaces needed. Agreed to continue discussion of this project in April.

33-103. Labor Relations Administrator.

(a) [There is established the position of] A Labor Relations Administrator[, to provide for the effective implementation and administration of] must be appointed to effectively administer this Article [concerning] as it governs selection, certification and decertification procedures, prohibited practices, and the choice of a mediator/fact-finder. The [Labor Relations] Administrator [shall exercise the following powers and perform the following duties and functions] must:

(8) Determine any issue regarding the negotiability of any collective bargaining proposal.

[(8)] (9) Exercise any other powers and perform any other duties and functions [as may be] specified in this Article.

33-106 Selection, certification, and decertification procedures.

(a) The certification or decertification of an employee organization as the representative of a unit for [the purpose of] collective bargaining [shall be initiated in accordance with] must comply with the following procedures:

(5) If a different employee organization is certified as the result of an election carried out under subsection (b)(8), that organization must be treated in all respects as a successor in interest and party to any collective bargaining agreement that the previous employee organization was a party to.

(b) * * *

(8) If a properly supported and timely filed petition to decertify an existing certified employee organization, and a properly supported and timely filed petition to certify another employee organization, are filed during the same time period under subsection (a)(3) or (a)(4), one election must be held to determine which organization, if any, the employees in the unit desire to represent them. The election ballot must contain, as choices to be made by the voter, the names of the petitioning and certified employee organizations, and a choice that the employee does not desire to be represented by any of the named employee organizations. All other applicable requirements and procedures for the election must be followed.

33-108. Bargaining, impasse, fact-finding, and legislative procedures.

(a) Collective bargaining [shall] must begin no later than November 1 before the beginning of a fiscal year for which there is no agreement between the employer and the certified representative, and [shall] must be finished on or before [January] February 15. [The resolution of a bargaining impasse or fact-finding shall be finished by February 1.]

(b) Any provision for automatic renewal or extension of a collective bargaining agreement is void. An agreement is not valid if it extends for less than one year or for more than 3 years. All agreements [become effective] take effect July 1 and end June 30.

(c) A collective bargaining agreement [becomes effective] takes effect only after ratification by the employer and [by] the certified representative. The certified representative may [provide] adopt its own [rules for] ratification procedures.

(d) Before November 10 of any year in which the employer and the certified representative bargain collectively, the Labor Relations Administrator [shall] must appoint a mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator, who may be a person recommended [to her] by both parties. The mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator [shall] must be available [during the period] from January 2 to [February 1] June 30. Fees and expenses of the mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator [shall] must be shared equally by the employer and the certified representative.

(e) (1) During the course of collective bargaining, either party may declare an impasse and request the services of the mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator, or the parties may jointly request [his] those services before [declaration of] an impasse is declared. If the parties do not reach an agreement by [January] February 15, an impasse exists. Any issue regarding the negotiability of any bargaining proposal must be referred to the Labor Relations Administrator for an expedited determination.

(2) This dispute [shall] must be submitted to the mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator whenever an impasse has been reached, or [before that] as provided in subsection (e)(1). The mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator [shall] must engage in mediation by bringing the parties together voluntarily under such favorable circumstances as will [tend to bring about the] encourage settlement of the dispute.

(3) If [and when] the mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator finds, in [his] the mediator/arbitrator's sole discretion, that the parties are at a bona fide impasse, [he shall implement the following fact-finding process:] or as of February 15 when an impasse is automatically reached, whichever occurs earlier, the dispute must be submitted to binding arbitration.

[(a.) He shall require the parties to submit jointly a memorandum of all items previously agreed upon, and separate memoranda of their proposals on all items not previously agreed upon.]

(f)(1) If binding arbitration is invoked, the mediator/arbitrator must require each party to submit a final offer, which must consist either of a complete draft of a proposed collective bargaining agreement or a complete package proposal, as the mediator/arbitrator directs. If only complete package proposals are required, the mediator/arbitrator must require the parties to submit jointly a memorandum of all items previously agreed on. The final offer submitted by each party must separately identify economic and non-economic proposals. Economic proposals must include salary and wages, pension and other welfare benefits, such as health insurance. The mediator/arbitrator must decide any issue regarding whether a particular proposal is economic or non-economic.

[(b.)] (2) [He] The mediator/arbitrator may require the parties to submit oral or written evidence [or make oral or written] and arguments in support of their proposals. [He] The mediator/arbitrator may hold a hearing for this purpose at a time, date, and place selected by [him] the mediator/arbitrator. This hearing [shall] must not be open to the public.

[(c.)] (3) [On or before February 1, the mediator/fact-finder shall issue a report of his findings of fact and recommendations on those matters still in dispute between the parties. The report shall be submitted to the parties but shall not be made public at this time.]

On or before March 1, the mediator/arbitrator must select, as a whole, the more reasonable of the final economic offers submitted by the parties. With regard to the economic offers, the mediator/arbitrator must not compromise or alter a final offer. The mediator/arbitrator must not consider or receive any argument or evidence related to the history of collective bargaining in the immediate dispute, including any previous settlement offer not contained in the final offers. However, the mediator/arbitrator must consider all previously agreed-on economic items, integrated with the disputed economic items, to decide which economic offer is the most reasonable. The mediator/arbitrator must also decide which of each of the parties' non-economic proposals is the most reasonable under all the circumstances. The mediator/arbitrator may compromise, alter, or reject any non-economic proposal.

[(d.)] (4) In making [findings of fact and recommendations] a determination under this subsection, the mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator may [take into account] consider only the following factors:

[(i)] (A) Past collective bargaining agreements between the parties, including the past bargaining history that led to the agreements, or the pre-collective bargaining history of employee wages, hours, benefits, and working conditions.

[(ii)] (B) Comparison of wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of similar employees of other public employers in the Washington Metropolitan Area and in Maryland.

(iii) Comparison of wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of other Montgomery County personnel.

[(iv)] (D) Wages, benefits, hours, and other working conditions of similar employees of private employers in Montgomery County.

[(v)] (E) The interest and welfare of the public.

[(vi)] (F) The ability of the employer to finance economic adjustments, and the effect of the adjustments [upon] on the normal standard of public services provided by the employer.

(5) The economic offer selected by the mediator/arbitrator, together with the mediator/arbitrator's conclusion on each non-economic proposal, integrated with all previously agreed on items, is the final agreement between the employer and the certified representative, need not be ratified by any party, and has the effect of a contract ratified by the parties under subsection (c). The parties must execute the agreement, and any provision which requires action in the County budget must be included in the budget which the employer submits to the County Council.

[(f) After receiving the report of the mediator/fact-finder, the parties shall meet again to bargain. If 10 days after the parties receive the report they have not reached full agreement, or if either party does not accept, in whole or in part, the recommendations of the mediator-fact-finder, the report of the mediator-fact-finder, with recommendations on agreed items deleted, shall be made public by sending it to the Council. The mediator/fact-finder shall also send the Council the joint memorandum of items agreed upon, up-dated with any items later agreed upon. The parties shall also send to the Council separate memoranda stating their positions on matters still in dispute.]

(g) The budget that the employer submits to the Council [shall] must include the items that have been agreed to, as well as the employer's position on matters still in dispute. Any agreed or disputed term or condition submitted to the Council that requires an appropriation of funds, or the enactment[, repeal, or modification] or adoption of any County law or regulation, or which has or may have a present or future fiscal impact, may be accepted or rejected in whole or in part by the Council. [Such terms or conditions shall be identified to the Council by either or both parties.] The employer must expressly identify any term or condition that requires Council review. The employer [shall] must make a good faith effort to have the Council take action to implement [any term or condition to which the parties have agreed] all terms of the final agreement.

(h) The Council may hold a public hearing to enable the parties and the public to testify on the agreement [and the recommendations for resolving bargaining disputes].

(i) On or before May 1, the Council [shall] must indicate by resolution its intention to appropriate funds for or otherwise implement the [items that have been agreed to] agreement or its intention not to do so, and [shall] must state its reasons for any intent to reject any [items of the kind specified in subsection (g) that have been agreed to] item of the final agreement. [The Council shall also indicate by resolution its position on disputed matters which could require an appropriation of funds or enactment, repeal, or modification of any County law or regulation, or which have present or future fiscal impact.]

(j) [Then] If the Council indicates its intention to reject any item of the final agreement, the Council [shall] must designate a representative to meet with the parties and present the Council's views in the parties' further negotiation on [disputed matters and/or agreed upon] matters that the Council has indicated its intention to reject. The parties must submit the results of the negotiation, whether a complete or a partial agreement, [shall be submitted] to the Council on or before May 10.

(k) Any agreement [shall] must provide for automatic reduction or elimination of wage [and/]or benefits adjustments if:

(1) The Council does not take action necessary to implement the agreement, or a part of it; or

(2) Sufficient funds are not appropriated for any fiscal year [in which] when the agreement is in effect.

[(k)] (l) The Council [shall] must take [whatever actions it considers] any action required by the public interest with respect to [matters] any matter still in dispute between the parties. ARTICLE X. FIRE AND RESCUE COLLECTIVE BARGAINING.

33-147. Declaration of policy.

The public policy of Montgomery County is to promote a harmonious, peaceful, and cooperative relationship between the County government and its fire and rescue employees and to protect the public by assuring, at all times, the responsive, orderly, and efficient operation of the Department of Fire and Rescue

Services. Since unresolved disputes in the fire and rescue service harm the public and fire and rescue employees, adequate means should be available to prevent disputes and resolve them when they occur. To that end, it is in the public interest that fire and rescue employees have the opportunity to bargain collectively over wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment, as authorized by Charter Section 510A, through a representative of their choice, or to refrain from collective bargaining. It is also in the public interest that the County government and a representative of fire and rescue employees bargain collectively in good faith without interference with the orderly process of government, and that they implement any agreement reached through collective bargaining.

Fire and rescue employee organizations and the County government each possess substantial means for initiating actions on wages, hours, and working conditions of employees. Therefore, in order to preserve an appropriate balance between labor and management in the fire and rescue service, once the employees voluntarily select a representative collective bargaining must be used in place of, and not in addition to, existing means to initiate government action on subjects that are appropriate for collective bargaining under this Article.

33-148. Definitions.

The following terms have the meaning indicated when used in this Article:

(1) Agency shop means a provision in a collective bargaining agreement requiring, as a condition of continued employment, that bargaining unit employees pay a service fee not greater than the monthly membership dues uniformly and regularly required by the employee organization of all of its members. An agency shop agreement must not require an employee to pay initiation fees, assessments, fines, or any similar collections as a condition of continued employment. A collective bargaining agreement must not require payment of a service fee by any employee who opposes joining or financially supporting an employee organization on religious grounds. However, the collective bargaining agreement may require that employee to pay an amount equal to the service fee to a nonreligious, nonunion charity, or to any other charitable organization, agreed to by the employee and the certified representative, with provision for dispute resolution if there is not agreement, and to give to the employer and the certified representative written proof of this payment. The certified representative must adhere at all times to all federal constitutional requirements in its administration of any agency shop system maintained by it.

(2) Certified representative means an employee organization chosen to represent the unit as the exclusive bargaining agent in accordance with this Article or Article VII.

(3) Collective bargaining means meeting at reasonable times and places and negotiating in good faith on appropriate subjects as defined under this Article. This Article does not compel either party to agree to a proposal or make a concession.

(4) Employee means any fire and rescue employee in the classification of Master Firefighter/Rescuer, Firefighter/Rescuer III, Firefighter/Rescuer II, and Firefighter/Rescuer I, but not any employee:

(A) in a probationary status, or

(B) in the classification of Fire/Rescue [[Sergeant]] Lieutenant or any equivalent or higher classification.

(5) Employee organization means any organization that admits employees to membership and that has as a primary purpose the representation of employees in collective bargaining. [[The organization must not admit to membership any person other than fire and rescue service personnel.]]

(6) Employer means the County Executive and the Executive's designee.

(7) Lockout means any action that the employer takes to interrupt or prevent the continuity of work properly and usually performed by the employees for the purpose and with the intent of either coercing the employees into relinquishing rights guaranteed by this Article or of bringing economic pressure on employees for the purpose of securing the agreement of their certified representative to certain collective bargaining terms.

(8) Mediation means an effort by an impasse neutral chosen under this Article to assist confidentially in resolving, through interpretation, suggestion, and advice, a dispute arising out of collective bargaining between the employer and the certified representative.

(9) Strike means a concerted failure to report for duty, absence, stoppage of work, or abstinence in whole or in part from the full and faithful performance of the duties of employment with the employer, or deviation from normal or proper work duties or activities, where any of these acts are done in a concerted manner for the purpose of inducing, influencing, or coercing the employer in the determination, implementation, interpretation, or administration of terms or conditions of employment or of the rights, privileges, or obligations of employment or of the status, recognition, or authority of the employee or an employee organization.

(10) Unit means all employees, as defined in this Section, who are associated with fire suppression, fire protection, fire communications, fire service training, rescue, and emergency medical services, and whose duties include the rescue and safety of individuals and the preservation of structures and physical property.

33-149. Labor Relations Administrator.

(a) A Labor Relations Administrator must be appointed to effectively administer this Article as it governs selection, certification and decertification procedures[[,]] and prohibited practices[[, and the choice of an impasse neutral]]. The Administrator must:

(1) periodically adopt, amend, and repeal, under method (1), regulations and procedures to carry out the Administrator's duties under this Article;

(2) request from the employer or employee organization, and the employer or employee organization may at its discretion provide, any relevant assistance, service, and data that will enable the Administrator to properly carry out duties under this Article;

(3) hold hearings and make inquiries, administer oaths and affirmations, examine witnesses and documents, take testimony and receive evidence, and compel by issuance of subpoenas the attendance of witnesses and the production of relevant documents;

(4) conduct elections to certify or decertify an employee organization under this Article, and issue the certification or decertification;

(5) investigate and attempt to resolve or settle, as provided in this Article, charges of engaging in prohibited practices, but the Administrator must defer to the parties' grievance procedure if:

(A) the employer and the certified representative have negotiated a valid grievance procedure to resolve disputes, and

(B) deferral to the grievance procedure would not result in the application of principles repugnant to this Article;

(6) determine whether a person is properly included in or excluded from the unit;

(7) obtain any necessary support services and make necessary expenditures in the performance of duties to the extent the County has appropriated funds for these purposes; and

(8) exercise any other powers and perform any other duties and functions specified in this Article.

(b) The Labor Relations Administrator must be a person with experience as a neutral in labor relations, and must not be a person who, because of vocation, employment, or affiliation, can be classed as a representative of the interest of the employer or any employee organization.

(c) The County Executive must appoint the Labor Relations Administrator from a list of 5 nominees agreed on by the certified representative and the Chief Administrative Officer. The County Council must confirm the appointment. If there is no certified representative, the County Executive must appoint an Administrator, with the confirmation of the County Council. If the County Council does not confirm an appointment, the County Executive must appoint another person from a new agreed list of 5 nominees and submit that appointee to the County Council for confirmation. The Administrator serves a term of 5 years. An incumbent Administrator is automatically reappointed for another 5-year term unless, during the period between 60 and 30 days before the term expires, the certified representative notifies the employer or the employer notifies the certified representative that it objects to the reappointment.

(d) The Labor Relations Administrator must be paid a daily fee as specified by contract with the County, and must be reimbursed for necessary expenses incurred in performing the duties of Administrator.

33-150. Employee rights.

(a) Employees have the right to:

(1) form, join, support, contribute to, or participate in, or refrain from forming, joining, supporting, contributing to, or participating in, any employee organization or its lawful activities; and

(2) be represented fairly by their certified representative, if any.

(b) The employer must extend to the certified representative the exclusive right to represent the employees for the purposes of collective bargaining, including the orderly processing and settlement of grievances as agreed by the parties under this Article.

(c) A certified representative serves as the exclusive bargaining agent for all employees in the unit and must represent fairly and without discrimination all employees in the unit without regard to whether the employees are members of the employee organization, pay dues or other contributions to it, or participate in its affairs. However, it is not a violation of this duty for a certified representative to seek enforcement of an agency shop provision in a valid collective bargaining agreement.

(d) The right of a certified representative to receive voluntary dues or service fee deductions or agency shop provisions must be determined through negotiations, unless the authority to negotiate these provisions has been suspended under this Article. Other than an agency shop provision, a collective bargaining agreement must not require membership in, participation in the affairs of, or contributions to an employee organization.

33-151. Selection, certification, and decertification procedures.

(a) Any employee organization seeking certification as representative of the unit must file a petition with the Labor Relations Administrator stating its name, address, and its desire to be certified. The employee organization must also send a copy of the petition, including a copy of the signatures of the supporting employees on the petition, to the employer. The petition must contain the uncoerced signatures of 30 percent of the employees in the unit, signifying their desire to be represented by the employee organization for purposes of collective bargaining.

(b) If an employee organization has been certified, an employee in the unit may file a petition with the Administrator to decertify the certified representative. The employee must also send a copy of the petition to the employer and the certified representative, not including the names of the supporting employees. The petition must contain the uncoerced signatures of 30 percent of the employees in the unit, alleging that the certified employee organization is no longer the choice of the majority of the employees in the unit.

(c) If a lawful collective bargaining agreement is not in effect, a petition may be filed under this Section in September of any year, but not sooner than 22 months after an election held under this Section.

(d) If a lawful collective bargaining agreement is in effect, a petition filed under this Section must not be entertained unless it is filed during September of the final year of the agreement.

(e) If the Administrator finds that a petition is properly supported and timely filed, the Administrator must hold an election of all eligible employees within a reasonable time, but no later than the next October 20, to determine if and by whom the employees wish to be represented.

(1) The election must be supervised by the Administrator and must be conducted by secret ballot at the time and place that the Administrator directs. The Administrator may retain the services of a State agency responsible for conducting labor elections, or a similarly neutral body, to assist in conducting the election.

(2) The election ballots must contain, as choices to be made by the voter, the name of each petitioning or certified employee organization, the name of any other employee organization showing written proof at least 10 days before the election of at least 10 percent representation of the employees in the unit in the same manner as described in paragraph (a), and a choice that the employee does not desire to be represented by any of the named employee organizations.

(3) The employer and each party to the election may be represented by observers selected under conditions that the Administrator prescribes.

(4) Observers selected under paragraph (3) may challenge for good cause the eligibility of any person to vote in the election. All challenged ballots must be impounded until either the parties agree on the validity of each challenge or the Administrator decides the validity of each challenge. However, if the number of challenges will not determine the outcome of the election, the challenged ballots must be destroyed.

(5) After the polls have been closed, the Administrator must count all valid ballots cast in the presence of the observers.

(6) The Administrator must immediately prepare and serve on the employer and each party a report certifying the results of the election. If an employee organization receives the votes of a majority of the employees who voted, the Administrator must certify that organization as the exclusive agent.

(7) If no employee organization receives the votes of a majority of the employees who voted, the Administrator must not certify a representative. Unless a majority of the employees who vote choose ``no representative,'' a runoff election must be conducted. The runoff election must contain the 2 choices that received the largest and second largest number of votes in the original election.

(f) The Administrator's certification of results is final unless, within 7 days after service of the report and the certification, any party serves on all other parties and files with the Administrator objections to the election. All objections must be verified and contain a concise statement of facts constituting the grounds for each objection. The Administrator must investigate all objections and, if substantial factual issues exist, must hold a hearing. Otherwise, the Administrator may decide the matter without a hearing. The Administrator may invite, either by rule or by invitation, written or oral argument to assist in deciding the merits of the objections. If the Administrator finds that the election was conducted in substantial conformity with this Article, the Administrator must confirm the certification initially issued. If the Administrator finds that the election was not held in substantial conformity with this Article, then the Administrator must hold another election under this Section.

(g) The County must pay the cost of conducting each election.

33-152. Collective bargaining.

(a) Duty to bargain; matters subject to bargaining. When an employee organization is certified, the employer and the certified representative must bargain collectively with respect to:

(1) salary and wages, including the percentage of the increase in the salary and wages budget that is devoted to merit increments and cash awards, but salaries and wages must be uniform for all employees in the same classification;

(2) pension and other retirement benefits for active employees only;

(3) employee benefits such as, but not limited to, insurance, leave, holidays, and vacations;

(4) hours and working conditions;

(5) procedures for the orderly processing and settlement of grievances concerning the interpretation and implementation of any collective bargaining agreement, which may include:

(A) binding third party arbitration, but the arbitrator has no authority to amend, add to, or subtract from any provision of the collective bargaining agreement; and

(B) provisions for exclusivity of forum;

(6) matters affecting the health and safety of employees; and

(7) amelioration of the effect on employees when the exercise of employer rights listed in subsection (b) causes a loss of existing jobs in the unit.

(b) Employer rights. This article and any collective bargaining agreement made under it must not impair the right and responsibility of the employer to:

(1) determine the overall budget and mission of the employer and any agency of County government;

(2) maintain and improve the efficiency and effectiveness of operations;

(3) determine the services to be rendered and the operations to be performed;

(4) determine the overall organizational structure, methods, processes, means, job classifications, and personnel by which operations are conducted, and the location of facilities;

(5) direct and supervise employees;

(6) hire, select, and establish the standards governing promotion of employees, and classify positions;

(7) relieve employees from duties because of lack of work or funds, or when the employer determines continued work would be inefficient or nonproductive;

(8) take actions to carry out the mission of government in emergency situations;

(9) transfer, assign, and schedule employees;

(10) determine the size, grades, and composition of the work force;

(11) set standards of productivity and technology;

(12) establish employee performance standards and evaluate employees, but evaluation procedures are subject to bargaining;

(13) make and implement systems for awarding outstanding service increments, extraordinary performance awards, and other merit awards;

(14) introduce new or improved technology, research, development, and services;

(15) control and regulate the use of machinery, equipment, and other property and facilities of the employer, subject to subsection (a)(6);

(16) maintain internal security standards;

(17) create, alter, combine, contract out, or abolish any job classification, department, operation, unit, or other division or service, but the employer must not contract work which will displace employees unless it gives written notice to the certified representative 90 days before signing the contract or other notice agreed by the parties;

(18) suspend, discharge, or otherwise discipline employees for cause, except that, subject to Charter Section 404, any such action may be subject to a grievance procedure included in a collective bargaining agreement; and

(19) issue and enforce rules, policies, and regulations necessary to carry out these and all other managerial functions which are not inconsistent with this Article, federal or state law, or the terms of a collective bargaining agreement.

(c) Exemption. This Article does not limit the discretion of the employer voluntarily to discuss with the representatives of its employees any matter concerning the employer's exercise of any right specified in this Section. However, any matter so discussed is not subject to bargaining.

(d) The public employer rights specified in this Section must be incorporated by reference in every agreement reached between the employer and the employee organization.

33-153. Bargaining, impasse, and legislative procedures.

(a) Collective bargaining must begin no later than the November 1 before the beginning of a fiscal year for which there is no agreement between the employer and the certified representative, and must be completed on or before January 15. The resolution of a bargaining impasse must be completed by February 1. These time limits may be waived or extended by written agreement of the parties.

(b) Any provision for automatic renewal or extension of a collective bargaining agreement is void. An agreement is void if it extends for less than 1 year or more than 3 years. Each collective bargaining agreement must take effect July 1 and end June 30.

(c) A collective bargaining agreement takes effect only after ratification by the employer and the certified representative. The certified representative may adopt its own ratification procedures.

(d) Before November 10 of any year in which the employer and the certified representative bargain collectively, they must choose an impasse neutral, either by agreement or through the processes of the American Arbitration Association. The impasse neutral must be available from January 15 to February 1. The impasse neutral's fees and expenses must be shared equally by the employer and the certified representative.

(e) During the course of collective bargaining, either party may declare an impasse and request the services of the impasse neutral, or the parties may jointly request those services before declaring an impasse. If the parties have not agreed on a collective bargaining agreement by January 15, an impasse exists by operation of law.

(f) When an impasse is reached, the parties must submit the dispute to the impasse neutral. The impasse neutral must attempt mediation by bringing the parties together voluntarily under conditions that will tend to bring about a settlement of the dispute.

(g) If the impasse neutral, in the impasse neutral's sole discretion, finds that the parties are at a bona fide impasse, the impasse neutral must require the parties to jointly submit all items previously agreed on, and each party to submit a final offer consisting of proposals not agreed upon. Neither party may change any proposal after it is submitted to the impasse neutral as a final offer, except to withdraw a proposal on which the parties have agreed.

(h) The impasse neutral may require the parties to submit evidence or present oral or written arguments in support of their proposals. The impasse neutral may hold a hearing at a time, date, and place selected by the impasse neutral. The hearing must not be open to the public.

(i) On or before February 1, unless that date is extended by written agreement of the parties, the impasse neutral must select the final offer that, as a whole, the impasse neutral judges to be the more reasonable. In determining which final offer is the more reasonable, the impasse neutral may consider only the following factors:

(1) past collective bargaining agreements between the parties, including the past bargaining history that led to the agreements, or the pre-collective bargaining history of employee wages, hours, benefits, and working conditions;

(2) wages, hours, benefits and conditions of employment of similar employees of other public employers in the Washington Metropolitan Area and in Maryland;

(3) wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of other Montgomery County employees;

(4) wages, benefits, hours, and other working conditions of similar employees of private employers in Montgomery County;

(5) the interest and welfare of the public; and

(6) the ability of the employer to finance economic adjustments, and the effect of those adjustments on the normal standard of public services provided by the employer.

(j) The impasse neutral must base the selection of the most reasonable offer on the contents of the offer and the integration of any previously agreed-on items with the disputed items. In making a decision, the impasse neutral must not consider or receive any evidence or argument concerning offers of settlement not contained in the offers submitted to the impasse neutral, or any other information concerning the collective bargaining leading to impasse. The impasse neutral must neither compromise nor alter the final offer that he or she selects.

(k) The final offer selected by the impasse neutral, integrated with any items previously agreed on, is the final agreement between the parties, need not be ratified by any party, and has the force and effect of an agreement voluntarily entered into and ratified under subsection (c). The parties must execute that agreement.

(l) The annual operating budget which the employer submits to the County Council must include sufficient funds to pay for the items in the parties' final agreement. [[Either or both parties]] The employer must expressly identify to the Council all terms and conditions in the agreement that:

(1) require an appropriation of funds, or

(2) are inconsistent with any County law or regulation, or

(3) require the enactment[[, repeal, or modification]] or adoption of any County law or regulation, or

(4) which have or may have a present or future fiscal impact.

The employer must make a good faith effort to have the Council take action to implement all terms and conditions in the parties' final agreement.

(m) The Council may hold a public hearing to enable the parties and the public to testify on the agreement.

(n) The Council may accept or reject all or part of any term or condition in the agreement which:

(1) requires an appropriation of funds, or

(2) is inconsistent with any County law or regulation, or

(3) requires the enactment[[, repeal, or modification]] or adoption of any County law or regulation, or

(4) which has or may have a present or future fiscal impact.

On or before May 1, the Council must indicate by resolution its intention to appropriate funds for or otherwise implement the agreement or its intention not to do so, and must state its reasons for any intention to reject any part of the parties' final agreement.

(o) If the Council indicates its intention to reject any part of the parties' final agreement, it must select a representative to meet with the parties and present the Council's views in the parties' further negotiation on matters that the Council has indicated its intention to reject. This representative must also participate fully in stating the Council's position in any ensuing impasse procedure. The parties must meet as promptly as possible and attempt to negotiate an agreement acceptable to the Council. Either party may at this time initiate impasse procedures under this Section. The parties must submit the results of the negotiation, whether a complete or a partial agreement, to the Council on or before May 10. The Council then must consider the agreement as renegotiated by the parties and indicate by resolution its intention to appropriate funds for or otherwise implement the agreement or its intention not to do so.

(p) Any agreement must provide for automatic reduction or elimination of wage or benefits adjustments if:

(1) the Council does not take action necessary to implement the agreement or a part of it; or

(2) sufficient funds are not appropriated for any fiscal year when the agreement is in effect.

33-154. Prohibited practices.

(a) The employer and its agents or representatives must not:

(1) interfere with, restrain, or coerce employees in the exercise of any rights granted to them under this Article;

(2) dominate or interfere with the formation or administration of any employee organization or contribute financial or other support to it, under an agreement or otherwise, but the employer and certified representative may agree to and apply an agency shop provision under this Article and a voluntary dues or service fee deduction provision, and may agree to reasonable use of County facilities to communicate with employees;

(3) encourage or discourage membership in any employee organization by discriminating in hiring, tenure, wages, hours, or conditions of employment, but this Article does not preclude an agreement from containing an agency shop provision;

(4) discharge or discriminate against a public employee because the employee files charges, gives testimony, or otherwise lawfully aids in administering this Article;

(5) refuse to bargain collectively with the certified representative;

(6) refuse to reduce to writing or sign a collective bargaining agreement that has been agreed to in all respects;

(7) refuse to process or arbitrate a grievance if required under a grievance procedure contained in a collective bargaining agreement;

(8) directly or indirectly oppose the appropriation of funds or the enactment of legislation by the County Council to implement an agreement reached under this Article; or

(9) engage in a lockout of employees.

(b) Employee organizations and their agents, representatives, and persons who work for them, must not:

(1) interfere with, restrain, or coerce the employer or any employee in the exercise of any rights granted under this Article;

(2) restrain, coerce, or interfere with the employer in the selection of its representative for collective bargaining or the adjustment of grievances;

(3) refuse to bargain collectively with the employer if the employee organization is the certified representative;

(4) refuse to reduce to writing or sign a collective bargaining agreement which has been agreed to in all respects;

(5) hinder or prevent, by threats of violence, intimidation, force, or coercion of any kind, the pursuit of any lawful work or employment by any person, public or private, or obstruct or otherwise unlawfully interfere with the entrance to or exit from any place of employment, or obstruct or unlawfully interfere with any person's free and uninterrupted use of any road, railway, airport, or other mode of travel;

(6) hinder or prevent by threats, intimidation, force, coercion, or sabotage, the obtaining, use, or disposition of materials, supplies, equipment, or services by the employer;

(7) take or retain unauthorized possession of property of the employer, or refuse to do work or use certain goods or materials as lawfully required by the employer; or

(8) cause or attempt to cause the employer to pay or deliver or agree to pay or deliver any money or other thing of value, in the nature of an exaction, for services which are neither performed nor to be performed.

(c) A charge of prohibited practice may be filed by the employer, an employee organization, or any individual employee. Each charge must be filed with the Labor Relations Administrator, and a copy must be sent to any person who allegedly committed a prohibited practice. Each charge must state facts sufficient to allow the Administrator to investigate the charge. The Administrator may request withdrawal of and, if necessary, summarily dismiss any charge which is insufficiently supported in fact or law to warrant a hearing.

(d) The Administrator may independently investigate any charge and may adopt rules for an independent investigation. If, after investigating, the Administrator finds that a charge is sufficiently supported to raise an issue of fact or law and is unable to settle or resolve the matter, the Administrator must hold a hearing on the charge after notifying the parties. In any hearing, the charging party must present evidence in support of the charges; and the party or parties charged may file an answer, appear in person or otherwise, and present evidence in defense against the charges.

(e) If the Administrator finds that the person charged has committed a prohibited practice, the Administrator must file findings of fact and conclusions of law, may order the person charged to cease and desist from the prohibited practice, and may take affirmative actions to remedy any violation of this Article. Remedies available under this subsection include reinstating employees with or without back pay, making employees whole for any loss relating to County employment suffered as a result of any prohibited practice, or withdrawing or suspending an employee organization's authority to negotiate or continue an agency shop provision or a voluntary dues or service fee deduction provision. If the Administrator finds that the party charged has not committed a prohibited practice, the Administrator must file findings of fact and conclusions of law and dismiss the charges.

(f) The Administrator must summarily dismiss any charge based on an [[action which allegedly]] alleged prohibited practice which occurred more than 6 months before the charge was filed.

(g) Any party aggrieved by a final decision of the Administrator under this Section may appeal the decision to the Circuit Court for Montgomery County in accordance with the court rules governing administrative appeals. The court may affirm, reverse, or modify the decision, or remand the case for further proceedings. The filing of an appeal does not stay the Administrator's order. Any party to the proceeding in the Circuit Court may appeal the Court's decision under applicable provisions of state law and court rules.

33-155. Expression of views.

(a) Expressing or disseminating any views, argument, or opinion, orally, in writing, or otherwise:

(1) is not a prohibited practice or evidence of a prohibited practice under this Article; and

(2) is not grounds to invalidate any election conducted under this Article;

unless the expression or dissemination contains a threat of reprisal or promise of benefit.

(b) Recognizing an employee organization does not preclude the County from dealing with religious, social, fraternal, professional, or other lawful associations with respect to matters or policies that involve individual members of those associations or particularly apply to those associations or their members.

33-156. Strikes and lockouts.

(a) An employee or employee organization must not either directly or indirectly cause, instigate, encourage, condone, or engage in any strike, nor the employer any lockout. An employee or employee organization must not obstruct, impede, or restrict, either directly or indirectly, any attempt to terminate a strike.

(b) The employer must not pay, reimburse, make whole, or otherwise compensate any employee for or during the period when that employee is directly or indirectly engaged in a strike. The employer must not compensate an employee who struck for wages or benefits lost during a strike.

(c) If an employee or employee organization violates this Section, and after adequate notice and a fair hearing the Labor Relations Administrator finds that the violations have occurred and that any or all of the following sanctions are necessary in the public interest, the employer may:

(1) discipline, or dismiss from employment, any employee who engaged in the conduct;

(2) terminate or suspend an employee organization's dues deduction privilege, if any; or

(3) revoke the certification of and disqualify the employee organization from participation in representation elections for a period up to a maximum of 2 years.

(d) This Article does not prohibit an employer or a certified employee organization from seeking any remedy available in a court with jurisdiction.

33-157. Effect of prior laws and regulations.

(a) This Article [[does not supersede]] supersedes any law, executive order, rule, or regulation adopted by the County or any County department or agency which is [[not]] inconsistent with this Article.

(b) Any executive order, rule, or regulation of the County or any County department or agency which regulates any subject that is bargainable under this Article is not superseded or modified by a collective bargaining agreement negotiated under this Article, except to the extent that the application of the order, rule, or regulation is inconsistent with the collective bargaining agreement.

(c) However, if the inconsistent order, rule, or regulation is subject to and has received County Council approval, a collective bargaining agreement does not supersede or modify it unless:

(1) the order, rule, or regulation was expressly identified to the Council by the parties before the Council reviewed the collective bargaining agreement, as required by Section 33-

153(l)[[;]], and the Council did not reject the inconsistent term or condition of the collective bargaining agreement under Section 33-153(n); or

(2) the Council [[expressly indicates its intent to repeal or modify]] repeals or modifies the order, rule, or regulation.

Sec. 2. Emergency Effective Date.

The Council declares that an emergency exists and that this legislation is necessary for the immediate protection of the public health and safety. This act takes effect on the date on which it becomes law.

SUBJECT: Franchise Agreement for Telecommunications System in Public Right-of-Way – KMC Telecom III. Inc.

ACTION: Reviewed with Mr. Karp, KMC Telecom III, Inc, the language concerning in-kind compensation proposed to be incorporated in the subject franchise agreement, and recommended approval of additional language stating that KMC will provide two dark fiber optic strands throughout its telecommunications system for use by the County, and if the telecommunications system includes a cable or cables containing a total of more than 72 fiber optic strands for more than 50 percent of the length of the telecommunications system, KMC will make available to the County two additional dark fiber optic strands throughout the system where the total fiber optic strands exceeds 72. The language will also indicate that if KMC's obligation to provide two additional strands is activated, the obligation to provide a total of four strands will continue even if the system later falls below the activating circumstances.

Recommended approval of the KMC franchise agreement as revised.

Councilmember Andrews, lead Councilmember for Personnel, in the Chair.

SUBJECT: Bill 26-99, Collective Bargaining – Amendments

The Committee considered the memorandum and attachments from Senior Legislative Attorney Faden, dated November 29, 1999.

ACTION: Discussed legal issues and the retention of the County's budget authority as they relate to binding arbitration, including comments made by former Councilmember Hanna in 1984 concerning binding arbitration (page 8 of the Council meeting minutes of July 26, 1984, included in the Committee packet on page ©51).

Received a request from Councilmember Praisner for legal cases involving binding arbitration and a copy of the legislation enacted by Prince George's County on the subject.

Discussed the hybrid nature of the subject bill which provides that the economic issues would be decided on a last best offer total package basis and the arbitrator could decide each non-economic issue separately and would not be limited to the parties' offers, with Councilmember Praisner questioning who defines "economic" and "non-economic" issues, Mr. Faden expressing the view that the arbitrator defines these terms, Mr. Torgeson, Office of Human Resources (OHR), expressing the view that the Council would not be bound by the arbitrator's definitions of these terms, and Ms. Perez, Director, OHR, expressing the view that the matter should be clearly defined in the law to avoid ambiguity.

Received comments from Councilmember Praisner against the arbitrator defining "economic" and "non-economic" issues; from Councilmember Krahnke in support of the way these issues are defined in the law; and from Councilmember Andrews in support of the arbitrator making the determination.

Discussion continued concerning the determination of issues under binding arbitration, with the Committee agreeing to defer making a decision on this issue at the request of Ms. Perez who stated that she believes there is a need for management and union representatives to meet again on this issue and report back to the Committee.

Noted the amendments suggested by Montgomery County Government Employees' Organization/Local 400 (MCGEO) to the definitions of employees included in the collective bargaining units; agreed to recommend that the scope of the bargaining unit not be addressed in the subject legislation; and noted that Councilmember Subin plans to introduce separate legislation soon to expand the bargaining unit along the lines suggested by the MCGEO, with Mr. Thompson, attorney for the firm of Zwerdling, Paul, Leibig, Kahn, Thompson and Woly, and General Counsel for MCGEO, noting that on page ©38 of the Committee packet the brackets should be removed from §33-102(4)(P) and the term "lieutenant" should be double underscored.

Recommended that the deadline for the arbitrator's award be February 15, as recommended by the County Executive.

Discussed the Executive Branch proposal to amend the bill to allow the arbitrator to consider private sector wages and benefits in the entire Washington metropolitan area and the State, rather than only the County, with Councilmember Krahnke agreeing with the proposed amendment, and the Committee agreeing to defer a decision to provide for further discussion of the issue among the parties.

Discussed the Executive Branch proposal to amend the bill to direct the arbitrator to not diminish or condition management rights in determining whether a collective bargaining item is negotiable (page ©24-25 of the Committee packet), and the viewpoint of Mr. Thompson that the amendment is not necessary due to language in the existing law, §33-107(b) that reads: "Employer rights. This article and any agreement made under it shall not impair the right and responsibility of the employer to perform the following ..." (page ©35 of the Committee packet), with Councilmember Andrews expressing the view that proposed changes to current management rights should not be addressed in the subject legislation, and Councilmember Krahnke indicating her support for the Executive Branch proposal. Expressed no objection to Councilmember Praisner's suggestion that the issue be deferred to provide Executive Branch to respond to Mr. Thompson's belief that the language in the existing law is sufficient.

Discussed the advantages and disadvantages of the Executive Branch proposal to lengthen the maximum term of a collective bargaining agreement with MCGEO from three to five years; and agreed to defer a decision on the matter to obtain information on the experience of other jurisdictions on the issue.

Agreed to schedule another Committee meeting on Bill 26-99.

SUBJECT: Employees' Code of Ethics

The Committee considered the memorandum and attachments from Mr. Faden, dated November 24, 1999.

ACTION: Agreed to solicit comments from interested parties before discussing the subject issue, and instructed Council Staff to circulate the Committee packet, the Code of Ethics of the National Association of Counties (NACO), a research brief prepared by NACO on the creation of a County Code of Ethics, the City of Baltimore's Code of Ethics, and any additional material on the subject that Council Staff believes will be beneficial. Requested that comments be solicited from the Ethics Commission Task Force of the Montgomery County Civic Federation, the County Ethics Commission, the League of Women Voters, and Common Cause; and instructed staff to include a cover letter explaining that the Montgomery County Civic Federation is suggesting that the County approve a "Code of Conduct for County Government Service," and that the Committee would welcome any comments on the matter.

SUBJECT: Status Report on the Strategic Facilities Plan for County Organizations in the Rockville core area

The Committee had before it the memorandum from Legislative Analyst Sherer, dated November 22, 1999.

ACTION: Received a briefing from Mr. Mooney and Mr. White, Department of Facilities and Services; and Mr. Gibbs, the Vitetta Group.

Suggested that the Management Group consider space needs, technology, sharing of support functions, co-location for more efficiency; the needs of employees for various services such as day care, respite care, Automated Teller Machines (ATM), banking services, and dry cleaning should be considered and coordinated with the City of Rockville; and that the Courts and the City should be involved in the study.

Questioned the County Executive's intent to consider separating the Directors of various departments from the rest of the staff in the department.

Noted that the Ethics Commission was not on the survey form the Council filled out, and directed Council staff to report to the Committee on why the Board of Education has not yet transferred to the County the closed school at 401 Fleet Street.

SUBJECT: Juvenile Assessment Center

ACTION: Received a briefing from Dr. Luongo, Department of Health and Human Services Juvenile Justice Coordinator, on the planning for a Juvenile Assessment Center, including the work accomplished by an interagency group to determine what services could be co-located immediately to improve the juvenile justice system; and the recommendation of the work group that the long-term plan be for a Juvenile Justice Center that includes a full Circuit Court Family Division (including the Juvenile Division now in the District Court.)

Expressed support for the Juvenile Assessment Center and long-term plan; and expressed the desire to receive the co-location proposal as soon as possible, with Dr. Luongo advising that the work group determined the services can be accommodated at the 401 Fleet Street facility, Received comments from Councilmember Praisner's that the previous agenda item, the update on the Rockville Core Plan, indicates that the Board of Education still owns 401 Fleet Street which may be against County policy. Requested staff to research this issue. Councilmember Andrews asked if there was a back-up site to 401 Fleet Street and was told there was not and a search would have to undertaken. Councilmember Krahnke's asked if mental health evaluation would be a part of the assessment center services and if the assessment would look for signs of domestic violence. Dr. Luongo responded that mental health assessment would take place and that research is showing more and more the relationship between domestic violence and juvenile delinquency.

Received comments of support for the proposed immediate co-location from Lt. Delany, Youth Services Investigation Division, Montgomery County Police Department; Ms. Harris, Circuit Court Administrator; and Mr. Fiedler, Maryland Department of Juvenile Justice.

SUBJECT: FY 01 State Funding Request for School Construction

The Committee had before it the memorandum from Legislative Analyst Levchenko, attaching a draft resolution and joint letter, dated November 24, 1999.

ACTION: Discussed the Board of Education's revised request for 59.1 million in school construction funding for FY 01, and noted that approximately $29 million of the request is contingent upon proposed changes in eligibility requirements. Mr. Hawes, Director of Facilities Management, and Mr. Lavorgna, Director of Planning and Capital Programming, Montgomery County Public Schools (MCPS), described the changes the Board of Education is requesting in the eligibility criteria. These changes include increasing the allowable cost per square foot for construction in FY 01 by 12.5 percent and increasing the allowable square footage per student by 20 percent. Council Staff also noted that the FY 01 request also included $3.974 million related to cost increases for modernizations going to construction in FY 00, and that the increased costs are the subject of an emergency appropriation request before the Committee.

Discussed the draft joint State aid letter, and recommended amending the letter by adding language to clarify that Montgomery County supports State wide increases in school construction funding so that the needs of all jurisdictions can be met. Councilmember Dacek suggested adding language to note that nationwide trends as well as state wide initiatives are resulting in additional square foot requirements per student.

Recommended approval of the resolution as drafted by Council Staff consistent with the Board of Education's request.

SUBJECT: Emergency Appropriation to the FY 00 Capital Budget and Amendment to the FY 99-04 Capital Improvements Program (CIP) for MCPS in the Amount of $10.5 million for Current Replacements/Modernizations (No. 926575)

The Committee had before it the memorandum from Mr. Levchenko, dated November 24, 1999.

ACTION: Discussed the request for an emergency appropriation, and noted that the emergency requests are not an ideal way to allocate resources, but that in this case the scope and timing of the project were not requested to change. The emergency appropriation is needed to cover construction cost increases that would otherwise require the deferral of the Wood Middle School modernization.

Recommended modifying the expenditure and funding schedule as proposed by Council Staff in order to more accurately reflect expenditures, be consistent with the FY01 State aid request previously recommended by the Committee, and stay within approved Spending Affordability Guidelines (SAG) for bond-funded expenditures. Noted that future supplemental requests should be considered on a case-by-case basis with regard to SAG.

Recommended approval of the emergency appropriation, as amended.

SUBJECT: Update – Print Shop Consolidation

The Committee had before it the memorandum and attachments from Senior Legislative Analyst Hughes, dated November 23, 1999.

ACTION: Received a briefing from Mr. Edwards, and Mr. Jenkins, Department of Facilities Services (DFS) and Ms. Woods and Ms. Marks, MCPS, regarding the status of the effort to consolidate the Montgomery County Government and the MCPS print shops. Mr. Jenkins discussed how the Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) is the product of intense negotiations and the problems associated with pick up and delivery.

Noted that under the MOU, DFS and MCPS Staff will meet in six months to assess the status of consolidation and determine whether the goals set by the Council are being associated.

Recommended that the MOU be amended to indicate that if a Montgomery County Government Printer II position was permanently vacated than any Printer I employee would have an opportunity for advancement, rather than only MCPS employees.

SUBJECT: Briefing: Early Childhood Initiatives

ACTION: Received a briefing from Ms. Byrne, Co-Chair of the Early Childhood Committee of the Collaboration Council for Children, Youth, and Families and Director, Family Services at Crossway Community. Discussed issues relating to building a system of services for children and families which is easy to access and involves all stakeholders in the planning process; and the expanded November 8 meeting held by the Early Childhood Committee to develop a conceptual system of care and identify the gaps and duplication of services.

Received a briefing from Ms. Prue, Co-Chair of the Early Childhood Committee of the Collaboration Council for Children, Youth, and Families, and Director, Early Childhood Services, Montgomery County Public Schools. Discussed the next steps and follow-up to the November 8 meeting, noting that these steps are in the early stages, and that a subgroup of participants will reconvene to examine early childhood initiatives already underway and determine where the infrastructures can align for better coordination.

Noted Councilmember Praisner's comment that there is overlap between committees looking at similar issues, that improved program coordination and service delivery must remain the focus, and that a consultant should be hired to complete the information and data system tasks so that committees can focus on programs and move that work forward.

Noted Councilmembers concern regarding the timeline for completing the work of the Committees addressing children's issues, and emphasized the need to work with the network of the private sector in developing services and programs.

Noted Councilmember Ewing's comment that Ms. Rogan, Manager, Accountability and Customer Services, DHHS, briefed the Committees on the status of the Interagency Data Committee, and estimated that a complete system would take approximately two to three years to build.

Requested information about hiring a consultant to take an inventory of existing programs, identify who would be served, and develop an information system of data about both clients being served and those in need of services. Noted that Council Staff and the Early Childhood Committee Co-Chairs will follow up on the request.

SUBJECT: Bill 1-00, Inspector General – Extension

The Committee had before it the memorandum and attachments from Senior Legislative Attorney Faden, dated February 24, 2000, and a memorandum from County Executive Duncan, dated February 23, 2000.

ACTION: Recommended approval of the following technical amendments:

Insert on page ©4 of the Committee's packet, at the end of the first sentence of § 2-151(g)(1), line 62, the following sentence: The term of each employee should be coterminous with the Inspector General's term unless the Inspector General specifies a different term when appointing the employee.

Insert the following language on page ©8 of the Committee's packet, line 156, and renumber current paragraph (3): (3) The Inspector General may administer an oath or affirmation or take an affidavit from any person as necessary to perform the Inspector General's duties.

Reviewed the proposed amendments contained in the County Executive's memorandum.

Recommended on page ©2 of the Committee packet, lines 10 and 11, the addition of the word and between the words "waste" and "abuse," and the deletion of the words [[and management]]; and on page ©8, in renumbered paragraph (4), the deletion of the following words: [[or other mismanagement]]. Councilmember Praisner noted that the term "mismanagement" is subsumed in the words "fraud, waste, and abuse" which precede the word "mismanagement in both instances."

Recommended approval of the changes to the term and qualifications of the Inspector General as contained in the bill on page ©3.

Reviewed the language on page ©4, lines 69-76, concerning legal services to be provided by the County Attorney and responsibilities of the County Attorney when the Inspector General requests special counsel.

In connection with lines 108-109 of the bill, discussed the intent of the Inspector General to uphold the objective of complying with applicable generally accepted government auditing standards. Recommended the deletion on page ©6, lines 108-109, of the words [[When appropriate, the Inspector General should comply with generally accepted government auditing standards.]] Agreed to add appropriate language in another section of the bill to indicate that the goal is to comply with applicable generally accepted government auditing standards.

On page ©6, after (k)(2), agreed to insert the following language: The Inspector General may keep any report or information gathered for use in any report confidential until the report is final. Requested that Mr. Faden revise the language as appropriate to make certain that it would apply to "work plan items" as well as reports.

In connection with the issues raised in the County Executive's memorandum concerning §(l)(1) of the bill, agreed on the need to pursue at a later date issues regarding the availability of personnel information to the Inspector General, and whether the concept of Executive privilege applies to the Inspector General.

Agreed with the language on page ©7 that gives the Inspector General authority to issue subpoenas and administer oaths.

Recommended approval of Bill 1-00, as amended. Councilmember Praisner supported an amendment to the bill to extend the sunset date of the Office of the Inspector General to 2005 rather than to repeal it as will occur under the bill as introduced.

Councilmember Andrews, lead Councilmember for Personnel, in the Chair.

The Committee had before it the memorandum and attachments from Mr. Faden, dated February 24, 2000.

ACTION: Received comments from a representative of the Office of Human Resources (OHR) that representatives of the Municipal and County Government Employees Organization (MCGEO) and OHR believed that the hybrid approach to binding arbitration might be confusing and therefore, opted for the total package approach (the last best offer for the entire contract).

Received comments from Councilmember Krahnke in opposition to the last best offer approach because of the focus it places on economic issues, and comments from Councilmember Andrews on his preference for a hybrid approach because the focus would be on a wider range of issues.

Received comments from Mr. Renne, MCGEO, that the last best offer approach ensures that non-economic issues will be addressed before entering into mediation.

Recommended a two package last best offer approach in which the arbitrator would review an economic package and a non-economic package and select the more reasonable of each. Councilmember Andrews indicated his preference for the original hybrid approach.

Recommended that changes in the scope of the bargaining unit not be addressed in this bill.

Instructed staff to modify the definition of "economic" so that is not narrowly drawn but retains the language requiring the mediator/arbitrator to decide any issue regarding whether a particular proposal is economic or non-economic; and to provide Committee members the opportunity to review the definition before the bill is brought before the Council.

Recommended amending the bill to require an impasse to be declared by February 1 and the arbitrator's report by February 15 rather than as contained in existing law, January 15 and February 1, respectively.

Concurred with OHR and MCGEO not to amend the current law to allow the arbitrator to go beyond the County in considering private sector wages and benefits, or to direct the arbitrator to not diminish or condition management rights in determining whether a collective bargaining item is negotiable.

Recommended against Executive Branch Staff's recommendation to lengthen the maximum term of a collective bargaining agreement with MCGEO from three to five years. Councilmember Praisner indicated her preference for a four-year maximum term.

Recommended against Bill 26-99, but indicated if the Council is inclined to adopt it, the Committee amendments would offer a reasonable approach. Councilmember Andrews voted for a positive recommendation, indicating that he supports binding arbitration for County employees.

The Committee had before it the memorandum from Legislative Analyst Sherer, dated February 17, 2000.

ACTION: Approved the total cost and funding for Glen Echo Park as was approved last year; added a statement to the position description form as follows: The County will reconsider the amount of County funding if the Federal or State governments do not contribute the amount of funding assumed in the Funding Schedule. This reconsideration will occur next year when the FY 00 and 01 actual Federal and State funding amount will be known, and can be used as a basis to better forecast State and Federal funding amounts for FY 02.

Reviewed the Moneysworth Farm House Reuse Project. Councilmember Andrews recommended approval of the FY 01 request of $734,000; Councilmember Praisner recommended approval of $441,000, the amount requested two years ago; and Councilmember Krahnke recommended that the project not be funded because of her opposition to the Correctional Facility.

Deferred a decision on the Rockville Parking project until the County has further information on the State's decisions regarding the new District Court, the Rockville Library, the Rockville Core study, and the justification for the number of additional parking spaces needed. Agreed to continue discussion of this project in April.

ACTION: Approved the legislative journals of February 8 and 15, 2000, as amended.

The journals were approved by motion of Councilmember Praisner, without objection, Councilmember Berlage absent.

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS

SUBJECT: Bill 8-00. Streets and Roads – Ground Cover in Public Rights-of-Way

Councilmember Ewing, a sponsor of the legislation, stated that the bill would allow property owners to place alternative, conservation-promoting plants or other ground cover on their property in the public right-of-way. At present, residents are not allowed to grow anything in these strips of property except turf grass despite the lack of existing legislation or regulations concerning this matter. Mr. Ewing expressed the view that the bill represents a good environmental proposal.

Councilmember Praisner stated that she is sympathetic with the concerns that led to the legislation, but questions whether there are broader issues that need to be addressed such as how the right-of-way is defined and the possibility of addressing the issue through regulation rather than legislation. Ms. Praisner expressed the hope that the Council will examine this issue from a broader perspective rather than attempting to enact legislation for uses in rights-of-way.

Councilmember Dacek said that there are issues that need to be addressed such as the penalty for not applying the appropriate ground cover to rights-of-way and identifying the agency that would be responsible for enforcing the legislation. Ms. Dacek stated that she could not support the legislation as it is currently written.

President Subin said that if Councilmembers have questions concerning the bill, they should present them to the Council committee that will review the legislation.

ACTION: Introduced Draft 4 of the bill sponsored by Councilmembers Ewing and Krahnke.

SUBJECT: Bill 26-99, Collective Bargaining Amendments

Councilmember Andrews, lead Councilmember for Personnel, presented the report of the Management and Fiscal Policy (MFP) Committee, in accordance with the information contained in the memorandum from Senior Legislative Attorney Faden, dated March 7, 2000. He said that the Committee majority recommended against enactment of the bill and that the Committee majority indicated that if the Council enacts the bill the Committee amendments would offer a reasonable approach. Mr. Andrews said that he did not support the Committee's recommendation.

With respect to the type of binding arbitration, Councilmember Andrews stated that the Committee is recommending a two package approach, last best offer approach in which the arbitrator would review an economic package and a non-economic package and select the more reasonable of each. He said that in Committee, he voted against this approach, preferring instead the original "hybrid" approach: the economic issues would be decided on a last best offer total package basis. The arbitrator would decide which issues are economic and which are non-economic, could decide each non-economic item separately, and would not be bound by the parties' offers.

Councilmember Andrews moved, duly seconded, a substitute motion to amend the bill to substitute the last best offer total package approach for the two-package approach recommended by the Committee majority. He distributed to the Council a written amendment in this regard.

Councilmember Praisner discussed the Committee's review of the bill and explained the Committee majority's rationale for recommending "a two-package, last best offer approach," if the bill is enacted. She said that the majority of the Committee was concerned that without a separation of fiscal and non-fiscal issues, there would not be adequate consideration of the non-compensation issues as the arbitrators tended to focus on that one item. Furthermore the MCGEO bargaining unit, unlike police and fire, incorporated many different functions and positions which also argued for different consideration. She said that in Committee, Councilmember Andrews continued to support the hybrid approach, as originally proposed.

Councilmember Dacek commented on issues related to the types of binding arbitration, expressed concern about binding arbitration in general, and stated that she does not support the bill.

ACTION: Amended the bill to make the technical amendments recommended by Council Staff and incorporate Councilmember Andrews' amendment concerning the type of binding arbitration.

The amendments were approved by motion of Councilmember Andrews:

YEAS: Andrews, Leggett, Ewing, Subin, Silverman
NAYS: Dacek, Praisner, Krahnke
ABSENT: Berlage.

Adopted the following amendments as reflected in the bill:

AN ACT to:

(1) modify certain functions of the Labor Relations Administrator;
(2) revise the process for certifying employee organizations;
(3) revise the timetable for certain collective bargaining actions;
(4) require binding arbitration of certain collective bargaining agreements; and
(5) generally amend the law governing collective bargaining for certain County employees.

CALL OF BILLS FOR FINAL READING

SUBJECT: Emergency Bill No. 42-87, Transfer of Operational Firefighters from Corporations to the Department of Fire and Rescue Services (DFRS)

County Attorney Sorrell provided background information to the Council concerning meetings held between Executive staff and interested parties since the Council's worksession of September 21, 1987 on the subject bill.

Mr. Sorrell directed attention to a draft executive regulation included in the Council's packet, noting that it provides assurance of daily communication with fire and rescue corporations on operational issues and represents an appropriate compromise. He said the bill needs to be amended to include a reference to executive regulations.

Councilmember Gudis presented three proposed amendments for the Council's consideration, and explained that the amendments represent concepts discussed previously that he believes are needed to protect the County's volunteer firefighter system and to provide consistency and equity to all personnel in the DFRS. Mr. Gudis said that one of the amendments is similar to the executive regulation proposed by Mr. Sorrell.

Mr. Sorrell, responding to Councilmembers' questions, provided clarification concerning his proposed executive regulation, noting the need for the executive regulation to be amended to define "Director" as the Director of the Department of Fire and Rescue Services. He pointed out that this would be a Method 2 executive regulation which provides for review and approval by the Council.

The Council then considered the following amendment proposed by Councilmember Gudis:

> The board of directors of each corporation may authorize in writing one or more officers to give directions on the management of corporate activities and facilities to the senior County merit system firefighter assigned to that corporation. An authorized officer may, with the approval of the board of directors, delegate this authority to a subordinate officer. If more than one authorized corporation officer is present at a particular place and time, the direction of the senior corporation officer controls.

Mr. Gudis expressed the view that an issue as sensitive and important as the management of corporate activities and facilities should be addressed through legislation rather than executive regulation because any changes would have to be made through legislation enacted by the Council. To provide needed clarification, Mr. Gudis agreed to amend the amendment to add at the end of the first sentence, after "corporation," who is on duty at the time.

Following discussion concerning how the chain of command would operate under Mr. Gudis's proposed amendment, Mr. Sorrell suggested the need to add clarifying language that the DFRS may promulgate regulations to implement the provision.

Councilmember Gudis moved, duly seconded, to incorporate into the bill the executive regulation authorization language proposed by Mr. Sorrell, as amended by Councilmember Adams to include in the second line, after "Services," adopted after consultation with the Fire and Rescue Commission and the Fire and Rescue Corporations.

Councilmember Subin moved the question which did not receive a second.

Mr. Doolan, attorney representing some of the volunteer firefighters, expressed objection to the Council's acting on amendments without providing him the opportunity to speak concerning his proposed amendments.

In response to Mr. Doolan's comments regarding the lack of opportunity provided to review the amendments proposed by Councilmember Gudis prior to the meeting, Mr. Sorrell noted that the concepts suggested in Mr. Gudis's amendments are not new, having been discussed with Mr. Doolan and others for the past three weeks.

Councilmember Gudis, providing further clarification with respect to his proposed amendments, said that he is attempting to protect the volunteer firefighter system in the County and to alleviate inequities that paid employees have encountered in the past. Mr. Gudis said that he met with Mr. Doolan yesterday and discussed the general intent of his amendments with him; however, he was not sure of the specific wording of the amendments until early this morning. In his opinion, Mr. Doolan should be provided the opportunity to comment and to present his clients' amendments.

Councilmember Subin urged the Council to act on the previous motion and, subsequently, to consider and act on each of the amendments proposed by Mr. Gudis. He pointed out that the concepts incorporated into Mr. Gudis's proposed amendments have already been considered by the Council.

Following discussion, Mr. Doolan was provided the opportunity to present proposed amendments, as well as comment on Mr. Gudis's proposed amendments.

Mr. Doolan pointed out that the subject legislation was introduced to solve an immediate, alleged crisis in the payment of approximately $50,000 a week for overtime hours worked. However, he believes that, if the subject legislation is enacted, the costs of implementing the bill will be greater than $50,000 a week. He said that, as a result of meetings held with interested parties during the past few weeks and through legal research, a compromise has been reached that would make the corporations public agencies under the Fair Labor Standards Act. Since this approach has not received support from the Executive Branch, he believes that a solution can be reached through amendments to the subject bill proposed by himself and the Gaithersburg-Washington Grove Fire Department, Inc. In response to Councilmember Crenca's question, Mr. Doolan said that, while the public agency approach has not been withdrawn, it is felt that a solution to the overtime problem can be reached through amendments to the bill.

Following discussion and comments of Mr. Sorrell regarding the public agency option, in line with his letter to Mr. Doolan, dated October 6, 1987, the majority of the Council indicated that the public agency option should not be considered further.

Mr. Doolan said that, although he has not discussed Mr. Gudis's proposed amendments with his clients, they appear to provide partial solutions to major problems in the subject bill.

The Council then turned its attention to Mr. Doolan's proposed amendments, dated October 12, 1987 and included in the Council's packet. Mr. Doolan said that the amendments are an attempt to ensure that the County has ultimate control of the major decision making of the fire and rescue service, while maintaining specific aspects of operational control in the corporations.

With respect to the provision in Mr. Doolan's proposed amendment that staffing levels would be maintained at levels not less than those existing on September 30, 1987, Mr. Kendal, Director of the Office of Management and Budget, expressed the view that it would be inappropriate to include such a provision in the legislation because it conflicts with the budget review process. In response to Councilmember Adams' question, Mr. Kendal said that he anticipates only minimal staffing changes to be made in and among the fire and rescue corporations.

Councilmember Leggett expressed concern regarding legal loopholes that he believes exist in Mr. Doolan's proposed amendment that excludes employees' from wages, hours, or any other matter governed by the existing Fair Labor Standard Act or as it may be amended in the future providing an exception to orders issued by corporation personnel.

Following Council review and discussion with Mr. Doolan concerning his proposed amendments on discipline, assignment/reassignment, department positions, and anti-discrimination between career and volunteer officers of equal rank, Mr. Doolan requested and received concurrence from the Chair for a short recess for the purpose of meeting with Messrs. Gudis and Sorrell and other interested parties attempt to resolve the differences which exist between his proposed amendments and those proposed by Mr. Gudis.

The Council President requested that the results of the attempt to reach a compromise on proposed amendments to the subject bill be given to the Council.

Councilmember Gudis directed attention to his first amendment, as amended, set forth on page 2 of the subject minutes, suggesting that the following language be added:

> The corporations and any other interested person may recommend and provide information in connection with disciplinary action, including termination of employment affecting employees in the firefighter/rescuer occupational series.

Mr. Doolan expressed support for Mr. Gudis's proposed amendment, as amended.

ACTION: Adopted Councilmember Gudis's proposed amendment, as amended, and Mr. Sorrell's proposed amendment regarding executive regulation authority, as amended:

The board of directors of each corporation may authorize in writing one or more officers to give directions on the management of corporate activities and facilities to the senior County merit system firefighter assigned to that corporation who is on duty at the time. An authorized officer may, with the approval of the board of directors, delegate this authority to a subordinate officer. If more than one authorized corporation officer is present at a particular place and time, the direction of the senior corporation officer controls.

This is subject to executive regulations of the Department of Fire and Rescue Services adopted after consultation with the Fire and Rescue Commission and the fire and rescue corporations which shall provide for integration of corporation management directions into the chain of command.

by motion of Councilmember Gudis, without objection.

Councilmember Gudis moved, duly seconded, adoption of his proposed amendment allowing County employees to provide volunteer services for a corporation.

Mr. Gudis accepted Mr. Adams' proposed amendment to delete the third clause of his next amendment:

[(3) to the extent the services are prohibited by federal law or under federal law would result in the payment of overtime pay not otherwise paid]

ACTION: Adopted the following amendment, as amended:

The County must not prohibit or discourage any County employee from providing volunteer services for a corporation, except (1) a corporation to which the employee is assigned, or (2) to the extent the services are prohibited by the conflict-of-interest provisions of Chapter 19A

by motion of Councilmember Gudis, without objection.

Councilmember Gudis directed attention to his proposed amendment, as amended, in an attempt to provide language acceptable to all interested parties:

> The integrated emergency command structure must retain and encourage volunteer participation at all levels of the chain of command. Volunteers who meet the minimum requirements and standards of experience and training must be eligible to advance to all levels of the chain of command. Under the integrated chain of command, there shall be no discrimination between volunteer and career officers. As of volunteer and career officers of equal rank, seniority shall determine authority.

Councilmember Gudis accepted amendments proposed by Councilmember Hanna to add in the first sentence between "and" and "encourage" actively, and in the second sentence to substitute minimum for [applicable].

Mr. Sorrell expressed the view that the anti-discrimination concept should be defined by executive regulation.

Mr. Doolan explained the need to clarify in the law the criteria for advancing to all levels of the chain of command, and to indicate who is in charge if there are two officers of equal rank.

Councilmember Adams suggested that seniority and rank should be the determining factors, and Mr. Doolan concurred with the suggestion.

In the discussion that followed, Councilmember Adams suggested a substitute amendment to indicate that the integrated emergency command structure will continue to operate in the future as it is presently operated, and Mr. Sorrell and others presented suggested revisions to Mr. Gudis's amendment for Council consideration.

ACTION: Adopted Councilmember Gudis's proposed amendment, as amended to substitute Volunteers meeting the minimum standards and/or training will be eligible to advance to all levels of the chain of command and shall not be treated differently from merit system employees of equal rank in the integrated emergency command structure for [Under the integrated chain of command, there shall be no discrimination between volunteer and career officers. As of volunteer and career officers of equal rank, seniority shall determine authority]

by motion of Councilmember Adams, without objection.

Councilmember Gudis raised for consideration Mr. Doolan's proposed amendment regarding assignment/reassignment. Mr. Sorrell suggested the need to add Mr. Doolan's proposed amendment regarding the responsibility of the DFRS to make decisions affecting the hours worked by fire and rescue employees.

ACTION: Adopted Mr. Doolan's proposed amendment, as amended:

> The Department shall notify the corporation in advance of its intent to reassign and any such reassignment will be effected only in coordination and consultation with the local corporation with a view to ensuring adequate staffing levels for each corporation, provided, however, that this shall not impair the Department's authority to order emergency reassignments.
> Nothing in this subsection shall give any corporation any right or authority to affect the hours worked or to be worked by any individual in the firefighter/rescuer occupational series, it being the intent of this section that all decisions respecting such individuals' hours of work be made by the Department.
> by motion of Councilmember Hanna, Councilmember Leggett abstaining.

Councilmember Leggett abstained from voting on the foregoing amendment because of legal questions raised in the portion of the amendment that restricts the authority of the corporation with respect to hours of work.

Councilmember Gudis raised for consideration Mr. Doolan's proposed amendment regarding the volunteer coordinator position:

> Any volunteer coordinator appointed shall be under the direct supervision of the Fire and Rescue Commission.

Mr. Granados, Director of the Department of Fire and Rescue Services, explained that the volunteer coordinator position was recommended by the Red Ribbon Committee, a Committee appointed to study and make recommendations for improving elements of the County's fire and rescue service.

Discussion followed concerning the need for the volunteer coordinator position to be under the supervision of the Director of the DFRS. Councilmember Gudis suggested the possibility of amending the amendment to include: ... upon consultation and advice of the Fire Board.

Mr. Doolan said that the volunteer firefighters whom he represents believe it is essential that the volunteer coordinator position not be the same individual who is in charge of career personnel. It is felt that the volunteer coordinator should represent the views of the volunteer firefighters.

Councilmember Potter suggested that the language be amended to place the position under the DFRS with the advice and guidance of the Fire Board.

Councilmember Hanna suggested the title of the position be changed from [volunteer coordinator] to Director of Volunteer Recruitment and Retention.

Councilmember Leggett expressed the view that the position should be placed under the DFRS because the Director of the DFRS bears the responsibility for the Department.

Judge Cahoon, a member of the Red Ribbon Committee, said that he had understood only critical issues involving the fire and rescue services were to be considered at this time and that remaining issues would be considered later. Therefore, he is not prepared to discuss the recommendations of the Red Ribbon Committee. He noted that inherent in the recommendations of the Committee was the concept that, in the future, the Commission would make policy recommendations and the DFRS would have the administrative control. Since the Director is responsible for the operation of the department, he believes the position should be placed under the Director.

In response to Councilmember Crenca's question, Mr. Faden, Senior Legislative Attorney, said that the advertising for the subject law was sufficiently broad to cover the volunteer coordinator position.

Councilmember Adams moved, duly seconded, approval of the proposed amendment, as amended to change [Any] to The, and to change the title of the position from [volunteer coordinator] to Volunteer Coordinator for Recruitment and Retention. In making the motion, Councilmember Adams said that, although the logical place for the position to be placed is under the Director of the DFRS, this is an issue that the volunteer firefighters feel strongly about; also, the Executive Branch would exercise some control over the position since the County Executive appoints the members of the Fire and Rescue Commission. Mr. Adams accepted Mr. Hanna's proposed amendment to change the title of the position to Program Officer for Volunteer Recruitment and Retention.

Councilmember Potter suggested that an ombudsman position is needed in addition to the Program Officer position. He suggested that the Program Officer position be placed under the Director of the DFRS and that an ombudsman position, to be placed under the Fire and Rescue Commission, be considered as a separate issue now or later when the Red Ribbon Committee's report is reviewed.

Councilmember Gudis pointed out that the Program Officer will be a paid merit system employee and the Commission is subject to disciplinary actions by the County so it does not seem as important to him that the position be placed under the Director of the DFRS. He said that he hopes the individual filling this position will actively pursue the recruitment of volunteers in high schools, colleges, and other places. He requested that the Program Officer provide a semi-annual report on the recruitment of minorities to the County Council.

ACTION: Adopted Mr. Doolan's proposed amendment, as amended:

The Program Officer for Recruitment and Retention shall be under the direct supervision of the Fire and Rescue Commission.

by motion of Councilmember Adams

YEAS: Adams, Hanna, Gudis, Potter

NAYS: Crenca, Subin, Leggett.

Mr. Doolan expressed his gratitude to the County Executive and the County Council for working with him and his clients. He said that he believes the County government has demonstrated support for the volunteers by its actions and appreciates what has been accomplished. It is his intention to work with the County government in any way possible to make further improvements to an already excellent fire and rescue system.

ACTION: Adopted the following amendment set forth on page six of Mr. Faden's memorandum of October 15, 1987:

In Draft 2, page 9, after line 20, insert:

(C) The grade and increment level are not affected by the transfer, regardless of any changes in work hours or methods of calculating hourly rates.

(D) Fringe benefits must be paid in accordance with current County fire and rescue policies that apply to such positions.

(E) Premium pay and all other pay differentials must be paid in accordance with the duty assignment performed. Educational salary differentials are not affected by the transfer.

by motion of Councilmember Adams, without objection.

Adopted the following technical amendments:

On page 9, lines 13-14, substitute until January 15, 1988 for [For 90 days after the effective date of this law];

On page 9, line 16, substitute October for [September];

On page 9, substitute starting January 15, 1988 for [after the 90 day period];

On page 12, lines 12-13, substitute January 15, 1988 for [ninety (90) days from] and [after 90 days after the effective date of this law]

by motion of Councilmember Gudis, without objection.

Adopted the following amendment proposed by the Office of Legislative Oversight:

Within two years following the effective date of this legislation, the Office of Legislative Oversight will evaluate the validity of the goals and objectives, the effectiveness with which these goals and objectives have been accomplished, and the efficiency with which the fire, rescue and emergency services have operated under the organizational changes herein enacted.

by motion of Councilmember Gudis, without objection.

Councilmember Leggett expressed the view that the responsibility for problems which exist in the fire and rescue service with respect to the affirmative action program are the responsibility of the County Government. Although he had planned to introduce amendments to help alleviate these problems, he said he did not because he believes they may be addressed appropriately through implementation of the subject legislation. He said he will note carefully the progress made in increasing the number of minorities in the fire service, and propose changes if there is insufficient progress.

Councilmember Adams said that this is an administrative compromise that serves the public interest and all interested parties. He thanked Mr. Gudis for his effort in helping to reach a compromise and complimented the volunteers on their cooperation during this worksession.

Councilmember Gudis expressed his gratitude to all of those who helped with the bill and the amendments.

Councilmember Hanna noted that the basis for the subject legislation has been the desire of the County to maintain the present high level of fire and rescue service. He suggested that all interested parties give the legislation an opportunity for success.

ACTION: Adopted the following amendments as set forth in the subject bill:

AN EMERGENCY ACT to:

(1) authorize the Department of Fire and Rescue Services to:

[[(1)]] (a) Employ, pay and supervise all employees in the firefighter/rescuer occupational series paid by County Government revenues, including fire tax district funds;

Sec. 2. Section 21-4A of Chapter 21 is amended to read as follows:

[[Sec.]] 21-4A. Statement of intent; definitions.

(a) Legislative intent. It is the legislative intent of the county council, pursuant to section 101 of the charter of Montgomery County, to provide for adequate public safety, health and welfare through a fire, rescue and emergency medical services program that is highly competent, efficiently delivered, equitably administered and which utilizes [both career] county merit system, corporation and volunteer personnel. The council believes that ultimate responsibility for public safety through fire, rescue and emergency services rests with the county government. The council further believes that this program should reflect: maximum cost-effective performance of these services; recognition and promotion of the general, county-wide public interest; adequate accountability for service levels and resource use in a manner required of other public programs; fair representation and communication of all views regarding these services; and adequate response to past and projected growth in the county and its public safety requirements. To achieve these objectives a combined system of public and private resources is essential, including:

(1) Delivery of fire, rescue and emergency medical services through local corporations for as long as such corporations are willing and able to provide these services, and through the department when local corporations are unwilling or unable to provide these services or as otherwise provided by law;

(2) Provision of the policy and regulatory framework for the independent fire departments and rescue squads by a fire and rescue commission, deriving its authority from and acting on behalf of the county government;

(3) Policy advice to the fire and rescue commission by a fire board representing the independent fire departments and rescue squads; and

(4) Provision of support [services] by the department of fire and rescue services of the county government.

The council supports the delivery of fire, rescue and emergency services through the independent fire departments and rescue squads. Such decentralized service delivery must be done within a county-wide context and must be characterized by unity in emergency responses and uniformity in the application of all regulations. The council recognizes and respects the contributions of volunteers over many decades which have resulted not only in the protection of life and property in the county but also vital and generous private support for an essential public activity. The council acknowledges the years of volunteer effort, risk and sacrifice; the provision of time and money towards the purchase of equipment, apparatus and facilities; and the importance attached to the opportunities for public service and fellowship. The county will vigorously support the continuation and expansion of volunteer participation as a means of providing fire, rescue and emergency medical services in the most cost-effective way and encourage citizen participation in community activities. The county council hereby declares its policy intention that all county officials and employees actively encourage, and not in any way discourage, qualified volunteer participation.

(b) Purpose. It is the purpose of this chapter to promote the achievement of the following goals with respect to the provision of fire, rescue and emergency medical services:

(1) Maximum Protection for Life and Property. Provision of maximum cost-effective, equitable and responsive services to all county citizens, including adequate maximum response times, effective fire and rescue incident supervision, adequate manning, effective distribution of personnel and apparatus and timely adaptation to changing service needs. All organizations and participants comprising the fire, rescue and emergency medical services share the responsibility for improving their effectiveness and efficiency every year. Evidence of this improvement may be requested by the council at any time.

(2) Maximum Volunteer Participation. Maintenance and expansion of participation by volunteers in fire, rescue and emergency medical service operations and in policy-making.

(3) Optimum Personnel Practices. Promotion of equity and harmony among [both career employees] county merit system. corporation and volunteer[s] personnel; continual improvement in the capabilities of all personnel; effective personnel administration; and job performance and personal conduct of the highest caliber by [career] county merit system. corporation and volunteer personnel.

(4) Adequate Accountability. Adequate accountability to the citizens for service delivery, management practices and the use of public funds.

(5) Improved Operations and Administration. Minimizing of costs, including administrative overhead, apparatus and other expenses; and effective management of personnel, purchasing, maintenance, training and other programs.

President Crenca announced that there was an executive session scheduled immediately following this legislative session and that the subject was land acquisition.

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS

SUBJECT: Emergency Bill No. 42-87. Transfer of Operational Firefighters from Corporations to the Department of Fire and Rescue Services (DFRS)

Introduced Bill No. 42-87.

President Crenca noted that this was an emergency bill and that it was necessary to schedule the bill for hearing as soon as possible. Mr. Spengler, Council Staff Director, said that the public hearing is tentatively scheduled for Wednesday evening, September 16, and that the Council worksession is scheduled for September 21 at 9:30 A.M.

Mr. Kramer, County Executive, apologized to the Councilmembers for asking them to interrupt their vacations to introduce the bill. He said he had planned to address the bill through the normal legislative process at the same time the other recommendations of the Red Ribbon Committee are addressed. He noted, however, that the U. S. District Court has issued a ruling which made it necessary to address the employment status of the firefighters and rescuers on an emergency basis. The ruling requires that the career firefighters in the independent fire corporations be paid overtime for any hours worked in excess of 40 hours a week. If the firefighters were County merit system employees, they would not be eligible for overtime until they had worked 53 hours a week. He said that he has met with management personnel of the fire corporations and has asked their cooperation in arranging work schedules to minimize the impact of the overtime pending Council action. He has asked that public safety not be jeopardized and has assured them that he will seek a supplemental appropriation from the Council to fund the overtime payments until the issue is resolved. He said he has also asked Mr. Granados, Director, DFRS, to begin the process to hire a volunteer coordinator to promote volunteerism. He said he believes improvements can be made in the volunteer program and he would like to move in that direction.

Mr. Kramer said that he is asking two things of the Council: (1) that this bill be considered at the Council's earliest convenience; and (2) that the Council positively consider the proposal.

Councilmember Gudis said that he would like information available at the public hearing concerning the cost to the County if the firefighters and rescuers remain employees of the independent fire corporations and the cost if they become County merit system employees. He said he has been informed that individuals who are career employees will no longer be permitted to volunteer at other fire corporations if they are County employees.

Mr. Sorrell, Deputy County Attorney, explained the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) concerning overtime and the court ruling. He said there is a section of the statute concerning volunteer service which prohibits coercive activities or conspiracies between employers in an attempt to circumvent the overtime provisions. He said that in his opinion there is a greater risk of violating the intent of the law under the present system than there would be if the bill is passed. He said if the bill is enacted the County intends to remain neutral with respect to volunteer service to corporations other than the one to which the firefighters are assigned. Mr. Kramer assured the Council that he intends to do everything he can to assure that the firefighters are permitted to continue their volunteer service.

Councilmember Hanna said he cannot support the bill. He said he fears the court ruling is being used improperly to bring firefighters and rescuers under the County control. He said he does not believe the union will permit the firefighters to volunteer with other corporations and that bringing the firefighters into the County personnel system will discourage volunteerism and eventually be the demise of volunteer service. He said he believes there is room for improvement in the fire service and that these improvements can be made under the present system. He said he will do all he can to preserve the volunteer system.

Councilmember Potter said that he shares some of the concerns expressed by Councilmember Hanna, and he hopes that these concerns will be addressed at the public hearing. In response to his questions concerning the source of funds to pay the overtime, Mr. Kendal, Director, Office of Management and Budget, said that there are funds available in the fire district accounts that can be used to fund the supplemental appropriations. He said that, if the Council decides not to enact the bill, the County would advance the funds to the fire districts from the General Fund and repay the General Fund by levying a higher tax the following year.

Councilmember Adams said that he visited the Wheaton Rescue Squad Friday evening to talk to the rescuers about the bill and the issue of volunteer service. He said he spoke with Mr. Conway, President of the Career Firefighters Association, concerning the union's position on the volunteer service. He said he was assured that the union will take a position similar to the County and not prohibit the firefighters from volunteering at other departments. Councilmember Adams said he thinks it is important that the firefighters be treated in the same way the County treats other County employees.

In response to President Crenca's inquiry, Mr. Sorrell explained the provision of the bill which would not permit funds to be expended or distributed for payment of personnel costs for personnel employed by the independent corporations in the firefighter/rescuer occupational series after ninety days from the effective date of this law, if it is enacted by the Council. He said that, after the ninety-day period, the corporations will not be permitted to pay these employees with tax funds. He noted that the corporations will continue to have other employees paid by the corporations, such as clerical employees, and that this bill only applies to the operational firefighters and rescuers.

Mr. Kramer asked the Councilmembers to advise his staff of any questions that may be brought to their attention prior to the public hearing so that answers can be available at that time. He advised the Council that it will be more costly to the taxpayers if the firefighter/rescuer series is not brought under the County merit system.

SUBJECT: Bill 48-87, Collective Bargaining - Fire/Rescue Employees

Bill 48-87 is scheduled to be introduced on October 20, 1987, by the Council President at the request of the County Executive. It creates a third collective bargaining unit, primarily for the employees in the firefighter/rescuer classification below the rank of sergeant who will transfer to County employment as a result of the enactment of Bill 42-87 last week.

If this bill is enacted, the procedures for certifying a union representative, and the subjects of and procedures for bargaining will be the same as those for the other bargaining units. We understand that bargaining would begin about November 1, 1988 for the FY90 budget.

Some of the issues this bill raises are:

1) Does this set a precedent for the creation of other new bargaining units?

2) How will the 20-odd firefighter employees of DFRS who are now members of another bargaining unit be treated? They would fall within the new unit, but how will the transfer affect their pay and benefits and their right to file grievances?

3) The Fire/Rescue Communications Technician position included within this bargaining unit is a civilian position. (Currently only 1 person holds this position.) Does this set a precedent for inclusion of other civilian positions in public safety (police and fire) bargaining units?

RE: Amendments to the County Collective Bargaining Law to establish a separate Fire/Rescue Bargaining Unit

On Thursday, October 15, 1987 the County Council unanimously voted for emergency legislation to permit the transfer of paid County firefighters into the County merit system. As a consequence of this emergency legislation, the individuals encumbering the positions of Master Firefighter/Rescuer, Firefighter/Rescuer I, II, II and Fire/Rescue Communications Technician may become members of the collective bargaining unit defined by the provisions of the County Collective Bargaining Law.

I believe it is in the best interest of the County government, the affected employees and the County's collective bargaining program to be in a separate bargaining unit. Historically, firefighter/rescuers have been recognized as sharing a unique community of interest in labor relations and collective bargaining systems. Therefore, I am submitting the attached emergency legislation to amend the provisions of section 33-105 and 106 to create a separate Fire/Rescue Unit and to permit a 90 day period following the creation of the new bargaining unit for the acceptance of petitions from interested employee organizations seeking certification as the exclusive representative for the new bargaining unit.

The legislation also limits the bargaining unit's coverage to Master Firefighter/Rescuer, Firefigther/Rescuer I, II, III and Fire/Rescue Communications Technician classes. Supervisory employees, Sergeants and above, remain outside the bargaining unit and the coverage of collective bargaining consistent with the current provisions of the County Collective Bargaining Law.

This legislation is submitted as emergency legislation to ensure that the new bargaining unit is in place before the transfer of firefighters to the merit system.

I urge the immediate passage of this emergency legislation.

P R O C E E D I N G S

CHAIRMAN CRENCA: The meeting will please come to order. Good evening, ladies and gentlemen. This is a public hearing on Bill 48-87, Collective Bargaining, Fire and Rescue Employees, an emergency act to: 1) establish a Fire/Rescue collective bargaining unit; 2) establish a filing date for certification petitions for new bargaining units; and 3) generally amend certain collective bargaining provisions.

Persons wishing to submit additional information for the Council's consideration should do so by the close of business on Monday, November 9th, 1987.

Our first speaker this evening is listed as Mr. Garrett representing the County Executive, and not seeing Mr. Garrett, I suppose we have -- VOICE: Mr. Garrett just walked in.

CHAIRMAN CRENCA: Oh, Mr. Garrett is here. All right, Mr. Garrett, representing the County Executive. Good evening.

MR. GARRETT: Good evening, Madam President, members of Council. My name is William Garrett. I'm Personnel Director for Montgomery County Government. On behalf of the County Executive, I've been asked to provide testimony regarding Council Emergency Bill 48-87.

On October 15, 1987, the County Council unanimously voted for other emergency legislation, Council Bill 42-87, to permit the transfer of certain paid firefighters to the County Merit System. That legislation provides -- excuse me -- for voluntary transfer of eligible of eligible fire corporation employees into the County Merit System by January 15, 1988.

The definition section of the County Collective Bargaining Law, Montgomery County Code, which will be applicable to these transferred firefighters provides that firefighters below the rank of Sergeant will be employees within the meaning of the statute. Upon transfer, they would become part of the existing office, professional and technical bargaining unit.

Historically there are several reasons why it is in the interest of the Government and these employees to provide a separate bargaining unit for non-supervisory Fire/Rescue workers. The occupation of firefighter and public employee was the first job category to be recognized as requiring a separate bargaining unit due to the narrow and unique community of interest of firefighters. Indeed, the first firefighter bargaining unit was formed in the City of Cincinnati in 1897.

Over the intervening years, a pattern of separate bargaining units for firefighters has become ingrained in public employment. Today, in those State, County and

FMRRN TRANSCRIPT

Municipal and Governmental jurisdictions in which public employees enjoy collective bargaining, it is universally recognized that the community of interest shared by firefighters requires that the local government deal with firefighter employee organizations separate and apart from other employees and employee organizations.

Many Personnel policies, practices and working conditions which control Fire/Rescue employees' day to day work life are unique, including scheduling, uniforms, equipment, safety, training, promotion and performance evaluation. No other single occupational group, other than police officers, is the size, approximately 600 employees, of the non-supervisory Fire/Rescue work force. For all of the reasons, the County Executive believes it is in the best interest of the County Government, Personnel administration and management collective bargaining goals to create a separate bargaining unit for non-supervisory Fire/Rescue employees under the current provisions of the County collective bargaining law.

Item 1) This legislation introduced by Council President at the request of the County Council is emergency legislation. It's necessary for the Council to enact these recommended technical amendments to the County collective bargaining law on an emergency basis as a consequence of the timing of the transfer opportunity afforded eligible fire corporation employees. Specifically, Council Bill 42-87 provides for transfer of eligible corporation employees to the County Merit System by January 15, 1988. It's essential to act quickly to avoid confusion over whether these employees will have a separate bargaining unit or be part of the existing OPT bargaining unit of Local 400 and to avoid creating conflict with the existing collective bargaining agreements. For these reasons, the separate Fire/Rescue bargaining unit must exist before eligible corporation employees enter the County Merit System under the provisions of Bill 42-87; therefore, this legislation, Council Bill 48-87, has been submitted as emergency legislation to ensure that the new Fire/Rescue bargaining unit is in place before the transfer of eligible corporation employees into the County Merit System.

CORBY GROUP NJ: 1-800-822-0190

Item 2) The proposed legislation constitutes technical amendments to the existing County collective bargaining law. These technical amendments create a third bargaining unit entitled "The Fire/Rescue Unit" by amending Section 33-108(a) of the County collective bargaining law. Specifically, the section's reference to two units for collective bargaining is changed to three.

Further, the bill adds a definition of the new Fire/Rescue unit and establishes that the unit will be composed of the employees of the occupational classes of master firefighter and firefighter rescuer one, two and three. This bill provides a technical amendment to Section 33-105(b) of the law which gives authority for the creation of the Fire/Rescue unit through legislative amendment. This technical amendment is necessary because Fire/Rescue personnel employed by independent corporations, unlike certain County employees, were never covered by meet and confer legislation which was the genesis of the unit structure currently provided for in the County collective bargaining law.

FMARN TRANSCRIPT

Item 3) The proposed legislation establishes a 90 day period, usually known as a filing window, after the creation of the new bargaining unit to permit employee organizations to file representational petitions with the County labor relations administrator. If the County labor relations administrator finds that the petition filed during this period has valid signatures of 30 percent or more of the bargaining unit, a question concerning representation, which is referred to as the QCR, is raised, the QCR is resolved by an election among the bargaining unit employees conducted by the Maryland State Department of Labor.

This addition to the provisions of the County collective bargaining law is largely technical since the existing language allows for representational petitions only between September 1 and September 30 of any year a collective bargaining agreement is not in effect. This original 30 day filing window was legislated without consideration of the addition of new collective bargaining units.

Item 4) Due to the timing of implementation of the transfer of the eligible corporation employees, no employee organization can be certified as the exclusive representative of the new Fire/Rescue bargaining unit until the spring of 1988, even assuming that such an employee organization can raise a QCR by filing a valid petition with the labor relations administrator at the 30 percent level before the 90 day filing window has run. The applicable provision of the County collective bargaining law at Section 33-108 states, "Collective bargaining shall begin no later than November 1, before the beginning of a fiscal year for which there is no agreement between the employer and the certified representative". Therefore, the County will be under no duty to bargain a term or comprehensive collective bargaining agreement with any employee organization selected as the exclusive representative for the Fire/Rescue bargaining unit until November 1 of 1988; moreover, any such agreement would not take effect until July 1 of 1989; therefore, there will be no direct budgetary impact as a result of the creation of this bargaining unit until the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1989.

In summary, as a result of the Council's enactment of Bill 42-87, eligible corporation Fire/Rescue employees who choose to transfer into the County Merit System would become part of the existing OPT bargaining unit of Local 400. This bargaining unit is not an appropriate unit for Fire/Rescue workers in light of the occupation's history, community of interest and unique working conditions. To provide for the appropriate administration of the County's collective bargaining program, it is necessary to make a series of amendments to the provisions of the County collective bargaining law by emergency legislation.

FMRRN TRANSCRIPT

These amendments create a new Fire/Rescue bargaining unit, provide authority for establishment of the unit and establish a 90 day filing window following enactment for any employee organization to file an appropriate representation petition resulting in a representation election in accordance with applicable law. To ensure the continuing successful labor relations program here in the County and to protect the interests of County management while providing a full measure of self-determination to County Fire/Rescue workers, I urge the immediate passage of Bill 48-87.

CHAIRMAN CRENCA: Thank you, Mr. Garrett. Are there any questions? Mr. Allen.

MR. ALLEN: Well, Mother Crenca doesn't want her in here without the introduction --

CHAIRMAN CRENCA: That's right. Mother Crenca says that children are our greatest treasure and we want to make sure everybody knows they're here. We welcome you. We want you to know that your Daddy works hard all the time, and we're glad to have him here. He helps us out.

Are there any other comments or questions? Do any of you wish to say any additional comments? Nothing? Go ahead. Thank you very much.

MR. GARRETT: Thank you.

the Fire Department and the Police Department when it comes to law breaking.

MR. CONWAY: Madam President, and I think you can hear me. Madam President and gentlemen of the Council, I thank you for this opportunity to come before you tonight and speak on behalf of Bill 48-87. Along with the copy of my short, very short testimony is the copy of a letter from Thomas McNutt of Local 400 giving us his blessings and Mr. Water Bader of the FOP of Montgomery County doing likewise.

On behalf of the Montgomery County career firefighters I'd like to thank you for this opportunity to speak on Bill 48-87 which addresses the creation of a separate bargaining unit for the County firefighters and rescue squadsmen. With the advent of County employment for fire service employees came the necessity of creating a separate bargaining unit.

Firefighters have unique working conditions and special safety concerns. These matters would most effectively be addressed by the formation of this separate unit. The citizens back in 1984 overwhelming expressed their support for collective bargaining for their County employees. I believe they would feel as spirited about Bill 48-87 as they did about that original bill.

I have confidence that you, as elected trustees of the public's interest, will feel likewise. The intricacies of the working conditions, safety concerns, and hours worked by fire service personnel are ones that require special considerations. With the establishment of a separate bargaining unit, these concerns most effectively will be addressed. It is for these reasons we ask for your support of Bill 48-87. Thank you very much.

CHAIRMAN CRENCA: Thank you. Are there any questions?

VOICE: You got here just in time. It's over. It's over.

CHAIRMAN CRENCA: Then do I understand, Mr. Conway, that then generally there are no real questions to be raised that you find the legislation, the proposed legislation acceptable and that the Executive does also, and it ought to be a breeze for us to go through?

MR. CONWAY: I think on all parties concerned, that we're very happy about the resolution.

CHAIRMAN CRENCA: All right. Thank you. Are there any others who wish to be heard? Then I will consider the hearing closed and look forward to the work session. Thank you.

VOICE: Thanks for stopping by, Bill.

(Whereupon, at 7:50 p.m., the hearing was adjourned.)

RE: Council Bill 48-87
Collective Bargaining - Firefighters

Dear President Crenca:

I am writing to express Lodge 35's support for Council Bill 48-87. This bill, provides for a separate collective bargaining unit for certain fire/rescue employees as authorized by Charter Section 511, approved by the voters of Montgomery County in November 1986.

As you well know, most of the County's fire/rescue personnel have, until just recently, been employed by separate "quasi-public" fire departments, but are now County employees. See Council Bill 42-87.

Given the unique nature of fire/rescue work and the Council's vote to make fire/rescue personnel County employees, we honestly believe that this bill, if passed, will accomplish a legitimate purpose and that it is in the best interest of the deserving citizens of our community.

Fire/rescue employees perform jobs and have needs unique to their profession which are significantly different than those of all other County employees. Moreover, they are essential to the protection of the life, health and safety of each and every County resident.

This legislation is consistent with that of many other area governments where fire/rescue personnel are represented by a separate bargaining representative. E.g. Prince Georges County; Washington, D.C.; Baltimore City; Anne Arundel County.

In sum, fire/rescue personnel of Montgomery County have recently been made County employees. They have a community of interest and perform unique, vital lifesaving functions. Therefore, we encourage the Council to vote for Council Bill 43-87 to allow fire/rescue personnel to collectively bargain over those matters previously declared appropriate for bargaining. This right is already afforded area fire/rescue personnel and is in the best interest of the public.

Your consideration is most greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,

Walter E. Bader

CALL OF BILLS FOR FINAL READING

SUBJECT: Bill No. 43-87. Streets and Roads - Covered Loads

Councilmember Hanna commented on the number of years that it has taken to enact this type of legislation. He said the legislation has received an overwhelming positive response from citizens and expressed the wish that the State Legislature would enact similar legislation to replace the existing State law which is difficult to enforce.

Councilmember Potter directed attention to an amendment proposed by Senior Legislative Attorney Faden, the second page of Mr. Faden's memorandum to the Council, dated November 17, 1987, drafted in response to a concern expressed by Mr. Neumann, attorney, about the need to include in the definition of "loose material" the word "dust" and the phrase "or emit significant quantities of dust." In the discussion that followed, it was agreed that "dust" is already covered in the definition of "loose material" set forth in Section 49-21A(c)(1).

Councilmember Leggett said that he will vote in favor of enactment of the bill, commending Councilmember Hanna for his work on the legislation. He said that he is concerned that the law will be challenged on the basis that it is preempted by state law, and urged citizens to lobby the State Legislature to enact a similar law that will resolve the problems that exist.

ACTION: Approved the following amendments:

Sec. 1. Chapter 49 is amended by adding section 49-21A as follows:

49-21A. Covered Loads.

(a) A person must not carry any loose or bulky material in a motor vehicle on any County road, as defined in section 49-31, unless that part of the motor vehicle in which the load is carried is:

(1) fully enclosed on the bottom and all sides, and

(2) covered on the top by a firmly secured cover sufficient to contain all loose or bulky material, if the vehicle does not have a roof that covers the entire area in which the load is carried.

(b) A cover [[is]] and (for bulky material) sides are not required if the material is contained or secured by other means that prevent its escape.

(c) As used in this section:

(1) "loose material" includes dirt, ash, sand, pebbles, rocks, gravel, metal, glass, wood chips, and any other substance that can readily blow off or drop from a vehicle;

(2) "bulky material" includes bricks, cinder blocks, lumber, logs, gypsum board, barrels, pipes, furniture, and any other items that can readily drop from a vehicle.

(d) This section does not apply to:

(1) a government agency, or a contractor hired by a government agency, that is using a motor vehicle to:

(A) drop sand, salt or other materials to improve traction;

(B) spread water or another substance to clean a road; or

(C) collect newspapers for recycling.

(2) a vehicle transporting agricultural products [[in their natural state]] as harvested.

(3) a construction or mining vehicle only when it is:

(A) crossing a highway, or

(B) moving between construction barricades on a public works project.

(e) The County Executive may issue regulations under method 2 to implement this section.

(f) Any violation of this section is a class B violation.

ACTION: Enacted Bill No. 43-87, as amended

by motion of Councilmember Hanna, by a roll call vote:

SUBJECT: Bill No. 44-87. Sutherland Agricultural Land Preservation District

Councilmember Potter said that this completes an action that the Council has looked forward to for some time. This represents part of the State procedures for establishing an agricultural easement and purchasing development rights from an owner for the purpose of preserving agricultural land for the future.

Councilmember Crenca expressed the view that the process of preserving agricultural land through the establishment of an agricultural district is a better way to preserve agricultural land than through the Transferable Development Rights process.

ACTION: Enacted Bill No. 44-87

by motion of Councilmember Potter, by a roll call vote:

YEAS: Hanna, Adams, Leggett, Potter, Crenca

SUBJECT: Emergency Bill No. 48-87, Collective Bargaining-Fire/Rescue Employees

Councilmember Hanna asked whether the items that are negotiable by the two existing employee bargaining units will apply to the subject unit under the subject legislation. Staff Director Spengler said that the subject bill amends the collective bargaining law; therefore the new bargaining unit has the same bargaining rights as the other two units.

Councilmember Hanna moved, duly seconded, to amend the subject bill to delete pension plans from the items that can be negotiated by the Fire/Rescue collective bargaining unit.

Councilmember Potter questioned whether the motion is in order in view of the advertising for the legislation. Senior Legislative Attorney Faden said that a general clause is included in the title of the legislation to provide the Council with some flexibility to amend legislation; in this case, he believes the deletion of pension plans would fit within this phrase, but that this could be challenged.

Councilmember Hanna suggested that, if his amendment is not in order, the bill be withdrawn from the agenda. Councilmember Leggett said that if there is the possibility that Mr. Hanna's proposed amendment could be challenged, he believes the Council should defer action for a week to provide the opportunity for staff to investigate the issue and prepare a memorandum on the subject. Mr. Leggett noted that the inclusion of pensions as a negotiable item could create a heavy financial burden for the County. Councilmember Adams suggested that, if the Council does defer action on the bill, the Council receive a briefing on the issues, as well as a memorandum, and that interested parties be notified of the deferral and rescheduling of the bill on the Council's agenda. Councilmember Potter suggested the need for a new bill to be drafted to address the pension issue since it applies to all of the collective bargaining units.

Mr. Rogers, Chief, Labor/Employee Relations and Training, explained that the bargaining units represented by the Montgomery County Employees Organization (MCGEO), UFCW, Local 400, as well as the bargaining unit of the Police Department, have the right to negotiate pension benefits. He said that the subject bill is a technical amendment to the County's labor law and includes firefighters as a separate bargaining unit.

In setting forth his reasons for objecting to pensions as negotiable items for collective bargaining, Councilmember Hanna expressed concern about the financial impact that could be placed on the County government as a result of pension negotiations, particularly since the County has a defined benefit pension plan.

Councilmember Potter suggested that the Council recess its legislative session, so that this issue could be discussed later today after the Council meets in executive session concerning contractual issues involving collective bargaining.

Mr. Rogers explained the process that the new bargaining unit would have to initiate to become a certified unit. He pointed out that bargaining under the law could not occur until November 1988 and that the contract negotiated would not become effective until July 1, 1989. He said that if the subject law is not enacted the firefighters would be part of the Office, Professional and Technical Unit which is currently engaged in collective bargaining. Mr. Rogers noted that, under the collective bargaining legislation, pensions were not negotiable for one year after the effective date of the law (September 29, 1986).

Councilmember Subin suggested that the Council enact the subject legislation and that the pension issue be given to the Personnel Committee for consideration.

Councilmember Hanna withdrew his motion to amend the subject legislation, noting that he agrees with the alternative of addressing the issue for all employees.

ACTION: Enacted Bill No. 48-87

by motion of Councilmember Leggett, by a roll call vote:

YEAS: Hanna, Adams, Leggett, Potter, Subin, Crenca

ABSENT: Gudis.

Council President Crenca assigned the issue of collective bargaining for pension and other retirement benefits to the Personnel Committee.

The meeting adjourned at 10:04 P.M.

(Secretary's Note: After adjournment, at 12:25 P.M., the Council held another legislative session which was called by the President, without objection.)

SUBJECT: Bill No. 43-87. Streets and Roads - Covered Loads

Councilmember Subin moved, duly seconded, reconsideration of Bill No. 43-87, for the purpose of supporting Councilmember Hanna's legislation, since he was completing military reserve duty at the time the bill was enacted.

ACTION: Reconsidered Bill No. 43-87

by motion of Councilmember Subin, without objection.

Adopted amendments to the bill, as set forth in the earlier legislative session;

Enacted the Bill No. 43-87

by motion of Councilmember Hanna, by a roll call vote:

YEAS: Hanna, Adams, Leggett, Potter, Subin and Crenca

ABSENT: Gudis.

Introduced: August 15, 1994
Adopted: August 15, 1994

COUNTY COUNCIL
FOR MONTGOMERY COUNTY, MARYLAND

By: County Council

Subject: Proposed Amendments to County Charter by petition; ballot titles

Background

(1) Section 5 of Article XI-A of the Constitution of Maryland provides that amendments to the Charter of Montgomery County may be proposed by a petition signed by at least 10,000 registered voters of the County.

(2) Under Section 23-1 of Article 33 of the Annotated Code of Maryland, proposed Charter amendments must be certified to the Board of Supervisors of Elections on or before the third Monday in August in the year in which there will be a general or Congressional election at which those Charter amendments are to be submitted to the voters.

(3) A petition to amend Section 511 of the Charter and add Section 510A to the Charter has been filed with the Board of Supervisors of Elections. The Board of Supervisors of Elections has not determined whether the petition qualifies for inclusion on the 1994 general election ballot.

(4) A petition to amend Section 305 of the Charter has also been filed with the Board of Supervisors of Elections. The Board of Supervisors of Elections has not determined whether the petition qualifies for inclusion on the 1994 general election ballot.

(5) Section 16-16 of the Montgomery County Code provides that a ballot title or summary, prepared by the Council, of all proposed Charter amendments shall appear in print on the voting machine or ballot.

Action

The County Council for Montgomery County, Maryland approves the following resolution:

(1) If the following Charter amendment qualifies for inclusion on the 1994 general election ballot, the following ballot title shall appear on the ballot as Question C.

C

By petition the voters of Montgomery County propose to amend Section 511 of the Charter of Montgomery County, and add Section 510A to the Charter of Montgomery County, to read as follows:

Section 510A Collective Bargaining - Fire Fighters

The Montgomery County Council shall provide by law for collective bargaining with binding arbitration with an authorized representative of the Montgomery County career fire fighters. Any law so enacted shall prohibit strikes or work stoppages by career fire fighters.

Section 511 Collective Bargaining - County Employees

The Montgomery County Council may provide by law for collective bargaining, with arbitration or other impasse resolution procedures, with authorized representatives of officers and employees of the County government not covered by either Section 510 or Section 510A of this Charter. Any law so enacted shall prohibit strikes or work stoppages for such officers and employees.

The ballot title shall be designated and read as follows:

Question C

Collective Bargaining - Fire Fighters

Amend Section 511 of the County Charter, and add Section 510A to the County Charter, to require the County Council to enact a law providing for collective bargaining with binding arbitration with a representative of the County career fire fighters, and reaffirm the existing requirement in the Charter that collective bargaining laws include a prohibition against strikes or work stoppages by employees covered by collective bargaining.

(2) If the following Charter amendment qualifies for inclusion on the 1994 general election ballot, the following ballot title shall appear on the ballot as Question D, except that it shall appear as Question C if the Charter amendment designated as Question C above does not qualify for inclusion on the ballot.

D

By petition the voters of Montgomery County propose to amend Section 305 of the Charter of Montgomery County to read as follows:

Section 305 Approval of the Budget; Tax Levies

The Council may add to, delete from, increase or decrease any appropriation item in the operating or capital budget. The Council shall approve each budget, as amended, and appropriate the funds therefor not later than June 1 of the year in which it is submitted. An aggregate operating budget which exceeds the aggregate operating budget for the preceding fiscal year by a percentage increase greater than that of the Consumer Price Index for all urban consumers for the Washington metropolitan area for the twelve months preceding December first of each year requires the affirmative vote of six Councilmembers. For the purposes of this section, the aggregate operating budget shall exclude operating budgets for enterprise funds, the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission, the bi-county portion of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission, and the Washington Suburban Transit Commission. The Council, sitting as a spending affordability committee, shall annually adopt spending affordability guidelines for the capital and operating budgets, including guidelines for the aggregate capital and aggregate operating budgets. The Council shall by law establish the process and criteria for adopting spending affordability guidelines. Any aggregate capital budget or aggregate operating budget that exceeds the guidelines then in effect requires the affirmative vote of seven Councilmembers for approval.

[By June 30 each year, the Council shall make tax levies deemed necessary to finance the budgets. Unless approved by an affirmative vote of seven Councilmembers, the Council shall not levy an ad valorem tax on real property to finance the budgets that will produce total revenue that exceeds the total revenue produced by the tax on real property in the preceding fiscal year plus a percentage of the previous year's real property tax revenues that equals any increase in the Consumer Price Index as computed under this section. This limit does not apply to revenue from (1) newly constructed property, (2) newly rezoned property, (3) property that, because of a change in state law, is assessed differently than it was assessed in the previous tax year, (4) property that has undergone a change in use, and (5) any development district tax used to fund capital improvement projects.]

Before June 30 each year, the Council shall make tax levies deemed necessary to finance the budgets. The Council shall not levy an ad valorem tax on real property to finance the budgets that will produce total revenue that exceeds the total revenue produced by the tax on real property in the preceding fiscal year (Previous Year's Ad Valorem Tax) (PYAVT), plus a percentage of the previous year's real property tax revenues that equals any increase in the Consumer Price Index as computed under this Section (Consumer Price Index Increase) (CPII), plus any increase in revenue from (1) newly rezoned property, (2) property that, because of a change in state law, is assessed differently than it was assessed in the previous tax year and (3) property that has undergone a change in use (Property Change Increase) (PCI), plus new revenues (1) from newly constructed property and (2) from any development district tax used to fund capital improvement projects (New Source Revenues) (NSR), minus the previous year's County income tax revenues in excess of the 52% level of state income tax (Previous Year's Excess Piggyback Tax) (PYEPT).

The formula for the County ad valorem tax levy shall thus be: PYAVT + CPII + PCI + NSR - PYEPT.

The above provisions shall not be overriden except in the case of an emergency and then only upon the unanimous vote of all Councilmembers.

The ballot title shall be designated and read as follows:

Question D

Property Tax - Relation to Income Tax

Amend Section 305 of the County Charter to:

-- allow property and income tax rate restrictions to be overridden only in an emergency and by a unanimous vote of all Councilmembers; and

--require the County Council, when setting rates for the real property tax, to reduce the total revenue produced by that tax in any fiscal year by the amount of revenue received during the preceding fiscal year from the county income tax in excess of the revenue that would have been received if the income tax rate were 52% of the state income tax.

ARTICLE X. FIRE AND RESCUE COLLECTIVE BARGAINING.

33-147. Declaration of policy.

The public policy of Montgomery County is to promote a harmonious, peaceful, and cooperative relationship between the County government and its fire and rescue employees and to protect the public by assuring, at all times, the responsive, orderly, and efficient operation of the Department of Fire and Rescue

Services. Since unresolved disputes in the fire and rescue service harm the public and fire and rescue employees, adequate means should be available to prevent disputes and resolve them when they occur. To that end, it is in the public interest that fire and rescue employees have the opportunity to bargain collectively over wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment, through a representative of their choice, or to refrain from collective bargaining. It is also in the public interest that the County government and a representative of fire and rescue employees bargain collectively in good faith without interference with the orderly process of government, and that they implement any agreement reached through collective bargaining.

Fire and rescue employee organizations and the County government each possess substantial means for initiating actions on wages, hours, and working conditions of employees. Therefore, in order to preserve an appropriate balance between labor and management in the fire and rescue service, once the employees voluntarily select a representative collective bargaining must be used in place of, and not in addition to, existing means to initiate government action on subjects that are appropriate for collective bargaining under this Article.

33-148. Definitions.

The following terms have the meaning indicated when used in this Article:

(1) Agency shop means a provision in a collective bargaining agreement requiring, as a condition of continued employment, that bargaining unit employees pay a service fee not greater than the monthly membership dues uniformly and regularly required by the employee organization of all of its members. An agency shop agreement must not require an employee to pay initiation fees, assessments, fines, or any similar collections as a condition of continued employment. A collective bargaining agreement must not require payment of a service fee by any employee who opposes joining or financially supporting an employee organization on religious grounds. However, the collective bargaining agreement may require that employee to pay an amount equal to the service fee to a nonreligious, nonunion charity, or to any other charitable organization, agreed to by the employee and the certified representative, with provision for dispute resolution if there is not agreement, and to give to the employer and the certified representative written proof of this payment. The certified representative must adhere at all times to all federal constitutional requirements in its administration of any agency shop system maintained by it.

(2) Certified representative means an employee organization chosen to represent the unit as the exclusive bargaining agent in accordance with this Article or Article VII.

(3) Collective bargaining means meeting at reasonable times and places and negotiating in good faith on appropriate subjects as defined under this Article. This Article does not compel either party to agree to a proposal or make a concession.

(4) Employee means any fire and rescue employee in the classification of Master Firefighter/Rescuer, Firefighter/Rescuer III, Firefighter/Rescuer II, and Firefighter/Rescuer I, but not any employee:

(A) in a probationary status, or

(B) in the classification of Fire/Rescue Sergeant or any equivalent or higher classification.

(5) Employee organization means any organization that admits employees to membership and that has as a primary purpose the representation of employees in collective bargaining. The organization must not admit to membership any person other than fire and rescue service personnel.

(6) Employer means the County Executive and the Executive's designee.

(7) Lockout means any action that the employer takes to interrupt or prevent the continuity of work properly and usually performed by the employees for the purpose and with the intent of either coercing the employees into relinquishing rights guaranteed by this Article or of bringing economic pressure on employees for the purpose of securing the agreement of their certified representative to certain collective bargaining terms.

(8) Mediation means an effort by an impasse neutral chosen under this Article to assist confidentially in resolving, through interpretation, suggestion, and advice, a dispute arising out of collective bargaining between the employer and the certified representative.

(9) Strike means a concerted failure to report for duty, absence, stoppage of work, or abstinence in whole or in part from the full and faithful performance of the duties of employment with the employer, or deviation from normal or proper work duties or activities, where any of these acts are done in a concerted manner for the purpose of inducing, influencing, or coercing the employer in the determination, implementation, interpretation, or administration of terms or conditions of employment or of the rights, privileges, or obligations of employment or of the status, recognition, or authority of the employee or an employee organization.

(10) Unit means all employees, as defined in this Section, who are associated with fire suppression, fire protection, fire communications, fire service training, rescue, and emergency medical services, and whose duties include the rescue and safety of individuals and the preservation of structures and physical property.

33-149. Labor Relations Administrator.

(a) A Labor Relations Administrator must be appointed to effectively administer this Article as it governs selection, certification and decertification procedures, prohibited practices, and the choice of an impasse neutral. The Administrator must:

(1) periodically adopt, amend, and repeal, under method (1), regulations and procedures to carry out the Administrator's duties under this Article;

(2) request from the employer or employee organization, and the employer or employee organization may at its discretion provide, any relevant assistance, service, and data that will enable the Administrator to properly carry out duties under this Article;

(3) hold hearings and make inquiries, administer oaths and affirmations, examine witnesses and documents, take testimony and receive evidence, and compel by issuance of subpoenas the attendance of witnesses and the production of relevant documents;

(4) conduct elections to certify or decertify an employee organization under this Article, and issue the certification or decertification;

(5) investigate and attempt to resolve or settle, as provided in this Article, charges of engaging in prohibited practices, but the Administrator must defer to the parties' grievance procedure if:

(A) the employer and the certified representative have negotiated a valid grievance procedure to resolve disputes, and

(B) deferral to the grievance procedure would not result in the application of principles repugnant to this Article;

(6) determine whether a person is properly included in or excluded from the unit;

(7) obtain any necessary support services and make necessary expenditures in the performance of duties to the extent the County has appropriated funds for these purposes; and

(8) exercise any other powers and perform any other duties and functions specified in this Article.

(b) The Labor Relations Administrator must be a person with experience as a neutral in labor relations, and must not be a person who, because of vocation, employment, or affiliation, can be classed as a representative of the interest of the employer or any employee organization.

(c) The County Executive must appoint the Labor Relations Administrator from a list of 5 nominees agreed on by the certified representative and the Chief Administrative Officer. The County Council must confirm the appointment. If there is no certified representative, the County Executive must appoint an Administrator, with the confirmation of the County Council. If the County Council does not confirm an appointment, the County Executive must appoint another person from a new agreed list of 5 nominees and submit that appointee to the County Council for confirmation. The Administrator serves a term of 5 years. An incumbent Administrator is automatically reappointed for another 5-year term unless, during the period between 60 and 30 days before the term expires, the certified representative notifies the employer or the employer notifies the certified representative that it objects to the reappointment.

(d) The Labor Relations Administrator must be paid a daily fee as specified by contract with the County, and must be reimbursed for necessary expenses incurred in performing the duties of Administrator.

33-150. Employee rights.

(a) Employees have the right to:

(1) form, join, support, contribute to, or participate in, or refrain from forming, joining, supporting, contributing to, or participating in, any employee organization or its lawful activities; and

(2) be represented fairly by their certified representative, if any.

(b) The employer must extend to the certified representative the exclusive right to represent the employees for the purposes of collective bargaining, including the orderly processing and settlement of grievances as agreed by the parties under this Article.

(c) A certified representative serves as the exclusive bargaining agent for all employees in the unit and must represent fairly and without discrimination all employees in the unit without regard to whether the employees are members of the employee organization, pay dues or other contributions to it, or participate in its affairs. However, it is not a violation of this duty for a certified representative to seek enforcement of an agency shop provision in a valid collective bargaining agreement.

(d) The right of a certified representative to receive voluntary dues or service fee deductions or agency shop provisions must be determined through negotiations, unless the authority to negotiate these provisions has been suspended under this Article. Other than an agency shop provision, a collective bargaining agreement must not require membership in, participation in the affairs of, or contributions to an employee organization.

33-151. Selection, certification, and decertification procedures.

(a) Any employee organization seeking certification as representative of the unit must file a petition with the Labor Relations Administrator stating its name, address, and its desire to be certified. The employee organization must also send a copy of the petition, including a copy of the signatures of the supporting employees on the petition, to the employer. The petition must contain the uncoerced signatures of 30 percent of the employees in the unit, signifying their desire to be represented by the employee organization for purposes of collective bargaining.

(b) If an employee organization has been certified, an employee in the unit may file a petition with the Administrator to decertify the certified representative. The employee must also send a copy of the petition to the employer and the certified representative, not including the names of the supporting employees. The petition must contain the uncoerced signatures of 30 percent of the employees in the unit, alleging that the certified employee organization is no longer the choice of the majority of the employees in the unit.

(c) If a lawful collective bargaining agreement is not in effect, a petition may be filed under this Section in September of any year, but not sooner than 22 months after an election held under this Section.

(d) If a lawful collective bargaining agreement is in effect, a petition filed under this Section must not be entertained unless it is filed during September of the final year of the agreement.

(e) If the Administrator finds that a petition is properly supported and timely filed, the Administrator must hold an election of all eligible employees within a reasonable time, but no later than the next October 20, to determine if and by whom the employees wish to be represented.

(1) The election must be supervised by the Administrator and must be conducted by secret ballot at the time and place that the Administrator directs. The Administrator may retain the services of a State agency responsible for conducting labor elections, or a similarly neutral body, to assist in conducting the election.

(2) The election ballots must contain, as choices to be made by the voter, the name of each petitioning or certified employee organization, the name of any other employee organization showing written proof at least 10 days before the election of at least 10 percent representation of the employees in the unit in the same manner as described in paragraph (a), and a choice that the employee does not desire to be represented by any of the named employee organizations.

(3) The employer and each party to the election may be represented by observers selected under conditions that the Administrator prescribes.

(4) Observers selected under paragraph (3) may challenge for good cause the eligibility of any person to vote in the election. All challenged ballots must be impounded until either the parties agree on the validity of each challenge or the Administrator decides the validity of each challenge. However, if the number of challenges will not determine the outcome of the election, the challenged ballots must be destroyed.

(5) After the polls have been closed, the Administrator must count all valid ballots cast in the presence of the observers.

(6) The Administrator must immediately prepare and serve on the employer and each party a report certifying the results of the election. If an employee organization receives the votes of a majority of the employees who voted, the Administrator must certify that organization as the exclusive agent.

(7) If no employee organization receives the votes of a majority of the employees who voted, the Administrator must not certify a representative. Unless a majority of the employees who vote choose ``no representative,'' a runoff election must be conducted. The runoff election must contain the 2 choices that received the largest and second largest number of votes in the original election.

(f) The Administrator's certification of results is final unless, within 7 days after service of the report and the certification, any party serves on all other parties and files with the Administrator objections to the election. All objections must be verified and contain a concise statement of facts constituting the grounds for each objection. The Administrator must investigate all objections and, if substantial factual issues exist, must hold a hearing. Otherwise, the Administrator may decide the matter without a hearing. The Administrator may invite, either by rule or by invitation, written or oral argument to assist in deciding the merits of the objections. If the Administrator finds that the election was conducted in substantial conformity with this Article, the Administrator must confirm the certification initially issued. If the Administrator finds that the election was not held in substantial conformity with this Article, then the Administrator must hold another election under this Section.

(g) The County must pay the cost of conducting each election.

33-152. Collective bargaining.

(a) Duty to bargain; matters subject to bargaining. When an employee organization is certified, the employer and the certified representative must bargain collectively with respect to:

(1) salary and wages, including the percentage of the increase in the salary and wages budget that is devoted to merit increments and cash awards, but salaries and wages must be uniform for all employees in the same classification;

(2) pension and other retirement benefits for active employees only;

(3) employee benefits such as, but not limited to, insurance, leave, holidays, and vacations;

(4) hours and working conditions;

(5) procedures for the orderly processing and settlement of grievances concerning the interpretation and implementation of any collective bargaining agreement, which may include:

(A) binding third party arbitration, but the arbitrator has no authority to amend, add to, or subtract from any provision of the collective bargaining agreement; and

(B) provisions for exclusivity of forum;

(6) matters affecting the health and safety of employees; and

(7) amelioration of the effect on employees when the exercise of employer rights listed in subsection (b) causes a loss of existing jobs in the unit.

(b) Employer rights. This article and any collective bargaining agreement made under it must not impair the right and responsibility of the employer to:

(1) determine the overall budget and mission of the employer and any agency of County government;

(2) maintain and improve the efficiency and effectiveness of operations;

(3) determine the services to be rendered and the operations to be performed;

(4) determine the overall organizational structure, methods, processes, means, job classifications, and personnel by which operations are conducted, and the location of facilities;

(5) direct and supervise employees;

(6) hire, select, and establish the standards governing promotion of employees, and classify positions;

(7) relieve employees from duties because of lack of work or funds, or when the employer determines continued work would be inefficient or nonproductive;

(8) take actions to carry out the mission of government in emergency situations;

(9) transfer, assign, and schedule employees;

(10) determine the size, grades, and composition of the work force;

(11) set standards of productivity and technology;

(12) establish employee performance standards and evaluate employees, but evaluation procedures are subject to bargaining;

(13) make and implement systems for awarding outstanding service increments, extraordinary performance awards, and other merit awards;

(14) introduce new or improved technology, research, development, and services;

(15) control and regulate the use of machinery, equipment, and other property and facilities of the employer, subject to subsection (a)(6);

(16) maintain internal security standards;

(17) create, alter, combine, contract out, or abolish any job classification, department, operation, unit, or other division or service, but the employer must not contract work which will displace employees unless it gives written notice to the certified representative 90 days before signing the contract or other notice agreed by the parties;

(18) suspend, discharge, or otherwise discipline employees for cause, except that, subject to Charter Section 404, any such action may be subject to a grievance procedure included in a collective bargaining agreement; and

(19) issue and enforce rules, policies, and regulations necessary to carry out these and all other managerial functions which are not inconsistent with this Article, federal or state law, or the terms of a collective bargaining agreement.

(c) Exemption. This Article does not limit the discretion of the employer voluntarily to discuss with the representatives of its employees any matter concerning the employer's exercise of any right specified in this Section. However, any matter so discussed is not subject to bargaining.

(d) The public employer rights specified in this Section must be incorporated by reference in every agreement reached between the employer and the employee organization.

33-153. Bargaining, impasse, and legislative procedures.

(a) Collective bargaining must begin no later than the November 1 before the beginning of a fiscal year for which there is no agreement between the employer and the certified representative, and must be completed on or before January 15. The resolution of a bargaining impasse must be completed by February 1. These time limits may be waived or extended by written agreement of the parties.

(b) Any provision for automatic renewal or extension of a collective bargaining agreement is void. An agreement is void if it extends for less than 1 year or more than 3 years. Each collective bargaining agreement must take effect July 1 and end June 30.

(c) A collective bargaining agreement takes effect only after ratification by the employer and the certified representative. The certified representative may adopt its own ratification procedures.

(d) Before November 10 of any year in which the employer and the certified representative bargain collectively, they must choose an impasse neutral, either by agreement or through the processes of the American Arbitration Association. The impasse neutral must be available from January 15 to February 1. The impasse neutral's fees and expenses must be shared equally by the employer and the certified representative.

(e) During the course of collective bargaining, either party may declare an impasse and request the services of the impasse neutral, or the parties may jointly request those services before declaring an impasse. If the parties have not agreed on a collective bargaining agreement by January 15, an impasse exists by operation of law.

(f) When an impasse is reached, the parties must submit the dispute to the impasse neutral. The impasse neutral must attempt mediation by bringing the parties together voluntarily under conditions that will tend to bring about a settlement of the dispute.

(g) If the impasse neutral, in the impasse neutral's sole discretion, finds that the parties are at a bona fide impasse, the impasse neutral must require the parties to jointly submit all items previously agreed on, and each party to submit a final offer consisting of proposals not agreed upon. Neither party may change any proposal after it is submitted to the impasse neutral as a final offer, except to withdraw a proposal on which the parties have agreed.

(h) The impasse neutral may require the parties to submit evidence or present oral or written arguments in support of their proposals. The impasse neutral may hold a hearing at a time, date, and place selected by the impasse neutral. The hearing must not be open to the public.

(i) On or before February 1, unless that date is extended by written agreement of the parties, the impasse neutral must select the final offer that, as a whole, the impasse neutral judges to be the more reasonable. In determining which final offer is the more reasonable, the impasse neutral may consider only the following factors:

(1) past collective bargaining agreements between the parties, including the past bargaining history that led to the agreements, or the pre-collective bargaining history of employee wages, hours, benefits, and working conditions;

(2) wages, hours, benefits and conditions of employment of similar employees of other public employers in the Washington Metropolitan Area and in Maryland;

(3) wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of other Montgomery County employees;

(4) wages, benefits, hours, and other working conditions of similar employees of private employers in Montgomery County;

(5) the interest and welfare of the public; and

(6) the ability of the employer to finance economic adjustments, and the effect of those adjustments on the normal standard of public services provided by the employer.

(j) The impasse neutral must base the selection of the most reasonable offer on the contents of the offer and the integration of any previously agreed-on items with the disputed items. In making a decision, the impasse neutral must not consider or receive any evidence or argument concerning offers of settlement not contained in the offers submitted to the impasse neutral, or any other information concerning the collective bargaining leading to impasse. The impasse neutral must neither compromise nor alter the final offer that he or she selects.

(k) The final offer selected by the impasse neutral, integrated with any items previously agreed on, is the final agreement between the parties, need not be ratified by any party, and has the force and effect of an agreement voluntarily entered into and ratified under subsection (c). The parties must execute that agreement.

(l) The annual operating budget which the employer submits to the County Council must include sufficient funds to pay for the items in the parties' final agreement. Either or both parties must expressly identify to the Council all terms and conditions in the agreement that require an appropriation of funds or the enactment, repeal, or modification of any County law or regulation, or which have or may have a present or future fiscal impact. The employer must make a good faith effort to have the Council take action to implement all terms and conditions in the final agreement.

(m) The Council may hold a public hearing to enable the parties and the public to testify on the agreement.

(n) The Council may accept or reject all or part of any term or condition in the agreement which requires an appropriation of funds or the enactment, repeal, or modification of any County law or regulation, or which has or may have a present or future fiscal impact. On or before May 1, the Council must indicate by resolution its intention to appropriate funds for or otherwise implement the agreement or its intention not to do so, and must state its reasons for any intention to reject any part of the final agreement.

(o) If the Council indicates its intention to reject any part of the final agreement, it must select a representative to meet with the parties and present the Council's views in the parties' further negotiation on matters that the Council has indicated its intention to reject. This representative must also participate fully in stating the Council's 509 position in any ensuing impasse procedure. The parties must submit 510 the results of the negotiation, whether a complete or a partial 511 agreement, to the Council on or before May 10. Any agreement must 512 provide for automatic reduction or elimination of wage or benefits

513 adjustments if:
514 (1) the Council does not take action necessary to implement the 515 agreement or a part of it; or 516 (2) sufficient funds are not appropriated for any fiscal year when 517 the agreement is in effect.
518 33-154. Prohibited practices.
519 (a) The employer and its agents or representatives must not:
520 (1) interfere with, restrain, or coerce employees in the exercise of 521 any rights granted to them under this Article;
522 (2) dominate or interfere with the formation or administration of 523 any employee organization or contribute financial or other 524 support to it, under an agreement or otherwise, but the 525 employer and certified representative may agree to and apply
526 an agency shop provision under this Article and a voluntary 527 dues or service fee deduction provision, and may agree to 528 reasonable use of County facilities to communicate with 529 employees;
530 (3) encourage or discourage membership in any employee
531 organization by discriminating in hiring, tenure, wages, hours, 532 or conditions of employment, but this Article does not preclude 533 an agreement from containing an agency shop provision;

(4) discharge or discriminate against a public employee because the employee files charges, gives testimony, or otherwise lawfully aids in administering this Article;

(5) refuse to bargain collectively with the certified representative;

(6) refuse to reduce to writing or sign a collective bargaining agreement that has been agreed to in all respects;

(7) refuse to process or arbitrate a grievance if required under a grievance procedure contained in a collective bargaining agreement;

(8) directly or indirectly oppose the appropriation of funds or the enactment of legislation by the County Council to implement an agreement reached under this Article; or

(9) engage in a lockout of employees.

(b) Employee organizations and their agents, representatives, and persons who work for them, must not:

(1) interfere with, restrain, or coerce the employer or any employee in the exercise of any rights granted under this Article;

(2) restrain, coerce, or interfere with the employer in the selection of its representative for collective bargaining or the adjustment of grievances;

(3) refuse to bargain collectively with the employer if the employee organization is the certified representative;

(4) refuse to reduce to writing or sign a collective bargaining agreement which has been agreed to in all respects;

(5) hinder or prevent, by threats of violence, intimidation, force, or coercion of any kind, the pursuit of any lawful work or employment by any person, public or private, or obstruct or otherwise unlawfully interfere with the entrance to or exit from any place of employment, or obstruct or unlawfully interfere with any person's free and uninterrupted use of any road, railway, airport, or other mode of travel;

(6) hinder or prevent by threats, intimidation, force, coercion, or sabotage, the obtaining, use, or disposition of materials, supplies, equipment, or services by the employer;

(7) take or retain unauthorized possession of property of the employer, or refuse to do work or use certain goods or materials as lawfully required by the employer; or

(8) cause or attempt to cause the employer to pay or deliver or agree to pay or deliver any money or other thing of value, in the nature of an exaction, for services which are neither performed nor to be performed.

(c) A charge of prohibited practice may be filed by the employer, an employee organization, or any individual employee. Each charge must be filed with the Labor Relations Administrator, and a copy must be sent to any person who allegedly committed a prohibited practice. Each charge must state facts sufficient to allow the Administrator to investigate the charge. The Administrator may request withdrawal of and, if necessary, summarily dismiss any charge which is insufficiently supported in fact or law to warrant a hearing.

(d) The Administrator may independently investigate any charge and may adopt rules for an independent investigation. If, after investigating, the Administrator finds that a charge is sufficiently supported to raise an issue of fact or law and is unable to settle or resolve the matter, the Administrator must hold a hearing on the charge after notifying the parties. In any hearing, the charging party must present evidence in support of the charges; and the party or parties charged may file an answer, appear in person or otherwise, and present evidence in defense against the charges.

(e) If the Administrator finds that the person charged has committed a prohibited practice, the Administrator must file findings of fact and conclusions of law, may order the person charged to cease and desist from the prohibited practice, and may take affirmative actions to remedy any violation of this Article. Remedies available under this subsection include reinstating employees with or without back pay, making employees whole for any loss relating to County employment suffered as a result of any prohibited practice, or withdrawing or suspending an employee organization's authority to negotiate or continue an agency shop provision or a voluntary dues or service fee deduction provision. If the Administrator finds that the party charged has not committed a prohibited practice, the Administrator must file findings of fact and conclusions of law and dismiss the charges.

(f) The Administrator must summarily dismiss any charge based on an action which allegedly occurred more than 6 months before the charge was filed.

(g) Any party aggrieved by a final decision of the Administrator under this Section may appeal the decision to the Circuit Court for Montgomery County in accordance with the court rules governing administrative appeals. The court may affirm, reverse, or modify the decision, or remand the case for further proceedings. The filing of an appeal does not stay the Administrator's order. Any party to the proceeding in the Circuit Court may appeal the Court's decision under applicable provisions of state law and court rules.

33-155. Expression of views.

(a) Expressing or disseminating any views, argument, or opinion, orally, in writing, or otherwise:

(1) is not a prohibited practice or evidence of a prohibited practice under this Article; and

(2) is not grounds to invalidate any election conducted under this Article;

unless the expression or dissemination contains a threat of reprisal or promise of benefit.

(b) Recognizing an employee organization does not preclude the County from dealing with religious, social, fraternal, professional, or other lawful associations with respect to matters or policies that involve individual members of those associations or particularly apply to those associations or their members.

33-156. Strikes and lockouts.

(a) An employee or employee organization must not either directly or indirectly cause, instigate, encourage, condone, or engage in any strike, nor the employer any lockout. An employee or employee organization must not obstruct, impede, or restrict, either directly or indirectly, any attempt to terminate a strike.

(b) The employer must not pay, reimburse, make whole, or otherwise compensate any employee for or during the period when that employee is directly or indirectly engaged in a strike. The employer must not compensate an employee who struck for wages or benefits lost during a strike.

(c) If an employee or employee organization violates this Section, and after adequate notice and a fair hearing the Labor Relations Administrator finds that the violations have occurred and that any or all of the following sanctions are necessary in the public interest, the employer may:

(1) discipline, or dismiss from employment, any employee who engaged in the conduct;

(2) terminate or suspend an employee organization's dues deduction privilege, if any; or

(3) revoke the certification of and disqualify the employee organization from participation in representation elections for a period up to a maximum of 2 years.

(d) This Article does not prohibit an employer or a certified employee organization from seeking any remedy available in a court with jurisdiction.

33-157. Effect of prior laws and regulations.

(a) This Article does not supersede any law, executive order, rule, or regulation adopted by the County or any County department or agency which is not inconsistent with this Article.

(b) Any executive order, rule, or regulation of the County or any County department or agency which regulates any subject that is bargainable under this Article is not superseded or modified by a collective bargaining agreement negotiated under this Article except to the extent that the application of the order, rule, or regulation is inconsistent with the collective bargaining agreement.

(c) However, if the inconsistent order, rule, or regulation is subject to and has received County Council approval, a collective bargaining agreement does not supersede or modify it unless:

(1) the order, rule, or regulation was expressly identified to the Council by the parties before the Council reviewed the collective bargaining agreement, as required by Section 33-153(l); and

(2) the Council expressly indicates its intent to repeal or modify the order, rule, or regulation.

Sec. 2. Emergency Effective Date.

The Council declares that an emergency exists and that this legislation is necessary for the immediate protection of the public health and safety. This act takes effect on the date on which it becomes law.

LEGISLATIVE REQUEST

Emergency Bill 21-96

Fire and Rescue Collective Bargaining

DESCRIPTION:

At present, the provisions of Chapter 33, Article VII, "County Collective Bargaining" cover the Fire/Rescue bargaining unit along with the Office, Professional and Technical and Service and Labor and Trades bargaining units. This bill amends Article VII, Sections 33-102 and 33-105, and adds Article X to establish a separate collective bargaining framework for nonsupervisory professional fire and rescue employees. Article X provides for the selection of a separate Labor Relations Administrator for the Fire/Rescue unit and allows binding arbitration of bargaining disputes.

1. Section 33-102 is amended by exempting from the definition of "employee" persons who work for the Department of Fire and Rescue Services and who are represented by a certified employee organization under Article X. In Section 33-105, references to the Fire/Rescue bargaining unit are deleted. The bargaining unit is now defined in Section 33-148.

2. Article X includes Sections 147 through Section 33-157, as described below:

   (a) Section 147 is a statement of public policy in support of collective bargaining rights for fire and rescue employees;

   (b) Section 33-148 defines terms;

   (c) Section 33-149 delineates the authority and responsibilities of the Labor Relations Administrator who will be responsible for the implementation and administration of the program;

   (d) Section 33-150 describes the collective bargaining rights accorded to Fire/Rescue unit employees and their certified representative;

   (e) Section 33-151 provides the methods by which a certified representative may be selected, certified, or decertified;

   (f) Section 33-152 describes the scope of bargaining by listing those matters which are mandatory subjects for bargaining between the County and the certified representative, and also includes a list of reserved management rights;

   (g) Section 33-153 includes mandatory provisions about the bargaining process, including selection of the arbitrator who will act as the impasse neutral, impasse proceedings, submission of the final agreement to the Council, and the role of the Council with regard to the agreement;

   (h) Section 33-154 describes what constitutes a prohibited practice on the part of the employer and an employee organization;

(i) Section 33-155 states that the expression of views do not constitute a prohibited practice and that the certification of an employee organization does not preclude the County from discussing with members of religious, social professional or fraternal organizations matters which affect their members;

(j) Section 33-156 prohibits strikes and lockouts and describes how the employer may deal with them; and

(k) Section 33-157 describes the effect of the Article on prior laws, executive orders, rules or regulations of the County or any of its departments or agencies.

PROBLEM:

The Charter amendment adopted by the voters on November 8, 1994 states that the Council shall provide by law for collective bargaining with binding arbitration with an authorized representative of the Montgomery County career fire fighters. The certified representative of the firefighters, IAFF Local 1664, opposes legislation which would implement the Charter amendment by merely amending the County collective bargaining law. Instead, Local 1664 favors a separate collective bargaining law for firefighters in recognition of their unique interests. There is precedence for this in the existence of a separate collective bargaining law for police officers in Article V.

GOALS AND OBJECTIVES:

The objective of this legislation is to establish a separate collective bargaining law for the Fire/Rescue unit which provides for binding arbitration of bargaining impasses, and thereby implements the Charter amendment. It is also our goal to improve upon the impasse resolution procedure contained in the police labor relations law by including explicit language in Section 33-153 which prohibits either party from changing any bargaining proposal after it is submitted to the impasse neutral, except to withdraw a proposal on which the parties have reached agreement. The absence of such language caused problems in the past during impasse proceedings with the FOP. Except for the inclusion of provisions for arbitration of bargaining impasses, the remainder of the bill mirrors the language in the County collective bargaining law rather than the police labor relations law.

COORDINATION:

The Office of Human Resources has coordinated the drafting of this bill with the Department of Fire and Rescue Services and IAFF Local 1664, and will coordinate the implementation with the same parties.

FISCAL IMPACT:

Section 33-149 provides for the selection of a Labor Relations Administrator (LRA) who may periodically adopt, amend, and rescind regulations to implement and administer the Article. If the LRA adopts regulations, there will be a cost to the County for the time spent by the LRA performing this function. Additionally, if the parties cannot reach agreement, the County will have to pay for the services of an impasse neutral to resolve impasses through binding arbitration. This would not be an additional cost, however, as the cost of such services is roughly the same as the costs of resolving bargaining impasses without binding arbitration.

ECONOMIC IMPACT:

EVALUATION:

This legislation does not require evaluation.

MEMORANDUM

March 15, 1996

96 MAR 18 P2:25

TO: Gail Ewing, President
Montgomery County Council

FROM: Douglas M. Duncan, County Executive

SUBJECT: Emergency Bill on Fire and Rescue Collective Bargaining

I am submitting the attached emergency bill for the Council's consideration. If enacted, the bill will implement the Charter amendment adopted by the voters on November 8, 1994, by providing by law for binding arbitration of bargaining impasses with the certified representative of career fire fighters. It will also add a new article to Chapter 33 of the Code to provide a separate collective bargaining framework for professional fire and rescue employees. The Montgomery County Career Fire Fighters Association, IAFF Local 1664, was consulted in drafting the legislation.

I believe that a separate collective bargaining law is appropriate because collective bargaining for the Fire/Rescue bargaining unit is a hybrid of the features that are contained in the other two collective bargaining laws. The scope of bargaining for these employees is the same as the scope of bargaining for the OPT and SLT bargaining units under the County collective bargaining law in Article VII of Chapter 33. However, the impasse resolution procedures which provide for binding arbitration are more akin to those in the Police labor relations law in Article V, but include new language to improve the process. Also, the creation of a separate law will allow the appointment of a Labor Relations Administrator solely for this bargaining unit. The individual appointed to this position, because he or she will be concerned solely with the administration of the law for this unit, will become expert at dealing with the issues which are peculiar to this unit and which arise from the employees' working conditions and the Department's operations.

ARTICLE X. FIRE AND RESCUE COLLECTIVE BARGAINING.

33-147. Declaration of policy.

The public policy of Montgomery County is to promote a harmonious, peaceful, and cooperative relationship between the County government and its fire and rescue employees and to protect the public by assuring, at all times, the responsive, orderly, and efficient operation of the Department of Fire and Rescue Services. Since unresolved disputes in the fire and rescue service harm the public and fire and rescue employees, adequate means should be available to prevent disputes and resolve them when they occur. To that end, it is in the public interest that fire and rescue employees have the opportunity to bargain collectively over wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment, as authorized by Charter Section 510A, through a representative of their choice, or to refrain from collective bargaining. It is also in the public interest that the County government and a representative of fire and rescue employees bargain collectively in good faith without interference with the orderly process of government, and that they implement any agreement reached through collective bargaining.

Fire and rescue employee organizations and the County government each possess substantial means for initiating actions on wages, hours, and working conditions of employees. Therefore, in order to preserve an appropriate balance between labor and management in the fire and rescue service, once the employees voluntarily select a representative collective bargaining must be used in place of, and not in addition to, existing means to initiate government action on subjects that are appropriate for collective bargaining under this Article.

33-148. Definitions.

The following terms have the meaning indicated when used in this Article:

(1) Agency shop means a provision in a collective bargaining agreement requiring, as a condition of continued employment, that bargaining unit employees pay a service fee not greater than the monthly membership dues uniformly and regularly required by the employee organization of all of its members. An agency shop agreement must not require an employee to pay initiation fees, assessments, fines, or any similar collections as a condition of continued employment. A collective bargaining agreement must not require payment of a service fee by any employee who opposes joining or financially supporting an employee organization on religious grounds. However, the collective bargaining agreement may require that employee to pay an amount equal to the service fee to a nonreligious, nonunion charity, or to any other charitable organization, agreed to by the employee and the certified representative, with provision for dispute resolution if there is not agreement, and to give to the employer and the certified representative written proof of this payment. The certified representative must adhere at all times to all federal constitutional requirements in its administration of any agency shop system maintained by it.

(2) Certified representative means an employee organization chosen to represent the unit as the exclusive bargaining agent in accordance with this Article or Article VII.

(3) Collective bargaining means meeting at reasonable times and places and negotiating in good faith on appropriate subjects as defined under this Article. This Article does not compel either party to agree to a proposal or make a concession.

(4) Employee means any fire and rescue employee in the classification of Master Firefighter/Rescuer, Firefighter/Rescuer III, Firefighter/Rescuer II, and Firefighter/Rescuer I, but not any employee:

(A) in a probationary status, or

(B) in the classification of Fire/Rescue ||Sergeant|| Lieutenant or any equivalent or higher classification.

(5) Employee organization means any organization that admits employees to membership and that has as a primary purpose the representation of employees in collective bargaining. [[The organization must not admit to membership any person other than fire and rescue service personnel.]]

(6) Employer means the County Executive and the Executive's designee.

(7) Lockout means any action that the employer takes to interrupt or prevent the continuity of work properly and usually performed by the employees for the purpose and with the intent of either coercing the employees into relinquishing rights guaranteed by this Article or of bringing economic pressure on employees for the purpose of securing the agreement of their certified representative to certain collective bargaining terms.

(8) Mediation means an effort by an impasse neutral chosen under this Article to assist confidentially in resolving, through interpretation, suggestion, and advice, a dispute arising out of collective bargaining between the employer and the certified representative.

(9) Strike means a concerted failure to report for duty, absence, stoppage of work, or abstinence in whole or in part from the full and faithful performance of the duties of employment with the employer, or deviation from normal or proper work duties or activities, where any of these acts are done in a concerted manner for the purpose of inducing, influencing, or coercing the employer in the determination, implementation, interpretation, or administration of terms or conditions of employment or of the rights, privileges, or obligations of employment or of the status, recognition, or authority of the employee or an employee organization.

(10) Unit means all employees, as defined in this Section, who are associated with fire suppression, fire protection, fire communications, fire service training, rescue, and emergency medical services, and whose duties include the rescue and safety of individuals and the preservation of structures and physical property.

33-149. Labor Relations Administrator.

(a) A Labor Relations Administrator must be appointed to effectively administer this Article as it governs selection, certification and decertification procedures[[.]] and prohibited practices[[, and the choice of an impasse neutral]]. The Administrator must:

(1) periodically adopt, amend, and repeal, under method (1), regulations and procedures to carry out the Administrator's duties under this Article;

(2) request from the employer or employee organization, and the employer or employee organization may at its discretion provide, any relevant assistance, service, and data that will enable the Administrator to properly carry out duties under this Article;

(3) hold hearings and make inquiries, administer oaths and affirmations, examine witnesses and documents, take testimony and receive evidence, and compel by issuance of subpoenas the attendance of witnesses and the production of relevant documents;

(4) conduct elections to certify or decertify an employee organization under this Article, and issue the certification or decertification;

(5) investigate and attempt to resolve or settle, as provided in this Article, charges of engaging in prohibited practices, but the Administrator must defer to the parties' grievance procedure if:

(A) the employer and the certified representative have negotiated a valid grievance procedure to resolve disputes, and

(B) deferral to the grievance procedure would not result in the application of principles repugnant to this Article;

(6) determine whether a person is properly included in or excluded from the unit;

(7) obtain any necessary support services and make necessary expenditures in the performance of duties to the extent the County has appropriated funds for these purposes; and

(8) exercise any other powers and perform any other duties and functions specified in this Article.

(b) The Labor Relations Administrator must be a person with experience as a neutral in labor relations, and must not be a person who, because of vocation, employment, or affiliation, can be classed as a representative of the interest of the employer or any employee organization.

(c) The County Executive must appoint the Labor Relations Administrator from a list of 5 nominees agreed on by the certified representative and the Chief Administrative Officer. The County Council must confirm the appointment. If there is no certified representative, the County Executive must appoint an Administrator, with the confirmation of the County Council. If the County Council does not confirm an appointment, the County Executive must appoint another person from a new agreed list of 5 nominees and submit that appointee to the County Council for confirmation. The Administrator serves a term of 5 years. An incumbent Administrator is automatically reappointed for another 5-year term unless, during the period between 60 and 30 days before the term expires, the certified representative notifies the employer or the employer notifies the certified representative that it objects to the reappointment.

(d) The Labor Relations Administrator must be paid a daily fee as specified by contract with the County, and must be reimbursed for necessary expenses incurred in performing the duties of Administrator.

33-150. Employee rights.

(a) Employees have the right to:

(1) form, join, support, contribute to, or participate in, or refrain from forming, joining, supporting, contributing to, or participating in, any employee organization or its lawful activities; and

(2) be represented fairly by their certified representative, if any.

(b) The employer must extend to the certified representative the exclusive right to represent the employees for the purposes of collective bargaining, including the orderly processing and settlement of grievances as agreed by the parties under this Article.

(c) A certified representative serves as the exclusive bargaining agent for all employees in the unit and must represent fairly and without discrimination all employees in the unit without regard to whether the employees are members of the employee organization, pay dues or other contributions to it, or participate in its affairs. However, it is not a violation of this duty for a certified representative to seek enforcement of an agency shop provision in a valid collective bargaining agreement.

(d) The right of a certified representative to receive voluntary dues or service fee deductions or agency shop provisions must be determined through negotiations, unless the authority to negotiate these provisions has been suspended under this Article. Other than an agency shop provision, a collective bargaining agreement must not require membership in, participation in the affairs of, or contributions to an employee organization.

33-151. Selection, certification, and decertification procedures.

(a) Any employee organization seeking certification as representative of the unit must file a petition with the Labor Relations Administrator stating its name, address, and its desire to be certified. The employee organization must also send a copy of the petition, including a copy of the signatures of the supporting employees on the petition, to the employer. The petition must contain the uncoerced signatures of 30 percent of the employees in the unit, signifying their desire to be represented by the employee organization for purposes of collective bargaining.

(b) If an employee organization has been certified, an employee in the unit may file a petition with the Administrator to decertify the certified representative. The employee must also send a copy of the petition to the employer and the certified representative. not including the names of the supporting employees. The petition must contain the uncoerced signatures of 30 percent of the employees in the unit, alleging that the certified employee organization is no longer the choice of the majority of the employees in the unit.

(c) If a lawful collective bargaining agreement is not in effect, a petition may be filed under this Section in September of any year, but not sooner than 22 months after an election held under this Section.

(d) If a lawful collective bargaining agreement is in effect, a petition filed under this Section must not be entertained unless it is filed during September of the final year of the agreement.

(e) If the Administrator finds that a petition is properly supported and timely filed, the Administrator must hold an election of all eligible employees within a reasonable time, but no later than the next October 20, to determine if and by whom the employees wish to be represented.

(1) The election must be supervised by the Administrator and must be conducted by secret ballot at the time and place that the Administrator directs. The Administrator may retain the services of a State agency responsible for conducting labor elections, or a similarly neutral body, to assist in conducting the election.

(2) The election ballots must contain, as choices to be made by the voter, the name of each petitioning or certified employee organization. the name of any other employee organization showing written proof at least 10 days before the election of at least 10 percent representation of the employees in the unit in the same manner as described in paragraph (a), and a choice that the employee does not desire to be represented by any of the named employee organizations.

(3) The employer and each party to the election may be represented by observers selected under conditions that the Administrator prescribes.

(4) Observers selected under paragraph (3) may challenge for good cause the eligibility of any person to vote in the election. All challenged ballots must be impounded until either the parties agree on the validity of each challenge or the Administrator decides the validity of each challenge. However, if the number of challenges will not determine the outcome of the election, the challenged ballots must be destroyed.

(5) After the polls have been closed, the Administrator must count all valid ballots cast in the presence of the observers.

(6) The Administrator must immediately prepare and serve on the employer and each party a report certifying the results of the election. If an employee organization receives the votes of a majority of the employees who voted, the Administrator must certify that organization as the exclusive agent.

(7) If no employee organization receives the votes of a majority of the employees who voted, the Administrator must not certify a representative. Unless a majority of the employees who vote choose ``no representative.'' a runoff election must be conducted. The runoff election must contain the 2 choices that received the largest and second largest number of votes in the original election.

(f) The Administrator's certification of results is final unless, within 7 days after service of the report and the certification. any party serves on all other parties and files with the Administrator objections to the election. All objections must be verified and contain a concise statement of facts constituting the grounds for each objection. The Administrator must investigate all objections and, if substantial factual issues exist, must hold a hearing. Otherwise, the Administrator may decide the matter without a hearing. The Administrator may invite, either by rule or by invitation. written or oral argument to assist in deciding the merits of the objections. If the Administrator finds that the election was conducted in substantial conformity with this Article, the Administrator must confirm the certification initially issued. If the Administrator finds that the election was not held in substantial conformity with this Article, then the Administrator must hold another election under this Section.

(g) The County must pay the cost of conducting each election.

33-152. Collective bargaining.

(a) Duty to bargain; matters subject to bargaining. When an employee organization is certified, the employer and the certified representative must bargain collectively with respect to:

(1) salary and wages, including the percentage of the increase in the salary and wages budget that is devoted to merit increments and cash awards, but salaries and wages must be uniform for all employees in the same classification;

(2) pension and other retirement benefits for active employees only;

(3) employee benefits such as, but not limited to, insurance, leave, holidays, and vacations;

(4) hours and working conditions;

(5) procedures for the orderly processing and settlement of grievances concerning the interpretation and implementation of any collective bargaining agreement, which may include:

(A) binding third party arbitration, but the arbitrator has no authority to amend, add to, or subtract from any provision of the collective bargaining agreement; and

(B) provisions for exclusivity of forum;

(6) matters affecting the health and safety of employees; and

(7) amelioration of the effect on employees when the exercise of employer rights listed in subsection (b) causes a loss of existing jobs in the unit.

(b) Employer rights. This article and any collective bargaining agreement made under it must not impair the right and responsibility of the employer to:

(1) determine the overall budget and mission of the employer and any agency of County government:

(2) maintain and improve the efficiency and effectiveness of operations:

(3) determine the services to be rendered and the operations to be performed:

(4) determine the overall organizational structure, methods, processes, means, job classifications, and personnel by which operations are conducted, and the location of facilities;

(5) direct and supervise employees:

(6) hire, select, and establish the standards governing promotion of employees, and classify positions;

(7) relieve employees from duties because of lack of work or funds, or when the employer determines continued work would be inefficient or nonproductive:

(8) take actions to carry out the mission of government in emergency situations:

(9) transfer, assign, and schedule employees:

(10) determine the size, grades, and composition of the work force;

(11) set standards of productivity and technology:

(12) establish employee performance standards and evaluate employees, but evaluation procedures are subject to bargaining:

(13) make and implement systems for awarding outstanding service increments, extraordinary performance awards, and other merit awards;

(14) introduce new or improved technology, research, development, and services;

(15) control and regulate the use of machinery, equipment, and other property and facilities of the employer, subject to subsection (a)(6);

(16) maintain internal security standards:

(17) create, alter, combine, contract out, or abolish any job classification. department. operation, unit, or other division or service, but the employer must not contract work which will displace employees unless it gives written notice to the certified representative 90 days before signing the contract or other notice agreed by the parties;

(18) suspend, discharge, or otherwise discipline employees for cause, except that, subject to Charter Section 404, any such action may be subject to a grievance procedure included in a collective bargaining agreement: and

(19) issue and enforce rules, policies, and regulations necessary to carry out these and all other managerial functions which are not inconsistent with this Article, federal or state law, or the terms of a collective bargaining agreement.

(c) Exemption. This Article does not limit the discretion of the employer voluntarily to discuss with the representatives of its employees any matter concerning the employer's exercise of any right specified in this Section. However, any matter so discussed is not subject to bargaining.

(d) The public employer rights specified in this Section must be incorporated by reference in every agreement reached between the employer and the employee organization.

33-153. Bargaining, impasse, and legislative procedures.

(a) Collective bargaining must begin no later than the November 1 before the beginning of a fiscal year for which there is no agreement between the employer and the certified representative. and must be completed on or before January 15. The resolution of a bargaining impasse must be completed by February 1. These time limits may be waived or extended by written agreement of the parties.

(b) Any provision for automatic renewal or extension of a collective bargaining agreement is void. An agreement is void if it extends for less than 1 year or more than 3 years. Each collective bargaining agreement must take effect July 1 and end June 30.

(c) A collective bargaining agreement takes effect only after ratification by the employer and the certified representative. The certified representative may adopt its own ratification procedures.

(d) Before November 10 of any year in which the employer and the certified representative bargain collectively, they must choose an impasse neutral, either by agreement or through the processes of the American Arbitration Association. The impasse neutral must be available from January 15 to February 1. The impasse neutral's fees and expenses must be shared equally by the employer and the certified representative.

(e) During the course of collective bargaining, either party may declare an impasse and request the services of the impasse neutral, or the parties may jointly request those services before declaring an impasse. If the parties have not agreed on a collective bargaining agreement by January 15, an impasse exists by operation of law.

(f) When an impasse is reached, the parties must submit the dispute to the impasse neutral. The impasse neutral must attempt mediation by bringing the parties together voluntarily under conditions that will tend to bring about a settlement of the dispute.

(g) If the impasse neutral, in the impasse neutral's sole discretion, finds that the parties are at a bona fide impasse, the impasse neutral must require the parties to jointly submit all items previously agreed on, and each party to submit a final offer consisting of proposals not agreed upon. Neither party may change any proposal after it is submitted to the impasse neutral as a final offer, except to withdraw a proposal on which the parties have agreed.

(h) The impasse neutral may require the parties to submit evidence or present oral or written arguments in support of their proposals. The impasse neutral may hold a hearing at a time, date, and place selected by the impasse neutral. The hearing must not be open to the public.

(i) On or before February 1, unless that date is extended by written agreement of the parties, the impasse neutral must select the final offer that, as a whole, the impasse neutral judges to be the more reasonable. In determining which final offer is the more reasonable. the impasse neutral may consider only the following factors:

(1) past collective bargaining agreements between the parties, including the past bargaining history that led to the agreements. or the pre-collective bargaining history of employee wages, hours, benefits, and working conditions:

(2) wages, hours, benefits and conditions of employment of similar employees of other public employers in the Washington Metropolitan Area and in Marvland:

(3) wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of other Montgomery County employees:

(4) wages, benefits, hours, and other working conditions of similar employees of private employers in Montgomery County;

(5) the interest and welfare of the public; and

(6) the ability of the employer to finance economic adjustments. and the effect of those adjustments on the normal standard of public services provided by the employer.

(j) The impasse neutral must base the selection of the most reasonable offer on the contents of the offer and the integration of any previously agreed-on items with the disputed items. In making a decision, the impasse neutral must not consider or receive any evidence or argument concerning offers of settlement not contained in the offers submitted to the impasse neutral, or any other information concerning the collective bargaining leading to impasse. The impasse neutral must neither compromise nor alter the final offer that he or she selects.

(k) The final offer selected by the impasse neutral, integrated with any items previously agreed on, is the final agreement between the parties, need not be ratified by any party, and has the force and effect of an agreement voluntarily entered into and ratified under subsection (c). The parties must execute that agreement.

(l) The annual operating budget which the employer submits to the County Council must include sufficient funds to pay for the items in the parties' final agreement. [[Either or both parties]] The employer must expressly identify to the Council all terms and conditions in the agreement that:

(1) require an appropriation of funds, or

(2) are inconsistent with any County law or regulation, or

(3) require the enactment[[, repeal, or modification]] or adoption of any County law or regulation, or

(4) which have or may have a present or future fiscal impact.

The employer must make a good faith effort to have the Council take action to implement all terms and conditions in the parties' final agreement.

(m) The Council may hold a public hearing to enable the parties and the public to testify on the agreement.

(n) The Council may accept or reject all or part of any term or condition in the agreement which:

(1) requires an appropriation of funds, or

(2) is inconsistent with any County law or regulation, or

(3) requires the enactment[[, repeal, or modification]] or adoption of any County law or regulation, or

(4) which has or may have a present or future fiscal impact.

On or before May 1, the Council must indicate by resolution its intention to appropriate funds for or otherwise implement the agreement or its intention not to do so, and must state its reasons for any intention to reject any part of the parties' final agreement.

(o) If the Council indicates its intention to reject any part of the parties' final agreement, it must select a representative to meet with the parties and present the Council's views in the parties' further negotiation on matters that the Council has indicated its intention to reject. This representative must also participate fully in stating the Council's position in any ensuing impasse procedure. The parties must meet as promptly as possible and attempt to negotiate an agreement acceptable to the Council. Either party may at this time initiate impasse procedures under this Section. The parties must submit the results of the negotiation, whether a complete or a partial agreement, to the Council on or before May 10. The Council then must consider the agreement as renegotiated by the parties and indicate by resolution its intention to appropriate funds for or otherwise implement the agreement or its intention not to do so.

(p) Any agreement must provide for automatic reduction or elimination of wage or benefits adjustments if:

(1) the Council does not take action necessary to implement the agreement or a part of it; or

(2) sufficient funds are not appropriated for any fiscal year when the agreement is in effect.

33-154. Prohibited practices.

(a) The employer and its agents or representatives must not:

(1) interfere with, restrain, or coerce employees in the exercise of any rights granted to them under this Article;

(2) dominate or interfere with the formation or administration of any employee organization or contribute financial or other support to it, under an agreement or otherwise, but the employer and certified representative may agree to and apply an agency shop provision under this Article and a voluntary dues or service fee deduction provision, and may agree to reasonable use of County facilities to communicate with employees;

(3) encourage or discourage membership in any employee organization by discriminating in hiring, tenure, wages, hours, or conditions of employment. but this Article does not preclude an agreement from containing an agency shop provision:

(4) discharge or discriminate against a public employee because the employee files charges, gives testimony. or otherwise lawfully aids in administering this Article;

(5) refuse to bargain collectively with the certified representative:

(6) refuse to reduce to writing or sign a collective bargaining agreement that has been agreed to in all respects;

(7) refuse to process or arbitrate a grievance if required under a grievance procedure contained in a collective bargaining agreement:

(8) directly or indirectly oppose the appropriation of funds or the enactment of legislation by the County Council to implement an agreement reached under this Article; or

(9) engage in a lockout of employees.

(b) Employee organizations and their agents, representatives. and persons who work for them, must not:

(1) interfere with, restrain, or coerce the employer or any employee in the exercise of any rights granted under this Article;

(2) restrain, coerce, or interfere with the employer in the selection of its representative for collective bargaining or the adjustment of grievances:

(3) refuse to bargain collectively with the employer if the employee organization is the certified representative:

(4) refuse to reduce to writing or sign a collective bargaining agreement which has been agreed to in all respects;

(5) hinder or prevent, by threats of violence, intimidation. force, or coercion of any kind, the pursuit of any lawful work or employment by any person, public or private, or obstruct or otherwise unlawfully interfere with the entrance to or exit from any place of employment, or obstruct or unlawfully interfere with any person's free and uninterrupted use of any road, railway, airport, or other mode of travel;

(6) hinder or prevent by threats, intimidation, force, coercion, or sabotage, the obtaining, use, or disposition of materials, supplies, equipment, or services by the employer;

(7) take or retain unauthorized possession of property of the employer, or refuse to do work or use certain goods or materials as lawfully required by the employer; or

(8) cause or attempt to cause the employer to pay or deliver or agree to pay or deliver any money or other thing of value, in the nature of an exaction, for services which are neither performed nor to be performed.

(c) A charge of prohibited practice may be filed by the employer, an employee organization, or any individual employee. Each charge must be filed with the Labor Relations Administrator, and a copy must be sent to any person who allegedly committed a prohibited practice. Each charge must state facts sufficient to allow the Administrator to investigate the charge. The Administrator may request withdrawal of and, if necessary, summarily dismiss any charge which is insufficiently supported in fact or law to warrant a hearing.

(d) The Administrator may independently investigate any charge and may adopt rules for an independent investigation. If, after investigating, the Administrator finds that a charge is sufficiently supported to raise an issue of fact or law and is unable to settle or resolve the matter, the Administrator must hold a hearing on the charge after notifying the parties. In any hearing, the charging party must present evidence in support of the charges; and the party or parties charged may file an answer, appear in person or otherwise, and present evidence in defense against the charges.

(e) If the Administrator finds that the person charged has committed a prohibited practice, the Administrator must file findings of fact and conclusions of law, may order the person charged to cease and desist from the prohibited practice, and may take affirmative actions to remedy any violation of this Article. Remedies available under this subsection include reinstating employees with or without back pay, making employees whole for any loss relating to County employment suffered as a result of any prohibited practice, or withdrawing or suspending an employee organization's authority to negotiate or continue an agency shop provision or a voluntary dues or service fee deduction provision. If the Administrator finds that the party charged has not committed a prohibited practice, the Administrator must file findings of fact and conclusions of law and dismiss the charges.

(f) The Administrator must summarily dismiss any charge based on an [[action which allegedly]] alleged prohibited practice which occurred more than 6 months before the charge was filed.

(g) Any party aggrieved by a final decision of the Administrator under this Section may appeal the decision to the Circuit Court for Montgomery County in accordance with the court rules governing administrative appeals. The court may affirm, reverse, or modify the decision, or remand the case for further proceedings. The filing of an appeal does not stay the Administrator's order. Any party to the proceeding in the Circuit Court may appeal the Court's decision under applicable provisions of state law and court rules.

33-155. Expression of views.

(a) Expressing or disseminating any views, argument, or opinion, orally, in writing, or otherwise:

(1) is not a prohibited practice or evidence of a prohibited practice under this Article; and

(2) is not grounds to invalidate any election conducted under this Article; unless the expression or dissemination contains a threat of reprisal or promise of benefit.

(b) Recognizing an employee organization does not preclude the County from dealing with religious, social, fraternal, professional, or other lawful associations with respect to matters or policies that involve individual members of those associations or particularly apply to those associations or their members.

33-156. Strikes and lockouts.

(a) An employee or employee organization must not either directly or indirectly cause, instigate, encourage, condone, or engage in any strike, nor the employer any lockout. An employee or employee organization must not obstruct, impede, or restrict, either directly or indirectly, any attempt to terminate a strike.

(b) The employer must not pay, reimburse, make whole, or otherwise compensate any employee for or during the period when that employee is directly or indirectly engaged in a strike. The employer must not compensate an employee who struck for wages or benefits lost during a strike.

(c) If an employee or employee organization violates this Section, and after adequate notice and a fair hearing the Labor Relations Administrator finds that the violations have occurred and that any or all of the following sanctions are necessary in the public interest, the employer may:

(1) discipline, or dismiss from employment, any employee who engaged in the conduct;

(2) terminate or suspend an employee organization's dues deduction privilege, if any; or

(3) revoke the certification of and disqualify the employee organization from participation in representation elections for a period up to a maximum of 2 years.

(d) This Article does not prohibit an employer or a certified employee organization from seeking any remedy available in a court with jurisdiction.

33-157. Effect of prior laws and regulations.

(a) This Article [[does not supersedell supersedes any law, executive order, rule, or regulation adopted by the County or any County department or agency which is [[not]] inconsistent with this Article.

(b) Any executive order, rule, or regulation of the County or any County department or agency which regulates any subject that is bargainable under this Article is not superseded or modified by a collective bargaining agreement negotiated under this Article, except to the extent that the application of the order, rule, or regulation is inconsistent with the collective bargaining agreement.

(c) However, if the inconsistent order, rule, or regulation is subject to and has received County Council approval, a collective bargaining agreement does not supersede or modify it unless:

(1) the order, rule, or regulation was expressly identified to the Council by the parties before the Council reviewed the collective bargaining agreement, as required by Section 33-153(l)[[:]], and the Council did not reject the inconsistent term or condition of the collective bargaining agreement under Section 33-153(n); or

(2) the Council [[expressly indicates its intent to repeal or modify]] repeals or modifies the order, rule, or regulation.

Sec. 2. Emergency Effective Date.

The Council declares that an emergency exists and that this legislation is necessary for the immediate protection of the public health and safety. This act takes effect on the date on which it becomes law.

MEMORANDUM

March 15, 1996

TO: Gail Ewing, President
Montgomery County Council

FROM: Douglas M. Duncan, County Executive

SUBJECT: Emergency Bill on Fire and Rescue Collective Bargaining

I am submitting the attached emergency bill for the Council's consideration. If enacted, the bill will implement the Charter amendment adopted by the voters on November 8, 1994, by providing by law for binding arbitration of bargaining impasses with the certified representative of career fire fighters. It will also add a new article to Chapter 33 of the Code to provide a separate collective bargaining framework for professional fire and rescue employees. The Montgomery County Career Fire Fighters Association, IAFF Local 1664, was consulted in drafting the legislation.

I believe that a separate collective bargaining law is appropriate because collective bargaining for the Fire/Rescue bargaining unit is a hybrid of the features that are contained in the other two collective bargaining laws. The scope of bargaining for these employees is the same as the scope of bargaining for the OPT and SLT bargaining units under the County collective bargaining law in Article VII of Chapter 33. However, the impasse resolution procedures which provide for binding arbitration are more akin to those in the Police labor relations law in Article V, but include new language to improve the process. Also, the creation of a separate law will allow the appointment of a Labor Relations Administrator solely for this bargaining unit. The individual appointed to this position, because he or she will be concerned solely with the administration of the law for this unit, will become expert at dealing with the issues which are peculiar to this unit and which arise from the employees' working conditions and the Department's operations.

MFP ITEM 1
July 11, 1996

MEMORANDUM

TO: Management and Fiscal Policy Committee

FROM: Michael Faden, Senior Legislative Attorney

SUBJECT: Worksession: Emergency Bill 21-96, Collective Bargaining - Firefighters

Emergency Bill 21-96, Collective Bargaining - Firefighters, sponsored by the Council President at the request of the County Executive, was introduced on May 14. A public hearing was held on July 2, at which the only speakers were James Torgesen, County Labor/Employee Relations Manager, and John Sparks, President, Local 1664, Montgomery County Career Firefighters Association, who both urged enactment of Bill 21-96 with certain amendments.

Emergency Bill 21-96 implements Section 510A of the County Charter, approved by the voters in 1994. This bill establishes a separate collective bargaining framework for nonsupervisory professional fire and rescue employees, provides for the selection of a separate Labor Relations Administrator for the Fire/Rescue unit, and allows binding arbitration of bargaining disputes. The form of binding arbitration is last best offer for the entire contract ("total package"), as in the police collective bargaining unit, rather than last best offer issue-by-issue ("line item") or conventional (arbitrator's discretion or "split the difference") arbitration. Generally the impasse procedure in this bill is modeled on the police bargaining law, while the matters subject to bargaining and not subject to bargaining ("employer rights") are modeled on the County employees bargaining law.

Staff agrees that all except one of the amendments jointly proposed by Mr. Torgesen and Mr. Sparks (see ©34-35) are appropriate and recommends that the Committee adopt them. The exception is item 7, where staff is continuing to discuss the language with Mr. Torgesen.

Several issues that are not unique to this bargaining unit have been mentioned. These include potential changes in the law to clarify the extent to which retiree health and life insurance benefits are bargainable; to modify the timetable for collective bargaining and Council review of collective bargaining agreements; to require that all legislation and regulations necessary to implement a collective bargaining agreement be submitted to the Council with the agreement; and to require each collective bargaining agreement to show all changes from the previous agreement by brackets and underlines. Staff recommends that, to preserve consistency and uniformity in the County collective bargaining laws, these issues be considered for all bargaining units in one bill, rather than implemented in piecemeal fashion, unit by unit.

ARTICLE X. FIRE AND RESCUE COLLECTIVE BARGAINING.

33-147. Declaration of policy.

The public policy of Montgomery County is to promote a harmonious, peaceful, and cooperative relationship between the County government and its fire and rescue employees and to protect the public by assuring, at all times, the responsive, orderly, and efficient operation of the Department of Fire and Rescue

Services. Since unresolved disputes in the fire and rescue service harm the public and fire and rescue employees, adequate means should be available to prevent disputes and resolve them when they occur. To that end, it is in the public interest that fire and rescue employees have the opportunity to bargain collectively over wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment, through a representative of their choice, or to refrain from collective bargaining. It is also in the public interest that the County government and a representative of fire and rescue employees bargain collectively in good faith without interference with the orderly process of government, and that they implement any agreement reached through collective bargaining.

Fire and rescue employee organizations and the County government each possess substantial means for initiating actions on wages, hours, and working conditions of employees. Therefore, in order to preserve an appropriate balance between labor and management in the fire and rescue service, once the employees voluntarily select a representative collective bargaining must be used in place of, and not in addition to, existing means to initiate government action on subjects that are appropriate for collective bargaining under this Article.

33-148. Definitions.

The following terms have the meaning indicated when used in this Article:

(1) Agency shop means a provision in a collective bargaining agreement requiring, as a condition of continued employment, that bargaining unit employees pay a service fee not greater than the monthly membership dues uniformly and regularly required by the employee organization of all of its members. An agency shop agreement must not require an employee to pay initiation fees, assessments, fines, or any similar collections as a condition of continued employment. A collective bargaining agreement must not require payment of a service fee by any employee who opposes joining or financially supporting an employee organization on religious grounds. However, the collective bargaining agreement may require that employee to pay an amount equal to the service fee to a nonreligious, nonunion charity, or to any other charitable organization, agreed to by the employee and the certified representative, with provision for dispute resolution if there is not agreement, and to give to the employer and the certified representative written proof of this payment. The certified representative must adhere at all times to all federal constitutional requirements in its administration of any agency shop system maintained by it.

(2) Certified representative means an employee organization chosen to represent the unit as the exclusive bargaining agent in accordance with this Article or Article VII.

(3) Collective bargaining means meeting at reasonable times and places and negotiating in good faith on appropriate subjects as defined under this Article. This Article does not compel either party to agree to a proposal or make a concession.

(4) Employee means any fire and rescue employee in the classification of Master Firefighter/Rescuer, Firefighter/Rescuer III, Firefighter/Rescuer II, and Firefighter/Rescuer I, but not any employee:

(A) in a probationary status, or

(B) in the classification of Fire/Rescue Sergeant or any equivalent or higher classification.

(5) Employee organization means any organization that admits employees to membership and that has as a primary purpose the representation of employees in collective bargaining. The organization must not admit to membership any person other than fire and rescue service personnel.

(6) Employer means the County Executive and the Executive's designee.

(7) Lockout means any action that the employer takes to interrupt or prevent the continuity of work properly and usually performed by the employees for the purpose and with the intent of either coercing the employees into relinquishing rights guaranteed by this Article or of bringing economic pressure on employees for the purpose of securing the agreement of their certified representative to certain collective bargaining terms.

(8) Mediation means an effort by an impasse neutral chosen under this Article to assist confidentially in resolving, through interpretation, suggestion, and advice, a dispute arising out of collective bargaining between the employer and the certified representative.

(9) Strike means a concerted failure to report for duty, absence, stoppage of work, or abstinence in whole or in part from the full and faithful performance of the duties of employment with the employer, or deviation from normal or proper work duties or activities, where any of these acts are done in a concerted manner for the purpose of inducing, influencing, or coercing the employer in the determination, implementation, interpretation, or administration of terms or conditions of employment or of the rights, privileges, or obligations of employment or of the status, recognition, or authority of the employee or an employee organization.

(10) Unit means all employees, as defined in this Section, who are associated with fire suppression, fire protection, fire communications, fire service training, rescue, and emergency medical services, and whose duties include the rescue and safety of individuals and the preservation of structures and physical property.

33-149. Labor Relations Administrator.

(a) A Labor Relations Administrator must be appointed to effectively administer this Article as it governs selection, certification and decertification procedures, prohibited practices, and the choice of an impasse neutral. The Administrator must:

(1) periodically adopt, amend, and repeal, under method (1), regulations and procedures to carry out the Administrator's duties under this Article;

(2) request from the employer or employee organization, and the employer or employee organization may at its discretion provide, any relevant assistance, service, and data that will enable the Administrator to properly carry out duties under this Article;

(3) hold hearings and make inquiries, administer oaths and affirmations, examine witnesses and documents, take testimony and receive evidence, and compel by issuance of subpoenas the attendance of witnesses and the production of relevant documents;

(4) conduct elections to certify or decertify an employee organization under this Article, and issue the certification or decertification;

(5) investigate and attempt to resolve or settle, as provided in this Article, charges of engaging in prohibited practices, but the Administrator must defer to the parties' grievance procedure if:

(A) the employer and the certified representative have negotiated a valid grievance procedure to resolve disputes, and

(B) deferral to the grievance procedure would not result in the application of principles repugnant to this Article;

(6) determine whether a person is properly included in or excluded from the unit;

(7) obtain any necessary support services and make necessary expenditures in the performance of duties to the extent the County has appropriated funds for these purposes; and

(8) exercise any other powers and perform any other duties and functions specified in this Article.

(b) The Labor Relations Administrator must be a person with experience as a neutral in labor relations, and must not be a person who, because of vocation, employment, or affiliation, can be classed as a representative of the interest of the employer or any employee organization.

(c) The County Executive must appoint the Labor Relations Administrator from a list of 5 nominees agreed on by the certified representative and the Chief Administrative Officer. The County Council must confirm the appointment. If there is no certified representative, the County Executive must appoint an Administrator, with the confirmation of the County Council. If the County Council does not confirm an appointment, the County Executive must appoint another person from a new agreed list of 5 nominees and submit that appointee to the County Council for confirmation. The Administrator serves a term of 5 years. An incumbent Administrator is automatically reappointed for another 5-year term unless, during the period between 60 and 30 days before the term expires, the certified representative notifies the employer or the employer notifies the certified representative that it objects to the reappointment.

(d) The Labor Relations Administrator must be paid a daily fee as specified by contract with the County, and must be reimbursed for necessary expenses incurred in performing the duties of Administrator.

33-150. Employee rights.

(a) Employees have the right to:

(1) form, join, support, contribute to, or participate in, or refrain from forming, joining, supporting, contributing to, or participating in, any employee organization or its lawful activities; and

(2) be represented fairly by their certified representative, if any.

(b) The employer must extend to the certified representative the exclusive right to represent the employees for the purposes of collective bargaining, including the orderly processing and settlement of grievances as agreed by the parties under this Article.

(c) A certified representative serves as the exclusive bargaining agent for all employees in the unit and must represent fairly and without discrimination all employees in the unit without regard to whether the employees are members of the employee organization, pay dues or other contributions to it, or participate in its affairs. However, it is not a violation of this duty for a certified representative to seek enforcement of an agency shop provision in a valid collective bargaining agreement.

(d) The right of a certified representative to receive voluntary dues or service fee deductions or agency shop provisions must be determined through negotiations, unless the authority to negotiate these provisions has been suspended under this Article. Other than an agency shop provision, a collective bargaining agreement must not require membership in, participation in the affairs of, or contributions to an employee organization.

33-151. Selection, certification, and decertification procedures.

(a) Any employee organization seeking certification as representative of the unit must file a petition with the Labor Relations Administrator stating its name, address, and its desire to be certified. The employee organization must also send a copy of the petition, including a copy of the signatures of the supporting employees on the petition, to the employer. The petition must contain the uncoerced signatures of 30 percent of the employees in the unit, signifying their desire to be represented by the employee organization for purposes of collective bargaining.

(b) If an employee organization has been certified, an employee in the unit may file a petition with the Administrator to decertify the certified representative. The employee must also send a copy of the petition to the employer and the certified representative, not including the names of the supporting employees. The petition must contain the uncoerced signatures of 30 percent of the employees in the unit, alleging that the certified employee organization is no longer the choice of the majority of the employees in the unit.

(c) If a lawful collective bargaining agreement is not in effect, a petition may be filed under this Section in September of any year, but not sooner than 22 months after an election held under this Section.

(d) If a lawful collective bargaining agreement is in effect, a petition filed under this Section must not be entertained unless it is filed during September of the final year of the agreement.

(e) If the Administrator finds that a petition is properly supported and timely filed, the Administrator must hold an election of all eligible employees within a reasonable time, but no later than the next October 20, to determine if and by whom the employees wish to be represented.

(1) The election must be supervised by the Administrator and must be conducted by secret ballot at the time and place that the Administrator directs. The Administrator may retain the services of a State agency responsible for conducting labor elections, or a similarly neutral body, to assist in conducting the election.

(2) The election ballots must contain, as choices to be made by the voter, the name of each petitioning or certified employee organization, the name of any other employee organization showing written proof at least 10 days before the election of at least 10 percent representation of the employees in the unit in the same manner as described in paragraph (a), and a choice that the employee does not desire to be represented by any of the named employee organizations.

(3) The employer and each party to the election may be represented by observers selected under conditions that the Administrator prescribes.

(4) Observers selected under paragraph (3) may challenge for good cause the eligibility of any person to vote in the election. All challenged ballots must be impounded until either the parties agree on the validity of each challenge or the Administrator decides the validity of each challenge. However, if the number of challenges will not determine the outcome of the election, the challenged ballots must be destroyed.

(5) After the polls have been closed, the Administrator must count all valid ballots cast in the presence of the observers.

(6) The Administrator must immediately prepare and serve on the employer and each party a report certifying the results of the election. If an employee organization receives the votes of a majority of the employees who voted, the Administrator must certify that organization as the exclusive agent.

(7) If no employee organization receives the votes of a majority of the employees who voted, the Administrator must not certify a representative. Unless a majority of the employees who vote choose ``no representative,'' a runoff election must be conducted. The runoff election must contain the 2 choices that received the largest and second largest number of votes in the original election.

(f) The Administrator's certification of results is final unless, within 7 days after service of the report and the certification, any party serves on all other parties and files with the Administrator objections to the election. All objections must be verified and contain a concise statement of facts constituting the grounds for each objection. The Administrator must investigate all objections and, if substantial factual issues exist, must hold a hearing. Otherwise, the Administrator may decide the matter without a hearing. The Administrator may invite, either by rule or by invitation, written or oral argument to assist in deciding the merits of the objections. If the Administrator finds that the election was conducted in substantial conformity with this Article, the Administrator must confirm the certification initially issued. If the Administrator finds that the election was not held in substantial conformity with this Article, then the Administrator must hold another election under this Section.

(g) The County must pay the cost of conducting each election.

33-152. Collective bargaining.

(a) Duty to bargain; matters subject to bargaining. When an employee organization is certified, the employer and the certified representative must bargain collectively with respect to:

(1) salary and wages, including the percentage of the increase in the salary and wages budget that is devoted to merit increments and cash awards, but salaries and wages must be uniform for all employees in the same classification;

(2) pension and other retirement benefits for active employees only;

(3) employee benefits such as, but not limited to, insurance, leave, holidays, and vacations;

(4) hours and working conditions;

(5) procedures for the orderly processing and settlement of grievances concerning the interpretation and implementation of any collective bargaining agreement, which may include:

(A) binding third party arbitration, but the arbitrator has no authority to amend, add to, or subtract from any provision of the collective bargaining agreement; and

(B) provisions for exclusivity of forum;

(6) matters affecting the health and safety of employees; and

(7) amelioration of the effect on employees when the exercise of employer rights listed in subsection (b) causes a loss of existing jobs in the unit.

(b) Employer rights. This article and any collective bargaining agreement made under it must not impair the right and responsibility of the employer to:

(1) determine the overall budget and mission of the employer and any agency of County government;

(2) maintain and improve the efficiency and effectiveness of operations;

(3) determine the services to be rendered and the operations to be performed;

(4) determine the overall organizational structure, methods, processes, means, job classifications, and personnel by which operations are conducted, and the location of facilities;

(5) direct and supervise employees;

(6) hire, select, and establish the standards governing promotion of employees, and classify positions;

(7) relieve employees from duties because of lack of work or funds, or when the employer determines continued work would be inefficient or nonproductive;

(8) take actions to carry out the mission of government in emergency situations;

(9) transfer, assign, and schedule employees;

(10) determine the size, grades, and composition of the work force;

(11) set standards of productivity and technology;

(12) establish employee performance standards and evaluate employees, but evaluation procedures are subject to bargaining;

(13) make and implement systems for awarding outstanding service increments, extraordinary performance awards, and other merit awards;

(14) introduce new or improved technology, research, development, and services;

(15) control and regulate the use of machinery, equipment, and other property and facilities of the employer, subject to subsection (a)(6);

(16) maintain internal security standards;

(17) create, alter, combine, contract out, or abolish any job classification, department, operation, unit, or other division or service, but the employer must not contract work which will displace employees unless it gives written notice to the certified representative 90 days before signing the contract or other notice agreed by the parties;

(18) suspend, discharge, or otherwise discipline employees for cause, except that, subject to Charter Section 404, any such action may be subject to a grievance procedure included in a collective bargaining agreement; and

(19) issue and enforce rules, policies, and regulations necessary to carry out these and all other managerial functions which are not inconsistent with this Article, federal or state law, or the terms of a collective bargaining agreement.

(c) Exemption. This Article does not limit the discretion of the employer voluntarily to discuss with the representatives of its employees any matter concerning the employer's exercise of any right specified in this Section. However, any matter so discussed is not subject to bargaining.

(d) The public employer rights specified in this Section must be incorporated by reference in every agreement reached between the employer and the employee organization.

33-153. Bargaining, impasse, and legislative procedures.

(a) Collective bargaining must begin no later than the November 1 before the beginning of a fiscal year for which there is no agreement between the employer and the certified representative, and must be completed on or before January 15. The resolution of a bargaining impasse must be completed by February 1. These time limits may be waived or extended by written agreement of the parties.

(b) Any provision for automatic renewal or extension of a collective bargaining agreement is void. An agreement is void if it extends for less than 1 year or more than 3 years. Each collective bargaining agreement must take effect July 1 and end June 30.

(c) A collective bargaining agreement takes effect only after ratification by the employer and the certified representative. The certified representative may adopt its own ratification procedures.

(d) Before November 10 of any year in which the employer and the certified representative bargain collectively, they must choose an impasse neutral, either by agreement or through the processes of the American Arbitration Association. The impasse neutral must be available from January 15 to February 1. The impasse neutral's fees and expenses must be shared equally by the employer and the certified representative.

(e) During the course of collective bargaining, either party may declare an impasse and request the services of the impasse neutral, or the parties may jointly request those services before declaring an impasse. If the parties have not agreed on a collective bargaining agreement by January 15, an impasse exists by operation of law.

(f) When an impasse is reached, the parties must submit the dispute to the impasse neutral. The impasse neutral must attempt mediation by bringing the parties together voluntarily under conditions that will tend to bring about a settlement of the dispute.

(g) If the impasse neutral, in the impasse neutral's sole discretion, finds that the parties are at a bona fide impasse, the impasse neutral must require the parties to jointly submit all items previously agreed on, and each party to submit a final offer consisting of proposals not agreed upon. Neither party may change any proposal after it is submitted to the impasse neutral as a final offer, except to withdraw a proposal on which the parties have agreed.

(h) The impasse neutral may require the parties to submit evidence or present oral or written arguments in support of their proposals. The impasse neutral may hold a hearing at a time, date, and place selected by the impasse neutral. The hearing must not be open to the public.

(i) On or before February 1, unless that date is extended by written agreement of the parties, the impasse neutral must select the final offer that, as a whole, the impasse neutral judges to be the more reasonable. In determining which final offer is the more reasonable, the impasse neutral may consider only the following factors:

(1) past collective bargaining agreements between the parties, including the past bargaining history that led to the agreements, or the pre-collective bargaining history of employee wages, hours, benefits, and working conditions;

(2) wages, hours, benefits and conditions of employment of similar employees of other public employers in the Washington Metropolitan Area and in Maryland;

(3) wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of other Montgomery County employees;

(4) wages, benefits, hours, and other working conditions of similar employees of private employers in Montgomery County;

(5) the interest and welfare of the public; and

(6) the ability of the employer to finance economic adjustments, and the effect of those adjustments on the normal standard of public services provided by the employer.

(j) The impasse neutral must base the selection of the most reasonable offer on the contents of the offer and the integration of any previously agreed-on items with the disputed items. In making a decision, the impasse neutral must not consider or receive any evidence or argument concerning offers of settlement not contained in the offers submitted to the impasse neutral, or any other information concerning the collective bargaining leading to impasse. The impasse neutral must neither compromise nor alter the final offer that he or she selects.

(k) The final offer selected by the impasse neutral, integrated with any items previously agreed on, is the final agreement between the parties, need not be ratified by any party, and has the force and effect of an agreement voluntarily entered into and ratified under subsection (c). The parties must execute that agreement.

(l) The annual operating budget which the employer submits to the County Council must include sufficient funds to pay for the items in the parties' final agreement. Either or both parties must expressly identify to the Council all terms and conditions in the agreement that require an appropriation of funds or the enactment, repeal, or modification of any County law or regulation, or which have or may have a present or future fiscal impact. The employer must make a good faith effort to have the Council take action to implement all terms and conditions in the final agreement.

(m) The Council may hold a public hearing to enable the parties and the public to testify on the agreement.

(n) The Council may accept or reject all or part of any term or condition in the agreement which requires an appropriation of funds or the enactment, repeal, or modification of any County law or regulation, or which has or may have a present or future fiscal impact. On or before May 1, the Council must indicate by resolution its intention to appropriate funds for or otherwise implement the agreement or its intention not to do so, and must state its reasons for any intention to reject any part of the final agreement.

(o) If the Council indicates its intention to reject any part of the final agreement, it must select a representative to meet with the parties and present the Council's views in the parties' further negotiation on matters that the Council has indicated its intention to reject. This representative must also participate fully in stating the Council's position in any ensuing impasse procedure. The parties must submit the results of the negotiation, whether a complete or a partial agreement, to the Council on or before May 10. Any agreement must provide for automatic reduction or elimination of wage or benefits adjustments if:

(1) the Council does not take action necessary to implement the agreement or a part of it; or

(2) sufficient funds are not appropriated for any fiscal year when the agreement is in effect.

33-154. Prohibited practices.

(a) The employer and its agents or representatives must not:

(1) interfere with, restrain, or coerce employees in the exercise of any rights granted to them under this Article;

(2) dominate or interfere with the formation or administration of any employee organization or contribute financial or other support to it, under an agreement or otherwise, but the employer and certified representative may agree to and apply an agency shop provision under this Article and a voluntary dues or service fee deduction provision, and may agree to reasonable use of County facilities to communicate with employees;

(3) encourage or discourage membership in any employee organization by discriminating in hiring, tenure, wages, hours, or conditions of employment, but this Article does not preclude an agreement from containing an agency shop provision;

(4) discharge or discriminate against a public employee because the employee files charges, gives testimony, or otherwise lawfully aids in administering this Article;

(5) refuse to bargain collectively with the certified representative;

(6) refuse to reduce to writing or sign a collective bargaining agreement that has been agreed to in all respects;

(7) refuse to process or arbitrate a grievance if required under a grievance procedure contained in a collective bargaining agreement;

(8) directly or indirectly oppose the appropriation of funds or the enactment of legislation by the County Council to implement an agreement reached under this Article; or

(9) engage in a lockout of employees.

(b) Employee organizations and their agents, representatives, and persons who work for them, must not:

(1) interfere with, restrain, or coerce the employer or any employee in the exercise of any rights granted under this Article;

(2) restrain, coerce, or interfere with the employer in the selection of its representative for collective bargaining or the adjustment of grievances;

(3) refuse to bargain collectively with the employer if the employee organization is the certified representative;

(4) refuse to reduce to writing or sign a collective bargaining agreement which has been agreed to in all respects;

(5) hinder or prevent, by threats of violence, intimidation, force, or coercion of any kind, the pursuit of any lawful work or employment by any person, public or private, or obstruct or otherwise unlawfully interfere with the entrance to or exit from any place of employment, or obstruct or unlawfully interfere with any person's free and uninterrupted use of any road, railway, airport, or other mode of travel;

(6) hinder or prevent by threats, intimidation, force, coercion, or sabotage, the obtaining, use, or disposition of materials, supplies, equipment, or services by the employer;

(7) take or retain unauthorized possession of property of the employer, or refuse to do work or use certain goods or materials as lawfully required by the employer; or

(8) cause or attempt to cause the employer to pay or deliver or agree to pay or deliver any money or other thing of value, in the nature of an exaction, for services which are neither performed nor to be performed.

(c) A charge of prohibited practice may be filed by the employer, an employee organization, or any individual employee. Each charge must be filed with the Labor Relations Administrator, and a copy must be sent to any person who allegedly committed a prohibited practice. Each charge must state facts sufficient to allow the Administrator to investigate the charge. The Administrator may request withdrawal of and, if necessary, summarily dismiss any charge which is insufficiently supported in fact or law to warrant a hearing.

(d) The Administrator may independently investigate any charge and may adopt rules for an independent investigation. If, after investigating, the Administrator finds that a charge is sufficiently supported to raise an issue of fact or law and is unable to settle or resolve the matter, the Administrator must hold a hearing on the charge after notifying the parties. In any hearing, the charging party must present evidence in support of the charges; and the party or parties charged may file an answer, appear in person or otherwise, and present evidence in defense against the charges.

(e) If the Administrator finds that the person charged has committed a prohibited practice, the Administrator must file findings of fact and conclusions of law, may order the person charged to cease and desist from the prohibited practice, and may take affirmative actions to remedy any violation of this Article. Remedies available under this subsection include reinstating employees with or without back pay, making employees whole for any loss relating to County employment suffered as a result of any prohibited practice, or withdrawing or suspending an employee organization's authority to negotiate or continue an agency shop provision or a voluntary dues or service fee deduction provision. If the Administrator finds that the party charged has not committed a prohibited practice, the Administrator must file findings of fact and conclusions of law and dismiss the charges.

(f) The Administrator must summarily dismiss any charge based on an action which allegedly occurred more than 6 months before the charge was filed.

(g) Any party aggrieved by a final decision of the Administrator under this Section may appeal the decision to the Circuit Court for Montgomery County in accordance with the court rules governing administrative appeals. The court may affirm, reverse, or modify the decision, or remand the case for further proceedings. The filing of an appeal does not stay the Administrator's order. Any party to the proceeding in the Circuit Court may appeal the Court's decision under applicable provisions of state law and court rules.

33-155. Expression of views.

(a) Expressing or disseminating any views, argument, or opinion, orally, in writing, or otherwise:

(1) is not a prohibited practice or evidence of a prohibited practice under this Article; and

(2) is not grounds to invalidate any election conducted under this Article;

unless the expression or dissemination contains a threat of reprisal or promise of benefit.

(b) Recognizing an employee organization does not preclude the County from dealing with religious, social, fraternal, professional, or other lawful associations with respect to matters or policies that involve individual members of those associations or particularly apply to those associations or their members.

33-156. Strikes and lockouts.

(a) An employee or employee organization must not either directly or indirectly cause, instigate, encourage, condone, or engage in any strike, nor the employer any lockout. An employee or employee organization must not obstruct, impede, or restrict, either directly or indirectly, any attempt to terminate a strike.

(b) The employer must not pay, reimburse, make whole, or otherwise compensate any employee for or during the period when that employee is directly or indirectly engaged in a strike. The employer must not compensate an employee who struck for wages or benefits lost during a strike.

(c) If an employee or employee organization violates this Section, and after adequate notice and a fair hearing the Labor Relations Administrator finds that the violations have occurred and that any or all of the following sanctions are necessary in the public interest, the employer may:

(1) discipline, or dismiss from employment, any employee who engaged in the conduct;

(2) terminate or suspend an employee organization's dues deduction privilege, if any; or

(3) revoke the certification of and disqualify the employee organization from participation in representation elections for a period up to a maximum of 2 years.

(d) This Article does not prohibit an employer or a certified employee organization from seeking any remedy available in a court with jurisdiction.

33-157. Effect of prior laws and regulations.

(a) This Article does not supersede any law, executive order, rule, or regulation adopted by the County or any County department or agency which is not inconsistent with this Article.

(b) Any executive order, rule, or regulation of the County or any County department or agency which regulates any subject that is bargainable under this Article is not superseded or modified by a collective bargaining agreement negotiated under this Article except to the extent that the application of the order, rule, or regulation is inconsistent with the collective bargaining agreement.

(c) However, if the inconsistent order, rule, or regulation is subject to and has received County Council approval, a collective bargaining agreement does not supersede or modify it unless:

(1) the order, rule, or regulation was expressly identified to the Council by the parties before the Council reviewed the collective bargaining agreement, as required by Section 33-153(l); and

(2) the Council expressly indicates its intent to repeal or modify the order, rule, or regulation.

Sec. 2. Emergency Effective Date.

The Council declares that an emergency exists and that this legislation is necessary for the immediate protection of the public health and safety. This act takes effect on the date on which it becomes law.

LEGISLATIVE REQUEST

Emergency Bill 21-96

Fire and Rescue Collective Bargaining

DESCRIPTION:

At present, the provisions of Chapter 33, Article VII, "County Collective Bargaining" cover the Fire/Rescue bargaining unit along with the Office, Professional and Technical and Service and Labor and Trades bargaining units. This bill amends Article VII, Sections 33-102 and 33-105, and adds Article X to establish a separate collective bargaining framework for nonsupervisory professional fire and rescue employees. Article X provides for the selection of a separate Labor Relations Administrator for the Fire/Rescue unit and allows binding arbitration of bargaining disputes.

1. Section 33-102 is amended by exempting from the definition of "employee" persons who work for the Department of Fire and Rescue Services and who are represented by a certified employee organization under Article X. In Section 33-105, references to the Fire/Rescue bargaining unit are deleted. The bargaining unit is now defined in Section 33-148.

2. Article X includes Sections 147 through Section 33-157, as described below:

   (a) Section 147 is a statement of public policy in support of collective bargaining rights for fire and rescue employees;

   (b) Section 33-148 defines terms;

   (c) Section 33-149 delineates the authority and responsibilities of the Labor Relations Administrator who will be responsible for the implementation and administration of the program;

   (d) Section 33-150 describes the collective bargaining rights accorded to Fire/Rescue unit employees and their certified representative;

   (e) Section 33-151 provides the methods by which a certified representative may be selected, certified, or decertified;

   (f) Section 33-152 describes the scope of bargaining by listing those matters which are mandatory subjects for bargaining between the County and the certified representative, and also includes a list of reserved management rights;

   (g) Section 33-153 includes mandatory provisions about the bargaining process, including selection of the arbitrator who will act as the impasse neutral, impasse proceedings, submission of the final agreement to the Council, and the role of the Council with regard to the agreement;

   (h) Section 33-154 describes what constitutes a prohibited practice on the part of the employer and an employee organization;

(i) Section 33-155 states that the expression of views do not constitute a prohibited practice and that the certification of an employee organization does not preclude the County from discussing with members of religious, social professional or fraternal organizations matters which affect their members;

(j) Section 33-156 prohibits strikes and lockouts and describes how the employer may deal with them; and

(k) Section 33-157 describes the effect of the Article on prior laws, executive orders, rules or regulations of the County or any of its departments or agencies.

PROBLEM:

The Charter amendment adopted by the voters on November 8, 1994 states that the Council shall provide by law for collective bargaining with binding arbitration with an authorized representative of the Montgomery County career fire fighters. The certified representative of the firefighters, IAFF Local 1664, opposes legislation which would implement the Charter amendment by merely amending the County collective bargaining law. Instead, Local 1664 favors a separate collective bargaining law for firefighters in recognition of their unique interests. There is precedence for this in the existence of a separate collective bargaining law for police officers in Article V.

GOALS AND OBJECTIVES:

The objective of this legislation is to establish a separate collective bargaining law for the Fire/Rescue unit which provides for binding arbitration of bargaining impasses, and thereby implements the Charter amendment. It is also our goal to improve upon the impasse resolution procedure contained in the police labor relations law by including explicit language in Section 33-153 which prohibits either party from changing any bargaining proposal after it is submitted to the impasse neutral, except to withdraw a proposal on which the parties have reached agreement. The absence of such language caused problems in the past during impasse proceedings with the FOP. Except for the inclusion of provisions for arbitration of bargaining impasses, the remainder of the bill mirrors the language in the County collective bargaining law rather than the police labor relations law.

COORDINATION:

The Office of Human Resources has coordinated the drafting of this bill with the Department of Fire and Rescue Services and IAFF Local 1664, and will coordinate the implementation with the same parties.

FISCAL IMPACT:

Section 33-149 provides for the selection of a Labor Relations Administrator (LRA) who may periodically adopt, amend, and rescind regulations to implement and administer the Article. If the LRA adopts regulations, there will be a cost to the County for the time spent by the LRA performing this function. Additionally, if the parties cannot reach agreement, the County will have to pay for the services of an impasse neutral to resolve impasses through binding arbitration. This would not be an additional cost, however, as the cost of such services is roughly the same as the costs of resolving bargaining impasses without binding arbitration.

ECONOMIC IMPACT:

EVALUATION:

This legislation does not require evaluation.

MEMORANDUM

March 15, 1996

96 MAR 18 P2:25

TO: Gail Ewing, President
Montgomery County Council

FROM: Douglas M. Duncan, County Executive

SUBJECT: Emergency Bill on Fire and Rescue Collective Bargaining

I am submitting the attached emergency bill for the Council's consideration. If enacted, the bill will implement the Charter amendment adopted by the voters on November 8, 1994, by providing by law for binding arbitration of bargaining impasses with the certified representative of career fire fighters. It will also add a new article to Chapter 33 of the Code to provide a separate collective bargaining framework for professional fire and rescue employees. The Montgomery County Career Fire Fighters Association, IAFF Local 1664, was consulted in drafting the legislation.

I believe that a separate collective bargaining law is appropriate because collective bargaining for the Fire/Rescue bargaining unit is a hybrid of the features that are contained in the other two collective bargaining laws. The scope of bargaining for these employees is the same as the scope of bargaining for the OPT and SLT bargaining units under the County collective bargaining law in Article VII of Chapter 33. However, the impasse resolution procedures which provide for binding arbitration are more akin to those in the Police labor relations law in Article V, but include new language to improve the process. Also, the creation of a separate law will allow the appointment of a Labor Relations Administrator solely for this bargaining unit. The individual appointed to this position, because he or she will be concerned solely with the administration of the law for this unit, will become expert at dealing with the issues which are peculiar to this unit and which arise from the employees' working conditions and the Department's operations.

TO: Michael E. Faden, Legislative Counsel

FROM: James Torgesen, Labor/Employee Relations Manager

SUBJECT: Proposed Revisions to Emergency Bill No. 21-96, Collective Bargaining - Firefighters

After reviewing Bill No. 21-96, we propose that the bill be revised as discussed below. (Double brackets indicate deleted text, and double underlining indicates added text.)

1. Sec. 33-147, Declaration of policy, line 81:
   wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment, as authorized by Charter Section 510A, through a Reason: Comparable language is in both of the other collective bargaining laws.

2. Sec. 33-148, Definitions, line 127:
   (B) in the classification of [[Fire/Rescue Sergeant]] Fire/Rescue Lieutenant or any equivalent

Reason: In July of 1996, the classification of Fire/Rescue Sergeant will be abolished, and all personnel in that classification will become Fire/Rescue Lieutenants.

3. Sec. 33-148, Definitions, lines 131-132:
   representation of employees in collective bargaining. [[The organization must not admit to membership any person other than fire and rescue service personnel.]]

Reason: Although comparable language is in the definition of "Employee Organization" in Sec. 33-76 of Article V, Police Labor Relations, the language is probably unconstitutional, as it restricts freedom of association. In fact, IAFF Local 1664 has associate members and honorary members who are not current fire and rescue personnel, as well as members who are retired from the profession.

4. Sec. 33-149, Labor Relations Administrator, lines 164-165:
   decertification procedures[[,]] and prohibited practices[[, and the choice of an impasse neutral]].

(34)

Reason: The deleted language conflicts with Sec. 33-153(d), which states that the employer and certified representative must choose the impasse neutral. The LRA has no role in the selection.

5. Sec. 33-153, Bargaining, impasse, and legislative procedures, line 509:

position in any ensuing impasse procedure. The parties must meet as promptly as possible and attempt to negotiate an agreement acceptable to the Council. Either party may initiate impasse proceedings as set forth in this Section. The parties must submit

Reason: The added language above gives more detail about the duties of the parties in the face of Council rejection of all or part of the agreement. It is comparable to language in Sec. 33-80(g) of the Police labor law.

6. Sec. 33-154, Prohibited practices, line 609:

[[action which allegedly]] alleged prohibited practice which occurred more than 6 months before the Reason: This is the language used in the other County collective bargaining laws, and is more exact than the use of the broader term "actions". A prohibited practice may encompass a series of acts or actions occurring over a period of time. The prohibited practice would be said to occur on the date of the last action.

7. Sec. 33-157, Effect of prior laws and regulations, line 675:

153(l); [[and]] or

Reason: If the parties expressly identified to the Council an order, rule or regulation which is inconsistent with the proposed collective bargaining agreement, there is no requirement that the Council repeal or modify the order, rule or regulation. For example, if a proposed collective bargaining agreement contains a provision which is inconsistent with the Personnel Regulations, and the Council is notified of the inconsistency, Council approval of the agreement simply means that the agreement becomes the relevant regulation for bargaining unit employees. Other employees are still covered by the Personnel Regulations, and the Personnel Regulations themselves are neither repealed nor modified. Sec. 33-112 of the County collective bargaining law, which is comparable to this Section, contains the word "or".

LOCAL 1664

TESTIMONY BY JOHN J. SPARKS, PRESIDENT, LOCAL 1664
COLLECTIVE BARGAINING - FIRE FIGHTERS
PUBLIC HEARING - EMERGENCY BILL 21-96
JULY 2, 1996

Madam President, Council Members - my name is John Sparks and I am President of the Montgomery County Career Fire Fighters Assn. I represent over 600 career fire fighters and paramedics who are affected by this legislation.

As you are aware, in 1994, the citizens of Montgomery County voted favorably in a referendum which instructed the County Council to provide binding arbitration to cover career fire fighters and paramedics in the bargaining unit. For the past several months, we have been working with the County Executive in developing legislation that is fair to the County Government and our Association and meets the electoral mandate of the citizens of Montgomery County. While this legislation does create a separate law for us, we feel it is necessary not only because of the uniqueness of our work but because this legislation combines some of the Police law and some of the current Collective Bargaining Law which now pertains to us.

Additionally, important to the County Council is that this legislation does not broaden our negotiable subjects nor does it restrict or change any of the many current management rights.

As always, our Local asks only to be treated equitably and fairly in comparison to other County public safety bargaining unit employees. We believe this legislation brings us closer to that goal and we ask the Council to approve this legislation with the agreed upon amendments.

Thank you, and I will be happy to answer any questions which you may have.

SUBJECT: Emergency Bill 21-96, Collective Bargaining - Firefighters

Mr. Faden, Senior Legislative Attorney, reviewed for the Committee the issues contained in his memorandum and attachments, dated July 11, 1996.

ACTION: Recommended enactment of Bill 21-96 with amendments jointly proposed by the Office of Human Resources and the International Association of Firefighters Local 1664, as modified by the Committee; deferred other issues not unique to this bargaining unit for future legislation.

SUBJECT: Review of Procurement Law and Executive Regulations

ACTION: Reviewed information and recommendations provided in the Council Staff memorandum, dated July 10, 1996.

Requested that a letter be sent to those persons who testified in 1994 on the comprehensive provisions to the procurement law and regulations to solicit their comments on how the county's procurement system is working.

Requested Council staff review the law regarding the procurement of recycled materials and the recommendations included in the Office of Procurement's FY 95 report and return to the Committee with recommendations for any necessary changes.

Noted that the Council will continue to separately review the Minority, Female, and Disabled procurement law, and requested that the Executive submit or Council staff prepare legislation on behalf of the Committee to extend the sunset date for the MFD program to allow for an appropriate amount of time to review the evaluation report being prepared by the Executive's consultant.

Stated that the Committee would consider the Office of Procurement's recommended changes to the cost and price analysis law during its review of cost and price analysis in the FY 98 operating budget.

SUBJECT: Proposed Revisions to Emergency Bill No. 21-96, Collective Bargaining - Firefighters

After reviewing Bill No. 21-96, we propose that the bill be revised as discussed below. (Double brackets indicate deleted text, and double underlining indicates added text.)

1. Sec. 33-147, Declaration of policy, line 81:
   wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment, as authorized by Charter Section 510A, through a Reason: Comparable language is in both of the other collective bargaining laws.

2. Sec. 33-148, Definitions, line 127:
   (B) in the classification of [[Fire/Rescue Sergeant]] Fire/Rescue Lieutenant or any equivalent

Reason: In July of 1996, the classification of Fire/Rescue Sergeant will be abolished, and all personnel in that classification will become Fire/Rescue Lieutenants.

3. Sec. 33-148, Definitions, lines 131-132:
   representation of employees in collective bargaining. [[The organization must not admit to membership any person other than fire and rescue service personnel.]]

Reason: Although comparable language is in the definition of "Employee Organization" in Sec. 33-76 of Article V, Police Labor Relations, the language is probably unconstitutional, as it restricts freedom of association. In fact, IAFF Local 1664 has associate members and honorary members who are not current fire and rescue personnel, as well as members who are retired from the profession.

4. Sec. 33-149, Labor Relations Administrator, lines 164-165:
   decertification procedures[[,]] and prohibited practices[[, and the choice of an impasse neutral]].

(34)

Reason: The deleted language conflicts with Sec. 33-153(d), which states that the employer and certified representative must choose the impasse neutral. The LRA has no role in the selection.

5. Sec. 33-153, Bargaining, impasse, and legislative procedures, line 509:

position in any ensuing impasse procedure. The parties must meet as promptly as possible and attempt to negotiate an agreement acceptable to the Council. Either party may initiate impasse proceedings as set forth in this Section. The parties must submit

Reason: The added language above gives more detail about the duties of the parties in the face of Council rejection of all or part of the agreement. It is comparable to language in Sec. 33-80(g) of the Police labor law.

6. Sec. 33-154, Prohibited practices, line 609:

[[action which allegedly]] alleged prohibited practice which occurred more than 6 months before the Reason: This is the language used in the other County collective bargaining laws, and is more exact than the use of the broader term "actions". A prohibited practice may encompass a series of acts or actions occurring over a period of time. The prohibited practice would be said to occur on the date of the last action.

7. Sec. 33-157, Effect of prior laws and regulations, line 675:

153(l); [[and]] or

Reason: If the parties expressly identified to the Council an order, rule or regulation which is inconsistent with the proposed collective bargaining agreement, there is no requirement that the Council repeal or modify the order, rule or regulation. For example, if a proposed collective bargaining agreement contains a provision which is inconsistent with the Personnel Regulations, and the Council is notified of the inconsistency, Council approval of the agreement simply means that the agreement becomes the relevant regulation for bargaining unit employees. Other employees are still covered by the Personnel Regulations, and the Personnel Regulations themselves are neither repealed nor modified. Sec. 33-112 of the County collective bargaining law, which is comparable to this Section, contains the word "or".

ARTICLE X. FIRE AND RESCUE COLLECTIVE BARGAINING.

33-147. Declaration of policy.

The public policy of Montgomery County is to promote a harmonious, peaceful, and cooperative relationship between the County government and its fire and rescue employees and to protect the public by assuring, at all times, the responsive, orderly, and efficient operation of the Department of Fire and Rescue

Services. Since unresolved disputes in the fire and rescue service harm the public and fire and rescue employees, adequate means should be available to prevent disputes and resolve them when they occur. To that end, it is in the public interest that fire and rescue employees have the opportunity to bargain collectively over wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment, as authorized by Charter Section 510A, through a representative of their choice, or to refrain from collective bargaining. It is also in the public interest that the County government and a representative of fire and rescue employees bargain collectively in good faith without interference with the orderly process of government, and that they implement any agreement reached through collective bargaining.

Fire and rescue employee organizations and the County government each possess substantial means for initiating actions on wages, hours, and working conditions of employees. Therefore, in order to preserve an appropriate balance between labor and management in the fire and rescue service, once the employees voluntarily select a representative collective bargaining must be used in place of, and not in addition to, existing means to initiate government action on subjects that are appropriate for collective bargaining under this Article.

33-148. Definitions.

The following terms have the meaning indicated when used in this Article:

(1) Agency shop means a provision in a collective bargaining agreement requiring, as a condition of continued employment, that bargaining unit employees pay a service fee not greater than the monthly membership dues uniformly and regularly required by the employee organization of all of its members. An agency shop agreement must not require an employee to pay initiation fees, assessments, fines, or any similar collections as a condition of continued employment. A collective bargaining agreement must not require payment of a service fee by any employee who opposes joining or financially supporting an employee organization on religious grounds. However, the collective bargaining agreement may require that employee to pay an amount equal to the service fee to a nonreligious, nonunion charity, or to any other charitable organization, agreed to by the employee and the certified representative, with provision for dispute resolution if there is not agreement, and to give to the employer and the certified representative written proof of this payment. The certified representative must adhere at all times to all federal constitutional requirements in its administration of any agency shop system maintained by it.

(2) Certified representative means an employee organization chosen to represent the unit as the exclusive bargaining agent in accordance with this Article or Article VII.

(3) Collective bargaining means meeting at reasonable times and places and negotiating in good faith on appropriate subjects as defined under this Article. This Article does not compel either party to agree to a proposal or make a concession.

(4) Employee means any fire and rescue employee in the classification of Master Firefighter/Rescuer, Firefighter/Rescuer III, Firefighter/Rescuer II, and Firefighter/Rescuer I, but not any employee:

(A) in a probationary status, or

(B) in the classification of Fire/Rescue [[Sergeant]] Lieutenant or any equivalent or higher classification.

(5) Employee organization means any organization that admits employees to membership and that has as a primary purpose the representation of employees in collective bargaining. [[The organization must not admit to membership any person other than fire and rescue service personnel.]]

(6) Employer means the County Executive and the Executive's designee.

(7) Lockout means any action that the employer takes to interrupt or prevent the continuity of work properly and usually performed by the employees for the purpose and with the intent of either coercing the employees into relinquishing rights guaranteed by this Article or of bringing economic pressure on employees for the purpose of securing the agreement of their certified representative to certain collective bargaining terms.

(8) Mediation means an effort by an impasse neutral chosen under this Article to assist confidentially in resolving, through interpretation, suggestion, and advice, a dispute arising out of collective bargaining between the employer and the certified representative.

(9) Strike means a concerted failure to report for duty, absence, stoppage of work, or abstinence in whole or in part from the full and faithful performance of the duties of employment with the employer, or deviation from normal or proper work duties or activities, where any of these acts are done in a concerted manner for the purpose of inducing, influencing, or coercing the employer in the determination, implementation, interpretation, or administration of terms or conditions of employment or of the rights, privileges, or obligations of employment or of the status, recognition, or authority of the employee or an employee organization.

(10) Unit means all employees, as defined in this Section, who are associated with fire suppression, fire protection, fire communications, fire service training, rescue, and emergency medical services, and whose duties include the rescue and safety of individuals and the preservation of structures and physical property.

33-149. Labor Relations Administrator.

(a) A Labor Relations Administrator must be appointed to effectively administer this Article as it governs selection, certification and decertification procedures[[,]] and prohibited practices[[, and the choice of an impasse neutral]]. The Administrator must:

(1) periodically adopt, amend, and repeal, under method (1), regulations and procedures to carry out the Administrator's duties under this Article;

(2) request from the employer or employee organization, and the employer or employee organization may at its discretion provide, any relevant assistance, service, and data that will enable the Administrator to properly carry out duties under this Article;

(3) hold hearings and make inquiries, administer oaths and affirmations, examine witnesses and documents, take testimony and receive evidence, and compel by issuance of subpoenas the attendance of witnesses and the production of relevant documents;

(4) conduct elections to certify or decertify an employee organization under this Article, and issue the certification or decertification;

(5) investigate and attempt to resolve or settle, as provided in this Article, charges of engaging in prohibited practices, but the Administrator must defer to the parties' grievance procedure if:

(A) the employer and the certified representative have negotiated a valid grievance procedure to resolve disputes, and

(B) deferral to the grievance procedure would not result in the application of principles repugnant to this Article;

(6) determine whether a person is properly included in or excluded from the unit;

(7) obtain any necessary support services and make necessary expenditures in the performance of duties to the extent the County has appropriated funds for these purposes; and

(8) exercise any other powers and perform any other duties and functions specified in this Article.

(b) The Labor Relations Administrator must be a person with experience as a neutral in labor relations, and must not be a person who, because of vocation, employment, or affiliation, can be classed as a representative of the interest of the employer or any employee organization.

(c) The County Executive must appoint the Labor Relations Administrator from a list of 5 nominees agreed on by the certified representative and the Chief Administrative Officer. The County Council must confirm the appointment. If there is no certified representative, the County Executive must appoint an Administrator, with the confirmation of the County Council. If the County Council does not confirm an appointment, the County Executive must appoint another person from a new agreed list of 5 nominees and submit that appointee to the County Council for confirmation. The Administrator serves a term of 5 years. An incumbent Administrator is automatically reappointed for another 5-year term unless, during the period between 60 and 30 days before the term expires, the certified representative notifies the employer or the employer notifies the certified representative that it objects to the reappointment.

(d) The Labor Relations Administrator must be paid a daily fee as specified by contract with the County, and must be reimbursed for necessary expenses incurred in performing the duties of Administrator.

33-150. Employee rights.

(a) Employees have the right to:

(1) form, join, support, contribute to, or participate in, or refrain from forming, joining, supporting, contributing to, or participating in, any employee organization or its lawful activities; and

(2) be represented fairly by their certified representative, if any.

(b) The employer must extend to the certified representative the exclusive right to represent the employees for the purposes of collective bargaining, including the orderly processing and settlement of grievances as agreed by the parties under this Article.

(c) A certified representative serves as the exclusive bargaining agent for all employees in the unit and must represent fairly and without discrimination all employees in the unit without regard to whether the employees are members of the employee organization, pay dues or other contributions to it, or participate in its affairs. However, it is not a violation of this duty for a certified representative to seek enforcement of an agency shop provision in a valid collective bargaining agreement.

(d) The right of a certified representative to receive voluntary dues or service fee deductions or agency shop provisions must be determined through negotiations, unless the authority to negotiate these provisions has been suspended under this Article. Other than an agency shop provision, a collective bargaining agreement must not require membership in, participation in the affairs of, or contributions to an employee organization.

33-151. Selection, certification, and decertification procedures.

(a) Any employee organization seeking certification as representative of the unit must file a petition with the Labor Relations Administrator stating its name, address, and its desire to be certified. The employee organization must also send a copy of the petition, including a copy of the signatures of the supporting employees on the petition, to the employer. The petition must contain the uncoerced signatures of 30 percent of the employees in the unit, signifying their desire to be represented by the employee organization for purposes of collective bargaining.

(b) If an employee organization has been certified, an employee in the unit may file a petition with the Administrator to decertify the certified representative. The employee must also send a copy of the petition to the employer and the certified representative, not including the names of the supporting employees. The petition must contain the uncoerced signatures of 30 percent of the employees in the unit, alleging that the certified employee organization is no longer the choice of the majority of the employees in the unit.

(c) If a lawful collective bargaining agreement is not in effect, a petition may be filed under this Section in September of any year, but not sooner than 22 months after an election held under this Section.

(d) If a lawful collective bargaining agreement is in effect, a petition filed under this Section must not be entertained unless it is filed during September of the final year of the agreement.

(e) If the Administrator finds that a petition is properly supported and timely filed, the Administrator must hold an election of all eligible employees within a reasonable time, but no later than the next October 20, to determine if and by whom the employees wish to be represented.

(1) The election must be supervised by the Administrator and must be conducted by secret ballot at the time and place that the Administrator directs. The Administrator may retain the services of a State agency responsible for conducting labor elections, or a similarly neutral body, to assist in conducting the election.

(2) The election ballots must contain, as choices to be made by the voter, the name of each petitioning or certified employee organization, the name of any other employee organization showing written proof at least 10 days before the election of at least 10 percent representation of the employees in the unit in the same manner as described in paragraph (a), and a choice that the employee does not desire to be represented by any of the named employee organizations.

(3) The employer and each party to the election may be represented by observers selected under conditions that the Administrator prescribes.

(4) Observers selected under paragraph (3) may challenge for good cause the eligibility of any person to vote in the election. All challenged ballots must be impounded until either the parties agree on the validity of each challenge or the Administrator decides the validity of each challenge. However, if the number of challenges will not determine the outcome of the election, the challenged ballots must be destroyed.

(5) After the polls have been closed, the Administrator must count all valid ballots cast in the presence of the observers.

(6) The Administrator must immediately prepare and serve on the employer and each party a report certifying the results of the election. If an employee organization receives the votes of a majority of the employees who voted, the Administrator must certify that organization as the exclusive agent.

(7) If no employee organization receives the votes of a majority of the employees who voted, the Administrator must not certify a representative. Unless a majority of the employees who vote choose ``no representative,'' a runoff election must be conducted. The runoff election must contain the 2 choices that received the largest and second largest number of votes in the original election.

(f) The Administrator's certification of results is final unless, within 7 days after service of the report and the certification, any party serves on all other parties and files with the Administrator objections to the election. All objections must be verified and contain a concise statement of facts constituting the grounds for each objection. The Administrator must investigate all objections and, if substantial factual issues exist, must hold a hearing. Otherwise, the Administrator may decide the matter without a hearing. The Administrator may invite, either by rule or by invitation, written or oral argument to assist in deciding the merits of the objections. If the Administrator finds that the election was conducted in substantial conformity with this Article, the Administrator must confirm the certification initially issued. If the Administrator finds that the election was not held in substantial conformity with this Article, then the Administrator must hold another election under this Section.

(g) The County must pay the cost of conducting each election.

33-152. Collective bargaining.

(a) Duty to bargain; matters subject to bargaining. When an employee organization is certified, the employer and the certified representative must bargain collectively with respect to:

(1) salary and wages, including the percentage of the increase in the salary and wages budget that is devoted to merit increments and cash awards, but salaries and wages must be uniform for all employees in the same classification;

(2) pension and other retirement benefits for active employees only;

(3) employee benefits such as, but not limited to, insurance, leave, holidays, and vacations;

(4) hours and working conditions;

(5) procedures for the orderly processing and settlement of grievances concerning the interpretation and implementation of any collective bargaining agreement, which may include:

(A) binding third party arbitration, but the arbitrator has no authority to amend, add to, or subtract from any provision of the collective bargaining agreement; and

(B) provisions for exclusivity of forum;

(6) matters affecting the health and safety of employees; and

(7) amelioration of the effect on employees when the exercise of employer rights listed in subsection (b) causes a loss of existing jobs in the unit.

(b) Employer rights. This article and any collective bargaining agreement made under it must not impair the right and responsibility of the employer to:

(1) determine the overall budget and mission of the employer and any agency of County government;

(2) maintain and improve the efficiency and effectiveness of operations;

(3) determine the services to be rendered and the operations to be performed;

(4) determine the overall organizational structure, methods, processes, means, job classifications, and personnel by which operations are conducted, and the location of facilities;

(5) direct and supervise employees;

(6) hire, select, and establish the standards governing promotion of employees, and classify positions;

(7) relieve employees from duties because of lack of work or funds, or when the employer determines continued work would be inefficient or nonproductive;

(8) take actions to carry out the mission of government in emergency situations;

(9) transfer, assign, and schedule employees;

(10) determine the size, grades, and composition of the work force;

(11) set standards of productivity and technology;

(12) establish employee performance standards and evaluate employees, but evaluation procedures are subject to bargaining;

(13) make and implement systems for awarding outstanding service increments, extraordinary performance awards, and other merit awards;

(14) introduce new or improved technology, research, development, and services;

(15) control and regulate the use of machinery, equipment, and other property and facilities of the employer, subject to subsection (a)(6);

(16) maintain internal security standards;

(17) create, alter, combine, contract out, or abolish any job classification, department, operation, unit, or other division or service, but the employer must not contract work which will displace employees unless it gives written notice to the certified representative 90 days before signing the contract or other notice agreed by the parties;

(18) suspend, discharge, or otherwise discipline employees for cause, except that, subject to Charter Section 404, any such action may be subject to a grievance procedure included in a collective bargaining agreement; and

(19) issue and enforce rules, policies, and regulations necessary to carry out these and all other managerial functions which are not inconsistent with this Article, federal or state law, or the terms of a collective bargaining agreement.

(c) Exemption. This Article does not limit the discretion of the employer voluntarily to discuss with the representatives of its employees any matter concerning the employer's exercise of any right specified in this Section. However, any matter so discussed is not subject to bargaining.

(d) The public employer rights specified in this Section must be incorporated by reference in every agreement reached between the employer and the employee organization.

33-153. Bargaining, impasse, and legislative procedures.

(a) Collective bargaining must begin no later than the November 1 before the beginning of a fiscal year for which there is no agreement between the employer and the certified representative, and must be completed on or before January 15. The resolution of a bargaining impasse must be completed by February 1. These time limits may be waived or extended by written agreement of the parties.

(b) Any provision for automatic renewal or extension of a collective bargaining agreement is void. An agreement is void if it extends for less than 1 year or more than 3 years. Each collective bargaining agreement must take effect July 1 and end June 30.

(c) A collective bargaining agreement takes effect only after ratification by the employer and the certified representative. The certified representative may adopt its own ratification procedures.

(d) Before November 10 of any year in which the employer and the certified representative bargain collectively, they must choose an impasse neutral, either by agreement or through the processes of the American Arbitration Association. The impasse neutral must be available from January 15 to February 1. The impasse neutral's fees and expenses must be shared equally by the employer and the certified representative.

(e) During the course of collective bargaining, either party may declare an impasse and request the services of the impasse neutral, or the parties may jointly request those services before declaring an impasse. If the parties have not agreed on a collective bargaining agreement by January 15, an impasse exists by operation of law.

(f) When an impasse is reached, the parties must submit the dispute to the impasse neutral. The impasse neutral must attempt mediation by bringing the parties together voluntarily under conditions that will tend to bring about a settlement of the dispute.

(g) If the impasse neutral, in the impasse neutral's sole discretion, finds that the parties are at a bona fide impasse, the impasse neutral must require the parties to jointly submit all items previously agreed on, and each party to submit a final offer consisting of proposals not agreed upon. Neither party may change any proposal after it is submitted to the impasse neutral as a final offer, except to withdraw a proposal on which the parties have agreed.

(h) The impasse neutral may require the parties to submit evidence or present oral or written arguments in support of their proposals. The impasse neutral may hold a hearing at a time, date, and place selected by the impasse neutral. The hearing must not be open to the public.

(i) On or before February 1, unless that date is extended by written agreement of the parties, the impasse neutral must select the final offer that, as a whole, the impasse neutral judges to be the more reasonable. In determining which final offer is the more reasonable, the impasse neutral may consider only the following factors:

(1) past collective bargaining agreements between the parties, including the past bargaining history that led to the agreements, or the pre-collective bargaining history of employee wages, hours, benefits, and working conditions;

(2) wages, hours, benefits and conditions of employment of similar employees of other public employers in the Washington Metropolitan Area and in Maryland;

(3) wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of other Montgomery County employees;

(4) wages, benefits, hours, and other working conditions of similar employees of private employers in Montgomery County;

(5) the interest and welfare of the public; and

(6) the ability of the employer to finance economic adjustments, and the effect of those adjustments on the normal standard of public services provided by the employer.

(j) The impasse neutral must base the selection of the most reasonable offer on the contents of the offer and the integration of any previously agreed-on items with the disputed items. In making a decision, the impasse neutral must not consider or receive any evidence or argument concerning offers of settlement not contained in the offers submitted to the impasse neutral, or any other information concerning the collective bargaining leading to impasse. The impasse neutral must neither compromise nor alter the final offer that he or she selects.

(k) The final offer selected by the impasse neutral, integrated with any items previously agreed on, is the final agreement between the parties, need not be ratified by any party, and has the force and effect of an agreement voluntarily entered into and ratified under subsection (c). The parties must execute that agreement.

(l) The annual operating budget which the employer submits to the County Council must include sufficient funds to pay for the items in the parties' final agreement. [[Either or both parties]] The employer must expressly identify to the Council all terms and conditions in the agreement that:

(1) require an appropriation of funds, or

(2) are inconsistent with any County law or regulation, or

(3) require the enactment[[, repeal, or modification]] or adoption of any County law or regulation, or

(4) which have or may have a present or future fiscal impact.

The employer must make a good faith effort to have the Council take action to implement all terms and conditions in the parties' final agreement.

(m) The Council may hold a public hearing to enable the parties and the public to testify on the agreement.

(n) The Council may accept or reject all or part of any term or condition in the agreement which:

(1) requires an appropriation of funds, or

(2) is inconsistent with any County law or regulation, or

(3) requires the enactment[[, repeal, or modification]] or adoption of any County law or regulation, or

(4) which has or may have a present or future fiscal impact.

On or before May 1, the Council must indicate by resolution its intention to appropriate funds for or otherwise implement the agreement or its intention not to do so, and must state its reasons for any intention to reject any part of the parties' final agreement.

(o) If the Council indicates its intention to reject any part of the parties' final agreement, it must select a representative to meet with the parties and present the Council's views in the parties' further negotiation on matters that the Council has indicated its intention to reject. This representative must also participate fully in stating the Council's position in any ensuing impasse procedure. The parties must meet as promptly as possible and attempt to negotiate an agreement acceptable to the Council. Either party may at this time initiate impasse procedures under this Section. The parties must submit the results of the negotiation, whether a complete or a partial agreement, to the Council on or before May 10. The Council then must consider the agreement as renegotiated by the parties and indicate by resolution its intention to appropriate funds for or otherwise implement the agreement or its intention not to do so.

(p) Any agreement must provide for automatic reduction or elimination of wage or benefits adjustments if:

(1) the Council does not take action necessary to implement the agreement or a part of it; or

(2) sufficient funds are not appropriated for any fiscal year when the agreement is in effect.

33-154. Prohibited practices.

(a) The employer and its agents or representatives must not:

(1) interfere with, restrain, or coerce employees in the exercise of any rights granted to them under this Article;

(2) dominate or interfere with the formation or administration of any employee organization or contribute financial or other support to it, under an agreement or otherwise, but the employer and certified representative may agree to and apply an agency shop provision under this Article and a voluntary dues or service fee deduction provision, and may agree to reasonable use of County facilities to communicate with employees;

(3) encourage or discourage membership in any employee organization by discriminating in hiring, tenure, wages, hours, or conditions of employment, but this Article does not preclude an agreement from containing an agency shop provision;

(4) discharge or discriminate against a public employee because the employee files charges, gives testimony, or otherwise lawfully aids in administering this Article;

(5) refuse to bargain collectively with the certified representative;

(6) refuse to reduce to writing or sign a collective bargaining agreement that has been agreed to in all respects;

(7) refuse to process or arbitrate a grievance if required under a grievance procedure contained in a collective bargaining agreement;

(8) directly or indirectly oppose the appropriation of funds or the enactment of legislation by the County Council to implement an agreement reached under this Article; or

(9) engage in a lockout of employees.

(b) Employee organizations and their agents, representatives, and persons who work for them, must not:

(1) interfere with, restrain, or coerce the employer or any employee in the exercise of any rights granted under this Article;

(2) restrain, coerce, or interfere with the employer in the selection of its representative for collective bargaining or the adjustment of grievances;

(3) refuse to bargain collectively with the employer if the employee organization is the certified representative;

(4) refuse to reduce to writing or sign a collective bargaining agreement which has been agreed to in all respects;

(5) hinder or prevent, by threats of violence, intimidation, force, or coercion of any kind, the pursuit of any lawful work or employment by any person, public or private, or obstruct or otherwise unlawfully interfere with the entrance to or exit from any place of employment, or obstruct or unlawfully interfere with any person's free and uninterrupted use of any road, railway, airport, or other mode of travel;

(6) hinder or prevent by threats, intimidation, force, coercion, or sabotage, the obtaining, use, or disposition of materials, supplies, equipment, or services by the employer;

(7) take or retain unauthorized possession of property of the employer, or refuse to do work or use certain goods or materials as lawfully required by the employer; or

(8) cause or attempt to cause the employer to pay or deliver or agree to pay or deliver any money or other thing of value, in the nature of an exaction, for services which are neither performed nor to be performed.

(c) A charge of prohibited practice may be filed by the employer, an employee organization, or any individual employee. Each charge must be filed with the Labor Relations Administrator, and a copy must be sent to any person who allegedly committed a prohibited practice. Each charge must state facts sufficient to allow the Administrator to investigate the charge. The Administrator may request withdrawal of and, if necessary, summarily dismiss any charge which is insufficiently supported in fact or law to warrant a hearing.

(d) The Administrator may independently investigate any charge and may adopt rules for an independent investigation. If, after investigating, the Administrator finds that a charge is sufficiently supported to raise an issue of fact or law and is unable to settle or resolve the matter, the Administrator must hold a hearing on the charge after notifying the parties. In any hearing, the charging party must present evidence in support of the charges; and the party or parties charged may file an answer, appear in person or otherwise, and present evidence in defense against the charges.

(e) If the Administrator finds that the person charged has committed a prohibited practice, the Administrator must file findings of fact and conclusions of law, may order the person charged to cease and desist from the prohibited practice, and may take affirmative actions to remedy any violation of this Article. Remedies available under this subsection include reinstating employees with or without back pay, making employees whole for any loss relating to County employment suffered as a result of any prohibited practice, or withdrawing or suspending an employee organization's authority to negotiate or continue an agency shop provision or a voluntary dues or service fee deduction provision. If the Administrator finds that the party charged has not committed a prohibited practice, the Administrator must file findings of fact and conclusions of law and dismiss the charges.

(f) The Administrator must summarily dismiss any charge based on an [[action which allegedly]] alleged prohibited practice which occurred more than 6 months before the charge was filed.

(g) Any party aggrieved by a final decision of the Administrator under this Section may appeal the decision to the Circuit Court for Montgomery County in accordance with the court rules governing administrative appeals. The court may affirm, reverse, or modify the decision, or remand the case for further proceedings. The filing of an appeal does not stay the Administrator's order. Any party to the proceeding in the Circuit Court may appeal the Court's decision under applicable provisions of state law and court rules.

33-155. Expression of views.

(a) Expressing or disseminating any views, argument, or opinion, orally, in writing, or otherwise:

(1) is not a prohibited practice or evidence of a prohibited practice under this Article; and

(2) is not grounds to invalidate any election conducted under this Article;

unless the expression or dissemination contains a threat of reprisal or promise of benefit.

(b) Recognizing an employee organization does not preclude the County from dealing with religious, social, fraternal, professional, or other lawful associations with respect to matters or policies that involve individual members of those associations or particularly apply to those associations or their members.

33-156. Strikes and lockouts.

(a) An employee or employee organization must not either directly or indirectly cause, instigate, encourage, condone, or engage in any strike, nor the employer any lockout. An employee or employee organization must not obstruct, impede, or restrict, either directly or indirectly, any attempt to terminate a strike.

(b) The employer must not pay, reimburse, make whole, or otherwise compensate any employee for or during the period when that employee is directly or indirectly engaged in a strike. The employer must not compensate an employee who struck for wages or benefits lost during a strike.

(c) If an employee or employee organization violates this Section, and after adequate notice and a fair hearing the Labor Relations Administrator finds that the violations have occurred and that any or all of the following sanctions are necessary in the public interest, the employer may:

(1) discipline, or dismiss from employment, any employee who engaged in the conduct;

(2) terminate or suspend an employee organization's dues deduction privilege, if any; or

(3) revoke the certification of and disqualify the employee organization from participation in representation elections for a period up to a maximum of 2 years.

(d) This Article does not prohibit an employer or a certified employee organization from seeking any remedy available in a court with jurisdiction.

33-157. Effect of prior laws and regulations.

(a) This Article [[does not supersede]] supersedes any law, executive order, rule, or regulation adopted by the County or any County department or agency which is [[not]] inconsistent with this Article.

(b) Any executive order, rule, or regulation of the County or any County department or agency which regulates any subject that is bargainable under this Article is not superseded or modified by a collective bargaining agreement negotiated under this Article, except to the extent that the application of the order, rule, or regulation is inconsistent with the collective bargaining agreement.

(c) However, if the inconsistent order, rule, or regulation is subject to and has received County Council approval, a collective bargaining agreement does not supersede or modify it unless:

(1) the order, rule, or regulation was expressly identified to the Council by the parties before the Council reviewed the collective bargaining agreement, as required by Section 33-

153(l)[[;]], and the Council did not reject the inconsistent term or condition of the collective bargaining agreement under Section 33-153(n); or

(2) the Council [[expressly indicates its intent to repeal or modify]] repeals or modifies the order, rule, or regulation.

Sec. 2. Emergency Effective Date.

The Council declares that an emergency exists and that this legislation is necessary for the immediate protection of the public health and safety. This act takes effect on the date on which it becomes law.

Honorable Michael Subin
Montgomery County Council
100 Maryland Avenue
Rockville, Maryland 20850

Dear Mr. Subin:

We are in receipt of the draft bill to be sponsored by Councilmembers Berlage, Andrews, and Silverman extending collective bargaining rights to police sergeants. Fraternal Order of Police, Lodge 35 appreciates the support of members of the Council in this initiative, and our Supervisors' Committee looks forward to working with you in this regard.

The current draft of the proposed bill would provide for two bargaining units for sworn police officers: the present collective bargaining unit, and a second unit for sergeants. We suggest that the proposed bill be amended to add sergeants to the existing bargaining unit if a majority of all sergeants indicate a desire to be included in the existing collective bargaining unit.

Our suggestion is prompted by the desire that the collective bargaining process avoid needless duplication of effort, and possible contradictory working conditions. Unlike the ranks included in the Department's "executive staff"-lieutenants, captains and majors-almost all of the working conditions for sergeants are identical to those of the officers in lower ranks already part of the existing collective bargaining unit. Separating the sergeants into a second, "mini" bargaining unit requires a second bargaining process, including a separate interest arbitration if the parties are unable to reach a voluntary agreement on a collective bargaining agreement. At present, sergeants generally receive the same working condition adjustments which exist in the FOP collective bargaining agreement. Consequently, we suggest that a separate bargaining unit for this rank will just complicate the bargaining and personnel management process in the Department.

Inclusion of sergeants in the existing bargaining unit will not create any significant "conflict of interest." Disciplinary procedures for police officers are largely outside the parameters of collective bargaining, and are regulated by state law-the Law Enforcement Officers' Bill of Rights (Art. 27, §727, et seq, Md. Anno. Code.) The FOP has for many years provided representation to sergeants in disciplinary proceedings, as well as in merit system grievances regarding working condition issues. Consequently, adding sergeants to the existing bargaining unit will not dramatically change the role of the FOP in representing sergeants. Neither is this suggestion unprecedented. Nearby jurisdictions in which sergeants are included in rank-and-file collective bargaining units include the D.C. Metropolitan Police, Prince George's County, and Frederick City.

Attached is a draft of statutory language which would accomplish our suggestion.

We invite your comments and questions, and will be happy to meet at your convenience.

Sincerely,

Walter E. Bader

MEMORANDUM

April 3, 2000

031109

TO: Michael L. Subin, President
Montgomery County Council

FROM: Douglas M. Duncan, County Executive

SUBJECT: Bill No. 10-00, Collective Bargaining for Police Sergeants

I support the efforts of Councilmembers Berlage, Andrews, Leggett, Silverman, and Ewing in proposing legislation to extend collective bargaining rights to police sergeants. For some time now, police supervisors have expressed an interest in having a more active role in determining what their salaries, benefits, hours of work, and other working conditions will be. In response to their wishes and in consultation with the Chief of Police, I am requesting that Bill No. 10-00 be amended to provide collective bargaining rights to police lieutenants and captains in addition to sergeants.

I endorse the view of the sponsors of the bill that there should be a separate bargaining unit for police supervisors. This will insure that the identity of police sergeants, lieutenants, and captains as supervisors is maintained in the collective bargaining process. I also propose an amendment that would reserve to the unit of non-supervisory police officers the right to bargain over the effect of the exercise of a management right. I believe that we should not have to bargain with police supervisors over the impact of management decisions effecting supervisory employees.

I have attached a copy of Bill No. 10-00 with the amendments. I thank the Council for considering this request.

MONTGOMERY COUNTY COUNCIL

TESTIMONY OF FRATERNAL ORDER OF POLICE, MONTGOMERY COUNTY LODGE 35, INC. CONCERNING BILL No. 10-00 COLLECTIVE BARGAINING - POLICE SERGEANTS

April 4, 2000

Good Afternoon. I am Walter E. Bader, President, Fraternal Order of Police, Montgomery County Lodge 35 and am here to testify in support of Bill 10-00 with amendments.

Before you is a proposal to allow sergeants to bargain collectively. Unlike many of their counterparts is other jurisdictions, including neighboring Prince George's County and Washington, DC. Montgomery County sergeants do not have this right.

What we strongly urge is that sergeants included in the current law with a special provision that, as a sub-unit, they be allowed to vote for either union representation or no union representation. If they vote for union representation, we believe that they should be in the existing bargaining unit. If they are in the same unit, as we propose, they should have the right to vote in any representation election. Kirk Holub will give you reasons.

Lodge 35 does not want a legislated right to represent sergeants. We want them to have the opportunity to decide whether any union will represent them and if they vote for union representation, they would, under existing law, have the right to vote in any subsequent union representation election.

It is essential that it be made clear that the right to bargain collectively is not the same as the right to representation. While collective bargaining involves union representation, a union may represent its members, including sergeants, even without collective bargaining. Employees have a right to representation under several sources of law, including the United States and Maryland Constitutions in some matters, Maryland law in other matters, and the Merit System Law.

Simply defined, collective bargaining is a continuous relationship between a group of employees and their employer. The employees elect their own representative in a democratic manner. Once elected and certified, the representative negotiates and administers a contract setting forth wages, benefits, and other terms and conditions of employment.

Collective bargaining is not new. It has been with us for over a century. Contracts have been with us long before the creation of this Nation. Indeed, the United States Constitution protects private contracts from government impairment. Yet, for some irrational reason, the concept of union contracts is a causes of controversy.

In 1980, under the leadership of President Larry Desmond, a Montgomery County police sergeant, members of FOP Lodge 35 twice obtained the necessary signatures to put the issue of collective bargaining to referendum. The voters of Montgomery County overwhelmingly approved a citizen initiative granting police officers the right to collective bargaining with binding arbitration. Enabling legislation was enacted in April 1982. Sergeants were excluded, primarily because they had been excluded under the 1976 meet and confer law.

Meet and confer resulted in three agreements or "Position Papers." And, although the bargaining unit consisted of only officers below the rank of sergeant, in 1980 when Sergeant Larry Desmond was elected President, the County and police department recognized his role and position and he was afforded administrative leave to conduct union business under the provisions of "Position Paper III."

While sergeants do not have collective bargaining rights, many currently are, and in the past, have been represented by FOP Lodge 35. Since 1969 when FOP Lodge 35 was chartered, we have represented numerous sergeants in grievances and appeals, hearing boards, matters before the Grand Jury, at the scenes of police shootings, and other matters. At practically any given time, we are representing one or more supervisors. We do not, however, provide this representation with bargaining unit fees or dues, and carefully segregate our finances as required by the United States Supreme Court.

After the current police labor relations law was passed, dues for sergeants were deducted during the first two collectively bargained agreements - 1983-85 and 1985-88. Then, suddenly when negotiations commenced for a new agreement, the County first threatened, then filed, but later withdrew, a Charge of Prohibited Labor Practice because we were representing sergeants. What brought this about was that the County hired a labor relations manager who had worked for the union that challenged Lodge 35 for representation rights under meet and confer. That individual decided that he could make an issue of our representation of sergeants and he did. In discussing this matter with former Chief Bernie Crooke, I was told that he had no advance knowledge of the action and that he had no problem with our representation of police sergeants. At that point, he was speaking with five years of experience as police chief.

Considerable litigation and dispute ensued. In the end, the County unilaterally discontinued voluntary dues deductions for non-unit police officers and the grievance procedure [AP 4-4] was amended to prohibit either Lodge 35 or its President from representing sergeants in grievances. We have since resolved this issue to some degree.

None of this came as a real surprise, because in 1985, the County Attorney, despite a contract provision against it, unsuccessfully caused a suit to go to the Maryland Court of Special Appeals challenging my right to represent a Police Officer III before the Merit System Protection Board. Though we prevailed, the lesson learned was that as of 1985, Montgomery County remained anti-union.

On three occasions since 1982, a majority of sergeants have signed petitions with Lodge 35 for full collective bargaining rights.

Our bargaining unit members work with sergeants and perform much of the same work under identical conditions. Sergeants are the only unrepresented group of employees who share our working conditions. They should participate in the negotiation of contracts to address our concerns and in the administration of those contracts within a democratic union.

Now the Duncan Administration which for over five years has not supported collective bargaining rights for sergeants, suddenly proposes that sergeants, lieutenants, and captains should have these rights. Clearly, this is not an initiative, but a very shallow response to this bill and a 20 year effort by sergeants to obtain collective bargaining rights.

This is a ploy conceived only after the department got an earlier draft of this bill. Their plan is to expand bargaining to a larger group of employees, create a new unit, and have the unit be represented by a company union.

This attempt to create a company union demonstrates a disrespect for employees' right to organize and is regressive. This is a sad commentary on the administration. Seeking a company union a century after most such unions were abolished in this country is outrageous. They have them in Mexico, in third world countries, and some chicken producers might like to bring them back. Yet, in the year 2000 the Duncan administration seeks one and asks you to help them do it. The only thing they haven't yet proposed is the company store.

The administration has taken the reactionary, short view. The long term effect of their intent would be to drive a wedge between the bargaining unit and sergeants. Sergeants and current unit members must work together. We depend upon each other for mutual protection and safety. Indeed, their lives depend upon one another.

We ask that you reject the administration's proposal and enact support legislation to give sergeants the right to bargain as we propose.

Finally, we notice that this hearing has been advertised rather broadly. While we are here this day supporting our sergeants, we vigorously oppose any attempt to diminish our exiasting rights under the existing Police Labor Relations Law and would like fair opportunity to address any proposal to do so.

We are available to provide any information or assistance that any councilmember may desire.

Thank you for your careful consideration of this bill and the amendment we propose.

TESTIMONY OF KIRK HOLUB, CHAIR, SUPERVISORS COMMITTEE,

FRATERNAL ORDER OF POLICE, MONTGOMERY COUNTY LODGE 35

Bill 10-00

April 4, 2000

Good afternoon. I am Kirk Holub, a police sergeant and Chairman of the FOP Lodge 35 Supervisors Committee. Lodge 35 is also the elected representative of nonsupervisory police officers.

The Lodge 35 Supervisors Committee is a functional unit of Lodge 35 and was first created in 1982, then rechartered in 1996 for three basic purposes: 1. To recognize the importance of supervisors within the FOP; 2. To coordinate FOP representation of police supervisors; and 3. To pursue collective bargaining rights for police sergeants.

Currently, 91 (87%) of 105 sergeants are active dues-paying members of FOP Lodge 35. Of these sergeants, excluding the Supervisors Committee, one is on our Board of Directors, one is treasurer of a committee, one is a steward, and one is a committee member. Since the 1980 Charter amendment requiring collective bargaining for police officers, sergeants have served as President, Vice-President, Treasurer, and in other Lodge positions.

Lodge 35 has represented sergeants in employment matters since 1969. In the past year alone, we have represented sergeants in internal affairs matters under the Law Enforcement Officers' Bill of Rights, and others in grievances. A case involving a sergeant is pending before the Court of Special Appeals.

During recent negotiations with the Department of Justice, Lodge 35 protected the interests of police sergeants and allowed non-represented officers, of all ranks, to vote during the ratification process. The agreement was accepted and litigation, as is occurring in Columbus, Ohio and Pittsburgh was avoided.

Lodge 35 has a history of representation of sergeants. Significantly, there is no history of conflict.

We strongly urge that sergeants be allowed, according to procedures that we will outline, to vote for either representation or no representation. If we vote for representation, we believe that sergeants should be in the existing bargaining unit. There are several reasons for this.

1. We have a community of interest with the existing unit;
2. We are the only unrepresented sworn employees who have identical working conditions to existing unit members;
3. Like the bargaining unit, many of us work shift work;
4. We share the same job risks and dangers as existing unit members;
5. We perform much of the same work as unit members, e.g. making arrests, issuing traffic citations, responding to emergencies, and patrolling neighborhoods.
6. The nature of our job requires a certain closeness and ability to think and respond like others engaged in the same activities, often under dangerous circumstances;
7. We are subject to the same operating procedures as the existing unit.

It is for most of these reasons that, in other jurisdictions, first-line supervisors, such as sergeants, have traditionally been included in the same unit as non-supervisory officers.

Our primary goal is to serve our community on the front-lines and to protect life and property. We do our jobs well by working with those we supervise.

Talk of conflict and concern that there is a need to segregate supervisors from those they supervise defies history, tradition, and the realities of police work. If there is anything to fear, it is perpetuation of the theory that a government employer should drive a wedge between people who the community rely upon to protect their lives and property.

When a person is trapped in a car, we work together to save a life. When a suspect pulls a gun on a police officer, we do not concern ourselves with rank. When a citizen is in need of immediate police assistance, we don't pause to consult. We work together and we get the job done.

In our personal lives, we have close friends who are unit members. Non-represented employees are married to represented officers.

From a bargaining perspective, a unit of 105 officers is relatively small. If segregated by statute, we would be forced to bargain our interests without consideration of the existing unit members' interests and vice versa. Instead of working together through bargaining as we work together on the street, we would be forced to work against each other. This is not in the public's best interest.

Moreover, the County would have to negotiate with an additional union. And, if bargaining came to impasse, arbitration could produce very different results. For instance, supervisors could end up with a larger pay increase than those they supervise. This would destroy morale.

The Maryland police departments that have two units for supervisors and non-supervisory officers are Baltimore City which has an officers unit and a sergeants and lieutenants unit, both represented by the same FOP; and Anne Arundel County which has two units, represented by two different unions. Neither Baltimore City nor A.A. County have binding arbitration. A.A. County has had considerable internal chaos. In contrast, Prince George's County where there is binding arbitration, has one unit that includes non-supervisory employees, sergeants and lieutenants. Upon impasse in P.G. County, there is one arbitration, and one result.

In closing, we support collective bargaining with binding arbitration for police sergeants under the same law that currently exists for non-supervisory police officers. Many sergeants are now represented individually by the same union that represents other officers.

We ask that the bill be amended and passed to allow sergeants to vote for representation in August of each year immediately preceding expiration of a contract. If sergeants vote for representation, we would be included in the same unit as nonsupervisory officers and accorded full rights under existing certification procedures. If we vote no representation, we would be excluded.

We feel that this is a reasonable compromise proposal that takes into account the major concerns we have heard.

We look forward to working with you in this important matter.

Statement in Support of Bill 10-00

Collective Bargaining for Police Sergeants

My name is Fergus Sugrue. I also am a Montgomery County police sergeant and a member of FOP Montgomery County Lodge 35.

I join Sergeants Holub and Hamill in supporting Bill 10-00 with the amendment they propose.

In 1980, the voters of Montgomery County gave police officers the right to collective bargaining with binding arbitration. When the law was passed, we were excluded. The time has come for us to be afforded this important right within the same bargaining unit as the only other group of employees who work under identical conditions as do we.

I, too, will address the apparent concern of conflict. There should be less concern over imaginary conflict and more concern about potential divisiveness. In Prince George's County and Washington, D.C., the only area jurisdictions with collective bargaining and binding arbitration, sergeants are included in the police bargaining unit under one contract with non-supervisory police officers.

I see no conflict if an organization that represents non-supervisory police officers also represents first-line supervisors at the bargaining table, especially when that bargaining committee includes first-line supervisors.

As sergeants, we are now caught in the middle between management and unit police officers. It would seem to me that there would be less conflict if sergeants and non-supervisory police officers could sit at the bargaining table and work out potential problems and memorialize solutions in a collective bargaining agreement.

Currently, FOP Lodge 35 represents most sergeants under the Law Enforcement Officers' Bill of Rights and the County's own grievance procedure. Collective bargaining with one bargaining unit would merely result in a comprehensive contract with uniform, formalized rights, conditions, and responsibilities under the same agreement with uniform conflict resolution procedures.

Any responsible representative of police officers, like Lodge 35, will avoid against conflict. Lodge 35 has been very successful in doing just that.

As police officers, we are faced with far more serious conflicts and we have a record of resolving them. In our private lives, we deal with neighborhood problems that call upon balancing our private and professional responsibilities; we have personal family interests that can test us; or we could stop a friend, relative, or political official for a traffic offense.

Should some future police chief be suspected of criminal activity, I have every confidence in my brother and sister officers to enforce the law.

Non-supervisory police officers investigate internal complaints against non-supervisory officers and sergeants. Sergeants investigate complaints against sergeants and lieutenants. Friends and relatives of officers supervise investigations of other officers as well as those of friends and relatives of officers, yet there has never been any a concern because we are professional in our dealings.

The County Attorney's office "prosecutes" police officers, including, sergeants, at administrative hearings, and defends the same officers in civil cases arising from the same incident, but no one complains of conflict.

In contrast, collective bargaining must be viewed in the employer-employee context, not the criminal context. I would think there is less potential for conflict if the parties are accorded the opportunity to present their interests at the table.

The public and government interests of Montgomery County and its sergeants (first-line supervisors) would be well served through legislation as we have proposed.

We ask for your support.

Bill 10-00

Collective Bargaining for Police Sergeants

Good afternoon. I am Russell E. Hamill, III and am a Montgomery County police sergeant, a member of FOP Montgomery County Lodge 35, and an attorney admitted to the Maryland Bar. My wife is a member of the police collective bargaining unit.

I support collective bargaining for police sergeants with a provision that we vote for representation or no representation. And that when represented, we be represented by the same union that represents non-supervisory officers.

Typically, opponents will say that representation by the same union creates conflicts. In our case, I disagree. I will explain the process and facts to put the issue in its proper perspective.

When I began my employment in Montgomery County, I was a member of the police bargaining unit. In 1994 when I was promoted to sergeant, I remained an active member of FOP Lodge 35, but was no longer a member of the bargaining unit.

Promotion meant that I was no longer covered by the collective bargaining agreement, but I remained a merit system employee covered by Personnel Regulations. In essence, I traded a book called "Collective Bargaining Agreement" for another book entitled "Personnel Regulations for Merit System Employees".

The contract was negotiated between the County and my elected representative in a business-like manner under law. The Personnel Regulations were implemented through government processes. In effect, the Personnel Regulations became my contract.

Both the collective bargaining agreement and the contract have grievance procedures. Currently, when a unit member has a grievance, s/he notifies the FOP. Similarly, when a sergeant has a grievance, s/he usually contacts the FOP.

Under the contract grievance procedure, immediate supervisors do not adjust grievances. However, under the County's own grievance procedure, which is available to current bargaining unit members in some situations, supervisors can resolve grievances. Hence, there is less potential for conflict under the contract than under the County's own unilaterally implemented grievance procedure.

Representation during disciplinary interviews is governed by state law and, in most cases, the FOP represents sergeants in procedures under this law. Workers' Compensation is governed by state law and many sergeants use FOP endorsed attorneys for those hearings.

All police-involved shootings are reviewed by the Grand Jury. Under the Constitution, even the innocent have a right to representation in these matters. Most sergeants call upon the FOP for such representation.

Typically, conflict is perceived to occur through contract administration, not contract negotiation.

I have not seen any conflict with FOP representation and know that we, supervisory and non-supervisory officers alike, are professional enough to prevent conflict from interfering with our jobs. The FOP is an organization of police officers and has been very responsible and professional in avoiding conflict.

Policing is different than most other occupations and professions. We are a brother and sisterhood of citizens dedicated to preservation of community peace and security. This is a tough job, but we can do it only through unity without artificial government-created barriers.

Next month, the National FOP will host annual ceremonies honoring all law enforcement officers who have died in service to their communities. New names will be added to the National Law Enforcement Officers' Memorial in D.C.

This Council owes it to its law enforcement officers to visit that memorial. There you will see that heroes' names are not segregated by bargaining unit or rank.

You support for the bill with the proposed amendments will be appreciated.

MFP ITEM 1
June 5, 2000
Worksession

MEMORANDUM

TO: Management and Fiscal Policy Committee

FROM: Michael Faden, Senior Legislative Attorney

SUBJECT: Worksession: Bill 10-00, Collective Bargaining - Police - Sergeants

Previous Management and Fiscal Policy Committee recommendation: no recommendation on enactment. Recommend certain amendments if enacted. At a worksession on April 11 Councilmember Andrews, then lead member for personnel issues, supported enactment with amendments. Then-Councilmember Krahnke opposed enactment. Committee Chair Praisner declined to state a position on the bill after hearing that two Councilmembers already had amendments which they plan to introduce when the bill is before the Council; she commented that it would have been useful to have had the amendments' language for Committee consideration. All Committee members supported certain amendments if the bill is enacted, which are described below and included in the bill on ©1-4.

Previous Council action: remand to Committee. At a legislative session on May 2, the Council discussed Bill 10-00 but did not vote on the bill or any amendments. Instead the Council returned the bill to Committee to review issues raised by Councilmembers and decide whether certain proposed amendments could be adopted consistently.

Combined amendment: After the May 2 Council session, Council staff prepared and circulated a combined amendment (see ©59-63) which attempts to incorporate and harmonize amendments offered by various Councilmembers. To reduce confusion, the Committee may want to use this amendment as your markup vehicle. This combined amendment would:

- Absorb the sergeants into the current police bargaining unit if they vote, in a secret ballot election held in October, to join that unit. If a majority of sergeants do not vote to join the existing unit, the sergeants would not have any right to bargain;
- Create a second police bargaining unit for lieutenants and captains;
- Exclude certain lieutenants and captains who hold sensitive positions from the bargaining unit, but not exclude any sergeants; and
- Exclude effects bargaining from the scope of bargaining for the sergeants in the current bargaining unit as well as the new lieutenant/captain unit.

One further amendment the Committee could consider is to allow the sergeants to vote on several options for representation, rather than the single option in this amendment. Those options could include:

- Inclusion in the current bargaining unit;
- A stand-alone bargaining unit;
- A supervisors' bargaining unit, including sergeants, lieutenants, and captains, or only sergeants and lieutenants.

If either of the latter two are chosen, the new bargaining unit would then hold another election to select a bargaining agent.

Background/Summary

Bill 10-00, Collective Bargaining - Police - Sergeants, sponsored by Councilmembers Berlage, Andrews, Leggett, Silverman, and Ewing, was introduced on March 14, 2000. Bill 10-00 would bring police sergeants within the scope of collective bargaining in a separate bargaining unit. The bill is titled and was advertised broadly so that the Council may consider other changes to the police and fire collective bargaining processes (see advertisement, ©6).

At the public hearing, held on April 4, Police Chief Charles Moose urged adoption of the amendments submitted by the County Executive (see Executive memo and amendments, ©7-11). Walter Bader, President of Montgomery County Lodge 35, Fraternal Order of Police (FOP), and three police sergeants urged that the bill be amended to allow the sergeants to vote whether to include themselves in the current police bargaining unit, rather than create a separate unit (see testimony, ©12-22). Mr. Bader's testimony on ©13-14 offers a detailed history of attempts to gain collective bargaining representation for County police sergeants. For a further statement of FOP's position, see their April letter on ©32.

Issues/Committee Amendments

1) Right to bargain: Should police sergeants be able to bargain collectively?

Bill 10-00 extends collective bargaining to sergeants, who are first-line supervisors. Under all of the current County collective bargaining laws (police, fire, general County employees), supervisors are not included in any bargaining unit.[1] If police sergeants are given collective bargaining rights, fire lieutenants and County government middle management are likely to seek similar treatment.

On the merits, any group of employees (except the highest management ranks) has a strong argument for gaining the right to bargain collectively to have a mechanism for management to recognize and respond to their unique problems. (County policy has traditionally been to pass through wage and benefit settlements to unrepresented employees, so supervisors' primary need for collective bargaining is not economic.) The central question then becomes: at what level of management is collective bargaining inappropriate because of the fundamental difference of roles between managers and line employees? In the police context, the County Executive in his proposed amendments supported some form of collective bargaining for police management employees, but not for sergeants alone, implicitly answering this question broadly.

Councilmember Andrews supported the extension of collective bargaining to police sergeants. Then-Councilmember Krahnke opposed it. Committee Chair Praisner reserved judgment on this issue.

2) Nature of bargaining unit: What kind of bargaining unit should sergeants be placed in?

If police sergeants are covered by collective bargaining, what bargaining unit is most suitable? The following options have been proposed:

Sergeants only unit As introduced, Bill 10-00 establishes a sergeants-only unit in addition to the current bargaining unit, which includes ranks up to master police officer as well as police trainees. The Executive and Police Chief objected to this limited unit. Under this approach, unit members would elect a bargaining agent, which could be the bargaining agent for the current unit (the FOP) or a different agent. (Council staff was told that some jurisdictions prohibit the same bargaining agent from representing both supervisors and supervisees, but has not found an example of this restriction. However, the current County personnel regulations (§29-1), which doe not apply to a bargaining unit, prohibit a supervisor from being represented in a grievance proceeding by a labor organization that represents employees that the supervisor supervises.)

"Rank and file" unit The FOP and 3 individual police sergeants, in their testimony, urged that the sergeants be given the opportunity to vote for representation or no representation for collective bargaining purposes and, if representation were approved, they would automatically be included in the current bargaining unit.[2] For the rationale for this option, see Sgt. Holub's testimony on ©15-17; he particularly emphasized the need for a single collective bargaining agreement, or at least the need to avoid inconsistent agreements. This structure has been criticized because it places the first-line supervisors, who administer discipline and otherwise direct employee conduct, in the same unit as those they direct. For a response to this criticism, see Sgt. Sugrue's testimony on ©18-19. See also the latest FOP letter on ©32.

Management unit The County Executive, in his amendments, proposed a management unit composed of sergeants, lieutenants, and captains. (For the Executive's rationale, see OHR memo on ©23-25. For bargaining unit structures in other area jurisdictions, see OHR table on ©26.) Mr. Bader characterized this as a "company union". After surveying the sergeants, the Alliance of Police Supervisors (see letter, ©22) reported that 60% of the sergeants who responded wanted the Alliance to represent them, presumably in a broader bargaining unit. FOP disputes this; see letter on ©32.

Separate management units Councilmember Berlage, lead sponsor of Bill 10-00, still supports the bill as introduced but would extend collective bargaining to police lieutenants and captains by creating a third bargaining unit for them, not including sergeants. (See Councilmember Berlage's memo, ©28.)

Councilmember Andrews supported creating a sergeants-only unit. Then-Councilmember Krahnke supported including sergeants in a broader supervisors unit if a new unit is created. Committee Chair Praisner reserved judgment on this issue.

3) Scope of bargaining unit: If a management unit is created, who should be excluded from it?

After proposing a broader management unit, the Executive's amendments on ©9, lines 13-20, list those management personnel who should not be in any bargaining unit: employees above the rank of captain, and those captains and lieutenants whose primary duties involve sensitive issues such as labor relations, personnel, internal affairs, legal issues, and policy development. If a management unit is created, the Committee unanimously concurred with this list of excluded employees; see ©2, lines 12-14 (this provision will finally be drafted to cover whatever ranks are ultimately included in a new bargaining unit).

4) Scope of bargaining: Should effects bargaining be extended to a sergeants or management bargaining unit?

Employees in the current police bargaining unit, but no other County collective bargaining unit, can bargain the effect of the employer's exercise of the rights reserved to the employer (commonly termed "management rights").[3] This provision is generally known as "effects bargaining". (See Code §33-80(b) on ©28 for the list of 10 categories of management rights subject to effects bargaining.)

The Executive's amendments (see ©11) would expressly restrict effects bargaining to the current "rank and file" unit.[4] For the Executive's reasons why the supervisors' unit should not have effects bargaining, see the OHR memo on ©25. Council staff generally concurs with this rationale. Councilmembers may recall that the Office of Legislative Oversight, in OLO Report 99-2 on the Police Department's Complaint Handling System, recommended that the Council "look at how the 'effects bargaining' provision in the (police labor relations) law has, in practice, affected police management's ability to manage conduct issues."[5] The Police Department's

[3]The County government employees' bargaining law (Code §33-107(a)(7)) and the firefighters' bargaining law (Code §33-152(a)(7)) both give employees the right to bargain "amelioration of the effect on employees when the exercise of employer rights...causes a loss of existing jobs in the unit." This is a much narrower provision than the one in the police bargaining law.

[4]Although the Executive did not propose it, the bill was advertised broadly enough to allow the Council to modify or repeal effects bargaining as it applies to the current bargaining unit as well as any new unit.

[5]Recommendation #5, page 93. See also OLO's finding #3 on page 65 regarding "the need to proactively manage officer conduct and promote accountability, rather than rely solely on disciplinary measures."

response[6] expressed the Department's concern about the impact of effects bargaining "on its ability to govern employee conduct and manage discipline issues...Effects bargaining renders (timely steps to remedy shortcomings) very difficult if not impossible...management's ability to lead the Department and ensure proper conduct has been eroded."

Not surprisingly, the FOP fundamentally disagrees on this issue. See FOP June letter on ©51-58. They also argue that members of the same bargaining unit should not bargain under different rules. OHR agrees with that point, but would instead conclude that the sergeants should thus be placed in a different bargaining unit.

Among the effects bargaining options available are to either allow or not allow any new unit the right to effects bargaining, or to permit effects bargaining on only certain management rights. In Council staff's view, the most questionable management rights subject to effects bargaining may be paragraphs (4), (5), and (9), although the Police Department may cite others that have caused past problems.

The Committee unanimously decided that effects bargaining would not apply to any new police bargaining unit.

MEMORANDUM

April 3, 2000

031109

TO: Michael L. Subin, President
Montgomery County Council

FROM: Douglas M. Duncan, County Executive

SUBJECT: Bill No. 10-00, Collective Bargaining for Police Sergeants

I support the efforts of Councilmembers Berlage, Andrews, Leggett, Silverman, and Ewing in proposing legislation to extend collective bargaining rights to police sergeants. For some time now, police supervisors have expressed an interest in having a more active role in determining what their salaries, benefits, hours of work, and other working conditions will be. In response to their wishes and in consultation with the Chief of Police, I am requesting that Bill No. 10-00 be amended to provide collective bargaining rights to police lieutenants and captains in addition to sergeants.

I endorse the view of the sponsors of the bill that there should be a separate bargaining unit for police supervisors. This will insure that the identity of police sergeants, lieutenants, and captains as supervisors is maintained in the collective bargaining process. I also propose an amendment that would reserve to the unit of non-supervisory police officers the right to bargain over the effect of the exercise of a management right. I believe that we should not have to bargain with police supervisors over the impact of management decisions effecting supervisory employees.

I have attached a copy of Bill No. 10-00 with the amendments. I thank the Council for considering this request.

MONTGOMERY COUNTY COUNCIL

TESTIMONY OF FRATERNAL ORDER OF POLICE, MONTGOMERY COUNTY LODGE 35, INC. CONCERNING BILL No. 10-00 COLLECTIVE BARGAINING - POLICE SERGEANTS

April 4, 2000

Good Afternoon. I am Walter E. Bader, President, Fraternal Order of Police, Montgomery County Lodge 35 and am here to testify in support of Bill 10-00 with amendments.

Before you is a proposal to allow sergeants to bargain collectively. Unlike many of their counterparts is other jurisdictions, including neighboring Prince George's County and Washington, DC. Montgomery County sergeants do not have this right.

What we strongly urge is that sergeants included in the current law with a special provision that, as a sub-unit, they be allowed to vote for either union representation or no union representation. If they vote for union representation, we believe that they should be in the existing bargaining unit. If they are in the same unit, as we propose, they should have the right to vote in any representation election. Kirk Holub will give you reasons.

Lodge 35 does not want a legislated right to represent sergeants. We want them to have the opportunity to decide whether any union will represent them and if they vote for union representation, they would, under existing law, have the right to vote in any subsequent union representation election.

It is essential that it be made clear that the right to bargain collectively is not the same as the right to representation. While collective bargaining involves union representation, a union may represent its members, including sergeants, even without collective bargaining. Employees have a right to representation under several sources of law, including the United States and Maryland Constitutions in some matters, Maryland law in other matters, and the Merit System Law.

Simply defined, collective bargaining is a continuous relationship between a group of employees and their employer. The employees elect their own representative in a democratic manner. Once elected and certified, the representative negotiates and administers a contract setting forth wages, benefits, and other terms and conditions of employment.

Collective bargaining is not new. It has been with us for over a century. Contracts have been with us long before the creation of this Nation. Indeed, the United States Constitution protects private contracts from government impairment. Yet, for some irrational reason, the concept of union contracts is a causes of controversy.

In 1980, under the leadership of President Larry Desmond, a Montgomery County police sergeant, members of FOP Lodge 35 twice obtained the necessary signatures to put the issue of collective bargaining to referendum. The voters of Montgomery County overwhelmingly approved a citizen initiative granting police officers the right to collective bargaining with binding arbitration. Enabling legislation was enacted in April 1982. Sergeants were excluded, primarily because they had been excluded under the 1976 meet and confer law.

Meet and confer resulted in three agreements or "Position Papers." And, although the bargaining unit consisted of only officers below the rank of sergeant, in 1980 when Sergeant Larry Desmond was elected President, the County and police department recognized his role and position and he was afforded administrative leave to conduct union business under the provisions of "Position Paper III."

While sergeants do not have collective bargaining rights, many currently are, and in the past, have been represented by FOP Lodge 35. Since 1969 when FOP Lodge 35 was chartered, we have represented numerous sergeants in grievances and appeals, hearing boards, matters before the Grand Jury, at the scenes of police shootings, and other matters. At practically any given time, we are representing one or more supervisors. We do not, however, provide this representation with bargaining unit fees or dues, and carefully segregate our finances as required by the United States Supreme Court.

After the current police labor relations law was passed, dues for sergeants were deducted during the first two collectively bargained agreements - 1983-85 and 1985-88. Then, suddenly when negotiations commenced for a new agreement, the County first threatened, then filed, but later withdrew, a Charge of Prohibited Labor Practice because we were representing sergeants. What brought this about was that the County hired a labor relations manager who had worked for the union that challenged Lodge 35 for representation rights under meet and confer. That individual decided that he could make an issue of our representation of sergeants and he did. In discussing this matter with former Chief Bernie Crooke, I was told that he had no advance knowledge of the action and that he had no problem with our representation of police sergeants. At that point, he was speaking with five years of experience as police chief.

Considerable litigation and dispute ensued. In the end, the County unilaterally discontinued voluntary dues deductions for non-unit police officers and the grievance procedure [AP 4-4] was amended to prohibit either Lodge 35 or its President from representing sergeants in grievances. We have since resolved this issue to some degree.

None of this came as a real surprise, because in 1985, the County Attorney, despite a contract provision against it, unsuccessfully caused a suit to go to the Maryland Court of Special Appeals challenging my right to represent a Police Officer III before the Merit System Protection Board. Though we prevailed, the lesson learned was that as of 1985, Montgomery County remained anti-union.

On three occasions since 1982, a majority of sergeants have signed petitions with Lodge 35 for full collective bargaining rights.

Our bargaining unit members work with sergeants and perform much of the same work under identical conditions. Sergeants are the only unrepresented group of employees who share our working conditions. They should participate in the negotiation of contracts to address our concerns and in the administration of those contracts within a democratic union.

Now the Duncan Administration which for over five years has not supported collective bargaining rights for sergeants, suddenly proposes that sergeants, lieutenants, and captains should have these rights. Clearly, this is not an initiative, but a very shallow response to this bill and a 20 year effort by sergeants to obtain collective bargaining rights.

This is a ploy conceived only after the department got an earlier draft of this bill. Their plan is to expand bargaining to a larger group of employees, create a new unit, and have the unit be represented by a company union.

This attempt to create a company union demonstrates a disrespect for employees' right to organize and is regressive. This is a sad commentary on the administration. Seeking a company union a century after most such unions were abolished in this country is outrageous. They have them in Mexico, in third world countries, and some chicken producers might like to bring them back. Yet, in the year 2000 the Duncan administration seeks one and asks you to help them do it. The only thing they haven't yet proposed is the company store.

The administration has taken the reactionary, short view. The long term effect of their intent would be to drive a wedge between the bargaining unit and sergeants. Sergeants and current unit members must work together. We depend upon each other for mutual protection and safety. Indeed, their lives depend upon one another.

We ask that you reject the administration's proposal and enact support legislation to give sergeants the right to bargain as we propose.

Finally, we notice that this hearing has been advertised rather broadly. While we are here this day supporting our sergeants, we vigorously oppose any attempt to diminish our exiasting rights under the existing Police Labor Relations Law and would like fair opportunity to address any proposal to do so.

We are available to provide any information or assistance that any councilmember may desire.

Thank you for your careful consideration of this bill and the amendment we propose.

BEFORE THE MONTGOMERY COUNTY COUNCIL

TESTIMONY OF KIRK HOLUB, CHAIR, SUPERVISORS COMMITTEE, FRATERNAL ORDER OF POLICE, MONTGOMERY COUNTY LODGE 35

Bill 10-00

April 4, 2000

Good afternoon. I am Kirk Holub, a police sergeant and Chairman of the FOP Lodge 35 Supervisors Committee. Lodge 35 is also the elected representative of nonsupervisory police officers.

The Lodge 35 Supervisors Committee is a functional unit of Lodge 35 and was first created in 1982, then rechartered in 1996 for three basic purposes: 1. To recognize the importance of supervisors within the FOP; 2. To coordinate FOP representation of police supervisors; and 3. To pursue collective bargaining rights for police sergeants.

Currently, 91 (87%) of 105 sergeants are active dues-paying members of FOP Lodge 35. Of these sergeants, excluding the Supervisors Committee, one is on our Board of Directors, one is treasurer of a committee, one is a steward, and one is a committee member. Since the 1980 Charter amendment requiring collective bargaining for police officers, sergeants have served as President, Vice-President, Treasurer, and in other Lodge positions.

Lodge 35 has represented sergeants in employment matters since 1969. In the past year alone, we have represented sergeants in internal affairs matters under the Law Enforcement Officers' Bill of Rights, and others in grievances. A case involving a sergeant is pending before the Court of Special Appeals.

During recent negotiations with the Department of Justice, Lodge 35 protected the interests of police sergeants and allowed non-represented officers, of all ranks, to vote during the ratification process. The agreement was accepted and litigation, as is occurring in Columbus, Ohio and Pittsburgh was avoided.

Lodge 35 has a history of representation of sergeants. Significantly, there is no history of conflict.

We strongly urge that sergeants be allowed, according to procedures that we will outline, to vote for either representation or no representation. If we vote for representation, we believe that sergeants should be in the existing bargaining unit. There are several reasons for this.

1. We have a community of interest with the existing unit;

2. We are the only unrepresented sworn employees who have identical working conditions to existing unit members;

3. Like the bargaining unit, many of us work shift work;

4. We share the same job risks and dangers as existing unit members;

5. We perform much of the same work as unit members, e.g. making arrests, issuing traffic citations, responding to emergencies, and patrolling neighborhoods.

6. The nature of our job requires a certain closeness and ability to think and respond like others engaged in the same activities, often under dangerous circumstances;

7. We are subject to the same operating procedures as the existing unit.

It is for most of these reasons that, in other jurisdictions, first-line supervisors, such as sergeants, have traditionally been included in the same unit as non-supervisory officers.

Our primary goal is to serve our community on the front-lines and to protect life and property. We do our jobs well by working with those we supervise.

Talk of conflict and concern that there is a need to segregate supervisors from those they supervise defies history, tradition, and the realities of police work. If there is anything to fear, it is perpetuation of the theory that a government employer should drive a wedge between people who the community rely upon to protect their lives and property.

When a person is trapped in a car, we work together to save a life. When a suspect pulls a gun on a police officer, we do not concern ourselves with rank. When a citizen is in need of immediate police assistance, we don't pause to consult. We work together and we get the job done.

In our personal lives, we have close friends who are unit members. Non-represented employees are married to represented officers.

From a bargaining perspective, a unit of 105 officers is relatively small. If segregated by statute, we would be forced to bargain our interests without consideration of the existing unit members' interests and vice versa. Instead of working together through bargaining as we work together on the street, we would be forced to work against each other. This is not in the public's best interest.

Moreover, the County would have to negotiate with an additional union. And, if bargaining came to impasse, arbitration could produce very different results. For instance, supervisors could end up with a larger pay increase than those they supervise. This would destroy morale.

The Maryland police departments that have two units for supervisors and non-supervisory officers are Baltimore City which has an officers unit and a sergeants and lieutenants unit, both represented by the same FOP; and Anne Arundel County which has two units, represented by two different unions. Neither Baltimore City nor A.A. County have binding arbitration. A.A. County has had considerable internal chaos. In contrast, Prince George's County where there is binding arbitration, has one unit that includes non-supervisory employees, sergeants and lieutenants. Upon impasse in P.G. County, there is one arbitration, and one result.

In closing, we support collective bargaining with binding arbitration for police sergeants under the same law that currently exists for non-supervisory police officers. Many sergeants are now represented individually by the same union that represents other officers.

We ask that the bill be amended and passed to allow sergeants to vote for representation in August of each year immediately preceding expiration of a contract. If sergeants vote for representation, we would be included in the same unit as nonsupervisory officers and accorded full rights under existing certification procedures. If we vote no representation, we would be excluded.

We feel that this is a reasonable compromise proposal that takes into account the major concerns we have heard.

We look forward to working with you in this important matter.

Statement in Support of Bill 10-00

Collective Bargaining for Police Sergeants

My name is Fergus Sugrue. I also am a Montgomery County police sergeant and a member of FOP Montgomery County Lodge 35.

I join Sergeants Holub and Hamill in supporting Bill 10-00 with the amendment they propose.

In 1980, the voters of Montgomery County gave police officers the right to collective bargaining with binding arbitration. When the law was passed, we were excluded. The time has come for us to be afforded this important right within the same bargaining unit as the only other group of employees who work under identical conditions as do we.

I, too, will address the apparent concern of conflict. There should be less concern over imaginary conflict and more concern about potential divisiveness. In Prince George's County and Washington, D.C., the only area jurisdictions with collective bargaining and binding arbitration, sergeants are included in the police bargaining unit under one contract with non-supervisory police officers.

I see no conflict if an organization that represents non-supervisory police officers also represents first-line supervisors at the bargaining table, especially when that bargaining committee includes first-line supervisors.

As sergeants, we are now caught in the middle between management and unit police officers. It would seem to me that there would be less conflict if sergeants and non-supervisory police officers could sit at the bargaining table and work out potential problems and memorialize solutions in a collective bargaining agreement.

Currently, FOP Lodge 35 represents most sergeants under the Law Enforcement Officers' Bill of Rights and the County's own grievance procedure. Collective bargaining with one bargaining unit would merely result in a comprehensive contract with uniform, formalized rights, conditions, and responsibilities under the same agreement with uniform conflict resolution procedures.

Any responsible representative of police officers, like Lodge 35, will avoid against conflict. Lodge 35 has been very successful in doing just that.

As police officers, we are faced with far more serious conflicts and we have a record of resolving them. In our private lives, we deal with neighborhood problems that call upon balancing our private and professional responsibilities; we have personal family interests that can test us; or we could stop a friend, relative, or political official for a traffic offense.

Should some future police chief be suspected of criminal activity, I have every confidence in my brother and sister officers to enforce the law.

Non-supervisory police officers investigate internal complaints against non-supervisory officers and sergeants. Sergeants investigate complaints against sergeants and lieutenants. Friends and relatives of officers supervise investigations of other officers as well as those of friends and relatives of officers, yet there has never been any a concern because we are professional in our dealings.

The County Attorney's office "prosecutes" police officers, including, sergeants, at administrative hearings, and defends the same officers in civil cases arising from the same incident, but no one complains of conflict.

In contrast, collective bargaining must be viewed in the employer-employee context, not the criminal context. I would think there is less potential for conflict if the parties are accorded the opportunity to present their interests at the table.

The public and government interests of Montgomery County and its sergeants (first-line supervisors) would be well served through legislation as we have proposed.

We ask for your support.

Bill 10-00

Collective Bargaining for Police Sergeants

Good afternoon. I am Russell E. Hamill, III and am a Montgomery County police sergeant, a member of FOP Montgomery County Lodge 35, and an attorney admitted to the Maryland Bar. My wife is a member of the police collective bargaining unit.

I support collective bargaining for police sergeants with a provision that we vote for representation or no representation. And that when represented, we be represented by the same union that represents non-supervisory officers.

Typically, opponents will say that representation by the same union creates conflicts. In our case, I disagree. I will explain the process and facts to put the issue in its proper perspective.

When I began my employment in Montgomery County, I was a member of the police bargaining unit. In 1994 when I was promoted to sergeant, I remained an active member of FOP Lodge 35, but was no longer a member of the bargaining unit.

Promotion meant that I was no longer covered by the collective bargaining agreement, but I remained a merit system employee covered by Personnel Regulations. In essence, I traded a book called "Collective Bargaining Agreement" for another book entitled "Personnel Regulations for Merit System Employees".

The contract was negotiated between the County and my elected representative in a business-like manner under law. The Personnel Regulations were implemented through government processes. In effect, the Personnel Regulations became my contract.

Both the collective bargaining agreement and the contract have grievance procedures. Currently, when a unit member has a grievance, s/he notifies the FOP. Similarly, when a sergeant has a grievance, s/he usually contacts the FOP.

Under the contract grievance procedure, immediate supervisors do not adjust grievances. However, under the County's own grievance procedure, which is available to current bargaining unit members in some situations, supervisors can resolve grievances. Hence, there is less potential for conflict under the contract than under the County's own unilaterally implemented grievance procedure.

Representation during disciplinary interviews is governed by state law and, in most cases, the FOP represents sergeants in procedures under this law. Workers' Compensation is governed by state law and many sergeants use FOP endorsed attorneys for those hearings.

All police-involved shootings are reviewed by the Grand Jury. Under the Constitution, even the innocent have a right to representation in these matters. Most sergeants call upon the FOP for such representation.

Typically, conflict is perceived to occur through contract administration, not contract negotiation.

I have not seen any conflict with FOP representation and know that we, supervisory and non-supervisory officers alike, are professional enough to prevent conflict from interfering with our jobs. The FOP is an organization of police officers and has been very responsible and professional in avoiding conflict.

Policing is different than most other occupations and professions. We are a brother and sisterhood of citizens dedicated to preservation of community peace and security. This is a tough job, but we can do it only through unity without artificial government-created barriers.

Next month, the National FOP will host annual ceremonies honoring all law enforcement officers who have died in service to their communities. New names will be added to the National Law Enforcement Officers' Memorial in D.C.

This Council owes it to its law enforcement officers to visit that memorial. There you will see that heroes' names are not segregated by bargaining unit or rank.

You support for the bill with the proposed amendments will be appreciated.

Dear Mr. Berlage:

The issue of Collective Bargaining for the rank of Sergeant for the Montgomery County Police has recently resurfaced with Legislation that you have presented. The Alliance of Police Supervisors strongly supports Collective Bargaining for Sergeants, Lieutenants and Captains represented by our organization. Chief Moose is also in support of this unified proposal.

The Alliance of Police Supervisors distributed a questionnaire on April 16, 1998 to supervisors of the rank of Sergeant to determine their interest in having one of the following:

- Interest in the Alliance of Police Supervisors representing Sergeants, Lieutenants and Captains to attain Collective Bargaining
- Sergeants should have their own bargaining unit or join an existing bargaining unit to attain Collective Bargaining

The results of this survey indicated that 60% of the Sergeants wanted the Alliance of Police Supervisors to represent them.

We request that you extend your legislation to include Lieutenants and Captains. It is important that management have a voice in their future. Historically, management has not had any input and has relied on the pass through benefits that were bargained by the Fraternal Order of Police. This fact has limited many talented officers from participating in the promotional process above the rank of Corporal. Collective Bargaining for members of the Alliance of Police Supervisors will provide representation for all of our membership and encourage officers to become supervisors. We are only interested in the advancement of our Department and keeping our agency in the forefront of law enforcement initiatives. Thank you for your attention to this matter of importance.

Sincerely,

MEMORANDUM

April 7, 2000

TO: Michael Faden, Senior Legislative Attorney

VIA: Marta Brito Perez, Director, Office of Human Resources

FROM: James E. Torgesen, Labor/Employee Relations Manager

SUBJECT: Bill No. 10-00 - Collective Bargaining -Police Supervisors

You have requested additional explanation and comments from the Executive Branch concerning the amendments affecting collective bargaining rights for police supervisors as proposed by the County Executive. The following is an explanation of the rationale for these amendments addressing the three areas affected; unit structure, position exemptions and scope of bargaining.

Unit Structure

The Police Labor Relations Law, as in each of the other County labor laws, includes as a critical component of the law the definition of a unit of representation for the purpose of collective bargaining. In determining an appropriate unit of representation, labor relations criteria that are commonly used include an evaluation of: the desires of employees, the history of representation, the extent of union organization and community of interest. While all four elements may have impact on unit determination, community of interest is of prime importance. Community of interest generally includes similarities in duties, skills and working conditions.

Desires of employees. To formulate a position on this matter, the Chief of Police met with all supervisors within the Department. Two separate meetings were held, one with sergeants and one with all other supervisors. The Chief concluded from those two meetings that employees in the ranks of sergeant, lieutenant, and captain were interested in having their wages, benefits, and working conditions established through the collective bargaining process.

History of representation. Over the years, various police organizations have represented the interests of police supervisors at all ranks. In the public testimony on the bill, the Fraternal Order of Police (FOP) emphasized its history of individual representation of sergeants. In fact, the FOP has been active in the individual representation of supervisors at all levels. Likewise, the Alliance of Police Supervisors has represented supervisors of all ranks in various capacities.

In the public testimony, the FOP contended that the structure of a separate unit including all three supervisory ranks will have the "unit be represented by a company union." The proposed amendments do nothing to alter the manner in which bargaining unit employees select their chosen representative. The FOP or any other labor organization is free to compete for the representation rights of the bargaining unit. The representative will be determined by a majority of the eligible employees voting. If unit members do not approve of the representation, the law provides a means to change the representative. To suggest that employees would somehow permit an employer-sponsored organization sorely underestimates the intelligence and desire for self determination of the employees involved.

Extent of union organization. Throughout the metropolitan area and Maryland, police supervisors have organized for the purpose of collective bargaining in a number of jurisdictions. The unit structure is mixed. Attached is a chart which provides the jurisdiction, labor organization, unit status, and ranks involved. The public testimony indicated that Prince George's County had one unit that included all police officers through lieutenant. The unit structure in Prince George's County actually provides for a separate unit for supervisors, but for bargaining purposes the supervisors are included under the same labor agreement as the non-supervisory personnel.

Community of interest. The County Executive proposed amendments create a separate supervisory bargaining unit to include sergeants, lieutenants and captains. These three ranks share a primary and common job duty: the responsibility for supervision of police employees and resources. The sergeant has day-to-day responsibility for shift supervision including assigning work, reviewing performance, approving leave, and recommending and approving training. The lieutenant is the principal supervisor of all police patrol shifts and special assignment teams. The captain is the principal supervisor of an operational unit. Included in the supervision at all levels is the responsibility for the administration and enforcement of labor agreements on behalf of the County as the employer. A separate supervisory unit preserves the identity of the supervisory structure.

Although compensation and benefits are similar to the existing police bargaining unit as the result of "pass through," supervisors have their own salary schedule. Also, although sergeants do work the same shift structure as those whom they supervise, as noted earlier their primary role is one of supervision.

Creating a separate supervisory unit also helps eliminate conflicts of interest that arise when supervisors are placed in the same unit as non-supervisory employees. Supervisors must apply the many provisions of the contract to the employees they supervise. As disagreements arise concerning the application of the contract the interests of the supervisor are blurred if they are covered by the same agreement that they are being required to enforce. For example, in a grievance proceeding, subordinate employees might expect supervisors to act more like employee advocates than representatives of management if both are part of the same unit.

The public testimony stated that the County Executive's proposed amendments are seeking to "drive a wedge" between supervisory and non-supervisory employees. The focus of the proposed amendments is on the supervisory community of interest. It is the County's position that the proposed unit structure will further identify and preserve this important element within the Police Department.

Position Exemptions

The Executive Branch amendments seek to exempt from coverage employees who perform certain critical functions within the police department impacting labor relations. Supervisory employees in human resources, legal, labor relations, internal affairs, policy development and compliance should be excluded from the bargaining unit. Supervisory personnel in these work units are actively engaged in representing Departmental management interests and or assisting in the formulation of policies which impact areas affecting labor relations.

Scope of Bargaining

The requested amendments preclude bargaining on the "effects" of the Employer's exercise of a management right for the proposed supervisory unit. The duty to bargain the "effects" of an exercise of any of the statutorily defined Employer rights creates restrictions and delays on the Employer's ability to act in the management arena. An example of "effects" bargaining may be seen through the impact on frequently utilized management prerogatives such as the transfer, assignment and scheduling of employees. The use of these management rights is critical to the ability of the Police Department to operate in an efficient and effective manner in the delivery of police services. Before management may proceed to initiate a change in how employees are transferred, scheduled or assigned, the effect of the changes on employees may be subject to bargaining. Consequently, appropriate notice and opportunity to bargain must be extended to the exclusive representative. The result of any "effects" bargaining may place other limitations on management's ability to act such as a notice requirement, waiting period, opportunity for comment, compensation, etc. before a schedule change or transfer may occur. The requested amendments retain the status quo for the non-supervisory bargaining unit and provide, in essence, a scope of bargaining for supervisory employees which is consistent with bargaining rights extended to all other County employees.

In summary, the Executive's proposed amendments provide a reasoned approach to establishing the appropriate collective bargaining unit for supervisors. In particular, we believe that the proposed unit structure will preserve the supervisory community of interest. We look forward to addressing these issues with the Council and employee representatives.

FROM: Derick P. Berlage, Councilmember

SUBJECT: Amendments to Bill 10-00

I continue to support the above-captioned bill essentially as introduced. At the same time, as you know, several amendments and changes to the legislation have been requested. I would like to address one of these issues with an amendment to the bill.

While I do not support the County Executive's proposed amendments, I do support offering Police Lieutenants and Captains the opportunity to bargain collectively. I propose that this be accomplished by creating a separate bargaining unit for Lieutenants and Captains. Members of that bargaining unit could then decide whether and by what organization they wish to be represented, according to the provisions of Montgomery County Code Section 33-79.

I appreciate the Committee's consideration of this amendment.

SUBJECT: Amendment to Council Bill 10-00: Collective Bargaining – Police Sergeants

The purpose of this memorandum is to transmit a fiscal impact statement to the Council President based upon the County Executive's requested amendments to Council Bill 10-00.

SUMMARY

The County Council proposed Bill 10-00 amends Chapter 33 of the Montgomery County Code, Personnel and Human Resources. The proposed amendments would add Police employees classified as Sergeants in a bargaining unit for the purpose of collective bargaining. This bargaining unit would be separate from the existing non-supervisory, uniformed bargaining unit for Police employees.

The County Executive supports the proposed Council Bill. However, the County Executive, in consultation with the Chief of Police, has proposed to amend Council Bill 10-00 to bring Sergeants, Lieutenants, and Captains within the scope of collective bargaining.

POLICE SERGEANTS, LIEUTENANTS, AND CAPTAINS - FISCAL SUMMARY

The Office of Human Resources anticipates additional operating costs associated with collective bargaining in the years that new agreements are negotiated with the County as a result of this legislation. During FY01, County labor negotiations would begin with the new supervisor's bargaining unit chosen by the employee organization. The projected operating cost impact in FY01 is estimated at $39,000. These costs are related to operating expenses which would support the collective bargaining process. No additional operating expenses are projected for the FY00 approved budget as a result of the County Executive's amendments to Council Bill 10-00.

		FY 01
Personnel Cost	None	$0
Operating Expenses		$39,000
Total		$39,000

Honorable Michael Subin
President

RE: Bill 10-00, Collective Bargaining - Police Sergeants

Dear President Subin:

In advance of Council's consideration of Bill 10-00 and amendments, Lodge 35 and its Supervisors Committee [1] strongly urges the following:

- That the existing bargaining unit be expanded to include sergeants subject to a vote by sergeants to determine if they want to be represented. Thereafter, they would be eligible to participate in any representation election.

- That sergeants have the right to bargain "effects" of the exercise of existing management rights.

At a meeting of sergeants held on April 25, 2000, all but one sergeant in attendance voted to support the above. The one who did not vote for these provisions was undecided. None was opposed.

In a memorandum dated April 7, 2000 [MFP 1, 4/11/00, C. 23-26] Jim Torgesen, Labor/Employee Relations Manager, OHR, correctly identified four criteria commonly applied in determining unit composition. These include: Desires of Employees, History of Representation, Extent of Union Organization, and Community of Interest.

[1] The Lodge 35 Supervisors Committee is a functional unit of FOP Lodge 35 and was first created in 1982, then rechartered in 1996 for three basic purposes: 1. To recognize the importance of supervisors within the FOP; 2. To coordinate FOP representation of police supervisors; and 3. To pursue collective bargaining rights for police sergeants. The committee is chaired by a police sergeant and all of its members are Montgomery County police sergeants. In accord with Lodge 35 Bylaws, the president is an ex officio member of all committees.

18512 Office Park Drive Montgomery Village, MD 20886
(301) 948-4286 • FAX (301) 590-0317

Desires of Employees At a Supervisors Committee meeting called and chaired by their peers, MCP sergeants voted their desire in detail, supra. In stark contrast, the OHR memorandum relates that the chief of police [management] held separate meetings - one with sergeants (where attendance was "mandatory", Attachment 1) and another with lieutenants and captains. OHR says that the police "chief concluded from these two meetings that employees in the ranks of sergeant, lieutenant, and captain were interested in . . . collective bargaining." Significantly, OHR does not state that it was the desire of sergeants to be in a bargaining unit with lieutenants and captains. Indeed, any such conclusion would be inaccurate. Moreover, employees should be allowed to express their desire directly or as a group, without management involvement, such as the Sergeants Committee, and not through management. (87% of current sergeants are active, dues-paying members of FOP Lodge 35.) [2]

History of Representation As stated in our public testimony, Lodge 35, which is the certified representative of non-supervisory police officers, has a long, proud tradition in representation of all members, including sergeants. While one or another organization may have represented a few sergeants in the past, the fact remains that the organization representing the current unit has provided more extensive representation to the vast majority of individual sergeants represented in the past 19 or more years.

The Immediate Past President of Lodge 35 was a police sergeant.

From July 1, 1983, the effective date of our first contract, to June 30, 1988, the expiration date of our second contract, FOP dues for sergeants were deducted pursuant to those contracts. Effective July 1, 1988, the County unilaterally, and for political reasons only, discontinued FOP dues check-off for sergeants. And, as stated in our public hearing testimony, the County, through OHR, filed a Charge of Prohibited Labor Practice against Lodge 35 for representing sergeants. The Charge was later withdrawn, but stands as a monument to the history of our representation of sergeants.

[2] In a March 16, 2000 letter to Mr. Berlage [MFP 1, 4/11/00, C. 22], the Alliance of Police Supervisors said that, on April 16, 1998, they surveyed sergeants to determine their interest and stated: "The results of this survey indicated that 60% of the sergeants wanted the Alliance of Police Supervisors to represent them." Choice of representative is a decision to be made by all sergeants, by secret ballot, not by survey. However, on April 7, 1998, nine days earlier, lieutenants and captains were surveyed by the Alliance of Police Supervisors via a memorandum addressed to "Alliance of Police Supervisor Members." That survey presented two choices: _____ Yes, I am interested in one organization to attain collective bargaining or _____ No. I believe the Sergeants should have a separate bargaining organization. (Attachment 2.) The options were limited and, while it is not our intention to involve Council in a representation debate, we present this issue for the sole purposes of 1. pointing out that the stated result is not consistent with the action taken at our meeting of last Tuesday and 2. demonstrating that the referenced survey is not a valid indicator of the desire of employees.

Extent of Union Organization OHR correctly notes that the unit structure in the metropolitan area and Maryland is mixed. North of the Mason-Dixon Line, union representation isn't treated as such a major threat. However, here, south of that Line, Prince George's County, the only other Maryland jurisdiction with binding arbitration, has a single contract covering all officers through the rank of lieutenant, negotiated by FOP Lodge 89. [3] Washington, D.C., which also has binding arbitration, is a single unit that includes sergeants. The MNCPPC police, which is partly Montgomery County funded, has a single unit that includes police sergeants.

Baltimore County has a single unit that includes all officers through the rank of lieutenant, represented by FOP Lodge 4. Baltimore City has a separate unit for sergeants and lieutenants represented by FOP Lodge 3. Anne Arundel has a separate unit for sergeants, represented by a different union. (There has been considerable turmoil in AA County over the years, including two representation elections between the Teamsters and FOP Lodge 70 which represents non-supervisory officers.) Howard County sergeants do not have bargaining rights. However, in several smaller jurisdictions, sergeants are in the same unit as non-supervisory officers. [4]

In the two area jurisdictions with binding arbitration, sergeants are represented by the same union and covered by the same contract.

As noted, the MNCPPC police have a unit that includes sergeants. In the Montgomery County school system, certain non-certificated supervisory employees are in the same unit as nonsupervisory employees and represented by SEIU Local 500. Certificated employees are in two units, one represented by MCEA and the other represented by MCAASP. MCEA represents Resource Teachers and Teacher Specialists. [5] For budgetary and political reasons, care has been taken to avoid labeling these teacher positions as "supervisors," but the fact remains that, in practice, they perform jobs comparable to those of police sergeant. While the Executive may want to dispute the comparison, we suggest that it is merely a matter of semantics on his part. Attachment 3.

Moreover, State law which governs school employee collective bargaining, does not exclude supervisory employees from non-supervisory unions.

[3] Mr. Torgesen is correct that PG County technically has separate units - one for non-supervisory employees and another for sergeants and lieutenants. However, one union is recognized and certified for both units and one contract covers both units. It was not the intent of Lodge 35 to mislead Council on this most technical issue. Knowing that FOP 89 has, for many years, had but one contract, we were simply mistaken.

[4] Of the Chartered Maryland counties (including Baltimore City) with separate County (City) police departments, all but two (Howard and Montgomery) provide collective bargaining rights for sergeants. In Harford County, the Sheriff's Office provides police services.

[5] In the early 1970s, school administrators were represented by MCEA. Later, at the request of MCEA, a separate unit was created for school administrators who are represented by another organization.

Community of Interest OHR says that "community of interest is of prime importance." And, says OHR: "Community of interest generally includes similarities in duties, skills and working conditions." We agree. However, OHR and the County Executive seek to set parameters that seem to fit their goal, i.e. one unit to include captains. They further resort to the "conflict of interest" scare tactic. In response, we submit that if there is a conflict of interest with a sergeant and a police officer whom s/he supervises being in the same bargaining unit, surely, there must be a conflict of interest between a captain and a sergeant being in the same unit.

It seems contradictory to the Executive's position that he proposes captains, who are two ranks above sergeants, be in the same unit with sergeants and involved in interpreting and administering the same contract that would cover both sergeants and captains.

It is curious that when the executive branch and OHR were opposing the current collective bargaining charter provision that there was no concern that the "interests of the supervisor [may have been] blurred [when both supervisors and non-supervisory officers were] covered by the same [rules, policies, and personnel regulations] that they [were] required to enforce."

We are puzzled that OHR and the Executive are concerned about how a sergeant might be expected to behave in a grievance proceeding if s/he were a member of the same unit as those s/he supervises when, since 1983, contract grievances are submitted directly to the police chief for initial resolution while the County's unilaterally implemented grievance procedure [AP 4-4], applicable to non-supervisory officers in a few matters, provides for first step review by the immediate supervisor.

More importantly, Lodge 35 credits police sergeants with the honor and integrity to do their jobs without evil intent or misconduct. They have demonstrated their integrity over the years of FOP representation and the history of that representation is proof that the alleged concerns of OHR and the Executive are without factual basis. We challenge the Executive to give us evidence of actual conflict that has occurred since Lodge 35 was chartered in 1969.

We could argue this matter for weeks, however, area jurisdictions, particularly those with binding arbitration, include sergeants in the same unit or under the same contract as non-supervisory officers.

Hence, this is purely a political decision. Politics, not facts, are the driving force behind the Executive's proposal.

Community of interest involves other factors not addressed by the executive. Working conditions between most sergeants and the existing unit are nearly identical. This is not true of sergeants and lieutenants or captains. Sergeants are assigned to shifts, they work shift work, they routinely respond to calls for service and make arrests. They make traffic stops, and they patrol. Simply put, they are field supervisors. Lieutenants and captains are not "field" supervisors, rather, by the department's own definition, they are "executive" officers.

The department holds executive-level meetings with its "executive" officers and, in a recent training offering, a course has a separate session for lieutenants and above.

Lieutenants and above even wear slightly different uniforms. [6]

Clearly, the working conditions of sergeants are more similar to those of nonsupervisory officers.

Other Factors In the private sector, supervisors are precluded from bargaining. In the private sector, employees have the right to strike and have a broader scope of bargaining than their public sector counterparts. Traditionally, due to the nature of the job, police supervisors have been afforded bargaining rights and it is not uncommon for them to be included in the same unit as non-supervisory employees. [7]

Unlike many other County positions and the private sector, every incumbent police sergeant was promoted from a non-supervisory Montgomery County police officer position. This is significant. Furthermore, all sworn police officers below the rank of police chief are in a common retirement system (Group F).

EFFECTS BARGAINING Effects bargaining is but another distraction. OLO Report 99-2 commented on effects bargaining without ever affording Lodge 35 an opportunity to comment. A Council Resource Committee, consisting of a diverse group of County residents (including the president of Lodge 35), was created to look into the police complaint system. OLO's charge was to address the complaint system.

After input from the Executive, OLO, without consultation with either the Resource Committee or Lodge 35, raised this issue. Effects bargaining is fairly common in the public sector in recognition that public sector bargaining rights are more limited than in the private sector.

We are disappointed that OLO denied Lodge 35 a fair opportunity to comment and explain this issue before it was raised in a formal report. (We did not see the final report until the late on the evening before it was publicly presented.) Notwithstanding the influence Council staff has within the institution of the County Council as a "part-time" body, fairness dictates that we be heard on matters affecting our interests. Council staff's perspective is frequently distorted and they seldom seek our views on issues within our expertise. (We do not refer here to individual Councilmembers' staff and aides.)

[6] We express no opinion about lieutenants having bargaining rights or being included in our bargaining unit. The bill before you pertains only to sergeants.

[7] All sworn police officers, regardless of rank, are constitutional officers. Bradshaw v. Prince George's County, 284 Md. 294, 396 A.2d 255 (1979). See also 72 Op. Atty Gen. Md. 271, January 13, 1987) A police officer may not serve as a member of the Maryland House of Delegates because both are constitutional "office[s] of profit." (In the General Election of 1996, the Maryland Declaration of Rights was amended to permit police officers and certain other public officials to simultaneously hold additional offices. This amendment did not, however, change the "public official" status of police officers.)

We would have welcomed an opportunity for full and open discussion of "effects bargaining" as well as the arguments put forth by the County in formal court pleadings, never considered or known to staff, which relate to the concerns the Executive claims he has in this important matter.

Even at this point, we invite that discussion, and point out that the recent Department of Justice findings were critical only of management's exercise of its rights, not of those matters that were collectively bargained.

Of considerable import, is the additional fact that it was only through the cooperation and leadership of FOP Lodge 35 that an agreement was reached between the County, DoJ, and Lodge 35 to improve police services and the complaint process, thereby avoiding litigation. In Pittsburgh, PA litigation continues despite a consent decree and in Columbus, Ohio, litigation has been initiated. [8]

It is no coincidence that here, in Montgomery County, we resolved important issues without litigation and that Lodge 35 has been overwhelmed with calls for assistance and requests to share its DoJ experiences with other unions throughout the Nation. [9]

We should be proud that DoJ, the County, and the police union have come together to enter into an agreement that serves as model for a collective bargaining law that enables cooperation and flexibility to resolve the effects of management rights short of full blown, disruptive federal litigation. It is unfortunate that the Executive has asked Council to dilute the law that enabled such cooperation.

Under the law, management has certain rights, i.e. the right to assign, transfer, lay-off due to lack of funds or work, determine methods of operation, and the union may bargain the effects of management's exercise of those rights upon employees. Effects bargaining does not prevent management from exercising its rights. For example, under the current contract, management may schedule employees. However, if it schedules employees without sufficient advance notice, it must compensate and make whole employees affected by the change. Unit members and sergeants have family and child care concerns and it is out of sensitivity for those concerns that effects have been bargained. Without effects bargaining, a schedule could be changed and an employee would be immediately (or on short notice) required to find care for an infant or young child and report for work without additional consideration. This is contrary to a County that talks of "Family Friendly Work Policies."

"Effects bargaining" does not prevent management from exercising its rights. It merely balances the interests of the employer and employee and, at best (or worst, depending on one's perspective) requires the employer to think about the effects of its intentions before it acts.

[8] In Pittsburgh, DoJ and the City entered into an agreement over the objections of FOP Lodge 1. Thereafter, FOP Lodge 1 arbitrated changes that "effected" the consent decree. The City sued and the matter is pending in Federal court. In Columbus, the City and DoJ entered into a proposed consent decree. The FOP refused to agree and DoJ sued the City. Both suits are pending.

It is notable that every single Montgomery County police officer was furloughed several years ago despite effects bargaining, which did occur. And that crime has decreased in recent years, that the Cuban Interest Section residence was recently protected, and that we were prepared to go into Washington, D.C. to assist in the event of major civil disturbance during the recent World Bank/International Monetary Fund meetings without any "effects" problems.

Effects bargaining is especially important in police work because of the toll such work takes on the individual and family.

Since September 1999, two examples of "effects bargaining" have been raised before Council. One concerned pornography on the internet and the other was qualification of weapons. We will briefly comment on each.

Management submitted a proposal to Lodge 35 concerning use of County computers. That proposal was submitted pursuant to Article 61 of our contract. There was never any dispute over the issue of pornography on the internet. There was, however, considerable discussion about e-mail confidentiality, disciplining officers for sending their mothers birthday or Mother's Day greetings, and playing computer games such as "Hearts" or "Solitaire" on County computers. As we discussed these matters, the police department's representative was playing a computer game on a County computer. We asked if there was a County-wide policy on the use of e-mail. After discussions, the County withdrew its proposal. More recently, they indicated a desire to discuss it again, but have not followed through.

Over the years a very few officers have had difficulty qualifying with firearms. Through additional training and practice, all have qualified. Last year, three officers had difficulty. One qualified on the second round; one involved a disabled officer who was able to qualify; and the third was a non-bargaining unit member.

The State of Maryland has established firearms qualification standards. No Montgomery County police officer has carried a firearm in violation of those standards.

In neither of these matters has management implemented rules or procedures for non-unit members as it has the authority to do.

Additionally, much of what has been touted as "effects bargaining" is actually direct bargaining over working conditions. (In a Gazette article, former chief Thomas Evans mentioned the quality of toilet paper as being an example of "effects bargaining." We have never engaged in a controversy over quality of toilet paper, but if we did, it would fall under working conditions, not effects bargaining.) [9]

[9] Under normal circumstances, Lodge 35 would not comment on petty issues like toilet paper, but since the recently retired deputy police chief raised the issue in a news article, we feel compelled to respond. Under our contracts, dating to 1983, there has never been a grievance over toilet paper. However, prior to legislation granting other County employees the right to bargain collectively, a police dispatcher did file a County grievance over lack of toilet paper in the women's rest room at ECC. That grievance was resolved.

Topics such as "pornography" and "guns" make for great sensationalism and political fodder for anti-unionists, but the facts defy the rhetoric. Scare tactics frequently are effective means of depriving others of their rights. Senator Joseph McCarthy was a master at the game.

Such tactics currently are being employed to bully Council into funding "School Resource Officers" and it makes for great press, but does the Executive really believe that a single "School Resource Officer" in a school, armed with a 9 mm handgun, will save lives of students if two suicidal, heavily armed students open fire in a school cafeteria or library?

We urge Council to deal with facts, not respond to shallow tactics.

As with unit designation, effects bargaining is purely a political decision and does not adversely affect public safety.

Position Exemptions The Executive asks that you exempt certain positions from bargaining. The rationale for such exemptions could extend to all captains and above.

Since 1982, unit members have held positions in internal affairs, personnel (human resources), policy development, and others. In 18 years there has not been a conflict. In addition, current unit members have held supervisory positions on an acting basis without conflict.

The exclusion of certain employees whose counterparts have collectively bargained benefits and wages does not work in the field of policing. The Executive's proposal requires two pay scales -- one for represented supervisors and another for unrepresented. It creates conflict and confusion within an occupational classification -- especially at the sergeant level.

Other Considerations Inclusion of sergeants in the existing unit, after democratic vote, will have minimal impact upon the Executive and his staff. On the other hand, creation of a new unit will require separate bargaining and separate mediation and arbitration despite union certification. If a separate unit is created for sergeants, whether Lodge 35 or any other union is elected representative, negotiations will take place at different times, and arbitration will be conducted, possibly with a different arbitrator, separate from the existing unit. Two contracts will be produced.

The Executive will be bound to the outcomes of both agreements, both arbitrated and non-arbitrated. The Executive must provide for both agreements in his/her recommended budget. And, the representative(s) of each unit will appear before Council in support of each agreement notwithstanding any differences.

In conclusion, there is ample evidence that sergeants can be included in the same unit and/or under the same contract as non-supervisory employees without conflict. It has worked elsewhere and can work here. There is no valid reason why effects bargaining should not apply to sergeants.

Your consideration is appreciated and we ask for Council's support.

Sincerely,

FROM: DREW J. TRACY

SUBJECT: COLLECTIVE BARGAINING

DATE: APRIL 7, 1998

Recently an effort has been initiated to start a new organization for Sergeants with the goal of collective bargaining under a union type structure. This initiative has support for the concept by the majority of Sergeants. I personally believe that Sergeants, Lieutenants and Captains should all be included in this new organization. Presently a few individuals want an organization only for Sergeants but other individuals believe it will serve us better to have executive officers also represented.

I am sending this memorandum to all Lieutenants and Captains asking if they are interested in our organization combining with Sergeants with the goal of attaining collective bargaining. I am not familiar with the structure of creating a bargaining unit organization but I believe we may remain as the Alliance of Police Supervisors with a few legal changes to allow collective bargaining.

Please take the time to answer this survey and forward your return to me at FSB in Headquarters.

____ Yes, I am interested in one organization to attain collective bargaining.

____ No, I believe the Sergeants should have a separate bargaining organization.

Montgomery County Lodge 35, Inc.

June 2, 2000

RECEIVED COUNCIL

Honorable Derick Berlage
Montgomery County Council
100 Maryland Avenue
Rockville, Maryland 20850

Bill 10-00 Collective Bargaining - Police Sergeants

Dear Mr. Berlage:

Again, on behalf of Lodge 35 and its members, including police sergeants, I want to thank you and the co-sponsors of Bill 10-00 for supporting the sergeants collective bargaining bill, legislation which you appropriately indicated is long overdue.

As stated in prior correspondence and statements before the MFP Committee, police sergeant collective bargaining is very common in Maryland and throughout the country. Similarly, the inclusion of police sergeants and even lieutenants within the same bargaining unit, or under the same collective bargaining agreement, is an established practice.

Unfortunately, the major issues are being distorted by the irrational objection of the administration to so-called "effects bargaining." This distraction must, we feel, be addressed head-on to avoid future controversy, litigation, and misperception. Moreover, "effects bargaining" has been used as a red herring by our opponents.

The stated purpose of the Police Labor Relations Act ["PLRA"] is "to promote a harmonious, peaceful and cooperative relationship between the county government and its police employees and to protect the public by assuring, at all times, the responsive, orderly and efficient operation of the police department." The law further recognizes that "[s]ince unresolved disputes in the police service are injurious to the public and to police employees as well, adequate means should be provided for preventing such unresolved disputes and for resolving them when they occur." PLRA § 33-75.

We have honored this public policy and, indeed, since April 1982 when the current law was enacted, there have been no job actions by police officers; no picketing; no slowdowns; and no other actions that impaired our ability to serve the public. This is a significant tribute to a thoughtfully crafted law that was the result of hard work by the County Council, the Gilchrist Administration, and Lodge 35.

Our law was the first collective bargaining law enacted in Montgomery County. It includes specific reference to "effects bargaining." On the other hand, the County Employees and Firefighter laws do not make such specific reference, but those laws do indeed require "effects bargaining."

It is because the older Police law makes specific statutory reference to "effects" that there is been very little litigation or dispute over the issue. In contrast, the newer County Employees law has been clarified through dispute and litigation. Indeed, MCGEO has had to file more Unfair Labor Practices Charges since their law was enacted in 1986 than has the FOP under the PLRA enacted in 1982.

It is in the spirit of resolving this issue here and now, rather than later, that we present the following for Council review and consideration.

EFFECTS BARGAINING

One of the bedrock concepts in American labor relations jurisprudence is "effects bargaining." Effects bargaining is basic to the practice of collective bargaining in practically every jurisdiction. It is a necessary component of the exercise of "management rights" both in the public and private sectors.

The National Labor Relations Board [NLRB] in its landmark decision Ozark Trailers, Inc., 161 NLRB 561, 63 LRRM 1264, 1266 (1966) cited to earlier precedent in defining this concept, and explained that even when an employer is undertaking a managerial decision, such as the decision to completely shut down operations - perhaps the most fundamental management right of all:

> an employer is still under the obligation to notify the union of its intentions so that the union may be given an opportunity to bargain over the rights of the employees whose employment status will be altered by the managerial decision.

This duty cannot be neatly limited to a specified list of subject areas or scenarios. As Hill and Sinicropi explain in their often-cited text Management Rights, (BNA Books, 1989) at p. 412:

> The courts have not limited the scope of effects bargaining to a specific list of subjects. All aspects related to that decision may be encompassed in the broad scope of effects bargaining.

Indeed, as the NLRB has often recognized:

> The effects are so inextricably interwoven with the decision itself that bargaining limited to effects will not be meaningful if it must be carried on within a framework of a [management] decision which cannot be revised. An interpretation of the law which carries the obligations to 'effects,' therefore, cannot well stop short of the decision itself which directly affects 'terms and conditions of employment.'

Ozark Trailers, supra, at p. 1269. This iron link between the exercise of any management right and the duty to bargain how that exercise is to be effectuated is not set out in the text of the Federal Labor Management Relations Act, 29 U.S.C. §151 et seq. (LMRA). The LMRA merely requires that private sector employers "meet at reasonable times and c&a2661H"management rights" and "effects bargaining" arise inexorably from the process of defining the frontier between what constitutes "wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment," and what subjects lie outside the duty to bargain.

The propriety of the concept of "effects bargaining" was approved by the U. S. Supreme Court in First National Maintenance Corp. v. NLRB, 452 U.S. 666 (1981). There, the Court said:

> [B]argaining over the effects of a [managerial] decision must be conducted in a meaningful manner and at a meaningful time....[The union] has some control over the effects of the decision and indirectly may ensure that the decision itself is deliberately considered.

452 U.S. at 682.

The twin concepts of "management rights" and "effects bargaining" have continued to be applied in public sector collective bargaining throughout the United States. Pursuant to the Civil Service Reform Act of 1978, employees of the Federal Government were granted collective bargaining rights. While the parameters of those rights are somewhat different than for the private sector (e.g. Federal employees are not permitted to strike), the basic concepts remain the same. As the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia observed in Dept. of Defense v. FLRA, 659 F.2d 1140 (D.C. Cir. 1981), cert. denied, 455 U.S. 945 (1982):

> Even with regard to reserved management rights, the Act authorizes collective bargaining over the 'procedures which management officials of the agency will observe in exercising [their] authority....'

Thus, "effects bargaining" is also described as the duty to bargain over the procedures for implementing a managerial decision.

The same concepts have also been applied in Montgomery County collective bargaining laws, whether or not the County statute specifically includes a detailed guide to effects bargaining. The County Collective Bargaining Law, § 33-101, et seq., Mont. Co. Code, 1994, and the Fire and Rescue Collective Bargaining Law, § 33-147, et seq., Mont. Co. Code, 1994, do not include the general reference to effects bargaining found in the County's Police Labor Relations Act at § 33-80(a)(6). Nevertheless, "effects" or "procedural implementation" bargaining have been determined to be a necessary concomitant to the subjects of bargaining outlined in the County Collective Bargaining Law at § 33-107(a).

In Montgomery County Government v. MCGEO-UFCW Local 400, Case 90-1, the Montgomery County Labor Relations Administrator (LRA) determined that four bargaining proposals by MCGEO regarding contractual procedural regulation (by the use of seniority) of the County's implementation of the management rights to transfer, promote, fill vacancies, and assign overtime are "legal" proposals under County law. In reaching that decision, the LRA reviewed major precedents in state and local public sector bargaining affirming the concepts of effects bargaining. In that case, even the County conceded some of the basic premises of effects bargaining. The LRA noted:

> In any event, the County's position throughout has been that it is legal and appropriate to entertain and discuss 'seniority' proposals, and to agree to same, when it is 'post-decisional' i.e. after the County decides that services and operating efficiencies are not substantially impaired....
> The four proposals as written do not violate the County's prerogatives. The County concedes that the proposals fall within the general definition of 'conditions of employment' under [the statute] ... and since seniority matters are of fundamental concern to employees, the County violated the statute by failing to bargain.

This decision brings us full circle to the premise enunciated by the Supreme Court in First National Maintenance, supra: "[The union] has some control over the [managerial] decision...."

As we have referenced, the Police Labor Relations Law includes at Section 33-80(a)(7) the duty to bargain:

> The effect on employees of the employer's exercise of rights enumerated in subsection (b) hereof.

Section 80(b) lists management rights under the PLRA.

Whether or not such a provision were to be included in any collective bargaining legislation covering police supervisors or other County employees not presently covered by a collective bargaining unit, the concept of "effects bargaining" is so deeply ingrained in American labor relations jurisprudence, that any statute directing collective bargaining regarding any subjects traditionally included within the concept "wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment" necessarily includes effects bargaining.

During the 18 years of the parties' experience with the PLRA, there have been few if any formal controversies regarding the scope of proper subjects of bargaining. This excellent experience has been fostered by the detailed clarity of the bargaining duty under the PLRA. Removal of the specific reference to effects bargaining from any future law would simply raise the possibility that sergeants, through their union, will have to clarify that such bargaining is required through litigation, such as occurred shortly after the promulgation of the County Collective Bargaining Law in 1996.

LAW SHOULD BE CONSISTENT

A problem with exclusions of specific reference to "effects bargaining" is that two groups of police employees will be bargaining under different statutes. This is akin to a football game where one team plays under NFL rules and the other plays under Canadian Football League [CFL] rules. Clearly, confusion and disputes will result.

Moreover, established legislative terms and understandings will be disputed and a new law will need to be defined through dispute resolution mechanisms and litigation. This is not in the larger interest of the sound public policy articulated at § 33-75.

The PLRA represents a balance of the interests between Management and the Union. American labor law has evolved over scores of years as a result of the struggles of employees to achieve democracy in the workplace on the one hand, and management to hold onto what it perceives as its "prerogatives."

It is out of respect for the manner in which the PLRA was drafted in response to a Citizen Initiative that Lodge 35 has not sought to expand the scope or parameters of the PLRA beyond the inclusion of sergeants under the same law. (We were honest and open with the 1982 Council and Executive, as well as political candidates since that time, that we intended to continue to push for inclusion of sergeants.) Unfortunately, the Duncan Administration has exploited this legislation and the OLO study of the police complaint system to attack an established law.

"EFFECTS BARGAINING" IS WIDELY MISUNDERSTOOD

"Effects bargaining" has been blamed for all sorts of perceived evils unrelated to the concept. Interestingly, the department issues internal directives regularly. Very few of those directives involve bargaining. Those that do, generally address mandatory bargaining, not effects. For instance, directives and policies on arrest procedures, enforcement priorities, district boundaries, crime reporting, selective enforcement, issuance of citations, jurisdiction, department organization, search and seizure, prisoners and fugitives, community services, and public relations rarely result in bargaining of any kind. And when they do, bargaining is limited to small and specific portions that involve working conditions.

Part of the confusion has been the result of Contract Article 61 Directives and Administrative Procedures. That Article requires that "[n]egotiable matters pertaining to administrative procedures, department directives, and rules referenced in this agreement . . . are subject to addition, change, amendment, or modification, only after specific notice is provided to the union with an opportunity to bargain and after the parties reach agreement. If no agreement is reached, the addition, change, amendment, or modification shall not be implemented." The Article further provides that

"[c]hanges to directives, rules and procedures not enumerated in th[e] agreement, or the effects on employees of the employer's exercise of a management right as enumerated in Article 42 § A, which involve matters appropriate for collective bargaining will be proposed by the County to the Union for bargaining. Thereafter, and before implementation, bargaining and agreement shall occur. Failing agreement, the dispute will be resolved pursuant to the impasse procedures . . . of Chapter 33, § 33-81(b) of the Montgomery County Code."

This Contract Article simply affords the County flexibility to seek change without waiting for bargaining on a successor (or term) contract. An analogy to the County's budget process might be appropriate.

In March of each year the Executive submits a recommended budget to Council. Council spends considerable time analyzing and questioning the recommendation. By law, a date is set for approval of the budget that becomes effective on July 1.

Should the Executive desire to amend or supplement the budget after July 1, s/he must follow certain procedures and submit the request to Council. As you well know, certain requests are barred until after January 1. Charter § 307. Emergency appropriations to meet specific circumstances can be made at any time. Charter § 308. In both cases, public notice is required. These charter provisions apply to all county agencies, including public safety.

Council will deliberate and discuss these supplemental budget requests. Year after year, we read of the Executive's expressed frustration with Council for doing its job. Executives have accused Council of micro-managing, interfering, endangering public safety, etc. The rhetoric goes on year after year, budget after budget. Such is the nature of our democratic form of government.

Like the budget process, the term bargaining process takes place at certain times. Contracts last for not less than one, nor more than three years. In November, we commence the process. If no resolution is reached by January 20, impasse reached. All issues must be resolved by February 1 and portions of the Agreement requiring Council action must be submitted as part of the Executive's Recommended Budget. By May 1, the Council must indicate its intent to accept or reject all or any portion of the agreement. If any portion is rejected, the parties enter into a process for resolution. The contract becomes effective on July 1.

Therefore, for purposes of our analogy, term bargaining is like the annual budget process. Interim bargaining under Article 61 and "effects bargaining" is like supplemental budget requests.

Both the budget and bargaining processes require deliberation and review by the parties, neither interferes with the efficient and effective delivery of essential public services. Both are subject to complaints by the Executive!

In this regard, management is critical of Lodge 35 for its thorough analysis of issues submitted for bargaining, saying this is time-consuming. Like legislatures and good business in all segments of our society, all parties have a duty to be thorough. We do not take our obligations lightly.

Another recent management complaint has been the delay in bargaining "effects" and non-effects issues midterm in the contract. Both sides have been responsible for delay in various matters. If this is a concern of either management or the union, either is free to require the other to bargain through established procedures, e.g. Charge of Prohibited Labor Practice.

Penultimately, it must be restated that the Police Complaint Process study that brought this issue to the forefront of attention is mostly unrelated to any collective bargaining. The investigation of most complaints against police officers, and all complaints alleging excessive use of force, is governed by the Law Enforcement Officers' Bill of Rights. Article 27, § 727, et seq. of the Annotated Code of Maryland.

That law affords police officers certain procedural rights in investigations, including the right to ten (10) days to obtain representation before being subjected to questioning of the officer concerning his/her conduct. Hence, no matter how serious the allegation, the officer has ten days after notification to make a statement, but management frequently postpones asking for that statement, thereby delaying the process. But, as stated, this is state law, not collective bargaining.

Management complains of this law and says, that because of "effects bargaining" it can't engage in corrective action to prevent inappropriate conduct. Our response is simple: In the very few cases where this has been at issue, we demanded due process for our members and management tried to deny that due process notwithstanding the constitution and Personnel Regulations Section 3.2 Due Process. Management can submit a proposal to bargain, but hasn't. To say that "effects bargaining" is at the root of all evil is disingenuous at best. (Even management touts the low number of complaints relative to the amount of police activity.)

I further note that it has been those areas where the LEOBR or an unfettered management right applies that have been the subject of most criticism. The Department of Justice was falsely told by police management that FOP Lodge 35 delayed the disciplinary process and Lodge 35 provided proof that it did not. DoJ found many management, not FOP, deficiencies and the recently signed Agreement with DoJ preserved all contract and PLRA rights while requiring changes in certain management (not FOP) practices.

In sum, this issue has been exploited and misunderstood. Most collective bargaining involves mandatory subjects of bargaining, not "effects." "Effects bargaining" exists even when a statute does not create it, for there is no bright line test to determine if a matter is a mandatory subject of bargaining or an effect of the exercise of a management right.

Our law, unlike the other County bargaining laws, sets forth by statute what others have had to define through litigation. Our job as police officers is a tough one. The public is better served when we negotiate according to statute than when we litigate over it.

Our goal is to avoid continuing controversy, not to create it. We therefore urge Council to include sergeants in the bargaining unit under the law that has existed for 18 years.

We look forward to working with you, the MFP Committee, and full Council on this most important legislation.

Sincerely,

Walter E. Bader
President

RE: Bill 10-00, Collective Bargaining - Police Sergeants

Dear President Subin:

In advance of Council's consideration of Bill 10-00 and amendments, Lodge 35 and its Supervisors Committee [1] strongly urges the following:

- That the existing bargaining unit be expanded to include sergeants subject to a vote by sergeants to determine if they want to be represented. Thereafter, they would be eligible to participate in any representation election.

- That sergeants have the right to bargain "effects" of the exercise of existing management rights.

At a meeting of sergeants held on April 25, 2000, all but one sergeant in attendance voted to support the above. The one who did not vote for these provisions was undecided. None was opposed.

In a memorandum dated April 7, 2000 [MFP 1, 4/11/00, C. 23-26] Jim Torgesen, Labor/Employee Relations Manager, OHR, correctly identified four criteria commonly applied in determining unit composition. These include: Desires of Employees, History of Representation, Extent of Union Organization, and Community of Interest.

[1] The Lodge 35 Supervisors Committee is a functional unit of FOP Lodge 35 and was first created in 1982, then rechartered in 1996 for three basic purposes: 1. To recognize the importance of supervisors within the FOP; 2. To coordinate FOP representation of police supervisors; and 3. To pursue collective bargaining rights for police sergeants. The committee is chaired by a police sergeant and all of its members are Montgomery County police sergeants. In accord with Lodge 35 Bylaws, the president is an ex officio member of all committees.

Desires of Employees At a Supervisors Committee meeting called and chaired by their peers, MCP sergeants voted their desire in detail, supra. In stark contrast, the OHR memorandum relates that the chief of police [management] held separate meetings - one with sergeants (where attendance was "mandatory", Attachment 1) and another with lieutenants and captains. OHR says that the police "chief concluded from these two meetings that employees in the ranks of sergeant, lieutenant, and captain were interested in . . . collective bargaining." Significantly, OHR does not state that it was the desire of sergeants to be in a bargaining unit with lieutenants and captains. Indeed, any such conclusion would be inaccurate. Moreover, employees should be allowed to express their desire directly or as a group, without management involvement, such as the Sergeants Committee, and not through management. (87% of current sergeants are active, dues-paying members of FOP Lodge 35.) [2]

History of Representation As stated in our public testimony, Lodge 35, which is the certified representative of non-supervisory police officers, has a long, proud tradition in representation of all members, including sergeants. While one or another organization may have represented a few sergeants in the past, the fact remains that the organization representing the current unit has provided more extensive representation to the vast majority of individual sergeants represented in the past 19 or more years.

The Immediate Past President of Lodge 35 was a police sergeant.

From July 1, 1983, the effective date of our first contract, to June 30, 1988, the expiration date of our second contract, FOP dues for sergeants were deducted pursuant to those contracts. Effective July 1, 1988, the County unilaterally, and for political reasons only, discontinued FOP dues check-off for sergeants. And, as stated in our public hearing testimony, the County, through OHR, filed a Charge of Prohibited Labor Practice against Lodge 35 for representing sergeants. The Charge was later withdrawn, but stands as a monument to the history of our representation of sergeants.

[2] In a March 16, 2000 letter to Mr. Berlage [MFP 1, 4/11/00, C. 22], the Alliance of Police Supervisors said that, on April 16, 1998, they surveyed sergeants to determine their interest and stated: "The results of this survey indicated that 60% of the sergeants wanted the Alliance of Police Supervisors to represent them." Choice of representative is a decision to be made by all sergeants, by secret ballot, not by survey. However, on April 7, 1998, nine days earlier, lieutenants and captains were surveyed by the Alliance of Police Supervisors via a memorandum addressed to "Alliance of Police Supervisor Members." That survey presented two choices: _____ Yes, I am interested in one organization to attain collective bargaining or _____ No, I believe the Sergeants should have a separate bargaining organization. (Attachment 2.) The options were limited and, while it is not our intention to involve Council in a representation debate, we present this issue for the sole purposes of 1. pointing out that the stated result is not consistent with the action taken at our meeting of last Tuesday and 2. demonstrating that the referenced survey is not a valid indicator of the desire of employees.

Extent of Union Organization OHR correctly notes that the unit structure in the metropolitan area and Maryland is mixed. North of the Mason-Dixon Line, union representation isn't treated as such a major threat. However, here, south of that Line, Prince George's County, the only other Maryland jurisdiction with binding arbitration, has a single contract covering all officers through the rank of lieutenant, negotiated by FOP Lodge 89. [3] Washington, D.C., which also has binding arbitration, is a single unit that includes sergeants. The MNCPPC police, which is partly Montgomery County funded, has a single unit that includes police sergeants.

Baltimore County has a single unit that includes all officers through the rank of lieutenant, represented by FOP Lodge 4. Baltimore City has a separate unit for sergeants and lieutenants represented by FOP Lodge 3. Anne Arundel has a separate unit for sergeants, represented by a different union. (There has been considerable turmoil in AA County over the years, including two representation elections between the Teamsters and FOP Lodge 70 which represents non-supervisory officers.) Howard County sergeants do not have bargaining rights. However, in several smaller jurisdictions, sergeants are in the same unit as non-supervisory officers. [4]

In the two area jurisdictions with binding arbitration, sergeants are represented by the same union and covered by the same contract.

As noted, the MNCPPC police have a unit that includes sergeants. In the Montgomery County school system, certain non-certificated supervisory employees are in the same unit as nonsupervisory employees and represented by SEIU Local 500. Certificated employees are in two units, one represented by MCEA and the other represented by MCAASP. MCEA represents Resource Teachers and Teacher Specialists. [5] For budgetary and political reasons, care has been taken to avoid labeling these teacher positions as "supervisors," but the fact remains that, in practice, they perform jobs comparable to those of police sergeant. While the Executive may want to dispute the comparison, we suggest that it is merely a matter of semantics on his part. Attachment 3.

Moreover, State law which governs school employee collective bargaining, does not exclude supervisory employees from non-supervisory unions.

[3] Mr. Torgesen is correct that PG County technically has separate units - one for non-supervisory employees and another for sergeants and lieutenants. However, one union is recognized and certified for both units and one contract covers both units. It was not the intent of Lodge 35 to mislead Council on this most technical issue. Knowing that FOP 89 has, for many years, had but one contract, we were simply mistaken.

[4] Of the Chartered Maryland counties (including Baltimore City) with separate County (City) police departments, all but two (Howard and Montgomery) provide collective bargaining rights for sergeants. In Harford County, the Sheriff's Office provides police services.

[5] In the early 1970s, school administrators were represented by MCEA. Later, at the request of MCEA, a separate unit was created for school administrators who are represented by another organization.

Community of Interest OHR says that "community of interest is of prime importance." And, says OHR: "Community of interest generally includes similarities in duties, skills and working conditions." We agree. However, OHR and the County Executive seek to set parameters that seem to fit their goal, i.e. one unit to include captains. They further resort to the "conflict of interest" scare tactic. In response, we submit that if there is a conflict of interest with a sergeant and a police officer whom s/he supervises being in the same bargaining unit, surely, there must be a conflict of interest between a captain and a sergeant being in the same unit.

It seems contradictory to the Executive's position that he proposes captains, who are two ranks above sergeants, be in the same unit with sergeants and involved in interpreting and administering the same contract that would cover both sergeants and captains.

It is curious that when the executive branch and OHR were opposing the current collective bargaining charter provision that there was no concern that the "interests of the supervisor [may have been] blurred [when both supervisors and non-supervisory officers were] covered by the same [rules, policies, and personnel regulations] that they [were] required to enforce."

We are puzzled that OHR and the Executive are concerned about how a sergeant might be expected to behave in a grievance proceeding if s/he were a member of the same unit as those s/he supervises when, since 1983, contract grievances are submitted directly to the police chief for initial resolution while the County's unilaterally implemented grievance procedure [AP 4-4], applicable to non-supervisory officers in a few matters, provides for first step review by the immediate supervisor.

More importantly, Lodge 35 credits police sergeants with the honor and integrity to do their jobs without evil intent or misconduct. They have demonstrated their integrity over the years of FOP representation and the history of that representation is proof that the alleged concerns of OHR and the Executive are without factual basis. We challenge the Executive to give us evidence of actual conflict that has occurred since Lodge 35 was chartered in 1969.

We could argue this matter for weeks, however, area jurisdictions, particularly those with binding arbitration, include sergeants in the same unit or under the same contract as non-supervisory officers.

Hence, this is purely a political decision. Politics, not facts, are the driving force behind the Executive's proposal.

Community of interest involves other factors not addressed by the executive. Working conditions between most sergeants and the existing unit are nearly identical. This is not true of sergeants and lieutenants or captains. Sergeants are assigned to shifts, they work shift work, they routinely respond to calls for service and make arrests. They make traffic stops, and they patrol. Simply put, they are field supervisors. Lieutenants and captains are not "field" supervisors, rather, by the department's own definition, they are "executive" officers.

The department holds executive-level meetings with its "executive" officers and, in a recent training offering, a course has a separate session for lieutenants and above.

Lieutenants and above even wear slightly different uniforms. [6]

Clearly, the working conditions of sergeants are more similar to those of nonsupervisory officers.

Other Factors In the private sector, supervisors are precluded from bargaining. In the private sector, employees have the right to strike and have a broader scope of bargaining than their public sector counterparts. Traditionally, due to the nature of the job, police supervisors have been afforded bargaining rights and it is not uncommon for them to be included in the same unit as non-supervisory employees. [7]

Unlike many other County positions and the private sector, every incumbent police sergeant was promoted from a non-supervisory Montgomery County police officer position. This is significant. Furthermore, all sworn police officers below the rank of police chief are in a common retirement system (Group F).

EFFECTS BARGAINING Effects bargaining is but another distraction. OLO Report 99-2 commented on effects bargaining without ever affording Lodge 35 an opportunity to comment. A Council Resource Committee, consisting of a diverse group of County residents (including the president of Lodge 35), was created to look into the police complaint system. OLO's charge was to address the complaint system.

After input from the Executive, OLO, without consultation with either the Resource Committee or Lodge 35, raised this issue. Effects bargaining is fairly common in the public sector in recognition that public sector bargaining rights are more limited than in the private sector.

We are disappointed that OLO denied Lodge 35 a fair opportunity to comment and explain this issue before it was raised in a formal report. (We did not see the final report until the late on the evening before it was publicly presented.) Notwithstanding the influence Council staff has within the institution of the County Council as a "part-time" body, fairness dictates that we be heard on matters affecting our interests. Council staff's perspective is frequently distorted and they seldom seek our views on issues within our expertise. (We do not refer here to individual Councilmembers' staff and aides.)

[6] We express no opinion about lieutenants having bargaining rights or being included in our bargaining unit. The bill before you pertains only to sergeants.

[7] All sworn police officers, regardless of rank, are constitutional officers. Bradshaw v. Prince George's County, 284 Md. 294, 396 A.2d 255 (1979). See also 72 Op. Atty Gen. Md. 271, January 13, 1987) A police officer may not serve as a member of the Maryland House of Delegates because both are constitutional "office[s] of profit." (In the General Election of 1996, the Maryland Declaration of Rights was amended to permit police officers and certain other public officials to simultaneously hold additional offices. This amendment did not, however, change the "public official" status of police officers.)

We would have welcomed an opportunity for full and open discussion of "effects bargaining" as well as the arguments put forth by the County in formal court pleadings, never considered or known to staff, which relate to the concerns the Executive claims he has in this important matter.

Even at this point, we invite that discussion, and point out that the recent Department of Justice findings were critical only of management's exercise of its rights, not of those matters that were collectively bargained.

Of considerable import, is the additional fact that it was only through the cooperation and leadership of FOP Lodge 35 that an agreement was reached between the County, DoJ, and Lodge 35 to improve police services and the complaint process, thereby avoiding litigation. In Pittsburgh, PA litigation continues despite a consent decree and in Columbus, Ohio, litigation has been initiated. [8]

It is no coincidence that here, in Montgomery County, we resolved important issues without litigation and that Lodge 35 has been overwhelmed with calls for assistance and requests to share its DoJ experiences with other unions throughout the Nation. [9]

We should be proud that DoJ, the County, and the police union have come together to enter into an agreement that serves as model for a collective bargaining law that enables cooperation and flexibility to resolve the effects of management rights short of full blown, disruptive federal litigation. It is unfortunate that the Executive has asked Council to dilute the law that enabled such cooperation.

Under the law, management has certain rights, i.e. the right to assign, transfer, lay-off due to lack of funds or work, determine methods of operation, and the union may bargain the effects of management's exercise of those rights upon employees. Effects bargaining does not prevent management from exercising its rights. For example, under the current contract, management may schedule employees. However, if it schedules employees without sufficient advance notice, it must compensate and make whole employees affected by the change. Unit members and sergeants have family and child care concerns and it is out of sensitivity for those concerns that effects have been bargained. Without effects bargaining, a schedule could be changed and an employee would be immediately (or on short notice) required to find care for an infant or young child and report for work without additional consideration. This is contrary to a County that talks of "Family Friendly Work Policies."

"Effects bargaining" does not prevent management from exercising its rights. It merely balances the interests of the employer and employee and, at best (or worst, depending on one's perspective) requires the employer to think about the effects of its intentions before it acts.

[8] In Pittsburgh, DoJ and the City entered into an agreement over the objections of FOP Lodge 1. Thereafter, FOP Lodge 1 arbitrated changes that "effected" the consent decree. The City sued and the matter is pending in Federal court. In Columbus, the City and DoJ entered into a proposed consent decree. The FOP refused to agree and DoJ sued the City. Both suits are pending.

It is notable that every single Montgomery County police officer was furloughed several years ago despite effects bargaining, which did occur. And that crime has decreased in recent years, that the Cuban Interest Section residence was recently protected, and that we were prepared to go into Washington, D.C. to assist in the event of major civil disturbance during the recent World Bank/International Monetary Fund meetings without any "effects" problems.

Effects bargaining is especially important in police work because of the toll such work takes on the individual and family.

Since September 1999, two examples of "effects bargaining" have been raised before Council. One concerned pornography on the internet and the other was qualification of weapons. We will briefly comment on each.

Management submitted a proposal to Lodge 35 concerning use of County computers. That proposal was submitted pursuant to Article 61 of our contract. There was never any dispute over the issue of pornography on the internet. There was, however, considerable discussion about e-mail confidentiality, disciplining officers for sending their mothers birthday or Mother's Day greetings, and playing computer games such as "Hearts" or "Solitaire" on County computers. As we discussed these matters, the police department's representative was playing a computer game on a County computer. We asked if there was a County-wide policy on the use of e-mail. After discussions, the County withdrew its proposal. More recently, they indicated a desire to discuss it again, but have not followed through.

Over the years a very few officers have had difficulty qualifying with firearms. Through additional training and practice, all have qualified. Last year, three officers had difficulty. One qualified on the second round; one involved a disabled officer who was able to qualify; and the third was a non-bargaining unit member.

The State of Maryland has established firearms qualification standards. No Montgomery County police officer has carried a firearm in violation of those standards.

In neither of these matters has management implemented rules or procedures for non-unit members as it has the authority to do.

Additionally, much of what has been touted as "effects bargaining" is actually direct bargaining over working conditions. (In a Gazette article, former chief Thomas Evans mentioned the quality of toilet paper as being an example of "effects bargaining." We have never engaged in a controversy over quality of toilet paper, but if we did, it would fall under working conditions, not effects bargaining.) [9]

[9] Under normal circumstances, Lodge 35 would not comment on petty issues like toilet paper, but since the recently retired deputy police chief raised the issue in a news article, we feel compelled to respond. Under our contracts, dating to 1983, there has never been a grievance over toilet paper. However, prior to legislation granting other County employees the right to bargain collectively, a police dispatcher did file a County grievance over lack of toilet paper in the women's rest room at ECC. That grievance was resolved.

Topics such as "pornography" and "guns" make for great sensationalism and political fodder for anti-unionists, but the facts defy the rhetoric. Scare tactics frequently are effective means of depriving others of their rights. Senator Joseph McCarthy was a master at the game.

Such tactics currently are being employed to bully Council into funding "School Resource Officers" and it makes for great press, but does the Executive really believe that a single "School Resource Officer" in a school, armed with a 9 mm handgun, will save lives of students if two suicidal, heavily armed students open fire in a school cafeteria or library?

We urge Council to deal with facts, not respond to shallow tactics.

As with unit designation, effects bargaining is purely a political decision and does not adversely affect public safety.

Position Exemptions The Executive asks that you exempt certain positions from bargaining. The rationale for such exemptions could extend to all captains and above.

Since 1982, unit members have held positions in internal affairs, personnel (human resources), policy development, and others. In 18 years there has not been a conflict. In addition, current unit members have held supervisory positions on an acting basis without conflict.

The exclusion of certain employees whose counterparts have collectively bargained benefits and wages does not work in the field of policing. The Executive's proposal requires two pay scales -- one for represented supervisors and another for unrepresented. It creates conflict and confusion within an occupational classification -- especially at the sergeant level.

Other Considerations Inclusion of sergeants in the existing unit, after democratic vote, will have minimal impact upon the Executive and his staff. On the other hand, creation of a new unit will require separate bargaining and separate mediation and arbitration despite union certification. If a separate unit is created for sergeants, whether Lodge 35 or any other union is elected representative, negotiations will take place at different times, and arbitration will be conducted, possibly with a different arbitrator, separate from the existing unit. Two contracts will be produced.

The Executive will be bound to the outcomes of both agreements, both arbitrated and non-arbitrated. The Executive must provide for both agreements in his/her recommended budget. And, the representative(s) of each unit will appear before Council in support of each agreement notwithstanding any differences.

In conclusion, there is ample evidence that sergeants can be included in the same unit and/or under the same contract as non-supervisory employees without conflict. It has worked elsewhere and can work here. There is no valid reason why effects bargaining should not apply to sergeants.

Your consideration is appreciated and we ask for Council's support.

Sincerely,

Walter E. Bader

Dear Mr. Berlage:

The issue of Collective Bargaining for the rank of Sergeant for the Montgomery County Police has recently resurfaced with Legislation that you have presented. The Alliance of Police Supervisors strongly supports Collective Bargaining for Sergeants, Lieutenants and Captains represented by our organization. Chief Moose is also in support of this unified proposal.

The Alliance of Police Supervisors distributed a questionnaire on April 16, 1998 to supervisors of the rank of Sergeant to determine their interest in having one of the following:

- Interest in the Alliance of Police Supervisors representing Sergeants, Lieutenants and Captains to attain Collective Bargaining
- Sergeants should have their own bargaining unit or join an existing bargaining unit to attain Collective Bargaining

The results of this survey indicated that 60% of the Sergeants wanted the Alliance of Police Supervisors to represent them.

We request that you extend your legislation to include Lieutenants and Captains. It is important that management have a voice in their future. Historically, management has not had any input and has relied on the pass through benefits that were bargained by the Fraternal Order of Police. This fact has limited many talented officers from participating in the promotional process above the rank of Corporal. Collective Bargaining for members of the Alliance of Police Supervisors will provide representation for all of our membership and encourage officers to become supervisors. We are only interested in the advancement of our Department and keeping our agency in the forefront of law enforcement initiatives. Thank you for your attention to this matter of importance.

Sincerely,

COUNTY COUNCIL FOR MONTGOMERY COUNTY, MARYLAND

MANAGEMENT AND FISCAL POLICY COMMITTEE

Tuesday, April 11, 2000
3:00 P.M. to 3:25 P.M.
Council Hearing Room

PRESENT

Marilyn J. Praisner, Chair

Phil Andrews Betty Ann Krahnke

Councilmember Andrews, Lead Councilmember for Personnel, in the Chair.

SUBJECT: Bill 10-00, Collective Bargaining – Police Sergeants

Senior Legislative Attorney Faden led the Committee in a discussion of the bill, beginning with the second issue, the type of bargaining unit sergeants should be placed in, as set forth on page 2 of his memorandum, dated April 11, 2000.

ACTION: Received comments from Councilmember Praisner concerning her view that Councilmembers Berlage and Silverman, who have indicated that they will present amendments to the bill when it is before the Council, should have made the amendments available for the Committee's meeting. Ms. Praisner said that she is inclined to reserve judgment on the bill until she has had an opportunity to review the amendments.

Discussed the nature of the bargaining unit and took the following positions: Councilmember Andrews supported the creation of a sergeants-only unit; Councilmember Krahnke supported the inclusion of sergeants in a broader supervisors unit, if a new unit is created; and Councilmember Praisner reserved judgment on this issue.

Discussed the scope of the bargaining unit if a management unit is created, and agreed to exclude police lieutenants and police captains assigned to one of the following work units: Human resources; internal affairs; legal; labor relations; or policy development and compliance.

Recommended that effects bargaining not be extended beyond those ranks currently covered.

Councilmember Andrews supported enactment of the bill with amendments;
Councilmember Krahnke opposed enactment of the bill; and Councilmember Praisner declined to state a position on the bill since the Committee did not have an opportunity to review amendments to the bill anticipated to be received from other Councilmembers.

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS

SUBJECT: Emergency Bill 14-00, Tenant Displacement - Extension

ACTION: Introduced Draft 2 sponsored by the Council President at the request of the County Executive.

CALL OF BILLS FOR FINAL READING

SUBJECT: Bill 31-99, Special Taxing Districts – Enforcement of Regulations

Councilmember Praisner, Chair of the Management and Fiscal Policy (MFP) Committee, presented the Committee report in accordance with the memorandum from Senior Legislative Attorney Faden, dated May 2, 2000. Ms. Praisner explained that the bill before the Council incorporates amendments recommended by the MFP Committee that preserve the central thrust of the bill and narrow its scope.

Mayor Muller, Village of Friendship Heights, expressed the Village's willingness to undertake a review and rewrite in plain language of the Village's regulations as recommended by Council Staff, subject to the retention of the intent of the regulations. Mr. Muller requested that the Council's attorneys work with the Village's attorneys in rewriting the regulations.

Councilmember Praisner stated that the Council's legal staff has been implementing over time the Council's initiative of the plain language rewrite of the County Code. She said that as amendments to the County Code are enacted, Staff has been using this opportunity to write the amendments in plain language and at the same time, revise in plain language that portion of the County Code in which the amendments are being incorporated. She said the plain language rewrite does not change the substance of the law, but rather makes the law easier to understand. Ms. Praisner said that, as Mr. Muller noted, the revised regulations would have to come to the Council for its approval , but that it is unlikely any issues will be raised concerning the regulations.

Mr. Faden expressed his willingness to work with the Village's attorneys in the rewrite of the regulations.

Ms. Tavani, President, Friendship Heights Village Civic Association, questioned the need for the six-month deadline suggested by Council Staff for rewriting the regulations, noting the likelihood that the process could be delayed if the County Attorney's advice is sought.

Councilmember Praisner stated that she believes a deadline is needed to ensure that the work will proceed in a timely manner, and that the six-month deadline proposed by Mr. Faden is appropriate. Ms. Praisner assured Ms. Tavani that Mr. Faden will work with the County Attorney and the Village's attorneys in the rewrite of the regulations in a timely manner.

ACTION: Enacted Bill 31-99, as amended.

The motion was made by the MFP Committee, and the bill was enacted by a roll call vote:

YEAS: Andrews, Dacek, Berlage, Leggett, Silverman, Praisner, Denis, Ewing, Subin.

SUBJECT: Bill 10-00, Collective Bargaining – Police - Sergeants

Councilmember Andrews, Lead Councilmember for Personnel issues on the MFP Committee, welcomed to the meeting newly-elected Councilmember Denis, Chief of Police Moose, and other police officers in attendance. Mr. Andrews expressed the view that the County has an excellent Police Department, and commented on the additional growth in the Department that can be achieved through Chief Moose's leadership.

Councilmember Andrews presented the report of the MFP Committee in accordance with the information contained in the memorandum from Mr. Faden, dated May 2, 2000. Mr. Andrews said that he supported enactment of the bill with amendments, former Councilmember Krahnke opposed enactment, and Councilmember Praisner declined to state a position on the bill because of her belief that amendments being proposed by two Councilmembers should have been made available to the Committee for its review rather than being introduced when the bill is before the Council for action. Mr. Andrews noted that should the Council enact the bill, certain amendments described in Mr. Faden's memorandum were supported by all of the Committee members.

Councilmember Praisner expressed the view that it is always appropriate for Councilmembers to introduce amendments to legislation, but she believes it does not serve the Council well for Councilmembers who know that they will introduce amendments to legislation to not make the amendments available when the Committee reviews the legislation. She pointed out that this provides the Committee the opportunity to make certain that the language in the amendment reflects its intent and to determine whether more work is needed on the legislation. Ms. Praisner suggested in the future, when possible, Councilmembers make any written amendments available to Council Staff for further refinement and for inclusion in the Committee's meeting packet. Councilmember Praisner said that she believes by doing this, Councilmembers will help the process and the Committees to arrive at well-reasoned decisions.

Councilmember Andrews stated that the MFP Committee considered the amendments recommended by the County Executive and supported by Chief of Police Moose, and the effects bargaining issue (the ability to bargain the effect of the employer's exercise of the rights reserved to the employer). He said that the Committee recommended that effects bargaining not be extended beyond where it is now. Mr. Andrews said that Councilmember Berlage's proposed amendment addresses another issue raised by Chief Moose and the Alliance of Police Supervisors regarding the extension of collective bargaining to Police lieutenants and captains.

Councilmember Silverman stated that he agrees amendments to legislation should be available in time for the Committee's worksession on the legislation; however, his amendment was not available at that time. Councilmember Silverman moved, duly seconded, the following amendment:

> Beginning on page 2, line 17, delete all provisions. Add the following at the end of the bill:
> Section 2. If, during the first 90 days after this Act becomes law, the permanent umpire appointed under Section 33-77 finds that a majority of all sergeants then employed by the Police Department have authorized the certified representative of the police bargaining unit to represent them, then this Act takes effect on October 1, 2000. If the permanent umpire does not so find during the specified time period, then this Act does not take effect.

In explaining his amendment, Councilmember Silverman stated that the primary focus of the amendment is to create one bargaining unit. He said that the Council received testimony and correspondence from a variety of individuals indicating some rational basis for one bargaining unit if collective bargaining is established for sergeants. In his opinion one bargaining unit would avoid potential inconsistencies in arbitration decisions; create a more effective and efficient uniform mechanism for both the employer and employee, and would be based on the experience of other jurisdictions.

Councilmember Silverman responded to questions raised by Councilmember Dacek concerning his amendment, stating that his amendment would allow sergeants to join the existing police bargaining unit if they vote to do so, and that while he agrees with the Committee's position on effects bargaining, police sergeants could bargain for this right under his proposed amendment.

Councilmember Dacek stated that she has been aware of the police sergeants' concerns about being excluded from collective bargaining. Because she has always considered sergeants to be part of the supervisory structure of the Police Department, she has not supported bringing police sergeants within the scope of collective bargaining. However, police sergeants have indicated that they are not treated as part of the supervisory structure, and the bill is an attempt to address some of these issues. Ms. Dacek stated that the impression she has received from Chief Moose is that he would like to strengthen the supervisory structure for sergeants. With respect to whether sergeants should be included in the current bargaining unit or a separate bargaining unit as specified in the bill, Ms. Dacek expressed the view that if sergeants are included in collective bargaining, she would prefer that they be part of a separate bargaining unit.

Chief Moose urged the Council to support the County Executive's proposed amendment to the bill that would provide collective bargaining rights to police sergeants, lieutenants, and captains in a separate collective bargaining unit. He emphasized the need for sergeants to have a close working relationship with lieutenants and captains.

Councilmember Berlage stated that he introduced the bill because he believes sergeants should have collective bargaining rights. He pointed out that sergeants are supervisors, but there is a difference in the responsibilities of a line supervisor and management. He said that there are many examples, both in the public and private sectors, of line supervisors that have been provided collective bargaining rights. Mr. Berlage stated that sergeants do not control the work place in the same way that managers do, and they have not been able to exercise their influence over wages and conditions. Mr. Berlage expressed the view that the County cannot afford to have a morale problem in public safety, and that it is necessary to make certain that every part of the organization has the right amount of control over their mission that is appropriate within the organization. With respect to including lieutenants and captains within the scope of the bill, Councilmember Berlage expressed his support. He said that when he introduced the bill he had only sergeants in mind, but upon reflection believes lieutenants and captains should be included along with sergeants in a separate bargaining unit. Mr. Berlage indicated his support for Councilmember Silverman's proposed amendment and stated that if it is approved, he will propose his amendment with revisions that would include the exclusion of certain captain and lieutenant positions.

Discussion was held concerning issues involving the exclusion of certain positions from collective bargaining rights, whether this exclusion would apply to sergeant positions as well as captain and lieutenant positions, possible conflicts between the bill and the proposed amendments concerning effects bargaining, and possible inconsistencies between the bill and revised personnel regulations that the Council will review in the near future. There was no vote taken on Councilmember Silverman's proposed amendment.

President Subin ruled that Bill 10-00 be returned to the Committee to address issues raised at this meeting. He expressed the hope that the Committee would address the issues soon, but advised interested parties that it is likely to be early June before the Committee can schedule another worksession on the bill due to the Council's review of the operating budget.

ACTION: Returned Bill 10-00 to the MFP Committee to address issues raised at this meeting.

The Council agreed with the President's ruling by consensus.

The Council recessed its legislative session at 11:10 A.M. and reconvened at 1:57 P.M.

ACTION: Enacted the bill, as amended.

The motion was made by Councilmember Praisner, and the bill was enacted by a roll call vote:

YEAS: Andrews, Dacek, Silverman, Praisner, Denis, Ewing, Subin

YEAS: Andrews, Berlage, Silverman, Praisner, Denis, Ewing, Subin
ABSENT: Dacek; Leggett (temporarily).

SUBJECT: Bill 10-00. Collective Bargaining - Police – Sergeants

The Council had before it the memoranda and attachments from Mr. Faden, dated June 5 and 6, 2000.

Councilmember Andrews, presented the report and recommendation of the Committee.

Councilmember Silverman questioned whether the Committee had discussed the issue of effects bargaining, received any recommendations from Executive Branch Staff, or considered the statement in the Office of Legislative Oversight (OLO) Report 99-2 on the Police Department's Complaint Handling System that the Council look only at the effects bargaining provision in the law. Councilmember Andrews said that the Committee did discuss the options that were available but did not have a detailed discussion of effects bargaining.

Councilmember Silverman requested and received clarification from Mr. Faden on the Committee's recommendation to remove, as a mandatory subject of collective bargaining for the sergeants unit only, the effect on unit members of the exercise of management rights. Councilmember Silverman moved, duly seconded, a substitute motion to adopt the original intent of the bill as it relates to effects bargaining by incorporating the sergeants into the existing collective bargaining unit. The motion would create one police collective bargaining unit and give the sergeants the same rights as other officers equal in relation to effects bargaining. He said that there has been no information provided from Executive Branch Staff that suggests the effects bargaining currently in place for over fifteen years has created any significant impediments to the operation of public safety in the County. Referring to the OLO Report, he said that there is a recommendation that the Council should look at effects bargaining without any additional reference made on the issue. With respect to whether there should be one or two bargaining units, Mr. Silverman said that other surrounding jurisdictions have had one bargaining unit that includes sergeants and the "rank and file" and there is no evidence of any problems. He said that he believes his motion would create a more effective system by extending the existing bargaining rights to the sergeants in the Police Department.

In response to Councilmember Subin's request, Councilmember Silverman said that he would not amend his motion to divide the police collective bargaining unit into two separate units with effects bargaining. Mr. Subin spoke in opposition to the substitute motion but said that he could support two bargaining units with effects bargaining.

Councilmember Ewing spoke in support of Councilmember Silverman's substitute motion. With respect to the issue of one bargaining unit versus two, he said he could support either option if both units had effects bargaining. With respect to his question related to the Committee recommendation to not authorize collective bargaining by other police supervision (lieutenants and captains), Councilmember Andrews said that the intent of the original bill was to expand bargaining rights to sergeants. He said that the Executive Branch changed its position on authorizing collective bargaining for captains, and this influenced the Committee's decisions to not expand collective bargaining rights beyond sergeants at this time.

Councilmember Praisner spoke in support of the Committee recommendations. She said that the legislation as recommended does not prohibit nor mandate effects bargaining but does allow the option for latitude which she believes is a more equitable approach than the substitute motion which requires effects bargaining.

ACTION: Agreed to amend the bill by adopting the original intent as it relates to effects bargaining by incorporating the sergeants into the existing collective bargaining unit.

The substitute motion was made by Councilmember Silverman:

YEAS: Berlage, Silverman, Denis, Ewing.
NAYS: Andrews, Praisner, Subin.
ABSENT: Dacek; Leggett (temporarily).

Councilmember Berlage expressed appreciation to the Committee for its work on the legislation and spoke in support of the bill as amended. He said that the sergeants did not have collective bargaining rights and the bill as amended will provide the sergeants the opportunity to have their issues addressed during collective bargaining.

Councilmember Subin said that he does not support the bill as amended and spoke in support of dividing the police collective bargaining unit into two units.

ACTION: Adopted the following amendments as reflected in the bill:

AN ACT to:

(1) bring police sergeants within the scope of collective bargaining;
[[(2) divide the police collective bargaining unit into two bargaining units;]] [[and]]
[[(3) limit the scope of collective bargaining for members of the police sergeants bargaining unit;]] and [[(4)]] (2) generally amend the law regarding collective bargaining with County police officers.

RECEIVED COUNCIL

Honorable Derick Berlage
Montgomery County Council
100 Maryland Avenue
Rockville, Maryland 20850

Bill 10-00 Collective Bargaining - Police Sergeants

Dear Mr. Berlage:

Again, on behalf of Lodge 35 and its members, including police sergeants, I want to thank you and the co-sponsors of Bill 10-00 for supporting the sergeants collective bargaining bill, legislation which you appropriately indicated is long overdue.

As stated in prior correspondence and statements before the MFP Committee, police sergeant collective bargaining is very common in Maryland and throughout the country. Similarly, the inclusion of police sergeants and even lieutenants within the same bargaining unit, or under the same collective bargaining agreement, is an established practice.

Unfortunately, the major issues are being distorted by the irrational objection of the administration to so-called "effects bargaining." This distraction must, we feel, be addressed head-on to avoid future controversy, litigation, and misperception. Moreover, "effects bargaining" has been used as a red herring by our opponents.

The stated purpose of the Police Labor Relations Act ["PLRA"] is "to promote a harmonious, peaceful and cooperative relationship between the county government and its police employees and to protect the public by assuring, at all times, the responsive, orderly and efficient operation of the police department." The law further recognizes that "[s]ince unresolved disputes in the police service are injurious to the public and to police employees as well, adequate means should be provided for preventing such unresolved disputes and for resolving them when they occur." PLRA § 33-75.

We have honored this public policy and, indeed, since April 1982 when the current law was enacted, there have been no job actions by police officers; no picketing; no slowdowns; and no other actions that impaired our ability to serve the public. This is a significant tribute to a thoughtfully crafted law that was the result of hard work by the County Council, the Gilchrist Administration, and Lodge 35.

Our law was the first collective bargaining law enacted in Montgomery County. It includes specific reference to "effects bargaining." On the other hand, the County Employees and Firefighter laws do not make such specific reference, but those laws do indeed require "effects bargaining."

It is because the older Police law makes specific statutory reference to "effects" that there is been very little litigation or dispute over the issue. In contrast, the newer County Employees law has been clarified through dispute and litigation. Indeed, MCGEO has had to file more Unfair Labor Practices Charges since their law was enacted in 1986 than has the FOP under the PLRA enacted in 1982.

It is in the spirit of resolving this issue here and now, rather than later, that we present the following for Council review and consideration.

EFFECTS BARGAINING

One of the bedrock concepts in American labor relations jurisprudence is "effects bargaining." Effects bargaining is basic to the practice of collective bargaining in practically every jurisdiction. It is a necessary component of the exercise of "management rights" both in the public and private sectors.

The National Labor Relations Board [NLRB] in its landmark decision Ozark Trailers, Inc., 161 NLRB 561, 63 LRRM 1264, 1266 (1966) cited to earlier precedent in defining this concept, and explained that even when an employer is undertaking a managerial decision, such as the decision to completely shut down operations - perhaps the most fundamental management right of all:

> an employer is still under the obligation to notify the union of its intentions so that the union may be given an opportunity to bargain over the rights of the employees whose employment status will be altered by the managerial decision.

This duty cannot be neatly limited to a specified list of subject areas or scenarios. As Hill and Sinicropi explain in their often-cited text Management Rights, (BNA Books, 1989) at p. 412:

> The courts have not limited the scope of effects bargaining to a specific list of subjects. All aspects related to that decision may be encompassed in the broad scope of effects bargaining.

Indeed, as the NLRB has often recognized:

> The effects are so inextricably interwoven with the decision itself that bargaining limited to effects will not be meaningful if it must be carried on within a framework of a [management] decision which cannot be revised. An interpretation of the law which carries the obligations to 'effects,' therefore, cannot well stop short of the decision itself which directly affects 'terms and conditions of employment.'

Ozark Trailers, supra, at p. 1269. This iron link between the exercise of any management right and the duty to bargain how that exercise is to be effectuated is not set out in the text of the Federal Labor Management Relations Act, 29 U.S.C. §151 et seq. (LMRA). The LMRA merely requires that private sector employers "meet at reasonable times and c&a2661H"management rights" and "effects bargaining" arise inexorably from the process of defining the frontier between what constitutes "wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment," and what subjects lie outside the duty to bargain.

The propriety of the concept of "effects bargaining" was approved by the U. S. Supreme Court in First National Maintenance Corp. v. NLRB, 452 U.S. 666 (1981). There, the Court said:

> [B]argaining over the effects of a [managerial] decision must be conducted in a meaningful manner and at a meaningful time....[The union] has some control over the effects of the decision and indirectly may ensure that the decision itself is deliberately considered.

452 U.S. at 682.

The twin concepts of "management rights" and "effects bargaining" have continued to be applied in public sector collective bargaining throughout the United States. Pursuant to the Civil Service Reform Act of 1978, employees of the Federal Government were granted collective bargaining rights. While the parameters of those rights are somewhat different than for the private sector (e.g. Federal employees are not permitted to strike), the basic concepts remain the same. As the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia observed in Dept. of Defense v. FLRA, 659 F.2d 1140 (D.C. Cir. 1981), cert. denied, 455 U.S. 945 (1982):

> Even with regard to reserved management rights, the Act authorizes collective bargaining over the 'procedures which management officials of the agency will observe in exercising [their] authority....'

Thus, "effects bargaining" is also described as the duty to bargain over the procedures for implementing a managerial decision.

The same concepts have also been applied in Montgomery County collective bargaining laws, whether or not the County statute specifically includes a detailed guide to effects bargaining. The County Collective Bargaining Law, § 33-101, et seq., Mont. Co. Code, 1994, and the Fire and Rescue Collective Bargaining Law, § 33-147, et seq., Mont. Co. Code, 1994, do not include the general reference to effects bargaining found in the County's Police Labor Relations Act at § 33-80(a)(6). Nevertheless, "effects" or "procedural implementation" bargaining have been determined to be a necessary concomitant to the subjects of bargaining outlined in the County Collective Bargaining Law at § 33-107(a).

In Montgomery County Government v. MCGEO-UFCW Local 400, Case 90-1, the Montgomery County Labor Relations Administrator (LRA) determined that four bargaining proposals by MCGEO regarding contractual procedural regulation (by the use of seniority) of the County's implementation of the management rights to transfer, promote, fill vacancies, and assign overtime are "legal" proposals under County law. In reaching that decision, the LRA reviewed major precedents in state and local public sector bargaining affirming the concepts of effects bargaining. In that case, even the County conceded some of the basic premises of effects bargaining. The LRA noted:

> In any event, the County's position throughout has been that it is legal and appropriate to entertain and discuss 'seniority' proposals, and to agree to same, when it is 'post-decisional' i.e. after the County decides that services and operating efficiencies are not substantially impaired....
> The four proposals as written do not violate the County's prerogatives. The County concedes that the proposals fall within the general definition of 'conditions of employment' under [the statute] ... and since seniority matters are of fundamental concern to employees, the County violated the statute by failing to bargain.

This decision brings us full circle to the premise enunciated by the Supreme Court in First National Maintenance, supra: "[The union] has some control over the [managerial] decision...."

As we have referenced, the Police Labor Relations Law includes at Section 33-80(a)(7) the duty to bargain:

> The effect on employees of the employer's exercise of rights enumerated in subsection (b) hereof.
> Section 80(b) lists management rights under the PLRA.

Whether or not such a provision were to be included in any collective bargaining legislation covering police supervisors or other County employees not presently covered by a collective bargaining unit, the concept of "effects bargaining" is so deeply ingrained in American labor relations jurisprudence, that any statute directing collective bargaining regarding any subjects traditionally included within the concept "wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment" necessarily includes effects bargaining.

During the 18 years of the parties' experience with the PLRA, there have been few if any formal controversies regarding the scope of proper subjects of bargaining. This excellent experience has been fostered by the detailed clarity of the bargaining duty under the PLRA. Removal of the specific reference to effects bargaining from any future law would simply raise the possibility that sergeants, through their union, will have to clarify that such bargaining is required through litigation, such as occurred shortly after the promulgation of the County Collective Bargaining Law in 1996.

LAW SHOULD BE CONSISTENT

A problem with exclusions of specific reference to "effects bargaining" is that two groups of police employees will be bargaining under different statutes. This is akin to a football game where one team plays under NFL rules and the other plays under Canadian Football League [CFL] rules. Clearly, confusion and disputes will result.

Moreover, established legislative terms and understandings will be disputed and a new law will need to be defined through dispute resolution mechanisms and litigation. This is not in the larger interest of the sound public policy articulated at § 33-75.

The PLRA represents a balance of the interests between Management and the Union. American labor law has evolved over scores of years as a result of the struggles of employees to achieve democracy in the workplace on the one hand, and management to hold onto what it perceives as its "prerogatives."

It is out of respect for the manner in which the PLRA was drafted in response to a Citizen Initiative that Lodge 35 has not sought to expand the scope or parameters of the PLRA beyond the inclusion of sergeants under the same law. (We were honest and open with the 1982 Council and Executive, as well as political candidates since that time, that we intended to continue to push for inclusion of sergeants.) Unfortunately, the Duncan Administration has exploited this legislation and the OLO study of the police complaint system to attack an established law.

"EFFECTS BARGAINING" IS WIDELY MISUNDERSTOOD

"Effects bargaining" has been blamed for all sorts of perceived evils unrelated to the concept. Interestingly, the department issues internal directives regularly. Very few of those directives involve bargaining. Those that do, generally address mandatory bargaining, not effects. For instance, directives and policies on arrest procedures, enforcement priorities, district boundaries, crime reporting, selective enforcement, issuance of citations, jurisdiction, department organization, search and seizure, prisoners and fugitives, community services, and public relations rarely result in bargaining of any kind. And when they do, bargaining is limited to small and specific portions that involve working conditions.

Part of the confusion has been the result of Contract Article 61 Directives and Administrative Procedures. That Article requires that "[n]egotiable matters pertaining to administrative procedures, department directives, and rules referenced in this agreement . . . are subject to addition, change, amendment, or modification, only after specific notice is provided to the union with an opportunity to bargain and after the parties reach agreement. If no agreement is reached, the addition, change, amendment, or modification shall not be implemented." The Article further provides that

"[c]hanges to directives, rules and procedures not enumerated in th[e] agreement, or the effects on employees of the employer's exercise of a management right as enumerated in Article 42 § A, which involve matters appropriate for collective bargaining will be proposed by the County to the Union for bargaining. Thereafter, and before implementation, bargaining and agreement shall occur. Failing agreement, the dispute will be resolved pursuant to the impasse procedures . . . of Chapter 33, § 33-81(b) of the Montgomery County Code."

This Contract Article simply affords the County flexibility to seek change without waiting for bargaining on a successor (or term) contract. An analogy to the County's budget process might be appropriate.

In March of each year the Executive submits a recommended budget to Council. Council spends considerable time analyzing and questioning the recommendation. By law, a date is set for approval of the budget that becomes effective on July 1.

Should the Executive desire to amend or supplement the budget after July 1, s/he must follow certain procedures and submit the request to Council. As you well know, certain requests are barred until after January 1. Charter § 307. Emergency appropriations to meet specific circumstances can be made at any time. Charter § 308. In both cases, public notice is required. These charter provisions apply to all county agencies, including public safety.

Council will deliberate and discuss these supplemental budget requests. Year after year, we read of the Executive's expressed frustration with Council for doing its job. Executives have accused Council of micro-managing, interfering, endangering public safety, etc. The rhetoric goes on year after year, budget after budget. Such is the nature of our democratic form of government.

Like the budget process, the term bargaining process takes place at certain times. Contracts last for not less than one, nor more than three years. In November, we commence the process. If no resolution is reached by January 20, impasse reached. All issues must be resolved by February 1 and portions of the Agreement requiring Council action must be submitted as part of the Executive's Recommended Budget. By May 1, the Council must indicate its intent to accept or reject all or any portion of the agreement. If any portion is rejected, the parties enter into a process for resolution. The contract becomes effective on July 1.

Therefore, for purposes of our analogy, term bargaining is like the annual budget process. Interim bargaining under Article 61 and "effects bargaining" is like supplemental budget requests.

Both the budget and bargaining processes require deliberation and review by the parties, neither interferes with the efficient and effective delivery of essential public services. Both are subject to complaints by the Executive!

In this regard, management is critical of Lodge 35 for its thorough analysis of issues submitted for bargaining, saying this is time-consuming. Like legislatures and good business in all segments of our society, all parties have a duty to be thorough. We do not take our obligations lightly.

Another recent management complaint has been the delay in bargaining "effects" and non-effects issues midterm in the contract. Both sides have been responsible for delay in various matters. If this is a concern of either management or the union, either is free to require the other to bargain through established procedures, e.g. Charge of Prohibited Labor Practice.

Penultimately, it must be restated that the Police Complaint Process study that brought this issue to the forefront of attention is mostly unrelated to any collective bargaining. The investigation of most complaints against police officers, and all complaints alleging excessive use of force, is governed by the Law Enforcement Officers' Bill of Rights. Article 27, § 727, et seq. of the Annotated Code of Maryland.

That law affords police officers certain procedural rights in investigations, including the right to ten (10) days to obtain representation before being subjected to questioning of the officer concerning his/her conduct. Hence, no matter how serious the allegation, the officer has ten days after notification to make a statement, but management frequently postpones asking for that statement, thereby delaying the process. But, as stated, this is state law, not collective bargaining.

Management complains of this law and says, that because of "effects bargaining" it can't engage in corrective action to prevent inappropriate conduct. Our response is simple: In the very few cases where this has been at issue, we demanded due process for our members and management tried to deny that due process notwithstanding the constitution and Personnel Regulations Section 3.2 Due Process. Management can submit a proposal to bargain, but hasn't. To say that "effects bargaining" is at the root of all evil is disingenuous at best. (Even management touts the low number of complaints relative to the amount of police activity.)

I further note that it has been those areas where the LEOBR or an unfettered management right applies that have been the subject of most criticism. The Department of Justice was falsely told by police management that FOP Lodge 35 delayed the disciplinary process and Lodge 35 provided proof that it did not. DoJ found many management, not FOP, deficiencies and the recently signed Agreement with DoJ preserved all contract and PLRA rights while requiring changes in certain management (not FOP) practices.

In sum, this issue has been exploited and misunderstood. Most collective bargaining involves mandatory subjects of bargaining, not "effects." "Effects bargaining" exists even when a statute does not create it, for there is no bright line test to determine if a matter is a mandatory subject of bargaining or an effect of the exercise of a management right.

Our law, unlike the other County bargaining laws, sets forth by statute what others have had to define through litigation. Our job as police officers is a tough one. The public is better served when we negotiate according to statute than when we litigate over it.

Our goal is to avoid continuing controversy, not to create it. We therefore urge Council to include sergeants in the bargaining unit under the law that has existed for 18 years.

We look forward to working with you, the MFP Committee, and full Council on this most important legislation.

Sincerely,

Walter E. Bader
President

DECISION ON REMAND

BACKGROUND

On or about February 16, 1990, the Montgomery County Government Employees Organization, a division of United Food and Commercial Workers, Local 400 (herein "union") submitted to the Labor Relations Administrator (herein "LRA") a charge of prohibited practices, asserting that the Montgomery County Government and Sidney Kramer, Montgomery County Executive (herein "County") refused to respond to four (4) union demands during the last collective bargaining negotiation sessions.

Subsequent to compliance with the requirements of the Montgomery County Collective Bargaining Law (Article VII, Section 33-101 et seq) the Collective Bargaining Regulations and Procedures (# 43-89, Effective January 11, 1990) and the Administrative Procedure Act, hearings were conducted on March 28 and 29, 1990 and a 151 page verbatim transcript of proceedings was compiled.

Both parties submitted Briefs on or about April 23, 1990, and after full consideration of all items of record, the LRA issued a Decision and Order on July 25, 1990 sustaining the charge.[1]

On August 21, 1990 the County filed an Order For Appeal and Petition on Appeal in the Circuit Court for Montgomery County, Maryland (herein "Court"). The County alleged that the 7/25/90 decision is arbitrary and capricious, violates the Montgomery County Charter and Montgomery County Code, is contrary to policy and standards for merit system employees, and is not supported by law or the evidence on the record. The County requested the Court to reverse the Decision and Order and to rule that the County is not required to bargain with the union over proposals which violate its rights as set forth in Montgomery County Code sec. 33-107(b).

On September 21, 1990, the union submitted an Answer and Motion to Dismiss the Appeal.

Subsequent to Court proceedings, a June 14, 1991 Order was issued by the Court remanding the matter to the LRA.

The LRA received the record from the Court on August 8, 1991.

COURT'S ORDER

The June 14, 1990 Order of the Court (Case No. 63381) stated that the issue before the LRA in the charge was "... whether or not the four seniority proposals presented by [the union] in the parties' negotiations for the contract for the years 1990-93 are bargainable." (Paragraph 1)

The Court noted that: "In order to be bargainable, the four seniority proposals, if agreed to, must be capable of being included in the parties' collective bargaining agreement." (Paragraph 2) and the Court held that: "The Labor Relations Administrator erred in not deciding the issue presented to him." (Paragraph 3)

The Court Ordered:

> 1. That the decision of the Labor Relations Administrator is vacated on the grounds that his decision that the Appellants had committed a prohibited practice was based on a finding that the general subjects in issue fall within the duty to bargain, instead of a finding as to whether the proposals as written could be agreed to without violating the collective bargaining law.
> 2. That the matter be remanded to the Labor Relations Administrator who is directed to use whatever means necessary to decide the following issue:

QUESTION AT ISSUE

The specific issue mandated by the Court is:

> Are the four seniority proposals, as presently written, legal or illegal under Montgomery County Code, sec. 33-107?

DISCUSSION

The Four seniority proposals presented by the Union on November 9, 1989 for the parties' negotiation of the 1990-1993 contract are:

> Article 5.9 OVERTIME: Overtime work shall be voluntary. There shall be no discrimination against any employee who declines to work overtime. When there are no volunteers in the event of an emergency, the employee with the least seniority shall be required to perform the overtime duty. Work schedules for members of the bargaining unit shall not be changed for the purpose of avoiding overtime.
> Article 9 WORKING CONDITIONS: 9.3 (a) Change last sentence to read: Employees covered under this agreement shall have first preference to fill such job openings in accordance with their seniority, within the highest rated category.
> Article 23 TRANSFER: 23.3 (b) Change to read: Transfers shall be done on the basis of seniority. senior employees desiring a transfer shall be offered the first available position for which they are qualified.
> Article 24 PROMOTION: 24.2 delete last sentence and replace with: Promotions shall be made in accordance with seniority with the most senior qualified candidate receiving the job.

In the 7/25/90 LRA decision, the Questions at Issue was framed in a broader sense than the question remanded by the Court[2] and the ultimate decision, which answered that question in the affirmative, deliberately refused to make a narrow determination that the four proposals, as written could be included in the collective bargaining agreement[3] in an effort to follow the dictates of the County Statute that I provide for an "...effective implementation and administration of this article concerning ...prohibited practices..." (Article VII, Section 103 [a]) and issue a remedial order which would best "...remedy the violation..." (Article VII, Section 33,109 [d]) and at the same time not further polarize the parties into their position but rather permit continuance of free collective bargaining between the parties as is recognized and preferred in the statute. Nonetheless, the Court in its wisdom has remanded the matter to me to make a definitive determination of whether four seniority proposals, as presently written, are legal or illegal under the Montgomery County Code, Sec 33-107.

I find that the four proposals are capable of being included in the parties' collective bargaining agreement if agreed to and, as presently written, they are legal under Montgomery County Code, Sec 33-107.

Article VII, Sec 33- 107 (b) specifically limits the matters which are conditions of employment subject to bargaining under 107(a) and neither the statutory Article nor an agreement made

[3] "While it may be, and the undersigned makes no determination in this regard, that the proposals, as now written could not be agreed to without violating Article 33, Section 107 (b), at the same time topics of overtime, filling of vacancies, transfers and promotions, as well as the topic of seniority itself cannot be so odious as to fall outside of the definition of 'working condition' and thus I find a duty to bargain." Page 23 7/25/90 decision under it shall impair the right and responsibility of the employer to perform the following:

> (4) Determine the overall organizational structure, methods, processes, means, job classifications, and Personnel by which operations are to be conducted and the location of facilities.
> (5) Direct and Supervise employees.
> (6) Hire, select, and establish the standards governing promotion of employees, and classify positions.
> (9) Transfer, assign and schedule employees

One could suppose that a bland reading of the proposals and a cold comparison with the statutory language might lead a reader to question inclusion in the agreement. But that is not the true test.

In Beloit Education Assn. v. WERC, 73 Wis. 2d 5, 242 N.W. 2d 231 (1976) the Wisconsin Supreme Court considered a state statute requiring public employers to meet and confer regarding conditions of employment. There were restraints in that statute similar to those here under review and the school Board had resisted negotiating in certain areas because of "school management and educational policies". The Court held that matters fundamentally, basically or essentially a wage, hour or condition of employment are required to be bargained. Considering a question of layoff by seniority the lower court had discussed a clarification and modified the commission's holding to require a "reasonable clarification" to that effect be inserted in the collective bargaining agreement if proposed by the school board. The Court noted at 242 N.W. 2d 231, 239:

> As so clarified and modified, the proposals stop well short of invading the school board's right to determine the curriculum, and to retain, in case of layoff, teachers qualified to teach particular subjects in such curriculum. As so limited and modified, the proposal, we hold, is one primarily related to "wages, hours and conditions of employment" and hence required to be bargained.[4]

See also Minneapolis Federation of Teachers, Local 59 v. Minneapolis Special School District # 1 258 N.W. 2d 802 wherein a declaratory judgment was sought to compel bargaining on transfer procedures as a mandatory topic under a meet and confer statute. The trail court had found that teacher transfers were a matter of inherent managerial policy (excluded by law from being a mandatory subject of bargaining) but the Supreme Court reversed. It noted at 258 N.W. 2d, p. 805:

> There is no doubt the decision to transfer a number of teachers is a managerial decision. The criteria for determining which teachers are to be transferred, however, involves a decision which directly affects a teacher's welfare and enters into a field which we hold is in fact negotiable.

The New Jersey Supreme Court held that there is no danger of a merit system being injured when only qualified employees are included in the proposal concerning layoffs, recalls, bumping etc. by seniority dictate. State of New Jersey v. Supervisory Employees' Assn. Local 195 IFPTE and Local 518, SEIU, 393 A 2d 233[5]

The record is singularly clear in this case that the Union

clarified, at the bargaining session, that its proposals only referred to qualified individuals, and in fact the last three proposals specifically relate to qualification and it is implicit in the first proposal even if clarification had not been made. The entire bargaining history of these two parties can not permit of any conclusion other than a clear understanding by the County that the Union was always willing to accept the County's qualification determinations.

Union negotiator, Renne, testified as to the County's counter-proposals during the 1986 negotiations and the fact that the Union conceded that the County made qualification determinations. (See TR 67, et seq: 3/29/90). In 1990-1991, the County made no counter-proposals to the four proposals, but at one point the County asked who made qualification determinations. The Union "...again emphatically responded that obviously, you're the employer, you would determine qualifications." (TR 73, 3/29/90) See also the discussion at TR 89, 3/29/90:

> Q. Now, regarding the determination of who are qualified for a transfer or promotion, how is that determination made?
> *** *** *** ***
> Mr. Sickles: Isn't it conceded that the Management does?
> Mr. Thompson: Yeah, we've been trying to trumpet that through this whole proceeding.
> Ms. Burrell: I have no further questions.

The County's EEO officer reviews potential vacancies and promotions and may designate a position for "affirmative action consideration." Neither overtime nor transfers are covered by the EEO considerations (TR 70, 3/28) and the County concedes that the Union stated at negotiation sessions, and continues to insist, that its proposals were in no manner to be construed as disturbing any EEO goals. See TR 66, 3/28/90: TR 73, 3/29/90.

It is interesting to note that the County did respond to allegedly non-negotiable proposals during the 1986-87 bargaining. See Page 19 of the County's April 23, 1990 Brief to the LRA:

> The Union was not aware when it offered its initial proposals that the County would assert that proposals which include seniority as a standard for personnel actions are non-negotiable. Therefore, in good faith, the County offered negotiable counterproposals so that the parties could enter into an agreement which provided for all matters subject to bargaining. (See testimony of James Torgeson, Transcript, Vol. II, p. 88)

See also TR 104-105, 3/28/90

But in the 1990-1993 negotiations, the County asserted non-negotiability under 107 (b), alleging impairment of management rights and responsibilities under the statute, and it apparently waited for the Union to modify its proposals or offer counterproposals. See Page 2, County's April 23, 1990 Brief to the LRA and TR 31, 3/28/90 [6]

In any event, the County's position throughout has been that it is legal and appropriate to entertain and discuss "seniority" proposals, and to agree to same, when it is "post decisional" i.e.

[6] The County also objected to a fifth 1989 proposal which had overtones of seniority as it related to leave and vacation scheduling. During the mediation stage, the County responded to the Mediator's request for counterproposal language and finally the parties agreed to section 14.7 of Exhibit Q. After the County determines service and operating efficiency matters, vacation preferences are honored on a seniority basis.

after the County decides that services and operating efficiencies are not substantially impaired. The County insists that it must make the initial and basic decision of need, and then, if it merely becomes a question of which employee "gets off (in a leave situation, for example) that question may properly be decided solely on a seniority basis.(See TR 35, 3/28)

I find that the four Union proposals at issue, as written, and surely as clarified and/or explained at the bargaining table, and (as noted previously) fully understood by the County during the negotiating sessions are no less "post decisional" than other proposals and agreement provisions not found to be odious, illegal or statutorily restrictive by the County.

The County feels that the selection of the least senior person to work overtime might result in the designation of a person it did not want (TR 26, 3/28/90) and it could result in promotions and/or transfers of persons when a particular supervisor desired someone else. But, as long as the employee summoned for overtime work is qualified to do the job (a management decision) and/or the person promoted, transferred or assigned to a vacancy is qualified to perform the task, as decided solely by management, a seniority preference system is as 'post decisional" as the identity of the person who is on leave or vacation at a given time, or the identity of the employee who drives a particular Ride-On bus route.

Surely the designation which is made only after the County finds a need for overtime and/or finds it appropriate to transfer, promote or fill a vacancy (post decisional) and is made only from those the County has deemed to be qualified (and/or fall within the highest rated category designated by the County) does not run afoul of Section 107 (b). A reasonable reading of section 107 (b) does not suggest that it would impair any of the enumerated rights and responsibilities. In short, the employer still decides the structure, methods, means, job classifications, etc. and chooses its basic personnel at its designated facilities. It has not abandoned direction or supervision of employees nor is hiring compromised. It still selects and establishes the standards governing promotions, still classifies positions and still makes the initial unilateral determination that qualified employees are to be transferred, assigned, etc.

The four proposals as written do not violate the County's prerogatives. The County concedes that the proposals fall within the general definition of "conditions of employment" under 107 (a) and since seniority matters are of direct fundamental concern to employees, the County violated the statute by failing to bargain.

DECISION

The four seniority proposals, as presently written, are legal under Montgomery County Code, sec 33-107.

PARTIAL TRANSCRIPT

THE COURT: I want to thank the lawyers for a well argued and a well briefed issue. It is nice, it is kind of a pleasure. I don't know about you, but I was enjoying this this morning. I don't always enjoy myself up here, so I appreciate it, with both of you.

Now, I think that the first thing that I have to kind of touch upon is the question of whether or not this is purely a legal issue; thus, if that be the case, that I can chuck out any notions of being deferential to the LRA.

I think that the better of the two arguments on it is that it is a mixed question of law and fact. I am loathed to say that it was a total exercise in futility to have gone through the two days of hearings and taking of testimony that occurred before the LRA and just simply dismiss that with a wave of the hand. I think that it was absolutely necessary in order to come to some kind of a conclusion with regard to it.

I do accept the distinction that is made by the union in this case as to, first, the -- well, the phraseology that I might use is maybe a little bit different, but essentially that when the superstructure of the event that is to occur, whatever it is, is provided for by the County, once that is accomplished, that the then carrying out of that becomes an item that is negotiable and should come within the bargaining between the parties, and I am satisfied, having read the briefs and hearing argument, that the superstructure is in place and has been placed in place by the County, the County has all of the -- or a great number of the cards which it can play before it ever gets to a situation where any one of these proposals by the union would trigger in, and that really what has occurred here, what the union is seeking to do, is to have a discussion in the bargaining process, pursuant to 33-107, both a and b.

This is by way of saying and underscoring what the LRA did. I will accept that this particular fellow is a nationally recognized man. I have no reason to think otherwise, and if counsel says so, I will accept that, as he being an officer of the court, and I feel that under these circumstances, since it is a mixed question of law and fact, I must -- this court must give great deference, or at least some deference to his findings of fact with regard to all these matters; therefore -- and the only issue that he was asked to address, this last go-round, was the question of legality or nonlegality of the proposals. He found that they were legal. In this context, the question of legality or nonlegality, as lawyers at least know and I have come to know, is a word of art and that implicit in what the LRA did was to find that these issues were legal and that they, therefore, are a fortiori bargainable and come within the terms of items under 33-107. Therefore, I will affirm the findings of the LRA and that will be the end of it.

I do want to thank you again for well written and well argued briefs. Thank you very much.

(Whereupon, the court's ruling in this matter was concluded.)

TESTIMONY OF JAMES TORGESEN

LABOR/EMPLOYEE RELATIONS MANAGER, OFFICE OF HUMAN RESOURCES

BEFORE THE MONTGOMERY COUNTY COUNCIL

ON BILL NO. 13-01, APRIL 17, 2001

GOOD MORNING, MY NAME IS JAMES TORGESEN AND I AM HERE ON BEHALF OF THE COUNTY EXECUTIVE TO EXPRESS SUPPORT FOR BILL NO. 13-01.

THE COUNTY EXECUTIVE DESIRES TO PROVIDE AN OPPORTUNITY FOR LIEUTENANTS AND CAPTAINS WITHIN THE COUNTY'S DEPARTMENT OF FIRE AND RESCUE SERVICES TO COLLECTIVELY BARGAIN OVER THEIR WAGES, HOURS AND WORKING CONDITIONS. THIS BILL WOULD INCLUDE EMPLOYEES IN THESE TWO JOB CLASSES IN THE EXISTING BARGAINING UNIT OF EMPLOYEES IN THE RANK OF MASTER FIRE FIGHTER/RESCUER AND BELOW. AS EMPLOYEES IN THESE TWO CLASSES WORK CLOSELY WITH EXISTING BARGAINING UNIT MEMBERS IN THE DAY TO DAY OPERATIONS OF THE DEPARTMENT THERE IS EVIDENCE OF A COMMUNITY OF INTEREST IN THE TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF EMPLOYMENT BETWEEN THE TWO GROUPS. MOREOVER, MANY OF

THE TERMS OF THE EXISTING AGREEMENT HAVE BEEN PASSED THROUGH TO THESE EMPLOYEES.

EXTENDING COLLECTIVE BARGAINING RIGHTS TO THIS GROUP OF EMPLOYEES IS NOT INCONSISTENT WITH THE TREATMENT OF SIMILAR EMPLOYEES IN OTHER LOCAL GOVERNMENT JURISDICTIONS IN THE WASHINGTON/BALTIMORE METROPOLITAN AREA. AS NOTED IN THE LEGISLATIVE REQUEST REPORT, THE SAME STRUCTURE AS PROPOSED EXISTS IN BALTIMORE COUNTY AND THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA. OTHER JURISDICTIONS INCLUDING HOWARD COUNTY, PRINCE GEORGES COUNTY AND BALTIMORE CITY EXTEND BARGAINING RIGHTS TO SIMILAR CLASSES AS A PART OF A NON-SUPERVISORY UNIT OR AS A SEPARATE UNIT.

THE BILL DOES CONTAIN A SERIES OF EXCLUSIONS WHICH WE FEEL ARE NECESSARY FOR THE EFFECTIVE OPERATION OF THE DEPARTMENT AND WILL HELP AVOID THE POTENTIAL FOR CONFLICTS OF INTEREST. IN THE MAIN, THESE ASSIGNMENTS HAVE TO DO WITH THE PERSONNEL, FINANCIAL AND POLICY ADMINISTRATION WITHIN THE DEPARTMENT.

AS THE COUNTY IS COMPLETING THE SECOND YEAR OF A THREE YEAR AGREEMENT WITH THE MONTGOMERY COUNTY CAREER FIRE FIGHTERS ASSOCIATION, IAFF LOCAL 1664, THE

PASSAGE OF THIS BILL WOULD EXTEND THE OPPORTUNITY FOR LIEUTENANTS AND CAPTAINS TO PARTICIPATE IN THE BARGAINING PROCESS THIS FALL. COVERAGE UNDER A COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENT WOULD THEN TAKE EFFECT WITH THE IMPLEMENTATION OF A NEW AGREEMENT AS OF JULY 1, 2002.

THANK YOU FOR THE OPPORTUNITY TO PROVIDE TESTIMONY ON THIS PROPOSED BILL AND WE WOULD REQUEST THAT YOU FAVORABLY CONSIDER ITS PASSAGE.

PUBLIC HEARING - BILL 13-01
April 17, 2001

President Ewing, County Council members, thank you for the opportunity to speak to you on Bill 13 – 01 Collective Bargaining for Fire/ Rescue Employees. We applaud County Executive Doug Duncan for recognizing the importance of extending collective bargaining rights to Fire/ Rescue Lieutenants and Captains. Representation for these employees is long overdue.

As you know, our collective bargaining law restricts the subjects that represented employees may bargain over.
These subjects are:

- Salary and Wages
- Pension and other retirement benefits
- Insurance, leave, holiday and vacations
- Hours and working conditions
- Settlement of grievances
- Matters affecting health and safety and
- The amelioration of the effect on employees when the exercise of employer rights cause a loss of existing jobs

These subjects are just as important to Lieutenants and Captains as they are to Master Fire Fighters and Fire Fighter Rescuers. None of these subjects impact the job duties and job requirements of any rank in the fire/ rescue service. In fact, when our Local negotiates changes that affect these subjects they are passed through to Lieutenants and Captains. Wage increases, changes to retirement, pensions, insurance, leave, hours of work and working conditions, they mean the same to each of us regardless of our rank. The only difference is in the settlement of grievances, where they currently follow a different process.

Currently there are 191 combined Lieutenants and Captains. Of those 191 personnel, 118 of them are and have been members of our Local for years, paying dues voluntarily. They pay their dues even though they are not "officially" represented however, knowingly aware that they will reap the benefits of the collective bargaining process. It is time to bring them out of the closet and to extend the basic rights of representation to these ranks as those employees that they work side by side with currently enjoy.

Please note: the website printed below is incorrect; it should read as www.iafflocal1664.com.

We ask that you support Bill 13 – 01. Thank you very much.

MONTGOMERY COUNTY FIRE BOARD

April 17, 2001

037973

Honorable Council Members
Montgomery County Council
Stella Werner Council Office Building
100 Maryland Avenue
Rockville, Maryland 20850

RE: Testimony to Bill 13-01 Collective Bargaining -- Fire/Rescue Employees

Dear Council Members:

The Montgomery County Fire Board, representing the nineteen Local Fire and Rescue Departments, appreciates the opportunity provided by law to comment on proposed legislation contemplated by the Montgomery County Council. To that end, we are pleased to advise the Montgomery County Council on matters concerning the Bill 13-01, Collective Bargaining -- Fire/Rescue Employees.

This proposed amendment to the County Code would modify Chapter 33, Sections 33-148 and 33–151, wherein the career fire and rescue lieutenants and captains would become part of the same collective bargaining unit as other fire and rescue employees whom they supervise. The Fire Board has concerns and is opposed to such action that would place management and supervisory personnel in a position that would compromise their ability to effectively manage those whom they are responsible for supervising.

We are disappointed that the County Executive forwarded this bill for consideration without thoughtful consideration and contact with appropriate Montgomery County Fire and Rescue Service (MCFRS) stakeholders, especially the Fire and Rescue Commission, the County's regulatory authority for the Service. It is also troublesome to see that such a measure would be introduced to Council without first seeking input from the Local Fire and Rescue Departments' Boards of Directors, which comprise the County's private management partners.

We are concerned that without management representation within the Local Fire and Rescue Department stations, the interests of both partners, County Government and the corporate entity of the Local Fire and Rescue Departments, will not be served under this measure. This initiative is believed to have a number of shortcomings associated with it.

With that in mind, the Fire Board has several specific points to be considered:

No. 1 The County would do well to look to the structure of the National Labor Relations Act (NLRA), which governs private sector employment. It contemplates that management is to have the right to demand the absolute loyalty of its supervisors. Towards that end, the employer has the absolute right to keep supervisors out of any bargaining unit. The point under the NLRA, therefore, is that supervisors should owe complete allegiance to management, which they cannot have if they also have allegiance to the union, which marches in the opposite direction. The only ones left who can be depended on to tow management's position, will be the chiefs who, effectively, will be turned into micromanagers rather than leaders.

No. 2 The above point is underscored by virtue of the power of the union to sanction its members for violation of union rules. So, for instance, if the union enacts an internal rule to ban captains from chastising a subordinate fellow member, the union would then be able to sanction the captain for disciplining a firefighter who, for instance, failed to follow an order to wear his/her protective clothing properly. The net effect can be to allow the union to control the management and supervision of the department through the union's power to sanction and discipline supervisors as mere members. Followed to its inexorable end, the union would be able to completely cripple management simply through its union power to control members for not following union policy.

No. 3 In theory, the object of collective bargaining is to equalize the power of labor to that of management. But, when management jumps into the union side of the seesaw, the desired equilibrium is destroyed.

There unfortunately already exists in Montgomery County, the situation where many of the present lieutenants and captains are already dues paying members of the union, thus, calling to question their loyalties as managers in the Service. The lack of any consistent discipline at the field level in the fire service is testament to the argument that supervisors should not be in the same bargaining unit as those they are paid to supervise. To make matters even worse, even the highest level of management continues to be allowed to participate in the union, even if the collective bargaining does not apply. Even a past Director of the Department of Fire and Rescue Services remarked that he was still a dues paying member of the union. The Council not only needs to defeat this bill, but also should consider a measure prohibiting the practice of any manager remaining affiliated with the union representing those whom they are assigned to manage.

No. 4 If the County, notwithstanding, wants to give the lieutenants and captains "a say in wages and benefits," there are alternatives. The County could, with relative ease, form a committee of captains and lieutenants and solicit their input in determining wages and benefits (without bargaining and without putting them in their subordinates' bargaining unit).

The County would be wise to learn from the mistakes made in our neighboring counties. For instance, Ann Arundel County, according to information contained in County Executive Douglas M. Duncan's letter to the Council introducing this bill, at one time allowed lieutenants and captains to be members of the collective bargaining unit, and later rescinded that practice. When the Fire Board inquired as to why this practice was discontinued, Fire Administrator Gordon Aoyagi, on April 4, 2001, reasoned that it was likely because the lieutenants and captains are supervisors. When asked further if Montgomery County's lieutenants and captains are considered supervisors, he answered that they indeed are. That recent exchange of questions and answers again demonstrates how Montgomery County, and specifically the fire and rescue service, fails to properly distinguish the relationship between management and labor.

In closing, it has been brought to our attention that even some of the lieutenants and captains who would supposedly "benefit" from enactment of this bill are publicly opposed to it for some of the very reasons listed above. Those officers should be commended for their leadership and ability to recognize what is best for the County and its citizenry. They clearly recognize that what has been characterized as a "side-by-side" working relationship with their subordinates never relieves them of their responsibility to make effective management and supervisory decisions and represent the management ideals of County Government.

Therefore, the Fire Board recommends that the Montgomery County Council REJECT Bill 13-01, Collective Bargaining -- Fire/Rescue Employees, as it is not in the best interests of the Montgomery County Fire and Rescue Service, nor is it consistent with the needs of the citizens of Montgomery County. Should you wish to discuss this further, please feel free to contact me on 301-929-8000.

Sincerely,

Andrew B. White

MFP ITEM 1
June 28, 2001
Worksession

MEMORANDUM

TO: Management and Fiscal Policy Committee

FROM: Michael Faden, Senior Legislative Attorney

SUBJECT: Worksession: Bill 13-01, Collective Bargaining - Fire/Rescue Employees

The Council President at the request of the County Executive introduced Bill 13-01, Collective Bargaining - Fire/Rescue Employees on March 20, 2001. Bill 13-01 would include fire/rescue lieutenants and captains in the bargaining unit with lower ranking fire/rescue employees. It is similar to Bill 10-00, enacted last year, which incorporated police sergeants into the police collective bargaining unit. Currently, according to the Office of Human Resources (OHR), the bargaining unit has about 662 members (Firefighter/Rescuer I, II, III and Master Firefighter/Rescuer), and the Fire and Rescue Service has 110 captains and 89 lieutenants.

A public hearing was held on April 17. Along with the testimony on ©8-12 and Fire Board letter on ©13-15, a representative of the Career Fire and Rescue Officers Association supported the bill, and a fire lieutenant opposed it because, in his view, the affected employees should be able to vote on joining the bargaining unit rather than having that decision made for them.

Issues

1) Right to bargain: Should fire supervisors be able to bargain collectively?

Bill 13-01 extends collective bargaining to lieutenants, who are first-line supervisors, and fire captains. Until police sergeants were given collective bargaining rights by Bill 10-00, supervisors were not included in any County government bargaining unit.[1]

On the merits, any group of employees (except the highest management ranks) has a strong argument for gaining the right to bargain collectively to have a mechanism for management to recognize and respond to their unique problems. (County policy has traditionally been to pass through wage and benefit settlements to unrepresented employees, so supervisors' primary need for collective bargaining is not economic.) The central question then becomes: at what level of management is collective bargaining inappropriate because of the fundamental difference of roles between managers and line employees?

2) Nature of bargaining unit: What kind of bargaining unit should fire supervisors be placed in?

If fire supervisors are covered by collective bargaining, what bargaining unit is most suitable? Two options seem reasonable:

Supervisors-only unit Under this approach, the captains and lieutenants would be placed in a separate unit whose members would elect their own bargaining agent, which could be the bargaining agent for the current unit (the IAFF) or a different union.

"Rank and file" unit The bill as introduced places the captains and lieutenants in the "rank and file" bargaining unit, as was ultimately done for the police sergeants. The rationale for doing this centers on the need for a single fire service collective bargaining agreement, or at least the need to avoid inconsistent agreements. However, a single unit has been criticized because it places the first-line supervisors, who administer discipline and otherwise direct employee conduct, in the same unit as those they supervise.

3) Scope of bargaining unit: Which supervisors should be excluded?

The bill as introduced lists management personnel who would not be in the bargaining unit: any captain or lieutenant whose primary assignment involves sensitive issues such as labor relations, budget, personnel, internal affairs, public information, and quality assurance (see ©2, lines 17-24).

4) Process: Should the captains and lieutenants vote on their bargaining status?

The bill as introduced would automatically place the captains and lieutenants in the bargaining unit, without any opportunity to vote on the issue, as was done with the police sergeants. In effect, this treats the change as an accretion to the bargaining unit. However, the size of the affected employee cohort (the bill would increase the size of the bargaining unit by about 30%) and the nature of the employees (management rather than rank-and-file) contrasts with a normal accretion, which generally involves smaller numbers of more-or-less identical employees. These distinctions, in Council staff's view, argue for an independent process.

Normally employees are put in a collective bargaining unit only if they vote to do so or otherwise register their desire to be subject to collective bargaining. For example, the initial certification of a bargaining agent under the fire/rescue collective bargaining law (Code §33-151(a)) requires "the uncoerced signatures of 30 percent of the employees in the unit, signifying their desire to be represented by the employee organization for purposes of collective bargaining." After those signatures are validated, an election is held among "all eligible employees" and they are placed in a bargaining unit only by majority vote.

When the Council placed police sergeants in the police bargaining unit, the applicable union, the Fraternal Order of Police, had already enrolled a majority of the affected employees as non-represented members. Similarly (see IAFF testimony, ©11) the union representing this bargaining unit claims a majority of the captains and lieutenants as members.

One amendment the Committee could consider is to allow the supervisors to vote on several options for representation. Those options could include:

- Inclusion in the current fire/rescue bargaining unit;
- A stand-alone supervisors' bargaining unit;
- A single-rank bargaining unit, including only either lieutenants or captains.

If the employees select either of the latter two options, the new bargaining unit would then hold another election to select a bargaining agent.

TESTIMONY OF JAMES TORGESEN

LABOR/EMPLOYEE RELATIONS MANAGER, OFFICE OF HUMAN RESOURCES

BEFORE THE MONTGOMERY COUNTY COUNCIL

ON BILL NO. 13-01, APRIL 17, 2001

GOOD MORNING, MY NAME IS JAMES TORGESEN AND I AM HERE ON BEHALF OF THE COUNTY EXECUTIVE TO EXPRESS SUPPORT FOR BILL NO. 13-01.

THE COUNTY EXECUTIVE DESIRES TO PROVIDE AN OPPORTUNITY FOR LIEUTENANTS AND CAPTAINS WITHIN THE COUNTY'S DEPARTMENT OF FIRE AND RESCUE SERVICES TO COLLECTIVELY BARGAIN OVER THEIR WAGES, HOURS AND WORKING CONDITIONS. THIS BILL WOULD INCLUDE EMPLOYEES IN THESE TWO JOB CLASSES IN THE EXISTING BARGAINING UNIT OF EMPLOYEES IN THE RANK OF MASTER FIRE FIGHTER/RESCUER AND BELOW. AS EMPLOYEES IN THESE TWO CLASSES WORK CLOSELY WITH EXISTING BARGAINING UNIT MEMBERS IN THE DAY TO DAY OPERATIONS OF THE DEPARTMENT THERE IS EVIDENCE OF A COMMUNITY OF INTEREST IN THE TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF EMPLOYMENT BETWEEN THE TWO GROUPS. MOREOVER, MANY OF

THE TERMS OF THE EXISTING AGREEMENT HAVE BEEN PASSED THROUGH TO THESE EMPLOYEES.

EXTENDING COLLECTIVE BARGAINING RIGHTS TO THIS GROUP OF EMPLOYEES IS NOT INCONSISTENT WITH THE TREATMENT OF SIMILAR EMPLOYEES IN OTHER LOCAL GOVERNMENT JURISDICTIONS IN THE WASHINGTON/BALTIMORE METROPOLITAN AREA. AS NOTED IN THE LEGISLATIVE REQUEST REPORT, THE SAME STRUCTURE AS PROPOSED EXISTS IN BALTIMORE COUNTY AND THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA. OTHER JURISDICTIONS INCLUDING HOWARD COUNTY, PRINCE GEORGES COUNTY AND BALTIMORE CITY EXTEND BARGAINING RIGHTS TO SIMILAR CLASSES AS A PART OF A NON-SUPERVISORY UNIT OR AS A SEPARATE UNIT.

THE BILL DOES CONTAIN A SERIES OF EXCLUSIONS WHICH WE FEEL ARE NECESSARY FOR THE EFFECTIVE OPERATION OF THE DEPARTMENT AND WILL HELP AVOID THE POTENTIAL FOR CONFLICTS OF INTEREST. IN THE MAIN, THESE ASSIGNMENTS HAVE TO DO WITH THE PERSONNEL, FINANCIAL AND POLICY ADMINISTRATION WITHIN THE DEPARTMENT.

AS THE COUNTY IS COMPLETING THE SECOND YEAR OF A THREE YEAR AGREEMENT WITH THE MONTGOMERY COUNTY CAREER FIRE FIGHTERS ASSOCIATION, IAFF LOCAL 1664, THE

PASSAGE OF THIS BILL WOULD EXTEND THE OPPORTUNITY FOR LIEUTENANTS AND CAPTAINS TO PARTICIPATE IN THE BARGAINING PROCESS THIS FALL. COVERAGE UNDER A COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENT WOULD THEN TAKE EFFECT WITH THE IMPLEMENTATION OF A NEW AGREEMENT AS OF JULY 1, 2002.

THANK YOU FOR THE OPPORTUNITY TO PROVIDE TESTIMONY ON THIS PROPOSED BILL AND WE WOULD REQUEST THAT YOU FAVORABLY CONSIDER ITS PASSAGE.

PUBLIC HEARING - BILL 13-01
April 17, 2001

President Ewing, County Council members, thank you for the opportunity to speak to you on Bill 13 – 01 Collective Bargaining for Fire/ Rescue Employees. We applaud County Executive Doug Duncan for recognizing the importance of extending collective bargaining rights to Fire/ Rescue Lieutenants and Captains. Representation for these employees is long overdue.

As you know, our collective bargaining law restricts the subjects that represented employees may bargain over.
These subjects are:

- Salary and Wages
- Pension and other retirement benefits
- Insurance, leave, holiday and vacations
- Hours and working conditions
- Settlement of grievances
- Matters affecting health and safety and
- The amelioration of the effect on employees when the exercise of employer rights cause a loss of existing jobs

These subjects are just as important to Lieutenants and Captains as they are to Master Fire Fighters and Fire Fighter Rescuers. None of these subjects impact the job duties and job requirements of any rank in the fire/ rescue service. In fact, when our Local negotiates changes that affect these subjects they are passed through to Lieutenants and Captains. Wage increases, changes to retirement, pensions, insurance, leave, hours of work and working conditions, they mean the same to each of us regardless of our rank. The only difference is in the settlement of grievances, where they currently follow a different process.

Currently there are 191 combined Lieutenants and Captains. Of those 191 personnel, 118 of them are and have been members of our Local for years, paying dues voluntarily. They pay their dues even though they are not "officially" represented however, knowingly aware that they will reap the benefits of the collective bargaining process. It is time to bring them out of the closet and to extend the basic rights of representation to these ranks as those employees that they work side by side with currently enjoy.

RE: Testimony to Bill 13-01 Collective Bargaining -- Fire/Rescue Employees

Dear Council Members:

The Montgomery County Fire Board, representing the nineteen Local Fire and Rescue Departments, appreciates the opportunity provided by law to comment on proposed legislation contemplated by the Montgomery County Council. To that end, we are pleased to advise the Montgomery County Council on matters concerning the Bill 13-01, Collective Bargaining -- Fire/Rescue Employees.

This proposed amendment to the County Code would modify Chapter 33, Sections 33-148 and 33–151, wherein the career fire and rescue lieutenants and captains would become part of the same collective bargaining unit as other fire and rescue employees whom they supervise. The Fire Board has concerns and is opposed to such action that would place management and supervisory personnel in a position that would compromise their ability to effectively manage those whom they are responsible for supervising.

We are disappointed that the County Executive forwarded this bill for consideration without thoughtful consideration and contact with appropriate Montgomery County Fire and Rescue Service (MCFRS) stakeholders, especially the Fire and Rescue Commission, the County's regulatory authority for the Service. It is also troublesome to see that such a measure would be introduced to Council without first seeking input from the Local Fire and Rescue Departments' Boards of Directors, which comprise the County's private management partners.

We are concerned that without management representation within the Local Fire and Rescue Department stations, the interests of both partners, County Government and the corporate entity of the Local Fire and Rescue Departments, will not be served under this measure. This initiative is believed to have a number of shortcomings associated with it.

With that in mind, the Fire Board has several specific points to be considered:

No. 1 The County would do well to look to the structure of the National Labor Relations Act (NLRA), which governs private sector employment. It contemplates that management is to have the right to demand the absolute loyalty of its supervisors. Towards that end, the employer has the absolute right to keep supervisors out of any bargaining unit. The point under the NLRA, therefore, is that supervisors should owe complete allegiance to management, which they cannot have if they also have allegiance to the union, which marches in the opposite direction. The only ones left who can be depended on to tow management's position, will be the chiefs who, effectively, will be turned into micromanagers rather than leaders.

No. 2 The above point is underscored by virtue of the power of the union to sanction its members for violation of union rules. So, for instance, if the union enacts an internal rule to ban captains from chastising a subordinate fellow member, the union would then be able to sanction the captain for disciplining a firefighter who, for instance, failed to follow an order to wear his/her protective clothing properly. The net effect can be to allow the union to control the management and supervision of the department through the union's power to sanction and discipline supervisors as mere members. Followed to its inexorable end, the union would be able to completely cripple management simply through its union power to control members for not following union policy.

No. 3 In theory, the object of collective bargaining is to equalize the power of labor to that of management. But, when management jumps into the union side of the seesaw, the desired equilibrium is destroyed.

There unfortunately already exists in Montgomery County, the situation where many of the present lieutenants and captains are already dues paying members of the union, thus, calling to question their loyalties as managers in the Service. The lack of any consistent discipline at the field level in the fire service is testament to the argument that supervisors should not be in the same bargaining unit as those they are paid to supervise. To make matters even worse, even the highest level of management continues to be allowed to participate in the union, even if the collective bargaining does not apply. Even a past Director of the Department of Fire and Rescue Services remarked that he was still a dues paying member of the union. The Council not only needs to defeat this bill, but also should consider a measure prohibiting the practice of any manager remaining affiliated with the union representing those whom they are assigned to manage.

No. 4 If the County, notwithstanding, wants to give the lieutenants and captains "a say in wages and benefits," there are alternatives. The County could, with relative ease, form a committee of captains and lieutenants and solicit their input in determining wages and benefits (without bargaining and without putting them in their subordinates' bargaining unit).

The County would be wise to learn from the mistakes made in our neighboring counties. For instance, Ann Arundel County, according to information contained in County Executive Douglas M. Duncan's letter to the Council introducing this bill, at one time allowed lieutenants and captains to be members of the collective bargaining unit, and later rescinded that practice. When the Fire Board inquired as to why this practice was discontinued, Fire Administrator Gordon Aoyagi, on April 4, 2001, reasoned that it was likely because the lieutenants and captains are supervisors. When asked further if Montgomery County's lieutenants and captains are considered supervisors, he answered that they indeed are. That recent exchange of questions and answers again demonstrates how Montgomery County, and specifically the fire and rescue service, fails to properly distinguish the relationship between management and labor.

In closing, it has been brought to our attention that even some of the lieutenants and captains who would supposedly "benefit" from enactment of this bill are publicly opposed to it for some of the very reasons listed above. Those officers should be commended for their leadership and ability to recognize what is best for the County and its citizenry. They clearly recognize that what has been characterized as a "side-by-side" working relationship with their subordinates never relieves them of their responsibility to make effective management and supervisory decisions and represent the management ideals of County Government.

Therefore, the Fire Board recommends that the Montgomery County Council REJECT Bill 13-01, Collective Bargaining -- Fire/Rescue Employees, as it is not in the best interests of the Montgomery County Fire and Rescue Service, nor is it consistent with the needs of the citizens of Montgomery County. Should you wish to discuss this further, please feel free to contact me on 301-929-8000.

Sincerely,

Andrew B. White

SUBJECT: Bill 13-01, Collective Bargaining – Fire/Rescue Employees

The Committee had before it the memorandum and attachments from Senior Legislative Attorney Faden, dated June 28, 2001.

ACTION: Discussed with Mr. Sparks, Fire and Rescue Service, the comments in the letter from the Montgomery County Fire Board, dated June 17, 2001, attached to Staff's memorandum on pages 13-15; and received information from Mr. Aoyagi, Fire Administrator, that the Fire Board was involved in the process.

Agreed that fire supervisors have the right to bargain collectively, and that captains and lieutenants be placed in the "rank and file" bargaining unit. Councilmember Praisner recommended that the captains and lieutenants be placed in a separate bargaining unit.

Received comments from Mr. Sparks in support of the captains and lieutenants being placed in the "rank and file" bargaining unit.

Agreed that management who would not be included in the bargaining unit are those captains or lieutenants whose primary assignment involves sensitive issues such as labor relations, budget, personnel, internal affairs, public information, and quality assurance.

Discussed whether captains and lieutenants should vote on their bargaining unit; and recommended that captains and lieutenants be automatically placed in the bargaining unit without any opportunity to vote on the issues.

Recommended approval of Bill 13-01, as introduced.

Councilmember Praisner in the Chair.

SUBJECT: Bill 11-01, Ethics – Political Activities – Quasi-Judicial Officers

The Committee had before it the memorandum and attachments from Mr. Faden, dated June 28, 2001.

ACTION: Discussed the testimony that was presented at the public hearing, including the testimony of Mr. Leventhal, Montgomery County Democratic Central Committee, attached on page ©57 and 58 of Staff's memorandum.

Agreed that it is appropriate to have some restrictions on political activities of quasi-judicial officials and that there should be a close nexus between the restrictions and the ability of the person who is being restricted to impact a business or person. Recommended that the restrictions be limited to a business or person who does business or appears before a board or commission or is under the authority or regulated by the board or commission.

Discussed the current restrictions on public employees for soliciting or accepting gifts and how the Committee recommendation could be constructed to parallel Section 19A-16 of the Montgomery County Code. Requested Mr. Faden to draft language that would amend the bill by making it more limiting, and that the revised draft be submitted to the Committee members, the County Attorney's Office, Ethics Commission, quasi-judicial boards and commissions, and other individuals who commented on the bill.

Discussed whether to limit the prohibition to particular boards or commissions; and received information from Mr. Faden that the approach the Committee recommended would be self-limiting.

Discussed the restriction that any quasi-judicial official cannot be a candidate for a federal, state, or county elected office without resigning from the quasi-judicial position; and deferred consideration of whether language should be included in the bill extending the restriction to a candidate for a municipal office.

Discussed the status of the financial disclosure form modifications with Ms. Keller, Vice-Chair of the Ethics Commission; and received information that there is a subcommittee working on modifications to the form. Noted Councilmember Praisner's request that the modifications to the form be completed in the November/December time period; and received comments from Staff of the County Attorney's Office on the status of the modifications and the limitations that exist. Received information that the changes to the form suggested by Council Staff Director Farber were accepted and will be implemented and that the form and directions will be available on the Commission's website. Requested a briefing be scheduled in September to discuss the status of the modifications to the financial disclosure form.

Recommended approval of Bill 11-01, as amended subject to the redraft.

CALL OF BILLS FOR FINAL READING

SUBJECT: Bill 13-01, Collective Bargaining – Fire/Rescue Employees

The Council had before it the memorandum and attachments from Senior Legislative Attorney Faden, dated July 17, 2001.

Councilmember Denis, Lead Councilmember for Personnel Issues on the Management and Fiscal Policy (MFP) Committee, presented the report of the Committee.

Councilmember Subin said that he would abstain from voting on the bill because he is opposed to including captains and lieutenants in the "rank and file" bargaining unit. With respect to Bill 10-00, Collective Bargaining – Police – Sergeants, which the Council enacted, he said that he was also opposed to including police sergeants into the police collective bargaining unit and that, philosophically, he has concerns about moving in that direction. Mr. Subin said that he supported dividing the police bargaining unit into two units but as a matter of equity, he would not vote in opposition to the bill because it would be unfair to deny the fire and rescue employees the same opportunity as the police.

Councilmember Dacek said that she supports the comments of Councilmember Subin and the ability of lieutenants and captains to bargain collectively but she does not support the inclusions of captains and lieutenants, who are first-line supervisors, in the "rank and file" bargaining unit. Ms. Dacek said for that reason she will vote present on the bill.

In response to Councilmember Leggett's concerns, Councilmember Denis said that similar structures exist in other jurisdictions in the region and other counties within the State. Mr. Leggett requested and received assurance from Councilmembers Denis and Andrews that while Councilmember Praisner preferred to create a separate bargaining unit for the fire supervisors, she supported the bill.

ACTION: Adopted the following amendments as reflected in the bill:

(c) Temporary, seasonal, and substitute employees.

(1) A temporary, seasonal, or substitute employee in an occupational class in which the incumbents are predominantly career merit system employees becomes a member of the applicable bargaining unit when the employee has worked 6 months in a position in that occupational class. However, the employee may be terminated for any cause or without cause and without any right of grievance until the employee has completed 1040 hours of service in that position in any 12-month period.

(2) A temporary, seasonal, or substitute employee who is excluded from the definition of "employee" under Section 33-102(4)(H) because the employee is not in an occupational class in which the incumbents are predominantly career merit system employees becomes a limited-scope member of the applicable bargaining unit immediately after the employee begins employment if:

(A) the employee works at least 25 hours per pay period; and

(B) the employee organization which represents that bargaining unit has adopted a reduced scale of dues and service fees for employees in the limited-scope membership group that is generally proportional to the organization's representational responsibilities for employees in that group relative to the organization's representational responsibilities for other bargaining unit members, as determined by the employee organization.

Membership in a bargaining unit on a limited-scope basis must not carry any right to continued employment or access to any grievance procedure or other benefit that is extended to other bargaining unit members.

33-107. Collective bargaining.

(a) Duty to bargain; matters subject to bargaining. Upon certification of an employee organization, the employer and the certified representative have the duty to bargain collectively with respect to the following subjects for employees other than limited-scope members of the bargaining unit under Section 33-105(c)(2):

(2) Pension and other retirement benefits [[shall be negotiable,]] for active employees only, [[one (1) year after the effective date of this article]] but the parties must not bargain over the participation by any employee who is a member of the bargaining unit under Section 33-105(c)(1) in either the Integrated Retirement Plan or the Retirement Savings Plan.

(5) Provisions for the orderly processing and settlement of grievances concerning the interpretation and implementation of a collective bargaining agreement, which may include:

[[a.]] (A) Binding third party arbitration for employees other than members of the bargaining unit under Section 33-105(c)(1), [[provided that]] but the arbitrator [[shall have no authority to]] must not amend, add to, or subtract from the provisions of the collective bargaining agreement; and

[[b.]] (B) Provisions for exclusivity of forum.

The duty to bargain under this subsection, and any agreement reached as a result of bargaining, must not limit the employer's authority to require a newly-hired employee to remain in probationary status, during which the employee may be terminated for any cause or without cause and without any right of grievance, for a period that does not exceed 6 months. Unless a specific probationary period is required by law, the parties may agree on any probationary period that is not less than 6 months.

(b) Duty to bargain for limited-scope employees. The employer and the certified representative have the duty to bargain collectively on only the following subjects with respect to employees who are limited-scope members of the bargaining unit under Section 33-105(c)(2):

(1) wage scales and general wage adjustments; and

(2) dues or service fee deductions.

[[(b)]] (c) * * *

[[(c)]] (d) * * *

[[(d)]] (e) Agreement. * * *

Sec. 2. Transition.

The certified representative and the employer must bargain under Section 33-107 with respect to temporary, seasonal, and substitute employees who are members of a bargaining unit, including limited-scope employees, immediately after this Act becomes law. The procedures for impasse resolution under Section 33-108 apply to this bargaining process, but the specific action deadlines in that section do not apply. An initial agreement between the certified representative and the employer with respect to temporary, seasonal, and substitute employees must expire on the same date as the existing agreements for the SLT and OPT bargaining units.

The Committee had before it the memorandum and attachments from Council Staff Director Farber, dated April 29, 2002.

SUBJECT: Operating Budget Adjustments: Governmental Accounting Standards Board Statement 34 (GASB 34) Required Amendments

The Committee had before it the memorandum from Legislative Analyst Sherer, dated April 25, 2002.

ACTION: Recommended approval of the amendments as included in the County Executive's memorandum dated April 22, 2002, to align the County's budgeting practices with guidance from GASB 34.

Expressed concern that transferring Landlord-Tenant Affairs and Common Ownership Communities into the General Fund would make it impossible to know that the revenues for each function were used to provide the services for which the revenues are collected. Received assurance from Office of Management and Budget (OMB) and Division of Finance Staff that mechanisms are in place to track revenues and expenses.

SUBJECT: Operating Budget Adjustments: NDA - Future Federal, State and Other Grants

The Committee had before it the memorandum from Mr. Sherer, dated April 24, 2002.

ACTION: Recommended approval of the revised $15.0 million total for FY 03, noting that it is still $10.0 million less than the $25.0 million appropriated in FY 02.

Noted that the streaming video provided of the Council sessions and traffic video requires a substantial amount of bandwidth.

Recommended approval of the Operating Budget adjustment to include $86,000 for expanded Internet bandwidth.

Requested DTS Staff to provide a demonstration of the capabilities of the Internet with the expanded bandwidth after the August recess.

The Committee had before it the memorandum and attachments from Senior Legislative Attorney Faden, dated May 1, 2002.

ACTION: Expressed appreciation to everyone involved with this issue for their cooperation in addressing this legislation.

Received clarification from Mr. Faden that if the Management Leadership Service (MLS) is extended to Grade 27, it takes those employees out of the bargaining unit.

Noted Councilmember Praisner's view that she supports the legislation but that seasonal employees, because they are a large group, should have the opportunity to vote on whether to become part of the bargaining unit rather than becoming a part of the unit by accretion; and that she supports the Office of Intergovernmental Affairs not being included in a bargaining unit.

Councilmember Andrews expressed support for the bill.

Noted that the Office of Human Resources, the County Executive, and the Union support this legislation.

Recommended approval of Bill 9-01.

COUNTY COUNCIL FOR MONTGOMERY COUNTY, MARYLAND SITTING AS THE BOARD OF HEALTH

SUBJECT: Board of Health Report

Dr. Garvey, County Health Officer, provided a PowerPoint presentation on health planning priorities, including the progress that is being made in the areas of access to care, elimination of disparities, and environmental safety. Ms. Frank, Chief, Public Health Services, provided an update on the specific activities and associated costs of the Bioterrorism Response Team.

Referring to a hypothetical situation about an outbreak of small pox, Councilmember Dacek requested and received information from Dr. Garvey on the County's plan for dispensing the small pox vaccine. Dr. Garvey provided background information on the current Center for Disease Control plan that recommends against universal vaccination but rather recommends a "ring vaccination" in which the first individuals exposed to the small pox and their household contacts would be immunized. Dr. Garvey said that this is an evolving issue but, at the present time, that is the official plan. She said that there were several articles in the New England Journal of Medicine a few weeks ago that indicated it would be better to have all first responders vaccinated before an event occurs. With respect to Councilmember Dacek's questions about what would occur if there was a major outbreak, Ms. Frank provided a brief report on the plan that is currently in place. Ms. Frank said that the procedural agreements are in place with the schools, including the number of nurses, pharmacists, and medical volunteers that would be needed and the amount of time required to immunize the population.

Councilmember Ewing requested and received information from Dr. Garvey about the increased number of low-income children enrolled in health care coverage programs. Dr. Garvey said the increased numbers means that coverage has been required for the child, the child has been connected to a medical facility, and the normal preventative services are provided, but it does not necessarily mean the parents bring the child in for every appointment. With respect to Mr. Ewing's questions related to pharmaceutical access, Dr. Garvey said that the Primary Care Coalition is currently taking a number of different simultaneous approaches but there is only partial access to pharmaceuticals. She said that some of the County funding is used for Mobile Med which encourages the use of generic medications and purchases medications that are prescribed most often. In response to Councilmember Ewing's question about what would be required to provide data on Asian Americans, Dr. Garvey said that the Asian Americans do well on the health indicators, but there is an aggressive outreach effort to the older Asian Americans to participate in the cancer-screening program. Councilmember Ewing requested that in the future, data on Asian Americans be included on the charts.

Councilmember Denis expressed appreciation to Dr. Garvey and Ms. Frank for their participation in emergency planning, and acknowledged the participation of Ms. Frank in a news conference on regional health issues that was held by Congresswoman Morella. He referred to an article in the New York Times about the effect of September 11 attack on young children. Mr. Denis said that the study concluded some children have serious mental health issues as a result of the terrorist attacks, and that some of the children were reacting by having nightmares and drawing frightful pictures, while others had even more serious problems and were showing no reaction at all to the situation. Councilmember Denis expressed the view that this issue is an important one that should be tracked. With respect to the potential for bioterriorism attacks, he stressed the importance of being in a constant state of alert and having a sense of mission. Mr. Denis spoke about the issue of chemical weapons testing, noting that this issue first came to his attention last year when Congresswoman Morella addressed citizens concerns about the possibility of soil contamination in the Spring Valley neighborhood of the District of Columbia which was formerly used as a defense site. He said at that time, he wrote a letter to Dr. Garvey and Mr. Caldwell, Director, Department of Environmental Protection, expressing concern that this area is on the border of Montgomery County. Councilmember Denis said that he was surprised that the local officials were not involved "in the loop" and urged Dr. Garvey to continue to monitor the situation and to make sure the community is notified of any events.

Dr. Garvey said that it has been a challenge to get information regarding the soil contamination issue in the Spring Valley neighborhood, but it is being monitored and the Council will be kept informed of the situation.

Councilmember Andrews expressed appreciation to Dr. Garvey and Ms. Frank for their good work. He said that he agrees with Ms. Frank that terrorism creates fear and panic which is why it is so important to have in place the plans and services on how to respond. Mr. Andrews said that the anthrax attack was a prime example of that situation.

President Silverman expressed appreciation to Dr. Garvey and Ms. Frank for their work and their continuing involvement in the public health of the County residents.

The Vice President in the Chair.

SUBJECT: FY 03 Operating Budget for the Department of Economic Development

The Committee had before it the memorandum and attachments from Legislation Analyst Ferber, dated May 2, 2002.

Councilmember Berlage presented the report of the Planning, Housing, and Economic Development (PHED) Committee.

Mr. Edgerley, Director, Department of Economic Development (DED), commented on the work that has been accomplished successfully during the past year by DED, and discussed the proposal to establish an Intellectual Property Center that would address issues pertaining to the protection, usage, and ethical and societal impact of intellectual property. Mr. Edgerley said that the concept of the Intellectual Property Center is the result of a study conducted by the University of Maryland. He said that the report prepared by the University of Maryland proposed the Intellectual Property Center as a statewide concept.

Councilmember Praisner requested a copy of the report prepared by the University of Maryland concerning the concept of an Intellectual Property Center.

In response to Councilmember Praisner's questions, Mr. Edgerley explained plans to evaluate the Intellectual Property Center with the assistance of an advisory board that will be established. Mr. Edgerley said that he believes the State intends to continue to support this effort in the future.

Mr. Edgerley discussed the rationale for eliminating the Small Business Development Center (SBDC) grant funds in accordance with the information contained on page 7 of the Council Staff memorandum. He noted the assistance to small businesses that will be available from the University of Maryland, as well as from the County's Business Resource Center.

Councilmember Dacek asked about the effect of eliminating the SBDC grant funds on the assistance provided to small business owners in the County, recalling past tours of Damascus at which representatives of DED would speak to small business owners. Mr. Edgerley stated that DED Staff will to continue to provide this service.

Councilmember Ewing expressed concern that the assistance to small business owners will be diminished by the proposed change and indicate a lack of commitment to small businesses. He said that he does not agree with the proposed reductions to the SBDC program.

In discussing the Bankers' Loan Fund, Mr. Edgerley stated that information provided in the Council's packet that indicated a loan activity amount of $5 million was incorrect. In response to concerns expressed by Councilmember Ewing, Mr. Edgerley assured him that the SBDC program would continue to exist in the County and would continue to provide service to small business owners.

Councilmember Dacek discussed the importance of the Equine program to the horse industry in the County, and noted the importance of the Equine Outreach Specialist position which has not been filled because of the County's "freeze" on the filling of new positions. Ms. Dacek urged DED to focus on filling the position, after the six-month delay resulting from increased lapse of .05 workyear, because of the importance of the position to the agricultural community.

Councilmember Praisner suggested filling the Equine Outreach Specialist position under a contractual arrangement, since it has proven difficult to hire a merit system employee for the position. Mr. Edgerley agreed that this would be a feasible option, but requested the flexibility to use the funds for either a merit system or contractual position.

ACTION: Agreed that the Equine Outreach Specialist position could be filled by a merit system or contractual position.

Councilmember Dacek commented on the use of a portion of the $6,710 for the Close Encounters Program that is one of the programs operated by the Cooperative Extension Service. She noted that the funds have been placed on the reconciliation list, and expressed the hope that the Council will fund the Program.

The Council reviewed the information contained on page 11 of the Council Staff memorandum concerning the Committee's recommendation to place the restoration of the following items on the reconciliation list: $14,470 for Montgomery Youth works; $9,220 for Montgomery Life Alliance, and $111,200 for One-Stop Shops (in two parts of $55,600 each). Councilmember Berlage provided additional information concerning these items, and Mr. Edgerley provided background information. Councilmember Praisner commented on the possibility of Federal reductions in funding that might affect these programs, as well as summer youth initiatives. She noted the need to monitor this carefully and if this becomes a reality, to ask Mr. Bialek, Director, Department of Intergovernmental Relations, to bring this to the attention of the Congressional Delegation. On a related issue, Councilmember Praisner stated that funds had been placed on the reconciliation list in two components for programs operated by the Montgomery Work Life Alliance. She said the $20,000 that is listed on line 304 of the reconciliation list is for the Telework Tool Kit Program that has received State recognition. Ms. Praisner said that she believes it would be unfortunate if the Council were unable to fund the continuation and expansion of the Telework Tool Kit Program. She requested that both amounts that were placed on the reconciliation list for the Montgomery Work Life Alliance be funded.

The Council had before it the memorandum and attachments from Ms. Ferber, dated May 2, 2002

Councilmember Berlage presented the PHED Committee report.

Discussion was held concerning the major elements of the civic building, including the attempt being made to design some elements of the building to replace facilities previously located in the Silver Spring Armory.

Mr. Stith, Director, Silver Spring Regional Services Center, responded to Councilmembers' questions regarding the size and use of "The Great Hall" being provided in the civic building to replace the former "Drill Hall"; the size of the civic building as compared to the Armory; and the proposed uses for the civic building.

Councilmember Praisner commented on the need to consider the facade of the building and its relationship to downtown Silver Spring. She emphasized that the entrance to the building should be attractive, blend in with the surrounding community, appear open, and be easily accessed.

Councilmember Praisner reiterated a request she made previously for a list that identifies both the workforce and the location of the workforce in the Silver Spring area. She said that she is concerned about dispersing personnel efficiently.

ACTION: Agreed in concept with the Program of Requirements (POR) for the Silver Spring Civic Building and with the Silver Spring Civic Building Steering Committee's recommendations for priorities for adjustments to the Civic Building POR should the construction cost exceed the $9.4 million budget.

SUBJECT: FY 03 Operating Budget for Montgomery College

The Council had before it the memorandum and attachments from Legislative Analyst Sherer, dated May 2, 2002.

Dr. Nichols, Chair, Board of Trustees of Montgomery College, expressed appreciation for being provided the opportunity to discuss the funding needs of the College. He said that the enrollment of the College is increasing and the students are younger and more diverse requiring more services to be provided. Dr. Nichols said that the Board of Trustees has increased tuition costs in an attempt to respond to reductions in State aid to the College, but the revenue received from this increase is not sufficient to address the problem. He explained the need for additional funds, stating that without them the Board will have to consider serious reductions in programs and services. He requested that the Council support the Committee's recommendations.

Dr. Nunley, President, Montgomery College, stated that an attempt was made to put together a fiscally responsible budget, and a budget was submitted that requested the same dollars per Full Time Equivalent (FTE) student as approved in the FY 02 appropriation. She commented on the loss of anticipated funding from the State, as well as the change in the formula for funding community colleges. She said that the Board of Trustees responded to these loses by increasing the tuition rate an additional $3; a $2 increase had already been presumed. She said that the increase in tuition narrowed the $4.1 million gap by about $1.7 million. Dr. Nunley said that the College still needs the Council's help, and that she strongly supports the Committee's recommendation.

Councilmember Praisner suggested that the Council should take the lead in ensuring adequate State funding for community colleges. In that regard, Ms Praisner said, with the help of Dr. Nunley and Ms. Maden, Montgomery College Staff, she has submitted a proposal to the Maryland Association of Counties (MACo), requesting that MACo focus its legislative initiative for the coming year on the funding needs of both the capital and operating budgets for community colleges. Ms Praisner said she is uncertain whether MACo will select the community college initiative since MACo is limited to only four legislative initiatives. She said that she has invited Dr. Nunley and representatives from the community colleges to the MACo summer conference so they will have the opportunity to discuss community college issues with MACo representatives. Ms. Praisner suggested that the community college initiative be presented as a statewide initiative.

Councilmember Subin, in presenting the Committee report, commented on the increased student enrollment at Montgomery College, the loss of State aid, the effect of this loss in the future because of changes made to the funding formula for community colleges, the adjustments that the College has to make to address the needs of a greater number of full-time students, the technology needs at the College, and his hope that MACo will select community colleges as one of its legislative initiatives next year.

The President in the Chair.

ACTION: Approved the FY 03 Operating Budget for Montgomery College.

The Education Committee made the motion. Councilmembers Praisner and Dacek were temporarily absent.

Councilmember Subin stated that Council Staff has recommended placing on the reconciliation list $50,000 for an ESOL/Literacy Program that would involve an analysis of the extent of the need and where the Program would be housed.

Councilmember Ewing stated that this proposal is endorsed by Councilmembers, the Montgomery County Public Schools, Montgomery College, the United Way, the Literacy Council, and the Business Round Table on Education.

ACTION: Approved placing $50,000 on the reconciliation list for an ESOL/Literacy Program. Councilmembers Praisner and Dacek were temporarily absent.

SUBJECT: County Executive's Budget Adjustments to the FY 03-08 Capital Improvements Program (CIP) of Montgomery College

Councilmember Subin presented the Education Committee report.

Councilmember Andrews stated that he strongly agrees with the Education Committee's recommendations, and commended the College for the good work that it does, including providing an outstanding education to a growing number of County residents. He said that the College also provides direct and indirect benefits to the community through a variety of programs, noting that he recently had the opportunity to attend an interesting program at the College on Genetic Discrimination.

ACTION: Approved the budget adjustments to the FY 03-08 CIP of Montgomery College. Councilmembers Dacek and Praisner were temporarily absent.

The Council recessed at 11:35 A.M. and reconvened at 1:33 P.M. in the Council Hearing Room.

The PHED Committee made the motion.

SUBJECT: FY 03 Operating Budget: Department of Public Works and Transportation (DPWT): Fleet Management Services and Motor Pool Fund Contribution Nondepartmental Account (NDA)

The Council had before it the memorandum and attachments from Legislative Analyst Healy, dated May 3, 2002.

The Council received opening remarks from Mr. Genetti, Director, DPWT, and Ms. Subadan, Chief, Division of Fleet Management Services, on the six-year impact of replacement collections (included on page © 6 of the packet), and on the direction given to the Division to try maintain approximately a one-year replacement cash balance.

Councilmember Leggett, in agreeing with Ms. Subadan, expressed concern about delays in vehicle replacement. He noted that the Council stated last year that it would be necessary to move more aggressively in terms of fleet replacement starting this year to make up the deficit, and that it is still possible to begin to meet this objective if funding for this purpose is included in the budget.

Councilmember Dacek expressed concern that funding for fleet replacement will be reduced again this year, noting that $1.5 million was eliminated from this NDA last year by the Council at the last minute.

ACTION: Agreed to place two increments of $250,000 on the reconciliation list for the Fleet Management Services and Motor Pool Fund Contribution NDA.

Councilmembers Subin, Berlage, and Silverman were temporarily absent.

SUBJECT: FY 03-08 Capital Improvements Program (CIP): Compressed Natural Gas (CNG) Fueling Station

The Council had before it the memorandum and attachments from Legislative Analyst Healy and Deputy Council Director Orlin, dated May 3, 2002, and an addendum memorandum dated May 6, 2002.

The Council discussed with representatives from DPWT the current operations, maintenance, costs, environmental issues, and possible alternatives to CNG buses, and noted that alternative fuel technologies will be available for buses in the future. Mr. Genetti commented that the Department is not advocating a 100% CNG fleet, and that the County is obligated to reduce NOx emissions (nitrogen oxide) by 3.045 tons per day; and that State aid is anticipated . Councilmember Leggett commented that the fleet will remain predominantly diesel even if this proposal is accepted. With regard to the anticipated State aid, Councilmember Leggett said it is appropriate to wait to make a decision until State funds have been appropriated. Mr. Orlin suggested that if the State provides grant funds, the CIP can be amended at that time to incorporate the new source of funds. Councilmember Dacek stated that the Governor indicated the State was prepared to pay for a share of the costs associated with reducing NOx emissions.

Councilmember Andrews said the Department presented a good case for the need for the fast-fill CNG station, and that the Council needs to consider this issue in a broad way. He said he understands the Committee recommendation to approve the slow-fill station. He suggested that this item be deferred until it is determined what funding, if any, will be provided by the State. Councilmember Praisner questioned the ongoing implications of making a decision now on the types of buses to purchase, and that although the Council's budget cycle dictates that decisions must be made, it may not be the appropriate time to resolve this issue.

Councilmember Berlage said the question to consider is whether upcoming new technologies might serve the County better than those being considered today, and that he would spend as little as possible now to be able to make a major investment at a later date.

ACTION: Agreed to defer this item until the end of the budget process.
Councilmember Subin was temporarily absent.

SUBJECT: FY 03 Operating Budget DPWT: Mass Transit, Parking Lot District, and General Funds Operating Budget, Homeowner Association Roads Reimbursement NDA; Community Grants NDA (Olney Boys and Girls Club); FY 03-08 CIP, DPWT: Parking Lot District Project and Other Projects

The Council had before it the memorandum and attachments from Mr. Orlin, dated May 3, 2002.

Mr. Orlin presented the recommendations of the Transportation and Environment (T&E) Committee.

The Council discussed bus service, and Councilmember Dacek expressed the view that the Poolesville route should not be eliminated because the Council made a commitment to serve that area. Ms. Dacek also commented that the Urbana Park and Ride is an important stop, and expressed the hope that the Germantown transportation center will encourage bus ridership. Regarding the possibility of a "meet the MARC " bus route in Garrett Park, Mr. Genetti said that Garrett Park opposed any bus service but that he would contact the Mayor of Garrett Park to encourage support for a bus route. In response to Ms. Dacek's observation that the Germantown MARC station free Ride-On bus is underutilized, DPWT Staff responded that this route is funded by the MARC service.

Councilmember Denis expressed appreciation to the Committee for its support of the Central Business District (CBD) Shuttles.

Councilmember Ewing said that bus riders want comfort, convenience, and frequency of service, particularly during rush hours. He made a motion, duly seconded, to include $1,500,000 on the reconciliation list in three increments of $500,000, for additional peak period service on existing bus routes, to begin in January, 2003.

ACTION: Agreed to add three increments of $500,000 to the reconciliation list for additional peak period bus service on existing bus routes.

Speaking in reference to the "Free Wheeling Days" promotion, Councilmember Silverman expressed interest in extending the promotion to other parts of the County, as was discussed last year if the initial promotion proved successful. He made a motion, duly seconded, to include two increments of $250,000 to extend the "Free Wheeling Days" promotion to more routes on the reconciliation list. After receiving additional information from DPWT Staff later in the meeting that the promotion will stop on June 30 for the Interstate 270 route because funding was not included in the County Executive's budget, Mr. Silverman withdrew his motion. Councilmember Silverman requested DPWT to provide funding options for this promotion for time periods of three, six, and nine months. Councilmember Leggett said that other options regarding the restructuring of fares and the amount of the subsidy need to be considered.

Councilmember Praisner made a motion, duly seconded, to add $50,000 to the reconciliation list to extend the "Kids Ride Free" program to Metrobus. She said that comments were received from young people that they need more access to public transportation, and that she wrote to the Washington Metropolitan Area Transportation Authority (WMATA) requesting that this program be extended, but did not receive a response. Ms. Praisner said it needs to be clear that it is not known how much this program will cost. She suggested this be implemented in the eastern part of the County where there are fewer Ride On buses, but, she expressed the hope that, eventually, this program will be available on Metrobuses throughout the County. Councilmember Berlage said that encouraging young people to use public transportation is a good idea with the hope that they will continue to use transit when they are older.

ACTION: Agreed to place $50,000 to extend the "Kids Ride Free" Metrobus program.

Agreed to place four increments of $300,000 each for the Fare Share/Super Fare Share program on the reconciliation list.

The Council considered the issue of advertising on County buses and shelters and the amount of revenue that it would generate. Councilmember Leggett said that further discussion is needed before any level of revenue is assumed from bus advertising. Councilmember Praisner commented that she does not want to be recorded in support of the Committee recommendation to assume $500,000 in advertising revenue because there are legal considerations that need to be resolved.

Regarding the Call-n-Ride program, Councilmember Praisner said there is confusion among citizens because departmental responsibility for the program is not designated, and expressed hope that the T&E and the Health and Human Services (HHS) Committees would continue to address the need for a "one stop shop" for transportation programs, particularly for seniors.

Councilmember Berlage spoke in support of increasing parking rates in North Bethesda to 40¢/hour and to $75 for a monthly pass. He said that this increase would generate additional revenue, and is justified. He made a motion, duly seconded, to raise the long-term parking rate to 40¢/hour and to increase the monthly pass to $75.

Councilmember Leggett expressed the view that the rate increase is substantial, and that he and Councilmember Ewing recommended increasing the cost of the monthly parking pass in two steps: to $55 in FY 03 and then to $65 in FY 04; and to increase the long-term parking rate from 25¢/hour to 35¢/hour for FY 03. Councilmember Berlage noted that parking rates in Silver Spring are either the same or higher.

Councilmember Praisner expressed support for the motion because the Council has been a strong advocate of the North Bethesda Transportation Management District (TMD).

ACTION: Agreed to increase the long-term and monthly parking rates in North Bethesda to 40¢ per hour and the monthly pass to $75:

YEAS: Andrews, Dacek, Praisner, Berlage, Silverman
NAYS: Subin, Denis, Leggett, Ewing.

Agreed (as part of the $1.2 million above) to show a $350,000 transfer from the Bethesda Parking District to the Mass Transit Fund, to fund Bethesda's Fare Share and Super Fare Share programs. (The second piece would be $250,000.)

Speaking in reference to the General Fund-Transportation recommendation that would delete the Chief of Design position, Councilmember Dacek cautioned that the elimination of this position would result in slower implementation rates for new roads. Councilmember Praisner said she shares Ms. Dacek's concern regarding this position. Ms. Dacek expressed appreciation to the Division of Highway Services for the good job being done on cleaning up rural and rustic roads.

Regarding Graffiti Abatement Partners, Inc. (GRAB), Councilmember Praisner commented that when GRAB was created, the assumption was that the agencies would contribute to GRAB, to work more collectively to fund activities that would have been done within individual departments. She expressed concern that the impression is left that the Council is asked to subsidize GRAB. Ms. Praisner said that graffiti is becoming an increasing problem in the County, and expressed the hope that in the future, GRAB will not have to ask for funding and that agencies will make contributions to this effort as was originally intended.

Councilmember Dacek expressed concern that most of the funding for street/sidewalk services was spent in the Silver Spring area, because many other communities and subregional centers have expressed concern about receiving these services. She said that either more funding needs to be appropriated to provide services to other areas in the County or steps need to be taken to ensure that areas other than Silver Spring receive service within budget limits. Ms. Dacek made a motion, duly seconded to include two increments of $56,000 on the reconciliation list to provide additional street/sidewalk services to other areas. Councilmember Praisner said she supports Ms. Dacek's motion and staff's recommendation that a way to monitor services provided be developed to address this as a separate item in the budget, and that it would be useful to have an accounting of what centers meet the established criteria and what services the County is planning to deliver in town center areas. She said there was considerable interest in the Germantown area, and that she believes services should be provided there, especially as the Germantown Town Center is being developed.

ACTION: Agreed to add two increments of $56,000 to the reconciliation list for street/sidewalk services.

Regarding the Homeowners' Association Road Maintenance Reimbursement NDA, Mr. Orlin commented that there are 40 eligible miles, rather than 49 as included in the County Executive's budget, which would make the Committee's and County Executive's recommendation the same at $30,910.

ACTION: Agreed to add $30,910 to the reconciliation list for Homeowners' Association Road Maintenance Reimbursement NDA.

Councilmember Silverman commented regarding the addition of $160,000 to the reconciliation list for the Community Grants NDA for a traffic signal at the entrance to the new Olney Boys and Girls Club, that the reason this request came so late was that it was thought the Club could obtain a line of credit for funding, but that the extension of additional credit was contingent on the provision of the traffic signal, and tied into whether they would be able to open their summer camps. Councilmember Praisner said it needs to be clear that the County is not funding traffic lights on State roads, and that the State must first agree that a traffic signal is necessary.

Regarding the FY 03-08 CIP for Parking Lot District Projects, Councilmember Leggett expressed concern about the cost of signage for the Bethesda Wayfinding project, and received information from DPWT Staff that this signage is necessary to meet design standards.

ACTION: Approved the FY 03-08 CIP: Parking Lot District projects and other projects.

SUBJECT: Legislative Session

See the legislative journal of this date for the minutes of the legislative session.

MFP ITEM 7
May 1, 2002
Worksession

MEMORANDUM

TO: Management and Fiscal Policy Committee

FROM: Michael Faden, Senior Legislative Attorney

SUBJECT: Worksession: Bill 9-01, County Employees - Collective Bargaining Units

Background Councilmembers Subin, Council President Ewing, and Councilmembers Leggett, Berlage, Denis, Silverman, and Andrews introduced Bill 9-01, County Employees - Collective Bargaining Units on February 27, 2001. A public hearing was held on March 20, 2001, and an initial Committee worksession was held on April 25, 2001.

As introduced, Bill 9-01 would move certain employees into the County employees collective bargaining units by repealing the current law's exemptions for temporary, seasonal, or substitute employees; highly paid (Grade 27+) non-supervisory employees; and certain non-merit employees who are not department heads or deputies. For a list of currently exempt employees, see the excerpt from the County Code on ©5-7.

At the public hearing the only speakers represented the Municipal and County Government Employees Organization (MCGEO). See testimony, ©10-11. While Executive branch staff did not testify at the hearing, the Office of Human Resources (OHR) did respond later to questions posed by Council staff when the bill was introduced (see ©28-30). Just before the April 2001 worksession OMB submitted a fiscal impact statement, which estimated the cost of implementing this bill, if it results in extending health benefits to certain temporary employees, at about $900,000, and the economic impact on affected County employees (union dues or service fees paid) at about $250,000 (see ©31-33). The fiscal impact estimate does not include any salary increase that might be necessary to attract applicants to fill certain jobs affected by this bill; for arguable examples of this effect, see the emails on ©23-24 and 26.

Outreach Shortly before the hearing, Council staff notified County employees of this bill by email (see ©8) and sent postcards (see ©9) to about 2700 temporary, seasonal, and substitute employees (all those who received a County paycheck during the previous year). Response to these notices was uniformly negative, as the sample letters and emails on ©12-27 indicate; only one affected employee, a telephone caller, supported the bill without reservation. However, MCGEO attributed the negative response to the wording of the notice.

Activity after Committee worksession After the April 2001 worksession MCGEO's attorney submitted a memo on the issue of standards for accretion to the bargaining unit and related issues (see ©36-42). Council staff distilled the Committee members' remaining questions into a memo to OHR and MCGEO (see ©43-44). Both parties responded in detail (see ©45-48 for MCGEO, ©49-54 for OHR). In addition, Sheila Sprague of the Office of Intergovernmental Relations (OIR) submitted a letter, proposing that upper-level OIR staff be exempted from the bargaining unit (see ©55-56). Finally, after conferring extensively with the Executive branch and MCGEO, Councilmember Denis, lead member for personnel issues, drafted a set of amendments -- essentially a substitute bill -- for the Committee to consider (see ©57-63).

Issues/pending amendment

This section of our memo will consider the issues raised by the bill as introduced and how Councilmember Denis' amendments would resolve those issues.

1) How many employees, in which job classifications, would be added to the bargaining units?

As introduced, the bill would bring 3 types of employees into the County employees collective bargaining units. Below are the categories, some subcategories and typical jobs, and approximate number of employees in each category (as estimated by OHR last year):

Temporary, seasonal, or substitute employees	2700
Minimum wage job classes (S1-S8; see ©35)	2250
(typical job: recreation/aquatics assistant, library page)
Bargaining unit job classes	410
(typical job: seasonal highway construction supervisor, substitute nurse, librarian)
Non-supervisory Grade 27 and up[1]	54
(typical job: DIST programmer)

At the hearing MCGEO's President, Gino Renne, noted that many employees in this category who are in sensitive job classes can still be individually excluded from the bargaining unit by action of the OHR Director. His reason for wanting to cover them in this bill is to protect them from being excluded from the bargaining unit solely because of a reclassification or promotion.

Non-merit employees who are not department heads or deputies 0

Executive and Council staff have not identified anyone who would fall into this category. Many non-merit employees are in completely exempt offices, such as the Executive's, Chief Administrative Officer's, and Council offices, and virtually all other non-merit employees are exempt because they are supervisors. In addition, under the current law (see ©2, lines 5-6) the bargaining unit consists only of merit system employees, so the only apparent effect of this amendment (©2, lines 10-11) is to delete an error or anomaly from the law.

[1]Supervisors in all grades would still be exempt. See (S) on ©6.

Denis amendment: This amendment would add the following employees to the bargaining units:

- employees in positions classified in grade 27 or higher which before July 1, 2002, had been classified below grade 27 -- see (P) on ©60;
- temporary, seasonal, and substitute employees who work more than 6 months in a bargaining unit job class (now estimated to be about 470 employees) -- see (H) on ©58 and §33-105(c)(1) on ©60-61; and
- temporary, seasonal, and substitute employees who are not in bargaining unit job classes and who work at least 25 hours per pay period -- see §33-105(c)(2) on ©61 and §33-107(b) on ©63. This group includes what are usually considered the truly seasonal employees -- for example, the lifeguards, recreation workers, and leaf collectors. Two special provisions would apply to these "limited-scope" employees: they would be assessed lower union dues or service fees (see §33-105(c)(2)(B) on ©61), and the scope of bargaining for them would be limited essentially to wages (see §33-107(b) on ©63).

In Council staff's view, the first two groups are the most defensible inclusions, especially if the inclusion is accomplished by accretion (see next issue). These are the exempt employees who most closely resemble covered employees, and who have the fewest substantive reasons to be excluded. The inclusion of employees who are reclassified to grade 27 or higher after the bill takes effect responds to MCGEO's "grade creep" argument. However, these groups include many of the people who expressed strong opposition to membership in the bargaining unit (see e.g. ©12-17, 25).[2] The "limited-scope" seasonal employees -- such as lifeguards, recreation workers, leaf collectors -- who are classified in the Minimum Wage/Seasonal Salary Schedule (see ©35) arguably have a more remote relationship to current bargaining unit members, although MCGEO points out that they work with and are supervised by bargaining unit members.

2) Should the affected employees be able to vote on joining a bargaining unit?

In other words, should this bill amend County Code §33-106 to apply the petition and election procedures to substantial additions to a bargaining unit as well as certification and decertification of the bargaining agent? Normally employees are put in a collective bargaining unit only if they vote to do so or otherwise register their desire to be subject to collective bargaining. For example, the initial certification of a bargaining agent under the County employees collective bargaining law[3] requires "the uncoerced signatures of thirty (30) percent of the employees within the unit signifying their desire to be represented by the employee organization for purposes of collective bargaining." After those signatures are validated, an election is held among "all eligible employees" and they are incorporated in a bargaining unit only by majority vote.

[2]Committee members may recall that the law does not require a bargaining unit member to be a member of MCGEO, but instead the employee must pay an agency fee unless exempt on religious grounds (see County Code §33-104(c)-(d), and definition of agency shop in §33-102(1) on ©5).

[3]County Code §33-106(a)(1).

By contrast, this bill would absorb covered employees in a bargaining unit by legislative fiat. (Before the Council in Bill 10-00 took a similar action to place police sergeants in the police bargaining unit, the applicable union, the Fraternal Order of Police, had already enrolled a majority of the affected employees as non-represented members.) When the only available gauge of employee sentiment -- communication with the Council -- runs almost unanimously against bargaining unit membership, that fact would seem to warrant greater legislative caution.

MCGEO argues that conducting a petition drive or an election among a shifting group of temporary, seasonal employees could be difficult or impractical. If so, that would raise the question whether it makes sense to place this employee group in a bargaining unit -- i.e., whether these employees have the requisite community of interest. In staff's view, the nature of the employee group governs both questions equally. OHR concluded that the reasons for excluding these employees from the bargaining units are still valid (see ©28, 49-51).

Denis amendment: This amendment would automatically include covered employees in the bargaining unit. For the smaller group of employees who are most like current bargaining unit members, in Council staff's view the community of interest is clearer and the objections to accretion by legislation lose much of their force. The same cannot easily be said for the larger group of "true seasonal" employees, who would be represented only for wages and would pay reduced dues (although the exact size of the reduction is determined by the union).

3) Should short-term employees be treated like other temporary employees for collective bargaining purposes?

OHR makes a case that the "true seasonal" employees either should not be merged into the bargaining unit, or should be represented only for purposes of bargaining wages (see ©29). As OHR also notes, wage increases are always passed through to these and other unrepresented employees. Council staff agrees with OHR that seasonal employees hired for a truly short term (e.g., less than 90 days) should be excluded from bargaining even if seasonal employees as a class are included. Excluding these employees (e.g. lifeguards, summer camp aides) would simplify the County's personnel administration and narrow the issue (discussed below) of proration of dues and service fees. The strongest argument for including them in a bargaining unit is their "free rider" status vis-à-vis wage adjustments, but in staff's view that argument carries less weight for truly transient workers.

Denis amendment: Includes in the bargaining unit, for wage bargaining only, short-term temporary, seasonal, and substitute employees who are not in bargaining unit job classes. Those employees become members of the bargaining unit when their County employment begins if they are scheduled to work at least 25 hours a pay period (assuming that the union has met the condition of reducing their dues commensurate with its narrower scope of representational responsibilities).

4) Should temporary, seasonal, or substitute employees be treated the same as other bargaining unit members for negotiation of employee benefits? Should the collective bargaining law limit benefits for short-term employees?

OHR proposed that these employees be represented only for bargaining wages (see ©29). OMB estimated the cost of providing health benefits to 50% of the eligible temporary employees at about $360,000 (the S series of minimum wage job classes on ©35) and about $425,000 for temporary employees in the bargaining unit classes. See fiscal estimate, ©32.

Denis amendment: This amendment does not restrict the scope of bargaining for those temporary, seasonal, and substitute employees in bargaining unit job classes, except that their probation period -- or any other employee's -- cannot be reduced below 6 months (see ©62-63), and they cannot be bargained into the current retirement systems or be eligible for binding grievance arbitration (see §33-107(a)(2) and (5) on ©62). It does limit the scope of bargaining for "true seasonal" employees to wages (see ©63).

5) Should dues or service fee payments be prorated for short-term employees? For low-paid employees?

As a number of affected employees noted (see letters, ©12-27), their already low pay would be made more regressive if union dues (or the alternative service fee) were withheld at the current rate, which is $12 a pay period. The County collective bargaining law does not govern the level of dues and service fees, and last year's MCGEO contract amendments deleted any mention of the amount of dues from the collective bargaining agreement. Thus the only constraints on the level of dues are the union members' willingness to re-elect its leadership or decertify the bargaining agent. However, the law could condition coverage of this particular group of employees on limiting (by dollar amount or percent of hourly wage) the amount of dues they would be charged. Federal labor law contains ample precedent for this kind of employee protection: the Taft-Hartley Act defines charging an excessive or discriminatory fee as a condition of union membership as a union unfair labor practice, and the Landrum-Griffin Act requires certain procedural safeguards before a union can raise dues, fees or assessments. MCGEO continues to maintain that members' dues are not a proper subject of legislation (see ©42, 46). In addition, depending on the scope of bargaining allowed for each group of temporary employees, it may be difficult to justify collecting full union dues or fees for less-than-full representation.

Denis amendment: Requires the union to reduce dues and service fees for "limited-scope" bargaining unit members commensurate with its narrower scope of representational responsibilities, but does not prescribe the exact amount to be reduced. Does not, for example, adjust the amount of dues charged to part-time or short-term employees based on the ratio of $312 (the current full amount of annual dues) to the average salary of represented employees.

6) Should OIR employees be excluded from the bargaining unit?

Sheila Sprague's letter on ©55 raises the issue whether Office of Intergovernmental Relations (OIR) employees, above grade 27 or generally, should be excluded from the bargaining units. Denis amendment: does not address this issue. Council staff recommendation: exclude all OIR employees from the bargaining process. In our view, OIR is a small, specialized office, whose employees are involved in sensitive policy issues and have a unique relationship to elected officials, much like the Council staff, the Executive's office, and OMB, all of whose employees are entirely exempt from bargaining unit coverage.

7) When should this bill take effect?

Denis amendment: Essentially follows OHR's suggestion on ©29 to let the parties negotiate a transitional agreement covering temporary, seasonal, and substitute employees once this bill becomes law. Employees would become bargaining unit members (if they qualify by length of service) when the bill takes effect, 90 days after the Executive signs it. (See ©63.)

The Management and Fiscal Policy Committee of the County Council will hold a worksession on Bill 9-01 on April 25 at 2:00 p.m. in the 7th floor hearing room of the Council Office Building. This worksession had been tentatively scheduled for April 20.

Bill 9-01 would move certain employees who are currently not covered by collective bargaining into the County employees collective bargaining units. The bill does this by repealing the current law's exemptions for temporary, seasonal, or substitute employees; highly paid (Grade 27+) non-supervisory employees; and certain non-merit employees who are not department heads or deputies.

For further information or to confirm the Committee schedule, please call (240) 777-7900.

Dear Montgomery County Temporary, Seasonal, or Substitute Employee:

A bill pending before the County Council, Bill 9-01, would move temporary, seasonal, and substitute employees, who currently are not covered by collective bargaining, into the County employees collective bargaining units. If this bill is enacted, affected employees would be represented for collective bargaining purposes by the Municipal and County Government Employees Organization (MCGEO), and could be assessed dues or a service fee by MCGEO.

The public hearing record on this bill is open until April 10. Written comments from employees and all others are welcome. Comments can be sent to the Council President at the address on the front of this card, or by e-mail to county.council@co.mo.md.us. The Council's Management and Fiscal Policy Committee is scheduled to consider Bill 9-01 on April 20 at 2 p.m. For further information, please call the Council's Legislative Information Service at (240) 777-7910.

County Council

Montgomery County Maryland

My name is Carey R. Butsavage of the law firm Butsavage & Associates of Washington, D.C. I am counsel for UFCW, Local 1994.

We appreciate and welcome this opportunity to address the County Council concerning the proposed amendment to the Collective Bargaining Law (33-101) to include temporary, seasonal and substitute employees in the currently authorized collective bargaining units. For the reasons set out below, we strongly believe that the proposed amendment will provide substantial benefits to the County, the affected employees and the citizens of Montgomery County.

We believe that since the passage of the initial Collective Bargaining law in 1986, there has been a growing sense and recognition that there is a substantial portion of this nation's work force that has been neglected, overlooked and taken for granted. That group includes the kind of temporary, seasonal and substitute workers employed in Montgomery County. It is the case in many State, County and municipal jurisdictions and it is certainly the case in the Private Sector. It is time that the individuals who comprise that group and provide the citizens of Montgomery County with valuable services are represented. Those workers help to make Montgomery County one of the best places to live in this nation, and they should have a seat at the collective bargaining table.

Under the current system, there are approximately 2,000 to 2,400 people who make up the temporary. seasonal and substitute work force in this County. The tasks they perform and services they provide are both varied and vital. They are the individuals who staff Park and Recreation facilities in the Summer, so that families and individuals can enjoy the many amenities that Department provides. They collect the leaves and beautify our roadways so as to make our County a more pleasing and attractive place to live. Across the spectrum of County services, they are the substitute workers who ensure that our citizens' services remain uninterrupted and undiminished due to sickness, vacations or temporary unavailability in the regular work force. In short, they perform many of the services, often working side-by-side with Union workers, that help make this County such a desirable place to live.

Unfortunately, however, it is our view that the workers who provide this County and all of its citizens with the foregoing services have too often been overlooked, neglected and taken for granted. This is particularly evident, we submit, in their continuing exclusion from the enjoying the rights and benefits of collective bargaining.

Thus, under the current system, which excludes temporary, seasonal and substitute employees, the simple fact of the matter is that all of the thousands of workers cited above are wholly without the benefits, advantages and protections of collective bargaining and representation. In this regard, they have no collective voice to speak on their behalf in terms of their wages, hours and working conditions. They have no meaningful avenue to present grievances or have them adjusted and resolved. Even when they are terminated, they have only partial rights to challenge that action. In short, in terms of having a meaningful say in their work lives and being treated with the dignity and respect that is accorded their colleagues who work for this County, the temporary, seasonal and substitute employees are effectively treated as second class citizens and employees. In light of the first class services they provide and the first class contribution to the County that they make to the County their exclusion from collective bargaining rights is an inequity that should no longer be visited upon them.

We urge prompt approval of the proposed amendment.

MEMORANDUM

April 4, 2001

TO: Blair Ewing, President
Montgomery County Council

FROM: Elizabeth C. Notter, Highway Inspector
Division of Highway Services
Department of Public Works and Transportation

SUBJECT: Bill 9-01

I am sending this letter to the entire County Council, with only non-substantive modifications. My family and I are registered and voting Montgomery County Democrats, and I am a retired professional County employee. I returned to work as a temporary employee to supplement my income due to a family medical situation. At my current salary level, any additional levy on my check would be difficult. Many of my coworkers experience the same kinds of problems.

I understand that MCGEO has argued that increases in costs of living and other benefits derive from the union's efforts. However, management staff, as well as retirees and other non-union employees, enjoy these same increases without the comparable payment of dues or a "service" charge to the union that this bill would require. If temporary and/or seasonal workers must become union members and pay a "service" charge, it is only fair that all other classes should pay the same "service" charge, since they all benefit equally (except of course for the fact that most are currently receiving full benefits). Why should those with the least support those with the most?

If there is some belief that the union might negotiate for temporary employees any of the benefits such as health insurance, vacation, paid holidays, sick leave, etc., which none of us have under our current status, please consider the chances of changing the current personnel regulations, and adding sufficient funding to cover any or all of these benefits in this time of fiscal concern and highly reduced budgets. As I noted earlier, the union will claim that their negotiation of cost-of-living increases is a benefit for which we should pay. If so, so should everyone! Consider this: employees who earn $10.23/hour for six months will have to work for 1 ½ hours each pay period for the union, in return for benefits as yet unnamed, to be determined in a contract as yet unwritten. This is not fair.

I, and others to whom I've spoken, believe the impacts, fiscal and administrative, of this legislation have been underestimated, and, in some cases, entirely overlooked. The representatives of the classes affected feel strongly that no benefits will accrue to their groups from such coverage, and that they are being treated unfairly under this legislation.

When made aware of the bill, the temporary/seasonal inspectors with whom I spoke expressed very negative opinions on becoming union members. None had been contacted for input or opinion by the union in advance of this bill's submittal to the County Council. Some of us feel that the bill has been written in a vacuum, without any input either from those to be acted upon, or those who must administer the programs in which the employees work. We believe that the County Council cannot, in good conscience, act on a bill the details of which have not been shared with those affected, and the ramifications of which have not been examined.

I hope to attend the work session, although I would like to understand more clearly before that time how your sponsorship decision on this bill was reached.

I do appreciate your attention to this letter. I am not speaking only for myself.

To Whom It May Concern

I wish to state my objection to the inclusion of temporary employees in (MCGEO). I retired after over 31 years as a County employee and was asked to come back to work part time in another agency.

I have worked there for 4 years on a part time basis no more than 20hrs a week. As a retired employee I receive no other benefits that an hourly wage.

I feel that inclusion in the union would be of no benefit to me and would result in me working one hour per pay period for the union. As far as I can determine no temporary, seasonal and/or substitute employee have requested or have been asked if they wanted to be included in this union.

I do not think this would be fair to me or other temporary employees to include our positions.

Re: Bill 9-01 County Employees-Collective Bargaining Units

I have received the post card sent to inform me that the Council is considering the referenced bill to move temporary, seasonal, and substitute employees, currently not covered by collective bargaining, into the County employees collective bargaining units. I am opposed to this proposed action by the Council.

I am currently a temporary, seasonal employee working as a Highway Construction Inspector 1 for the Division of Highway Services. I have been employed at this position since 1997. At the beginning of each construction season, I am hired as a new employee and at the end of the construction season I am terminated.

If the Municipal and County Government Employees Organization is so interested in our welfare, why don't they ask the County government to hire more full time employees instead of relying on staffing by using temporary, seasonal personnel. Then they can have more members to pay dues or fees instead of trying to force people into their organization who have not asked to join.

I realize that if we are made a part of the MCGEO they will bargain with the County Executive for benefits for us. However, I don't believe that we would be consulted on proposed benefits that the MCGEO would bargain for with the County Executive, especially since we weren't asked if we wanted to be included in a union. I can't imagine what types of benefits that we would receive since I and other inspectors at Highway Services are hired and terminated after working anywhere from eight to ten months depending on the weather and funding. Will the Finance Office be able to keep up with the changes in our status or the status of the hundreds of people that are employed for shorter periods? Will the Council find adequate funding for these additional expenses especially since you are currently considering raising taxes and fees to fund the next budget shortfall between the amount that the County Executive wants to spend and the Council's spending priorities.

I'm afraid that the temporary, seasonal employees will end up with little or no benefits and will be forced to pay MCGEO for the privilege of working for Montgomery County.

I also want express my disappointment at the way this Bill 9-01 has been introduced and the lack of notice for the public hearing that was held on March 20th. If the Council or the MCGEO were concerned with the welfare and interests of the temporary, seasonal and substitute employees, someone should have had the courtesy to notify those most affected of this proposed action. Instead the Bill was introduced by the sponsors and the only group that spoke at the meeting was the MCGEO which wrote the measure to begin with. We were notified by post card mailed three days afterwards that this Bill has been proposed and now was in the comment period. In addition, the Bill was not posted on the Council web site so anyone interested in learning of the provisions of the Bill could not get any information.

The sponsors of the Bill have the reputation of addressing and providing remedies for constituent concerns. Various members of the sponsoring council member have introduced Bills in the name of constituent services to deny monies to organizations that permit gun shows; restricting the activities of long established companies to lessen the noise and dirt that new homeowners adjacent to an existing quarry and public road have to endure; permitted municipalities in the county to pass laws restricting the use of tobacco in their jurisdiction or requiring homeowners to remove snow from the sidewalks in front of their homes. All these measures have a constituency and urgency that various Council members felt they have to address.

What is the constituency that this Bill addresses and is to serve? Certainly it is not the many temporary, seasonal and substitute employees who work for the County often at wages slightly above the federal minimum.

I have been a resident of this County since 1967 and have paid a lot of money to the County in the form of income and property taxes. Can the leadership of MCGEO say the same?

I am a retired school nurse currently working part time in the school Health Services Center. I was very upset to learn of the upcoming Bill 9-01 that would force temporary employees such as I to be members of the union (MCGEO) and be assessed dues or fees for something I do not wish to be a part of. I do not earn much money as I work only a few hours each week and it would be unfair to deduct union dues from my meager paycheck. Please do not allow this bill to pass.

Dear Mr. Ewing:

I am writing as a Montgomery County Temporary Seasonal employee who wishes to request the Council not make Temporary Seasonal employees join the MCGEO. I have worked for Montgomery County for three years now and would like to become a permanent employee who would have no problem joining the union at that time, however, as a Temporary Seasonal employee I must purchase my own health insurance plan, retirement, and save for the time I am out of work. I should not be burdened with union dues too. The cost of dues would be difficult to bear and is taxation without representation. The union would do nothing for me.

As someone who supervises contractors, I feel it would be a poor management move as well. The union tends to protect people who do not want to work. Being a union member, it would be difficult to weed out poor workers. The short season to accomplish the much needed work of the Sidewalk and Driveway program, would be burdened with further delays if my supervisor hires an individual who becomes complacent or an attendance problem. Please do not make their job more difficult.

Thank you for considering my request.

Dear Mr. Ewing and other members of the Montgomery County Council,

I am opposed to Bill 9-01 pending before the Council. This appears to be an attempt by MCGEO to enrich the union coffers at the expense of temporary, seasonal and substitute employees, who are most unlikely to achieve any benefit through collective bargaining.

It is my understanding that a hearing has been held before the Council where no representatives from the affected categories, nor anyone on their behalf, gave testimony about this legislation. Only the union side was represented.. I have been unable even to determine what the details of this legislation are.

? What is the proposed fee structure and how would it be assessed from employees who are with the county for obviously short-term and intermittent employment?

? What does MCGEO expect to offer them as benefits?

? What specific representations have the union made that show a benefit for these employees?

Without such specific information available for public comment how can the Council possibly consider this bill fair or responsible? I hope that each council member will think hard about the implications of passing legislation so unfair to those it employs. The County should serve as a model employer

To: County Council President

As a substitute shelving assistant (formerly known as "page") at the Rockville Library, recently I received notification of a public hearing on your proposed Bill 9-01. I have been working at minimum wage since 1996, so I am profoundly interested in your proposals.

However, I am mystified by the wording. The concept of imposing a particular bargaining agent without an affirmative vote of those affected is very bizarre to say the least. To assess dues again without consent of a majority sounds like company shops of the 1800s.

I am delighted with the prospect of collective bargaining. I would like to hear what MCGEO proposes., Other unions should also be invited to present proposals. The areas of pay scales, vacation time, health benefits, working conditions, transfers etc., are some of the concerns, I feel , of all substitute workers. And for all shelving assistants, substitute and regular, who now work at minimum wage, what relief will the bargaining agent provide to bring us closer to living wage?

Please share my concerns with other council members.

My address is 701 Roxboro, Rockville 20850; tele. 301-762-3001.

Dear Mr. Ewing,

I am a temporary part time employee at the Commission For Women. Last week I received a card from the Union informing me of their intention to include part time and temporary employees as part of the Union.

I am completely opposed to Union membership and to being forced to pay dues. I work 8 hours a week have no benefits and no leave. There is no benefit to joining the Union. As an 8 hour a week employee, I will never receive a benefit and will be forced into a reduction in salary or resigning from my position prior to the action. Being a Union member is a liability. The Commission for Women Counselors all work part time. This action will cause major recruiting problems and jeapordize the community counseling program provided by the Commission for Women.

I would appreciate your assistance in protecting my rights to work independently from the union.

Please let me know if there are other actions I need to take or other people I should contact.

Sincerely,
Nancy Abramson

Subject: Bill 9-01 is a bad idea

Dear Sir:

We understand that County Council Bill 9-01, currently being considered, would force seasonal employees into the County employees collective bargaining unit. We have been the parent representatives for the Poolesville Swim Team in the Montgomery County Swim League for the last 5 seasons. We are opposed to this bill which would adversely affect the operation of the swim team and pool. Every year MCRD has a hard time recruiting qualified staff to handle the swim team coaching responsibilities. The pay at county pools does not compare very well with that which is available at private pools and this bill would further increase the pay differential and make this task even more difficult.

The main effect of this bill if passed will be to fund the union on the backs of temporary workers while making it harder to fill county pool jobs - before you vote on this bill ask MCRD about their chronic problems in recruiting adequate numbers of life guards and other pool workers to meet the need. Beyond numbers, it is also difficult to find quality employees who can capably uphold their responsibilities. With a decline in take home pay attributable to union fees, these problems will increase and the quality of service provided to pool patrons will further decline which will eventually have an adverse impact on pool patronage .

This bill is inadvised and will have a negative impact on the operation of county pools and the swim teams which are associated with those

Dear Councilmembers,

I am a grade 27 career employee with 15 years of service with the County. I work for the Department of Information Systems and Telecommunications as a Computer Systems Programmer. I am writing this e-mail to state my objection to being forced to join the union. My reasons include the following:
I Have been at the top of my grade for several years. My only salary increase has been a percentage of the COLA every year. I have nothing to gain with any salary negotiations MCGEO enters into with the County. If there were ever any personal issues between the County and myself I would go to the Merit Protection Board. I don't need union protection. Forcing me to join the union will change the membership group in my retirement plan from Non-represented to Represented without my consent. Although this doesn't appear to alter my retirement benefits yet, it has the possibility of doing so in the future. In the past any changes to an employees retirement plan has been grandfathered and is an employee option. My County Retirement Plan is very important to me and is one of the many reasons I stayed with the County. Finally there's the matter of being forced to pay union dues. Since I will derive no benefits from joining the union, this is little more than a forced pay cut. Given the fact that I only get a reduced cost of living increase every year as it is, decreasing my salary further by taking out money to hand over to the union is an additional burden to me.

To summarize, what I see here is a bill that will force me to join a union which offers me no salary benefits and no personal negotiating benefits with the County. A bill that could possibly alter my retirement plan. And finally, a bill that will force me to support a union with money that I see as being garnished from my salary.

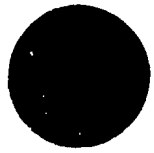
I am responding to the postcard I received regarding Bill 9-01. I think, if I am reading the information correctly, that assessing dues or service fees to employees who don't voluntarily want to be covered by the collective bargaining units, would deter a large portion of your part time and seasonal employees from seeking further employment from the County. I think that your recreational programs would be deeply wounded, due to the fact that a large number of the employees that fill these positions are college and high school students working as a summer job. The part time wage competition also comes into play. The average wage being paid to these summer workers, is right around the lower end of the pay scale, then to pay extra fees or dues on top of that, wouldn't be very prudent.

I know that I personally will no longer offer my services to the county as a temporary employee when asked. I have a regular full time job, and would not need, nor want to pay the fees to be covered under this unit. I only work for the county, when asked and needed, for an approximate total of 40 to 50 hours per year. The passing of this bill would give me the absolute reason for saying no to the hours.



Thank you for your time and consideration

MEMORANDUM

April 23, 2001

TO: Michael Faden, Senior Legislative Attorney

FROM: Marta Brito Perez, Director Office of Human Resources

SUBJECT: Issues List - County Employees- Collective Bargaining Units

The following is a response to the several questions that you raised in your February 23, 2001 correspondence concerning the above referenced Bill.

1. How many employees, in which job classifications, would be affected?

Data concerning the affected job classes was transmitted to the Council Staff Director on April 9, 2001.

2. What were the original reasons for excluding these classes of employees from the bargaining unit?

Historically, temporary employees have been excluded from collective bargaining because various forms of compensation, insurance, retirement, leave benefits, and other subjects that are negotiable under the collective bargaining law were not extended to temporary employees. Also, the limited, transient nature of temporary positions did not focus concern for working conditions. Moreover, the County did not deem it prudent to make the significant fiscal investment required by collective bargaining for employees who, by the nature of their appointment, did not have a career focus in County employment. Finally, these benefits have not been extended to temporary employees of other local governments in this region.

Are those reasons still valid?

Yes, for the most part the incumbents of temporary positions remain transient in nature. 1600 of the seasonal employees (S1-S8 job classes) that approximate 2300 of the 2700 temporary employees have two seasonal years or less with the County. It is also important to note that the wage rates for temporary employees have increased as the product of "pass through."

3. Should short term employees (e.g., less than 90 days) be treated like other employees for collective bargaining purposes?

The average number of hours worked for the seasonal classes (S1-S8) last year were 302, which approximates 40 workdays. Extending traditional bargaining rights to these employees will pose tracking and transitional issues that will increase administrative costs associated with benefit eligibility and accrual. In addition, as noted above there is minimal focus on a long-term employment relationship. For these reasons the practicality of extending collective bargaining rights, if at all, should be limited solely to wages.

Temporaries in existing bargaining unit classes number about 400 and on average worked 600 hours last year which approximates 75 work days. While many of the same tracking and transitional problems will exist with this group, the number of employees in these job classes will significantly diminish such issues. Nevertheless, the limited number of workdays that these employees worked last year exemplifies the temporary nature of their work and lack of a career focus. These job classes should also have limited bargaining rights.

4. Should dues or service fee payments be prorated for short-term employees? For lower paid employees?

This is a question for the Union to answer.

5. Should this Bill, if enacted, take effect on July 1, when the next collective bargaining agreement for these units takes effect? If not, will incorporating these employees into a bargaining unit during the current agreement affect their salaries or benefits?

The bill could take effect on or after July 1; however, as noted below, application of the new agreements does not extend to temporary employees.

In reference to the second question, the new collective bargaining agreements would not have application to the newly accreted job classes. The recognition article of the agreements extends the benefits of the collective bargaining agreement to "any person who works under the County government merit system on a continuous full-time, or career part-time career basis in the certified bargaining unit." Since the agreements are between the Executive and the Certified Representative, the Council has no authority to amend the agreements. However, the Council through legislative amendment may adopt transitional language that would permit the parties to negotiate a transitional agreement until such time as the accreted employees are folded into the agreement for the collective bargaining units.

6. Should temporary, seasonal, or substitute employees be treated the same as other bargaining unit members for negotiation of employee benefits? Should collective bargaining law restrict access to benefits for short-term employees?

See response to question # 3.

If there are any questions concerning this matter please contact Jim Torgesen, 7-5050.

MEMORANDUM

April 24, 2001

TO: Blair G. Ewing, Council President
Montgomery County Council

VIA: Bruce Romer
Chief Administrative Officer

FROM: Robert K. Kendal, Director
Office of Management and Budget

SUBJECT: Council Bill 9-01, County Employees – Collective Bargaining Units

The purpose of this memorandum is to transmit a fiscal impact statement to the Council on the aforementioned proposed legislation.

LEGISLATION SUMMARY

The County Council proposed legislation amends Chapter 33 of the Montgomery County Code, Personnel and Human Resources. The proposed amendment would include temporary, seasonal, or substitute County employees and non-supervisory employees currently in grade 27 or above in the Office Professional and Technical and Service Labor and Trades Bargaining Units currently represented by the Municipal and County Government Employees Organization (MCGEO), United Food and Commercial Workers, Local 1994.

FISCAL SUMMARY

The Office of Human Resources will require an additional Human Resource Specialist II (1.0 workyear) and a part time Principal Administrative Aide (0.5 workyear) to handle the additional workload created by adding approximately 2,700 temporary positions which currently are not tracked by OHR. OHR administers benefits and union status by employee. Adding 2,700 employees to these systems is a substantial workload impact particularly since turnover with these types of positions is frequent. The fiscal impact of adding 1.5 workyears to the OHR personnel complement is $81,270 assuming the positions are hired at the mid-point salary range at the beginning of FY02.

Placing temporary employees in bargaining units could make them eligible at some level for health benefits, which are currently unavailable to them. OHR and OMB estimate approximately 50 percent of these employees could take advantage of these benefits. There are two general classes of temporary employees: minimum wage job classes, (currently 2,248 employees), and bargaining unit job classes, (currently 410 employees and unrepresented due to their temporary job status).

The minimum wage job classes typically work a four pay period equivalent per year. The health benefit fiscal impact for half of these employees (1,124) at an average County contribution of $80 per pay period per employee and assuming an average equivalent of four pay periods worked, is $359,680 for FY02. The temporaries in bargaining unit classes work an average of 660 hours per year, an average of 25 hours per pay period. The health benefit fiscal impact for half of these employees (205) at an average County contribution of $80 per pay period per employee and assuming employment over 26 pay periods is $426,400 for FY02.

The Office of Human Resources anticipates $35,000 of additional operating costs to cover consultant services and costs associated with any renegotiation of the existing terms of agreements effective FY02 through FY04, and their applicability to temporary employees.

There is no wage fiscal impact for the addition of either of these employee groups to the bargaining unit, because the negotiated general wage adjustment, (GWA), was recommended to be passed through in the County Executive's Recommended FY02 Operating Budget. The fiscal impact for other bargaining unit items such as shift differential, multi-lingual pay differential, tuition assistance, holidays, leave, etc., are deemed insignificant for the job classes affected and the number of annual hours worked.

There is no fiscal impact for the addition of the non-supervisory positions grade 27 and above, because these positions already receive health and retirement benefits. The negotiated GWA was recommended to be passed through in the County Executive's Recommended FY02 Operating Budget. The chart below shows the cost breakout.

FY02 Fiscal Impact
OHR Staff	$ 81,270
Health Benefits
• Minimum Wage Job Classes	$359,680
• Temporaries in Bargaining Unit Classes	$426,400
Total Personnel	$867,350
Operating Expenses (Consultant)	$ 35,000
Total	$902,350

It should be noted that depending on the amount of union dues or service fee that will be collected, there could be a significant economic impact on these temporary, seasonal and non supervisory employees. Assuming the current $12 union dues per pay period, each temporary employee working eight weeks during the summer would pay $48 in union dues. The total annual amount for 2,248 employees would be $108,000. Temporary employees who are in job classes that are currently bargaining unit job classes would pay $312 union dues per year ($12 union dues for 26 pay periods). The total annual amount for these 410 employees would be $128,000. Non-supervisory employees Grade 27 and above would pay $312 union dues per year ($12 union dues for 26 pay periods). The total annual amount for these 54 employees would be $16,848.

Possible Economic Impact
Minimum Wage Job Classes	$108,000
Temporaries in Bargaining Unit Classes	$128,000
Non-supervisory Employees Grade 27 and above	$ 16,848
Total	$252,848

Jo Ann Byrum of OMB and Jim Torgeson of OHR contributed to this analysis.

STATEMENT OF MCGEO
With Regard To Bill 9-01, County Employees

During the working session on April 25, 2001, concerning Bill 9-01, questions were raised about various aspects of the Bill. This statement constitutes MCGEO's response to those questions and issues.

A. Is A Vote Among The Additional Employees Necessary or Appropriate? --

One of the main questions concerned whether or not it is appropriate or necessary to conduct a vote among the additional employees before they can be included in the existing units. For the reasons set out below, the answer is, no. That is so because the inclusion of the new employees is consistent with basic concepts and principles or unit composition and community of interest and because the inclusion is properly viewed as an "accretion".

Community of Interest

In American labor law, unit composition issues involve application of what is termed "community of interest" principles to determine the appropriate groupings of employees for collective bargaining purposes. Thus, "Community of interest is the fundamental factor in bargaining unit determination ...." and "[c]ommunity of interest controls the appropriateness of all bargaining units ...." Hardin, The Developing Labor Law, p. 451 (3rd Ed. 1992). See also, NLRB v. Action Automotive, 469 U.S. 490 (1985).

More specifically:

> [T]he ... basic function in determining the appropriateness of a potential bargaining unit is to decide whether or not the employees in a proposed unit share a sufficient "community of interest" and to group together for purposes of collective bargaining employees who share common interests in wages, hours and other conditions of employment. Community of interest is not susceptible to precise definition or a mechanical definition.

Id. at 452. In this connection, employees termed "regular part time" employees are invariably included in a unit or units comprised of full time employees, as are employees who employees who have a reasonable expectation of continued employment and "a substantial interest in working conditions at the employer's place of business." Id. at 422 (footnote omitted).

Accretion

Accretion issues arise when there is some change in circumstances that give rise to the question of whether a group or group of employees should properly be included in an existing unit or unit of employees or whether such employees are properly deemed a separate and distinct unit or units. Accretion is defined by the National Labor Relations Board as:

> [T]he addition of a relatively small group of employees to an existing unit where these additional employees share a sufficient community of interest with the unit employees and have no separate identity. The additional employees are then properly governed by the unit's choice of bargaining representative.

Safeway Stores, 256 NLRB 918, 924 (1981). See also, Progressive Service Die Co, 323 NLRB 183, 186 (1997). When accretion is appropriate, the new employees are simply included with the existing unit without an election. See, e.g., Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, 254 NLRB 451 (1981). Conversely, it is only when the new employees would properly constitute a separate and distinct unit or units unto themselves that a separate election is necessary or appropriate. See, e.g., Gould, Inc., 263 NLRB 445 (1982).

Accretion issues can arise in a variety of circumstances. Most commonly, they occur when the employer opens or secures a new facility that is separate from the exiting facility or facilities. Accretion is also an issue in other instances, however, such as following a reorganization, a change in operations or other altered circumstances that require resolution of whether a "new" group of employees should be included with a larger group of employees in an already existing unit or units. The latter circumstances include situations where, as here, a previously existing impediment to the employees being included in the unit at issue ceases to exist. Southwestern Bell, 254 NLRB at 452.

While cases are necessarily determined on a case by case basis, the basic guidelines for determining whether an accretion is appropriate include the following: (1) the degree of interchange among the employees; (2) geographic proximity; (3) integration of operations; (4) integration of machinery and tools or services; (5) centralized administrative control; (6) similarity of working conditions, skills and functions; (7) common control of labor relations; (8) collective bargaining history; and (9) the number of employees proposed for accretion as compared to the number of employees in the already existing unit(s). See generally, Hardin, at p. 405.; See also, Gould, Inc., 263 NLRB 445 (1982); Towne Ford Sales, 270 NLRB 311, 312 (1984). Generally speaking, Agencies which administer and decide such issues tend to find accretion inappropriate where: (a) the employees at issue are hired specifically for a wholly autonomous operation; (b) the operations are separately managed; (c) there is no interchange of employees; (d) the new operations are substantially distant from each other or operated wholly autonomously. Hardin, at p. 406.

Application of the foregoing guidelines is really nothing new to Montgomery County and MCGEO. For instance, in 1996, the Maryland legislature passed a bill which "accreted" some 325 employees from the Maryland Department of Social Services into the existing MCGEO unit without an election and without a vote. Indeed that accretion is directly analogous to the situation presented here, inasmuch as the job titles there, which were similar (but not identical) to MCGEO job titles were integrated into the existing MCGEO unit.

Analysis

Applying the foregoing concepts and guidelines to the present situation, it is readily apparent that accretion and related principles operate to include the new groups proposed by 9-01 in the existing units. Accordingly, no election is necessary or appropriate.

As a threshold matter, core concepts of unit composition and community of interest plainly demonstrate that inclusion of the additional employees in the existing units is appropriate. In this regard (although the issue is addressed more directly elsewhere) the additional group(s) are most akin to regular part-time employees -- a grouping that invariably is included in with full time employees. In this sense, had the initial unit composition been with the potential inclusion of the additional employees in mind, there can be no meaningful dispute over the fact that they would have been included, along with the present included employees, in the two broad units on whose behalf bargaining takes place at the present time.

In that same context, community of interest principles also dictate inclusion of the additional group(s) with the existing ones. As we set out in our initial testimony on this matter, the so-called casual, temporary and substitute employees share a substantial community of interest with the currently included employees. Thus, whether one looks to wages, hours, supervision, work rules or any other terms and conditions of employment, the community of interest between existing employees and the additional group(s) is common and pervasive.

Viewed from the obverse perspective -- whether the additional group would constitute a separate appropriate unit on its own, the answer would be, obviously not. Here again, whether one looks to wages, hours, working conditions, benefits, work rules, supervision or any of the other applicable factors, it simply is illogical and inappropriate to conclude that the additional groups could, under traditional principles of unit determination and community of interest, constitute a separate and appropriate unit or units.

As for application of the technical accretion guidelines, analysis there overwhelmingly demonstrates that "accretion" is appropriate and, accordingly, that no separate election is either necessary or appropriate. Indeed, all of the guidelines that counsel in favor of accretion are fully and comfortably present.

Thus, there is substantial and pervasive "interchange among the employees". Indeed, "interchange" itself is a bit of a misnomer in these circumstances, because many of the employees in the additional group work, literally, side-by-side with unit employees. Those who do not are in frequent and regular contact with unit employees in performing their jobs. The same can be said of "geographic proximity". In this regard, the "work sites" for the additional employees and the existing unit employees are often exactly the same. Even in instances where the work sites are physically separate, they are all within the County and, therefore, proximate to each other.

"Integration of operations" also argues in favor of accretion. This is so because the various work tasks being performed by both existing unit employees and the additional employees are the manifestation of the integrated and interdependent County services that are being provided. Precisely the same can be said about "integration of machinery and tools or services".

"Centralized administrative control" and "common control of labor relations" are also present, and, in fact, are a key components of the County structure and its provision of services. As for "similarity of working conditions, skills and functions" the included and additional groups are virtually synonymous. While there is not a preexisting "history of collective bargaining" for the additional employees, there is a long and fruitful history of collective bargaining involving employees who often work side-by-side with the additional employees or who perform integrated or similar tasks with them. Finally, in this regard, the relative numbers of existing unit employees easily predominate over the relatively smaller number of additional employees thereby rendering both accretion and reliance on the existing choice concerning representation appropriate.

Regarding the factors that traditionally militate against accretion, none are even arguably present to a degree that would render accretion inappropriate. Thus, while some of the additional employees are hired to perform specific, seasonal tasks, they are hired on a regular an repeated basis and, as noted above, they perform not autonomous tasks, but functions that are fully integrated with and/or a part of the county functions and services performed by existing unit employees. On the remaining three factors that militate against accretion, it simply is not the case that "operations are separately managed", nor that there is "no interchange of employees" nor that the "new operations are substantially distant from each other or operated wholly autonomously". In short, this manifestly is not a situation where accretion principles mandate a separate unit or units or a separate election regarding inclusion.

In short, as we stated at the working session of the Management and Fiscal Policy Subcommittee, a "vote" among the employees who are the subject of 9-01 is neither necessary nor appropriate.

Additional questions raised include the following.[1]

[1] We would note that with regard to references concerning employee "response" to the purported "outreach" effort, adverse conclusions that might be drawn from such "responses" are premature and not well founded. As noted at the hearing, employees were told only that they would be included under the Collective Bargaining law and assessed dues. That an adverse response to such "information" would be negative is not surprising. If employees had been told, as would be the case if the appropriate amendments are made, that inclusion would provide them with collective bargaining rights they did not previously have, that they would begin to have a say in their work and its conditions, that they could gain the right to file grievances over wrongful treatment and gain the opportunity to

B. Treatment of "Short term employees", Exclusion of Employees Who Work Less Than 90 Days per Year --

As an initial matter, this section of the report reflects certain, and perhaps even understandable, confusion about the appropriate terminology for specific groups of employees. In this regard, there are two options that could serve to avoid confusion in the analysis and in the administration of the amendments if passed. Thus, the terms temporary, seasonal and substitute need to be defined. That can be done directly, or, as we recommend by simply defining "part-time employees" in a manner that includes those portions of the additional group who properly should be included in the existing units. Our recommended language is set out at the end of this submission.

Beyond definitions, the report recommends that employees who work less than 90 days in a calendar year be excluded. In traditional labor law terms, such a definition would render people who worked less than the prescribed amount of days "casual" employees. We strongly disagree with the recommendation.

To begin with, 90 days of work -- based on a five day work week amounts to 18 full weeks of work. That, we submit is hardly a negligible amount of time or commitment on the part of the employees. Indeed, under the National Labor Relations Act, "casual" employees generally are excluded from a unit only if they work, on average, less than four (4) hours per week in a given calendar quarter (i.e., less than 52 hours within a three month period). Accordingly, the recommendation's proposal is completely out of step with established labor law definitions and guidelines.

Beyond the numbers, however, the real issue is one of contribution, commitment and expectation on the part of the employees. In this regard, 18 weeks of work (or even longer in a less than five day work week) is a substantial commitment of time, skill and effort on the part of a worker. And, it is in large part because of that commitment that employees in that group both need and are entitled to representation and the right to engage in collective bargaining. Moreover, the commitment of that time skill and effort results in a substantial benefit to the County and its residents. To term that commitment and contribution "casual" is unfair not only to the worker but to the County and the residents it serves.

C. Limited Bargaining --

OHR recommends that the newly included group of employees be represented only for purposes of bargaining wages. We strongly disagree.

While wages are significant matters -- and matters on which the employees at issue are entitled to engage in collective bargaining -- they are not the only maters of employee concerns. Just some of those include grievance and complaint mechanisms, benefits, opportunities for bargain improvements in their wages, benefits and working conditions, there is little doubt the response would have been substantially more positive.

promotions and a myriad of other working conditions. Each and all of those are significant matters to workers and their families and are matters on which workers are entitled to the rights of collective bargaining and having a say in their daily lives and careers. to artificially truncate those matters and limit them merely to wages is, we believe, inappropriate and unnecessary.

This is particularly true, we might add, for employees whose wages already are near the bottom of the overall wage scale and for whom meaningful pay increases are unlikely in any event. Indeed, it is perhaps those employees most of all who both need and are entitled to representation and collective bargaining that will respectively protect their rights and advance their work interests.

Finally, in this regard, we suspect that an underlying concern that may have prompted this limited bargaining recommendation is the perceived chances of increased costs to the County. to that concern, we would say two things. First, if fair and appropriate treatment of County employees as gained through good faith collective bargaining increases the County's costs, it is an increase in costs that is both necessary and appropriate. Second, The notion of dealing with limited budgets, revenues and other sources of income for the County is nothing new to MCGEO and, in fact, is a part of the overall collective bargaining process to begin with. In that regard, part of the Union's job and the service it provides to its members is to represent them collectively in a manner that weighs and balances options, alternatives and priorities -- monetary and otherwise. Adding an additional group of workers to that equation is nothing new. Indeed, the only thing "new" is granting a seat at the table to employees who have been excluded for too long.

D. Dues --

As stated at the working session, MCGEO's members vote on the dues structure of the organization. As we believe we made clear at the hearing, MCGEO will, to the extent it is necessary, assure the County Council that it will continue to structure and administer its dues scale in a manner that is appropriate and fair to its members.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT LANGUAGE

"For purposes of this section, "part-time" and, therefore, included employees means, among other things: employees who are listed or qualified to work on a regular basis as a substitute in unit positions; employees whose hours of work over a given calendar quarter exceed an average of four (4) per week for the period; and, employees who work on a "seasonal" basis so long as the seasonal period for which they are hired lasts more than 30 days."

MEMORANDUM

August 27, 2001

TO: Marta Perez, Director, Office of Human Resources
Gino Renne, President, Municipal and County Government Employees Organization

FROM: Michael Faden, Senior Legislative Attorney

SUBJECT: Bill 9-01 -- remaining questions

Both your staffs have asked me what questions raised at the April 25 Management and Fiscal Policy Committee worksession on Bill 9-01 remain to be answered. On May 29, MCGEO's counsel, Mr. Butsavage, submitted to the Council a detailed memo on accretion and other issues, which Council staff sent a copy of to Mr. Torgesen. To allow further consideration of this bill by the MFP Committee, it would help if each of you could respectively answer the following questions.

Questions for OHR

- Do you support or oppose the thrust of the amendment drafted by Mr. Butsavage (at the end of his memo) which would include certain "part-time" employees in the bargaining unit? Which short-term positions should continue to be excluded from the bargaining unit?
- Is there a viable way to measure the views of affected employees regarding their inclusion in the bargaining unit? Are those employees' views relevant to this decision?
- Do you generally agree with Mr. Butsavage's memo or have any other comments on it?

Questions for MCGEO

- Does MCGEO contend that the views of the affected employees are irrelevant to the decision whether to include them in a bargaining unit? If not, how should their views be measured?
- At the Committee worksession Mr. Renne said you would provide amendment language to address the continued inclusion of bargaining unit positions that are reclassified upward to Grade 27 or higher. Is that amendment drafted?
- In response to Councilmember Denis, Mr. Renne said you would provide an amendment to "clarify the scope of bargaining" on health benefits -- in other words, to define which employees are not eligible to bargain health benefits. Is that amendment drafted?
- At the worksession Mr. Butsavage said that short-term employees are often included in collective bargaining units elsewhere. Can you provide examples of other local governments, preferably in this area, with similar collective bargaining structures that include short-term employees in their bargaining units?
- Responding to Council staff's memo, Mr. Butsavage notes that "MCGEO will...continue to structure and administer its dues scale in a manner that is appropriate and fair to its members." What does that mean, specifically, for dues payments by short-term and low-paid employees? Does MCGEO intend to offer any adjustments for those employees if they are included in the bargaining unit?

If anything in this memo needs to be clarified, feel free to call me at 240-777-7905 or email me at mike.faden@co.mo.md.us. I look forward to receiving your answers.

Michael Faden, Esquire
Senior Legislative Attorney
Council Office Building

Rockville, MD 20850

Dear Mr. Faden:

The most compelling argument for accretion is Montgomery County's own past practice. In 1998, the state legislature, at the urging of County Executive Doug Duncan, passed legislation which "accreted"former employees of the Maryland State Department of Social Services to the MCGEO Bargaining Unit and made them employees of Montgomery County. Their employer benefit structure, and employee rights were changed through legislation and they were accreted, all without a vote, based on the same principle.

In response to your memo and its questions, MCGEO UFCW Local 1994 responds as follows:

1. As we have explained in our previous submissions, to the extent it is determined that the employees at issue are–because of their common job duties, common supervision and other factors that establish the requisite and extensive community of interest with unit employees–a true accretion to the existing unit, then, the "views" of the affected employees are, as a matter of law, not determinative on the inclusion issue. We submit, however, that the question of employee sentiments is effectively moot and a bit of a red herring. Thus, as an organization that values, respects and honors its members' views and sentiments, MCGEO is certain that–when presented with a fair and balanced picture of the advantages of inclusion in the bargaining unit–the affected employees will overwhelmingly support inclusion, just as their co-workers in the unit now overwhelmingly support and enjoy the advantages of Unionization. Our "measure" of that is already reflected in the current membership and their sentiments. We submit that regarding the "measure" for the newly included employees, the proof will be in the pudding–the degree to which a fully and fairly informed component of the work force will overwhelmingly recognize and embrace the advantages of joining their brothers and sisters as Union members.

Moreover, we note that despite what we consider to have been a "loaded" question sent to temporary employees by your staff, only a handful of employees replied to that memo with negative responses. To a certain extent, the measure of the temporary employees has already been taken by you.

2. See attached Exhibit A for the draft amendment language.

3. See attached Exhibit B for the draft amendment language.

4. In response to your questions concerning dues, we reiterate that we will structure our dues in a manner that is appropriate and fair to our members, including part-time employees. We note that the matter of dues is an internal Union matter which is, and properly should be, between the Union and its members.

Please do not hesitate to contact us if you have any further questions.

Very truly yours,

Gino

MEMORANDUM

November 29, 2001

TO: Michael Faden, Senior Legislative Attorney

Office of Human Resources

SUBJECT: Bill 9-01 -- remaining questions

This is a response to your August 27 correspondence concerning the above referenced topic. You posed three questions to this Office concerning matters raised by Mr. Butsavage in his May 29th correspondence to the County Council.

1. Do you (OHR) support or oppose the thrust of the amendment drafted by Mr. Butsavage which would include certain part-time employees in the bargaining unit? Which short term positions should continue to be excluded from the bargaining unit?

For reasons specified in our analysis of the arguments made by Mr. Butsavage for including all job classes of temporary employees in existing bargaining units, we would limit eligibility of temporary employees to those employees in existing bargaining unit classes. The Butsavage amendment would set an eligibility standard for intermittent/substitute employees of 4 or more hours per week over a calendar quarter; and, for seasonal employees continuous employment of 30 or more days.

Temporary employees are of three types: full or part-time working no more than 12 months, intermittent/substitute, and seasonal. For temporary employees in existing bargaining unit classes we would propose that eligibility be based upon satisfying a minimum of twenty-five hours of scheduled work per pay period. This is the current minimum number of hours worked by bargaining unit employees.

As noted above, those temporary positions which should be excluded from bargaining unit eligibility include all non-bargaining unit job classes not on the general salary schedule and presently under the S1-S8 salary schedule. In addition to having a different pay structure than bargaining unit employees the majority of employees perform work that is seasonal in nature and of short duration. Thus, they have no reasonable expectation of continued employment. The S1-S8 non-bargaining unit job classes include the following:

Conservation/Service Corp Trainee
County Government Aide
Recreation Assistant I-VIII
Library Page
Community Correction Intern
Public Service Guide
Nutrition Program Aide

2. Is there a viable way to measure the views of affected employees regarding inclusion in the bargaining unit? Are those employees relevant to this decision?

Labor relations principles generally are premised on the basic right of employees to express their desire to be represented for the purposes of collective bargaining. However, in certain circumstances, unrepresented employees may be accreted into an existing bargaining unit wherein the majority of those voting have previously cast their vote in favor of representation. Incumbents of accreted positions do not have the opportunity to express an interest in representation through voting, as they become a part of an existing bargaining unit for which representation has previously been determined. Because the accretion process adds employees to an existing unit without according these employees any representational voting rights, the accretion doctrine has been narrowly applied in both the private sector and federal sector cases. As noted in item #3, below, analysis of Mr. Butsavage's correspondence, the private sector case law has developed criteria to help guide the determination of job classes appropriate for accretion into existing bargaining units. One of the significant elements in making this determination is the number of employees proposed for accretion compared to the number of employees in the already existing bargaining unit. This is an important factor to consider so as to preserve, where possible, the opportunity for large numbers of employees to express their desire for representation. There are a substantial number of temporary employees who, if considered eligible, should have the right to express an interest in representation, and if there is sufficient interest have the opportunity to cast a vote.

Another significant factor is community of interest; elements of work, compensation and the work environment common to the positions in question. As further detailed below, when dealing with the eligibility of temporary employees inclusion in an existing bargaining unit private sector case law sets a higher bar for the accretion of temporary employees requiring an "overwhelming" community of interest to apply.

For these reasons, we do not agree with the Union that all temporary job classes should be accreted into existing bargaining units. Temporary employees in non-bargaining unit classes should be excluded from bargaining rights for the reasons stated under item #3. Our views notwithstanding, if it is determined that such employees are to have bargaining rights, we do not believe it appropriate for these employees to be accreted into an existing unit. More appropriately, temporary employees in non-bargaining unit classes should be grouped in a separate bargaining unit and be given the opportunity to demonstrate through a showing of interest {thirty (30) percent of those eligible} a desire to be represented. If there is a sufficient showing of interest, a secret ballot election of those eligible is conducted and the majority of those voting determine whether they will be represented. These employees should then have a separate bargaining unit status for collective bargaining purposes.

3. Do you generally agree with Mr. Butsavage's memo or have any other comments on it?

We do not generally agree with the conclusions reached in his May 29, 2001 memo regarding the proposed treatment of temporary employees. Two separate, but related, questions are addressed in the correspondence: a) Are temporary employees and their associated job classes appropriate for accretion into existing bargaining units? and, b) What are appropriate eligibility requirements for temporary employees to be included within a bargaining unit?

a) Mr. Butsavage has referenced the following definition of accretion:

> [T]he addition of a relatively small group of employees to an existing unit where these additional employees share a sufficient community of interest with the unit employees and have no separate identity. The additional employees are then properly governed by the unit's choice of bargaining representative. (Emphasis added.)

Based upon the information on the number of employees in temporary positions that we have previously provided Council staff, the total number of temporary employees approximates 2,660 employees. This does not represent a "relatively small group of employees" in relation to the total number of bargaining unit employees (3,942) in the existing Office, Professional and Technical (2,937) and Service Labor and Trades (1,005) bargaining units. (All employees combined, temporary employees represent forty (40) percent of the total.) For a group of this size it is not reasonable to expect them to forego an opportunity to determine if they want representation. Accretion contemplates the inclusion of a sufficiently small group of employees so as not to have an impact on the right of self-determination by the majority of the bargaining unit.

MCGEO requests that the County's temporary employees be treated the same as previously accreted State/County merit system employees that were brought into the Department of Health and Human Services in 1996. The treatment of those employees accreted into the Office, Professional and Technical Unit is not analogous to the issue at hand. First, the number of employees, approximately 350, represented a much smaller portion of the bargaining unit to which they were accreted (OPT unit approximated 2,600). Second, there are substantial differences in the community of interest as the majority of temporary employees are not in existing bargaining unit classes.

As noted earlier, community of interest with unit employees is also identified within the definition of accretion as a factor of consideration. However, because accretion precludes employee self-determination, accretion will be found only where the employees to be accreted share an overwhelming community of interest with the preexisting unit and have little or no separate identity. Passavant Retirement & Health Center, 313 NLRB 1216, 1218 (1994). Elements of community of interest would include commonality among employees in compensation, hours and working conditions. This is further reflected in additional guidelines identified in the Union's argument which clarify community of interest issues to include; the degree of interchange between employees; geographic proximity; integration of operations; similarity of working conditions, skills and functions; common control of labor relations; and collective bargaining history.

There is merit in considering for accretion those temporary employees occupying existing bargaining unit job classes. The elements of a community of interest are relevant to these employees. These are employees who have a general wage structure similar to the bargaining unit and whose work is integrated with bargaining unit employees with whom there is a high degree of interchange. The performance of work is also in geographic proximity to other bargaining unit employees. They often perform the same duties as bargaining unit employees, thus skill and functions are similar. This number approximates 410 employees. This group is therefore more appropriately considered a "small group of employees" in relation to the size of the two units into which they would be accreted.

Temporary employees in non-bargaining unit classes, however, should not be accreted to the existing unit because they do not share a sufficient community of interest, let alone meet the higher standard of an overwhelming community of interest, with the regular employees in the bargaining unit. These employees do not share the same skills and job functions with unit employees. Their pay schedules are not comparable to those of unit employees. Many of these employees are hired to perform specific, seasonal tasks. Their work is of short duration, often limited and sporadic, and they have no reasonable expectation of continued employment.

b) The Union argues that ninety (90) working days per year as a threshold to determine eligibility for unit inclusion is unreasonable in view of private sector practices with regard to "casual employees." While private sector principles provide insight into the treatment of temporary employees and bargaining unit rights this should not be the sole standard for consideration. It is noted in this instance that the private sector model is most likely utilized because of the absence of local government precedent. Certainly, this is true in our own immediate region. We are not aware of State or any local government employers in our area that extend collective bargaining rights to temporary employees. Nevertheless, private sector principles established through National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) decisions and the Federal Sector through the Federal Labor Relations Authority (FLRA) focus eligibility of temporary employees on the nature of their employment tenure. The following are examples of some general principles that have been established through case law.

> If temporary employees are employed for one job only, or for a set duration, or have not substantial expectancy of continued employment and are notified of this fact, and there have been no recalls, such employees are excluded from bargaining unit eligibility. Indiana Bottled Gas Co., 128 NLRB 1441fn.4 (1960); Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corp., 140 NLRB 1323(1963); Sealite, Inc. 125NLRB 619 (1959).

Temporary employees who are retained beyond their original term of employment, and whose employment is thereafter for an indefinite period are considered eligible for bargaining unit status. Orchard Industries, 118 NLRB 798(1957)

Temporary employees who have worked for substantial periods where there is no likelihood that their employment will end in the immediate foreseeable future have been included in the bargaining unit. Horizon House 1 Inc, 151 NLRB 1433

(1958); Textile Workers UTWA, 138 NLRB 269 fn. 3(1962); Lloyd A. Fry Roofing Co., 121 NLRB 1433(1958)

Temporary summer seasonal employees are generally excluded from an appropriate unit; such employees are only deemed eligible if, upon returning to school, their employment evidences regular part-time status. This should be distinguished from intermittent, sporadic employment. Crest Wine & Spirits, Ltd. 168 NLRB 754(1968; Beverly Manor Nursing Home, 310 NLRB 538 fn.3(1993).

Case law from the Federal Sector also follows similar trends.

Temporary employees, including summer hires, who are not promised permanent positions or subsequent employment, are excluded from the unit. F*ederal Mediation and Conciliation Service and NAGE Local R3-118, 5 FLRA 28 (1981).*

Temporary disaster employees were included in a unit. They had a reasonable expectancy of continued employment beyond their initial six-month appointment, shared general supervision, work schedules, office conditions and common working environment with other unit employees, and performed some of the same duties as other employees. SBA Lower Rio Grande Valley District Office and AFGE Local 3904, 16FLRA 180 (1984).

Actually employed individuals working without a fixed schedule from day to day, paid only for hours worked are to be included in a unit if serving appointments full time and over 90 days. Panama Canal Comm'n and AFGE Local 1805, 5 FLRA 104, 121 (1981).

To have a community of interest with unit employees, a temporary employee must have a reasonable expectation of continued employment in the unit. Headquarters, XVIII Airborne Corp and Fort Bragg, Fort Bragg, North Carolina, 36 FLRA 237(1990).

Employees appointed for six months with no guarantee of reappointment, serving in a special program, not subject to merit promotion or the Federal Retirement program, who received no differentials, holiday pay, insurance benefits, or sick or annual leave and did not have competitive status, were not considered to share sufficient community of interest with other regular employees to be included in the unit. Dept. of Agriculture, Animal

Plant Health Inspection Service, Plant Protection Quarantine, Pink Bollwarm Rearing Facility and NFFE Local 376, 6 FLRA 261 (1981).

In view of the above, we believe a more appropriate criteria for determining employee eligibility is one that demonstrates a reasonable expectation of continued employment. Where it may be appropriate to accrete temporary employees because of the relatively small size of the employee group and an overwhelming community of interest, we propose to condition their continuing eligibility for bargaining unit representation on working a minimum of twenty-five (25) hours per pay period; the minimum eligibility standard for existing bargaining unit employees.

3. Temporary employees accreted to an existing bargaining unit should have limited bargaining rights.

The scope of bargaining for temporary employees is another critical issue that must be addressed. The Union argues for a full range of bargaining rights for these employees to include compensation, grievance rights, benefits, opportunities for promotion and a "myriad" of other working conditions. While temporary employees are hired through merit system processes, they are not merit system employees. Therefore, they have not been extended the same regulatory protections, benefits and compensation as merit system employees. Because of their limited and sporadic employment we do not support full bargaining rights for these employees. We believe bargaining for temporary employees in bargaining unit classes should be limited to general wage adjustments and union security issues (dues and service fee check-off).

I trust this discussion of the bargaining unit status and bargaining rights of temporary employees has been responsive to your queries. Please let me know if I can be of further assistance on this matter.

RE: Bill 9-101, County Employees – Collective Bargaining Units

Dear President Ewing:

I write to express my concern with the above-referenced bill as it would apply to non-supervisory Grade 27 employees in the Office of Intergovernmental Relations (OIR). The bill raises several issues which, I believe, warrant an exemption for these OIR employees. Because of the General Assembly session in Annapolis, it was impossible to testify at the public hearing in Rockville.

There are two specific reasons to request the exemption. First, there is a potential for conflict of interest problems since OIR may be requested to handle matters pertaining to collective bargaining before the State legislature. In the recent past, for example, we have worked on legislation affecting MCGEO representation at the Housing Opportunities Commission and the Maryland-National Park and Planning Commission. It is conceivable that amendments to laws pertaining to collective bargaining at the independent agencies will again be introduced. Being members of the union may place the OIR employee in a difficult position when representing the County Council and County Executive before our State elected officials.

Secondly, as you know, many of the issues we deal with are of a politically sensitive nature. For this reason, I believe that the OIR non-supervisory Grade 27 employees should be considered in the same manner as persons who work for the County Council and for the Office of the County Executive ~ that is, exempted from the provisions of Bill 9-101.

(2) A temporary, seasonal, or substitute employee who is excluded from the definition of "employee" under Section 33-102(4)(H) because the employee is not in an occupational class in which the incumbents are predominantly career merit system employees becomes a limited-scope member of the applicable bargaining unit immediately after the employee begins employment if:

MEMORANDUM

March 17, 2005

TO: Thomas E. Perez, President, Montgomery County Council

FROM: Douglas M. Duncan, County Executive

SUBJECT: Proposed Legislation to Amend the County Collective Bargaining Law to Include Correctional Sergeants in the Office, Professional, and Technical Bargaining Unit

I am asking the Council to consider the attached expedited bill that was drafted to include newly created Correctional Sergeant positions in the Office, Professional, and Technical (OPT) bargaining unit. The current plan is to create approximately 42 Correctional Sergeant positions, to fill these positions over time through a competitive process, and to abolish an equivalent number of Master Correctional Officer positions. The Master Correctional Officer positions are in the OPT bargaining unit. The newly created positions, because they are supervisory positions, will be excluded from the bargaining unit unless Section 33-102 of the County Collective Bargaining Law is amended to allow them to be included in the OPT unit.

The Municipal and County Government Employees Organization, Local 1994 (MCGEO), which represents the OPT bargaining unit, is, of course, in favor of the new promotional opportunities for its members that the new Correctional Sergeant positions will provide. However, MCGEO is also concerned about the loss of bargaining unit positions that the reorganization within the Department of Correction and Rehabilitation will cause. We are sympathetic to the Union's concern and view this proposed change as consistent with earlier legislative initiatives that allowed the first level of supervision to be included in the other public safety bargaining units (Fire/Rescue and Police). Because these changes in the workforce are imminent, I urge the Council to review this bill promptly.

CORRECTIONAL OFFICERS
FOR MONTGOMERY COUNTY, MARYLAND

BY: CORRECTION OFFICERS

Subject: Expedited Bill No. 11-5

The Collective Bargaining Local Union 1994 with the help of the Council President who introduced this Expedited Bill No. 11-5 at the request of the County Executive has submitted a request to amend this law regarding county employees' collective bargaining. The officers of Corrections and Rehabilitation (DOCR) recommend that the County Council do not revise this law.

The Collective Bargaining Local Union 1994 has not officially or unofficially had any communication with the majority of the Officers involved to present this amendment in good faith. The aforementioned amendment, request to add Sergeants in the Union appears to do more harm than good and could be seen as monetarily motivated by Local Union 1994. This law has been in place for years, so to change the Law without any dialect or a voted ballot with the officers that are going to be affected is not in the best interest of the majority of the officers involved. The Officers are trying to be heard and be a part of the Council's decision-making process.

The amendment revision of this Law will affect the correctional facility's operation because the Sergeants work in compliance with established County Laws and Regulations. DOCR Officers propose that the County Council review the literature of the Sergeant Class Specification (Grade 22) Code No.3234 to show that this revision will be taking Sergeants a step back in a progressive county. The County Council should be aware of the new revision to this Law because it will impact the Sergeants potential for a position as a supervisor in the future. The proposed Sergeant Class Specification recognized Sergeants as "first line Supervisors". The Local Union 1994 is trying to propose a language change contrary to the agreed Class Specification, knowing that Sergeants will still be carrying out and effectively recommending these tasks, (evaluating, rewarding, and disciplining subordinates), as part of their daily assignments and now will not be receiving any credit for performing the duties of "First Line Supervisors".

The Local Union 1994 also proposes to strip DOCR officers of their rights by adding to the existing law the following statement: "other than a Sergeant in the Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation." This amendment revision only applies to Corrections and Rehabilitation officers and is not county wide (police, sheriffs, fire and rescue).

The Officers of Montgomery county Correctional Department ask that the Montgomery County Personnel Regulations are to be kept in tact, so all remains fair and consistent with other Management First Line Supervisor positions and Law Enforcement positions in Montgomery County. The Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation should not be the only Department that differs. To reiterate again this revision of the law is not favored by the majority of dues paying members who will be affected by the bill, but only by Local Union 1994. In this instance amendment of the Personnel Regulations is not in best interest of the majority.

The Local Union 1994 has delayed forty four (44) Sergeants promotional positions that should have been effective April 17, 2005. After investigating this situation it is evident that the potential Sergeants are not in favor of the proposal changes. Please see the attached signatures of agreeable officers.

Thank you, County Council in advance of your patience, expertise in resolving this issue.

MEMORANDUM

Joseph Adler
Director

June 16, 2005

TO: Michael Faden, Senior Legislative Attorney

FROM: James Torgesen, Labor/Employee Relations Manager

SUBJECT: Correctional Sergeant Issues

You have requested that this Office respond to certain issues raised by submissions to the County Council from employees in connection with the proposed amendment to the County Collective Bargaining law to include the newly created job class of Correctional Sergeants in the Office Professional and Technical bargaining unit. The following is offered as points of clarification concerning the status of incumbents of this newly created class and the Correctional Dietary Supervisor job class.

As the result of an occupational class study of the Correctional Officer (CO) class series it was determined through discussions between the Office of Human Resources and the Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation that there was a need to establish a job class that provided closer more direct supervision of correctional officers within the County's detention facilities. The OHR classification study recommended the creation of a new job classification, Correctional Supervisor –Sergeant, to supervise all inmate confinement and control activities exercised by subordinate Correctional Officers. Per the class specification incumbents of this class are responsible for maintaining the security and well being of the inmate population which they and their subordinates supervise, and the safety of staff and visitors. Specific duties include; ensuring compliance with standard operating procedures; serving as the first point of contact in responding to and investigating major incidents/problems within an assigned area; and, participating regularly in decisions or actions regarding officers within their assigned area on a variety of personnel matters involving orientation, training, annual leave, performance appraisal, promotion, rewards and adjustment of minor complaints. The amendment to the County Collective Bargaining law referred to above in no way modifies or diminishes the supervisory responsibilities as outlined in the class specification.

An issue was raised by employees pertaining to the timing of the promotions to Sergeant. The results of the study, which included other classification actions, were effective on April 17, 2005. The classification study recommended that establishment of positions to populate the Correctional Supervisor- Sergeant class would require new position creations, rather than reclassification of existing positions, since the new class described supervisory duties of a nature and level not described in existing CO classes or performed by employees in the CO occupation. The classification study further recommended that Master Correctional Officer incumbents be the source of filling the newly created Correctional Supervisor – Sergeant positions. The filling of the newly created Correctional Sergeant positions required a competitive process. This process included an announcement of existing vacancies, expressions of interests by employees, a review of qualifications, interviews and the establishment of an eligible list. Promotions into the new job class were effective June 12, 2005. The completion of the promotional process was done in a timely fashion.

Employees have raised a concern about the bargaining unit status of Correctional Dietary Supervisors (CDS). The job class of Correctional Dietary Officer and Correctional Dietary Supervisor were not a part of the Correctional Officer job classification study because these job classes are relatively new, created in September, 2002 and there was no evidence that the duties and responsibilities of the class had changed significantly, since its creation. The CDS job class has different responsibilities and different minimum qualifications than the Correctional Sergeant. Correctional Dietary Supervisors (CDS) supervise the food service operation within the facility and provide supervision to a team of Correctional Dietary Officers (CDO). The minimum experiential requirement is 3 years of experience in large-scale institutional food preparation and service. Employees are required to complete the Food Service Sanitation Management course and obtain a valid Montgomery County Certified Food Service Manager Certificate within 60 days from date of hire. The class specification for Correctional Dietary Supervisor does state that employees must "successfully complete State Training Academy Correctional Entry-Level Program and First-line Supervisor Training, and possess Certificates of successful completion, within 12 months of hire" and have the "ability to perform the duties of a Correctional Officer, in the event of an emergency, after required training is completed." This job class has been excluded from the bargaining unit as a supervisory class since its creation. The aforementioned amendment does not modify the CDS's bargaining unit status.

Executive Branch Testimony
Inclusion of Correctional Sergeants
In the Office Professional and Technical Bargaining Unit

Good afternoon, my name is Joseph Adler, as Director of the Office of Human Resources, I am here on behalf of the County Executive to speak in support of the proposed Amendment to the County Collective Bargaining Law to incorporate the newly created job class of correctional sergeant into the Office Professional and Technical Bargaining Unit. By amending the law to permit correctional sergeants, as first level supervisors, into the bargaining unit we are following the legislative model that has been previously established for police and fire/rescue first line supervisors in the County.

The forty-four newly promoted sergeants have previous experience as Master Correctional Officers within the Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation and were all in the bargaining unit. Moreover, as first level supervisors in County detention facilities these individuals are responsible for maintaining the security and well being of the inmate population which they and their subordinates supervise. Specifically, the employees' work impacts a group of correctional officers within a cluster of posts or an assigned area in the correctional facility and the inmate population covered by those posts. Hence, they are subject to the same hours and working conditions of those that they supervise. This recent representation experience and community of interest aligns with including the positions in the bargaining unit.

For these reasons the County Executive believes that including this group of supervisors in the bargaining unit will provide continuity of representation for public safety personnel and support the interests of an important part of our County workforce. We urge your support of this amendment. Thank you.

Ms. Praisner made the motion.

Ms. Praisner requested information from MCPS staff regarding how parents are affected when their children move out of ESOL programs into a standard classroom environment. She questioned how MCPS calculates the mobility rate with regard to students who may have a gap in instruction time but do not change schools, and requested information on the extent to which efforts have been made regarding the strategies for successful schools.

Mr. Subin requested OLO to determine how the lack of Federal and State funding for adult education will affect the recommendations included in the report.

Mr. Silverman requested MCPS staff to provide information regarding expectations for non-English speaking children in the first grade to be reading English at grade level.

The meeting adjourned at 11:31 A.M.

MEMORANDUM

DATE: October 2, 1979

TO: County Council

FROM: Pearl O. Schloo, Legislative Staff Specialist

SUBJECT: Explanation of renumbering of Chapter 33

Bill 36-78, the Merit System law, which became effective February 8, 1979, (and therefore is not as yet codified) transferred Article II, Sections 33-5 through 33-33 to an Appendix in the Code.

This bill added a new Article II title "Merit System" with new section numbers 33-5 to 33-16.

Section 4 of 36-78 provided that individual section numbers of Article III title "Employees' Retirement System" and Article IV title "Employer-Employee Relations" of Chapter 33 be sequentially numbered as appropriate.

Therefore Article III would begin with Section 33-17. That Article is codified as Sections 33-34 through 33-57 on pages 2 through 36 in the 1978 supplement to Volume 2 of the Code. The new numbers, pursuant to Bill 36-78, would be 33-17 through 33-40.

Article IV title "Employer-Employee Relations" would therefore begin with Section # 33-41, and end with 33-52, thereby replacing the presently listed 33-62 through 33-73.

In reviewing Bill 23-79, the section for Procedures for certification of employee organizations should be Sec. 33-45.

As a result of 36-78, effective 2/8/79:

		New Numbers:
Article II	"Merit System" -	33-5 -33-16
Article III	"Employees Retirement System"-	33-17 - 33-40
Article IV	"Employer-Employee Relations"-	33-41 - 33-52

BILL NO. 23-79

Introduced: March 20, 1979
Enacted: October 2, 1979
Executive: October 11, 1979
Effective: January 10, 1980

Be It Enacted by the County Council for Montgomery County, Maryland, that -

Sec. 1. Subsection 33-45(f) of Section 33-45, titled "Procedures for Certification of Employee Organizations", of Article IV, title "Employer-Employee Relations" of Chapter 33, titled "Personnel" of the Montgomery County Code, 1972, as amended, is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments to read as follows:

33-45. Procedures for Certification of Employee Organizations.

The provisions of this Act are severable, and if any provision, clause, sentence, section, word or part thereof is illegal, invalid or unconstitutional, or inapplicable to any person or circumstances, such illegality, invalidity or unconstitutionality, or inapplicability shall not affect or impair any of the remaining provisions, clauses, sentences, sections, words, or parts of the Act or their application to other persons or circumstances. It is hereby declared to be the legislative intent that this Act would have been adopted if such illegal, invalid, unconstitutional or inapplicable provision, sentence, section, word, or part had not been included therein, and if the person or circumstances to which the Act or part thereof is inapplicable had been specifically exempted therefrom.

MEMORANDUM

Date March 6, 1979

To Neal Potter, President, County Council

From Charles W. Gilchrist, County Executive Charles W. Gilchrist

Subject Amendment to Employer/Employee Relations Act

I am sending you an amendment to Article IV, Employer/Employee Relations, which is designed to change the participation requirement for the certification of employee organizations. Under the County's meet and confer law, the existing provisions require that at least sixty (60) percent of the employees eligible to participate in an election must cast ballots in order to validate the election process. This amendment will eliminate the sixty percent participation requirement and permit validation, and subsequent certification when an organization receives the majority of votes cast.

This change supports a more realistic approach to allowing employee organizations to participate in the meet and confer process. The sixty percent voter requirement provided in Section 33-66(f) of the law places an unrealistic requirement on employee organizations. The law has been in effect since March, 1977, and only one employee group has been certified. I believe this is due in part to the restrictiveness of the present voting requirement. It is a common practice among both the public and private jurisdictions where there exists a mechanism to recognize employee groups, to do so through a majority vote requirement.

The purpose of the meet and confer process, in part, is to grant recognition to employee organizations in order that they might represent specific groups of employees. The law, in its present form, restricts this opportunity. It is my intent to make the "meet and confer" a more meaningful process by allowing the County Government to make policy decisions based on input from recognized representatives of all of our employees. I believe this amendment will have the effect of more readily establishing recognition rights for groups of employees.

This amendment is of sufficient importance that I believe it should be considered as emergency legislation.

The adoption of the amendment will not have any immediate impact on the present capital or operating budget.

The amendment, as presently drafted, has been approved by the County Attorney as to its form and legality.

I would appreciate your favorable and earliest consideration of this legislation. Any further information concerning the amendment should be directed to James Torgesen, Assistant to the Personnel Director for Labor Relations, 279-1208.

MEMORANDUM

Date July 25, 1978

To All Employees

From William H. Hussmann, Chief Administrative Officer WH

Subject Meet and Confer Election Results

On March 22 and 23, 1978, a representation election was held to determine if the Montgomery County Government Employees' Organization, Inc. (MCGEO) should be certified as an exclusive representative of all eligible employees currently not covered by an existing unit structure to the exclusion of all uniformed personnel in the Montgomery County Department of Fire and Rescue Services. Following this election, MCGEO filed several challenges which they felt gave sufficient cause to void the election results.

The State Department of Labor and Industry was requested to review the challenges and make recommendations as to their validity. Their findings stated that they found no cause to invalidate the election results. After careful study and review, I concur with these findings and am, therefore, issuing the official election results.

Approximate number of eligible voters	3,801
Void ballots	13
Votes cast for Montgomery County Government Employees' Organization, Inc. (MCGEO)	1,882
Votes cast for no representation	142
Challenged ballots	58
Valid votes counted plus challenged ballots	2,082

Under 33-66(f) of the Employer-Employee Relations Act, I am required to certify an employee organization when it receives a majority of the votes cast in an election where at least sixty percent (60%) of the employees eligible cast valid ballots. The latter requirement was not met in this election, in that the 2,082 votes cast did not equal at least 60% of 3,801 total eligible voters.

MEMORANDUM

September 14, 1979

TO: County Council

FROM: Pearl O. Schloo, Legislative Staff Specialist

SUBJECT: Worksession on Bill 23-79, Amendments to Meet and Confer Legislation

A worksession on Bill 23-79 has been scheduled for Monday, September 17, 1979, at 10 AM in the Council Conference Room. All interested parties have been notified of this worksession.

All speakers who testified at the July 17, 1979, public hearing endorsed Bill 23-79 as proposed by the County Executive and were unanimous in their opposition to the two amendments proposed by Councilmembers Scull, Gelman and Potter which would provide that before an employee organization is certified, at least 50% or 30% of the eligible employees would be required to cast ballots. It was pointed out that:

- requiring a percentage of all eligible to vote makes it difficult to have a representative group certified;
- local, state and federal elections are decided by a simple majority;
- the Task Force on Collective Bargaining for Public Employees appointed by the General Assembly in October 1977 recommended that an employee organization be recognized as the exclusive employee representative upon receiving a simple majority of the votes cast in an election;
- most state and local labor laws require only a majority of votes cast to determine the employee representative organization.

Tom Stone, representing the County Executive, suggested that Bill 23-79 be amended to delete the emergency provision and that this bill be considered as regular legislation.

Attached for your consideration are:

July 17, 1979

TO: Mr. Neal Potter, President and Members of the Montgomery County Council

SUBJECT: Public Hearing Testimony; Amendments to County Meet and Confer Legislation

"When an organization receives at least fifty percent (50%) of valid votes cast in the election, the Chief Administrative Officer shall certify it as the official employee organization for the employee unit."

The concept of a majority of valid votes cast in an election being equated to representative Democracy is one of the primary building blocks of this Country. Any amendment which alters this basic foundation tears at the roots of "the will of the people to be represented."

Suppose the founders of this Country had placed a minimum voting requirement which stated that "50% or 30% of the people eligible to participate in an election must cast valid ballots before a President of the United States can be elected". The reality of this statement is that in this day and age, we would not have an elected leader.

The Minority Employees Association therefore, reject both amendments to the Employee Organization Certification Requirements. MEA however, does support the Amendment to the Employer/Employee Relations Act as set forth by the County Executive, Mr. Gilchrist on March 6, 1979 and previously alluded to in the opening statement.

Let's keep Democracy simple and workable. Thank you.

Dear Mr. Potter:

I am sorry I cannot attend the July 17 hearing on the "meet and confer" bill and its amendments. I hope to be in New Hampshire by Tuesday.

I'd like to make known my support for an employee election in which the decision would be based upon a majority of those voting if a majority (not sixty per cent) of County employees voted in the election. I was a poll watcher (for MCGEO) at the employee election where a number of people believed they were eligible to vote, but their votes had to be challenggd. Others who did not vote could have done so according to the print-out list. The guidelines for eligibility were obviously not clear.

I hope you can support a simple majority of County employees voting in an election to establish the employee organization with which County government officials will meet and confer.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Mr. Potter: Re: Meet and Confer Bill

The Meet and Confer legislation before you is an important and giant step in the improvement of employee-management relationships. The Women Employees of this government urge its passage without numerical voting requirements.

It is our understanding that a sixty percent to thirty percent of those eligible to vote requirement is to be written into the bill as a requirement for recognition of the employee organization.

It does not appear to be rational to impose such percentages on employee representation. There should be no requirement other than a simple majority of those voting. To require a percentage of all eligible to vote seems to present a hardship on employee organizations. We are after all speaking to only meet and confer arrangements and not to hard and fast bargaining and demands.

Women for Equality urges the Council to pass a bill requiring a simple majority of those voting for recognition of the employees organization.

Thank you for your consideration of this matter.

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS:

Re: Introduction of Bill No. 23-79, Executive's Proposed Revisions to Employee Organization Certification Requirements Under the Meet & Confer Process

The Council had before it for consideration Bill No. 23-79, the County Executive's proposed revisions to employee organization certification requirements under the "Meet and Confer Process."

Councilmembers reviewed the County Executive's memorandum of March 6, 1979, as follows:

> I am sending you an amendment to Article IV, Employer/Employee Relations, which is designed to change the participation requirement for the certification of employee organizations. Under the County's meet and confer law, the existing provisions require that at least sixty (60) percent of the employees eligible to participate in an election must cast ballots in order to validate the election process. The law has been in effect since March, 1977, and only one employee group has been certified. I believe this is due in part to the restrictiveness of the present voting requirement. It is a common practice among both the public and private jurisdictions where there exists a mechanism to recognize employee groups, to do so through a majority vote requirement.

I would appreciate your favorable and earliest consideration of this legislation. Any further information concerning the amendment should be directed to James Torgesen, Assistant to the Personnel Director for Labor Relations, 279-1208.

Following discussion of the fact that Bill No. 23-79, in deleting the requirement that 60% of the eligible voters participate in an election, also deleted any participation requirement at all, two alternate amendments to paragraph (f) were introduced without objection: both amendments restore the deleted requirement, but change the 60% requirement to 50% (in Amendment No. 1) and 30% (in Amendment No. 2).

Councilwoman Crenca suggested that the Council staff confer with representatives of the Montgomery County Government Employees Organization and Executive Branch staff members with respect to the foregoing percentages.

Upon motion of Councilwoman Gelman, duly seconded and without objection, the Council voted to waive the reading of the title of Bill No. 23-79.

Bill No. 23-79, sponsored by the Council President, cosponsored by Councilwoman Crenca, was introduced, as requested by the County Executive. The title of the subject bill is set forth below:

> AN EMERGENCY ACT to amend Subsection 33-43(f) of Section 33-43, titled "Procedures for Certification of Employee Organizations" of Article IV, title "Employer Employee Relations" of Chapter 33, titled "Personnel" of the Montgomery County Code, 1972, as amended, to provide for an exclusive representation upon the casting of a certain percentage of votes.

Re: Introduction of Bill No. 24-79, Industrial Revenue Bond Financing for the Psychiatric Institute of Montgomery County, Inc.

The Council had before it for consideration Bill No. 24-79, the County Executive's proposed Industrial Development Revenue Bond Authorization for the benefit of the Psychiatric Institute project.

"Guarantees"), pursuant to which the Borrower and such affiliated corporations will fully and unconditionally and irrevocably guarantee to the Trustee for the benefit of the holders of the Bonds (among other things) the full and prompt payment of the principal of and interest on the Bonds when and as the same shall become due and payable.

As evidenced by the letter of intent dated December 4, 1978, delivered by the Borrower to the County in accordance with Section 266B(d) of the Enabling Legislation (the "Letter of Intent"), a copy of which is attached to this Act as Exhibit A and made a part hereof, the Industrial Building is to be acquired by a bona fide tenant or purchaser within the meaning of the Enabling Legislation.

CALL OF BILLS FOR FINAL READING:

Re: Enactment of Bill No. 23-79, Employer-Employee Relations Law Amendment

Bill No. 23-79, Amendment to Employer-Employee Relations Law, was called for final reading.

Upon motion of Councilwoman Crenca, duly seconded and without objection, the Council waived the reading of the bill and proceeded to consideration of amendments.

Upon motion of Councilwoman Crenca, duly seconded and without objection, the Council deleted the language on lines 31 through 34, page 2, and inserted in lieu thereof: This Act shall take effect on the 91st day following the date on which it becomes law.

At the suggestion of Ms. Schloo, Legislative Staff Specialist, the Council deleted [33-43] and inserted in lieu thereof 33-45 throughout the bill.

Councilwoman Scull stated that she will vote against this bill. She believes that it is most unwise to go from a requirement that 60% of the eligible voters actually participate in an election to designate an employee organization to no requirement at all regarding the number of participants in the election. In the last such election, the Montgomery County Government Employees Organization (MCGEO) brought out just 58.8% of the eligible voters. She believes that it would be preferable to reduce the 60% requirement somewhat rather than eliminating it entirely. She believes that a requirement for 30% of the voters would be entirely reasonable. Councilwoman Scull stated that she does not agree with the argument that there should be no requirement at all because that is how it is done in many other jurisdictions. The Council is aware that some other jurisdictions are having serious difficulties caused by the demands of irresponsible leaders of employee organizations. These are not private groups whose decisions affect only their own members. The decisions can have serious impact on all of the people of the County. Consequently, it is not unreasonable to require that the leaders have the support of a significant number of employees.

Councilwoman Scull moved, duly seconded, that the Council remove the bracket before the word "and" on page 2, line 11; delete the phrase [sixty percent (60%)] and insert in lieu thereof thirty percent (30%); and delete the bracket after the word "ballots" on line 12.

Councilwoman Scull pointed out that, if 30% of the employees eligible are required to vote to validate an election, an employee organization can be designated as the official organization with only 16% of the employees voting for it. That is not a huge requirement.

Councilwoman Scull's motion failed, Councilmembers Scull and Gelman voting in the affirmative, Councilmembers Fosler, Spector, Crenca and Gudis voting in the negative and Councilman Potter being absent.

Upon motion of Councilwoman Crenca, duly seconded and without objection, the Council voted to waive the reading of the title and proceed to enactment of Bill No. 23-79. By a yea and nay vote, Councilmembers Spector, Gudis, Crenca and Fosler voting in the affirmative, Councilmembers Gelman and Scull voting in the negative and Councilman Potter being absent, Bill No. 23-79, Employer-Employee Relations, was enacted, as amended.

Re: Enactment of Bill No. 48-79, Immunization of Children

Bill No. 48-79, Immunization of Children, was called for final reading.

Upon motion of Councilwoman Scull, duly seconded and without objection, the Council voted to waive the reading of the title and proceed to enactment of Bill No. 48-79. By a yea and nay vote, Councilmembers Gelman, Spector, Scull, Crenca and Fosler voting in the affirmative, Councilman Gudis being temporarily absent, and Councilman Potter being absent, Bill No. 48-79 was enacted.

MEMORANDUM

911418

May 13, 1982

TO: Neal Potter, President, County Council

FROM: Charles W. Gilchrist, County Executive

SUBJECT: Amendments to the Police Labor Relations Law

Upon review of the Police Labor Relations Law, which I signed on April 16, 1982, my staff has determined that the effective date provided for in the Law nullifies specific action dates in the Law which permit submission of petitions by employee organizations for election and/or certification. Specifically, the current effective date of the legislation (July 15) precludes employee organizations from filing petitions between May 1 and June 30 as provided in the Law. Therefore, I am submitting the attached amendments to correct this inconsistency.

My staff has been advised by David Frankel, Legislative Counsel, that these amendments are to be submitted as new Law. Therefore, in compliance with the County Council's rules and procedures, I am providing a response to the following points.

1. Description: Amendments to the Police Labor Relations Law. These amendments change the date for the filing of initial petitions, correct grammatical errors and amend the effective date of the Law.

2. Problem: To correct inconsistencies between dates permitting the filing of initial petitions and the effective date of the Law.

3. Goals and Objectives: The proposed amendments will provide sufficient time for the appointment by the County Executive with confirmation by the County Council of a Permanent Umpire, prior to the date permitting submission by employee organizations of initial petitions for election and/or certification. It is necessary for the Permanent Umpire to be appointed prior to the submission of petitions in order that petition may be filed with the umpire.

4. Coordination: The proposed amendments will not duplicate or overlap any existing laws or programs.

5. Fiscal Impact: The proposed amendments have no impact on capital programs and/or the operating budget.

6. Economic Impact: The proposed amendments have no economic impact.

7. Evaluation: The proposed amendments will not require an additional mechanism for evaluation, but will be a part of the subsequent evaluation of the overall effectiveness of the Law.

8. Experience Elsewhere: Not applicable.

9. Source of Information: Robert Hillman, Special Counsel or Clinton Hilliard, Personnel Director.

As these proposed amendments do not change or in any way alter the intent of the Law, it is my desire to have these amendments expedited as soon as possible. If at all possible, I would like to be able to have these amendments effective by June 1, so that there is sufficient time between the effective date of the Law and the date (July 1) permitting the filing of initial petitions.

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS:

Re: Emergency Bill No. 25-82, Providing an Alternative Method of Assuring Completion of Subdivision Streets & Roads - Introduced

The Council had before it for introduction Bill No. 25-82, providing for an alternative method of assuring completion of subdivision streets and roads.

President Potter indicated that he has some editorial changes to the bill to make it more understandable and readible. He said he would prefer to delay introducing the bill until this afternoon and have a properly edited bill before the Council when the session is continued at 4:30 P.M.

Legislative Counsel Frankel added that there are a number of areas in the bill that need clarification and suggested that it be referred to committee before the public hearing or that introduction be deferred for a week to work out the language to some substantive questions to a technical bill.

Councilwoman Spector suggested that the scope of the advertising of the bill should be broad enough to encompass any needed amendments.

Mr. Merryman of the Executive Branch said he was not familiar with the Council's procedures, but that he could provide technical advice with respect to the language of the bill.

see an economics needs test applied. She is happy that the handicapped were added under the provision of this bill. She cautioned that "minority" should never be interpreted to mean "inferior."

Councilwoman Spector asked about the County's position with respect to challenges from the majority and the voluntary nature of the bill.

Mr. Scull responded that the concept of "minority" is within the bill. The definition is the same as is contained in State legislation. The law provides that no law suit can be filed based on this law. Oversight is by the Council looking at the CAO's annual report to see whether he has done an adequate job. The experience at the State level has been positive and successful beyond expectation. He has not heard of any complaints from majority contractors.

Upon motion of Councilman Scull, duly seconded and without objection, the Council voted to waive the reading of the title and proceed to enactment.

MEMORANDUM

September 28, 1983

Admin. Proc. Act
Fiscal Impact

TO: Montgomery County Council

FROM: Jacqueline H. Rogers, Director
Office of Management & Budget

SUBJECT: Final Fiscal Impact Statement for Bill No. 46-83, Amending the Administrative Procedures Act

This memorandum updates our July 22 fiscal impact analysis concerning Bill No. 46-83, which would amend the "Administrative Procedures Act" of the Montgomery County Code (1972) by establishing an uniform procedure for adoption, review, repeal, notification, and compilation of Executive regulations. The July 22 memorandum stated that the proposed legislation would generate a fiscal impact on the County Operating Budget. This memorandum provides more precise cost estimates associated with Bill No. 46-83.

Consultation with the County Attorney's Office has enabled us to refine the preliminary cost estimates mentioned in the July 22 memorandum. It is now estimated that approximately $43,542 in net total costs would occur in the initial year for design and organization of the COMCOR. Slightly lower costs are expected in subsequent years for review of existing regulations, publication of supplements to the COMCOR, and compilation of the Register on an on-going basis. The anticipated costs are arrayed on the attached page.

No new costs in the Executive Branch will be associated with compilation of Executive Orders and Administrative Procedures inasmuch as these activities have already been completed and future costs for updating and review are already included in the Operating Budget.

In conclusion, enactment of Bill No. 46-83 would generate $43,542 in net Operating Budget expenditures during the first year. Subsequently, after the COMCOR format is developed, it is anticipated that annual costs will be slightly lower--approximately $27,000--inasmuch as most personnel time will be devoted to updating and reviewing Executive regulations.

In this regard, the County Executive is hereby authorized to add or delete additional quasi-judicial authorities from time to time by executive regulation adopted under Method (2) of Section 2A-15 of this Code.

2A-3. Conflicts of laws; interpretations.

(a) Where any provision of this Article conflicts with a substantive provision of an act pertaining to a particular agency, the latter shall prevail.

(b) The provisions of this Article are not intended to confer different or additional powers or jurisdiction on hearing authorities governed hereby; in this regard, this Article shall be construed to be procedural rather than substantive.

(c) The provisions set forth herein shall prevail over any agency rule of procedure and in the event of conflict, the latter shall be amended to conform with this Article; provided, however, that nothing herein shall be construed to limit or restrict a hearing authority from adopting additional rules of procedure as will implement this Article and the substantive provisions under which it operates so long as they are not in conflict with this Article.

(d) No action taken hereunder shall be declared invalid on the basis of procedural irregularities absent a finding of a denial of substantive due process. Substantial compliance with this Article shall be sufficient.

2A-4. Definitions.

The following words and phrases shall have the meaning assigned to them below, except when otherwise indicated in this Article.

2A-9. Emergency hearings.

Where the ordinary processing of any appeal may, due to time constraints, cause injury to any party, the hearing authority may for good cause grant an emergency hearing on its own motion or upon good cause shown by any party thereto. Where an emergency hearing is ordered by a hearing authority, it may suspend or alter any provisions of this Article necessary to avert such undue injury; provided, however, that in such cases, the hearing authority shall notify all parties of the operation of this Section, and make every reasonable effort to provide substantive due process of law to all parties. Failure to achieve the necessary affirmative votes shall act as a denial of the relief requested by the charging party by operation of law. No written opinion in this instance shall be required; provided, however, individual members of the hearing authority may file written reasons supporting their respective positions.

2A-11. Judicial review.

Any party aggrieved by a final decision in a case governed by this Article, whether such decision is affirmative or negative in form, may appeal said decision to the Circuit Court for Montgomery County, Maryland, in accord with the provisions of the Maryland Rules of Procedure governing administrative appeals. Said court shall have the power to affirm, reverse or modify the decision or remand the case for further proceedings as justice may require. CALL OF BILLS FOR FINAL READING:

Re: Enactment of Bill No. 46-83, Executive Regulations

Bill No. 46-83, Executive Regulations, was called for final reading. The Council had before it for consideration Draft No. 5, dated November 30, 1983.

Councilman Scull said that, following the Council's worksession on the bill at its Legislative Session of November 22, 1983, the subject bill was reviewed by the Council's Government Structure, Automation, and Regulation (GSA) Committee. The Committee attempted to respond to Councilmembers' concerns which resulted in some additional amendments being made. Mr. Scull recommended the bill for enactment, stating that it is a credit to the good working relationship of the County Executive's and Council's staff. He said it touches every subject with which the County government is involved. Mr. Scull said that the subject bill, along with the civil fine bill of last year and the code revision efforts of future years, is part of an effort to standardize, streamline, and modernize the Code to make it more useful to the public. He expressed appreciation to the staff for its work, noting that their work will be appreciated even more when regulations begin to appear in readable form and can be located easily.

Councilman Potter said that the subject legislation has been needed for some time. He hopes the process will remain clear, the files of executive regulations will remain accessible and executive regulations will become easier to understand. Mr. Potter said that, because of the length of the subject bill, some amendments which should have been made may have been overlooked; if this is the case, the Council can further amend the subject bill later.

Vice President Gudis said that Ms. Orlansky, Mr. Scull's assistant, had provided him with answers to the questions he raised at the Council's worksession on the bill. Mr. Gudis said that he had discussed traffic controls and policy concerns with Mr. Cichy and representatives of a citizens association last week and that Mr. Cichy has agreed to keep the Council informed concerning traffic control policy decisions.

Upon motion of Councilman Scull, duly seconded and without objection, the Council approved the following amendments to the bill:
(underlining indicates additions to current law, brackets indicate deletions from current law; capital letters indicate additions to the bill as introduced; and strike-throughs indicate deletions from the bill as introduced):

In this regard, the county executive is hereby authorized to add or delete additional quasi-judicial authorities from time to time by executive regulation adopted [pursuant to [chapter 2-105] UNDER METHOD (2) OF Section 2A-15 of this ~~code~~ CODE.

2A-3. Conflicts of laws; interpretations.

(a) Where any provision of this [chapter] Article conflicts with a substantive provision of an act pertaining to a particular agency, the latter shall prevail.

(b) The provisions of this [chapter] Article are not intended to confer different or additional powers or jurisdiction on hearing authorities governed hereby; in this regard, this [chapter] Article shall be construed to be procedural rather than substantive.

(c) The provisions set forth herein shall prevail over any agency rule of procedure and in the event of conflict, the latter shall be amended to conform with this [chapter] Article; provided, however, that nothing herein shall be construed to limit or restrict a hearing authority from adopting additional rules of procedure as will implement this [chapter] Article and the substantive provisions under which it operates so long as they are not in conflict with this [chapter] Article.

(d) No action taken hereunder shall be declared invalid on the basis of procedural irregularities absent a finding of a denial of substantive due process. Substantial compliance with this [chapter] Article shall be sufficient.

2A-4. Definitions.

The following words and phrases shall have the meaning assigned to them below, except when otherwise indicated in this [chapter] Article.

Hearing authority. * * *

2A-9. Emergency hearings.

Where the ordinary processing of any appeal may, due to time constraints, cause injury to any party, the hearing authority may for good cause grant an emergency hearing on its own motion or upon good cause shown by any party thereto. Where an emergency hearing is ordered by a hearing authority, it may suspend or alter any provisions of this [chapter] Article necessary to avert such undue injury; provided, hwoever, that in such cases, the hearing authority shall notify all parties of the operation of this section, and make every reasonable effort to provide substantive due process of law to all parties. * * *

2A-11. Judicial review.

Any party aggrieved by a final decision in a case governed by this [chapter] Article, whether such decision is affirmative or negative in form may appeal said decision to the circuit court for Montgomery County, Maryland, in accord with the provisions of the Maryland Rules of Procedure governing administrative appeals. * * *

Moderate income: The phrase "moderate income" means levels of income which prohibit or severely limit the financial ability of persons to purchase or to rent housing in Montgomery County and which, therefore, based upon the experience in the housing market in Montgomery County, require that the type of moderately priced housing intended to be developed under the provisions of this chapter be constructed.

Moderate income levels shall be established by written regulations which shall be [promulgated] ~~by~~ ADOPTED UNDER Method (1) ~~pursuant to~~ OF Section 2A-~~14(c)(1)~~15 of this ~~code~~CODE and revised by the county executive at such time as corresponds with the promulgation and revision of the executive regulations which establish the sales and rental prices for moderately priced dwelling units, as required by section 25A-3 herein, or more frequently as deemed necessary by the county executive. [Not less than seven days prior to promulgation of such written regulations, the county executive shall notify the county council of such moderate income levels or changes thereto with supporting data and reasons therefore].

In establishing the moderate income levels, the county executive shall consider, but shall not be limited to a consideration of, the price established for the sale or rental of dwelling units developed pursuant to the provisions of the chapter plus the term, interest rate and taxes applicable to the financing of such dwelling units, the estimated levels of income necessary to finance the acquisition of such dwelling units, the family size and number of dependents.

Moderately priced dwelling unit. The phrase "moderately priced dwelling unit" means a dwelling unit which meets the specifications of either paragraph (1) or (2) below:

(1) A dwelling unit which is constructed, sold or rented under a federal program to assist the construction of housing for families of low income, namely, (i) "conventional" or "turnkey" construction of dwelling units for the County Housing Opportunities Commission (hereinafter the "Commission') or construction in reliance upon an agreement by the Commission prior to commencement of construction to enter into a lease (commonly known as "Turnkey leasing") or purchase contract for dwelling units after completion thereof, as authorized by the United States Housing Act of 1937 (codified as 12 U.S.C. 1401-1436), as amended, or (ii) provision of dwelling units under the federal rent supplement program authorized in section 101 of the Housing and Urban Development Law (codified as 12 U.S.C. 1701s), as amended, or (iii) a dwelling unit which is constructed, sold or rented under a federal program to assist the construction or occupancy of housing for families under the programs for homeownership, rental and/or cooperative housing authorized in section 235 and 236 of the National Housing Act (codified as 12 U.S.C. 1715z and 1715z-1), as amended, or (iv) any other dwelling unit which is constructed, sold or rented under a federal, state or local government program identified by the county executive in written regulations, ~~promulgated by~~ ADOPTED UNDER Method (1) ~~pursuant to~~ OF Section 2A-~~14(c)(1)~~15 of this ~~code~~CODE, as designed to assist the construction or occupancy of housing for families of low or moderate income as defined under those programs.

(2) A dwelling unit which is sold or rented in accordance with the following:

a. Sales housing. The sales price of housing for sale for single-family dwelling units (including closing costs and brokerage fees) shall not exceed the applicable maximum sales price set forth herein or as established from time to time by the county executive by written regulation, ~~promulgated by~~ ADOPTED UNDER Method (1) ~~pursuant to~~ OF Section ~~2A-14(c)(1)~~ 2A-15 of this ~~code~~ CODE in accordance with the schedule of adjustments outlined below:

b. Rental housing. The rental price, including utilities and parking, for any dwelling unit described in subparagraph (2) of the definition of the term moderately priced dwelling unit shall not exceed the maximum rental price for such dwelling unit, as established by written regulation [promulgated] ADOPTED by the county executive, ~~by~~ UNDER Method (1) ~~pursuant to~~ OF Section 2A-~~14(c)(1)~~15 of this ~~code~~CODE, or as might be applicable under any system of rent controls in effect in the county.

The rental price of dwelling units rented pursuant to the provisions of this chapter shall be established by written regulations [promulgated] ADOPTED by the county executive, ~~by~~ UNDER Method (1) ~~pursuant to~~ OF Section 2A-~~14(c)(1)~~15 of this ~~code~~CODE, at the times and following the procedures set forth above for sales housing. Different rental prices shall be established for units where utility costs are borne by the tenant and not included in the rent.

The county executive, in determining the rental price, shall take into consideration the current rent payable to lessors of dwelling units under programs identified by the executive, pursuant to the definition of moderately priced dwelling unit. The county executive in determining the rental price shall seek, in addition to the above guideline, such other information as from time to time may be required, such as rents currently being paid to lessors in the private market, and shall consult with the rental industry, employers and professional and citizens groups to obtain statistical information, including vacancy ratios in available rental housing in the private market and current general market and economic conditions, which may enable the county executive to arrive at a current maximum rental price for moderately priced dwelling units. Consideration shall be given to cost of construction, capital and operating costs of such rental units and changes from time to time in the income levels of persons of low and moderate income and their ability to rent housing. The county executive shall consider also the extent to which, consistent with the requirements of county codes and housing standards, the cost of rental housing can be reduced by the elimination of certain amenities.

25A-6. Sale or rental of moderately priced dwelling units.

(a) Sale or rental to general public.

(1) Subject to the provisions of this subsection, every moderately priced dwelling unit required by this chapter shall be offered to the general public for sale or rental to a good faith purchaser or renter to be used for his or her own residence, with the exception of units offered for sale or rent with the assistance of, and subject to the conditions of, a subsidy under a federal, state or local government program, identified in regulations [promulgated] ADOPTED by the county executive ~~by~~ UNDER Method (1) ~~pursuant to~~ OF Section 2A-~~14(c)(1)~~15 of this ~~code~~CODE, whose purpose is to provide housing for persons of low or moderate income.

No applicant shall sell or lease any unit without first obtaining such certificates from purchaser or lessee. Copies of certificates to applicants from purchasers or lessees shall be furnished to the Department of Housing and Community Development and shall be maintained on file with the department in such a manner as the department shall provide. Prior to the sale by an applicant or by the Housing Opportunities Commission to any purchaser of any moderately priced dwelling unit constructed under this RE: Emergency Bill 3-93, Collective Bargaining - Process and Deadlines.

Dear President Praisner:

On behalf of MCGEO Local 400, IAFF Local 1664 and FOP Lodge 35, I am submitting the following comments regarding Bill 3-93 Collective Bargaining - Process and Deadlines.

Emergency Bill 3-93 would amend sections of both the Police Labor Relations Law (Chapter 33, §33-80) and the County Collective Bargaining Law (Chapter 33 §33-108.) The amendments were prompted by a Charter amendment passed in the November 1992 General Election. As you know, all three unions participated on a summer work group and supported the Charter amendment then and later during the election. Our expectation at that time was that the two collective bargaining laws would be changed to adjust the respective dates for Council action/approval. However, the proposed legislation goes much further, hence our objection.

With one suggestion explained infra, we support the "conforming" changes proposed, i.e. date changes. It is the other "technical [and] stylistic" amendments we find objectionable. The existing laws were the subject of considerable Council debate and discussion when they were first written. Indeed, I was present during all work sessions on the Police Labor Relations Law and recall that every word was scrutinized, considered and carefully put into context. Moreover, there have been few problems with the other sections designated for "technical" and "stylistic" amendment and all the parties know, in practice, what existing laws mean. In addition, we have printed copies of these laws and trained our stewards and officials in them. While it is quite simple to issue an addendum to existing copies changing the Council action dates with a reason for the change, our task is much more complex and costly in terms of printing, resources, and time when other changes are made.

Of great concern to us is the insertion of the word "sufficient" before funds in both laws. This is a major change and is contrary to the spirit and intent of the Charter amendments which require these laws. And this change would create a conflict between existing law and Lodge 35's contract which expires on June 30, 1994. Sections 33-80(g) and 33-108(j)(2). Also, the provisions for "majority vote" were carefully considered in earlier Council work sessions. Sections 33-80(d) and 33-108(i). We do not know the true meaning of these changes or the effect they will have.

(301) 948-4286 • FAX (301) 590-0317

It is also pointed out that arbitrators, the County Labor Relations Administrator, the Police Permanent Umpire, and union and County officials are familiar with current law and suggest that the unnecessary changes may create considerable confusion. And provisions proposed for change relate to other sections not considered by this bill. See, for example, §33-80(d) establishing a specific date for the end of bargaining. This date sets the framework for bargaining and serves to promote good faith negotiations. When the parties commence bargaining on November 1, they do not know when, or if, impasse will result. But, prior to November 10, an impasse neutral is selected and must "be available during the period January 20 to February 1." Cf. §33-81(a) and (b)(1).

Penultimately, if the dates for submission to Council are to be changed by 16 days for the County Collective Bargaining Law and six days for the Police Labor Relations Law, the dates for extended negotiations should be moved beyond the May 10 date in the proposed County Collective Bargaining Law and the existing Police Labor Relations Law. This suggestion is consistent with the Charter amendment.

Finally, while the date change may be legitimate reason for emergency legislation, we see no emergency in the need to make other changes, and note that while the Personnel Director was not emphatic in his testimony on behalf of the County Executive, he did state that the Executive supports the date changes. He did not testify in support of any other changes.

MFP and Council consideration of these comments will be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,

Walt

Walter E. Bader

Council Hearing Room

PRESENT

Michael L. Subin, Chair
Nancy Dacek Isiah Leggett

SUBJECT: Meeting with the Board of Trustees of Montgomery College

Dr. Parilla, President, Montgomery College, reviewed the FY 94 operating budget adopted by the Board of Trustees in accordance with the chart provided, noting the gap between the adopted budget and the Council's spending affordability guidelines. He asked that, if the Council is able to adjust its affordability guidelines, it consider the factors over which the College has no control, such as its obligations for the funding of social security payments and post-retirement health benefits. Mr. Locksley, Chair of the Board of Trustees, pointed out that most of the gap between the adopted budget and the affordability guidelines can be attributed to these obligations.

Mr. Subin said it had been his hope that there would be a way to distinguish between expenditure authority and appropriations for the school system and College. Mr. Lehman, member of the Board of Trustees, advised that including non-County revenues in the affordability limitations discourages efforts to identify new revenue sources or to increase revenues from other sources.

Mr. King, Finance Director, Montgomery College, provided information about the change in the standards with respect to the funding of post-retirement health benefits, noting that the College is now required to set funds aside for these benefits. He advised that the College proposes funding this liability over a 20-year period.

Discussion followed concerning the spending affordability process. Mr. King advised that the College does not receive a benefit if it acquires a grant or is able to increase revenues because it is constrained by the spending ceiling. Mr. Subin said he believes the distinction must be made between expenditure authority and appropriations, and expressed a willingness to sponsor legislation, if it is determined that such a distinction cannot be made without a legislative amendment. He proposed that Mr. Sherer determine whether an amendment to the spending affordability law is needed or whether modification to the process can be achieved through another mechanism, such as the adoption of a resolution. He noted that such a change would not impact

County appropriations but would provide an incentive for the College to explore other revenue sources, such as increased user fees. Ms. Dacek pointed out that other departments and agencies receive grants and revenues from sources other than County appropriations, and noted the need to develop a solution which addresses the general issue of the relationship of the spending affordability guidelines and other revenue sources for all budgets.

ACTION: Instructed Mr. Sherer to determine what actions must be taken to allow for the distinction to be made between County appropriations and other revenue resources when establishing the spending affordability guidelines.

Dr. Parilla responded to inquiries about the enrollment at the three campuses, and provided information on the increase in the number of students needing English skills. He noted that the College is considering establishing a multi-cultural resource center at the Takoma Park campus, and advised that it is interested in discussing the possibility with the County to determine whether a partnership can be established to develop such a center. Mr. Subin noted that some funding may be available from the private sector. Dr. Parilla advised that the College has received a contract to develop a video and other materials to train small businesses on how to do business in other countries. Mr. Subin said it may be useful to schedule a joint meeting of the Education and Planning, Housing, and Economic Development (PHED) Committees with representatives of the College and the private sector leadership to discuss the possibilities of a public-private partnership. Dr. Parilla advised that the College would be very interested in leading such an effort. Dr. Lehman noted that this proposal brings attention to the concerns raised earlier about the spending affordability process, and pointed out that any funds which the College may receive as a result of a partnership with the private sector will have an impact on the funds which can be expended in support of the general education program.

ACTION: Instructed Mr. Sherer to explore the possibility of scheduling a meeting with the Education and PHED Committees and representatives of the College and the private sector to discuss the interest of the College in establishing a multi-cultural resource center and in undertaking other efforts to assist businesses in their relationships with other countries and cultures, and to examine whether a public-private partnership to facilitate these efforts may be feasible.

SUBJECT: Supplemental Appropriation to the FY 93 Operating Budget of the Montgomery County Public Schools (MCPS) for the Adult Basic Education (ABE) Program. in the amount of $27.000

Ms. Hughes, MCPS staff, responded to inquiries about the funding of the ABE program, and advised that a condition of the grant is that no user fees be charged. She said she believes the higher cost to provide these services in Montgomery County accounts for the difference between the funding provided by the Federal Government and the total funding of the program.

ACTION: Requested that, prior to Council action on the supplemental appropriation request, MCPS staff provide information on the services which are mandated for the ABE program and additional services which the MCPS may be providing beyond those which are mandated, and requested that this information be provided in the future for mandated programs when funding requests are transmitted to the Council.

SUBJECT: Montgomery County Public Schools (MCPS) Enrollment Projections

Using graphics, Mr. Crispell, MCPS staff, reviewed the components of the enrollment forecast, enrollment history and projections for the County from 1980 through 2010, enrollment history and projections for Maryland and the United States, and data on enrollment by grade for the 1992-93 school year for the Blair, Paint Branch, Sherwood, Springbrook, Quince Orchard, and Seneca Valley Clusters. He responded to inquiries and provided information on the factors which impact migration into and out of the system.

Mr. Subin noted the impact of new construction on in-migration, and inquired about whether there may be ways to get a better determination of this impact. Mr. Crispell advised that builders are surveyed with respect to their expectations, and this information is incorporated by school into the data base which he uses to develop his projections. He noted that the regional forecasts which are developed by the Montgomery County Planning Board (MCPB) are also used.

Mr. Dedrick, MCPB staff, reviewed factors which indicate that the economy is improving, and expressed the view that the MCPS assumptions with respect to in-migration are conservative.

Mr. Huggins, representing the Board of Realtors, advised that the Board does not track the composition of families moving into and out of the County, but said it is his observation that more families with younger children are moving into the County. He provided data on the increase in the residential sales which occurred in 1992 by area of the County, and said it is clear that the economic recovery has begun. To assist the County in collecting data on family composition, he suggested that the County transfer form which is completed at the time of settlement be modified to include a question on the number and ages of children in the family. Mr. Subin said he believes the information would also be useful to Montgomery College.

ACTION: Instructed Mr. Sherer to request that the appropriate Executive Branch staff work with staff of the MCPB and MCPS to explore the possibility of using the transfer form to collect data on family composition to assist the MCPS in developing enrollment projections.

PLANNING, HOUSING, AND ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT COMMITTEE

Thursday, February 18, 1993
3:47 P.M. - 5:27 P.M.
PIC Conference Room in Silver Spring

PRESENT

William E. Hanna, Jr., Chair
Bruce Adams
Derick Berlage

SUBJECT: Private Industry Council (PIC) Job Training Programs

The Committee met with members of PIC and representatives of the Office of Economic Development (OED) to receive a briefing on the job training programs coordinated by PIC. Mr. Stewart, Chair; Mr. Bozarth; and Mr. Zeller, Executive Director, PIC, responded to questions of Committee members concerning the various programs and funding sources.

Mr. Adams stated that PIC and other organizations should develop a clear plan to be ready to take advantage of summer jobs programs and other Federal initiatives that will be funded as a result of President Clinton's economic stimulus plan.

Mr. Berlage requested information on the total amount of funding received by the various job training programs coordinated by PIC that is leveraged with County money. He requested that this information be displayed in the form of a pie chart. In response to an inquiry as to whether PIC has a breakdown of the client population in terms of different categories and groups of people served, Mr. Zeller stated that PIC can provide this information for the portion of the client population that is not funded by the County, and for portions of the County funding which is earmarked for specific populations.

Mr. Hanna stated that the Committee's direction to OED and PIC was to combine all of the County-funded programs into a single integrated system. He stated that each individual program has the administrative support necessary to make the program work, and, while administrative support is necessary, these funds could be devoted to job training programs if the administration was consolidated.

Mr. Bozarth stated that PIC does not have the intention of combining all of the programs under one name; PIC is coordinating the programs and creating efficiencies. He stated that PIC's development of a central point of intake could serve all of the various programs. He stated that there are other efficiencies that will be identified and implemented.

Mr. Adams stated that he agrees with Mr. Hanna in concept, but noted that a number of the job training programs have administrative overhead which is designed to serve a series of other programs and functions. It would not necessarily be more efficient to take the job training component out of each of these entities and combine them into a large training operation. He requested that PIC examine the question from this point of view in time for the Committee's review of job training programs in the operating budget.

Senior Legislative Analyst Orlin noted that many of the job training programs are individual efforts and not part of a large agency. He requested information on the number of administrative staff for each program, and whether it is a stand alone program or part of another agency.

Mr. Hanna stated that, in difficult economic times such as these, the establishment of priorities for government programs is the single most important thing the Council can do. Unfortunately, there will be many good programs eliminated as a result of budget cuts that meet the criteria of good programs but they are not a high priority when there are limited resources. He noted the variety of clients and population groups served by the various job training programs, and stated that, if the objective of PIC is to place the maximum number of people into jobs, it would be inappropriate to spend large amounts of money for job training programs for some segments of the population. Noting that some client categories are easier to train and place in jobs than others, if the objective is to place the greatest number of people in jobs, the Council should cut funding for certain groups because it would be better able to achieve its objective by directing these funds to other programs. He stated that that is the kind of issue that elected officials should address. Mr. Hanna stated that the Council will not abandon programs for some of these groups, but it does need to give consideration to whether it is wise to spread scare resources around to all the different categories of clients when substantial classes of clients can be identified that have a greater likelihood of being placed in jobs. Mr. Hanna noted that some client groups, such as women and senior citizens, may fall into more than one category of job training programs. Ideally, PIC would establish a cross classification system to track these clients, but he is not sure that funding is available for this purpose. If PIC could decide which categories are easiest to work with and represent the largest number of clients likely to be placed in jobs and then concentrate on what needs to be done to serve those different categories, PIC will be able to serve the greatest number of people for the least amount of money.

Mr. Hanna noted that yesterday he and a small group of elected officials were invited to meet with the new Secretary of the Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). The Secretary provided insights on some new initiatives with which HUD is involved. For example, Mr. Hanna stated that all present recipients of Community Development Block Grant funds will be given a bonus in the amount of 50% to 60% of the amount of money normally appropriated to that jurisdiction. The idea is spend the money on job-producing programs and projects immediately. He stated that he has met with Mr. Ferrara, Director, County Department of Housing and Community Development, to determine whether the County has any projects which are ready to be implemented. Montgomery County will probably receive $1 million to $3 million under this program. He stated that this will result in new construction contracts that may employ some of the clients that PIC Is trying to place. In addition, HUD will make available $450 million on a grant application basis for new programs to serve the homeless, including buildings and facilities, without exclusions. Projects that involve job production will be given favorable treatment. HUD is seeking new and creative ways of using this money and has not put any limitations on it. He asked Mr. Ferrara to talk to Mr. Short, the County's Secretary of Health and Human Services, to determine what Montgomery County can do to take advantage of this money. Mr. Hanna requested that PIC inform the County Government if it has any ideas on how it can use these new funds which will be made available.

Mr. Zeller stated that PIC will provide the Committee with information on the return on the investment of County funds and how expenditures for this purpose save other County expenditures, such as in the Department of Social Services, and the amount of revenue generated in income taxes.

Following the discussion, Committee members toured the PIC Office at 8500 Colesville Road in Silver Spring.

MANAGEMENT & FISCAL POLICY COMMITTEE

Thursday, February 18, 1993
9:05 A.M. - 9:16 A.M.
Council Conference Room

Michael L. Subin William E. Hanna, Jr.

ABSENT

Marilyn J. Praisner, Chair

Mr. Hanna stated that he has been asked to chair the meeting in the absence of Ms. Praisner who is ill.

SUBJECT: Bill 37-92. Construction Excise Tax (CET) - Postponement

The Committee had before it memoranda from Senior Legislative Attorney Faden, dated February 18, 1993, attaching the bill and related material.

Mr. Hanna stated the subject bill proposes to postpone the effective date, the sunset date, and the evaluation date of the CET for one year. The County Executive has indicated that he would accept a six-month delay in the effective date of the CET if the time of payment were advanced from issuance of the certificate of occupancy to an earlier point. Mr. Hanna stated that, although he would prefer that the bill be repealed, he will support it. Mr. Subin also agreed to support the bill.

ACTION: Recommended approval of Bill 37-92.

SUBJECT: Supplemental Appropriation and Amendment to the FY 93 Operating Budget of the Montgomery County Government (Management Systems Development Nondepartmental Account). Department of Information Systems & Telecommunications (DIST). for Construction Excise Tax Automation. in the Amount of $280.000

Mr. Hanna stated that he does not support the provision of funds to implement the CET. Therefore he will vote against the supplemental appropriation.

Mr. Subin stated that he believes it is unrealistic to establish an automation system for the CET. He suggested that, if the CET is implemented, the County include CET calculations in an automation system that is already being used by the County. He pointed out that there is already a system in place in connection with the development impact tax currently being levied in Germantown and Eastern Montgomery County.

Mr. Rasmussen, Director, DIST, stated that there is a mechanism in place for collecting the tax, but the calculation of the CET is different from the calculation of other taxes collected by the County. Mr. Hubbard, staff, Department of Environmental Protection, explained the complexities involved in the calculation of the CET. Mr. Subin suggested that, if the CET is implemented, a further examination of the County's automation systems should be examined to determine whether the process for calculating the CET could be incorporated into a process which is already in place.

ACTION: Recommended disapproval of the supplemental appropriation.

The Committee voted to disapprove the supplemental appropriation at this time because of the potential that the CET will be postponed for a year; in that case the funds for any system adjustment could be considered later.

SUBJECT: Bill 3-93. Collective Bargaining - Process and Deadlines

The Committee had before it a memorandum from Mr. Faden, dated February 18, 1993, setting forth issues for discussion, and attaching the subject bill.

Mr. Hanna referred to objections raised by Mr. Bader, President, Fraternal Order of Police, in his letter of February 12, 1993, regarding stylistic and technical changes made to the bill. He noted that Mr. Faden has responded to these issues in his memorandum.

ACTION: Recommended approval of Bill 3-93.

PUBLIC SAFETY COMMITTEE

9:05 A.M. to 12:15 P.M.
Council Hearing Room

PRESENT

Betty Ann Krahnke, Chair
Nancy Dacek

ABSENT

Gail Ewing

Ms. Ewing was absent because of a family emergency, and a member of her staff attended the session on her behalf.

SUBJECT: Cabin John Fire Station #10 - Roof

Ms. Krahnke added this item to the agenda to discuss a recent newspaper report of an evacuation of the building due to severe roof leakage. She asked that the Committee be briefed on the incident. Neil Shorb, Staff Director, Fire and Rescue Commission, explained that the roof was in the process of being repaired and the contractor failed to cover his work properly prior to recent heavy rains. The contractor's insurance will cover the damage from this incident. He emphasized that the roof has had continual roof leaks since it was built in 1984, which was the reason for the repair work. Ms. Krahnke asked for information on why the contractor who built the original roof was not held responsible for the work. She believes that the Department of Facilities and Services should assure that work is done properly in the first place and that if it is not, the contractor must be held accountable for unacceptable work. It was explained that the County now has a roofing engineer to help assure that roofs are designed and built properly.

Ms. Krahnke asked that the Council be apprised of emergency situations before reading about them in the newspapers.

SUBJECT: Briefing - Underground Storage Tanks

The Committee reviewed a memorandum, dated February 16, 1993, from Legislative Analyst Davidson, which raised some issues for Committee consideration.

The Committee was advised that the Executive plans to conduct a public hearing on the Master Fire Defense Plan, and then the results and other documentation will be transmitted to the Council. More specific details will be provided at the Council's March 4 session on the Capital Improvements Program (CIP).

Mr. Shorb described the membership on the Underground Storage Tank Work Group and the procedures that were used to develop and solicit comments on its report. He said that four different fire corporations had technical concerns, and that Bethesda Station 26 advised that it did not want its tank removed. He said that the Fire and Rescue Commission was aware of their concerns, but was attempting to reduce the number of fueling sites.

Ms. Krahnke commented that it would be helpful to incorporate the recommendations on underground storage tanks and maintenance shop centralization into the Master Fire Defense Plan. On the issue of centralized maintenance, Mr. Shorb explained that a Commission steering committee has repeatedly recommended the implementation of a satellite vehicle maintenance program, but the Executive is not yet ready to commit funding to implement this approach. In the meantime, the Commission is trying to encourage departments to embrace the concept of standardized maintenance and development of a uniform reporting and maintenance plan on an informal basis. Ms. Krahnke recommended that data be collected on the cost effectiveness of converting to a satellite maintenance program. Mr. Solomon, President of the Bethesda Fire Department, said that proposed station closures in the area could seriously impact the ability of the Bethesda units to refuel if the Station's fuel tank is removed. Ms. Krahnke agreed with these concerns, and expressed concern about trying to make decisions on fuel storage tanks based on assumptions that are not yet approved policy.

There was discussion about the operational impact of off-site fueling. It was explained that the apparatus would have to make special trips, but it was noted that the refueling could sometimes be scheduled while the units are already out. The Committee was advised that underground storage tank replacements are coordinated with other projects in the CIP, and that the schedule is in place for the next two or three years. Mr. Fred Edwards, DFS, explained that changes to the CIP or the master plan would impact the replacement schedule. On the issue of making the fuel depots accessible for fire/rescue use on a 24-hour basis, it was clarified that the adjustments that would be required pertain to logistical operations as opposed to capital projects. Mr. Shorb explained that the work group is still considering whether or not to pursue centralized fuel procurement. It was explained that sometimes the corporations are able to purchase fuel cheaper than the rates the County can provide. On the issue of converting some stations from oil to gas or propane heating, it was explained that 20% to 40% of the operating costs could be saved depending on the energy efficiency of the building. The conversion costs would be approximately $90,000 per building, or lower if the fuel boiler can accommodate natural gas.

ACTION: Requested that Council staff be provided with a schedule of tank replacements, and information on other CIP projects planned for these stations as well.

SUBJECT: Executive Regulation 105-92. Pretrial Release Services Fee

The Committee had before it a memorandum, dated February 16, 1993, from Legislative Attorney Beninger, explaining the Executive's proposal to collect the administrative service fee ten days after the defendant's conviction in order to avoid administrative costs of providing refunds if there is no conviction.

The Committee discussed concerns about problems associated with the collection of these fees and what sanctions are possible if the fee is not paid. It was noted that Montgomery County is one of the only jurisdictions in the State moving forward in this effort. It may be determined that the administrative costs of this program will be prohibitive. The Committee members pointed out that the program will have to be monitored closely.

ACTION: Recommended approval as submitted.

SUBJECT: Executive Regulation 106-92. Procedure for Determining Fees for Weekend Prisoners

ACTION: Recommended approval as submitted.

SUBJECT: Briefing on Future Correctional Resource Needs

The Committee had before it a memorandum, dated February 11, 1993, from Legislative Analyst Davidson, which contained the following attachments for this briefing: Summary of December Briefing to the County Executive on Future Correctional Resource Needs; Briefing Summary of Future Correctional Resource Needs for the Department of Correction and Rehabilitation; and, Recidivism Rates Among a Work-Release Treatment Population in Montgomery County. Mr. Devon Brown, Director, Department of Correction and Rehabilitation (DCR), and members of his staff presented the briefing based on these materials, and were available to answer questions from the Committee members.

Ms. Krahnke asked for information on the possibility of the County receiving some of the additional State funding that is being considered by the Governor for alternative community services. Mr. Brown advised that it is unlikely that any additional State funding for this program would be coming to Montgomery County, since the County's program was designed as the model program. Additional State efforts would be directed at developing similar programs elsewhere in the State. He said that the Department is reviewing experiences in other jurisdictions with regard to day reporting as an interim sanction.

In the discussion on the Pretrial Services Unit (PTSU), Ms. Krahnke asked about the effect of the PTSU on reducing the inmate population in the Detention Center. Mr. Kent Mason, Director of Community Corrections, reported that between 100 and 130 jail beds are being saved through the PTSU, and between 30 and 60 beds are saved though the Community Accountability and Reintegration Treatment (CART) program. He referred to the study performed by the Correctional Services Group, Inc., which concluded that the impact of the PTSU on jail bed days saved would be 10%, and noted that the actual results have been higher than the study projected. Responding to Ms. Krahnke's question about how the CART program saves beds in the Detention Center, Mr. Mason explained that when someone is moved from the PRC to CART it then allows someone from the jail to go into the PRC. He responded to Committee members' questions about staffing levels, average lengths of stays, etc., noting that more detailed information will be provided for the Committee's budget deliberations.

Ms. Claire Gunster-Kirby presented the briefing on the pre-trial day reporting and Ms. Debbie Lyons-Prince explained the post-trial reporting, as set forth in the summary. The Committee members questioned whether day reporting is being used by the judges for punitive purposes for probation violators, and asked where they would otherwise be sending these persons. It was noted that in most cases these persons would not be sent back to the Detention Center. Noting that day reporting should be used to reduce beds, Ms. Krahnke said that the issue of net widening needs to be closely analyzed to identify the benefits and to see if the day reporting program can be structured to avoid net widening. She said that the State is funding this function for other counties. Mr. Brown said that the State considers day reporting to be a State function, and would be elated if the County would take on the responsibility.

Dr. Jeanne Hansman, Department of Information Systems and Telecommunications (DIST) reviewed for the Committee the evaluation of the validity of the Institute for Law and Justice (ILJ) Population Projects, as described in the documentation. Ms. Krahnke noted that these projections should contain a caveat that they assume the existing alternative and community correction programs will continue and that bed space will continue to be reduced by the same number. It was pointed out that the earlier projections did not take into consideration that as the County's baby boom generation is getting older, it is being replaced by an immigrant population.

Mr. Brown explained the conclusions as described in the report. He said that the conclusions would be modified where necessary to reflect some of these discussions.

Ms. Krahnke said that she has asked the Executive for an update to the August 11, 1992 memorandum on the work plan for the new Detention Center project. The possibility of a one-year delay will be discussed by the Committee during the CIP deliberations. Ms. Dacek commented that this briefing was one part of the process. Ms. Krahnke expressed concern about the section in the report on the Detention Center capacity, and requested information on the source of the assumptions that were used. It was clarified that these findings and conclusions were not endorsed by the Executive, but rather were a department recommendation to the Executive, which he used to decide upon a one-year delay. Ms. Krahnke added that the issues relating to the new detention center have not yet been determined, such as whether there should be one or two facilities, how many beds are needed, and when they will be needed.

Ms. Rita Hughes, of the University of Maryland's Center for Substance Abuse Research, presented her study on Recidivism Rates Among Work Release/Treatment Population in Montgomery County. Mr. Mason explained that this is the first of a series of studies on recidivism that the Department will be conducting. Ms. Hughes explained that the purpose of the study was to get a better understanding of the PRC population findings. It was noted that the Detention Center rearrest rate will be included in the second part of the study. Ms. Krahnke suggested that the study include an analysis of the benefit of funding the General Education Diploma (GED) program at the Detention Center, i.e. what is the recidivism rate of those with diplomas compared to those without. She also asked for information about the impact that various staffing levels may have on recidivism rates; and an analysis of how recidivism is affected by the CART program.

The Committee members thanked all those who participated in preparing and presenting the material for this briefing.

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS

SUBJECT: Bill No. 8-93. Animal Control - Aviaries

ACTION: Introduced Draft No. 3 sponsored by Councilmember Dacek.

Councilmember Dacek stated that the bill provides clarifying amendments to the County Animal Control law.

CALL OF BILLS FOR FINAL READING

SUBJECT: Bill 3-93. Collective Bargaining - Process and Deadlines

The Council had before it a memorandum from Senior Legislative Attorney Faden, dated March 2, 1993, presenting the Committee report and setting forth issues for discussion.

President Praisner stated that the bill revises the deadlines for Council action on the collective bargaining agreement to make them more consistent with the revised budget timetable adopted in last year's amendment to the County Charter. The bill also makes some technical and stylistic revisions. She stated that, due to illness, she was not present at the Management and Fiscal Policy (MFP) Committee meeting when the bill was discussed.

Councilmember Hanna stated that the MFP Committee considered the bill and recommended that it be enacted. With respect to the letter from Mr. Bader, President, Fraternal Order of Police (FOP), dated February 12, 1993, Mr. Hanna said the Committee carefully reviewed the concerns of the unions (Lodge 35 of the FOP, the Montgomery County Government Employees' Organization, Local 400, United Food and Commercial Workers, Local 400, and the International Association of Fire Fighters, Local 1664) and believed that the staff explanation concerning the revisions was a satisfactory response to the issues raised by the unions. Councilmember Subin added that, at the Committee meeting, representatives of the unions were not present and no objections to the bill were raised.

In response to questions raised, Mr. Faden directed the Council's attention to page 2 of his memorandum, noting that the unions objected to language added on page 3, lines 44-45, and on pages 4-5, lines 81-82, which clarifies that the Council's decision on funding wage and benefit adjustments is made on a year-to-year basis. The unions did not say exactly how they believe these revisions change the meaning of the law. Mr. Faden stated that the changes made reflect the generally accepted meaning of the law. He stated that he has not discussed these concerns with union representatives.

President Praisner stated that the amendment on page 4 which substitutes the word resolution for [majority vote] implies that a vote will be taken since the action is to be accomplished through a resolution. She stated that the unions would have preferred a later deadline date for submitting the results of the negotiations to the Council than May 10. Ms. Praisner expressed the view that the period between May 10 and the June 1 deadline for adoption of the budget is a short period of time, and moving the date beyond May 10 could result in midnight meetings which would be counterproductive and represent a disservice to the budget process and to employees. President Praisner stated that she supports the Committee's recommendation.

Councilmember Berlage requested and received assurance from Mr. Faden that the amendments in the bill do not change the substance of the law other than the deadline dates, and that neither the unions nor management will receive or lose rights as a result of these amendments.

With respect to concerns raised by the unions regarding the cost of printing the revised law, Councilmember Krahnke stated that the unions should be advised that only the amended sections would have to be reprinted.

ACTION: Enacted Bill 3-93

by recommendation of the MFP Committee, by a roll call vote:

YEAS: Subin, Dacek, Berlage, Leggett, Adams, Ewing, Krahnke, Hanna, Praisner.

SUBJECT: Bill 2-93. Art in Public Facilities

President Praisner stated that the subject bill defers for two years any additional appropriation for art in public facilities. She noted that changes proposed at the public hearing are outside of the scope of advertising for the subject bill, since the advertising addressed the effective date change only.

Councilmember Adams stated that he agrees with the comments made at the public hearing that the Council should not continue to defer the date for appropriating funds for the art in public facilities program. While he will vote for the bill, he hopes the Council will take the time to develop a program that is within the fiscal realities of the 1990s.

Councilmember Krahnke agreed that some of the ideas presented at the public hearing were well stated. She supported the concept of having architects look at new projects to determine whether art could be incorporated into the projects at the beginning of the design work and the raising of money from the private sector for quality art work for public facilities. She indicated her willingness to help develop legislation that would address these issues.

ACTION: Enacted Bill 2-93

by recommendation of the MFP Committee, by a roll call vote:

YEAS: Subin, Dacek, Berlage, Leggett, Adams, Ewing, Krahnke, Hanna, Praisner.

The County Council for Montgomery County, Maryland approves the following Act:

Sec. 1. Sections 33-79, 33-80, 33-81, 33-106, 33-108, and 33-153 are amended as follows:

33-79. Selection, certification and decertification procedures.

(a) The certification or decertification of an employee organization as the unit's representative for the purpose of collective bargaining shall be initiated in accordance with the following procedures:

(4) Petitions [may be filed between July 1, 1982, and July 31, 1982. Thereafter, petitions] may be filed between September 1 and September 30 of any year, but no sooner than [twenty-two (22)] 22 months following an election held pursuant to this section.

* * *

[(6) If, during the period of July 1 to July 31, 1982, a petition is filed by the incumbent representative of unit employees certified under the employer-employee relations article of this chapter, and no other employee organization files a valid petition, that incumbent certified representative shall be certified without an election, provided it produces evidence, acceptable to the permanent umpire, of majority representation.]

* * *

33-80. Collective bargaining.

(g) Submission to Council [review]. A ratified agreement shall be binding on the employer and the certified representative, and shall be reduced to writing and executed by both parties. In each proposed annual operating budget, the County Executive shall describe any collective bargaining agreement or amendment to an agreement that is scheduled to take effect in the next fiscal year and estimate the cost of implementing that agreement. Any term or condition [thereof] of a collective bargaining agreement which requires an appropriation of funds or enactment, repeal or modification of a County law shall be timely submitted to the County Council by the employer [and the] by April 1, unless extenuating circumstances require a later date. If a later submission is necessary, the employer shall specify the submission date and the reasons for delay to the Council President by April 1. The employer shall make a good faith effort to have such term or condition implemented by Council action. Each submission to the Council shall include:

(1) all proposed legislation and regulations necessary to implement the collective bargaining agreement;

(2) all changes from the previous collective bargaining agreement, indicated by brackets and underlines or a similar notation system; and

(3) all side letters or other extraneous documents that are binding on the parties.

(h) Council review. On or before May 1, the County Council shall indicate by resolution its intention to appropriate funds for or otherwise implement the agreement or its intention not to do so, and shall state its reasons for any intent to reject any part of the agreement. The Council, by majority vote taken on or before May 1, may defer the May 1 deadline to any date not later than May 15. If the Council indicates its intention to reject any part, it shall designate a representative to meet with the parties and present the Council's views in their further negotiations. This representative shall also participate fully in stating the Council's position in any ensuing impasse procedure. The parties shall thereafter meet as promptly as possible and attempt to negotiate an agreement acceptable to the Council. Either of the parties may initiate the impasse procedure set forth in Section 33-81. The results of the negotiation or impasse procedure shall be submitted to the Council on or before May 10. If the Council has deferred the May 1 deadline, that action automatically postpones the May 10 deadline by the same number of days.

(i) Adjustments. Any agreement shall provide either for automatic reduction or elimination of conditional wage [and/]or benefits adjustments if:

(1) the Council [fails to] does not take action necessary to implement the agreement, or

(2) [if] sufficient funds are not appropriated for any fiscal year [in which] when the agreement is in effect.

(j) Later years. The process and timetable in subsection (h) apply to Council review of wage or benefits adjustments after the first year of any multi-year agreement.

(k) Out-of-cycle amendments. The process in subsection (h) applies to Council review of any amendment to a collective bargaining agreement that the Council receives after May 15 of any year, but the deadlines in subsection (h) do not apply. The Council President shall set action deadlines which result, to the extent feasible, in a similar timetable relative to the date the Council received the amendment.

33-81. Impasse procedure.

(a) [Prior to November] Before September 10 of any year in which the employer and a certified representative bargain collectively, they shall choose an impasse neutral either by agreement or through the processes of the American Arbitration Association. The impasse neutral shall be required to be available during the period from January 20 to February 1. Fees, costs and expenses of the impasse neutral shall be shared equally by the employer and the certified representative.

33-106. Selection, certification, and decertification procedures.

* * *

[(e) If, during the thirty (30) days following the effective date of this article, a petition is filed by the incumbent representative of unit employees certified under article IV of this chapter, and no other employee organization files a valid petition, and no petition calling for an election signed by twenty (20) percent of unit employees has been filed with the labor relations administrator, the incumbent certified representative shall be certified without an election, provided it produces evidence, acceptable to the labor relations administrator and dated after the enactment of this article, that a majority of the employees in the unit desire to be represented by the incumbent representative for the purposes of collective bargaining under the provisions of this article.]

33-108. Bargaining, impasse, and legislative procedures.

(d) Before [November] September 10 of any year in which the employer and the certified representative bargain collectively, the Labor Relations Administrator must appoint a mediator/arbitrator, who may be a person recommended by both parties. The mediator/arbitrator must be available from January 2 to June 30. Fees and expenses of the mediator/arbitrator must be shared equally by the employer and the certified representative.

(g) In each proposed annual operating budget, the County Executive must describe any collective bargaining agreement or amendment to an agreement that is scheduled to take effect in the next fiscal year and estimate the cost of implementing that agreement. The employer must submit to the Council by April 1, unless extenuating circumstances require a later date, any term or condition of the collective bargaining agreement that requires an appropriation of funds, or the enactment or adoption of any County law or regulation, or which has or may have a present or future fiscal impact. If a later submission is necessary, the employer must specify the submission date and the reasons for delay to the Council President by April 1. The employer must expressly identify to the Council and the certified representative any term or condition that requires Council review. Each submission to the Council must include:

(1) all proposed legislation and regulations necessary to implement the collective bargaining agreement;

(2) all changes from the previous collective bargaining agreement, indicated by brackets and underlines or a similar notation system; and

(3) all side letters or other extraneous documents that are binding on the parties.

The employer must make a good faith effort to have the Council approve all terms of the final agreement that require Council review.

(h) The Council may hold a public hearing to enable the parties and the public to testify on the agreement.

(i) The Council may accept or reject all or part of any term or condition that requires Council review under subsection (g). On or before May 1, the Council must indicate by resolution its intention to appropriate funds for or otherwise implement the items that require Council review or its intention not to do so, and must state its reasons for any intent to reject any such item. The Council, by majority vote taken on or before May 1, may defer the May 1 deadline to any date not later than May 15.

(j) If the Council indicates its intention to reject any item that requires Council review, the Council must designate a representative to meet with the parties and present the Council's views in the parties' further negotiation on items that the Council has indicated its intention to reject. This representative must also participate fully in stating the Council's position in any ensuing impasse procedure. The parties must meet as promptly as possible and attempt to negotiate an agreement acceptable to the Council. Either party may at this time initiate impasse procedures under this Section. The parties must submit the results of the negotiation, whether a complete or a partial agreement, to the Council on or before May 10. If the Council has deferred the May 1 deadline, that action automatically postpones the May 10 deadline by the same number of days. The Council then must consider the agreement as renegotiated by the parties and indicate by resolution its intention to appropriate funds for or otherwise implement the agreement, or its intention not to do so.

(m) Later years. The process and timetable in subsections (i) and (j) apply to Council review of wage or benefits adjustments after the first year of any multi-year agreement.

(n) Out-of-cycle amendments. The process in subsections (i) and (j) applies to Council review of any amendment to a collective bargaining agreement that the Council receives after May 15 of any year, but the deadlines in those subsections do not apply. The Council President must set action deadlines which result, to the extent feasible, in a similar timetable relative to the date the Council received the amendment.

33-153. Bargaining, impasse, and legislative procedures.

(d) Before [November] September 10 of any year in which the employer and the certified representative bargain collectively, they must choose an impasse neutral, either by agreement or through the processes of the American Arbitration Association. The impasse neutral must be available from January 15 to February 1. The impasse neutral's fees and expenses must be shared equally by the employer and the certified representative.

* * *

(l) In each proposed annual operating budget, the County Executive must describe any collective bargaining agreement or amendment to an agreement that is scheduled to take effect in the next fiscal year and estimate the cost of implementing that agreement. The annual operating budget [which the employer submits to the County Council] must include sufficient funds to pay for the items in the parties' final agreement. The employer must expressly identify to the Council by April 1, unless extenuating circumstances require a later date, all terms and conditions in the agreement that:

(1) require an appropriation of funds, or

(2) are inconsistent with any County law or regulation, or

(3) require the enactment or adoption of any County law or regulation, or

(4) which have or may have a present or future fiscal impact.

If a later submission is necessary, the employer must specify the submission date and the reasons for delay to the Council President by April 1. The employer must make a good faith effort to have the Council take action to implement all terms and conditions in the parties' final agreement.

(m) Each agreement submitted to the Council must include:

(1) all proposed legislation and regulations necessary to implement the agreement;

(2) all changes from the previous collective bargaining agreement, indicated by brackets and underlines or a similar notation system; and

(3) all side letters or other extraneous documents that are binding on the parties.

[(m)] (n) * * *

[(n)] (o) The Council may accept or reject all or part of any term or condition in the agreement which:

(1) requires an appropriation of funds, or

(2) is inconsistent with any County law or regulation, or

(3) requires the enactment or adoption of any County law or regulation, or

(4) which has or may have a present or future fiscal impact.

On or before May 1, the Council must indicate by resolution its intention to appropriate funds for or otherwise implement the agreement or its intention not to do so, and must state its reasons for any intention to reject any part of the parties' final agreement. The Council, by majority vote taken on or before May 1, may defer the May 1 deadline to any date not later than May 15.

[(o)] (p) If the Council indicates its intention to reject any part of the parties' final agreement, it must select a representative to meet with the parties and present the Council's views in the parties' further negotiation on matters that the Council has indicated its intention to reject. This representative must also participate fully in stating the Council's position in any ensuing impasse procedure. The parties must meet as promptly as possible and attempt to negotiate an agreement acceptable to the Council. Either party may at this time initiate impasse procedures under this section. The parties must submit the results of the negotiation, whether a complete or a partial agreement, to the Council on or before May 10. If the Council has deferred the May 1 deadline, that action automatically postpones the May 10 deadline by the same number of days. The Council then must consider the agreement as renegotiated by the parties and indicate by resolution its intention to appropriate funds for or otherwise implement the agreement or its intention not to do so.

[(p)] (q) * * *

(r) Later years. The process and timetable in subsections (o) and (p) apply to Council review of wage or benefits adjustments after the first year of any multi-year agreement.

(s) Out-of-cycle amendments. The process in subsections (o) and (p) applies to Council review of any amendment to a collective bargaining agreement that the Council receives after May 15 of any year, but the deadlines in those subsections do not apply. The Council President must set action deadlines which result, to the extent feasible, in a similar timetable relative to the date the Council received the amendment.

Sec. 2. Expedited Effective Date.

The Council declares that this legislation is necessary for the immediate protection of the public interest. This Act takes effect on the date on which it becomes law.

Action

MEMORANDUM

TO: County Council

FROM: Michael Faden, Senior Legislative Attorney

SUBJECT: Action: Expedited Bill 30-03, Collective Bargaining – Schedule and Process

Management and Fiscal Policy Committee recommendation: enact as introduced.

Expedited Bill 30-03, Collective Bargaining – Schedule and Process, sponsored by the Management and Fiscal Policy Committee, was introduced on September 9, 2003.

Background The collective bargaining calendar is set in the County labor relations laws that govern each bargaining unit (police: County Code §§33-75 through 33-85; County employees: §§33-101 through 33-112; firefighters: §§33-147 through 33-157). In particular, see County Code §33-80; §33-108; §33-153. Under all three laws the County Council must review any term or condition of each final collective bargaining agreement requiring an appropriation of funds or enactment, repeal, or modification of a county law or regulation. On or before May 1, the Council must indicate by resolution its intention to appropriate funds for or otherwise implement the agreement or its intention not to do so, and state its reasons for any intent to reject any part of an agreement. If the Council indicates its intention to reject or opts not to fund any item, it must designate a representative to meet with the parties and present the Council's views in their further negotiations. The parties must submit the results of any further negotiations, or impasse procedures if the parties cannot agree on a revised contract, to the Council by May 10.

Summary Bill 30-03, which the Management and Fiscal Policy Committee recommended for introduction at its July 17 meeting, reflects a consensus of Committee member, union representative, and Office of Human Resources views. It does the following for each of the bargaining units:

- repeals obsolete certification provisions in the police and County employee bargaining unit laws;
- moves the date for selection of the impasse neutral/arbitrator from November 10 to September 10;
- directs the Executive to describe each new collective bargaining agreement and estimate its cost in the annual operating budget;

- directs the employer to submit each new contract to the Council by April 1, unless extenuating circumstances cause a delay;
- requires the employer's submission to the Council to attach any implementing bills or regulations, show the changes in the contract, and include any binding side letters;
- allows the Council by majority vote to defer its May 1 action deadline to any date up to May 15, with the parties' May 10 renegotiation deadline automatically deferred by the same number of days;
- clarifies that the same Council review process and deadlines apply to Council review of contract cost items in the second and third years of a contract; and
- clarifies that the same Council review process applies to out-of-cycle contract amendments, but with deadlines that reflect the date each amendment is submitted to the Council.

No speakers appeared at the public hearing on this bill, held on September 16.

At the Committee worksession on September 22, Jim Torgesen, Labor Relations Manager for the Office of Human Resources, and Bob Stewart of MCGEO noted their support for the bill, which the Committee recommended unanimously without further discussion.

[(e) If, during the thirty (30) days following the effective date of this article, a petition is filed by the incumbent representative of unit employees certified under article IV of this chapter, and no other employee organization files a valid petition, and no petition calling for an election signed by twenty (20) percent of unit employees has been filed with the labor relations administrator, the incumbent certified representative shall be certified without an election, provided it produces evidence, acceptable to the labor relations administrator and dated after the enactment of this article, that a majority of the employees in the unit desire to be represented by the incumbent representative for the purposes of collective bargaining under the provisions of this article.]

COUNTY COUNCIL FOR MONTGOMERY COUNTY, MARYLAND

Tuesday, September 30, 2003 Rockville, Md.

The County Council for Montgomery County, Maryland convened in the Council Hearing Room, Stella B. Werner Council Office Building, Rockville, Maryland, at 9:18 A.M. on Tuesday, September 30, 2003.

PRESENT

Michael L. Subin, President	Steven A. Silverman, Vice President
Phil Andrews	Michael Knapp
Howard Denis	George Leventhal
Nancy Floreen	Thomas Perez

Marilyn J. Praisner

The President in the Chair.

The Council held a moment of silence.

SUBJECT: Councilmember Comments

Councilmember Floreen expressed concern over the recent fire and devastating destruction of the National Capital Trolley Museum. She said residents have many memories of their children riding the trolley cars, that this is a significant loss, and that she and her colleagues hope that the museum can be restored.

SUBJECT: Proclamation in Recognition of "Mentor Month"

The proclamation was presented by Councilmember Andrews to Mr. John Smith, President, Montgomery County Task Force on Mentoring. Also present were Richard Montgomery High School teacher Sally Rosner who initiated the program at the school, Special Education Instructional Assistant Tasha Kelly, and students involved in the program.

SUBJECT: Approval of Minutes

ACTION: Approved the minutes of September 11, 2003, as amended.

Councilmember Silverman made the motion.

SUBJECT: Receipt of Petitions

The Council received the following petition, identified by correspondence control number 005183, from the Montgomery County Bill of Rights Coalition urging the Council to adopt the civil liberties resolution.

SUBJECT: Consent Calendar

Speaking in reference to the supplemental appropriation to the FY 04 Operating Budget for the Federal FY 2003 State/Local Preparedness Equipment Grant, Councilmember Praisner said she received information from Executive Branch staff about the shelf life of equipment to be purchased, and that this raises the question of what the County will do after five years if State funds are not forthcoming. She expressed concern that Chief Administrative Officer Romer did not provide a comprehensive funding priority list because of limited staff resources, and questioned what resources or personnel are necessary to develop this list. Ms. Praisner expressed the view that the comprehensive priority list should be developed first so that it can be used in determining whether or not to take advantage of a grant opportunity.

President Subin concurred with Ms. Praisner's remarks, stating that the emergent response to hurricane Isabel was an example of the Emergency Management Group's outstanding response to an emergency situation, but what is lacking is the issue of prior planning. He said there was no pre-positioning of equipment, no pre-designation of shelters, no plans or contingencies. Mr. Subin acknowledged that there will be emergent grants, and the Council will need to be able to respond to them in context, which is why the priority list is of great importance. He noted that Councilmember Knapp will be addressing these issues in the Homeland Security Committee (HSC). Mr. Knapp commented that the Committee spent a great deal of time discussing this issue with the Assistant Chief Administrative Officer, is working toward a resolution, and will continue to follow up with Mr. Romer. Mr. Subin directed the Health and Human Services Committee, jointly with the HSC, to address the issue of generators at area hospitals, noting the generators' limited operating capacity of three to four days. He expressed concern that if a more lasting situation occurs, the limited capacity of the generators and the lack of spare parts to repair the equipment will have serious consequences.

ACTION: Adopted the consent calendar:

Introduced a resolution to amend the Ten-Year Comprehensive Solid Waste Management Plan;

Resolution 15-351, approving a supplemental appropriation to the FY 04 Operating Budget for Federal FY 2003 State/Local Preparedness Equipment Grant, in the amount of $361,754;

Resolution 15-352, approving a supplemental appropriation to the FY 04 Operating Budget of the Montgomery County Public Schools' (MCPS), for the 21st Century Community Learning Center Programs, in the amount of $600,000;

Resolution 15-353, approving Categorical Transfers for the FY 03 Operating Budget of the MCPS;

Resolution 15-354, approving the appointment of Robert C. Maddox as Council representative to the Nominating Committee for the Board of Trustees of Montgomery College;

Resolution 15-355, confirming the County Executive's appointment of Ryan Erenhouse to the East County Citizens Advisory Board.

Councilmember Praisner made the motion.

SUBJECT: Resolution to Support Protection of Civil Liberties

The Council had before it the memorandum from Councilmembers Leventhal, Perez, Floreen, and Silverman, dated September 17, 2003.

Councilmember Leventhal, sponsor of the resolution, thanked Councilmembers Floreen, Perez, and Silverman for joining him as cosponsors; Mr. Romer, CAO, who worked extensively to ensure that this resolution does not impede the County's ability to fight the war on terrorism, protect public safety, and enforce the law; and Ms. Henderson, Director, Montgomery County Public Libraries. He said he has met with proponents of the resolution, and that Councilmembers have received well over a thousand communications in support of the resolution, which he noted is a gesture, not a law, urging the U.S. Congress to review the USA PATRIOT Act and modify provisions of it that threaten individual liberties and civil rights, similar to resolutions passed in 176 communities around the country. Mr. Leventhal said he has heard from local government officials, including the Director of Libraries, expressing concern that the PATRIOT Act may force them to comply with Federal directives that place them in an ethical dilemma of having to choose between supporting the principles of community policing or professional standards for librarians, or complying with Federal law. Referring to legislation adopted by the House of Representatives amending the USA PATRIOT Act, he said the resolution before the Council today is very similar in that it asks Congress to reconsider portions of the Act. Noting that he has received many communications from residents of the Muslim faith who believe they have been unfairly targeted and suspect for actions for which they have no culpability, he said the resolution calls for all County departments, agencies, officials and employees to continue to respect all residents' freedoms of speech, religion, and assembly, and right to privacy, in keeping with Montgomery County's distinguished practice of protecting human rights.

Councilmember Floreen, noting that this resolution is an important and critical statement of support for fundamental civil liberties, stated that since last week, another eight communities across the nation have adopted a similar resolution, and that it reflects the views of millions of Americans across the country. She said that many County programs have been tailored to address a diverse community; that it is appropriate to reaffirm the County's commitment to civil liberties through the administration of County programs; and that she is especially proud of the community policing initiatives, and the accessibility of information and education to all residents through the library system. Quoting Thomas Payne, Ms. Floreen said that this resolution sends a powerful message that the County will preserve individual freedoms as the nation strives to protect itself from terrorist activity.

Recalling his work beginning in 1989 for the Department of Justice, Councilmember Perez said he was proud to work under the Attorney Generals for over ten years in the enforcement of the Bill of Rights. He said now, under the name of combating terrorism, the PATRIOT Act apparently is being used for purposes for which it was not intended, and communities have said enough is enough. He expressed concern that the country is creating a false dichotomy when in reality, the nation can protect itself from terrorism at the same time it protects civil liberties. Referring to the County's long tradition of community policing, Mr. Perez said it is based on developing relationships of trust with the community, which is an especially difficult challenge when there are immigrant communities who are inherently fearful of authority. Noting that District of Columbia Police Chief Ramsey stated that the police will not inquire into the immigration status of people with whom they come into contact on the street, Mr. Perez said this resolution reiterates the message that the immigrant population need not worry about local law enforcement becoming the immigration police. Stating that it sends an important message that everyone in the community is valued, and that the police are not going to be asking irrelevant questions and will be doing their job fighting crime and protecting residents of the County, Councilmember Perez said he is proud to be a cosponsor of the resolution.

Councilmember Andrews, in expressing his opposition to the resolution, stated that three years ago he wrote the first local law in the nation prohibiting genetic discrimination in employment, which both the Council and the State of Maryland enacted. He said he understands the importance of protecting privacy and civil rights, but that this resolution does not change County policy on privacy or civil liberties, and the only effect the resolution has is to put the Council on record in favor of changing the USA PATRIOT Act generally, and very specifically with regard to the Act's applicability to libraries and bookstores. Acknowledging the good intention of the resolution's sponsors and advocates, he expressed the view that the resolution should be rejected for three reasons: (1) the PATRIOT Act is a very complex law, and the Council, in the limited time it has to consider the Act, cannot make an informed decision as to how the PATRIOT Act should be revised, and that the Council does not have access to some intelligence information that may have been the basis for some of the decisions made in the Act; (2) the resolution contains language that is so vague as to be indecipherable to most people, such as the phrase that calls for the integrity of community policing programs to be protected; and (3) the resolution contains some language that is extremely specific, and broad, noting that the resolution says that libraries and bookstores should be exempt from the provisions of the PATRIOT Act, the word "exempt" is not qualified, and he is concerned about having a blanket exemption because of news reports that some of the 9/11 hijackers used computers in public libraries to communicate with each other. Mr. Andrews expressed the view that this is not the appropriate resolution for this Council to send, and that there is insufficient information available for the Council to comment intelligently on this issue. Councilmember Andrews said he will dissent on the resolution and urged his colleagues to do the same.

Councilmember Denis, citing events throughout history, said it is an age old question whether a nation dedicated to freedom can survive during times of crisis or war, and that it has been debated whether actions taken in the name of protecting the nation were justified. Mr. Denis said that the issue is being able to achieve an appropriate balance, that most legislation needs improvement over time, and that several sections of the PATRIOT Act may need reconsideration. Referring to the concept of community policing, he said local police survive from information provided by residents, and that the confidence of the community must be maintained. In expressing support for the resolution, Councilmember Denis said that while there is some justification for the arguments raised by Mr. Andrews, the resolution is a nonbinding statement that does not affect County law, but reflects the Council's view on the general issue of civil liberties.

Councilmember Subin said the issue of civil rights and civil liberties is something that directly effects how the County implements its laws and how the people of this community live on a day-to-day basis, and that he believes this issue is properly before the Council. He said many things changed on September 11, 2001, but that the fundamental sense of fairness and justice in this country should not have changed. Referring to some sections of the PATRIOT Act, Mr. Subin expressed the view that the Doctrine of "Inevitable Discovery" already grants law enforcement authorities a lot of flexibility in terms of not abiding by the dictates of the fourth amendment, and that it is not right. Expressing support for the resolution, Mr. Subin referred to the internment camps established during World War II, noting that this was one of the greatest blights on this country and that the Council and the country should not do anything that leads down the "slippery slope" toward the actual or de facto spirit of what existed then, and that the PATRIOT Act allows that to happen.

ACTION: Adopted Resolution 15-356, expressing support for the protection of civil liberties.

Councilmember Andrews was opposed.

SUBJECT: Resolution Regarding Spending Affordability Guidelines (SAG) for the FY 05 Capital Budget

The Council had before it the memorandum and attachments from Deputy Council Staff Director Orlin, dated September 26, 2003.

Councilmember Praisner, Chair of the Management and Fiscal Policy (MFP) Committee, presented the Committee's report and recommendation. She explained that the Council's actions today do not increase the County's bond capacity, which is a reflection of a variety of measures and will not be known until the spring. She stated that today, a number is set for the SAG which sends a message and provides flexibility for action the Council will take in the spring, and noted that there is a cost and expenditure implication for everything the Council does. Ms. Praisner said there is a limit beyond which the Council cannot go because it cannot be sustained, and cautioned the Council on the multiple messages that are sent about what the Council would like to do, what it can do, and what it may have to do, and that there are many variables still outstanding at this point in time. She expressed the view that the County Executive recommended a reasonable number for the beginning of the bond capacity process.

Councilmember Silverman made a substitute motion, duly seconded, to adopt the following guidelines: $190 million for FY 05 and FY 06, respectively, and a total of $1.14 billion in FY 05-10. He expressed the view that this increase will not make a significant difference, and that everyone realizes that the County must significantly increase its capital budget expenditure beginning next year and continuing for the next several years. Noting that the resolution only sets guidelines by indicating to the public the direction the Council wants to go in the spring, Mr. Silverman, stated that the Council has been accused of "nibbling around the edges and working at the margins." He said it is important to recognize that the capital budget will probably approach $2 billion over six years, and that the "margins" will equal approximately $30 million over six years which can pay for a middle school modernization, two new elementary schools, the addition of gymnasiums in all elementary school that lack those, three recreation centers, or would make a significant contribution toward the County's transportation system. He said the difference between his motion and recommendations of the MFP Committee and the County Executive is real money, and that the Council should send a signal that it is ready to invest in the community. He said he is basing his motion on the debt capacity analysis generated by Executive Branch and Council Staff, which shows virtually no difference each year in the debt service ratio guideline.

Councilmember Leventhal thanked Mr. Silverman for his motion, and the MFP Committee and its Chair for their leadership on fiscal matters. He expressed confidence that should the Council adopt Mr. Silverman's recommendation, it will not endanger the County's bond rating and will not put the County at risk over the long term. As the Council adopts the capital budget, Mr. Leventhal said the Council has several tools available to raise the funds necessary to meet the needs of the growing community including more classrooms, transportation improvements, and economic revitalization of some areas. He indicated that later today, he will vote in support of using recordation tax revenue for school Capital Improvement Program (CIP) items, and for the residential sprinkler bill, even though it will add to the cost of a new home in the County. Although he anticipates that the impact fees will be adopted by the Council, Mr. Leventhal said he continues to have reservations about the barrier the impact fees represent to young families that want to live in Montgomery County. Referring to the increased borrowing capacity proposed by Councilmember Silverman, Mr. Leventhal expressed the view that residents will be grateful in the future for the new and modernized schools, improved roads, and revitalized communities that can proceed because of the increased availability of revenue.

Councilmember Knapp requested and received information from Mr. Orlin that in the past, the Council has generally reached the maximum spending limit set; that the Council receives the County Executive's recommended CIP on January 15; that in February, the Council has the opportunity to revise the CIP; and that the FY 05 and FY 06 guidelines may be increased by as much as ten percent of the limit the Council establishes today. In expressing support for Councilmember Silverman's substitute motion, Mr. Knapp said that although he has significant concerns, the Council needs to maintain flexibility at this point in the process, that clear priorities must be identified, and that it is probably in the County's best interest not to reach the $190 million General Obligation bond level.

Councilmember Perez requested and received information that the ratio of debt service and lease payments to General Fund expenditures has exceeded ten percent in some prior years. Councilmember Subin pointed out that at one point the ratio reached eleven percent because the operating budgets did not increase as much as was projected and commitments had already been made. Mr. Perez expressed concern that raising the bond rates too high may create pressure to reduce the proposed impact tax rates , which he believes should not occur because the impact tax rates are necessary.

In expressing support for Councilmember Silverman's motion, Councilmember Floreen said she ran for Council office because she was particularly frustrated with the County's investment in transportation infrastructure. She said that previous CIPs contained a disproportionate percentage of funds not allocated for transportation. Ms. Floreen expressed the view that there is nothing in the data that shows that the $190 million level is not sustainable, and that for the County to address all its transportation and educational infrastructure needs, the Council needs to be aggressive and assess all the factors this winter in order to make a responsible decision.

Councilmember Subin, indicating his preference to adopt the MFP Committee's recommendation, said that the Budget Savings Committee is meeting next week to address budget concerns. He noted that late income tax filings are significantly lower than expected and will decrease the County's reserve, as will cleanup costs from Hurricane Isabel. Mr. Subin agreed that the County has many needs, but that this process is about determining the affordability of funding for needed improvements. Mr. Subin, noting that the Council may exceed its established guideline by ten percent, said he is not opposed to $190 million, but that $209 million is not sustainable.

Councilmember Praisner reported the Committee's unanimous recommendation to set Park and Planning debt guidelines of $3.1 million for FY05, $3.1 million for FY06, and $18.6 million for FY 2005-2010.

ACTION: Approved the substitute motion to adopt General Obligation bond guidelines of $190 million for FY05, $190 million for FY06, and $1,140 million for FY 2005-1010.

Councilmember Silverman made the motion.

Councilmembers Andrews, Praisner, and Subin were opposed.

Approved the SAG guidelines as amended.

Councilmember Praisner was opposed.

SUBJECT: Worksession on an Amendment to the Master Plan of Highways and Other Related Plans to Add High-Occupancy-Vehicle (HOV) Lanes on the Capital Beltway (I-495) Between the I-270 West Spur and Virginia and to Construct a Grade-Separated Interchange at the Intersection of Veirs Mill Road (MD 586) and Randolph Road

The Committee had before it the memorandum and attachments from Deputy Council Staff Director Orlin, dated September 26, 2003. The Committee received a handout at the meeting from the Montgomery County Planning Board (MCPB) containing additional information concerning the subject amendment.

Councilmember Floreen, Chair, Transportation and Environment Committee, presented the Committee's report.

Mr. Hekimian, Planning Staff, MCPB, briefed the Council on the proposal to add to master plans the HOV lanes on the Capital Beltway between the American Legion Bridge and I-270 West Spur; and the Interchange at Randolph Road/Veirs Mill Road, in accordance with briefing information provided.

Councilmember Praisner referred to her memorandum on the Randolph Road/Veirs Mill Road project, dated September 16, 2003, included in the Council's packet on pages ©19 and 20. She also referred to a map on page ©9 of the Council's packet depicting the interchange, and noted that the extent of the impact on the community cannot be fully understood by looking at the innocuous circle on the map. Ms. Praisner said that as her memorandum indicates, there was community participation and engagement in the process when it was discussed during review of the Glenmont Master Plan. At that time, the community agreed that a grade separation was probably needed at that interchange, but when the interchange was being designed, the community became concerned regarding the magnitude of a grade-separated interchange and its impact on homes, businesses, and pedestrians both near and well beyond the interchange. Councilmember Praisner recalled comments made by Councilmember Floreen regarding the impact a grade-separated interchange can have on pedestrians because a grade-separated interchange not only involves through lanes but on and off ramps as well. Ms. Praisner said that although a grade-separated interchange may allow buses and traffic to move through the intersection more efficiently, it creates an impact on the neighborhood and makes it more difficult for people to walk across those intersections. She noted the similarities between mixed commercial/residential development in the Randolph Road/Veirs Mill Road area and the Glenmont area at Randolph Road/Georgia Avenue, the location of another proposed grade-separated interchange; pointed out that the topography also has to be considered in the design of the interchange; and expressed concern about the number of grade-separated interchanges on Randolph Road and the implications of this on residents who live along this road.

Councilmember Praisner discussed the need for community involvement in the project, noting that because this was not a full master plan process, residents in the community who are not involved in neighborhood issues may not be fully informed concerning the project. She recalled that no one spoke or presented testimony at the public hearing on the amendment, and she is concerned that the community was not notified in person or by letter concerning plans to move forward on the project.

With respect to the Committee's recommendation to delete "for further study" from the text of the amendment, Councilmember Praisner suggested that it would be more appropriate to leave the words in the text since the planning process might indicate that the project will not proceed. She said that she might be more comfortable with the statement if it were restated more clearly. Ms. Praisner said that she believes there has not been a full appreciation of the impact created by grade-separated interchanges because the grade-separated interchange at Route 29/Randolph Road is the only one that is currently under construction; and noted the dissimilarities between the grade-separated interchange at Route 29/Randolph Road and the one proposed for Randolph Road/Veirs Mill Road. She reiterated her concern about the Randolph Road/Veirs Mill Road project, and suggested that the text of the amendment indicate in the Master Plan that the intersection of Randolph Road/Veirs Mill Road will be examined as part of the process rather than indicate that a grade-separated interchange will be built. Ms. Praisner suggested the need to reexamine the need for the grade-separated interchanges on Randolph Road, noting that residents in the Glenmont area said that the design for the interchange at Randolph Road/Georgia Avenue that was finally settled on is very good at moving people through the intersection but that it does not help area residents cross the street.

Councilmember Silverman discussed with Planning Staff the outreach effort made by MCPB with respect to the Randolph Road/Veirs Mill Road interchange. Mr. Silverman expressed concern regarding the notification method used by MCPB through neighborhood organizations. He said that because this project involves a specific area, the residents of the area will be interested in it, and he believes that the notification process should have been broader and should have included property owners as well as small business owners.

Mr. Silverman requested and received information from Mr. Orlin on the need to extend the deadline for action on the Final Draft Master Plan Amendment. Mr. Silverman that he does not want to vote on the interchange until interested citizens have been provided an opportunity to comment.

The President in the Chair.

Councilmember Leventhal said that he would support delaying Council action on the Amendment in order to solicit greater input from people that are directly affected. He expressed the view that grade-separated interchanges are helpful in congested areas; and discussed the inclusion of a bikeway as part of the design of the interchange. With respect to the proposal to add HOV lanes on the Capital Beltway between the I-270 West Spur and Virginia, Councilmember Leventhal said that despite the benefits involved, he believes it will not be easy to extend the HOV lanes east of the I-270 spur and that it would increase the existing "bottleneck" at the intersection of I-270 and the Beltway. He said that he voted for both recommendations in Committee and is prepared to vote for them again, but he has concern about allowing more traffic in the western segment of the Beltway and providing no traffic relief on the eastern segment. He said that he understands that the narrowness of the right-of-way and concern about the taking of homes makes it difficult to provide traffic relief, and he has heard from residents who live east of the I-270 spur who are opposed to any widening east of the I-270 spur.

Councilmember Floreen proposed that the Council defer action on the Amendment and work with Council and MCPB Staff to devise a more appropriate and detailed outreach process to make certain that affected property owners near the Veirs Mill/Randolph Road intersection are accorded clear notification and an opportunity to offer their input on the MCPB recommendation. Ms. Floreen said that she shares Ms. Praisner's concern about the impact of the project on communities in the vicinity of the Veirs Mill Road/Randolph Road intersection. She suggested the possibility of revisiting the project if the Intercounty Connector (ICC) project proceeds. She said that because of inaction on the ICC, Randolph Road has had to become the ICC of the County, and this is the reason why communities are being devastated with widening and major thoroughfare solutions. She expressed the hope that time and other transportation solutions will solve these problems, and in the meantime, she believes it is important for master plans to identify projects that the Council wants to move forward on unless there are extenuating circumstances that have to be considered. She said that there are many items that have been removed from the Master Plan of Highways and that is always a possibility. However, she believes the Council should address significant bottleneck areas when possible.

Councilmember Perez stated that the Committee had this conversation as well and his concerns are expressed in the Council's packet. He noted his appreciation for the institutional memory that Councilmembers brought to this discussion.

Councilmember Subin said that the issue will be deferred until Councilmember Floreen believes that it is ready for Council action.

Councilmember Subin emphasized the Council's policy with respect to community outreach, and the importance of making certain that items are ready for the Council's consideration to avoid having to bring the items back and increasing the Council's workload. Mr. Subin requested that Council Staff draft a letter to Mr. Berlage, Chair of the Park and Planning Commission, for the joint signature of the Chair of the PHED Committee and the President of the Council concerning the need to provide citizens with appropriate notification on all matters except in the case of an emergency.

Vice President Silverman in the Chair.

SUBJECT: Bi-Annual Report of the Planning Board

The Council received a PowerPoint presentation from Mr. Berlage, Chair, Montgomery County Planning Board, on the Bi-Annual Report of the Planning Board, in accordance with the memorandum and attachments from Senior Legislative Analyst Michaelson, dated September 26, 2003. Mr. Berlage spoke about the role of the Board, commented on the difficult challenges ahead, and highlighted the areas that have been negatively impacted by budget reductions.

Councilmember Leventhal expressed appreciation to Mr. Berlage and Park and Planning Staff for the service they provide to the community. Referring to the purple line light rail proposed between Bethesda and Silver Spring, he said that it is well defined in the master plan and includes the alignment, station locations, mode, the hiker-biker trail, the bridge over Connecticut Avenue, the tunnel under the CSX railroad, and other important characteristics. He said that although the Montgomery and Prince George's County Councils are on record in support of a light rail connection, not just from Bethesda to Silver Spring but east to New Carrolton, there is no master plan detail for the Purple Line east of the Silver Spring Central Business District (CBD) to Langley Park nor has any alignment been identified in Prince George's County. Mr. Leventhal stated that the general concept of the Purple Line east of Silver Spring is supported in the East Silver Spring, the Takoma Park, and the Silver Spring CBD Master Plans which were all updated in 2000. Mr. Leventhal said that there has been an ongoing dialogue with the State regarding the bicounty transitway study and although the State is evaluating a variety of options with no clarity about its intent, the Montgomery and Prince George's County Councils have expressed clarity about what should occur. He proposed that there is a need to specify the alignment, station locations, mode (presumably light rail), and other important characteristics of the Purple Line east of Silver Spring in order to provide adequate public notice and to reserve the right-of-way for the line. He suggested that the Planning Board prepare master plan amendments as needed and that the Prince George's County Council prepare master plan amendments that clarify that it is the intent of the two Councils to proceed in this area. He also suggested that the Montgomery and Prince George's Planning Boards coordinate their efforts with the Maryland Transit Administration as it continues to study a variety of options. Mr. Leventhal suggested that the Council explore with its colleagues in Prince George's County and that Mr. Berlage explore with his colleagues on the Prince George's County side of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission a joint master planning effort for the Purple Line. He requested Mr. Berlage to prepare a scope of work and timeline identifying what effect the request would have on other items in the work program and present the report to the Planning, Housing, and Economic Development (PHED) Committee as soon as possible.

With respect to Councilmember Leventhal's request, Mr. Berlage said that the request can be accommodated but that it will have a significant impact on the work program. Mr. Berlage said that some items would have to be deferred and extra funds would be required to hire outside consultants for some portions of the request. He stated that the Planning Board Staff have been drawing up preliminary data which will be available in a few days, and that the master plan for light rail between Bethesda and Silver Spring is ten years old but it is still relevant.

Councilmember Silverman stated that the Council supports Councilmember Leventhal's request for the Park and Planning Staff to provide information on the scope and timeline of his proposal.

In response to Councilmember Perez's question related to the most recent review of each master plan, Ms. Michaelson referred him to page ©45 of the packet which lists both the adopted master plans and the dates. With respect to the "Carry-in/Carry-out" pilot program which was established in the summer of 2002 that would have park users carry out any trash they generated while visiting selected County parks, Mr. Perez said that, except for the correspondence his Office received regarding PEPCO and Hurricane Isabel, the Carry-in/Carry-out program has created more correspondence than any other subject. He said that his constituents are concerned about the noticeable increase in the amount of litter along Sligo Creek. It appears to Mr. Perez that the new program simply isn't working in certain urban parks such as Sligo Creek; and that we should not wait two years before coming to this conclusion. In response to his question regarding the timeline for evaluating the pilot program, Ms. Michaelson provided a history of the issue and stated that when the Council considered this item last spring one of the key elements was to develop an evaluation plan. She said that she agrees it would be beneficial to develop a plan so that Councilmembers can inform their constituents about how the plan will be evaluated.

Mr. Loehr, Director, Department of Park and Planning, said that Ms. Orlansky, Director, Office of Legislative Oversight, has agreed to assist with the development of an evaluation plan. He said that by December 2004 the program will be evaluated and preliminary recommendations will be made.

Mr. Berlage spoke about the problems associated with the program and noted that in other jurisdictions, it took one to two years before users became completely accustomed to the new system.

Councilmember Perez expressed concern that he had already informed his constituents that there would be an evaluation of the program after one year. Mr. Silverman said that he was also under the assumption that a determination would be made after one year as to whether the program was a success. In response to the concerns of Councilmembers, Ms. Michaelson said that the Council did discuss how the citizens' complaint would be worse in first six months after implementation and that it would take between one to two years before there would be a positive turn around.

Councilmember Praisner stated that the Committee and Council agreed that it would be more beneficial to perform an evaluation after all of the parks are participating in the program.

Councilmember Floreen stated that the Committee reviewed data from other communities that implemented the program which revealed that there were problems at the beginning. She said that constituents have been informed that this is a learning experience and given the number of residents that use the parks, there are not as many complaints as expected. Ms. Floreen said that the Committee will review the pilot program in December or January and will address the program comprehensively in December 2004. She stated that results at this point are consistent with what the Committee reviewed when it recommended the Council take this approach.

Councilmember Silverman stated that at the end of the year, the PHED Committee will review with Park and Planning Staff their preliminary conclusions regarding the program. He suggested that Park and Planning Staff work with Ms. Michaelson to develop a mechanism for public input and that Staff explore whether there are any organizations that would be interested in adopting parks and being responsible for trash pick up. He noted that the Town of Chevy Chase is taking over the responsibility for trash pick up in Elm Street Park.

With respect to Councilmember Silverman's suggestion, Councilmember Praisner said that she agrees it would be beneficial to determine whether there are any organizations interested in adopting parks which would be similar to the "Adopt a Road" program. She spoke about the importance of establishing consistent rules in each park and commented on how to implement a successful program.

Councilmember Perez said that perhaps a part of the discontent is that there was insufficient notice to the public. Mr. Berlage agreed, and stated that advance notice is currently being provided prior to implementation of the countywide program in December.

Ms. Michaelson suggested that a short-term solution to the problem would be to have the maintenance crews pick up liter more frequently along Sligo Creek, noting that there are other areas that may not require the same amount of maintenance.

Councilmember Leventhal said that he hopes there will be some information available on the pilot program at the end of this calendar year so that the issue can be discussed. With respect to Ms. Michaelson's suggestion to have maintenance crews pick up the litter more frequently, he questioned the rationale for believing that it would be less expensive to proceed in that manner and suggested that if it is implemented, the results be included in the initial evaluation of the pilot program. Mr. Leventhal spoke about the negative comments that he is receiving from the community and expressed concern that the program is a highly visible example of what the County is taking away from its citizens. He said that during the budget discussions, the Council tried to reassure the public that their taxes were being increased to maintain a high level of service and now they see a deteriorating level of service.

Councilmember Praisner stated that every year the Council adopts a budget with many components that are not visible to the public until later in the year once the program is implemented.

Councilmember Denis expressed the view that the Council should scrutinize the budgets more carefully in the future to fully understand the implications of any reductions. He said that the Council approved the program when it was a budget issue and he is concerned because the program appears to have problems and the public and some Councilmembers do not support it. Mr. Denis suggested that at the first opportunity when sufficient resources are available, the original program should be restored.

Vice President Silverman requested Ms. Michaelson to make available the material the Committee reviewed during its budget discussions regarding the implementation of the program in other jurisdictions. Referring to the fact that trash bags will be eliminated when the full program is implemented in December 2004 and the conclusion of Park and Planning Staff that providing dispensers with trash bags at Carry-In, Carry-Out parks will be eliminated because it is contrary to the goals of the program and many park patrons leave the bags at the park, Mr. Silverman requested that the bags be eliminated as soon as possible. Councilmember Silverman stated that the PHED Committee will be discussing the pilot program and the possibility of organizations adopting local parks in December 2003, and that it is the intent of the Council that there will be an evaluation of the pilot program in December 2004.

In response to Councilmember Perez's request that Park and Planning Staff provide information on the location of affordable housing in the County, Mr. Berlage said that Staff is currently pursuing that issue and it will be completed in January of 2004.

Councilmember Silverman requested that Staff make available information on the location of the Moderately Priced Dwelling Units for the Upper Rock Creek Master Plan discussion.

In response to Councilmember Perez's question regarding Park and Planning's mapping capacity and the fact that PEPCO cannot determine who has power at any one specific time, Commissioner Robinson said that it costs approximately ten times as much to install underground cable as it does to install above ground cable, that the system in the lower part of the County was developed incrementally and is deteriorating, and that it is particularly vulnerable to outages. Mr. Robinson said that it would be an expensive undertaking but he believes, at a minimum, the utility companies should place the cable underground along major transportation corridors in the County. In response to concerns, Mr. Loehr said that he believes PEPCO has access to the same Geographic Information Systems data as the Park and Planning Department.

Councilmember Floreen expressed appreciation to the Planning Board and Staff for their outstanding work. With respect to the responsibilities of PEPCO, she requested Park and Planning Staff to contribute to the discussion when the Transportation and Environment Committee meets to review tree maintenance issues. She said that during the budget discussions, the Council did not provide the amount of funding for tree maintenance that the Department of Public works and Transportation requested. With respect to the "green building" issue identified in the Report, she said that is another issue the Committee will be addressing in November. In response to her concern about the savings plan and how the Department expects to meet those objectives, Mr. Loehr said that the Department will consider freezing positions. Ms. Floreen requested that the PHED Committee be kept informed about the effects of the savings plan on the Department. With respect to her question about using development review fees in an enterprise type of fund, Mr. Loehr said that Council had instructed the Park and Planning to increase the development review fees to cover 100 percent of the costs which was the goal in setting fees for this year. Ms. Floreen suggested that the issue of whether there can be a special revenue fund, similar to an enterprise fund, which takes the funding outside the spending affordability range into a different category, be explored. In response to Ms. Floreen's questions related to the slippage of the master plan schedule, Mr. Loehr said that the Council was warned about the major slippage last spring. Referring to page ©35, she expressed concern about the process that is being used to list the requests from Councilmembers to do limited master plan amendments. Referring to the list, Mr. Berlage said that several years ago, the Council directed Staff to do a limited master plan amendment for the National Park Seminary and the two remaining amendments listed on the page were requests from Councilmembers and are under consideration.

Vice President Silverman said that he and other Councilmembers are interested in the Woodmont Triangle issue and suggested that there should be a more formalized process for requesting limited master plan amendments. He said that if those tasks are taken on and other projects are pushed into the future, there should be a mechanism for the Council to consider the trade offs. Ms. Michaelson clarified that the procedure has been that the Planning Board would not proceed with work on a master plan amendment until there is a formal change to the work program. She said that the list indicates the Department is considering whether they will need to do a master plan amendment and if the decision is made to move forward, they will present the option to the Council for consideration. Councilmember Praisner said that she was concerned about the list because it was included in the Report which gives it a certain amount of formality and credibility.

With respect to Councilmember Floreen's question regarding whether there was a recent study of streamlining the master plan process, Ms. Michaelson said that approximately four year ago the Department initiated an effort to streamline the master plan process and approximately one year ago performed an evaluation which was not presented to the Council. At Ms. Floreen's request, Mr. Loehr said that the evaluation is moving through the process and would be presented to the Council.

Councilmember Floreen suggested that the Planning Board's role and contribution to the Capital Improvements Program (CIP) needs to be reinforced. She said that as the Council works through a new approach to Annual Growth Policy (AGP), it is incumbent on the Planning Board to advise the Council of the critical infrastructure needs that extends to roadways, intersections, and school facilities. Ms. Floreen suggested that the role of the Planning Board in the CIP process be part of its work program and that the AGP reflect the suggestion as a Council directive and commitment. She said that she believes the link between planning and infrastructure is one that should be maintained and prioritized.

With respect to Councilmember Floreen's question regarding the Beach Drive traffic safety review study that was mentioned in the Report and her request for a copy of the study, Mr. Berlage said that the study was related to speeding issues. Referring to the Housing-O-Meter chart, she requested and received information that the number of countywide moderately priced dwelling units will be available shortly.

Councilmember Praisner expressed appreciation to the Planning Board and Staff for their work. She said that she believes Ms. Michaelson has raised a good point in her memorandum regarding whether the format of the Bi-Annual Report is the best way to convey information regarding the Park and Planning Department's accomplishments and activities during the reporting period and whether the length and volume of material submitted is appropriate. With respect to the master plan process, she said that she is pleased Ms. Floreen requested a copy of the evaluation. Ms. Praisner expressed concern about the increasing lack of understanding regarding the master plan process and requested that the PHED Committee review the master plan process and discuss how to engage the community, the interaction of community and staff, and how variations in the plan are addressed. Councilmember Silverman agreed with Ms. Praisner's request. Councilmember Praisner referred to the problems associated with providing access to information on line and the complexities of technology. With respect to the timing of when the material is available on line to the public, she said that the Council is more vulnerable to that criticism but she has begun to hear complaints about the Planning Board. Referring to the US 29 interchanges, Ms. Praisner stated that the first three interchanges are proceeding quickly and are needed because they are access roads, but she is concerned about the value of the remaining interchanges. She noted that the master plan calls for an evaluation of each interchange to determine whether the others should be built. She questioned how the three interchanges will be evaluated to determine whether the Planning Board or the County will want to comment on them to the State Highway Administration and requested that Planning Staff review that issue.

Councilmember Praisner expressed concern about legal issues associated with identifying vacant lots and the expectations for development associated with the lots. She said that her concern extends to whether the development of a government document that has data on the special needs population and special needs housing is consistent with the fair housing law. With respect to private public partnerships using public land as exemplified by the Blair High School baseball issue, Ms. Praisner requested that Planning Staff review the requirements related to the development of the land to assure there are no conflicts.

Councilmember Silverman expressed appreciation to the Planning Board and Staff and, in particular, the Staff of the Parks Department that work in the field. He requested that the Staff be informed that the Council will continue to try to provide sufficient resources.

With respect to Councilmember Silverman's question related to the maintenance facility at Black Hill Regional Park, Planning Staff advised that it is 30 percent complete. With respect to the issue that was discussed this morning regarding the construction of a grade-separated interchange at the intersection of Veirs Mill and Randolph Road, Mr. Silverman requested that in the future, if there is a situation in which there would be a major direct impact on local businesses and homeowners, Staff develop procedures for providing notice. He spoke about the importance of creating a method for the businesses and homeowners adjacent to interchange modifications to have input. Councilmember Praisner expressed concern that this was amendment to an intersection and notice was only provided to the civic associations.

In response to Councilmember Silverman's comment regarding the progress being made at the Rickman farm and questions related to the timeline, Mr. Berlage said that a nonprivate provider will soon be selected to run the facility and at that time, a timeline can be provided. Mr. Silverman requested Ms. Rother, Planning Manager, Planning Implementation Section, Office of the County Executive, to draft a timeline schedule for transferring available publicly owned land, and requested that the issue be addressed from a legal standpoint to determine whether changes are need in the process.

Councilmember Praisner stated that the Management and Fiscal Policy Committee discussed the issues related to the disposition of property and the role of the Council and she is concerned that the language in the Report indicates that the sites will be given to the Department of Housing and Community Affairs for disposition for affordable housing which is inconsistent with law and possibly it is not the end conclusion for every parcel of land.

Referring to the Housing-O-Meter, Councilmember Floreen requested and received information from Mr. Berlage that the publicly owned site study has been completed and potential sites have been identified. In response to Ms. Floreen's request that the Council receive a briefing before the sites are transferred, Mr. Silverman stated that in the fall, the PHED Committee will address the entire issue of affordable housing. Mr. Silverman expressed concern about the amount of time that is required to transfer a site and questioned whether there is a method of expediting the process while still providing the opportunity for public input. Referring to page ©24 of the packet, under special studies, he requested that the Council be provided information that was received on the nationwide search of jurisdictional practices and polices for the disposition of publicly owned surplus land to private developers with affordable housing. Mr. Silverman requested that a process be created for engaging the development community in the disposition of some of the sites.

With respect to the Woodmont Triangle Study, Councilmember Silverman requested and received information from Mr. Carter, Chief, Community-Based Planning Division, that the community meetings are scheduled to be held in October and November and the recommendations will be presented to the Council at the end of December.

Councilmember Silverman stated that the PHED Committee and the Council will be addressing the Moderately Priced Dwelling Unit program at the beginning of 2004.

The Council recessed at 4:19 P.M. and reconvened at 7:37 P.M.

SUBJECT: Public Hearing/Action: Expedited Bill 19-04, Personnel – Collective Bargaining - Police

Expedited Bill 19-04, Personnel – Collective Bargaining – Police, sponsored by the Council President at the request of the County Executive, was introduced on June 22, 2004.

Bill 19-04 will amend the law regarding collective bargaining with County police officers as provided in the most recent collective bargaining agreement with Fraternal Order of Police Lodge 35. Specifically, as the parties agreed in that collective bargaining agreement, the bill sets up a process to bargain and resolve impasses, out of the normal bargaining cycle, on reopener issues and issues regarding the effects of the exercise of management rights. In Council staff's view, the bill is drafted correctly to accomplish its purposes.

The County Council for Montgomery County, Maryland approves the following Act:

Sec. 1. Sections 33-81 and 33-82 are amended as follows:

33-81. Impasse procedure.

(c) An impasse over a reopener matter or the effects on employees of an exercise of an employer right must be resolved under the procedures in this subsection. Any other impasse over a matter subject to collective bargaining must be resolved under the impasse procedure in subsections (a) and (b).

(1) Reopener matters.

(A) If the parties agree in a collective bargaining agreement to bargain over an identified issue on or before a specified date, the parties must bargain under those terms. Each identified issue must be designated as a "reopener matter".

(B) When the parties initiate collective bargaining under subparagraph (A), the parties must choose, by agreement or through the processes of the American Arbitration Association, an impasse neutral who agrees to be available for impasse resolution within 30 days.

(C) If, after bargaining in good faith, the parties are unable to reach agreement on a reopener matter by the deadline specified in the collective bargaining agreement, either party may declare an impasse.

(D) If an impasse is declared under subparagraph (C), the dispute must be submitted to the impasse neutral no later than 10 days after impasse is declared.

(E) The impasse neutral must resolve the dispute under the impasse procedure in subsection (b), except that:

(i) the dates in that subsection do not apply;

(ii) each party must submit to the impasse neutral a final offer on only the reopener matter; and

(iii) the impasse neutral must select the most reasonable of the parties' final offers no later than 10 days after the impasse neutral receives the final offers.

(F) This subsection applies only if the parties in their collective bargaining agreement have designated:

(i) the specific reopener matter to be bargained;

(ii) the date by which bargaining on the reopener matter must begin; and

(iii) the deadline by which bargaining on the reopener matter must be completed and after which the impasse procedure must be implemented.

(2) Bargaining over the effects of the exercise of an employer right.

(A) If the employer notifies the employee organization that it intends to exercise a right listed in Section 33-80(b), the exercise of which will have an effect on members of the bargaining unit, the parties must choose by agreement or through the processes of the American Arbitration

Association an impasse neutral who agrees to be available for impasse resolution within 30 days.

(B) The parties must engage in good faith bargaining on the effects of the exercise of the employer right. If the parties, after good faith bargaining, are unable to agree on the effect on bargaining unit employees of the employer's exercise of its right, either party may declare an impasse.

(C) If the parties bargain to impasse over the effects on employees of an exercise of an employer right that has a demonstrated, significant effect on the safety of the public, the employer may implement its last offer before engaging in the impasse procedure. A party must not exceed a time requirement of the impasse procedure. A party must not use the procedure in this paragraph for a matter that is a mandatory subject of bargaining other than the effects of the exercise of an employer right.

(D) The parties must submit the dispute to the impasse neutral no later than 10 days after either party declares an impasse under subparagraph (B).

(E) The impasse neutral must resolve the dispute under the impasse procedures in subsection (b), except that:

(i) the dates in that subsection do not apply;

(ii) each party must submit to the impasse neutral a final offer only on the effect on employees of the employer's exercise of its right; and

(iii) the impasse neutral must select the most reasonable of the parties' final offers no later than 10 days after the impasse neutral receives the final offers and, if appropriate, must provide retroactive relief.

(F) If the impasse neutral has not issued a decision within 20 days after the impasse neutral receives the parties' final offers, the employer may implement its final offer until the impasse neutral issues a final decision.

33-82. Prohibited practices.

(a) The employer or its agents or representatives are prohibited from:

* * *

(9) Engaging in a lockout of employees[.];

(10) delaying or refusing to participate in the impasse procedure in Section 33-81(c)(2) after the employer implements a final offer under Section 33-81(c)(2)(C).

LEGISLATIVE REQUEST REPORT

Expedited Bill 19-04, Collective Bargaining - Police

DESCRIPTION: The requested legislation amends the Police Labor Relations Law by adding an impasse procedure for resolving impasses over: 1) reopener matters; and 2) the employer's exercise of an employer right that has an impact on bargaining unit employees. The bill also makes it a prohibited practice for the employer to refuse to participate in the impasse procedure after the employer implements a final offer on the effects of the exercise of an employer right.

PROBLEM: The impasse procedure in Section 33-81 the Police Labor Relations Law provides a mechanism for resolving impasses that arise during negotiations for a new term agreement. The Fraternal Order of Police, Lodge #35 (FOP) and the County Executive agreed during bargaining that the parties would submit legislation to the Council to revise Sections 33-81 to include an impasse procedure for resolving impasses over reopener matters and the employer's exercise of an employer right that has an impact on bargaining unit employees and to revise Section 33-82 to make it a prohibited practice for the employer to refuse to participate in the impasse procedure after the employer implements a final offer on the effects of the exercise of an employer right.

GOALS AND OBJECTIVES: To implement Article 68, Proposed Legislation Relating to Impasse Procedure, of the July 1, 2004, through June 30, 2007, agreement with the FOP.

MEMORANDUM

May 26, 2004

TO: Stephen A. Silverman, President, County Council

FROM: Douglas M. Duncan, County Executive

SUBJECT Proposed Legislation to Implement the Police Collective Bargaining Agreement

I am submitting for the Council's consideration and approval two bills which contain amendments to the Employee's Retirement System and the Police Labor Relations law. These amendments are the product of collective bargaining and were recently presented to the Council in draft form as a part of the collective bargaining changes. The Retirement Law amendments provide the opportunity for bargaining unit employees to be included in the existing trial retirement option and to also be eligible to voluntarily elect transfer to the Retirement Savings Plan. The Police Labor Relations Law amendments provide a process for resolving bargaining impasses over reopener issues and when there is an exercise of a management right that results in "effects" bargaining.

It is requested that the bill providing amendments to the Police Labor Relations Law be expedited, as there currently does not exist a mechanism whereby bargaining impasses resulting from a reopener or the effects on employees of an exercise of a management right can be initiated.

(B) The parties must engage in good faith bargaining on the effects of the exercise of the employer right. If the parties, after good faith bargaining, are unable to agree on the effect on bargaining unit employees of the employer's exercise of its right, either party may declare an impasse.

(C) If the parties bargain to impasse over the effects on employees of an exercise of an employer right that has a demonstrated, significant effect on the safety of the public, the employer may implement its last offer before engaging in the impasse procedure. A party must not exceed a time requirement of the impasse procedure. A party must not use the procedure in this paragraph for a matter that is a mandatory subject of bargaining other than the effects of the exercise of an employer right.

ACTION: Discussed the bill which sets up a process to bargain and resolve impasses that occur out of the normal bargaining cycle on reopener issues and issues regarding the effects of the exercise of management rights.

Recommended approval of the bill.

SUBJECT: FY06 Budget Process and Budget Document

The Committee had before it the memoranda and attachments from Council Staff Director Farber and Legislative Analyst Sherer, dated July 8, 2004, respectively.

ACTION: Received an overview from Mr. Farber of the issues contained in his memorandum. Received comments from Ms. Swaim-Staley, Director, Office of Management and Budget (OMB), regarding the following OMB initiatives concerning the budget document and process: the provision of more information from OMB on grants and contracts; the elimination of redundant information in the budget documents; the provision of more information on key programs and important issues; the plans to align programs with the financial structure; the advice that will be given to Council staff to use the existing databases; plans to improve productivity and analyze leases and the use of the County's fleets; the comparison that will be done of actual to projected performance measures; the review that will be undertaken of the measures for relevancy, accuracy, and usefulness; and the intent to update the revenue database.

Noted the importance of defining the problem the Council is trying to resolve, determining what the Council is attempting to achieve, and what changes are needed to accomplish this; and that the budget document should address the needs of the general public and such groups as the Taxpayers League and the League of Women Voters.

Discussed the following issues associated with the review of the operating budget: the focus on the margins and on other issues Council staff identifies, not on the base; the budget document and process as part of the problem, and the need to find a more meaningful process; the need for reviews to be targeted since there is a limited amount of time available for budget review; the desire of advocates for a comprehensive review of a program, particularly when a program is reduced; the SUBJECT: Bill 29-03, Forest Conservation – Equestrian Facilities

The Council had before it the memorandum and attachments from Senior Legislative Attorney Faden, dated July 13, 2004.

Councilmember Silverman, Chair of the Planning, Housing, and Economic Development (PHED) Committee, stated that Councilmember Knapp's suggested amendments on ©37-38 attached to staff's memorandum are before the Council for consideration.

At the request of President Silverman, Mr. Berlage, Chair of the Planning Board and the original sponsor of the Forest Conservation Law that was enacted by the Council in 1991, provided background information regarding the intent of the legislation and commented on the Board's recommendations as it relates to Bill 29-03. Referring to the amendments submitted by the Sierra Club that are attached to Council staff's supplementary memorandum, Mr. Berlage stated that he and the Planning staff support Amendment 3, Equestrian support buildings and related activities are exempt only if built using best management practices; and Amendment 5, The limitations to this exemption will be enforced under the authority of Chapter 22A of the County Code. Mr. Berlage expressed the view that the remaining two amendments suggested by the Club would place extraordinary burdens on small equestrian facilities.

Councilmember Praisner requested and received information from Ms. Conlon, Forest Conservation Program Administrator, Department of Park and Planning, that most agricultural activities do not require platting or sediment control permits. Ms. Praisner, in expressing concern that the proposed exemption to the Forest Conservation Law for equestrian facilities is currently less restrictive than for agricultural activities, said that an agricultural activity has to be exempt from both the platting requirements and from the requirements to ACTION: Introduced the subject resolutions.

Councilmember Praisner requested and received verification from Ms. Wilson, Board of Education, that this refers to the existing Clarksburg Elementary School and its relocation, noting that the Clarksburg Master Plan identifies the transitway as traversing the Clarksburg Elementary School site.

SUBJECT: Executive Regulation 26-03AM, Cable Modem Service Standards

The Council had before it the memorandum and attachments from Legislative Analyst Healy, dated July 9, 2004; and an addendum memorandum from Ms. Healy, dated July 12, 2004, attaching comments from the Office of Cable and Communication Services and the Office of the County Attorney on amendments to the Executive Regulation proposed by Councilmembers.

Councilmember Knapp provided background information concerning his preparation for the discussion on cable modem service standards, and noted that on June 29, when the cable modem issue was first scheduled for Council action, he was prepared to introduce his amendment, but the issue was deferred. He said that at Ms. Praisner's request at that meeting, he and other Councilmembers made their proposed amendments to the Executive Regulation available to Ms. Praisner. Mr. Knapp said that he was surprised to find that the Committee met on July 6 and reviewed the amendments and debated the issues involved without receiving feedback from Councilmembers who do not serve on the MFP Committee. Mr. Knapp expressed concern about the handling of this matter by the Committee, the press release that was issued by the Management and Fiscal Policy Committee (MFP) Committee on July 7, 2004, and the press conference that was held the next day. He said that he perceived the press release to indicate that the proposed amendments were anti-service, and he was concerned about this, especially since Councilmembers who offered the amendments had not had the opportunity to comment on them.

In discussing the fact that the Executive Regulation appears to be the first of its kind in the country, Mr. Knapp noted the challenge that this presents to the County to attempt to strike a balance on the requirement of a significant amount of telecommunication infrastructure and the needs of consumers whom Councilmembers represent. Mr. Knapp provided details regarding research that he undertook in connection with his proposed amendment, including actions by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) related to cable modem service, and issues related to the response of the National Association of Counties (NACo) to the FCC action. Mr. Knapp stressed the importance of the cable modem regulation, stating it involves a significant national discussion and one in which the County is interested in pursuing in a productive way.

Councilmember Praisner, expressed concern regarding Councilmember Knapp's comments, and provided background information concerning the issue, including the previous Council's adoption of legislation that puts in place a consumer compliance structure and the decision made by the Council to address cable modem standards through executive regulations. With respect to the issue raised by Mr. Knapp, Ms. Praisner said that the MFP Committee functioned in the traditional manner of a Council committee in its review of the proposed amendments to the Executive Regulation. She said that in response to the Council's deferral of action on the Executive Regulation, as Chair of the MFP Committee, she requested that Councilmembers provide any amendments or suggestions to her so that a committee packet could be prepared for the Committee's review. She noted that this is the typical way issues that are brought before the Council are considered. With respect to the amendments recommended by three Councilmembers for consideration, Ms. Praisner said that they were similar to amendments that the MFP Committee and the County Executive had already considered. Nevertheless, the Committee held a meeting on the proposed amendments and made recommendations. Ms. Praisner pointed out that the Committee's meeting was listed on the Council's Committee agenda, and that this was an open meeting with the Committee members in attendance who could be present at that time. Councilmember Praisner expressed the view that it is inappropriate to discuss motivations beyond customer service and County considerations and to introduce NACo into the issue, and that although other people have highlighted the fact that Montgomery County is the first county in the United States to address this issue through regulations, the regulation before the Council is intended to respond to the concerns of the County and its residents involving a the myriad of issues.

Councilmember Subin expressed the view that the chairs of Council committees have discretion in the management of the meetings they chair, but that he does not want his statement to be interpreted as for or against Mr. Knapp's comments but rather that they refer only to the authority of a Council committee chair to handle their committee meetings in the way the Committee chairs believe is most appropriate. In discussing related issues, Mr. Subin recalled actions he took previously regarding the FCC and the cable industry that resulted in legislation which made the County a more competitive environment for cable television. He discussed his concern about inappropriate accusations that are sometimes made when there is disagreement over issues, and expressed the view that Councilmembers should not be accused of being anti-consumer on the basis of their vote on an issue. Mr. Subin said that he supports some of the proposed amendments, a number of which are his, because he views some of the language in the Executive Regulation as legally questionable and anti-competitive.

Councilmember Andrews expressed the view that the County is fortunate to have Ms. Praisner serving as Chair of the MFP Committee because of her expertise on cable issues, and noted how much he appreciates working with her. He said that as Ms. Praisner mentioned, the Committee process followed the normal procedure in its review of the proposed amendment, and he believes that it is beneficial to the Council to have the Committee recommendation on the significant amendments that are offered. He said that he would not be surprised if Montgomery County is the first county in the country to adopt executive regulations on cable modem service, pointing out that Councilmember Praisner introduced the legislation two years ago, which the Council supported, that required the County Executive to issue the standards that are before the Council today.

Councilmember Floreen, in discussing her introduction to discussions on cable modem service, expressed the view that this is primarily about consumer protection for access to the internet and said that later in the meeting, she will share with Councilmembers her personal experience in this regard.

President Silverman directed attention to the proposed amendments set forth in the staff memorandum on pages 2-9; and comments from the Office of Cable and Communication Services and the Office of the County Attorney attached to the addendum staff memorandum. Mr. Silverman said that the proposed amendments are only suggestions to the County Executive, and if any of them are approved by the Council, they will be transmitted to the County Executive who will make a determination on whether to incorporate the amendments into the Executive Regulation. Mr. Silverman said that the Executive Regulation is scheduled for final action by the Council on July 27, 2004.

In introductory comments related to the Council's review of the proposed amendments, Councilmember Praisner said that she has asked outside counsel to be available should Councilmembers have questions. She said that representatives of the Office of Cable and Communication Services (OCCS) and the Office of the County Attorney are present because they commented on the appropriateness of issues as the Committee considered them. Ms. Praisner noted that technical staff is also available at the meeting to respond to any issues or questions the Council may raise.

President Silverman directed the Council's attention to the proposed amendments and the MFP Committee's recommendations as summarized by Council staff in the staff memorandum.

With respect to the amendment proposed by Councilmember Subin for §3, Definitions – Normal Operating Conditions, Councilmember Praisner explained that the Committee rejected the proposed amendment for the reasons described on page 3 of the staff memorandum.

Councilmember Subin discussed his reasons for proposing the deletion of the words "and the unforeseeable" from §3, and suggested the need to clarify the language in this section. He expressed the view that the term "unforeseeable" is too vague. Mr. Subin said that in suggesting the need for clarity, his purpose is to avoid future problems, not because he is attempting to support either the consumer or cable companies on this issue.

Councilmember Silverman requested information regarding the number of cable modem subscribers that Comcast Cable Communications, Inc. serves in order to make a more accurate comparison between the number of complaints Comcast receives from subscribers for cable modem service and the number of Comcast's cable modem subscribers. Ms. Bogage, Director of Government and Community Affairs, Comcast Cable Communications, Inc., stated that a rough estimate of the number of cable modem customers served by Comcast is around 100,000, and that she cannot be more specific than this because Comcast considers this proprietary information.

With respect to Councilmember Silverman's question concerning the County Executive's response to Councilmember Subin's proposed amendment, Mr. Pasternak, Special Assistant to the County Executive, stated that as he mentioned in his email to the Council last week, the County Executive supports the amendment.

In response to Councilmember Silverman's question regarding the County Attorney's opinion on Mr. Subin's proposed amendment, Mr. Royalty, Associate County Attorney, said that he was not addressing a public policy issue when he suggested that the removal of the word "unforeseeable" could encourage the purchase of substandard equipment and software which might ultimately lead to an excuse to circumvent the regulations should the equipment fail. Mr. Royalty said that he views this as a possible "legal loophole." During discussion, Councilmember Subin suggested substituting the word unpredictable for the word [unforeseeable].

During discussion, Ms. Bogage said that the language in the Executive Regulation concerning the failure of equipment or software would apply only to the owner or lessee of the equipment or software.

Councilmember Knapp expressed the view that the issue is whether Comcast should be held responsible for either predictable or unpredictable issues associated with equipment that has not been purchased by Comcast, and that he believes Comcast could not be held responsible for failure of equipment or software to operate properly that is not owned, leased or licensed by Comcast.

Councilmember Perez directed attention to the second page of a memorandum from Mr. Pasternak, dated June 9, 2004, and included in the Council's packet on page ©13. Mr. Perez said that in the first sentence, the first paragraph on ©13, it states that, "We would, however, support a change to the definition that adds 'the unforeseeable failure of equipment or software not owned, leased or licensed by the cable operator that provides access to the Internet'." During discussion, Mr. Perez noted that the County Attorney and the County Executive do not appear to be in agreement on the amendment, and requested Mr. Pasternak's comments in this regard.

Mr. Pasternak said that the positions held by Associate County Attorney Royalty and the County Executive differ because it is Mr. Royalty's responsibility to highlight legal issues and possible loopholes. He said that the Executive Regulation imposes customer service standards on items such as telephone availability, installation, and scheduling, and that cable operators are required to meet these standards under "normal working conditions." The Executive Regulation establishes a nonexclusive list of conditions that do not fall under the definition of normal operating conditions and are not within the control of the cable operator. One of those is whether the failure of equipment or software that is not leased, owned, or operated by the cable company is foreseeable. If that failure occurs, it is not within the control of the cable operator, it is not a normal operating condition, and the standards that must be met would not apply in those conditions. Mr. Pasternak noted the debate that might occur in the future if the word "unforeseeable" is retained, and said the memorandum he sent the Council in June 2004 was a response to a request to include for the first time the third party failure of equipment or software, and in incorporating the language into the Executive Regulation, he included the word "unforeseeable." He said that in considering the amendment, including whether a significant change should be made in the customer protection, he concluded that deleting the word "foreseeable" would have a minimal impact, if any, on the regulation.

Councilmember Perez pointed out that the term "foreseeable" has a legal connotation and implies that a person with reasonable prudence has to take appropriate steps, and a strong argument for its retention would be to ensure that an entity is doing aggressive monitoring of people with whom it subcontracts, and suggested that this might be part of the rationale behind the position of the Cable Administrator and the Cable Communications Advisory Committee (CCAC) on this issue.

Councilmember Leventhal reviewed the issues discussed and the positions presented thus far on Councilmember Subin's proposed amendment, and suggested that the Council attempt to reach some reasonable accommodation as to the meaning of the words in question. With respect to an issue raised by Councilmember Perez regarding subcontractors who were licensed to operate equipment, Mr. Leventhal expressed the view that this would not be a good argument either for retaining the word "unforeseeable."

Councilmember Floreen, in discussing comments made by Councilmember Knapp and Mr. Pasternak regarding the words "failure of equipment or software not owned, leased, or licensed by the cable operator," expressed the view that the use of the word "unforeseeable" in this context makes it a legal issue. Ms. Floreen described the experience that she and her husband had in obtaining and maintaining cable modem service, and stated that based on her experience, she believes this is a complicated set of arrangements in which it is easy for a person to blame one source or another for the problem, but that most people who are not experts on technology issues are dependent upon varying and often contradictory interpretations of equipment or software problems that may occur. She pointed out that this is a consumer protection issue and involves the question of who is responsible for equipment failure, and in the situation being discussed, Comcast would not be responsible. She said that there are many incidents that could be predicted and that that might affect someone's cable modem service, but it does not make sense to attempt to place this responsibility on an entity that is not responsible and who does not own the equipment or control it. Ms. Floreen said that she supports the deletion of the word "unforeseeable" because it suggests that one operator is going to anticipate, and be held responsible for, all equipment and software failures that might possibly occur. She said that she believes there is a limit to what the Council can expect to accomplish in its attempt to regulate business practices related to technology, and said that she believes the issue before the Council is what the Council can reasonably expect a company to control.

Councilmember Andrews stated that the principle at issue is accountability, and that the term foreseeable or unforeseeable represents a well established legal concept that implies that an entity is accountable for something that is reasonably predictable. Mr. Andrews suggested that "foreseeability" would reasonably apply in a situation where a cable operator inadvertently seriously damages leased equipment that subsequently fails and causes loss of service. He expressed the view that the deletion of the word "unforeseeable" provides a loophole in the Executive Regulation.

President Silverman, responding to Councilmember Leventhal's question, stated that he intends to have the Council vote on both of Councilmember Subin's proposed changes in §3, Definitions – Normal Operating Conditions. Mr. Leventhal objected, pointing out that the Council has not discussed the second change which is the insertion in the first sentence, on page 3, of the staff memorandum, after the words "access to the internet," the words and violations of subscriber agreements by the subscriber. Councilmember Leventhal moved, duly seconded, to divide the two issues in the proposed amendment for voting purposes.

ACTION: Agreed to divide the two issues in Councilmember Subin's motion for voting purposes.

YEAS: Denis, Leventhal, Andrews, Praisner, Perez
NAYS: Floreen, Subin, Knapp, Silverman.

Councilmember Leventhal made the motion.

Approved Councilmember Subin's amendment to §3, Definitions – Normal Operating Conditions, in the Executive Regulation, to delete in the first sentence, on page 3, of the staff memorandum, after the word "attacks;" the words [and the unforeseeable].

YEAS: Floreen, Subin, Leventhal, Knapp, Silverman
NAYS: Denis, Andrews, Praisner, Perez.

Councilmember Subin made the motion.

The Council turned its attention to the second issue in Mr. Subin's proposed amendment to §3, Definitions – Normal Operating Conditions, the proposed insertion in the first sentence, after the word "Internet," the words and violations of subscriber agreements by the subscriber.

Councilmember Leventhal quoted the following sentences from page 2, the second paragraph, beginning with the fourth sentence, of the addendum staff memorandum, the responses to the proposed amendments from the Office of Cable and Communication Services. "If an individual subscriber violates a subscriber agreement, such an action already frees the cable company from responsibility with regard to the violation itself. That does not affect the time in which the cable company is able to answer their phones or contact customers or respond to service calls. Inserting 'violations of subscriber agreements by the subscriber' simply doesn't make sense." Ms. Lawton, responding to Councilmember Leventhal's question, explained the meaning of "normal operating conditions" and "abnormal operating conditions" and noted the lack of control the County has concerning subscriber agreements.

Councilmember Leventhal directed attention to page 3 of the staff memorandum, the third paragraph, the penultimate sentence: "On the other hand, a subscriber's use of the service in a business enterprise in violation of the subscriber agreement may very well affect 'Normal Operating Conditions' as it relates to the cable operator's ability to meet the standards for restoring service that goes down."

In response to Councilmember Leventhal's question, Mr. Pasternak stated that the regulation applies to residential use, and that his understanding is that business use of a cable modem would be in violation of the residential subscriber agreement. Ms. Bogage agreed that the operation of a home-based business on the cable modem service provided by Comcast would be a violation of the residential subscriber agreement. She said that Ms. Lawton is correct in that some of these violations would result in a single service interpretation which would not affect the compliance numbers on the larger scale, but that a subscriber could engage in an activity in violation of the residential subscriber agreement that might cause an outage and affect more than one subscriber and impact Comcast's ability to respond. Ms. Bogage said that this is why the amendment is proposed. Ms. Lawton explained that although a home-based business is excluded under the residential subscriber agreement, the consumer operating such a business would be protected under the County's franchise agreement with Comcast. Mr. Royalty confirmed Ms. Lawton's statement, noting that he sees no exclusion pertaining to cable modem service in the franchise agreement, nor in Chapter 8A of the County Code.

Mr. Pasternak said that the issue of a violation of the residential subscriber agreements is the reflection of the fact that a third party could use the system in a manner that would violate the subscriber agreement and set in motion a series of circumstances beyond the control of the cable operator, and, therefore, could result in a situation in which the which the operator should not be required to meet the performance standards. The issue that the Executive Branch has with a blanket exclusion of the violation of subscriber agreements is that the violation may not be the cause of the condition that would excuse compliance. Referring to his memorandum, Mr. Pasternak said that if the violation by the subscriber could be tied to the condition which creates the inability to comply, then it is a situation not in control of the cable operator and it would not be a normal operating condition. In response to Councilmember Leventhal's observation that Councilmember Subin's proposed amendment does not address the issue, Mr. Pasternak suggested the need to retain Mr. Subin's concept and focus it on the fact that the violation would need to be the cause of the condition that creates the noncompliance.

During discussion, Mr. Royalty suggested that a failure of the system might be the result of customers adding servers, routers, and other equipment to their computer. Ms. Lawton questioned how that would impact the ability of Comcast to answer its telephone or achieve the established standards that represent responses to customers and do not relate to technology.

Councilmember Leventhal suggested amending Councilmember Subin's amendment to include language to state that violations of the subscriber agreements by the subscriber that create the condition would not be within the control of the cable operator. Councilmember Subin accepted the language change as a friendly amendment.

Discussion was held concerning the measurement of the customer service standards and reporting requirements as this relates to incidents that occur that are in violation of the subscriber agreements; the inclusion of internet access in the County's franchise agreement and comments from Ms. Bogage regarding her view that language in the County Code supersedes language in the franchise agreement.

ACTION: Approved Councilmember Subin's amendment, as amended by Councilmember Leventhal, to §3, Definitions – Normal Operating Conditions, to insert in the first paragraph, after the words "access to the internet" the words "and violations of the subscriber agreements by the subscriber that create or cause the condition.

Councilmember Subin made the motion.

With respect to the amendment proposed by Councilmember Subin for §3, Definitions – System Outage or Outage, Councilmember Praisner explained that the Committee rejected the proposed amendment for the reasons described on page 4 of the staff memorandum.

Councilmember Subin said that his rationale for the deletion of the words [or should be known] in the third line, under System Outage or Outage, is similar to the rationale for the previous proposed amendment. He explained that he believes the three words are ambiguous and could be easily challenged in court.

Mr. Pasternak said that he believes the question involves the attempt to strike a balance between technology and the expectation of consumers, and that he has been advised that the cable company cannot discern whether the consumer has gone off line or whether there is a system outage.

Ms. Bogage explained that areas covered by cable modem are divided into geographic nodes, and that if enough customers (sometimes ten or more) go off line at the same time, the company investigates to determine whether a system outage has occurred; otherwise, the company relies on consumers to notify the company of outages.

Mr. Afflerbach, engineer, Columbia Telecommunications, technical consultant for the Council, stated that other cable companies that he is familiar with have had the difficulty described by Ms. Bogage in determining whether consumers have gone off line or whether an outage has occurred. With respect to the problem of determining when outages occur, Mr. Afflerbach said that he believes the monitoring of outages should not be the sole responsibility of the consumer, that a higher threshold than ten subscribers might be used if the cable company is having difficulty with identifying outages for ten subscribers, and that the cable company should develop a system to monitor the outages.

Councilmember Perez suggested that Councilmember Subin's proposed amendment be modified to include language that reflects "a rule of reason," i.e., a reasonable entity standard. Mr. Perez suggested adding after the words "or should be known," the words through the exercise of ordinary due diligence. Councilmember Subin accepted Mr. Perez' suggestion as a friendly amendment.

Councilmember Knapp requested and received clarification from Mr. Pasternak regarding the definition of the words "known" or "should be known," as the terms are used in the Executive Regulation; and in response to his question about whether a higher threshold than ten subscribers should be used to identify outages, Mr. Pasternak stated that the higher the number, the more people would be without service before an investigation is undertaken of the outage. Ms. Lawton pointed out that ten is the number that is used in the Executive Regulation concerning video consumers.

During discussion, and in response to Councilmember Leventhal's question, Ms. Bogage noted her concern regarding how the term "ordinary due diligence" will be interpreted.

Councilmember Praisner stated that she agrees with the proposed amendment, as amended, and other members of the MFP Committee expressed no objection to the modified amendment.

ACTION: Approved Councilmember Subin's amendment, as amended by Councilmember Perez, to §3, Definitions –System Outage or Outage, to read: System Outage or Outage: A Service Interruption affecting more than ten (10) subscribers to a Cable Modem Service, as reported by the subscribers, or as otherwise becomes known or should be known through the exercise of ordinary due diligence to the cable operator, in the same node serving area.

Councilmember Subin made the motion.

With respect to the amendment proposed by Councilmember Silverman for §4, Cable Modem Service Standards – Scheduling and Completing Service, Councilmember Praisner explained that the Committee rejected the proposed amendment for the reasons described on page 5 of the staff memorandum.

Mr. Pasternak said that the Executive Branch's position is the approach used in the proposed amendment. He explained that the proposed regulation requires that 95% of the time, measured quarterly, repairs must be completed within 36 hours, and the proposed amendment breaks it down and requires that 95% of the time repairs must be initiated within 24 hours and 75% of the time repairs must be completed within 36 hours. Mr. Pasternak said that the proposed amendment recognizes technology difficulties and the incentive the company would have to complete repairs after the repairs are initiated within 24 hours. He said that this is the reason he believes the proposed amendment represents a reasonable approach.

In response to Councilmember Silverman's question regarding the business practice of Comcast, Ms. Bogage said that Comcast's business practice is "same day service." If a customer calls, even if it is not for service interruption, the goal of Comcast is to schedule service for the same day or the next day, and noted that Comcast's record indicates that this goal is being achieved. She said that Comcast is complying with the requirement on the video side of completing repairs within 24 hours, 95% of the time, and it has been in compliance with that requirement throughout 2004. Ms. Bogage explained that cable modem is a more complex service than video service, and that extensive repair work would take more time. She pointed out that the language in the proposed amendment that calls for initiating repairs within 24 hours 95% of the time is language that is taken from the FCC standard for cable television service. During discussion, Ms. Bogage said that when a customer calls the cable company to report a service interruption and a visit is scheduled to the customer's home, it is necessary for the customer to be home when the technician arrives even if the repair is found to be outside of the home. She said that the repair is completed on the initial visit when possible and if not, another visit is scheduled which would require additional time. During discussion, Councilmember Perez noted that if the Council had the benefit of additional data, it could make a more informed judgment on this issue.

Mr. Miller, Miller and VanEaton, LLP, special counsel to the County Executive clarified issues raised regarding regulations that local exchange telephone companies face when they offer digital subscriber line (DSL) facilities and services in the County, in accordance with the information contained in his memorandum to Mr. Royalty, dated July 12, 2004.

ACTION: Defeated Councilmember Silverman's amendment to §4, Cable Modem Service Standards – Scheduling and Completing Service, as more particularly set forth on pages 4 and 5 of the staff memorandum.

YEAS: Floreen, Subin, Knapp, Silverman

NAYS: Denis, Leventhal, Andrews, Praisner, Perez.

With respect to the amendment proposed by Councilmember Knapp for §4(d), Interruption of Service, Councilmember Praisner explained that the Committee rejected the proposed amendment for the reasons described on page 6 of the staff memorandum.

Councilmember Knapp stated that he appreciates the Committee's perspective, and explained that he offered the amendment because of his previous experience at the Celera Genomics Group. He discussed the conclusion that he reached regarding the limitation of the timeframe in which planned maintenance would occur and the requirement that a specific entity would be notified in advance of the anticipated service interruption, so that subscribers to the service would have a point of contact should they have questions regarding a service interruption.

Ms. Lawton suggested the alternative of having subscribers request notification from the cable company when planned maintenance is scheduled.

Ms. Bogage said that it would not be possible at this time for Comcast to email customers since email service is not provided locally, but it might be possible in the future to post planned maintenance on Comcast's web site. With respect to Mr. Knapp's proposed amendment, Ms. Bogage said that Comcast is following this procedure currently. She said that this is the requirement under the franchise agreement and the practice that Comcast has followed since she has been employed by Comcast which is more than three years. Ms. Bogage said that only a few complaints have been received concerning this practice.

Councilmember Leventhal expressed the view that 24-hour notice for planned maintenance is adequate, and that Comcast should be able to email customers that request to be notified of service interruptions that are anticipated to occur. Mr. Leventhal discussed with Ms. Bogage issues related to service interruptions and notification to all customers, with Ms. Bogage expressing the view that it would be difficult to notify customers by mail of a system outage because of planned maintenance because it is usually not planned that far in advance of the time it is scheduled, but it might be possible to provide notice to customers by a "crawl notification" on a television channel.

ACTION: Approved Councilmember Knapp's amendment to §4(d), Interruptions of Service, as more particularly set forth on page 5 of the staff memorandum.

YEAS: Floreen, Subin, Leventhal, Knapp, Silverman

NAYS: Denis, Andrews, Praisner, Perez

Councilmember Knapp made the motion.

With respect to the amendment proposed by Councilmember Subin for §4(e)(4), Notice to Subscribers, Councilmember Praisner explained that the Committee rejected the proposed amendment for the reasons described on page 6 of the staff memorandum.

Mr. Pasternak said that the Executive Branch has been working with Comcast for some time on notification, and that with respect to Councilmember Subin's proposed amendment, he suggested adding a provision that says that all forms and notices distributed to customers that describe customer service policies and procedures shall be submitted for County review. Mr. Pasternak said that the County has the ability under the franchise agreement to review customer service policies and procedures and if the County believes that there is a violation of the franchise agreement or the consumer protection laws, the County could pursue the matter even in the absence of a regulation.

Councilmember Subin accepted Mr. Pasternak's suggestion to require all forms and notices to be subject to County review within a five-day period. Mr. Subin expressed the view that this requirement sets a bad precedent by requiring forms and notices of businesses to be reviewed by the County, but in this case, the Executive Regulation should be consistent with the franchise agreement.

In response to Councilmember Silverman's question, Mr. Pasternak said that if the County does not have the opportunity to review the forms and notices within the five-day period, it can request an extension of time from the cable company. He said that if the County had approval rights, and the cable company refused to extend the time when requested, the company would be free to send the forms and notices without the County's involvement. However, this would not occur in this case since the forms and notices would be submitted to the County for review only.

Based on the discussion of this issue, Councilmember Subin suggested that the language be revised to read: All forms and notices distributed to customers that describe customer service policies and procedures shall be subject to prior County review to ensure they do not violate the franchise agreement or any other applicable law.

Councilmember Praisner said that she supports the proposed amendment with the stipulations that it does not change the County's approval authority for the cable franchise, and that the notice or distribution or information being provided is in a form not yet printed.

ACTION: Approved an amendment to §4(e)(4), Notice to Subscribers, as modified by Councilmember Subin to read: All forms and notices distributed to customers that describe customer service policies and procedures shall be subject to prior County review to ensure they do not violate the franchise agreement or any other applicable law.

Councilmember Subin made the motion.

With respect to the amendment proposed by Councilmember Subin for §4(g), Rebate Policy, Councilmember Praisner explained that the Committee rejected the proposed amendment for the reasons described on page 7 of the staff memorandum.

In discussing the proposed amendment, Mr. Pasternak expressed the view that the phrase "under normal operating conditions" is not necessary because compliance standards do not apply when "normal working conditions" do not exist, and force majeure provisions excuse compliance. He said that the proposed change requiring a customer to request a rebate is inconsistent with other industries that are regulated by the FCC, and that the Executive Branch is not opposed to the change. Mr. Pasternak suggested that if the Council approves the proposed amendment, the rebate apply to a 24 hour period, not 36.

Councilmember Andrews noted that a subscriber automatically receives a credit of 10% of the subscriber's normal bill for each 24 hour period that service is out after it was scheduled to be restored. He pointed out that under the proposed amendment, the rebate would be reduced to $1.66 for each 24 hour period based on a monthly bill of $50. Mr. Andrews said that in his opinion, few people would take the time to telephone the cable company to obtain a small rebate and he believes that cable modem customers should not be placed in this situation to obtain a rebate that they deserve to have credited to them automatically for service paid but not received. Ms. Bogage clarified that rebates for outages are not automatic and have to be initiated by Comcast's customers. She said, however, that customers do request rebates frequently and that Comcast agrees with Mr. Andrews that customers should not pay for what they are not receiving.

Councilmember Leventhal said based on Mr. Pasternak's comments and his own understanding of the proposed amendment, he believes the rebate should not have to be initiated by the subscriber, Comcast should estimate and pro-rate the credit for the period of time of the service outage, and the time period should be 24 hours, not 36. Councilmember Leventhal proposed that Councilmember Subin's amendment be amended to delete in the first line of the proposed amendment, on page 7 of the staff memorandum, the words [under normal working conditions] and in the last sentence of that paragraph, the words [upon request by the subscriber]. Councilmember Subin accepted Mr. Leventhal's proposed amendment as a friendly amendment. Councilmember Leventhal suggested adding introductory language, as recommended by Council staff, to make it clear that video and cable modem services are treated differently because they pose different and unique challenges, and that the treatment of the cable modem service should not be interpreted as affecting video standards. There was no objection to his suggestion.

ACTION: Approved Councilmember Subin's amendment to §4(g), Rebate Policy, as amended by Councilmember Leventhal, to delete in the first line, the first paragraph, on page 7 of the staff memorandum, the words [under normal working conditions] and in the last sentence of that paragraph, the words [upon request by the subscriber].

Councilmember Subin made the motion.

With respect to the amendment proposed by Councilmember Silverman for §6, Enforcement, Councilmember Praisner explained the proposed amendment, the Committee's support for maintaining the existing remedies as provided under the franchise agreements, its request for information on the levels of fines and types of remedies currently provided, and on how the Office of Cable and Communication Services implements these remedies.

Councilmember Silverman said that the enforcement remedies in the Executive Regulation involve revoking or terminating the franchise agreement. He said that although he supports levying fines for violations of customer service standards, he is concerned that a large amount of complaints within a short period of time might trigger the revocation of the franchise under § 14(f) of the cable franchise agreements. Mr. Silverman noted the impact that this would have on all of Comcast's cable customers. He said that as an alternative, he is attempting to find a way to impose liquidated damages for violations.

Councilmember Praisner said that she understands Mr. Silverman's point and she cannot perceive of a situation in which she would want to terminate a franchise agreement but she would like the option of doing so. She said that in the event that something becomes so egregious, she believes it is important for the County to have the ability to exercise that right in exchange for the right that the County has given to the cable company to operate in the County. She said that she would like to incorporate that check and balance into the Executive Regulation, noting that it does not hurt the cable companies or the County.

Mr. Pasternak suggested as a reasonable alternative, the use of the increased fines for customer service standard violations that were imposed in the transfer agreement from Prime Communications to Comcast. He said that the fines were imposed on a sliding scale, beginning with $500 for the first violation and increased to $5,000 and $10,000 for violations occurring during a specified period of time.

Councilmember Praisner said that she is not opposed to increasing the fines for violations, but believes that the ability to terminate or revoke a franchise should be retained. During discussion, Ms. Praisner pointed out that the issue and debate of open access over cable modem predated the introduction of Bill 28-02, Cable Communications – Amendments, which required regulations to be written for cable modem service. Mr. Pasternak noted the need for the Council to consider the impact of standards and potential penalties on the ability of cable companies to operate and obtain financing in view of the fact that the County is likely to be one of the first counties in the country to impose standards on cable modem service. Councilmember Silverman reiterated his concern about the impact on cable customers if the County should terminate or revoke the franchise agreement. He expressed the view that this is a remedy that the County will never use and he believes it should not be retained as a potential remedy. Councilmember Perez stated that he believes that the existence of a remedy that is unlikely to be used can be a good deterrent, but he will support the alternative proposed by Mr. Pasternak that provides for increased fines for customer service standard violations.

Councilmember Silverman revised his proposed amendment to substitute increased fines for customer service standard violations, to divide the language concerning written notice into two separate sentences as proposed by Council staff, and include language to ensure that the enforcement section of the Executive Regulation is not construed to preclude the rights of subscribers under County law.

ACTION: Defeated Councilmember Silverman's proposed amendment for §6, Enforcement, as amended and described above.

Councilmember Silverman made the motion.

YEAS: Floreen, Subin, Knapp, Silverman
NAYS: Denis, Leventhal, Andrews, Praisner, Perez

Councilmember Leventhal said that he voted against the motion because he believes his position on notification of customers and on penalties for violations for customer service standards should be the same. Mr. Leventhal noted that he voted in support of Councilmember Knapp's proposed amendment to §4 (d), Interruptions of Service, because he was persuaded by Comcast that its notification requirements should be the same for both internet and video customers.

The Council reviewed the proposed technical amendment on page 9 of the staff memorandum that proposes to delete §3(2)iv. Definitions.

ACTION: Approved the deletion of §3(2)iv. Definitions, as recommended by the MFP Committee and the Executive Branch.

The MFP Committee made the motion.

SUBJECT: Public Hearing on a Special Appropriation to the FY05 Operating Budget of the Montgomery County Fire and Rescue Service for Outreach and Recruitment, in the Amount of $200,000

Councilmember Knapp, Lead Member for Fire and Rescue Services on the Public Safety (PS) Committee, presented the report of the Committee, as outlined in the addendum from Legislative Analyst Davidson, dated July 12, 2004.

Councilmember Subin spoke in support of the Committee recommendation to approve the special appropriation. He said that because there are many needs within the Department that should be addressed, the Committee did not believe the Fire Administrator would be able to fund the $200,000 for outreach and recruitment without having a detrimental impact on the Department. Mr. Subin stated that the Committee did not support the County Executive's view that a special appropriation is not necessary at this time because it is early in FY05 and that he would make a determination in January on whether an appropriation is necessary. He said that outreach and recruitment is an important issue and one of the Council's top priorities.

Councilmember Praisner said that although she supports the recommendation to approve the special appropriator, she is concerned that within three weeks of the beginning of the fiscal year, the Council will be approving a special appropriation for $200,000. She stated that it is important to keep track of the supplementals that are introduced and adopted, to identify its impact on the budget and the reserve balance, and to know the fiscal implications for the next fiscal year. Ms. Praisner requested that staff prepare a rolling chart that identifies the ongoing costs beyond the current budget, including its impact on both the reserve and the budget balance for the current fiscal year.

Councilmember Perez expressed appreciation to the Committee for considering the issue expeditiously. He said that he is convinced that there is a commitment that will be sustained in addressing the challenges of recruiting and hiring individuals who are both well qualified and racially and ethnically diverse. Mr. Perez said five years ago, the Council allocated $400,000 for outreach and recruitment efforts and now it is spending approximately one-half that amount. He said that the rescue side of the equation is 90% of the job, that community oriented fire and rescue works best, and that it is important that the County have a racially and ethnically diverse work force to carry out the education and prevention roles.

Councilmember Andrews spoke in support of the Committee recommendation, and expressed appreciation to Councilmember Perez for his initiative in this area. He said that the Committee concluded that the special appropriation was necessary in order to recruit and hire individuals who are well qualified and racially and ethnically diverse.

ACTION: Adopted Resolution 15-684, approving the subject special appropriation.

The Public Safety Committee made the motion.

MEMORANDUM

November 7, 2006

TO: George L. Leventhal, President, Montgomery County Council

FROM: Douglas M. Duncan, County Executive

SUBJECT: Expedited Bill to Clarify the Term of the Permanent Umpire under the Police Labor Relations Law

Last year, Louis Aronin, who, as Permanent Umpire, had administered the Police Labor Relations Law for many years, passed away in the middle of a 5-year term that was to expire on December 3, 2007. After much discussion, the County and the Fraternal Order of Police (FOP) have finally agreed on an individual to jointly recommend to the County Executive and the Council to succeed Mr. Aronin. The statute, however, is silent concerning whether a new Permanent Umpire must serve the remainder of Mr. Aronin's term or a new 5-year term.

The FOP favors amending the statute to provide that, when a vacancy occurs mid-term in the position of Permanent Umpire, the new Permanent Umpire must serve for the remainder of the predecessor's term. We concur in this approach because it will allow the parties to observe the performance of the new Permanent Umpire without being committed to that individual for 5 more years. Of course, under the law, the new appointee would be eligible for reappointment to a new 5-year term at the completion of the current term that ends in 2007.

The attached expedited bill provides that, if the Permanent Umpire dies, resigns, becomes disabled, or otherwise becomes unable or ineligible to continue to serve as Permanent Umpire, the County Executive must appoint a new Permanent Umpire to serve out the remainder of the previous appointee's 5-year term.

LEGISLATIVE REQUEST REPORT

Expedited Bill -06, Police Labor Relations – Permanent Umpire

DESCRIPTION: The requested legislation amends County Code Section 33-37, Permanent Umpire, to provide that if a vacancy occurs mid-term in the position of Permanent Umpire, the new Permanent Umpire must be appointed to serve out the remainder of the predecessor's term rather than serve a new 5-year term.

PROBLEM: For many years, Louis Aronin served as the Permanent Umpire under the Police Labor Relations Law. Mr. Aronin passed away last year in the middle of a 5-year term that expires on December 3, 2007. The statute is silent concerning whether a replacement must serve out the remainder of Mr. Aronin's term or serve a new 5-year term. The Fraternal Order of Police (FOP) and the County Executive jointly support legislation requiring that the new Permanent Umpire serve the remainder of the predecessor's term. This will allow the parties to observe the performance of the new Permanent Umpire without being committed to that individual for 5 years.

GOALS AND OBJECTIVES: To clarify the procedure to be followed when a vacancy occurs mid-term in the position of Permanent Umpire to administer the Police Labor Relations Law.

Linda M. Lauer, Clerk of the Council

F / Hussmann

MY NAME IS WILLIAM H. HUSSMANN, CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICER FOR MONTGOMERY COUNTY.

IN MAY OF THIS YEAR, I PRESENTED TO THE COUNTY COUNCIL A COMPREHENSIVE PROPOSAL FOR REVISING THE PAY PLAN FOR MONTGOMERY COUNTY EMPLOYEES. AS YOU WILL RECALL, THAT PAY PROPOSAL INVOLVED CURTAILMENT OF INCREMENTS FROM APPROXIMATELY FIVE PERCENT (5%) TO TWO PERCENT (2%), EXTENDING THE RANGE OF PAY BY ELIMINATING THE PROVISIONS FOR LONGEVITY INCREMENTS, AND ADJUSTING THE PAY PLAN ANNUALLY BY AN AMOUNT NOT LESS THAN SEVENTY-FIVE PERCENT (75%) OF THE CONSUMER PRICE INDEX. THAT PAY PLAN HAS BEEN SUCCESSFULLY IMPLEMENTED.

IT REMAINS FOR THE COUNCIL TO ADOPT INTO LAW PROVISIONS FOR ADJUSTING THE PAY PLAN ANNUALLY BY AN AMOUNT NOT LESS THAN SEVENTY-FIVE PERCENT (75%) OF THE CONSUMER PRICE INDEX.

IN ADOPTING RESOLUTION NO. 8-1935, ON MAY 9, 1978, THE COUNCIL RESOLVED THAT "IT SHALL BE THE POLICY OF THE MONTGOMERY COUNTY GOVERNMENT EFFECTIVE JULY 1, 1979, TO ADOPT ANNUALLY THE UNIFORM SALARY PLAN FOR ALL CLASSIFIED EMPLOYEES OF THE MERIT SYSTEM OF THE MONTGOMERY COUNTY GOVERNMENT BASED ON NOT LESS THAN SEVENTY-FIVE PERCENT (75%) OF THE NOVEMBER CONSUMER PRICE INDEX FOR ALL URBAN CONSUMERS FOR THE WASHINGTON, D.C. AREA: AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED THAT THE COUNTY COUNCIL REQUESTS THE COUNTY EXECUTIVE TO SUBMIT LEGISLATION FOR ITS CONSIDERATION TO PROVIDE BY LOCAL LAW FOR THE IMPLEMENTATION OF THE POLICY WITH REGARD TO THE ANNUAL UNIFORM SALARY PLAN ADJUSTMENT AS AFOREMENTIONED". IT IS MY RECOLLECTION THAT SUCH RESOLUTION WAS PASSED UNANIMOUSLY BY THE COUNTY COUNCIL.

THE SEVENTY-FIVE PERCENT (75%) CONSUMER PRICE INDEX ADJUSTMENT ANNUALLY IS AN EXTREMELY IMPORTANT PART OF OUR OVERALL PAY SYSTEM, AS I OUTLINED TO YOU IN MAY. THIS GOVERNMENT HAS TAKEN A RATHER EXTREME ACTION IN REDUCING THE AMOUNT OF OUR ANNUAL MERIT INCREMENTS FROM FIVE PERCENT (5%) [illegible] THE LOWEST IN THIS METROPOLITAN AREA AND AMONG THE LOWEST AMONG LOCAL GOVERNMENTS IN THE COUNTRY.

THIS WAS DONE DELIBERATELY. YOU WILL RECALL THAT UNDER THE OLD PAY SYSTEM SOME FORTY PERCENT (40%) OF OUR EMPLOYEES HAD ALREADY REACHED THE MAXIMUM OF THE NORMAL STEPS OF THE PAY GRADE (EXCLUDING LONGEVITIES), RESULTING IN A SITUATION WHERE OUR MOST EXPERIENCED AND VALUED EMPLOYEES RECEIVED ONLY A COST-OF-LIVING ADJUSTMENT ANNUALLY, WHICH WAS NORMALLY PROVIDED AT THE "ELEVENTH HOUR" OF THE BUDGET DELIBERATION PROCESS, MANY TIMES INFLUENCED BY SPECIAL INTEREST AND OTHER PRESSURE GROUPS AND CERTAINLY WITHOUT A DELIBERATE SYSTEMATIC METHOD OF DEVELOPMENT.

WE THEN MADE A CONSCIOUS DECISION TO PLACE MOST OF OUR SALARY RESOURCES TOWARD MINIMIZING THE ADVERSE AFFECTS OF INFLATION BORNE BY ALL EMPLOYEES.

THE SEVENTY-FIVE PERCENT (75%) FIGURE IS AN ARBITRARY ONE. AN EMPLOYEE'S SALARY, HOWEVER, IS ONLY A PORTION OF THE TOTAL COMPENSATION RECEIVED. WHEN THE COST OF FRINGE BENEFITS IS CONSIDERED, SUCH AS GROUP INSURANCE, HOSPITALIZATION, ETC., SEVENTY-FIVE PERCENT (75%) IS AN EQUITABLE ANNUAL ADJUSTMENT. IT IS, INCIDENTALLY, THE SAME FIGURE RECEIVED BY OUR ELECTED OFFICIALS FOR THEIR ANNUAL PAY ADJUSTMENT.

THIS PAST YEAR, YOU APPROVED A 6.8% COST-OF-LIVING FIGURE FOR OUR EMPLOYEES. THIS FIGURE CORRESPONDED VERY WELL WITH THE INCREASE IN HOUSEHOLD BUDGETS FOR THE PERIOD AUGUST 1976 TO AUGUST 1977. SUCH HOUSEHOLD BUDGETS, WHEN MEDICAL CARE EXPENSES ARE EXCLUDED, FOR A FAMILY OF FOUR INCREASED BY 6.7% FOR LOWER-LEVEL FAMILY BUDGETS; BY 7.6% FOR INTERMEDIATE-LEVEL FAMILY BUDGETS; AND 6.8% FOR HIGHER-LEVEL FAMILY BUDGETS.

DURING THE SEVEN YEARS SINCE FY 73, THE CONSUMER PRICE INDEX FOR THE WASHINGTON METROPOLITAN AREA HAS RISEN BY 47.4%. HAD THE SEVENTY-FIVE PERCENT (75%) CONSUMER PRICE INDEX PROVISION BEEN IN EFFECT DURING THAT PERIOD, OUR EMPLOYEES WOULD HAVE RECEIVED AGGREGATE INCREASES AMOUNTING TO 35.5%. IN FACT, THEY RECEIVED INCREASES AMOUNTING TO 33.3%, OR 70% OF THE CONSUMER PRICE INDEX. IT IS INTERESTING TO NOTE THAT THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT SALARIES, WHICH HAVE A MAJOR IMPACT ON INCOME LEVELS IN THIS AREA, ROSE BY 38.15%, OR 80% OF THE CONSUMER PRICE INDEX. THEREFORE, WHEN CONSIDERING THE SIGNIFICANTLY DECREASED AMOUNT OF THE MERIT INCREMENT, THE SEVENTY-FIVE PERCENT (75%) COST-OF-LIVING ADJUSTMENT IS NOT AT ALL UNREALISTIC.

THE SEVENTY-FIVE PERCENT (75%) COST-OF-LIVING ADJUSTMENT ALSO IS REASONABLE WHEN WE COMPARE THE INCREASES IN THE AGGREGATE PERSONAL INCOME LEVELS OF OUR MONTGOMERY COUNTY CITIZENS AND WITH THE INCREASES IN PER CAPITA INCOME. FOR THE SEVEN CALENDAR YEARS FROM 1972 THRU 1978, PERSONAL INCOME IN MONTGOMERY COUNTY ROSE FROM $3.92 BILLION TO AN ESTIMATED $6.85 BILLION, OR 74%. FOR THE SAME PERIOD OF TIME, PER CAPITA INCOME INCREASED FROM $7,172 TO $11,520, OR 61%.

AS I INDICATED TO YOU IN MAY, OUR REDUCED INCREMENT POLICY RESULTS IN THE NEXT FIVE FISCAL YEARS SAVINGS AMOUNTING TO SOME SEVEN MILLION DOLLARS ($7,000,000). OUR EMPLOYEES HAVE BEEN INFORMED OF THIS AND UNDERSTAND IT. HOWEVER, IT IS EXTREMELY IMPORTANT THAT THEY BE ASSURED THAT THE POLICY OF THE COUNTY GOVERNMENT WILL BE TO AFFORD SOME PROTECTION AGAINST SOME OF THE RAVAGES OF INFLATION.

THE IMPACT OF THE SEVENTY-FIVE PERCENT (75%) COST-OF-LIVING POLICY FOR THE FY 80 OPERATING BUDGET WILL AMOUNT TO SOME $4.6 MILLION BASED ON AN ANTICIPATED CONSUMER PRICE INDEX INCREASE OF 7%, OR A 5.25% COST-OF-LIVING ADJUSTMENT. AN ADDITIONAL AMOUNT OF $2.2 MILLION FOR THE REDUCED INCREMENT POLICY AMOUNTS TO A TOTAL SALARY AND WAGE IMPACT OF $6.8 MILLION. UNDER THE OLD POLICIES, A 6% COST OF LIVING AND THE ALMOST 5% INCREMENT POLICY WOULD HAVE A TOTAL BUDGETARY IMPACT OF $8.4 MILLION.

ONE TECHNICAL POINT AS TO THE BILL ITSELF--THE LANGUAGE ON PAGE 2, LINES 2 THRU 4, PROVIDES THAT THE "PERCENTAGE CHANGE WILL BE BASED ON THE LATEST PUBLISHED INDEX FOR THE CALENDAR YEAR PRECEDING THE FISCAL YEAR IN WHICH THE ADJUSTMENT IS TO BE PAID." SUCH LANGUAGE CAUSES SOME PROBLEM IN TRYING TO PLAN THE BUDGET PROPERLY. HISTORICALLY, THE COUNTY HAS USED THE AUGUST-TO-AUGUST CONSUMER PRICE INDEX. HOWEVER, THE DEPARTMENT OF LABOR HAS RECENTLY CHANGED THE REPORTING PERIOD TO EVERY OTHER MONTH. TECHNICALLY, THEN, THE NOVEMBER-TO-NOVEMBER INDEX IS THE LATEST PUBLISHED INDEX FOR THE CALENDAR YEAR. I UNDERSTAND THAT THE REASON FOR THE GENERAL LANGUAGE IS TO PREVENT THE NECESSITY OF AMENDING THE LAW IN THE FUTURE IF THE INDEX PERIOD CHANGES. HOWEVER, TO ENSURE THAT WE HAVE PLENTY OF LEAD TIME IN PLANNING THE BUDGET, I STRONGLY SUGGEST THAT THE LANGUAGE BE CHANGED TO PROVIDE FOR AN ADJUSTMENT TO BE BASED ON THE SEPTEMBER-TO-SEPTEMBER CONSUMER PRICE INDEX CHANGE.

I HAVE NOTICED THAT THERE ARE SOME AMENDMENTS OFFERED TO BILL NO. 37-78 WHICH WOULD EMPHASIZE THAT ANY COST-OF-LIVING ADJUSTMENT IS SUBJECT TO THE AVAILABILITY OF FUNDS AS PROVIDED AND APPROVED BY THE COUNTY COUNCIL. THIS GOES WITHOUT SAYING, HOWEVER, TO INCLUDE SUCH LANGUAGE IN THE BILL SEEMS TO ME TO BE AN UNNECESSARY DIMINISHING OF THE STATED POLICY OF THE COUNTY GOVERNMENT AND MIGHT BE CONSTRUED BY FUTURE ELECTED OFFICIALS TO BE SOMETHING LESS THAN A DEDICATED COMMITMENT.

SINCE OUR COMMITMENT TO AN ANNUAL ADJUSTMENT TO THE PAY PLAN EQUAL TO SEVENTY-FIVE PERCENT (75%) OF THE CONSUMER PRICE INDEX AS PRESENTED DURING THE BUDGET DELIBERATIONS THIS YEAR, WE HAVE ALL BECOME ACUTELY AWARE OF EFFORTS TO LIMIT THE ANNUAL GROWTH OF OUR OPERATING BUDGET. THE QUESTION THEN ARISES, DOES A PLANNED ANNUAL ADJUSTMENT IN OUR WAGES AND SALARIES IN THE EVENT OF THE SUCCESSFUL PASSAGE OF AMENDMENTS TO OUR CHARTER UNNECESSARILY PRE-EMPT OUR DECISION MAKING IN ESTABLISHING PROGRAMS FOR OUR CITIZENS? THE ANSWER, I BELIEVE, IS THAT IT DOES NOT.

THE PROGRAMS AND SERVICES OFFERED TO THE COUNTY CITIZENS ARE NECESSARILY CARRIED OUT BY PEOPLE. EVEN IF THE SCOPE AND EXTENT OF SUCH SERVICES HAVE TO BE CURTAILED WITH THE RESULTING LAYOFF OF MANY EMPLOYEES, IT BECOMES MORE CRITICAL THAT THOSE WHO REMAIN TO CARRY OUT THE SERVICES AND PROGRAMS BE COMPENSATED ADEQUATELY AND FAIRLY. THERE IS NO DOUBT THAT SUCH POTENTIAL CURTAILMENTS WILL RESULT IN A DEMAND FOR EVEN GREATER WORK PRODUCTIVITY AND DEDICATION ON THE PART OF OUR EMPLOYEES.

I BELIEVE IT IS NOT ASKING TOO MUCH THEN TO PLACE AN ANNUAL COST-OF-LIVING ADJUSTMENT UP FRONT BEFORE ALL OTHER PRIORITIES HAVE BEEN ESTABLISHED AND TO RECOGNIZE THAT NO COUNTY PROGRAM OR SERVICE TO OUR CITIZENS CAN BE EFFECTIVE WITHOUT OUR BODY OF DEDICATED AND MOTIVATED PUBLIC SERVANTS.

I HEREBY CERTIFY THAT 25 COPIES OF THIS BILL ARE AVAILABLE TO THE PUBLIC AND PRESS AS OF 7/18/78

COUNTY COUNCIL

FOR MONTGOMERY COUNTY, MARYLAND

____ Legislative Session 1978

By: Council President at the request of the County Executive; Councilmembers Colman, Hovsepian

AN ACT to amend Chapter 33, title "Personnel," Article IV, title "Employer-Employee Relations Act," Montgomery County Code 1972, as amended, by adding a new Section 33-74 thereto, title "Cost-of-Living Adjustment" to provide for an annual cost-of-living adjustment for all County employees whose salaries are determined by the uniform salary plan /[schedule]

Be It Enacted by the County Council for Montgomery County, Maryland, that -

Sec. 1. Declaration of Policy and Legislative Intent.

It is hereby declared to be the policy of Montgomery County, Maryland, to provide for and ensure in an orderly, uniform manner as part of its budgetary process, guaranteed annual wage adjustments to merit system employees of the County Government to compensate those individuals and to equalize their wages due to increases in area-wide consumer prices and other cost-of-living factors.

It is further declared to be the public policy of Montgomery County, Maryland, that such wage increases are recognized as necessary to recruit and retain a high quality work force and prevent inflation and other invidious economic factors from undermining the compensation paid to members of its work force.

Sec. 2. Chapter 33, title "Personnel," Article IV, title "Employer-Employee Relations Act," of the Montgomery County Code 1972, as amended, is hereby amended by adding a new Section 33-74 thereto, title "Cost-of-Living Adjustment" to read as follows:

33-74. Cost-of-Living Adjustment.

The Chief Administrative Officer shall adjust the uniform salary plan /[schedule] for all classified employees of the Montgomery County Government beginning the first pay period on or after July 1, of each year by an amount not less than seventy-five percent (75%) of the change in the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers in the Washington, D.C. area. Such percentage change shall be based on the latest published index for the calendar year preceding the fiscal year in which the adjustment is to be paid.

Notwithstanding the above, Pay Grades 1 through 4 of the uniform salary plan /[schedule] to which minimum wage and certain seasonal employees are assigned will be adjusted by changes in minimum wage rates and salary surveys to determine the competitiveness of such salaries.

No provision of this law shall prohibit the Chief Administrative Officer from adjusting the uniform salary plan /[schedule] in excess of the base percentage of seventy-five percent (75%), provided funds are available and approved by the County Council for such purpose.

The County Executive shall submit to the County Council each year as part of the recommended Operating Budget for the County Government such sums as are necessary to fund the Cost-of-Living Adjustment set forth in Section 33-74 of this Chapter.

Sec. 3. Severability.

The provisions of this Act are severable and if any provision, clause, sentence, section, work or part thereof is held illegal, invalid, or unconstitutional, or inapplicable to any person or circumstances, such illegality, invalidity or unconstitutionality, or inapplicability shall not affect or impair any of the remaining provisions, clauses, sentences, sections, words, or parts of the Act or their application to other persons or circumstances. It is hereby declared to be the legislative intent that this Act would have been adopted if such illegal, invalid, or unconstitutional provision, clause, sentence, section, work or part had not been included therein, and if the person or circumstances to which the Act or part thereof is inapplicable had been specifically exempted therefrom.

Sec. 4. Effective date.

The Council hereby declares that an emergency exists and that this legislation is necessary for the immediate protection of public health and safety. Therefore, this Act shall become effective on the date on which it becomes law.

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS:

Re: Introduction of Bill No. 72-78, Towing Legislation

The Council had before it for consideration Bill No. 72-78, Towing Legislation.

Councilman Menke stated that the bill before the Council for introduction provides for the registration of towers of motor vehicles operating in Montgomery County. He believes that this is a good approach to a regulatory problem, in contrast to proposed legislation from the County Executive to license and inspect single family homes that are for rent. He believes that the approach regarding single family homes is in the wrong direction when there is not a clear, overriding, demonstrated need for government control of the service rendered. When that bill is before the Council, he requested that the Council not introduce it or introduce an amendment to provide for registration only. It is desirable to know how many single-family homes are being rented, and where they are, but he believes it is totally unnecessary to go beyond that.

Upon motion of Councilman Menke, duly seconded and without objection, the Council waived the reading of the title and introduced Bill No. 72-78 by the Council President at the request of the County Executive; and Councilman Menke:

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments, Chapter 31A, title "Motor Vehicle Repair Registration", to be retitled "Motor Vehicle Repair and Towing Registration", to require persons engaging in the business of towing motor vehicles to register with the Montgomery County Department of Environmental Protection; to make such registration subject to the same general provisions applicable to motor vehicle repair registration; to exclude from the requirements of this Chapter towing which both begins and ends outside Montgomery County; to require lettering of tow trucks; to require that rate schedules for towing services be filed with the Montgomery County Department of Environmental Protection and that they be carried in each tow truck and made available to the owner upon request; to require that written estimates of towing charges be furnished upon request; and to require that a copy of the registration required by this Chapter be carried in each tow truck.

CALL OF BILLS FOR FINAL READING:

Re: Enactment of Bill No. 36-78, Comprehensive Merit System

Bill No. 36-78, Comprehensive Merit System, was called for final reading. The Council had before it for consideration Draft No. 6, dated November 9, 1978, of Bill No. 36-78.

Upon motion of Councilman Colman, duly seconded and without objection, the Council voted to waive the reading of the bill and proceed to consideration of amendments.

At the suggestion of Mr. Tierney and without objection, the Council deleted the word [damage] from line 11, page 4, and inserted in lieu thereof danger.

Legislative Counsel Tierney called the Council's attention to a memorandum from County Attorney McKernon, dated November 9, 1978, regarding language in the bill pertaining to appeals. Mr. Tierney stated that Draft No. 6 of Bill No. 36-78 has been modified to conform with the County Attorney's suggestions. He noted that the Council also has before it a paper from the Montgomery County Government Employees Organization (MCGEO) listing several amendments to the bill; and a memorandum from Anne Bledsoe, Maryland-Municipal Librarian, dated November 14, 1978, setting forth suggested amendments.

Councilman Colman noted that the Council has received a memorandum from Mr. Short, Director, Office of Budget and Research, dated November 13, 1978, setting forth the estimated fiscal impact of Bill No. 36-78. He referred to the Personnel Board's staff estimate that the "whistle blower" provision could require the addition of two or three staff positions, plus additional space. Councilman Colman stated that the Board's staff must imagine that the County has many employees who will be reporting wrong-doing and that their supervisors will be retaliating against them so that the Personnel Board and staff will be kept busy disciplining the retaliators. He expressed the strong belief that the impact of that section has been overestimated.

President Scull noted that additional expenses will be encountered with the use of hearing examiners by the Personnel Board; this was not taken into account in the fiscal impact statement.

Councilman Colman stated that the Personnel Board's workload may increase if the new Council and Executive find it necessary to reduce forces substantially and cases are appealed to the Board. However, a compensating factor was not mentioned. The Board's responsibility for the daily review of proposed changes in the classification allocations has been removed. This responsibility now rests entirely with the CAO.

Upon motion of Councilman Colman, duly seconded and without objection, the Council agreed that it would not amend Section 33-5, page 2, Statement of Legislative Intent, as suggested by Ms. Bledsoe.

With respect to the suggestion of Ms. Bledsoe that the words "appropriately qualified" on line 30, page 3, be clarified with respect to Merit System Review Commission membership, Councilman Colman stated that he would prefer to leave the specific qualifications to the determination of future Councils when each Commission is formed. The Council debated various forms of membership and decided in favor of a general citizens commission.

The Council agreed with Councilman Colman's suggestion that it not make a change in the qualifications, composition or method of appointment of the Merit System Review Commission.

Mr. Tierney called attention to a suggestion by MCGEO that the definition of "management" be deleted from page 4, and the word "supervisory" be substituted for "management" throughout the bill. He stated that, in most cases, "management" is the more appropriate word.

Councilman Colman suggested that the definition of "management" be kept in the bill, but that Mr. Tierney be authorized to make the substitution wherever he feels it is appropriate.

At the suggestion of Councilman Colman and without objection, the Council deleted the word [management] from line 32, and inserted in lieu thereof supervisory.

Upon motion of Councilman Colman, duly seconded and without objection, the Council authorized Mr. Tierney to change "management" to "supervisory" throughout the bill wherever he believes it is appropriate.

With respect to the suggestion by Ms. Bledsoe that a penalty provision be inserted in the whistle blower section, page 7, Councilman Colman stated that the Council discussed the possibility of a penalty provision, but was not able to reach a consensus with the Personnel Board, representatives of employees and the CAO. It was agreed that the Personnel Board would be required to develop a penalty provision through regulations, which will then come back to the new Council for approval.

Councilman Potter noted that the wording of lines 33 and 34, page 7, provides that employees are not protected if their charges of violation are found to be a mistake. He suggested that the word [or] be deleted from line 33, and the word and inserted in lieu thereof to clarify that the actions must have been "frivolous, unreasonable and without foundation, even though not brought in bad faith" before an employee loses the protection of the Merit System.

Upon motion of Councilman Potter, duly seconded and without objection, the Council deleted the word [or] from line 33, page 7, and inserted in lieu thereof and.

At the suggestion of Councilman Colman and without objection, the Council inserted a comma after the word "foundation" in line 34, page 7.

Councilman Menke referred to provisions in Section 33-10(e), page 7A, giving the Personnel Board's staff the power to determine whether probable cause exists and to dismiss complaints. He stated that he does not like the emphasis on staff power; the function of the staff is to carry out decisions of the Personnel Board. It should investigate complaints and bring its findings to the Personnel Board, which would then make a decision as to whether probable cause exists for the complaint.

Mr. Tierney stated that the Personnel Board should be kept insulated from any of the preparatory work before it conducts a hearing. When the Board conducts the hearing, it should be hearing the case for the first time. This is the procedure followed by the Human Relations Commission, Landlord-Tenant Commission, and the Consumer Affairs Advisory Committee.

President Scull pointed out that judges sometimes hold preliminary hearings prior to conducting a trial.

Mr. Tierney stated that the Board has the authority to review the staff's findings and send them back for further investigation; or, the Board can reverse the staff's decision. The provision in the bill is designed to protect the due process rights of the people being investigated.

President Scull expressed the view that language has been amended on lines 31 and 32 since the Council had its last worksession. At one time, the complainant was given the right to request reconsideration by the Personnel Board of the staff's decisions. Now, only the Board can request reconsideration.

Upon motion of Councilman Colman, duly seconded and without objection, the Council inserted the word Board prior to the word "reconsideration" on line 31, page 7A, and deleted the words [by the Board] from lines 31 and 32.

Councilman Menke expressed the view that the amendment just adopted is an improvement to Section 33-10(e), but does not address the whole problem.

Councilman Menke moved, duly seconded, that subsection (e), page 7A, be restructured to provide that the Personnel Board's staff shall investigate complaints and present the results to the Board. The Board will then determine whether to dismiss the complaint or follow it up with a full evaluation and hearing process.

Councilman Colman expressed the view that the amendment proposed by Councilman Menke would increase the workload of the Personnel Board by serious proportions. Under the amendment just adopted, employees would have access to the Board if they disagree with the staff's findings. There must be an effective complaint screening process so that the Personnel Board is not overwhelmed with paperwork and unfounded complaints. The system as proposed in the bill has worked satisfactorily with other bodies.

Councilman Menke's motion failed, Councilman Menke voting in the affirmative and Councilmembers Scull, Potter, Colman and Gelman voting in the negative.

Upon motion of Councilman Colman, duly seconded and without objection, the Council approved Section 33-10 (whistle blower) as amended.

At the suggestion of Councilman Colman and without objection, the Council agreed that it would not delete subsection (2) of Section 33-11(a), page 8, as recommended by Ms. Bledsoe and Mr. Ofsthun, Director of the Department of Recreation.

At the suggestion of President Scull and without objection, the Council deleted the word [steps] from line 30, page 8.

The Council discussed a proposal by MCGEO that employees be given the choice of appealing their cases directly to the Circuit Court, Section 33-12, page 9A.

Mr. Tierney stated that the subject amendment would pose legal problems with respect to the administrative process. There is a tradition in Maryland law which provides that when one is involved in an administrative process one must exhaust that process before going to court. Bill No. 36-78 has an elaborate process that is designed to reduce legal costs for the employees. If appealed directly to the court, the employee would be appealing a matter on which there is no established record. He is not sure how a court would handle such a case.

Councilman Colman requested Assistant County Attorney Hall to review the Charter to determine whether the MCGEO amendment would conform to Charter provisions. He indicated that the Council should proceed with its review and give Mr. Hall a few minutes to review the situation.

Upon motion of Councilman Colman, duly seconded and without objection, the Council inserted the words except for due process violations after the word "allocations" on line 6, page 10.

Without objection, the Council deleted the word [and] from line 11, page 10.

Upon motion of Councilman Menke, duly seconded and without objection, the Council inserted the following words after the word "notice" on line 9, page 11: special evidentiary proceedings in cases where the remedy of employee reinstatement was a contested and unresolved issue in an ordinary appeal hearing.

In response to the earlier inquiry, Mr. Hall stated that Section 404 of the Charter provides that the Personnel Board shall conduct a hearing for any adverse personnel action and then that decision can be reviewed by the court if requested. The Charter provides that the court does not have jurisdiction over the matter until the Personnel Board has rendered its decision.

Mr. Tierney stated that if the Council is desirous of giving employees direct access to the courts, it should draft a provision creating a private right of action for court review, rather than the amendment suggested by MCGEO. In response to an inquiry as to whether such an amendment would be within the scope of advertising for the bill, Mr. Tierney stated that he hesitates to answer that question without reviewing the advertising. However, he did attempt to make the advertisement fairly broad.

Councilman Colman recommended against direct appeal to the courts, stating that the Council has been careful, throughout the process, to assure that employees are not disadvantaged in the general management-employee relationship. To allow the entire process to be avoided, with direct access to the court system, would not be good personnel administration. Such an appeal procedure would put a burden on judges who are not equipped to deal with these matters unless there are true constitutional or legal questions involved.

Mr. Overton stated that the employees had hoped to change the attitude of Personnel Board members during the worksessions on this bill. He expressed the view that a person's livelihood is too important to entrust to three part-time, non-professional Board members. He stated that the Board decided a dismissal case last Friday after three years and seven months. The cost of going to the Personnel Board is just as much as the cost of going to court.

Ms. Scull requested Mr. Overton not to discuss a specific case.

Mr. Potter indicated that he has some editorial amendments to the bill that he will give to the staff to incorporate into the final version of the bill.

At the suggestion of Councilman Potter and without objection, the Council deleted the word [while] from line 21, page 3, and inserted in lieu thereof and that it be.

At the suggestion of Councilman Potter, upon motion of Councilman Colman, duly seconded and without objection, the Council deleted the word [maintenance] from line 3; and inserted the words fringe and prior to the word "other" in the same line.

At the suggestion of Councilman Potter and without objection, the Council deleted the word [representative] from line 25, page 12, and inserted in lieu thereof representational.

Upon motion of Councilman Colman, duly seconded and without objection, the Council approved the following amendments to Bill No. 36-78 as reflected in

Draft No. 6, dated November 9, 1978, (underlining indicates language added to existing law; brackets indicate language deleted from existing law; capital letters indicate language added to the bill since introduction; and strike-throughs indicate language deleted from the bill since introduction):

Upon motion of Councilman Colman, duly seconded and without objection, the Council amended the title of Bill No. 36-78 to read as follows:

AN ACT to amend Chapter 33, title "Personnel" of the Montgomery County Code, 1972, as amended, to transfer Sections 33-5 through 33-33, collectively designated as Article II, title "Personnel Regulations" to an Appendix of this Chapter and its component sections to be renumbered accordingly; to add a new Article II, title "Merit System" to Chapter 33 to provide for legislative intent, Merit System principles, statement of purpose, Merit System Review Commission and applicability; to define certain terms; to assign certain responsibilities to the Personnel Board; to assign certain responsibilities to the Chief Administrative Officer; to establish an Equal Employment Opportunity and Affirmative Action Program; to provide for protection for employees against retaliation or coercion for refusal to obey illegal or improper instructions or for disclosure of illegal or improper actions in County government; to provide procedures for such disclosures; to prescribe complaint and investigation procedures and to prohibit certain conduct; to provide for classification, salary and wage plans; to provide for appeals of disciplinary actions, grievances and procedures; to require regulations concerning certain appeal procedures; to provide for the hearing authority of the Personnel Board concerning appeals; to provide for judicial review of Personnel Board decisions and judicial enforcement of Board decisions under certain circumstances; to provide for an interpretation in the event of conflict between the Article and any regulation; to repeal and reenact with amendments Section 27-21, title "Procedures for Complaint Against the County" of subtitle "Discrimination in Employment" of Article I, title "Commission on Human Relations" of Chapter 27, title "Human Relations and Civil Liberties" of the Montgomery County Code 1972, as amended, to establish revised procedures and remedies for employment discrimination and to provide for a waiver of Merit System rights upon election of the employment discrimination complaint procedure; to sequentially renumber the individual section numbers of Article III, title "Employees Retirement System" and Article IV, title "Employer-Employee Relations" of Chapter 33 as appropriate without any change in text; to make technical modifications to Section 33-3 of Chapter 33; to require the Personnel Board to conform its regulations to law within a certain time; and to make certain other technical changes consistent with other amendments of this Act.

Upon motion of Councilman Colman, duly seconded and without objection, the Council voted to waive the reading of the title and proceed to enactment of Bill No. 36-78. By a yea and nay vote, Councilmembers Gelman, Colman, Potter, Menke and Scull voting in the affirmative and Councilmembers Hovsepian and Moore being absent, Bill No. 36-78, Comprehensive Merit System, was enacted, as amended.

Councilman Colman stated that the main purpose of Bill No. 36-78 is to delineate the responsibilities of the Executive Branch and Personnel Board with respect to personnel management in County government. This bill, coupled with Ballot Question A, clarifies a legal question that has surrounded the personnel management field in the County government for several years, i.e., the authority of the Council to amend Personnel Regulations promulgated by the Personnel Board. During deliberations on the bill, it became apparent that it would be appropriate to enunciate certain policies and principles for the County government and its employees. Included in those is a clarification of the classification responsibilities, the requirement for conformity by the Personnel Board to the Administrative Procedures Act, and a section designed to prevent retaliation or coercion by management against employees who may identify improper or illegal activities in the County government. Councilman Colman stated that the bill has been improved very much since its introduction. It clarifies a great many problems with regard to personnel management. He expressed the hope that the County Executive will approve the bill.

On behalf of the Council, President Scull thanked all those Executive Branch personnel, Personnel Board staff, employee representatives and Council staff who worked on Bill No. 36-78. She stated that it was a fine job.

Re: Enactment of Bill No. 37-78, Cost-of-Living Adjustment

Bill No. 37-78, Cost-of-Living Adjustment, was called for final reading. The Council had before it for consideration Draft No. 2, dated November 8, 1978, of Bill No. 37-78.

Upon motion of Councilman Menke, duly seconded and without objection, the Council voted to waive the reading of the bill & proceed to consideration of amendments.

President Scull inquired as to whether this bill really needs to be emergency legislation. She noted that if it is not emergency legislation, it will only require 4 affirmative votes, instead of 5.

Mr. Tierney stated that he has checked this matter with the Executive Branch, and has found that an effective date 76 days after the bill becomes law will allow ample time for the preparation of the FY 1980 budget.

Councilman Menke stated that the wording of Section 33-74 on page 2 of the bill provides that the CAO shall increase the salary of County employees by at least 75% of the Consumer Price Index (CPI). He must do so or be in violation of the law. If the Council does not approve sufficient funds to provide the cost-of-living adjustment, the CAO will be forced to cut programs and services and to lay off some employees in order to give a cost-of-living increase to others. He stated that the Council had not made a commitment for such a process. The intent of the Council was to legislate that the County Executive shall recommend such an increase in his budget and other matters as might be needed to implement the cost-of-living policy.

Councilman Menke moved, duly seconded, that the words [After the budget is approved] be deleted from line 5, page 2, and the following inserted in lieu thereof: To the extent funds are provided in the approved budget,.

In response to an inquiry from President Scull as to whether the proposed amendment would destroy the purpose of the bill, Councilman Menke stated that he does not believe it will. He does not believe that this Council can adopt a law that binds future Councils to appropriate funds to provide a cost-of-living adjustment that is 75% of the CPI. However, after the budget is adopted, it is proper to require that the CAO carry out the intent of the Council. The County Council, answerable to the voters, must be the body that decides the major policy issue of salary increases for County employees. He stated that his amendment will protect the CAO from performing an illegal act if the Council has not provided the funds, and it will avoid raising false hopes that employees will receive 75% of the CPI no matter what happens with respect to funding.

Councilman Potter stated that the language of the bill sets a standard for cost-of-living increases and forces the presentation of a budget by the County Executive which takes into account changes in the cost-of-living. He believes that is a proper approach to the situation. The ultimate consideration and decision by the Council must take into account the many factors involved, such as a national policy for curbing inflation. He expressed the view that the amendment offered by Councilman Menke provides for full consideration of the major aspects of the fiscal situation by the Council. If the Council wants to cut the budget, it must decide whether to cut the cost-of-living allowance, or to cut employment and services. He stated that such decisions should not be left to the CAO.

Councilman Colman stated that, without Councilman Menke's amendment, if the Council does not provide adequate funds in the budget, there would be a requirement that the full 75% of CPI cost-of-living be provided and the shortfall compensated by reductions-in-force (RIFs). With at least a $20 million shortfall facing the next Council for FY 1980, the layoff problem will be serious enough without destroying or precluding some flexibility between the cost-of-living increase and employee layoffs. He expressed the view that the amendment is desirable.

Director of Personnel Lloyd pointed out that the provision for an automatic cost-of-living increase that is 75% of the CPI was part of a comprehensive pay package proposed by the County Executive last spring. There are two major factors in the pay system, the annual increments and the cost-of-living adjustment. It was agreed that the variable would be the annual cost-of-living increase, and, accordingly, the annual merit increments were reduced significantly to a very modest amount. The intent at that time was to put into law a requirement that the cost-of-living adjustment would be 75% of the CPI each year. Mr. Lloyd stated that if the cost-of-living adjustment is to be limited by the availability of funds, the Executive Branch will have to reconsider its action to reduce the annual increments.

Councilman Menke stated that if the Council does not provide the funds for a 75% of CPI cost-of-living adjustment, or if there is a depression and fall-off of tax revenues, the CAO is faced with violating the law or involving RIFs.

President Scull suggested that the law could be amended by the Council in the event of an emergency situation such as a depression to avoid violation of the law by the CAO. She stated that enactment of this bill, without the amendment offered by Councilman Menke, is a major step that the Council agreed to take last spring.

Councilman Menke stated that during the spring when the Council is making decisions on the budget, it would not have time to amend the law if it is necessary due to the lack of funds. He believes that the Council is already taking a major step by writing into law what the Executive must present in his budget, and that the CAO must implement the cost-of-living adjustment. He also believes it is clear that the intent of the Council is to grant a 75% of CPI cost-of-living increase. He does not believe, however, that it is legal to constrain what future Councils may decide. Neither is it appropriate to put the CAO in a position of violating the law or laying off employees. He expressed the view that the Council's commitment last spring was to introduce and consider this legislation.

Councilman Colman stated that if it is the opinion of the Executive Branch that the amendment offered by Councilman Menke violates agreements with employees, then he no longer desires to support the amendment. However, he stated that no legislative body can bind the next one. If a situation did occur where the CAO would be in violation of the law, the Council would have to enact emergency legislation to amend this law.

Councilman Potter agreed that there was a commitment with employees, and expressed the view that that commitment is the approach that should be taken in the budget. He recalled past budgets wherein there was considerable controversy over the cost-of-living adjustment. He stated that there will remain considerable pressure on succeeding Councils to reduce services and employment to whatever extent necessary to provide the full cost-of-living provision. If the Council does not provide sufficient funds, he does not believe that the CAO should be required to make the cuts necessary to provide a 75% of CPI cost-of-living increase.

Councilmembers Menke and Potter voting in the affirmative and Councilmembers Scull, Colman and Gelman voting in the negative, Councilman Menke's amendment failed.

Councilman Menke indicated that he will vote against the bill in its present form. He stated that it is poor legislation and does not protect the public interest.

Councilman Potter indicated that he will vote for the bill, noting that the next Council can amend the law if required to avoid the CAO being in violation of the law. He pointed out that the next Council will have to anticipate the situation well before May 15 in order to either provide the funds or amend the law. This could create considerable anxiety in a situation where five votes are needed to increase the budget by more than the change in the CPI, and to enact emergency legislation.

Upon motion of Councilman Potter, duly seconded and without objection, the Council deleted the emergency effective date provision from lines 8 through 11, page 3, and inserted in lieu thereof: This Act shall take effect on the 76th day following the date on which it becomes law.

Councilwoman Gelman requested that enactment of Bill No. 37-78 be postponed until after the luncheon break so that she may have an opportunity to think about the implications of needing five votes to enact emergency legislation should that become necessary.

Councilman Menke moved, duly seconded, that enactment of Bill No. 37-78 be tabled until after the luncheon recess. His motion was adopted, Councilmembers Gelman, Menke and Potter voting in the affirmative and Councilmembers Colman and Scull voting in the negative.

Councilman Menke requested that Mr. Lloyd ascertain the County Executive's position on the amendment he had proposed to Section 33-74.

(The Council recessed at 12:15 P.M., and reconvened at 1:30 P.M.)

At the request of Councilwoman Gelman, upon motion of Councilman Colman, duly seconded, Councilmembers Colman, Gelman, Potter and Menke voting in the affirmative and President Scull voting in the negative, the Council agreed to reconsider the amendment to Section 33-74 offered by Councilman Menke.

Councilman Potter stated that 75% of the current increase in the CPI is 6 3/8%. That amount, added to the average 2 1/2% annual increments, would give County employees wage increases of 8 7/8%, which is considerably above the President's guideline of 7% increase for wages. Amendment D to the County Charter, approved at the November election, requires five votes of the Council to increase expenditures by more than the CPI. This amendment makes no allowance for growth in the County or its services. If wages were to increase 8 7/8%, the Council would be facing a difficult situation, since salaries are 70% of the County Operating Budget. In addition, the oil producing nations are expected to increase prices by 10% this winter. It appears that the Council will be facing the five vote requirement for the FY 1980 budget. The Council is committed to cutting $21 million worth of services, but even that may not bring expenditures down to within the CPI increase. In view of these difficulties, the Council must have room for reflection and evaluation of the fiscal situation as it exists at the time of budget adoption. Councilman Potter stated that if inflation continues to accelerate it will be necessary to increase the cost-of-living adjustment above the 6 3/8% because of the pressure on County employees. On the other hand, if the President is successful in reducing the rate of inflation below 7%, the Council can lower the cost-of-living adjustment because less would be required to accommodate the needs of employees. If this is the situation, the County government should conform to the President's wage-price guidelines. Councilman Potter stated that the Council should have flexibility to meet any situation that arises, and should not be forced into an emergency revision of the law in order to conform to national policy and actual facts.

Councilman Colman stated that there is a provision in the recently enacted Bill No. 36-78, Comprehensive Merit System, that the CAO shall, subject to the approval of the County Council, promulgate and amend the general salary schedule. This is the method by which the CAO would implement the annual cost-of-living adjustment. If the County Council does not provide adequate funds in the budget for the 75% of CPI cost-of-living adjustment, the Council can avoid the CAO being in violation of the law by disapproving the amendment to the general salary schedule. Such an action would require an ordinary majority vote of the Council.

Councilman Menke stated that County law is generally interpreted such that when the Council only has "approval" power over something, it can either approve it or disapprove it, but cannot amend it or substitute anything. If the Council simply disapproved the salary schedule, the CAO would still be required to implement the 75% of CPI cost-of-living adjustment. He expressed the view that the amendment that was considered earlier is necessary in order to provide flexibility.

Councilwoman Gelman stated that the Council did not have Amendment D to the County Charter before it when it discussed this issue previously. She stated that she did not support that amendment, but it is law and it must be upheld. The new Council will require a year to work under the new law to determine how it will affect the County. She expressed the view that it would be unwise to restrict a new Council to the five vote requirement on salary issues as well as Amendment D. She stated that the five vote requirement provides for government by a minority; it is not majority rule. Councilwoman Gelman stated that she cannot support Bill No. 37-78 in view of the amendment to the County Charter which requires five votes to increase the budget beyond the change in the CPI.

Councilman Colman pointed out that five votes of the Council are also required to enact emergency legislation, override a veto, or to adopt an emergency appropriation. It is not an unusual situation in County government. He stated that he will vote against the amendment offered by Councilman Menke. He expressed the view that this Council owes it to the CAO and employee groups to honor the agreement worked out last spring.

With respect to the President's wage-price guidelines, Mr. Lloyd stated that the wage guidelines do not apply in situations where there is an existing agreement or oral commitment made prior to October 1978. The Council's resolution of last May, No. 8-1935, represents such an agreement, and he is fairly satisfied that an action to grant more than a 7% cost-of-living adjustment would be within the guidelines.

Councilman Menke stated that Resolution No. 8-1935 adopted as policy the 75% of CPI cost-of-living adjustment, and stated that the Council would (and has) introduce legislation to implement that policy. The agreement of the Council, and the discussion today, makes it clear that the policy is to grant a cost-of-living adjustment that is 75% of the CPI; the bill clearly implements that policy. The issue here is not whether the Council is abrogating its agreement; the issue is how to implement it. In the past, the Council has at times received a budget recommendation from the County Executive with no cost-of-living adjustment at all in it. The Council had to take the initiative and add to the budget to provide a cost-of-living increase. That situation will no longer occur under the provisions of Bill No. 37-78. The bill will also remove the issue of the cost-of-living increase from last-minute considerations as it had been in the past. He expressed the view that his amendment is necessary in order to promote orderly government, not because of wage-price guidelines or the recent amendment to the Charter.

Councilman Potter expressed the view that the law cannot demand that the County Executive recommend a certain cost-of-living increase if he does not believe that is the proper thing to do.

Mr. Gibson, representing an association of minority employees, expressed the view that County employees are always being considered as the "bastard children" of the County government. Last spring, the County Executive presented a package to the Council regarding employee salary changes; it was never treated as a package. The new pay plan, with reduced increments, was implemented, but the cost-of-living provision was left until now. He noted that MCPS employees have a contract with the Board of Education calling for a 5% cost-of-living increase in FY 1980. That, combined with their 5% annual increments, will give them a 10% salary increase. The County employees are constantly being held back with lesser increases. He does not believe that this is proper. If Bill No. 37-78 cannot be enacted without Councilman Menke's amendment, he believes that employees would prefer to have their old pay plan, with 5% increments, and take their chances on the cost-of-living increase each year. He noted that MNCPPC and WSSC also have 5% annual increments.

Councilman Menke emphasized that the issue is not whether there should be a cost-of-living increase adjustment that is 75% of the CPI. He has not heard any Councilmember indicate that such an adjustment would be unreasonable. The question is how to implement that policy. The proposed law does not demand that the Council provide funds to implement a 75% of CPI cost-of-living increase. If the Council did not, the CAO would have to make RIFs in order to give the remaining employees their cost-of-living adjustment. The Council and CAO should not be put in that position.

President Scull pointed out that the 75% of CPI cost-of-living increase was part of a package which represented a very significant reform of the pay plan. Annual merit increments were reduced, and were to be based on employee evaluations and recognition of superior performance, with outstanding employees receiving a higher increment than average employees. That part of the package was never implemented either. She looked at this package as a step in the direction that the people of the County have been urging for many years. It is with disbelief and heartbreak that she watches the County Council sabotage its own reform before it can go into effect.

Councilman Menke repeated his motion which is now before the Council, i.e., to delete the words [After the budget is approved] from line 5, page 2, and to insert in lieu thereof To the extent funds are provided in the approved budget,.

Councilwoman Gelman stated that the amendment offered by Councilman Menke will eliminate the legal step of enacting emergency legislation to protect the CAO should the Council not be able to provide adequate funds in a future year.

Councilmembers Menke, Gelman and Potter voting in the affirmative and Councilmembers Colman and Scull voting in the negative, Councilman Menke's motion was adopted.

Upon motion of Councilman Colman, duly seconded and without objection, the final sentence of Section 33-74 was revised to read as follows: Such percentage change shall be based on the latest published index for the calendar year preceding the fiscal year in which the adjustment is to be paid.

Upon motion of Councilman Colman, duly seconded and without objection, the Council approved the following amendments to Bill No. 37-78, as reflected in Draft No. 2:

Page 2, insert a new first sentence in Section 33-74: The County Executive shall provide as a part of the annual recommended operating budget for the County government sufficient funds to implement the cost-of-living adjustment required by this Section.;

Page 2, line 10, after the word "area", add: although pay grades 1 through 4 of the uniform salary plan to which minimum wage and certain seasonal employees are assigned will be adjusted by changes in the minimum wage rates and salary surveys to determine the competitiveness of such salaries.;

Page 2, lines 18 through 21, delete all of the language;

Page 2, line 23, delete [No provision of this law shall prohibit];

Page 2, line 24, delete [from adjusting] and insert in lieu thereof may adjust; delete [schedule] and insert in lieu thereof plan.

Page 2, line 25, insert the following phrase after the word "available": and approved by the County Council;

Page 2, lines 27 through 30, delete all of the language.

Upon motion of Councilman Colman, duly seconded and without objection, the Council deleted the word [schedule] from the sixth line of the title of the bill, and inserted the word plan in lieu thereof.

Upon motion of Councilman Colman, duly seconded and without objection, the Council voted to waive the reading of the title and proceed to enactment of Bill No. 37-78. By a yea and nay vote, Councilmembers Gelman, Colman, Potter and Menke voting in the affirmative, President Scull voting in the negative and Councilmembers Hovsepian and Moore being absent, Bill No. 37-78, Cost-of-Living Increase, was enacted, as amended.

Re: Enactment of Bill No. 50-78, Declaration of State of Emergency

By a yea and nay vote, Councilmembers Gelman, Colman, Potter, Menke and Scull voting in the affirmative and Councilmembers Hovsepian and Moore being absent, Bill No. 50-78, Declaration of State of Emergency, was enacted.

stated that the Council seems to be favoring public regulation of CATV since it is restoring much of the language that was deleted previously. If this is the case, he believes that the Council should address the issues and provide more guidance in the law for the people who will be negotiating the agreements.

Upon motion of Councilman Colman, duly seconded, Councilmembers Colman, Scull, Gelman and Menke voting in the affirmative and Councilman Potter voting in the negative, the Council restored the deleted language of subsection (b), page 23, added a requirement for a public hearing prior to the extension of construction schedules, and deleted the capitalized language on lines 16 and 17.

MEMORANDUM

Date November 15, 1978

To Elizabeth L. Scull, President, County Council

From James P. Gleason, County Executive

Subject Bill No. 37-78, Cost-of-Living Adjustments

I was shocked to learn of the Council's action yesterday in supporting an amendment to Bill No. 37-78 which effectively removes any guarantee to the employees of the County Government of an essential part of our overall compensation policies. The amendment supported by Council Members Menke, Potter and Gelman, I believe, seriously undermines some important initiatives taken by the administration and heretofore supported by the County Council.

In May of this year, the Chief Administrative Officer presented to the Council a comprehensive proposal for revising the pay plan for Montgomery County employees. As you will recall, that pay proposal involved curtailment of increments from approximately five percent (5%) to two percent (2%), extending the range of pay by eliminating the provisions for longevity increments, and adjusting the pay plan annually by an amount not less than seventy-five percent (75%) of the Consumer Price Index. That pay plan has been successfully implemented.

It remained only for the County Council to adopt into law provisions for adjusting the pay plan annually by an amount not less than seventy-five percent (75%) of the Consumer Price Index.

In adopting Resolution No. 8-1935, on May 9, 1978, the Council resolved that "It shall be the policy of the Montgomery County Government effective July 1, 1979, to adopt annually the uniform salary plan for all classified employees of the merit system of the Montgomery County Government based on not less than seventy-five percent (75%) of the November Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers for the Washington, D. C. Area: and be it further resolved that the County Council requests the County Executive to submit legislation for its consideration to provide by local law for the implementation of the policy with regard to the annual uniform salary plan adjustment as aforementioned." It is my recollection that such resolution was passed unanimously by the County Council.

The seventy-five percent (75%) Consumer Price Index adjustment annually is an extremely important part of our overall pay system, as I outlined to you in May. This government has taken a rather extreme action in reducing the amount of our annual merit increments from five percent (5%) to two percent (2%)--the lowest in this metropolitan area and among the lowest among local governments in the country. No other agency supported by County tax resources has made similar efforts.

This was done deliberately. You will recall that under the old pay system some forty percent (40%) of our employees had already reached the maximum of the normal steps of the pay grade (excluding longevities), resulting in a situation where our most experienced and valued employees received only a cost-of-living adjustment annually, which was normally provided at the "eleventh hour" of the budget deliberation process, many times influenced by special interest and other pressure groups and certainly without a deliverate systematic method of development.

We then made a conscious decision to place most of our salary resources toward minimizing the adverse affects of inflation borne by all employees.

As I indicated to you in May, our reduced increment policy results in the next five fiscal years savings amounting to some seven million dollars ($7,000,000). Our employees have been informed of this and understand it. However, it is extremely important that they be assured that the policy of the County Government will be to afford some protection against some of the ravages of inflation.

I am not persuaded by the arguments that an unconditional adjustment to the salary schedule unnecessarily preempts the flexibility for future Councils and other elected officials.

To include the limiting language making such adjustment subject to availability of funds seems to me to be an unnecessary diminishment of the stated policy of the County Government and seriously jeopardizes the other segments of a comprehensive pay policy.

The programs and services offered to the County citizens are necessarily carried out by people. Even if the scope and extent of such services have to be curtailed with the resulting layoff of some employees, it becomes more critical that those who remain to carry out the services and programs be compensated adequately and fairly. There is no doubt that such potential curtailments will result in a demand for even greater work productivity and dedication on the part of our employees.

Therefore, I strongly request and implore the Council to reconsider their action at the next possible legislative opportunity. Without such reconsideration, I intend to veto Bill No. 37-78 in its present form since this administration cannot be a party to violating an implicit promise made to all our County employees. Further, I will ask the Chief Administrative Officer to prepare, for your approval, an amended general pay schedule restoring the former pay policies concerning increments and longevities.

Concerning the question of reconsideration, I have asked the County Attorney to comment on the circumstances on which reconsideration could be effected. I have attached such comments for your consideration.

I believe it is not asking too much then to place an unconditional annual cost-of-living adjustment up front before all other priorities have been established and to recognize that no County program or service to our citizens can be effective without our body of dedicated and motivated public servants.

Re: Reconsideration and Reenactment of Bill No. 37-78, Cost-of-Living Adjustment

President Scull stated that on November 15, 1978 the County Council received a memorandum from County Executive Gleason asking that the Council reconsider its enactment of Bill No. 37-78, Cost-of-Living Adjustment for County Employees. The Council met the evening of November 15, 1978, and made a motion to reconsider the bill and all amendments thereto. The votes on the two motions will be called today. She stated that, prior to the vote, she would like to give Mr. Jardeleza the opportunity, at his request, to explain why so many County employees are present today.

Mr. Jardeleza, President, Montgomery County Government Employees Organization, made the following statement:

With your permission, I would like to address the County Council to clarify what our presence here is intended to convey.

I am not here to make pretty speeches nor am I here to take up much of your time. I merely point out that there are no less than 500 people here and they are here on their own time. For each hour that they are here, it represents $2,500 at the average hourly wage of $5. an hour. As our Budget Director would say, "These are conservative ball park estimates."

To be brief:

We do not understand why certain members of the County Council are failing to live up to their commitment of last May. Mr. Gleason has clearly stated the quid pro quo package deal in his memorandum dated November 15 and I refer you to it. We thought we were dealing with honorable people.

Mr. Menke has thoroughly confused us. He predicts a depression next year, and therefore he feels justified in reneging on his commitment. Don't you think this is a rather poor excuse? We think that this is entirely beside the point! This matter was thoroughly discussed at the pay plan hearings. If you will recall, all of the County employees stated their position against the new pay plan and yet, Mr. Menke, as did all the other members of the Council, voted for it and the 75% CPI, cost-of-living package.

Mr. Menke has repeatedly said that his amendment doesn't really change the law and actually makes no difference. If this is true, then why did he submit his amendment in the first place? Is it to play games?--to waste the Council's precious time?

Mr. Menke has repeatedly said that he considers this a bad law to pass. If this is so bad, why hasn't he done something to change the "bad laws" that have been on the books during his long term in office as member and President of the County Council? Is Mr. Menke saying that 75% CPI cost-of-living law for employees is bad, whereas the same laws already on the books for the County Executive and County Council are good laws? What's the difference?

Lastly, and most confounding of all questions is this one:

Why have Council persons Gelman and Potter followed in what appears to be the vindictive footsteps of Menke?

We admire the character and integrity demonstrated to us by Mr. Colman, Mrs. Scull and Mr. Gleason. (Dr. Moore has not been present and therefore we must exclude her from all remarks that we have made.)

On behalf of the County employees you see here today, and for those who stayed behind to keep the County functions barely moving even though they would have preferred to have been here with us, I ask you for the following actions to be taken today before moving on to any other business on your agenda. We are prepared to stay here until you do so.

First--we ask you to pass the motion to reconsider Bill No. 37-78 and to pass the motion to reconsider amendments to the CAO's salary plan responsibility.

Second--we ask you for a motion to restore the language on line 5 of page 2 as it appeared in its unaltered form in Draft No. 2 of Bill No. 37-78 and further, to pass this motion.

Third--we ask you to enact the bill as it stands after you have accomplished the first and second requests as stated above.

We understand that this is not the only way to achieve the ultimate objective of enacting Bill No. 37-78 as it appeared in its unaltered form in Draft No. 2, and whatever way you choose to accomplish this would be fine with us.

We make no threats, we bear no anger, and we have come in the Lord's peace. We have hope that you will in some measure revive our faith in the integrity and honor of the entire Council. We thank you.

Councilman Colman stated that he regrets very much that employees and their representatives have attacked the integrity and character of individual Councilmembers.

Councilman Potter made the following statement:

Madam President, I think the problem we have before us is a misunderstanding with respect to the Council's position in May and now. It has been said that the Council agreed to a guarantee in May, and is now reversing that commitment. It has even been said that the Council agreed to an annual cost-of-living allowance of 75% of CPI and is taking away that increase. As I will show, the Council has never provided a guarantee, and it has not changed its commitment and it has not taken away anything whatever, and it is not proposing to take anything away.

With respect to the guarantee question, most of us realize that the thing to do with a guarantee is to look at the text of the document and see what it says. Therefore, let me read the relevant paragraphs in the Resolved section of Resolution 8-1935, adopted by the Council on May 9, 1978:

"BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that it shall be the policy of the Montgomery County government, effective July 1, 1979, to adjust annually the uniform salary plan for all classified employees of the merit system of the Montgomery County government based on not less that seventy-five percent (75.%) of the November Consumer Price Index for all urban consumers for the Washington, D. C. area; and

"BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the County Council requests the County Executive to submit legislation for its consideration to provide by local law for the implementation of the policy with regard to the annual uniform salary plan adjustment as aforementioned."

This text makes it clear that the Council committed to a policy, effective next July, that the salary plan for classified employees shall show an increase of at least 75% of the change in the Consumer Price Index each year. It also requests the County Executive to submit legislation for the Council's consideration to implement this policy.

Note that it does not say that the legislation should guarantee the 75%; it says that the legislation should provide for "implementation of the policy." That leaves the question of how it shall be implemented to the drafting, amendment, and adoption of the requested legislation.

However, it is argued that despite the clear language of the resolution that there was an understanding of some sort that there would be a guarantee. Perhaps someone has some document that there was a decision or agreement for a guarantee which was to be provided despite any fiscal situation, but I have not seen it. If anyone can produce such evidence, I would be truly grateful.

However, the County Executive has claimed that the Council's position is different in November from what it was in May. I have examined the minutes of the discussion which occurred on May 9, when the above Resolution was adopted. Let me read from those minutes, as follows:

"Mr. Colman noted that enactment of legislation sets a floor for the cost-of-living increases until some Council changes it; that is different from bargaining each year. Even if the question were dealt with in the Personnel Regulations, a future Council could, by making its strong views known, manage to get them changed. While there are some arguments against binding future Councils, a law with a 75% of CPI cost-of-living floor would be, from the point of view of the employees, a stronger protection for dealing with their needs.

"President Scull noted that, if run-away inflation occurs, County employees, along with everyone else, would have to bear the brunt of such inflation and could not continue to receive a 75% of CPI COL increase. Mr. Potter added that no one can guarantee employees future salary increases.

"Councilwoman Moore asked whether the legislative bill to be considered would not have within it some provision which in the last analysis leaves to the annual financial situation of the County the decision regarding cost-of-living increases so that there will not be a guarantee to the employee in this regard during the time that law is in effect. Mr. Potter said he thought that had to be there and was there, anyway.

"To Dr. Moore's point that the legislation will not change the 'iffy' situation regarding pay policies, Mr. Potter said the Council can establish policy and that is about all it can do realistically. He added that he thinks that Mr. Menke's concern about having the Council involved each year cannot be prevented since this is a fiscal matter. Matters might be smoothed out by requiring Council action each year at least a month before adoption of the budget. Ms. Gelman added that this would also help to eliminate the feeling that 'whatever is left over the employees get.'

"Mr. Hovsepian indicated that the cost-of-living matter must be dealt with in the context of the budget and the resolution should be written so that would be a separate action."

Madam President, you will note that the minutes reflect a position on the part of at least 4 Council members that the decision with respect to cost-of-living increases had to be made in the light of the fiscal situation at the time, and/or as a part of the budget process. The reference to Mr. Colman's statement might be interpreted as saying that the legislation should bind the Council regardless of the fiscal situation, or it might be interpreted as simply indicating that the legislation would be some sort of commitment for future Councils, not necessarily by-passing the budgetary decision process. The report on the remarks of Councilmembers Scull, Moore, Hovsepian, and myself seem very clear that the matter would have to be considered in conjunction with the budget and the fiscal situation at the time the budget is adopted. Four members make up a majority of the Council; and the four I have cited does not include Mr. Menke nor Mrs. Gelman.

The statement that the Council has changed its position with respect to a guarantee is totally contradicted by the record of the discussion at the time. The Council has not reversed its position, but has maintained a constant course, insisting that the legislative body must make the decisions in the budgetary process, in the light of all of the facts at the time the decision is made.

It might be well to note that the Council's decision on May 9 preceded any significant attention, at least on the East Coast, to Proposition 13 and the "Taxpayers Revolt". That event occurred a month later, and the TRIM amendment and Question E came into discussion some weeks after that. The Council's position was, and is, based on the proposition that decisions should not be made until all the facts are in. It also adheres to the principle that the legislative body should make budgetary decisons, and not leave them up to the Executive, by failure to decide priorities of needs, or which needs shall be met and to what extent.

So much for the question whether the Council has changeditts position with respect to a guarantee. Now let us turn to the question of the Council's position as to a policy on cost-of-living increases.

As all discussions on this matter, last May and last week, have indicated, the Council is unanimously in support of the position that the cost-of-living must be taken into account annually in setting the pay scale, and that a minimum of 75% of the consumer price index adjustment is a fair policy to set, with the strong expectation that it can and will be met. The wording of the Resolution in May I have already read to you. That policy statement is almost identical to that set forth in the bill before us. To make the wording correspond still more closely, I will propose a change in language so that there can be no doubt whatever that the policy is the same now as then, and that the commitment of this legislation will be adhered to by the incumbenets who carry over to the next Council; and I trust the four new members of the Council will support that same policy without hesitation.

Thus, the policy and the commitment is the same in November as it was in May. The only argument we have at all is over the machinery and process for implementing that policy.

There has been expressed a fear that the cost-of-living allowance will be provided only if there is some money left over at the end of the decision-making process with respect to the various programs requiring expenditures. I am afraid that there is some justification for this fear, since the Executive has in most years proposed a cost-of-living adjustment much less than the rate of inflation, and in two years of severe inflation, proposed a zero (0%) provision for cost-of-living admustment. While the Council has in each of those years provided a more adequate cost-of-living allowance, the difficulties of the budget adoption for fiscal 1978 left the Council providing only a little more than the Executive had recommended, and less than the School Board contract provided, and less than the cost-of-living index would have called for.

The bill before us tries to insure against this kind of record: First, by providing that the Executive must provide in his budget, for at least a 75% cost-of-living adjustment. Therefore, furture recommendations for no allowance or an inadequate allowance on the part of the Executive are prevented.

Second, the bill provides that the Chief Administrative Officer shall adjust the salary scale by 75% of the change in the Consumer Price Index.

The question that remains before us is what procedures should the Council follow in the sequence of events. Should it write such provision for cost-of-living admustment into law now, or deal with the situation as it arises each year?

There are many reasons why the situation may differ markedly from year to year and make legislation which tends to provide a guarantee a serious obstacle to rational and fair decision-making. The reference has been made to the possibility of a severe depression. I would add that the rate of inflation should also be looked at. An inflation which is increasing its speed over time should be dealt with by making an allowance larger than 75% of the past year's change in the CPI, simply because the appropriations are for next year's salaries, not last year's. On the other hand, if the inflation is slowing down, there may be less need to provide the full 75%, because the prospect is that the inflation will be easing its burdens instead of increasing them.

In addition, the acts of the Legislature, usually in the month of April when we are approaching our final budget decisions, sometimes change our fiscal situation drastically, by changing our property tax base, limiting changes in assessments which have already been made during the past year, changing the size of grants for aid to education or other public services -- and other matters and actions which can seriously affect the fiscal situation.

In addition, we sometimes receive very late in the budget season a notice of change in the cost of fringe benefits, whether for health benefits, unemployment, or retirement. The increase in the cost of fringe benefits over the past five years appears to have been about 6% of the payroll. Most of that increase occurred in one year. When such changes come about, they amount to a change in compensation so far as the employee and the taxpayers are concerned, and the pay scale itself should not be required to change without regard to the change in other compensation. There are also other considerations to take into account, such as the Nation's policies for fighting inflation.

There are, therefore, sound and equitable reasons for not deciding the issue before the facts are available to the Council.

I do think however, that there has been a least one experience in which the Council left the cost-of-living allowance to the end of the budget decisions, resulting in an inadequate allowance. Therefore, I will suggest wording that puts the Council on a schedule and process of decision-making which puts the cost-of-living adjustment up front among the priorities, and provides that it shall not be left to the end.

I hope that these changes will insure that the Executive and Council in the future will give the cost-of-living adjustment the attention it deserves, and will be as fair and equitable as possible. We must maintain an attractive salary scale for the retention of an excellent work force.

I hope it will also make it abundantly clear that this bill provides procedures and standards which are far more definite and demanding than those set forth in the Resolution and discussion of last May. Far from taking away a guarantee, this bill would provide for the first time in the history of the County, procedural requirments to insure that the cost-of-living adjustment is in no way neglected. This is a principle for which this Council has fought for four years, and for which I trust the next Executive and Council will stand firm.

Certainly there has been no taking away of a salary increase on the part of the Council, because that issue is not before the Council at the present time. It can only come up in the budget season, and this bill sets a framework for that period of decision-making which will highlight the need to make fair adjustments to the ravages of inflation, and protect as far as humanly possible both the public servants and the taxpayers.

Councilman Menke made the following statement:

One of the recent newspaper stories -- a fairly accurate one -- stated that my reaction to the outburst over this bill was that I was "visibly upset". That is entirely accurate; however, I am not upset over persons disagreeing with my particular judgement on any issue. That may arise from different values or mistaken information, and it is something we can deal with as reasonable people. I am, however, upset and depressed with the willingness shown by so many who ought to know better, on the basis of hearsay and inflammatory rhetoric, immediately to assume the most nefarious motives on the part of the Council.

Every county employee, and every Council member, is familiar with the surprisingly large number of citizens of Montgomery County (again, ones who ought to know better) who approach county employees as stupid, ignorant, on the take, or all three. The Council has seen such cases where, in spite of a long history of careful and sensitive decision-making on, for example, zoning or planning issues, citizens allow themselves to be misled and used by others and convinced easily that the Council has suddenly philosophically "sold-out". In summary, there is too little willingness even to withhold judgements, until investigation of what is involved, and too much willingness to assume the worst motives. This is a sad and depressing commentary on our whole community.

In this case, county employees, at least those who represent themselves as the employee representatives, have been quick to the mark with angry rhetoric designed to inflame and not to encourage communication: "We'll sue the _____"; "They're stabbing us in the back" are examples. There is an immediate willingness to assume the worst motives, while forgetting that in the past two years of four, this Council, in spite of terrific tax and political pressures, added on a COL increase (not just approved, but added on) to a County Executive recommended budget which provided for no cost-of-living increase for county employees. The Council has taken plenty of heat for this, with no public thanks from these same employee representatives. Only two short years ago, I led several Council members in a bitter debate on the Council, trying to protect county employee benefits from being reduced, a debate in which my neck was very much on the line. And they forget a Council which only this year, in the face of strong pressures, agreed to expand the expensive Police Take-Home-Car program in order to keep the commitment made to it in the meet-and-confer negotiation process between police and the County Executive.

It is upsetting and depressing that, in spite of all this, there is no willingness to trust the motives, much less the judgement, of this Council. I am afraid it foretells a long period of bitterness and deepening division in which the demand is "what have you done for me lately?" -- a situation which will in the long run harm the employee as well as the public interest.

Turning to the issue at hand, my amendment has been characterized as removing the guaranteed cost-of-living salary increase and reneging our "commitment". My amendment, states "to the extent funds are available in the approved budget" the Chief Administrative Officer will grant the 75% COL. What does it mean and what would it do?

There is no way to guarantee against a depression, or other fiscal disaster (for example, State legislation reducing assessments, thereby reducing property tax revenues). If funds are insufficient, if the amendment is not present, the Chief Administrative Officer must, by law, still give the 75% no matter what the impact on the public, no matter how many employees need to be fired, no matter what! If this is the "commitment" that was made, I never saw it, and I will not be a party to such a policy. This legislation must work in bad times as well as good, and in the crisis of bad times, we cannot simply rely on emergency legislation to cure the problems we can already foresee may happen. The burden of deciding such questions belongs with the Council, not an administrative person, and my amendment is intended to place such burden where it should be, ie, on the Council.

Except for this effect, which only deals with the mechanics and responsibilities involved in a fiscal crisis, the amendment does not reduce the commitment or the likelihood of a proper cost-of-living increase. The cost-of-living policy is reasonable and fair and necessary, especially in view of the changes already made in the County pay system. I am convinced that the cost-of-living increase is affordable, and will be funded by future Councils. I would note that the bill provides that the County Executive must provide for the cost-of-living in his budget (he has not done so in past years as noted above), and that the Chief Administrative Officer must spend the budget funds for the proper purpose.

In view of what seems to be a desire that this legislation be passed now, I am certainly willing to consider other amendments which deal with the issue I have here identified: I have no resistance to changing the amendment. I hope and believe that we can find wording acceptable to employees and to other Council members, while producing legislation which is in fact workable in all reasonable circumstances. Failing that, I believe the bill should be held over for more careful discussion by the employees, the next Council and Executive.

Councilwoman Gelman expressed regret that the words chosen for the amendment to Bill No. 37-78 did not convey properly the intent of the Council. It was her understanding that the amendment meant that the Council would approve a 75% of CPI cost-of-living adjustment for County employees and that the Council would be forced to focus on making the funds available. The Council, which sets the tax rate, cannot tell a future Chief Administrative Officer that he or she must find the money in the budget to amend the salary schedule to reflect a 75% of CPI increase. Therefore, the Council must be party to the decision. Unfortunately, she has heard over and over that the Council did not negotiate the school employees contract and therefore has no obligation to fund it. Councilwoman Gelman stated that she disagrees with that philosophy. The Council has an obligation to fund a contract that was negotiated legally. She expressed the view that the issue with respect to the cost-of-living adjustment has been blown out of proportion, and expressed the hope that clear words can be found which clearly convey the Council's intent.

Without objection, the Council adopted Councilman Menke's motion (made at the meeting of November 15, 1978) that the Council reconsider Bill No. 37-78, Cost-of-Living Adjustment.

Without objection, the Council adopted Councilman Menke's motion (made at the meeting of November 15, 1978) that the Council reconsider all amendments to Bill No. 37-78.

The Council had before it for consideration Draft No. 1 of Bill No. 37-78.

Councilman Potter moved, duly seconded, that the phrase [those individuals and to equalize their wages due to] be deleted from lines 5 and 6, page 1, and the following inserted in lieu thereof: them for; and that the Council insert the following phrase after the word "increases" in line 8: shall be at least 75% of the increase in the November Consumer Price Index for all Urban Consumers for the Washington, D.C. Area; and such increases.

Councilman Potter expressed the view that his motion will clarify the intent of the Declaration of Policy and Intent section of the bill.

Councilman Colman requested that Councilman Potter's motion be reduced to writing as this is a delicate situation before the Council and he does not want to vote for an amendment without seeing it in writing. He expressed the view that the original wording of the bill is quite satisfactory. The bill provides for a certain procedure; any Council at any time can enact an amendment to the law in order to deal with a budgetary crisis if it occurs. It has been said that it may be difficult to get four or five Councilmembers to vote to change the law, but he pointed out that this is the normal situation for a legislative body. The Council would have to undertake a very overt and highly visible act in order to avoid giving County employees a 75% of CPI cost-of-living adjustment. Councilman Colman expressed the view that the bill should be reenacted as it was prior to the amendment offered by Councilman Menke.

President Scull stated that the conversation of last May that was quoted by Councilman Potter this morning was to the issue of how to provide an "escape clause" for emergency situations. She believes, however, that the amendment to Bill No. 37-78 that was adopted on November 14 had that kind of emergency provision in mind, but it made an escape clause possible every year. The purpose of the bill was to take the issue of the amount of the cost-of-living increase out of the realm of public debate during budget deliberations and to make it an obligation to provide at least 75% of the CPI just as the Council has an obligation to fund the salaries of County employees. If an escape clause is needed for emergency situations, there should be a separate sentence describing the anticipated emergencies and how and when the escape clause should be used. President Scull stated that the Council has received a memorandum from Deputy Director Hansman, Department of Community and Economic Development, dated November 16, 1978, suggesting that a proper amendment to Bill No. 37-78 would clearly provide that the Executive shall include in his recommended budget funds for a cost-of-living increase of at least three-fourths of the CPI; that the Council shall approve and fund a cost-of-living increase of at least three-fourths of the CPI; and that the CAO shall include the approved amount in the pay plan. She stated that she agrees with this approach, and would add a separate sentence permitting an escape clause during times of real fiscal crisis.

Councilwoman Moore added her objections to Councilman Potter's interpretation of the May minutes to the objections stated by Mrs. Scull. She pointed out that Councilman Potter's quotes of her were in the form of questions and that she was requesting legal opinion from an attorney, but the only answer she received was a lay opinion from her fellow Councilman. She hopes he will correct his printed statement with its inferred misrepresentation. Dr. Moore stated that the bargain made with employees last spring with respect to the 75% of CPI cost-of-living increase was a result of the reduction of annual increments from 5% to 2%; therefore, the employees' request, and the Council's promise, for at least 75% of the CPI is fair and fundable in most foreseeable circumstances. Salary increases for County employees always compete with various levels of services; different people would pick different services to cut. She noted that WMATA's budget will add $6 million to County expenses next year. While this budget is approved by the WMATA Board of Directors, it is paid for by County citizens. She noted that last spring the County Executive pointed out $500,000 worth of services at the Germantown Campus of Montgomery College which duplicate unnecessarily those at Rockville and Takoma Park. She expressed the view that it will be extremely difficult for the Council to adopt a budget next year. The Council has made commitments to Metro, a third campus, to employees, and it will be difficult to fund them all. However, Councilwoman Moore stated that the supporters of the TRIM proposal are quoted in the Journal today as saying that they did not mean to take budget cuts out of the salaries of employees. Citizens of the County want frugality, but not at the expense of breaking a commitment to County employees.

Legislative Counsel Tierney recommended that the word "November" be taken out of Councilman Potter's motion, and the phrase "latest published index for the calendar year preceding the fiscal year in which the adjustment is to be made" inserted therefor.

In order that the Council can work from Draft No. 2 of Bill No. 37-78, the draft before the Council on November 14 when Councilman Menke offered his amendment, Councilman Potter withdrew his motion to allow a motion to bring Draft No. 2 before the Council.

Upon motion of Councilman Menke, duly seconded and without objection, the Council adopted the following amendments to Bill No. 37-78, as reflected in Draft No. 2, dated November 8, 1978, with underlining indicating additions to current law, capital letters indicating additions to the bill as introduced, and strike-throughs indicating deletions from the bill as introduced:

Be It Enacted by the County Council for Montgomery County, Maryland, that -

Sec. 1. Declaration of Policy and Legislative Intent.

It is hereby declared to be the policy of Montgomery County, Maryland, to provide for and ensure in an orderly, uniform manner as part of its budgetary process, guaranteed annual wage adjustments to merit system employees of the County Government to compensate those individuals and to equalize their wages due to increases in area-wide consumer prices and other cost-of-living factors.

It is further declared to be the public policy of Montgomery County, Maryland, that such wage increases are recognized as necessary to recruit and retain a high quality work force and prevent inflation and other invidious economic factors from undermining the compensation paid to members of its work force.

Sec. 2. Chapter 33, title "Personnel," Article IV, title "Employer-Employee Relations Act," of the Montgomery County Code 1972, as amended, is hereby amended by adding a new Section 33-74 thereto, title "Cost-of-Living Adjustment" to read as follows:

33-74. Cost-of-Living Adjustment.

THE COUNTY EXECUTIVE SHALL PROVIDE AS A PART OF THE ANNUAL RECOMMENDED OPERATING BUDGET FOR THE COUNTY GOVERNMENT SUFFICIENT FUNDS TO IMPLEMENT THE COST-OF-LIVING ADJUSTMENT REQUIRED BY THIS SECTION. AFTER THE BUDGET IS APPROVED, The Chief Administrative Officer shall adjust the uniform salary [schedule] plan for all classified employees of the Montgomery County Government beginning the first pay period on or after July 1, of each year by an amount not less than seventy-five percent (75%) of the change in the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers in the Washington, D.C. area ALTHOUGH PAY GRADES 1 THROUGH 4 OF THE UNIFORM SALARY PLAN TO WHICH MINIMUM WAGE AND CERTAIN SEASONAL EMPLOYEES ARE ASSIGNED WILL BE ADJUSTED BY CHANGES IN THE MINIMUM WAGE RATES AND SALARY SURVEYS TO DETERMINE THE COMPETITIVENESS OF SUCH SALARIES. Such THE percentage change shall be based on the DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE SEPTEMBER ~~latest-published~~ index for the calendar year IMMEDIATELY preceding the fiscal year in which the adjustment is to be paid AND THE SEPTEMBER INDEX FOR THE NEXT PRECEDING CALENDAR YEAR.

~~Notwithstanding the above, Pay Grades 1 through 4 of the uniform salary plan [schedule] to which minimum wage and certain seasonal employees are assigned will be adjusted by changes in minimum wage rates and salary surveys to determine the competitiveness of such salaries.~~

~~No provision of this law shall prohibit~~ The Chief Administrative Officer ~~from adjusting~~ MAY ADJUST the uniform salary plan ~~[schedule]~~ in excess of the base percentage of seventy-five percent (75%), provided funds are available and approved by the County Council for such purpose.

~~The County Executive shall submit to the County Council each year as part of the recommended Operating Budget for the County Government such sums as are necessary to fund the Cost-of-Living Adjustment set forth in Section 33-74 of this Chapter~~.

Sec. 3. Severability.

The provisions of this Act are severable and if any provision, clause, sentence, section, work or part thereof is held illegal, invalid, or unconstitutional, or inapplicable to any person or circumstances, such illegality, invalidity or unconstitutionality, or inapplicability shall not affect or impair any of the remaining provisions, clauses, sentences, sections, words, or parts of the Act or their application to other persons or circumstances. It is hereby declared to be the legislative intent that this Act would have been adopted if such illegal, invalid, or unconstitutional provision, clause, sentence, section, work or part had not been included therein, and if the person or circumstances to which the Act or part thereof is inapplicable had been specifically exempted therefrom.

Sec. 4. Effective date.

The Council hereby declares that an emergency exists and that this legislation is necessary for the immediate protection of public health and safety. Therefore, this Act shall become effective on the date on which it becomes law.

Councilman Potter moved, duly seconded, that the Council delete the phrase [those individuals and to equalize their wages due to] from lines 5 and 6, page 1, and insert in lieu thereof them for; and that the following phrase be inserted after the word "increases" in line 8: shall be at least 75% of the increase in the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers for the Washington, D.C. Area as reflected in the latest published index for the calendar year preceding the fiscal year in which the adjustment is to be paid; and such increases.

It was pointed out that the declaration of policy and intent section of the bill does not need to be specific with respect to which Consumer Price Index shall be used. There is language on page 2 of the bill that sets forth that information.

Councilman Potter amended his motion by deleting the amendment to line 8, page 1.

Without objection, Councilman Potter's motion was adopted, as amended.

The Council agreed that all suggested amendments to Section 33-74, page 2, should be offered before any are voted upon so that Councilmembers will be able to make informed decisions.

Councilman Potter suggested that the words [After the budget is approved,] be deleted from line 5, page 2, Section 33-74, and the following inserted therefor: The County Council shall consider the cost-of-living provisions in the recommended budget as one of the highest priorities, and shall take express action thereon, not later than May 1 of each year.

Councilman Menke suggested that the Council delete the words [After the budget is approved] from line 5, Section 33-74, page 2, and insert in lieu thereof: The Council shall accord a very high priority to the full funding of the cost-of-living adjustment, shall fund fully the 75% of CPI cost-of-living adjustment except as otherwise provided in law, and shall make a finding in the budget resolution as to the sufficiency of the funding being provided. Unless otherwise provided by terms of the budget resolution approved by the Council supported by a finding that implementation of the full amount of the adjustment would necessitate substantial lay-offs of personnel or result in other widespread hardship to County government employees,.

Mr. Tierney stated that there are legal problems with the wording of Mr. Hansman's suggested amendment in that it provides that "the Council shall fund" the 75% of CPI cost-of-living increase. He believes that the amendment offered by Councilman Potter to Section 33-74 is as restrictive as the Council can get without interfering with its legislative discretion. The amendment to Section 33-74 offered by Councilman Menke also provides that the Council "shall" fund fully the 75% of CPI cost-of-living increase. This is probably unconstitutional. Bill No. 37-78, as enacted on November 14, 1978, did not impose any restrictions on the appropriation process. He suggested use of the phrase "Unless otherwise provided by legislative act, the Council shall fund . . . ." After further discussion, Mr. Tierney stated that the wording of Councilman Menke's amendment is probably legally defensible after all because it contains the provision that the Council can make a finding that sufficient monies are not available to fund the full 75% of CPI cost-of-living increase.

Councilman Colman stated that he would prefer to reenact Bill No. 37-78 as reflected in Draft No. 2 without any further change. If a majority of the Council does not agree, his next preference is Councilman Menke's amendment to Section 33-74 because it requires the Council to make a finding as to why it cannot fully fund the 75% of CPI cost-of-living increase.

Director of Personnel Lloyd stated that the Executive Branch also prefers the wording of Draft No. 2 without further change. It is felt that it goes without saying that if the Council does not fully fund the 75% of CPI cost-of-living increase that some further steps must be taken. The intent is to assure County employees that a 75% of CPI cost-of-living increase will be provided. He stated that the services of the County government are provided by people. There may be circumstances when some employees will be laid off. In such a situation, the government should recognize the greater workload involved and make sure that those who are left to provide the essential services are compensated at a minimum level. He pointed out that the County's Retirement Law requires mandatory funding of the retirement system, and inquired as to what would happen if there were not sufficient resources for this account.

Mr. Tierney urged strongly that the Council allow time for full, careful legal examination of the language that is being proposed to amend Bill No. 37-78. He is not comfortable with the language as it comes very close to infringing on the Council's legislative discretion. He would not want to make a judgment on it without giving it careful attention. In addition, the County Attorney should have an opportunity to review it.

Upon motion of Councilman Menke, duly seconded and without objection, the Council restored the original language of lines 14 through 17, page 2, Section 33-74, such lines to read as follows: of such salaries. Such percentage change shall be based on the latest published index for the calendar year preceding the fiscal year in which the adjustment is to be paid.

Upon motion of Councilman Menke, duly seconded and without objection, the Council deleted the language in lines 8 through 11, page 3, and inserted in lieu thereof: This legislation shall take effect on the 76th day following the date on which it becomes law.

Councilman Colman moved, duly seconded, that the Council waive the reading of the title of Bill No. 37-78 and proceed to enactment.

At the request of Councilwoman Gelman and without objection, the Council agreed to recess the meeting so that the Council Secretary can prepare a clean copy of Bill No. 37-78 as amended for the Council's consideration.

(The Council recessed at 3:35 P.M., and reconvened at 4:15 P.M.)

The Council had before it for consideration copies of Bill No. 37-78 as amended to this point.

At the suggestion of Councilman Potter and without objection, the Council deleted the comma after "July 1" in the sixth line of Section 33-74, page 2.

Councilman Potter addressed the language of Section 33-74 that describes the Consumer Price Index that shall be used as the indicator for the cost-of-living increase, stating that it should refer to the November to November index.

Mr. Tierney stated that the language referred to by Councilman Potter is in conformance with language elsewhere in the Code referring to the CPI formula, and it can be interpreted consistently with Charter Amendment D that was on the November ballot.

Councilman Colman withdrew his motion that Bill No. 37-78 be enacted, for the purpose of making further amendments.

At the suggestion of Councilman Potter and without objection, the Council deleted the word [Such] from the eleventh line of Section 33-74, page 2, and inserted in lieu thereof The.

Councilman Colman moved, duly seconded, that the Council consider enactment of Bill No. 37-78 without any further amendments. His motion failed, Councilmembers Colman, Scull and Moore voting in the affirmative and Councilmembers Gelman, Menke and Potter voting in the negative.

Councilman Potter moved, duly seconded, that the Council delete [After the budget is approved] from the third and fourth lines of Section 33-74 and insert in lieu thereof: The County Council shall consider the cost-of-living provisions in the recommended budget as one of the highest priorities, and shall take express action thereon, not later than May 1 of each year.

Councilwoman Gelman expressed the view that Councilman Potter's motion clearly puts the burden on the Council to put money in the budget for the cost-of-living increase and not say to the CAO that he or she must find it.

President Scull stated that it is "nonsense" to imply that the Council would not provide sufficient funds for the cost-of-living increase that it had approved. The Council also has the option not to fund the full salaries of employees, but funds them. If it did not, the money would be taken out of other programs so that the salaries could be paid. She stated that the same reasoning applies to the 75% of CPI cost-of-living increase.

Councilman Colman stated that he would prefer the language offered by Councilman Menke earlier as an amendment to Section 33-74 over that offered by Councilman Potter. He pointed out that to have both amendments would be confusing.

Councilman Potter expressed the view that his amendment offers a clear procedure by which the Council must address the cost-of-living issue each year. The bill as it stands would permit the Council to ignore the issue. The bill should not be left so that no matter what the Council does the CAO must provide a 75% of CPI cost-of-living increase. The Council must determine the effect of a cost-of-living increase, and the CAO must implement it.

Councilwoman Moore expressed the view that Councilman Potter's amendment does not change the present practice of the Council with respect to the cost-of-living increase.

President Scull stated that she would prefer to add a separate sentence providing that during emergencies when the Council cannot fund the full 75% of CPI cost-of-living increase it shall remove the requirement on the CAO to amend the salary schedule to reflect a 75% of CPI increase. That is all that is needed at this point.

Councilman Menke stated that the Council cannot legislate now that in five years the Council will enact an emergency bill to repeal the requirement on the CAO. He suggested an escape clause which says that the CAO does not have to implement the 75% of CPI increase under certain conditions. This is what his suggested amendment to Section 33-74 would do.

President Scull expressed the view that the language offered by Councilmembers Potter and Menke will cause the cost-of-living increase to be an issue each year. The purpose of this bill was to take it out of the realm of a debatable issue. She stated that she will vote against the motion.

Councilman Colman stated that he will vote against the motion, preferring the language offered by Councilman Menke. That language clearly makes the Council face the situation and requires full funding of the cost-of-living increase unless there are compelling reasons to the contrary. He believes that it comes closer to the spirit of assuring, as far as possible, full funding of the cost-of-living increase.

Councilman Potter's motion failed, Councilmembers Potter, Gelman and Menke voting in the affirmative and Councilmembers Colman, Scull and Moore voting in the negative.

With respect to Councilman Menke's suggested amendment to Section 33-74, Mr. Tierney advised the Council against putting examples of hardship situations in the law, as this could infringe upon the Council's legislative discretion. The language should simply require the Council to state its reasons for not funding the full 75% of CPI cost-of-living increase.

A discussion was held regarding the language suggested by Councilman Menke as an amendment to Section 33-74, and Mr. Tierney's interpretation thereof.

Mr. Lloyd expressed the view that the requirement on the Council to state its reasons in writing is "silly," stating that the budget public hearings and worksessions are open to the public and that if the Council does not fully fund the 75% of CPI cost-of-living increase, the employees will know it and know the reasons therefor. He stated that he does not want to see the Council limit its legislative authority. The Council has ample opportunity to examine priorities and state its reasons for not funding the cost-of-living increase or any other program.

Councilman Menke moved, duly seconded, that the Council delete the phrase [After the budget is approved,] from the third and fourth lines, page 2, and insert in lieu thereof: The Council shall accord one of the highest priorities to the full funding of the cost-of-living adjustment, shall fund fully the 75% of CPI cost-of-living adjustment unless reasons are given for not doing so, and shall make a finding in the budget resolution as to the extent to which full funding is achieved. Unless otherwise provided by terms of the budget resolution approved by the Council supported by a finding that implementation of the full amount of the adjustment would necessitate substantial lay-offs of personnel or result in other widespread hardship to County government employees,.

President Scull stated that the language of Councilman Menke's motion seems to be the best the Council can do. It is a change in the thrust of the Council's decision last May. Although it is not legal to impose a requirement on the Council that it fund a 75% of CPI cost-of-living increase, by saying that the Executive must recommend such increase and the CAO must implement it, it was understood that the Council would also approve and fund the 75% of CPI cost-of-living increase. This is what she and the employees understood last May. Perhaps they were mistaken, but this was the understanding. She stated that the County Executive may veto the bill with this amendment in it.

Councilman Potter questioned the assumption that the Council would approve the budget as proposed by the County Executive, stating that it has never been done before. Salaries are far greater as a result. During the past eight years, the Council has approved cost-of-living increases at a rate higher than that recommended by theExecutive.

Councilman Menke's motion was adopted, Councilmembers Menke, Colman, Scull, Potter and Gelman voting in the affirmative and Councilwoman Moore voting in the negative.

Councilman Menke expressed the view that the bill is significantly more restrictive on the Council than the original proposal. He believes that the bill as amended is within the scope of advertising, and that it protects the employees because it forces the Council to face the issues. It provides a minimum, reasonable escape clause for the CAO. He stated that he is not entirely happy with the bill, but he will support it.

Councilman Potter indicated that he will vote in favor of the bill, stating that the Council must provide for the implementation of the policy.

Upon motion of Councilman Menke, duly seconded and without objection, the Council voted to waive the reading of the title and proceed to enactment of Bill No. 37-78. By a yea and nay vote, Councilmembers Gelman, Colman, Potter, Moore, Menke and Scull voting in the affirmative and Councilman Hovsepian being absent, Bill No. 37-78, Cost-of-Living Adjustment, was reenacted, as amended.

Councilwoman Moore stated that she would like to know how much of the legal problem with restricting the Council's discretion was explained to employees in the beginning when the trade-off was proposed. The employees gave away more than they realized (in terms of certainty) when the annual increments were reduced to 2%. She stated that voting for the bill would make it appear that she thinks the bill is good enough, providing sufficient certainty that the Council will stick to its commitment to employees, when in fact she does not think it is good enough. However, to vote aginst it would make it appear that she does not want to provide a 75% of CPI cost-of-living increase for the employees, when she does. Therefore, whe will vote in favor of the bill and the certainty of commitment even though she believes it is too weakly stated.

President Scull stated that she agrees with Councilwoman Moore.

Councilman Potter expressed the view that a review of the history of the past few years will indicate that this bill will provide more for the employees than the Executive would propose. Therefore, it is a gain and not a loss.

Councilman Menke stated that he will vote for the bill only if most of the regulatory measures are taken out, allowing free enterprise to operate. He suggested that Bill No. 6-77 be held over for consideration of the next County Council.

Without objection, the Council agreed to take no further action on Bill No. 6-77, CATV.

There being no further official business to come before the County Council in Legislative Session, the meeting adjourned at 5:40 P.M., to reconvene at 1:30 P.M. on Tuesday, November 21, 1978, or at the call of the President.

Subject Bill No. 37-78 - Cost of Living Adjustments

I am retunring Bill 37-78 without my signature.

I have previously expressed my feelings to you in detail and continue to believe that this legislation is a failure on the part of the Council to honor a long standing commitment to the employees of the County Government.

It is best that the final resolution of this issue be handled by the new administration.

Chapter 45

AN EMERGENCY ACT to amend Section 33-74, title "Cost-of-living adjustment" of Article IV, title "Employer-Employee Relations" of Chapter 33, title "Personnel" of the Montgomery County Code 1972, as amended, to add a new subsection (b) authorizing the Chief Administrative Officer for FY-82 to provide for cost-of-living increases of certain merit system employees at less than seventy-five (75) percent of the consumer price index.

Be It Enacted by the County Council for Montgomery County, Maryland, that -

Sec. 1. Section 33-74, title "Cost-of-living adjustment" of Article IV, title "Employer-Employee Relations" of Chapter 33, title "Personnel" of the Montgomery County Code 1972, as amended is hereby repealed and reenacted with amendments to read as follows:

33-74. Cost-of-living adjustment.

(a) The county executive shall provide as a part of the annual recommended operating budget for the county government sufficient funds to implement the cost-of-living adjustment required by this section. The council shall accord one of the highest priorities to the full funding of the cost-of-living adjustment, shall fund fully the seventy-five (75) percent of Consumer Price Index cost-of-living adjustment unless reasons are given for not doing so, and shall make a finding in the budget resolution as to the extent to which full funding is achieved. Unless otherwise provided in the approved budget resolution which includes a finding that implementation of the full amount of the adjustment would necessitate substantial lay-offs of personnel or result in other widespread hardship to county government employees, the chief administrative officer shall adjust the uniform salary plan for all classified employees of the county government beginning the first pay period on or after July 1 of each year by an amount not less than seventy-five (75) percent of the change in the Consumer Price Index for all urban consumers in the Washington, D.C. area, although pay grades one through four of the uniform salary plan to which mimimum wage and certain seasonal employees are assigned will be adjusted by changes in the minimum wage rates and salary surveys to determine the competitiveness of such salaries. The percentage change shall be based on the latest published index for the calendar year preceding the fiscal year in which the adjustment is to be paid.

The chief administrative officer may adjust the uniform salary plan in excess of the base percentage of seventy-five (75) percent, provided funds are available and approved by the county council for such purpose.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions in (a) above, for FY-82 only the following salary controls shall apply:

1. Salary maxima of grades 5 through 31 will be adjusted by the full cost-of-living granted by the County Council.
2. The salary maximum for grade 40 shall be $70,000.00.
3. The salary maxima for grades 32 through 39 shall be adjusted by the Chief Administrative Officer so that the dollar difference between the salary maxima of grades 31 through 40 is the same.
4. The salary for each merit employee in grades 5-31 will be adjusted by the full cost-of-living granted by the County Council to the extent that such salary adjustment does not exceed the maximum of the employee's grade.
5. The salaries for merit employees in grades 32 through 39 will be adjusted by the full cost-of-living granted by the County Council only to the extent that such salary adjustment does not exceed the maximum of the employee's grade.
6. The cost-of-living adjustment to the salaries of non-merit employees shall be determined by the County Executive but shall not exceed the cost-of-living granted merit employees.
7. No employee's salary is to be reduced below its level as of June 30, 1981 as a result of implementation of the provisions contained in paragraphs 1-6 above.

Sec. 2. Severability.

The provisions of this Act are severable and if any provision, sentence, clause, section word or part thereof is held illegal, invalid or unconstitutional or inapplicable to any person or circumstnaces, such illegality, invalidity or unconstitutionality, or inapplicability shall not affect or impair any of the remaining provisions, sentences, clauses, sections, words or parts of the Act or their application to other persons or circumstances. It is hereby declared to be the legislative intent that this Act would have been adopted if such illegal, invalid or unconstitutional provisions, sentence, clause, section, word or part had not been included therein, and if the person or circumstances to which the Act or any part thereof is inapplicable had been specifically exempted therefrom.

Sec. 3. Termination.

The provisions of this law shall remain effective only for FY-82 and shall be of no effect after June 30, 1982. Upon termination, Section 33-74 as it existed immediately prior to the effective date of this law, shall be reinstated.

Sec. 4. Effective Date.

The County Council hereby declares that an emergency exists and that this legislation is necessary for the immediate protection of the public health, safety and welfare. Therefore, this Act shall take effect on the date on which it becomes law.

M E M O R A N D U M

February 13, 1981

TO: Montgomery County Council

FROM: Charles W. Gilchrist, County Executive

SUBJECT: Compensation for Senior County Employees

Last year, the Ad Hoc Committee on Top Level Salaries (Colman Committee) reported that, while the salaries earned by top level employees in the County Government were competitive with comparable private and public sector salaries, the salary range was excessive, leading to the possibility over time that salaries earned in certain positions would exceed considerably those of other comparable organizations. This analysis has merit, and I believe that a new compensation system must be explored for these employees. Our compensation policy for senior level employees should provide the County with the salary flexibility it needs to continue to attract top-flight experienced personnel, should tie salary increases to executive performance, and should provide the accountability needed for effective management, while at the same time keep salary costs within acceptable limits.

In order to move forward with compensation policy improvements, I have taken two actions. First, I am presenting here for your consideration, legislation which will provide a salary ceiling for high-level County employees during FY 82. Second, I have formed a task force which will examine longer-range alternatives to the present compensation system for these County positions.

The attached legislation which I am proposing for FY 82 will place a temporary ceiling on top-level salaries in order to prevent the salary ranges from escalating to unacceptable levels. Specifically, my proposal calls for:

-- an adjustment in the salary range maxima for grades 5 through 31 equal to the cost-of-living adjustment which is approved for FY 82;

-- a maximum salary range for grade 40 of $62,000, with equal dollar difference between the maxima for grades 31 through 40;

-- a single salary schedule to apply to both merit and exempt employees;

-- a cost-of-living adjustment to each merit employee's salary at the approved rate for FY 82 up to the maximum of the salary range for his or her grade; and

-- salary adjustments for exempt employees to be determined by me.

If adopted, these proposals would mean that maximum salaries for grades 32 through 40 would range from $52,440 to $62,000. Without these changes, and assuming a 9.4% COL adjustment, the maxima would range from $53,740 to $78,890.

In order for this bill to take effect by the beginning of the new pay year (July 1, 1981), I am recommending that it be enacted as emergency legislation. I feel this is justified in view of the serious fiscal situation confronting us and the need to demonstrate to the community our equally serious determination to manage our resources carefully.

I am proposing this legislation for County employees only, but strongly suggest that the Council recommend comparable action governing senior level employee positions in other agencies over which Council has jurisdiction.

The longer-range Management Compensation Task Force, which I have established, will have representatives from Executive Management, the Office of Personnel, the Office of Management and Budget, and County departments. In developing alternatives to the present compensation system for senior-level employees, the Task Force will draw on the experience of other State and local jurisdictions, and the Federal government.

The recommendations of the Task Force will be presented to me this summer. I will review these recommendations and incorporate those of the Merit System Review Commission, also due this summer. After reviewing these proposals with affected parties, I will present a plan for dealing with senior employee compensation to you by early fall. Through our joint efforts, I would hope that this plan could be enacted in FY 82 and incorporated into the FY 83 budget for implementation on July 1, 1983.

There were no memorials or petitions to be presented.

CALL OF BILLS FOR FINAL READING:

Re: Enactment of Bill No. 16-81, Salary Cap for Senior County Employees

Bill No. 16-81, Salary Cap for Senior County Employees, was called for final reading. The Council had before it for consideration Draft No. 2, dated May 13, 1981, reflecting amendments approved by the Council in worksession.

After discussion, upon motion of Councilman Potter, duly seconded and without objection, the Council added the words below its level as of June 30, 1981 after the word "reduced" in the first line of subparagraph (7), page 3.

In response to inquiries, Dr. Rogers, Director, Office of Management and Budget, stated that the Executive's committee that is considering the salary scale issue should issue its report approximately September 1. She indicated that she would send the Council a memorandum in this regard.

At the suggestion of Legislative Counsel Frankel and without objection, the Council deleted the word [salaries] from line 15, page 3, and inserted in lieu thereof salary.

In response to inquiries, Mr. Kendal, Assistant CAO, stated that the Personnel Regulations provide for extraordinary performance awards of 2% to 4% of salary as a one-time bonus. These awards can be made to senior County employees notwithstanding the salary cap.

Councilwoman Gelman inquired as to the procedures followed when the County Executive adjusts the salaries of his non-merit system department heads and assistants. She requested that the Council be kept informed of these adjustments during the year. She noted that she has a long-standing request that the Council be kept informed of those employees of the Executive Branch who receive meritorious increases so that the Council can congratulate the employees.

Mr. Kendal indicated that he would make the County Executive aware of Councilwoman Gelman's request.

With respect to the provisions of Bill No. 16-81, President Spector pointed out that the majority of County employees are below grade 32 and will not be affected by the bill.

It was noted that the Council had agreed during worksession to amend Bill No. 16-81 so that it does not apply to non-merit system employees. However, Draft No. 2 does not reflect that amendment. Mr. Short, Director, Office of Budget and Research, pointed out that the bill pertains only to the cost-of-living increase and paragraph 6, page 3, provides that the cost-of-living increase for non-merit employees will not exceed that for merit system employees. It does not restrict the Executive's ability to pay his non-merit system employees any salary he wants. Assistant County Attorney Hutt agreed with Mr. Short's interpretation, and stated that enactment of the bill with that provision will not conflict with the Charter.

Upon motion of Councilwoman Crenca, duly seconded and without objection, the Council approved the following amendments to Bill No. 16-81:

Page 3, line 10, delete [$62,000.00] and insert in lieu thereof $7[illegible],000.00;

Page 3, line 30, add a new paragraph 7 to read as follows: 7. No employee's salary is to be reduced below its level as of June 30, 1981 as a result of implementation of the provisions contained in paragraphs 1-6 above.

Upon motion of Councilwoman Crenca, duly seconded and without objection, the Council voted to waive the reading of the title and proceed to enactment of Bill No. 16-81. By a yea and nay vote, Councilmembers Gudis, Crenca, Fosler, Gelman, Potter and Spector voting in the affirmative and Councilwoman Scull being temporarily absent, Bill No. 16-81, Compensation of Senior County Employees, was enacted, as amended.

MISCALLANEOUS BUSINESS:

There being no further official business to come before the County Council in Legislative Session, the meeting adjourned at 3:15 P.M., to reconvene at 1:30 P.M. on Tuesday, May 19, 1981, or at the call of the President.

MEMORANDUM

February 2, 1982

TO: Neal Potter, President, Montgomery County Council

FROM: Charles W. Gilchrist, County Executive

SUBJECT: Compensation Proposals for FY 83

Last spring I recommended, and the Council enacted, legislation which modified the County's general cost-of-living adjustment policy to restrain the rate of increase in senior-level salaries. My original recommendation was that the salary range maximum for the highest County grade should be $62,000. Council revised this figure to $70,000, and while I thought this figure somewhat high, it was an acceptable compromise. I proposed this restraint because of my belief, based on findings by the Ad Hoc Committee on Top-Level Salaries (the Colman Committee) that the salary range maxima for upper grades would soon become excessive, unless some limitations were imposed.

At the same time, I formed a Management Compensation Task Force to examine the complex issues of senior-level compensation in a more thorough fashion than was possible last spring. The work of this Task Force over the past nine months was directed towards formulating senior management pay policy proposals for FY 83 and beyond. The Task Force effort builds on work done by the Colman Committee in 1980 and on discussions with members of the County's Economic Advisory Council.

I am pleased to transmit to you the report of this Task Force, as well as my proposed FY 83 salary policy which differs in some respects from the Task Force recommendations. In my judgment, the Task Force has done an excellent job of exploring alternatives to our present pay policies. Its work included an examination of the practices of many other organizations, both public and private, and long hours of deliberation seeking ways to make needed improvements without disrupting our personnel and pay systems unnecessarily.

The Task Force has proposed restraining the rate of increase in salary maxima for senior-level pay by replacing annual pay plan adjustments based on the 75%-of-CPI approach with adjustments based on an analysis of pay for comparable positions in comparable jurisdictions. Furthermore, the Task Force has recommended that a stronger emphasis be placed on pay-for-performance by removing Department Heads and Assistant CAO's (FY 83) and Division Chiefs (FY 84) from the annual COLA and substituting pay awards based on the individual's prior-year performance.

The Task Force has recommended continuation of the current 75%-of-CPI legislation for all employees other than senior managers. I support this recommendation.

While I agree with the Task Force that revisions in our pay policies for senior-level managers are needed and that the two principal proposals have substantial merit, I do not think the implementation schedule is realistic. I do believe that we must continue the restraint on upper-level salary ranges begun in FY 82 and, to that end, I think the proposed comparability analysis is an excellent method for aiding us in choosing salary maxima that are more in line with those in comparable jurisdictions. This analysis is already underway, and I will provide the results to the Council in the very near future, when I submit my specific FY 83 pay level proposals to you.

Preliminary data indicates that the maxima for grade 39 will fall below my recommended maximum of $70,000 for grade 40.

I cannot agree, however, with the rapid implementation of a performance-based pay system for senior managers as proposed by the Task Force. As you know, I support careful performance planning and appraisal and the recognition of superior performance. I have placed all my Department heads on FY 82 performance plans and have already scheduled time this summer for appraisal sessions. In addition, I directed that the Resources Management Team assign major emphasis to the creation of performance planning and appraisal policies for use by all County departments.

The rewards from successful performance planning and appraisal can be substantial, but the administration of such systems can be very difficult. In my opinion, we need more time to learn to use these techniques wisely, efficiently, and fairly. Consequently, I believe it is premature to replace the present COLA-based system for making individual salary changes for senior managers with a performance-based pay system as early as FY 83.

This does not mean that, during the interim, outstanding performers in County service cannot be recognized. Present regulations provide for both cash awards and increases to base pay for outstanding performance. In the past, I have made such awards when justified, and I expect to do so in the future. I have encouraged County Department Heads to do likewise. Outstanding performers should be recognized and rewarded at all levels of County government and special compensation for those persons is to the benefit of the County in attracting and retaining productive, well-qualified employees.

The Task Force and I also differ on one other point. The Task Force has recommended that the Chief Administrative Officer position be removed from the salary schedule and that the salary for this position be independently negotiated. While I understand the Task Force's recommendation as being in line with the policies of many jurisdictions, and with similar high-paying positions in many school systems, I do not believe that such a change would be appropriate for Montgomery County now. If the County does move at some future date to a performance-based pay system for senior managers, then such an arrangement, in combination with an employment contract, may be more appropriate for the Chief Administrative Officer. For now, I feel this position should remain on the salary schedule, and I am recommending that the salary range maximum for grade 40 should remain at $70,000 for FY 83.

As you will recall, the current statute governing the cost-of-living pay adjustments expires on June 30, 1982. The attached establishes for FY 83 that a comparability analysis will be a major factor in determining the maxima for grades 32-39. The maxima for all other grades 5-31 would continue to be adjusted by the approved COLA. Because comparability analysis is a technique which is new to the County, I am proposing that this legislation be temporary, for a one-year period covering FY 83. If the use of this technique proves successful, I will recommend that the legislation be made permanent, beginning in FY 84. As a part of my FY 83 recommended Budget, I will transmit a specific FY 83 pay plan for approval by the Council which will reflect the comparability data that have been received and analyzed.

The enclosed bill also continues the current practice of adjusting the salaries of all merit employees by the approved COLA, up to the maximum of the grade. I also intend to follow these same procedure for Executive Branch non-merit employees. Substitution of pay-for-performance would, therefore, be deferred until some time in the future.

Your staff was briefed twice in the past nine months on these compensation matters. Robert K. Kendal, Assistant Chief Administrative Officer, chaired the Management Compensation Task Force, and will be available to assist the Council itself during deliberations on the enclosed legislative proposals

Enclosures(2):
Management Compensation Task Force Report
Legislative Bill

GENERAL BACKGROUND MATERIAL PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO COST-OF-LIVING LAW

1. DESCRIPTION: This bill modifies the County's general salary adjustment policy by specifying a method for changing the salary range maxima of grades 32-39 that is different from the method to be used for grades 5-31. Under this bill, the salary range maxima for grades 5-31 would be increased by 75% of the CPI, as at present. The maxima for grades 32-39, however, would be related to the maximum of grade 39 which would be based in large measure on the results of an annual analysis of pay data for positions in other jurisdictions comparable to those in Montgomery County's grade 39. The salaries of all merit employees (grades 5-40) would be adjusted by the approved COLA up to the maximum of the grade. While not a part of the bill, salary adjustments for executive branch non-merit employees would also conform to this procedure. The salary of the Chief Administrative Officer (at Grade 40) will be set at $70,000.

2. PROBLEM: Salary range maxima for upper grades have reached, or may soon reach, levels that are excessive in comparison to those of other jurisdictions. The primary force driving salary maxima to this high point is the automatic COLA of 75% of the CPI.

3. GOAL AND OBJECTIVE: The objective of the bill is to restrain the rate of increase in upper-level salaries by substituting a comparability-based determination of salary range maxima for grades 32-39 for the automatic 75%-of-CPI method.

4. COORDINATION: Legislatively, enactment of this bill needs to be coordinated with the expiration of the current COLA law on June 30, 1982. Organizationally, this bill has been fully coordinated with the Offices of Personnel, Management and Budget, County Attorney, and Chief Administrative Officer.

5. FISCAL IMPACT: There will be no impact on the capital programs or budget. The precise impact on the operating budget cannot be determined until such time as the actual salary range maxima for FY 83 are established. If the FY 83 maxima for grades 32-39 are established at roughly the FY 82 level, there will be a saving of approximately $65,000 over what would be paid out in COLA and increments if no restraints at all were placed on the maxima of upper grades.

6. ECONOMIC IMPACT: There will be no economic impact from this bill.

7. EVALUATION: This bill will be evaluated by determining the degree to which salary range maxima for grades 32-39 are lower than they would be under the full 75%-of-CPI method. The Personnel Office will conduct the evaluation annually after the comparability data are available and after the Council approves the CAO's proposed salary plan.

8. EXPERIENCE ELSEWHERE Many jurisdictions have imposed "caps" on escalating salary ranges. Both private and public agencies utilize comparability studies to determine the appropriate salary ranges for positions. See the Management Compensation Task Force Report for additional information.

CALL OF BILLS FOR FINAL READING:

Re: Enactment of Bill No. 2-82, Recreation Advisory Boards

Bill No. 2-82, Recreation Advisory Boards, was called for final reading. The Council had before it for consideration Draft No. 3, dated March 23, 1982.

Upon motion of Councilwoman Crenca, duly seconded and without objection, the Council approved the following amendment to the bill:

Page 2, line 13, insert the following words at the end of the line: unless serving on the Board in another capacity.

Upon motion of Councilman Gudis, duly seconded and without objection, the Council voted to waive the reading of the title and proceed to enactment.

Councilmembers Spector, Crenca, Gelman, Scull, Gudis and Potter voting in the affirmative and Councilman Fosler being absent, Bill No. 2-82, Recreation Advisory Boards, was enacted, as amended.

Re: Enactment of Bill No. 3-82, Cost-of-Living Adjustment for Senior-Level Employees

Bill No. 3-82, Cost-of-Living Adjustment for Senior-Level County Employees, was called for final reading.

Councilwoman Gelman noted that this bill has not been referred to a Council committee, nor has it been the subject of a worksession by the Council. She referred to a memorandum to the Council from Deputy Staff Director Spengler, dated March 24, 1982, reviewing the background and issues connected to Bill No. 3-82, and stated that he has prepared an excellent report that should be reviewed by a committee. She stated that she objects to the provision in Bill No. 3-82 which would have the Chief Administrative Officer gather information and make compensation decisions at his sole discretion. Councilwoman Gelman expressed the view that the formula proposed in the bill is too flexible and leaves too much to one person's discretion. She noted that the Council has been asking the Executive Branch for a comprehensive review of the pay plan for three years and has not gotten it yet. She noted that the pay comparability data which was presented by the Executive Branch shows that very few jurisdictions have employer-contribution deferred compensation plans, in contrast to the representations made by the Executive Branch when it recommended that the Council approve such a plan for senior-level employees.

President Potter stated that the pay plan is included in the operating budget and must be approved by the Council. If the Council does not like what is presented, it can approach it in a different way. He noted that Bill No. 3-82 would remain in effect for one year only; it is not a permanent arrangement.

Upon motion of Councilwoman Crenca, duly seconded, Councilmembers Potter, Gudis, Spector and Crenca voting in the affirmative, Councilwoman Gelman voting in the negative, Councilman Scull being temporarily absent and Councilman Fosler being absent, the Council voted to waive the reading of the title of Bill No. 3-82 and proceed to enactment.

Councilwoman Gelman indicated that she would like to have a Council worksession on this bill before it is enacted.

Councilman Scull stated that at the appropriate time during the Council's budget deliberations he intends to recommend that the Council fund a cost-of-living increase for County employees in the amount of 50% of the Consumer Price Index (CPI), rather than 75%. He noted that implementation of this proposal would not require a legislative bill, and inquired as to the procedure to be used to give people an opportunity to comment on the proposal. He further noted that Mr. Spengler has pointed out that the County could save $900,000 by freezing the maximum salary in all of the grades, not just grades 32 and above as proposed by Bill No. 3-82. This proposal would require legislation. Councilman Scull expressed the view that the Council should consider these proposals, and inquired as to the appropriate procedure.

A discussion was held concerning the procedures to be used to consider the foregoing proposals, including the need to readvertise Bill No. 3-82 if it is to be amended, the time necessary to prepare, introduce and advertise a new bill and the need to act prior to July 1, 1982. Members of the Council objected to the time that would have to be devoted to such an undertaking.

Councilwoman Gelman expressed the view that the material presented by Mr. Spengler has raised many new issues and she does not believe the Council should proceed before considering them thoroughly.

Councilman Scull stated that he does not object to the provisions of Bill No. 3-82. However, he believes that the decisions on the comparability studies and pay plans should come back to the Council. In addition, he believes that it would be inappropriate for the Council to forego its opportunity to address the major, long-range fiscal issues that have been presented to the Council. The Colman Report of a few years ago and material presented by Mr. Spengler indicate that the County's pay scale is higher than that of other jurisdictions. Perhaps it should be that way, but the Council should have an opportunity to discuss it as part of the budget process. Councilman Scull suggested that the Council not enact Bill No. 3-82 today, but introduce an amendment that would freeze the maximum salary in all of the grades and allow an extra two weeks for comment.

President Potter disagreed that the effect of this bill would be to make the pay plan an administrative matter. The law, which is being enacted by the Council, specifies the formula for FY 1983, and the Council is not giving up its authority to approve the pay plan. He expressed the view that comparability with other jurisdictions is not necessarily desirable; the question to be examined is whether the County is getting its money's worth. The quality of the workforce must be examined as well as the cost. He noted that he has expressed doubts about this subject in the past. With respect to Councilman Scull's proposal, he stated that that would be a major undertaking to be accomplished prior to May 15. He does not know that the Council has the time to devote to such a major issue.

Councilwoman Crenca expressed the view that the Council should enact Bill No. 3-82 today and then address the other issues that have been raised. She inquired as to whether the Council can reduce its salary also if it only funds a 50% of CPI cost-of-living increase for employees.

It was noted that the Council cannot affect its own salary but it could reduce the salary of the next County Council. Councilman Scull stated that individual Councilmembers can return the excess salary above a 50% of CPI cost-of-living increase to the County treasury. He intends to make such a recommendation. He noted that such a contribution would be a charitable deduction on one's income tax.

Councilwoman Gelman stated that she has not taken a position for or against Bill No. 3-82. She believes that it deserves in-depth study and analysis. Although it is late in the budget process, the Council was in this position last year and requested that the Executive study the matter and present a recommendation to the Council in time to be considered and implemented for FY 83. She expressed the view that this important matter is deserving of more attention than the Council is giving it.

Councilman Scull expressed the view that it would be very logical to consider a freeze on the maximum salary in grades 5 through 31 at the same time it is considering a freeze on the maximum salary in grades 32 through 39.

Councilman Scull moved, duly seconded, that the Council reconsider its motion to waive the reading of the title of Bill No. 3-82 and proceed to enactment.

Councilmembers Scull, Gelman, Gudis, Hanna and Potter voting in the affirmative, Councilman Fosler not voting and Councilwoman Crenca being temporarily absent, Bill No. 12-83 was enacted.

Re: Enactment of Bill No. 13-83, FY84 Salary Maxima

Bill No. 13-83, FY 1984 Salary Maxima, was called for final reading. The Council had before it for consideration Draft No. 3, dated March 25, 1983.

Vice President Gelman, Chairwoman of the Personnel Committee, stated that the Committee reviewed this bill and recommends that it be amended to establish the maximum for grade 39 at $69,000 and for grade 38 at $68,000, in addition to the $70,000 maximum for grade 40, so that there will be a $1,000 differential between these three grades. The Committee also recommends that the effective date clause be amended so that the bill becomes effective upon signature of the County Executive and will be in place for the start of Fiscal Year 1984.

Vice President Gelman stated that she would like to know whether the County Executive can change the grade of a department head, whom the Council has confirmed at a certain grade, without obtaining the Council's approval.

Councilman Potter stated that he is concerned with the fundamentals of this bill because it establishes a salary which is best negotiated. Establishing the maximum for grade 40 by law makes it impossible to hire a new Chief Administrative Officer who is already earning more than $70,000. He stated that he does not object to the maxima recommended for grades 38 and 39 because the figures are reasonable and these salaries are not negotiated. Although the salary maximum for grade 40 has been set by law for the past three years, the only position in County government in that grade was occupied. The situation is different now that the County Executive will be recruiting for a new CAO.

Vice President Gelman stated that she basically agrees with Councilman Potter's concerns, and noted that she voted against the salary maxima law when it was first proposed several years ago. However, the County government has been operating under this system for some time, and Bill No. 13-83 is a small adjustment to continue the system.

Councilwoman Gelman moved, duly seconded, that the Council adopt the amendments to Bill No. 13-83 recommended by the Personnel Committee.

In response to an inquiry as to the objection to a maximum for grade 40 greater than $70,000, Vice President Gelman stated that the Council is working with the program that the Executive proposed several years ago. If the Executive negotiates a salary package for a new CAO that is higher than $70,000, he can come back to the Council and ask for an amendment to the law. She expressed the view that this maximum will not limit the Executive in his recruitment efforts; he is not obligated to place the CAO's position within the uniform salary schedule.

Councilmembers Potter, Gudis and Scull indicated that the fact that the CAO's position does not have to be within the uniform salary schedule eliminates their concerns about Bill No. 13-83.

Councilman Fosler stated that, although the Executive is not legally bound to place the CAO within the uniform salary scale, the position has been placed there traditionally, and the Executive has expressed his intention to abide by that tradition by not negotiating a salary that is higher than the maximum of grade 40. He suggested that the Council verify the Executive's position in this regard. Councilman Fosler stated that, by capping the top salaries in the salary schedule, they are no longer competitive with other local jurisdictions nor private industry. He expressed concern that the Council is about to establish caps on grades 38 and 39, further compounding the compression problem created by establishing the caps in the first place. Now the Council is attempting to correct the problem by capping lower grades. The uniform salary schedule is no longer uniform and does not have the same logic it started with. Since the new Compensation Task Force will address this problem, he believes that the County can live with the problem for another year. Although each change to the salary schedule can be justified, they create a problem when compounded.

Councilman Potter stated that he agrees with Councilman Fosler as to the effects of compression and the issue of whether the CAO should be paid more than the maximum of grade 40. In response to a statement that the Council is not addressing salaries at a deprivation level, Councilman Potter stated that it is not a question of deprivation as much as competitiveness. Government salaries are traditionally not competitive with corporate salaries. The Council must be aware of this aspect, and the most critical position in this regard is the CAO. He stated that he is glad to be reassured by Section 210 of the Charter that the compensation of the CAO is to be determined by the County Executive subject to approval by the Council. The Executive must have the freedom to negotiate whenever he finds a good candidate for the position.

President Scull stated that he also has concerns about compression in the salary scale; however, in the current economic climate, he believes it is appropriate to continue the concept that the Council put into law several years ago. He expressed the view that Montgomery County's salaries are competitive within the universe of likely applicants for the high-level positions.

Councilman Fosler pointed out that the General Manager of WMATA, who recently resigned, was earning $78,000 per year; there was an indication that he is taking another position with a higher salary. In order to get good people in the top positions, the County must be willing to pay competitive salaries. He stated that it will always be possible to find people willing to fill these positions; the question is whether the County will attract the high quality people it wants.

Councilmembers Gelman, Scull, Gudis and Hanna voting in the affirmative, Councilman Fosler voting in the negative, Councilman Potter not voting and Councilwoman Crenca being absent, Councilwoman Gelman's motion was adopted, approving the following amendments to Bill No. 13-83:

Page 2, line 14, delete the word [grade] and insert in lieu thereof grades 38, 39 and;

Page 2, line 15, delete [$72,000] and insert in lieu thereof $68,000, $69,000 and $70,000, respectively;

Page 3, lines 18 and 19, delete the language in its entirety and insert in lieu thereof: The Council hereby declares that an emergency exists and that this legislation is necessary for the immediate protection of the public health and safety. Therefore, this Act shall take effect on the date on which it becomes law.

Councilman Fosler stated that he would like to determine the County Executive's intent with respect to whether or not he feels bound by tradition to limit the salary of the CAO to the maximum of grade 40 before enacting Bill No. 13-83. In the past, the Council has indicated that the maximum salary it would approve is the maximum of grade 40. If the Council is no longer taking that position, it should indicate a range of salary it would approve so that the Executive does not negotiate a salary that the Council is not likely to approve.

Vice President Gelman stated that the Council is not binding the Executive; if he feels bound by tradition, that is his decision.

President Scull expressed the view that the tone of the Council's discussion today indicates that the Council is not likely to vote against a salary for the CAO that is greater than $70,000.

Upon motion of Councilwoman Gelman, duly seconded and without objection, the Council voted to waive the reading of the title and proceed to enactment. Councilmembers Scull, Gelman, Gudis, Hanna and Potter voting in the affirmative, Councilman Fosler voting in the negative and Councilwoman Crenca being absent, Bill No. 13-83, Salary Maxima, was enacted, as amended.

Councilman Potter indicated that he voted for the bill, even though he does not approve of the concept, because the lack of five votes to enact it would cause a sizeable increase in the salaries that have been capped. He looks forward to the work of the Compensation Task Force to correct the situation that has been caused by actions such as this over the past several years.

Vice President Gelman expressed the view that Bill No. 13-83 does not impose a hardship on anyone. It restrains the top level salaries and allows an increase for all County employees.

Councilman Fosler stated that the Council has other choices in addition to enacting this bill or letting salaries increase to what they would have been without the caps having been imposed in the past. He would have preferred that the Council defer action on the bill to ascertain the Executive's position in this regard. If the Council means what it says when it says that it is no longer establishing a de facto cap for government salaries at grade 40, it is also not saying what it thinks that cap should be. That is a change from present policy, and the Council should consider the implications of such a change. Councilman Fosler noted that the U.S. Senate recently went through the agonizing process of increasing the salaries of Senators and Representatives. The general public has the perception that the salaries are already much too high and they are higher than that of the average wage earner in the U.S. However, they are not high for these top-level positions. Senator Tsongas said that it is wonderful for people who are independently wealthy or who have other sources of income to vote to keep salaries low. However, it is a hardship for people who have only the one source of income. By taking such an action, many people are excluded from going into public service; they cannot afford to make the choice to do so. Councilman Fosler stated that he understands the political popularity of voting to cap salaries. It is a problem that faces all elected bodies and public officials around the country. He expressed the hope that it will not become a problem in Montgomery County.

The County's policy shall be to take all personnel actions on the basis of merit and fitness without regard to political affiliation or non-merit factors, and without regard to other factors as may be provided for in Chapter 27 "Human Relations and Civil Liberties" such as sex, marital status, race, religion, national origin, age or handicap. The Chief Administrative Officer shall be responsible for initiating, developing and maintaining such an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action program as necessary to insure all persons an equal opportunity to enter and progress in the County's service on the basis of open competition and demonstrated ability. The County Executive is authorized to issue such rules and regulations as necessary to implement this policy. Such regulations shall provide that an employee whose personal religious beliefs require the abstention from work during certain periods of time may elect to engage in an alternate work schedule in order to meet those religious requirements. The regulation shall include provision for any employee who elects to work an alternate schedule to be obligated to work an equal period of time to that taken off for such religious reasons.

(b) Conciliation. The Chief Administrative Officer is authorized to engage in consultation and conciliation efforts with agencies responsible for enforcement of equal employment opportunity laws with the objective of resolving complaints and to execute binding agreements with these agencies; provided, however, that these conciliation efforts shall not be deemed to abate the procedures or requirements as recited in Chapter 27. Should the complaint be determined to be a matter not properly within the jurisdiction of an equal employment opportunity enforcement agency, the complaint, as filed, shall be treated as a grievance and processed under the appropriate procedures established for grievances.

(c) Appeals by applicants. Any applicant for employment or promotion to a merit system position may appeal decisions of the Chief Administrative Officer with respect to their application for appointment or promotion. Appeals alleging discrimination prohibited by Chapter 27, "Human Relations and Civil Liberties", of the Code, may be filed in the manner prescribed therein. Appeals alleging that the decisions of the Chief Administrative Officer were arbitrary and capricious, illegal, based on political affiliation, failure to follow announced examination and scoring procedures, or non-merit factors, may be filed directly with the Merit System Protection Board. Appeals filed with the Merit System Protection Board shall be considered pursuant to procedures adopted by the Board. The Board may order such relief as is provided by law or regulation.

33-10. Disclosure of Illegal or Improper Actions in County Government; Protection for Merit System Employees Against Retaliation or Coercion for Disclosing Illegal or Improper Actions in County Government; Prohibited Practices; Complaint Procedures; Investigations; Penalties; Appeals.

(a) Disclosure of Illegal or Improper Actions.

(1) Employees are authorized and expected to report instances of illegal or improper actions in County government.

(2) Employees should first report such matters to the individual responsible for corrective action. Such person may be anyone from the employee's immediate supervisor up to and including the County Executive, or in the case of Legislative Branch employees, the County Council.

(3) In unusual circumstances, or if a retaliatory action or coercion has taken place, the employee may file a report directly with either the Board or the Ethics Commission. The identity of both the employee filing a report and the County employee or official who is the subject of this report shall be kept confidential unless waived in writing by the parties. The Board or Ethics Commission shall cause an inquiry to be conducted or refer the report to the appropriate government official or agency.

(b) Protection for Employees. Any merit system employee who refuses to obey an instruction involving an illegal or improper action or who discloses information concerning illegal or improper action in County government with a reasonable good-faith belief that such disclosures are true and accurate shall be protected under procedures authorized herein from any retaliatory or coercive personnel action. This provision does not extend protection to a merit system employee upon a determination that:

(1) The employee's actions were frivolous, unreasonable and without foundation, even though not brought in bad faith;

(2) The employee without good cause failed to comply with administrative regulations concerning the making of such disclosures; or

(3) The employee was the subject of otherwise proper personnel actions taken for disciplinary reasons and not for retaliatory purposes prohibited by this Section.

A personnel action shall mean any administrative act or omission which has a significant adverse impact upon the employee, or a change in the employee's duties or responsibilities inconsistent with the employee's grade and salary.

(c) Prohibited Practices. It shall be unlawful for any person to coerce any merit system employee into taking an illegal or improper action or take any retaliatory action against any merit system employee because of that employee's disclosure of information relating to illegal and improper action in County government.

(d) Filing of Complaints. If an employee believes a retaliatory action or coercion has taken place or been attempted because of his refusal to obey an illegal or improper instruction or disclosure of same, the employee may file a written complaint with the Board. The complaint must be filed within 60 days of the alleged violation or action and must contain:

(1) The employee's name and signature;

(2) The employee's home address and telephone number;

(3) The name of the individual who allegedly took the action;

(4) A concise description of the alleged coercion or retaliatory action and reasons for believing it to be so. The identity of all parties shall be kept confidential unless and until there is a finding of probable cause or all parties waive such confidentiality in writing.

The Board may initiate an inquiry of any person suspected of taking retaliatory or coercive action, with or without a written complaint from an employee.

(e) Investigations. All complaints charging a violation of subsection (c) shall be promptly investigated by the Board's staff who shall determine whether probable cause exists to believe a violation of that Section has occurred. Should the Board's staff determine that the subject matter of the complaint involved allegations more properly the subject of an employee grievance or complaint to be filed under the provisions of the Personnel Regulations or other laws or regulations, the complainant shall be so advised and the complaint dismissed, and the period of limitations for the bringing of such other action shall be deemed to run from the date of the dismissal. Should the Board's staff determine that no probable cause exists, that determination shall be final and the complaint dismissed unless Board reconsideration is requested. Should the Board's staff determine that probable cause does exist, the staff shall prepare and cause to be served on the person believed to have violated subsection (c) a statement of charges fairly describing the alleged violation and the sanctions sought to be imposed for such violation. The charges shall then be certified to the Board to schedule and conduct hearings in accordance with the provisions of this Chapter. The case in support of charges shall be presented by the Board's staff.

(f) Penalties. If a County employee is found guilty of coercion, harassment or retaliation, the Merit System Protection Board may order the imposition of one or more of the following penalties:

(1) Any disciplinary action provided for in the Personnel Regulations up to and including dismissal;

(2) A monetary fine in any amount up to $2,000.00;

(3) Reimbursement of expenses incurred by all parties;

(4) Other penalties as may be deemed appropriate and consistent with the Charter and laws of Montgomery County, Maryland.

(g) Appeals. An employee subject to the foregoing penalties based on the Merit System Protection Board's findings and decision may appeal to a court of competent jurisdiction.

33-12. Appeals of Disciplinary Actions; Grievance Procedures.

(a) Appeals of Certain Disciplinary Actions. Any merit system employee, excluding those in probationary status, who has been notified of impending removal, demotion or suspension shall be entitled to file an appeal to the Board which shall cause a hearing to be scheduled without undue delay unless the appeal has been settled during administrative review of the appeal by the Chief Administrative Officer or a designee. Any merit system employee who is the subject of other disciplinary action not specified above may file an appeal with the Board, but such appeal may or may not require a hearing as the Board may determine.

(b) Grievances. A grievance is a formal complaint arising out of a misunderstanding or disagreement between a merit system employee and supervisor with reference to a term or condition of employment. The determination of the Board as to what constitutes a term or condition of employment shall be final. Grievances do not include the following: classification allocations, except due process violations; failure to re-employ a probationary employee; or other employment matters for which another forum is available to provide relief or the Board determines are not suitable matters for the grievance resolution process. A grievance shall include termination by resignation which is found by the Board to have been submitted under circumstances which cause the resignation to be involuntary; in the event of such a finding, the Board shall require the appointing authority to substantiate the termination as in the case of a removal. The County Executive shall prescribe in the Personnel Regulations procedures which seek to secure at the lowest possible level a fair, prompt and mutually satisfactory resolution to a grievance. In providing these procedures, the County Executive shall insure that any grievance based upon an alleged improper application of a merit system law or regulation concerning a disputed issue of fact is entitled to resolution after a fact-finding inquiry authorized by the Board. Grievances based upon an alleged improper interpretation of merit system laws or regulation do not require a hearing during the grievance resolution process.

(c) Hearing Examiners. The Board may utilize hearing examiners to conduct grievance investigations and other hearings, authorized under this Section, who shall make findings and recommendations subject to objection by the parties and final Board approval under such procedures as established by the Board. A party to any proceeding which has been assigned to a Hearing Examiner shall be afforded the opportunity to present an oral argument on the record before the Board prior to a final decision.

33-13. Appeal Procedures.

The County Executive shall prescribe by Personnel Regulations procedures covering appeals including grievances which shall include the time limit for filing such appeal, the granting of administrative leave pending appeal, filing and cost of the administrative record, conduct of hearings, requirements for written notice, special evidentiary proceedings in cases where the remedy of employee reinstatement was a contested and unresolved issue in an ordinary appeal hearing and provisions for summary actions by the Board.

33-14. Hearing authority of Board.

(a) Hearing Requirements. Hearings before the Board are quasi-judicial in nature and shall be conducted in formal session in accordance with the provisions and authority contained in the County Administrative Procedures Act.

* * *

(c) Decisions. Final decisions by the Board shall be in writing, setting forth necessary findings of fact and conclusions of law.

33-15. Judicial Review and Enforcement.

(a) Any aggrieved merit system employee, or applicant, or the Chief Administrative Officer, may obtain judicial review of a Merit System Protection Board order or decision from the Circuit Court for the County in the manner prescribed under Chapter 1100, Subtitle B of the Maryland Rules of Procedure.

SUBJECT: Collective Bargaining Rights for Police Sergeants and Lieutenants

Without objection, the Personnel Committee agreed to refer the issue of collective bargaining rights for police sergeants and lieutenants to the Council. Action by the Council is scheduled for December 18, 1984.

HISTORY

November, 1980 - The voters of the County passed a referendum question amending the County Charter requiring the Council to provide by law for collective bargaining for police officers.

April, 1982 - The Council enacted legislation implementing the Charter amendment. In the law, the Council defined "police officers" to include only officers of the rank of corporal and below. Police officers of the rank of sergeant and above were excluded because of their supervisory functions in order to insure "that proper management control was presented in the workplace". (See circle 2).

October 18, 1983 - The Council received a petition from police sergeants requesting that the collective bargaining law be amended to include sergeants.

January 10, 1984 - The Council acknowledged receipt of the petition of the police sergeants.

August 8, 1984 - The Council received a petition from police lieutenants requesting that the collective bargaining law be amended to include lieutenants also.

August 20, 1984 - The Personnel Committee held a worksession. The police sergeants and lieutenants contended that the Council is not abiding by the Charter language that authorizes collective bargaining for "police officers". Their claim is that sergeants and lieutenants are within the Charter's use of the term "police officers". Legal staff stated that research indicate that the Council has the authority to define "police officers" as long as the definition is rational and reasonable. (See circle 30).

September 18, 1984 - The Council acknowledged receipt of the petition of the police lieutenants.

October 1, 1984 - The Personnel Committee held another worksession. The Committee considered what ranks within the Police Department are considered supervisory in light of the National Labor Relations Act specifically excluding supervisory employees from bargaining units. A representative of the Police Association of Montgomery County stated that it is the belief of his organization that the supervisory line between management and labor can be drawn at the rank of captain. (See circles 26 and 32).

November 26, 1984 - The Personnel Committee held another worksession. The discussion on whether sergeants and lieutenants are supervisory employees continued. The representative of the Police Association stated that sergeants and lieutenants are a buffer between management and the labor force as they do not set policy but are charged with implementing it. A representative of the County Executive stated that the County Executive is opposed to bargaining rights for supervisors, but if the Council determined to grant those rights, the rights should be extended to a separate unit for sergeants and lieutenants. Chief Crooke stated his opinion that sergeants and lieutenants are part of management. He would prefer that they do not have collective bargaining rights but can understand why they have organized. Without objection, the Committee decided to send the issue to the Council for further consideration. (See the Personnel Committee minutes to be approved by the Council on December 18, which should be in your packets.)

MAIN ISSUE

Should there be legislation to give collective bargaining rights to Montgomery County police sergeants and lieutenants?

SUB-ISSUES

1. Is the Council required to include police sergeants and lieutenants in the collective bargaining law?

Apparently not. Case law holds that when a term is vague, a legislative body may define the term as long as the definition is reasonable and rational. In this case the Charter states that the "Council shall provide by law for collective bargaining with binding arbitration with an authorized representative of the Montgomery County police officers."

Because the Charter is not explicit as to what is meant by "police officers", the Council may determine what is meant. In this case, police officers with the rank of sergeant and above were excluded as being a part of management.

2. Are police sergeants and lieutenants supervisors?

A survey of local jurisdictions shows that all jurisdictions, except Montgomery County, include sergeants in their collective bargaining law (see circle 25) and half of those jurisdictions include lieutenants. A national survey shows that at least 54% of cities and counties provide for police supervisor bargaining rights. (See circle 13).

The Police Association states that management personnel are salaried and that non-management personnel are compensated by an hourly wage with overtime. A Police Department directive states that lieutenants and below are entitled to overtime. The Association believes that the Department directive defines management for compensation purposes as those who hold the rank of captain or above. (See circle 26).

According to the Personnel Department, the federal government has adopted a standard definition of a supervisor as anyone who has the authority to hire, fire, transfer, or promote or specifically recommend such actions.

The Police Department considers sergeants as the first level of supervisory personnel because they evaluate those of lesser rank.

The County Executive considers sergeants as first line supervisors who are responsible for directing the work force, maintaining discipline, evaluating subordinate personnel, and processing routine grievances, and may at times be the sole management representative on duty within a police districts. (See circle 2).

3. Does the new Charter amendment giving County employees collective bargaining rights define "supervisor"?

No, it does not. A similar problem may arise in enacting legislation implementing that Charter amendment. Consideration should be given as to whether granting collective bargaining rights to police sergeants and lieutenants would create an unwanted precedent.

FRATERNAL ORDER OF POLICE

Montgomery County Lodge 35, Inc.

October 17, 1983

Honorable David L. Scull
President
Montgomery County Council
County Office Building
100 Maryland Avenue
Rockville, Maryland 20850

Dear Mr. Scull:

As you know, in 1980 the voters of Montgomery County approved a referendum which required the Montgomery County Council to "provide by law for collective bargaining with binding arbitration with an authorized representative of the Montgomery County police officers." [Charter § 510].

In 1982, legislation was enacted pursuant to the Charter amendment. [Chapter 33, § 33-75, et seq., L.M.C., 1982]. However, this legislation provided for collective bargaining only for those police officers holding the rank of MPO II and below. Police officers of the rank of sergeant are not covered by any current collective bargaining legislation.

This situation is the subject of vital concern to at least 80% of the police sergeants employed by Montgomery County. Consequently, these sergeants have given me petitions addressed to the Council asking for collective bargaining rights pursuant to Charter § 510.

The purpose of this letter is to request that you afford me an opportunity to present these petitions to the council on behalf of the police sergeants of the Montgomery County Police Department.

Your consideration of this request is greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,

Walter E. Bader

ROCKVILLE, MARYLAND 20850

M E M O R A N D U M

February 17, 1984

TO: Myriam Bailey, Senior Attorney, Office of Legislative Counsel

FROM: Lewis T. Roberts, Chief Administrative Officer

SUBJECT: Police Sergeant Petition for Collective Bargaining Rights

You have requested that the Executive Branch provide background information relative to the decision to exclude sergeants from collective bargaining under the Police Labor Relations Law, which currently provides bargaining rights for sworn police officers below the rank of sergeant.

Formal labor relations with sworn police officers were first initiated in the County in June, 1977, with the certification of the Fraternal Order of Police to represent a unit of police officers in the ranks of Corporal and below. The Chief Administrative Officer established this unit based upon 33-65(d), Determination of employee units, of the County's Employer-Employee Relations Act which states:

> "Units for employees of the uniformed services shall be limited to employees in the ranks of Corporal or equivalent rank and below."

At that time, the rank of Corporal was the highest non-supervisory rank among the uniformed services (police, fire, corrections and sheriff). This language, therefore, effectively excluded supervisors in the uniformed services from participating in the meet and confer process.

The policy of excluding police supervisory personnel from formal participation in recognized employee organizations was carried over from the meet and confer process to collective bargaining. The shift from meet and confer to bargaining also increased the importance of insuring that proper management control was present in the workplace. Sergeants, as first line supervisors, are responsible for directing the workforce, maintaining discipline, evaluating subordinate personnel and processing routine grievances. In addition, there are times when the sergeant is the sole management representative on duty within a police district. Sergeants could not properly carry out these responsibilities if they were included in the existing police bargaining unit.

Participation by sergeants in the existing bargaining unit would create a divided loyalty. If sergeants were in the same unit as those whom they supervise they would be required to enforce the terms of an agreement which directly affects them. The enforcement of the agreement, as directed by management, may be viewed as having a negative impact on all members of the unit, including sergeants. Such a perception, by sergeants, would weaken management's enforcement capability. In addition, sergeants would be put in a conflicting position of enforcing contract provisions which may require action against a fellow union member. It is important, that supervisors in daily contact with the workforce, identify and remain loyal to management and its objectives.

An alternative to including sergeants in the existing unit is to provide a separate unit structure. If, however, the same union which represents the non-supervisory employees represented the sergeants, the observations enumerated above concerning divided loyalties would still apply. A separate unit structure will also diminish a sense of loyalty to management's objectives and create the potential for a rift between supervisors in the bargaining unit and those outside the unit. The bargaining process is adversarial, as a result it is difficult to maintain the loyalty necessary for the effective management of operations when supervisors are given bargaining rights in this process.

re: Collective Bargaining

Dear Mrs Gelman,

On December 18, 1983, Walt Bader presented you with petitions signed by 80% of the Montgomery County Police Sergeants asking for bargaining rights pursuant to Charter Section 510.

On January 23rd, 1984, you informed Walt and I that the petitions had been officially received by the Council and that you had instructed the Office of Legislative Council to research the issue to determine if legislation is needed in order to include in the Collective Bargaining law those persons who hold the rank of sergeant.

Subsequent to that letter, there have been several developments which caused me to ask Myriam Bailey to hold the project in abeyance. On April 9, 1984 a meeting of Montgomery County Police Sergeants and Lieutenants was held at which time those present voted to form a new Labor Organization to be known as the Alliance of Police Supervisors.

As a result of numerous inquiries from lieutenants, a petition drive was conducted of the lieutenants to determine if the lieutenants wished to join with the sergeants in asking for bargaining rights.

That drive is now complete. 25 of the 27 police lieutenants have signed the petitions asking for bargaining rights. I respectfully request that you afford me the opportunity to formally present these petitions to the Council, and further request that you direct Myriam Bailey to draft emergency legislation providing bargaining rights to police sergeants and lieutenants. As stated in previous communication, we are asking for emergency legislation because it is our belief that we are being illegally denied bargaining rights afforded to us by the County Charter, Section 510.

Sincerely,

Gary F. Smith
President

RE: Collective Bargaining

Dear Mrs Gelman,

After our brief telephone conversation last week, it is apparent that some clarification is needed regarding the petition presented to the council by Walt Bader on behalf of the Montgomery County Police sergeants.

The petition is a formal request from police officers of the rank of sergeant that collective bargaining rights be granted to them. The sergeants are not asking to be included in the existing bargaining unit. In fact, the overwhelming majority do not want to be included in that unit, but instead, wish to form a separate unit apart from the unit now in existence.

It is our position that the voters of Montgomery County granted us the right to bargain collectively when they approved a referendum to that effect in the last general election. That referendum granted collective bargaining and binding arbitration rights to all police officers in Montgomery County- not just officers below the rank of sergeant, as is the case at the present time. The sergeants are prepared to file suit, if necessary, to avail ourselves of the rights afforded us by the voters.

Our only purpose at this time is to require the council to comply with the dictates of the voter referendum. To that end, we request that emergency legislation be introduced at the earliest date amending the current police-labor relations law in a manner that grants sergeants the same rights afforded officers of lesser rank. We are asking that the action be considered emergency legislation since the current law illegally deprives us of a right afforded by the voters of Montgomery County.

We would appreciate hearing from you at the earliest date possible regarding this very important issue.

Sincerely,

Gary F. Smith

On behalf of the lieutenants I am formally presenting these petitions and am requesting that they be joined with the petitions previously presented to you by Walter Bader on behalf of the sergeants.

The attention of the Council to this matter is appreciated.

August 21, 1984

Honorable Esther P. Gelman
President
Montgomery County Council
100 Maryland Avenue
Rockville, Maryland 20850

Dear Mrs. Gelman:

As you are well aware, the Council Personnel Committee met on Monday, August 19, 1984, to consider petitions submitted to the County Council on January 10, 1984, on behalf of the majority of Montgomery County Police sergeants requesting that they be afforded collective bargaining rights. At that time, I promised to provide the committee with information concerning collective bargaining rights of police supervisors in Maryland, other states and the District of Columbia.

Please find enclosed two lists which demonstrate that other jurisdictions have provided for collective bargaining for police supervisors of various ranks. Of particular significance is the fact that Montgomery County is the only Maryland county which affords collective bargaining rights to non-supervisory police officers, but denies the same to supervisors.

I would now like to respond to the Chief Administrative Officer's February 17, 1984, memorandum to Myriam Bailey, Senior Attorney, Office of Legislative Counsel. The CAO advises that "[f]ormal labor relations with sworn police officers were first initiated in the County in June, 1977, with certification of the Fraternal Order of Police to represent a unit of police officers in the ranks of Corporal and below. The [former] Chief Administrative Officer established this unit based upon ... the County's Employer-Employee Relations Act which state[d] ... that 'units for employees of the uniformed services shall be limited to employees in the ranks of Corporal or equivalent rank and below.'" There is no disagreement with that statement, however, Mr. Roberts goes on to state that "[a]t that time, the rank of Corporal was the highest non-supervisory rank among the [police] ... therefore, [supervisors were] effectively excluded ... from participating in the meet and confer process." I disagree with this statement.

702 Russell Avenue, Suite 400-A Gaithersburg, Maryland 20877

(301) 948-4286

In 1977, many police corporals were in fact supervisors. They were assigned such traditional supervisory duties as evaluating subordinate work performance, assigning work, initiating disciplinary action, directing subordinate activity, etc. This rank was abolished in 1979 and replaced with the non-supervisory position of Master Police Officer I. At about the same time all corporals were afforded an opportunity to participate in a promotional process for the rank of sergeant. All former corporals who passed the examination process were promoted to sergeant.

Mr. Robert's hollow statement that "[s]ergeants could not properly carry out [their] responsibilities if they were included in the existing police bargaining unit" is lacking in sound reasoning. There is no basis whatever for this opinion. Sergeants have been represented by FOP Lodge 35 in employment matters under the existing merit system and grievance procedures for many years, without affecting their ability to execute any action. Furthermore, the immediate past president of FOP Lodge 35 was a police sergeant. Moreover, the sergeants are not now petitioning to have FOP Lodge 35 represent them under a collective bargaining law, as they have recently formed their own organization which is getting off the ground to represent their interests.

The CAO's argument that "[p]articipation by sergeants in the existing bargaining unit would create a divided loyalty" is an unfounded assumption. Even if this were to be accurate, the council is empowered to do what Baltimore City has done; that is to provide for two separate and distinct bargaining units, each having its own contract. I fail to see how there could be any more of "a negative impact" or a "conflict" under a collective agreement than ever existed when sergeants and below were covered under the same merit system and grievance procedure.

Mr. Roberts does propose an "alternative to including sergeants in the existing unit", i.e. "a separate unit structure". I see no objection to this proposal. However, his observations relative to having the same union represent a separate supervisors' unit are absolutely ludicrous and nothing more than an indication of anti-union sentiment. I hope that the Council will see through this transparent rhetoric.

I would ask the Personnel Committee to look more toward the immediate issues. These include the intent of the 1980 Charter Amendment [Charter Section 510] and the will of the voters; the equity factor; the experience in other jurisdictions; the desires of police supervisors; and, whether the Montgomery County Government is willing to sit down with its police supervisors to bargain over matters affecting their compensation, benefits, terms and conditions of employment, and working conditions. Other concerns, such as who would represent supervisors, can be addressed once a decision is made to enact legislation.

It is my hope that the Council will decide to provide collective bargaining rights to police supervisors in the near future. I think that once all the myths are shattered, it will be realized that the quality of police service in Montgomery County will not suffer (and may be enhanced) if these police officers are afforded those rights which they most certainly deserve.

Sincerely,

FRATERNAL ORDER OF POLICE

NOTES:

[1] These jurisdictions were selected from PERF material because bargaining units are readily distinguishable between supervisory and non-supervisory ranks. Many jurisdictions do not provide for separate bargaining units for supervisors and non-supervisors.

[2] Several States provide collective bargaining rights to police officers by state law. Maryland is not one of these states. [However, several Maryland Counties have local laws which provide for collective bargaining for police officers.]

MEMORANDUM

August 31, 1984

RECEIVED COUNCIL
84 SEP 4 P2:25

TO: Myriam Marquez Bailey, Senior Attorney
Office of Legislative Counsel

FROM: William P. Garrett
Personnel Director

SUBJECT: Information Request/Collective Bargaining for Police Sergeants and Lieutenants

This is a response to the Personnel Sub-Committee request for additional information relating to Police supervisor bargaining rights in other jurisdictions.

Attached please find copies of two surveys completed in 1978 and 1981 entitled Police Collective Bargaining Agreement-National Management Survey. These surveys resulted from a joint study by the National League of Cities and the Police Executive Research Forum. The information provided by Mr. Bader in his August 21st letter to Ms. Gelman is taken from the 1981 survey. I am providing you with the complete survey for both years as I believe it will give Council members a better understanding of police supervisor representation in collective bargaining units throughout the United States. Further, the 1978 survey gives a description of the bargaining unit of each of the cities surveyed. Although the surveys were conducted by the same organizations, they did not necessarly include the same cities and counties. Between the two surveys, the total number of cities and counties surveyed was 123, of that number it could be determined that at least 67 or 54% provided for police supervisor bargaining rights.

Information concerning the status of merit systems among the jurisdictions referenced above was not available. However, my Office did a complete survey of local jurisdications which is provided in Attachment 3. The survey of local jurisdications indicate that those jurisdications with collective bargaining for police supervisors also permit participation in the merit system by police officers. Where a conflict exists between the merit system and a negotiated agreement, the agreement prevails.

RECEIVED COUNCIL

84 SEP 27 A10: 42

September 27, 1984

Esther Gelman
Chairperson
Personnel Committee
Montgomery County Council
100 Maryland Avenue
Rockville, Maryland 20850

Dear Mrs Gelman,

I appreciated the opportunity to meet with the committee on August 13th, for the initial discussion on the subject of collective bargaining for sergeants and lieutenants. I remain hopeful that we can find a resolution to this problem that will be acceptable to both the Council and our members.

If you'll recall, much was made at the last meeting of the contention by Mr Hanna that sergeants and lieutenants are management personnel, and, thus, not entitled to bargaining rights. If the committee can accept the statement that, historically, management personnel have been salaried, and the labor force has been compensated by an hourly wage with overtime, then I believe the following information will be helpful.

Police Department Directive 82-56, titled OVERTIME COMPENSATION, states in part that sworn personnel of the rank of lieutenant and below shall be entitled to overtime compensation at the rate of time and a half, regardless of duty assignment. The directive states further that officers of the rank of captain and above are not entitled to overtime compensation in accordance with the County Personnel Regulations.

The Personnel Regulations For Merit System Employees, appendix to chapter 33, Montgomery County Code 1972, as amended December 2, 1980, Section 13, entitled Special Leave, states in paragraph 13.5 that employees in positions of Division Chief or higher, or equivelent ranks, shall not be entiteld to overtime compensation except for holidays, etc. The CAO is charged with the responsibility for deciding which supervisory employees are considered to be of a rank equivalent or higher than Division Chief.

It is clear to me, based on the Personnel Regulations and the Departmental Directive, that the County has defined management personnel for compensation purposes as those officers who hold the rank of Captain or higher. The appropriate sections of these documents are enclosed for your consideration. I hope you find them helpful.

I would also like to take this opportunity to clarify a statement I previously made to the Council. My letter to you dated March 28, 1984, stated the "... sergeants are prepared to file suit, if necessary, to avail ourselves of the rights granted us by the voters." Please be assured that my statement was not intended to be offensive or threatening in nature. My only purpose was to convey to you how strongly the sergeants feel about the subject of bargaining rights. Unfortunately, I feel that statement made our first meeting somewhat adverarial in nature. That was not my intent nor my desire. I am confident that we can work harmoniously and professionally now, just as I am confident we can bargain collectively in a professional manner in the future.

Thank you for your interest and be assured of our continued cooperation in this, and other matters of mutual interest.

Sincerely,

Gary F. Smith
President

ISSUES DISCUSSED & AGREEMENTS REACHED DURING COMMITTEE MEETING:

Re: Collective Bargaining Rights for Police Sergeants and Lieutenants

Senior Staff Attorney Myriam Bailey stated that police sergeants have requested, by petition, to be included in the collective bargaining law for police officers; police lieutenants are also requesting to be included in the law.

Mr. Fosler commented there is a legal question in that the sergeants and lieutenants contend that the County is not abiding by the Charter language that authorizes collective bargaining for all police officers. Responding to Mr. Fosler's question as to whether there is a legal opinion from the County Attorney, Ms. Bailey said there is not; however, the weight of legal opinion is that the County Council has the authority to define "police officers." The law is ambiguous in this regard.

Mr. Smith said that the sergeants and lieutenants are now in the process of forming a new labor organization known as the Alliance of Police Supervisors; membership is limited to sergeants and lieutenants. He characterized sergeants and lieutenants as supervisors, not managers as they do not write policy. Mr. Sherman said he agreed with that interpretation. Mr. Hanna said he does not believe sergeants and those above that rank should be included in collective bargaining as he considers them part of management. Mr. Fosler commented that there have to be members of management in order to bargain. Mr. Smith stated that the argument is that sergeants and lieutenants are included under the definition of "officers." Mr. Fosler asked whether that definition includes the police chief. Mr. Smith expressed the opinion that it is unreasonable to include all management and indicated that the wording of the Charter includes sergeants and lieutenants because it refers to all police officers. Responding to Mr. Fosler's question as to whether it is believed by the sergeants and lieutenants that the law should include the police chief, Mr. Smith answered in the negative. Mr. Smith stated that Prince George's County has sergeants and lieutenants in bargaining units.

Mr. Fosler commented that the County could deny collective bargaining for sergeants and lieutenants because the County considers them part of management. However, if these officers believe strongly that they should have additional bargaining rights, it suggests that there are problems with the system.

Mr. Sherman commented that the Charter authorized the Council to enact legislation providing for collective bargaining and allows the County to define the level of management. Reading from the Charter, Mr. Fosler commented that one organization will represent the police officers; it is not clear whether the Charter recognizes bargaining with more than one organization. Ms. Bailey commented there may be a related issue if the Charter amendment is passed granting County employees the right of collective bargaining.

Mr. Sherman suggested that additional information is needed concerning employees who have collective bargaining rights and whether they also have merit system rights.

The Committee agreed to allow three weeks for the staff to gather additional information on the issues discussed at the meeting.

ATTEST:

Kathleen A. Freedman

Kathleen A. Freedman, Acting Secretary of the County Council for
Montgomery County, Maryland

Minutes prepared by: Donna Brand

Re: Collective Bargaining Rights for Police Sergeants and Lieutenants

Ms. Bailey called the Committee's attention to the survey describing bargaining units in local jurisdictions and in other cities throughout the country.

Mr. Smith stated that it is the belief of his organization that the supervisory line between management and labor can be drawn at the rank of captain. He said those of the rank of sergeant or above are not entitled to compensation for overtime and similar benefits. Sergeant Scott said that one concern is that officers of lesser rank earn more money because they receive a shift differential.

Mr. Fosler said that the real question is whether the County is required to grant bargaining rights to all police officers. Mr. Sherman commented that the Charter amendment authorizes it but does not require it. He said this will be the subject of a memorandum forthcoming to the Committee within the week. Mr. Sherman indicated that there is a Charter amendment on the November ballot which, if approved, would bring all County employees under collective bargaining. It is his understanding that the police officers in question will be covered if the new amendment passes even if they are not covered now.

Mr. Fosler asked Mr. Garrett for his recommendations for establishing bargaining units for management and others if the Charter amendment becomes law. Mr. Garrett commented that one of the first tasks would be to separate the duties in order to determine areas of responsibility. Mr. Fosler expressed the opinion that it would be wise to consider some degree of compatibility between police officers and other departments in the County government.

Mr. Torgesen stated that the National Labor Relations Act specifically excludes supervisory employees from bargaining units. The standard definition of a supervisor is one who has the authority to hire, fire, transfer or promote or specifically recommend such actions. He said that the Federal government has adopted this as a rule of thumb.

Mr. Fosler suggested discussing the matter with police management to get a perspective in determining to what extent to include supervisory personnel in a bargaining unit.

Major Chaney said that he believes that colletive bargaining has become an issue for sergeants and lieutenants after the collective bargaining was negotiated with police officers who acquired certain benefits, including shift differential. He said the Police Department considers sergeants as the first level of supervisory personnel because they evaluate those of lesser rank.

Mr. Fosler commented that management has certain benefits that come with responsibilities; the question is whether the benefits match the responsibilities. Major Chaney commented that, if the sergeants and lieutenants organize, they will constitute most of the work force along with the rank and file. Mr. Smith commented that sergeants and lieutenants are just trying to establish the same bargaining rights as the other police officers. Mr. Hanna said he opposes the movement by the police sergeants and lieutenants to obtain bargaining rights. He expressed the view that the public could be at risk if the sergeants and lieutenants come under the collective bargaining provision because unhappiness with working conditions could prompt them to withhold services.

Mr. Fosler said that the issue of bargaining for police sergeants and lieutenants should be looked at carefully because if they feel the need to have bargaining rights, there must be some issues that are not being resolved to their satisfaction.

The Committee directed staff to schedule a meeting with police officials to discuss the issue further.

of the County Council for
Montgomery County, Maryland

Minutes prepared by: Donna Brand

ARTICLE V. POLICE LABOR RELATIONS.[1]

Sec. 33-75. Declaration of policy.

It is the public policy of this county, pursuant to charter section 510, enacted as a result of citizen initiative, and purpose of this article to promote a harmonious, peaceful and cooperative relationship between the county government and its police employees and to protect the public by assuring, at all times, the responsive, orderly and efficient operation of the police department. Since unresolved disputes in the police service are injurious to the public and to police employees as well, adequate means should be provided for preventing such unresolved disputes and for resolving them when they occur. To that end, it is in the public interest that police employees have the opportunity to bargain collectively over wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment through a representative of their choice or to refrain therefrom; and that any collective bargaining between the county government and a representative of those police employees be done in good faith with no interference with the orderly process of government and furthermore, that agreements reached through collective bargaining be implemented.

It is also recognized, however, that police employee organizations and the county government each possess substantial means by which they may initiate actions regarding the wages, hours and working conditions of employees. Consequently, in order to preserve an appropriate balance between labor and management in the police service, the council hereby declares that once a representative has been voluntarily selected, collective bargaining shall be utilized in place of, but not in addition to, existing means of initiating governmental action as to those subjects which are defined as appropriate for collective bargaining in this article. (1982 L.M.C., ch. 53, § 3.)

Sec. 33-76. Definitions.

When used in this article:

Agency shop means a provision in a collective bargaining agreement requiring, as a condition of continued employment, that bargaining unit employees pay a service fee not to exceed the monthly membership dues uniformly and regularly required by the employee organization of all of its members. An agency shop agreement shall not require the payment of initiation fees, an assessment, fines or any other collections or their equivalent, as a condition of continued employment.

To bargain collectively means to meet at reasonable times and places and to negotiate in good faith with respect to appropriate subjects as set out in subsection 33-80(a) of this article.

Certified representative means an employee organization selected in accordance with the procedures of this chapter to represent the unit.

Employee means any police officer in the classification of master police officer I, master police officer II, police officer I, police officer II, police officer III, and police officer candidate, or equivalent nonsupervisory classifications, but not those in the classification of police sergeant or any equivalent or higher classification.

Employer means the county executive and his designees.

Employee organization means any organization which admits to membership employees and which has as a primary purpose the representation of such employees in collective bargaining, and includes any person acting as an officer, representative or agent of said organization. Such organization shall not admit to membership any person other than law enforcement officers.

Lockout means any action taken by the employer to interrupt or prevent the continuity of work properly and usually performed by the employee for the purpose and with the intent of either coercing the employees into relinquishing rights guaranteed by this article or of bringing economic pressure on employees for the purpose of securing the agreement of their certified representative to certain collective bargaining terms.

Mediation means an effort by an impartial third party confidentially to assist in resolving, through interpretation, suggestion and advice, a dispute arising out of collective bargaining between the employer and the certified representative.

Strike means a concerted failure to report for duty, absence, stoppage of work, or abstinence in whole or in part from the full and faithful performance of the duties of employment with the employer, or deviation from normal or proper work duties or activities, where any of the preceding are done in a concerted manner for the purpose of inducing, influencing or coercing the employer in the determination, implementation, interpretation, or administration of terms or conditions of employment or of the rights, privileges, or obligations of employment or of the status, recognition or authority of the employee or an employee organization.

Unit means all employees. (1982 L.M.C., ch. 53, § 3.)

Sec. 33-77. Permanent umpire.

(a) There is hereby created the position of permanent umpire, so as to provide for the effective implementation and administration of sections 33-79 and 33-82 of this article concerning selection, certification and decertification procedures and prohibited practices. The permanent umpire shall exercise the following powers and perform the following duties and functions:

(1) Adopt, amend and rescind, from time to time, such rules, regulations and procedures for the implementation and administration of sections 33-79 and 33-82 as are consistent with this article;

(2) Request from the employer or any employee organization, and the employer or such organization may at its discretion provide, such relevant assistance, service and data as will enable the permanent umpire to properly carry out his functions;

(3) Hold hearings and make inquiries, administer oaths and affirmations, examine witnesses and documents, take testimony and receive evidence, and compel by issuance of subpoenas the attendance of witnesses and the production of relevant documents;

(4) Hold and conduct elections for certification or decertification pursuant to the provisions of this article and issue said certification or decertification;

(5) Investigate and attempt to resolve or settle, as provided in this article, charges of engaging in prohibited practices; however, if the employer and a certified representative have negotiated a valid grievance procedure, the permanent umpire must defer to that procedure for the resolution of disputes properly submissible to the procedure absent a showing that such deferral will result or has resulted in the application of principles repugnant to this article; furthermore, the permanent umpire shall defer to state procedures in those matters which are governed by the Law Enforcement Officers Bill of Rights, article 27, sections 727 et seq., Annotated Code of Maryland;

(6) Obtain any necessary support services and make necessary expenditures in the performance of duties to the extent provided for these purposes in the annual budget of Montgomery County; and

(7) Exercise any other powers and perform any other duties and functions as may be specified in sections 33-79 and 33-82 of this article.

(b) The permanent umpire shall be appointed by the county executive, with the confirmation of the county council, shall serve for a term of five years and shall be eligible for reappointment; provided, however, that the permanent umpire shall not be reappointed if, during the period between sixty days and thirty days prior to the expiration of his term, the certified representative files a written objection to such reappointment with the county executive. The permanent umpire shall be a person with experience as a neutral in the field of labor relations and shall not be a person who, on account of vocation, employment or affiliation, can be classed as a representative of the interests of the employer or any employee organization.

(c) The permanent umpire shall be paid a per diem fee as set forth by contract with the county and shall be reimbursed for necessary expenses. (1982 L.M.C., ch. 53, § 3.)

Sec. 33-78. Employee rights.

(a) Employees shall have the right:

(1) To form, join, support, contribute to, or participate in, or to refrain from forming, joining, supporting, contributing to, or participating in, any employee organization or its lawful activities; and

(2) To be fairly represented by their certified representative, if any.

(b) The employer shall have the duty to extend to the certified representative the exclusive right to represent the employees for the purposes of collective bargaining, including the orderly processing and settlement of grievances as agreed by the parties.

(c) A certified representative shall serve as the bargaining agent for all employees and shall have the duty to represent fairly and without discrimination all employees without regard to whether the employees are or are not members of the employee organization or are paying dues or other contributions to it or participating in its affairs; provided, however, that it shall not be deemed a violation of this duty for a certified representative to seek enforcement of an agency shop provision in a valid collective bargaining agreement.

(d) The right of the certified representative to receive membership dues deductions or agency shop provisions shall be determined through negotiations, unless the authority to negotiate such provisions has been suspended under section 33-84. No collective bargaining agreement may include a provision requiring membership in, participation in the affairs of, or contributions to an employee organization other than an agency shop provision. (1982 L.M.C., ch. 53, § 3.)

Sec. 33-79. Selection, certification and decertification procedures.

(a) The certification or decertification of an employee organization as the unit's representative for the purpose of collective bargaining shall be initiated in accordance with the following procedures:

(1) Any employee organization seeking certification as representative of the unit shall file a petition stating its name, address and its desire to be certified with the permanent umpire, and shall transmit forthwith a copy of such, not including the names of the supporting employees, to the employer. Said petition must contain the uncoerced signatures of thirty percent of the employees within the unit signifying their desire to be represented by the employee organization for purposes of collective bargaining.

(2) Where an employee organization has been certified, an employee within the unit may file a petition with the permanent umpire and shall transmit forthwith a copy of such to the employer and the certified representative, not including the names of the supporting employees, for decertification of the certified representative. The petition must contain the uncoerced signatures of at least thirty percent of the employees within the unit alleging that the employee organization presently certified is no longer the choice of the majority of the employees in the unit.

(3) The employer may file a petition with the permanent umpire seeking an election for certification of an employee organization or, where an employee organization is so certified, to cause decertification of the representative where the employer has reason to believe that the certified representative is not or is no longer the choice of the majority of the employees of the unit, and shall transmit a copy of such to the employee organization seeking to obtain or retain certification.

(4) Petitions may be filed between July 1, 1982, and July 31, 1982. Thereafter, petitions may be filed between September 1 and September 30 of any year, but no sooner than twenty-two months following an election held pursuant to this section.

(5) If a lawful collective bargaining agreement is in effect, no petition shall be entertained unless filed during September of the final year of the agreement.

(6) If, during the period of July 1 to July 31, 1982, a petition is filed by the incumbent representative of unit employees certified under the employer-employee relations article of this chapter, and no other employee organization files a valid petition, that incumbent certified representative shall be certified without an election, provided it produces evidence, acceptable to the permanent umpire, of majority representation.

(b) If the permanent umpire determines that a petition is properly supported and timely filed, the permanent umpire shall cause an election of all eligible employees to be held within a reasonable time, but no later than October 20 of that year, to determine if and by whom the employees wish to be represented, as follows:

(1) All elections shall be conducted under the supervision of the permanent umpire and shall be conducted by secret ballot at such time and place as the permanent umpire may direct. The permanent umpire may select and retain services of an agency of the State of Maryland, or similarly neutral body to assist in conducting the election.

(2) The election ballots shall contain, as choices to be made by the voter, the names of the petitioning or certified employee organization, the name or names of any other employee organization showing written proof at least ten days before the election of at least ten percent representation of the employees within the unit, and a choice that the employee does not desire to be represented by any of the named employee organization(s).

(3) The employer and each party to the election may be represented by observers selected in accordance with such limitations and conditions as the permanent umpire may prescribe.

(4) Observers may challenge for good cause the eligibility of any person to vote in the election. Challenged ballots shall be impounded pending either agreement of the parties as to the validity of such challenge or the permanent umpire's decision thereon, unless the number of challenges is not determinative, in which latter event the challenged ballot(s) shall be destroyed.

(5) After the polls have been closed, the valid ballots cast shall be counted by the permanent umpire in the presence of the observers.

(6) The permanent umpire immediately shall prepare and serve upon the employer and each of the parties a report certifying the results of the election. If, and only if, an employee organization has received the votes of a majority of the employees who voted, the permanent umpire shall certify the employee organization so elected as the exclusive agent. If no employee organization has received the votes of a majority of the employees, the permanent umpire shall certify no representative, but if a majority of the employees do not vote for no representation, a runoff election shall be conducted. The runoff election shall contain the two choices which received the largest and second largest number of votes in the original election.

(c) The aforesaid certification of results shall be final unless, within seven days after service of the report and certification, the employer or any other party serves on all parties and files with the permanent umpire objections to the election. Objections shall be verified and shall contain a concise statement of facts constituting the grounds thereof. The permanent umpire shall investigate the objections and, if substantial factual issues exist, the permanent umpire shall hold a hearing thereon. Otherwise, the permanent umpire may determine the matter without hearing. The permanent umpire may invite, either by rule or by invitation, written or oral argument to assist in determination of the merits of the objections. If the permanent umpire finds that the election was conducted in substantial conformity with this article, the permanent umpire shall confirm the certification initially issued. If the permanent umpire finds that the election was not held in substantial conformity with this article, the permanent umpire shall cause another election to be held pursuant to the provisions of this section.

(d) The cost of conducting an election shall be paid by the county.

(e) Voluntary recognition is prohibited under this article, and no certification may be issued without an election except as provided for in subsection 33-79(a)(6). (1982 L.M.C., ch. 53, § 3.)

Sec. 33-80. Collective bargaining.

(a) Upon certification of an employee organization, as provided in section 33-79, the employer and the said certified representative shall have the duty, through their designees, to bargain collectively with respect to those subjects as follows:

(1) Salary and wages, provided, however, that salaries and wages shall be uniform for all employees in the same classification;

(2) Pension and retirement benefits for active employees only;

(3) Employee benefits such as, but not limited to, insurance, leave, holidays and vacation;

(4) Hours and working conditions, including the availability and use of personal patrol vehicles;

(5) Provisions for the orderly processing and settlement of grievances concerning the interpretation and implementation of the collective bargaining agreement, which may include binding third party arbitration and provisions for exclusivity of forum;

(6) Matters affecting the health and safety of employees; and

(7) The effect on employees of the employer's exercise of rights enumerated in subsection (b) hereof.

(b) Employer rights. This article and any agreement pursuant hereto shall not impair the right and responsibility of the employer:

(1) To determine the overall budget and mission of the employer and any agency of county government;

(2) To maintain and improve the efficiency and effectiveness of operations;

(3) To determine the services to be rendered and the operations to be performed;

(4) To determine the overall organizational structure, methods, processes, means, job classifications or personnel by which operations are to be conducted and the location of facilities;

(5) To direct or supervise employees;

(6) To hire, select and establish the standards governing promotion of employees and to classify positions;

(7) To relieve employees from duties because of lack of work or funds, or under conditions when the employer determines continued work would be inefficient or nonproductive;

(8) To make and enforce rules and regulations not inconsistent with this law or a collective bargaining agreement;

(9) To take actions to carry out the mission of government in situations of emergency;

(10) To transfer, assign and schedule employees.

(c) Nothing contained in this article shall be construed to limit the discretion of the employer voluntarily to discuss with the representatives of its employees any matter concerning the employer's exercise of any of the enumerated rights set forth in subsection 33-80(b) above, but such matters shall not be subject to bargaining.

(d) Collective bargaining shall commence no later than November 1 preceding the beginning of a fiscal year for which there is no contract between the employer and the certified representative and shall be concluded on January 20. The resolution of an impasse in collective bargaining shall be completed by February 1. These time limits may be waived only by prior written consent of the parties.

(e) Any provision for automatic renewal or extension of a collective bargaining agreement shall be void. No agreement shall be valid if it extends for less than one year or for more than three years. All agreements shall become effective July 1 and end June 30.

(f) Any collective bargaining agreement shall become effective only after ratification of the agreement by the employer and the certified representative, except as provided in subsection 33-81(b)(7). A certified representative may provide its own rules for ratification procedures.

(g) A ratified agreement shall be binding on the employer and the certified representative, and shall be reduced to writing and executed by both parties. Any term or condition thereof which requires an appropriation of funds or enactment, repeal or modification of a county law shall be timely submitted to the county council by the employer; and the employer shall make a good faith effort to have such term or condition implemented by council action. On or before April 25, the county council shall indicate by a majority vote its intention to appropriate or otherwise implement the agreement, or its intention not to do so, and shall state its reasons for any intent to reject any part or parts of the agreement. In the event the council indicates its intention to reject, it shall designate a representative to meet with the parties and present the council's views in their further negotiations. This representative shall also participate fully in stating the council's position in any ensuing impasse procedure. The parties shall thereafter meet as promptly as possible in an attempt to negotiate an agreement acceptable to the council. Either of the parties may initiate the impasse procedure set forth in section 33-81. The results of the negotiation or impasse procedure shall be submitted to the council on or before May 10. Any agreement shall provide either for automatic reduction or elimination of such conditional wage and/or benefits adjustments if the council fails to take action necessary to implement the agreement, or if funds are not appropriated, or if a lesser amount is appropriated. (1982 L.M.C., ch. 53, § 3.)

Sec. 33-81. Impasse procedure.

(a) Prior to November 10 of any year in which the employer and a certified representative bargain collectively, they shall choose an impasse neutral either by agreement or through the processes of the American Arbitration Association. The impasse neutral shall be required to be available during the period from January 20 to February 1. Fees, costs and expenses of the impasse neutral shall be shared equally by the employer and the certified representative.

(b)(1) During the course of collective bargaining, either party may declare an impasse and request the services of the impasse neutral. If the parties have not reached agreement by January 20, an impasse shall be deemed to exist.

(2) Whenever an impasse has been reached, the dispute shall be submitted to the impasse neutral. The impasse neutral shall attempt mediation by bringing the parties together voluntarily under such favorable auspices as will tend to effectuate the settlement of the dispute.

(3) If the impasse neutral, in the impasse neutral's sole discretion, finds that the parties are at a bona fide impasse, the impasse neutral shall require each party to submit a final offer which shall consist either of a complete draft of a proposed collective bargaining agreement or a complete package proposal, as the impasse neutral shall choose. If only complete package proposals are required, the impasse neutral shall require the parties to submit jointly a memorandum of all items previously agreed upon.

(4) The impasse neutral may, in the impasse neutral's discretion, require the parties to submit evidence or make oral or written argument in support of their proposals. The impasse neutral may hold a hearing for this purpose at a time, date and place selected by the impasse neutral. Said hearing shall not be open to the public.

(5) On February 1 or prior thereto, the impasse neutral shall select, as a whole, the more reasonable, in the impasse neutral's judgment, of the final offers submitted by the parties. The impasse neutral may take into account only the following factors:

a. Past collective bargaining contracts between the parties, including the past bargaining history that led to such contracts, or the pre-collective bargaining history of employee wages, hours, benefits and working conditions;

b. Comparison of wages, hours, benefits and conditions of employment of similar employees of other public employers in the Washington Metropolitan Area and in Maryland;

c. Comparison of wages, hours, benefits and conditions of employment of other Montgomery County personnel;

d. Wages, benefits, hours and other working conditions of similar employees of private employers in Montgomery County;

e. The interest and welfare of the public;

f. The ability of the employer to finance economic adjustments and the effect of the adjustments upon the normal standard of public services by the employer.

(6) The impasse neutral shall not compromise or alter the final offer that he selects. Selection of an offer shall be based on the contents of that offer. No consideration shall be given to, nor shall any evidence or argument be received concerning the history of collective bargaining in this immediate dispute, including offers of settlement not contained in the offers submitted to the impasse neutral. However, the impasse neutral shall consider all previously agreed upon items integrated with the specific disputed items to determine the single most reasonable offer.

(7) The offer selected by the impasse neutral, integrated with the previously agreed upon items, shall be deemed to represent the final agreement between the employer and the certified representative, without the necessity of ratification by the parties, and shall have the force and effect of a contract voluntarily entered into and ratified as set forth in subsection 33-80(g) above. The parties shall execute such agreement. (1982 L.M.C., ch. 53, § 3.)

Sec. 33-82. Prohibited practices.

(a) The employer or its agents or representatives are prohibited from:

(1) Interfering with, restraining or coercing employees in the exercise of any rights granted to them under the provisions of this article;

(2) Dominating or interfering with the formation or administration of any employee organization or contributing financial or other support to it, pursuant to contract or otherwise; provided that the employer and a certified representative may agree to and apply a membership dues deduction provision as provided herein and to reasonable use of county facilities for communicating with employees;

(3) Encouraging or discouraging membership in any employee organization by discrimination in regard to hiring, tenure, wages,

(9) Causing or attempting to cause the employer to pay or deliver or agree to pay or deliver any money or other thing of value, in the nature of an exaction, for services which are neither performed or to be performed.

All charges shall contain a statement of facts sufficient to enable the permanent umpire to investigate the charge. The permanent umpire may request withdrawal of and, if necessary, summarily dismiss charges if they are insufficiently supported in fact or in law to warrant a hearing. The permanent umpire shall have authority to maintain such independent investigation as the permanent umpire determines necessary and to develop rules and regulations therefor. If, upon investigation, the permanent umpire finds that a charge is sufficiently supported to raise an issue of fact or law, the permanent umpire shall hold a hearing on such charge upon notification to the parties. In any hearing, charging parties shall present evidence in support of the charges and the party or parties charged shall have the right to file an answer to the charges, to appear in person or otherwise and to present evidence in defense of the charges.

Remedies of the permanent umpire may include, but shall not be limited to, reinstating employees with or without back pay, making employees whole for any loss relating to county employment suffered as a result of any prohibited practice, withdrawing or suspending the employee organization's authority to negotiate or continue membership dues deductions, or agency shop benefits. Sec. 33-83. Expression of views.

The expression of any views, argument or opinion, or the dissemination thereof, whether orally, in writing or otherwise, shall not constitute or be evidence of a prohibited practice under any of the provisions of this law nor be grounds for invalidating any election conducted under this law if such expression or dissemination contains no threat of reprisal or promise of benefit. (1982 L.M.C., ch. 53, § 3.)

Sec. 33-84. Strikes and lockouts.

(a) No employee or employee organization shall either directly or indirectly cause, instigate, encourage, condone or engage in any strike, nor the employer in any lockout. COUNTY COUNCIL FOR MONTGOMERY COUNTY, MARYLAND

IN LEGISLATIVE SESSION

Tuesday, March 19, 1985 Rockville, Md.

The County Council for Montgomery County, Maryland, convened in Legislative Session in the Council Hearing Room, Stella B. Werner Council Office Building, Rockville, Maryland, at 9:58 A.M. on Tuesday, March 19, 1985.

PRESENT

Michael L. Gudis, President
William E. Hanna, Jr., Vice President
Neal Potter, President Pro Tem
Scott Fosler
Rose Crenca
David L. Scull
Esther P. Gelman

The President in the Chair.

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS:

Re: Introduction of Bill No. 9-85. Collective Bargaining for Police Sergeants

The Council had before it for introduction Bill No. 9-85.

Councilwoman Gelman briefed the Council concerning the history of the proposed legislation. She referred to Section 510 of the Montgomery County Charter which provided the enabling authority for collective bargaining legislation for County police officers. She said the question that has been raised is whether sergeants in the police force are part of management and therefore ineligible for collective bargaining. The County Council enacted legislation in 1982 defining "police officer" to include only officers of the rank of corporal and below. Both sergeants and lieutenants of the police force have said they have suffered under this ruling; however, she has reached the conclusion that lieutenants are definitely part of management. She said that the subject bill would provide for collective bargaining for police sergeants and would allow them to form a separate collective bargaining unit.

Councilman Hanna said that he is opposed to this legislation. He said that the County Executive, the Police Chief, and he agree that police sergeants are part of management. He believes that placing them in a bargaining unit will destroy the management structure. He believes the line is properly drawn now at the corporal level and urged the Council not to proceed with this bill.

Councilman Fosler said that, beyond the issue of whether collective bargaining should be granted to police sergeants, there is the broader issue in government management involving mid-level management positions. The Council needs to address the question of the most effective way to handle the question of collective bargaining as it relates to police officers within the Police Department and other employees in County agencies at the mid-management level. In doing this, the Council also needs to recognize the burdens placed on the mid-level management positions. Whatever action the Council takes with respect to this legislation will have a long standing effect on the Police Department and have implications on and be precedent setting for the rest of the County management in the future.

Councilman Scull directed attention to Section 511 of the County Code which provides enabling authority for legislation for collective bargaining for County employees other than employees of the Police Department. He expressed the view that consideration should be given to whether sergeants and other police officers not covered by the collective bargaining legislation for police officers should be considered under a broader County collective bargaining law which is provided for in Section 511. He suggested that the Council might wish to defer the scheduling of a public hearing on this bill to provide the opportunity for examining other options. He does not believe it is urgent to act on the subject legislation at this time; therefore, it would be more appropriate to consider it in connection with the larger subject of collective bargaining for other County employees.

Councilwoman Crenca said that, in reading the background material and the technical data provided, she has reached the conclusion that the subject legislation should be submitted to the Compensation Task Force for its review. She noted that the subject bill has a bearing on what the Compensation Task Force is discussing.

Councilwoman Crenca moved, duly seconded, to submit the bill to the Compensation Task Force for consideration.

Councilman Potter expressed the view that comments from the Compensation Task Force would be helpful.

Councilman Fosler said that he believes the suggestion is a good one. The Compensation Task Force considers principles the Council should apply in determining how County employees should be paid. The bill proposes to extend collective bargaining into management ranks and he believes that this could substantially alter the entire compensation system of the County government; therefore, it would be useful to have the comments of the Compensation Task Force.

Councilwoman Gelman agreed that the Compensation Task Force should examine the subject legislation. She said that if the Task Force believes this is outside of its purview, it will so inform the Council. She noted, however, that the Task Force is attempting to complete its work and has been somewhat disheartened because of some expressions of impatience with the pace of its work, which has resulted in actions being taken which conflict with the Task Force findings. She believes if the Council values the assistance it is receiving from the Task Force, it will exercise patience and allow the Task Force the time to accomplish the work it is given.

Councilman Potter requested clarification concerning the broader connotation of Section 511 as it relates to the subject bill.

Councilman Scull said that Section 510 is more restrictive than Section 511. He said that it is incumbent on the Council to consider other employees in any collective bargaining law it enacts. There is more flexibility in Section 511, which provides a different impasse procedure than binding arbitration. With respect to submitting this to the Compensation Task Force, Mr. Scull said that he believes it would be useful to receive its comments. He believes the Council should ask the Compensation Task Force if it wishes to comment, but he recalls that the Compensation Task Force did not wish to address the way job benefits and pay are determined. He recalled that when the Council reviewed the collective bargaining Charter amendment last year, it did not refer it to the Compensation Task Force. There was some discussion about it then, and it was decided to proceed with the structural question. He said that if the Compensation Task Force is requested to provide comments on the subject legislation, he would like this request to be extended to comments on legislation to be introduced in the near future under the provisions of Section 511.

Councilman Potter expressed the view that legislation under Section 511 might be too broad to encompass the objectives of the subject legislation.

Councilman Fosler said that he does not believe the Compensation Task Force should review all the mechanics of collective bargaining because it is complex and involves more than compensation. However, the Council should ask them to examine the extension of collective bargaining to County employees. He said it is understandable that the Compensation Task Force has taken longer than anticipated because of the many issues it had to address. Because the Task Force has taken that long, it has brought interim findings to the Council and the Council has acted on them. He noted that one example of this is the disability legislation. He said that another important part of the Compensation Task Force's work is the issue of comparable worth. A report has been provided to the Council on this subject, and he believes the Council should act on comparable worth as a separate issue in the same manner it did on disability.

President Gudis said that he will vote against the motion to submit the subject legislation to the Task Force because he believes the Task Force is attempting to complete its work.

Councilman Fosler proposed an amendment to Councilwoman Crenca's motion to include the point raised by Mr. Scull to request that the Compensation Task Force examine the broader issues of collective bargaining for all employees. Councilwoman Crenca indicated her acceptance of the amendment if it is interpreted to mean that the Compensation Task Force will not be obliged to comment.

President Gudis voting in the negative, the Council adopted Ms. Crenca's motion.

Upon motion of Councilwoman Crenca, duly seconded and without objection, the Council voted to waive the reading of the title of Bill No. 9-85.

Bill No. 9-85, sponsored by Councilwoman Gelman, was introduced. The title of the bill is set forth below:

AN ACT to include police sergeants in collective bargaining under the Police Labor Relations Law, by amending Chapter 33, Personnel, Section 33-76, Montgomery County Code.

Re: Introduction of Bill No. 10-85. Appointment of Director of Animal Control and Humane Treatment

The Council had before it for introduction Bill No. 10-85.

Councilwoman Crenca requested and received information concerning the effect of this legislation on the incumbent Director of the Department of Animal Control and Humane Treatment who is presently a Merit System employee.

Upon motion of Councilman Scull, duly seconded and without objection, the Council voted to waive the reading of the title of Bill No. 10-85.

Bill No. 10-85, sponsored by the Council President at the request of the County Executive, was introduced. The title of the bill is set forth below:

AN ACT to designate the Director of the Department of Animal Control and Humane Treatment as an appointee of the County Executive, by amending Chapter 2, Administration, Section 2-58C of the Montgomery County Code.

SUBJECT: Introduction: Emergency Bill 2-88, Collective Bargaining - Pensions

Emergency Bill 2-88, Collective Bargaining - Pensions, is scheduled to be introduced on January 19, 1988 by Councilmember Hanna. It eliminates pensions and retirement benefits from the mandatory subjects for collective bargaining. The Personnel Committee held a worksession on this legislation on December 7, 1987, and voted 2-1 not to recommend it.

If this bill were enacted, it would need a transition provision making it clear that bargaining currently in progress on pension issues would be terminated when the bill takes effect -- or, conversely, that any bargaining in progress would be allowed to take its course before this bill takes effect.

COUNTY COUNCIL FOR MONTGOMERY COUNTY, MARYLAND

PERSONNEL COMMITTEE

Monday, December 7, 1987
2:10 to 2:50 P.M.
Council Hearing Room

PRESENT

Isiah Leggett, Chairman
William E. Hanna, Jr. Michael L. Subin

SUBJECT: Bill No. 39-87. Trial Retirement for Certain County Government Employees

The Committee had before it a memorandum, packet date December 7, 1987, with attachments, from Senior Legislative Attorney Faden, outlining the issues with regard to Bill No. 39-87.

Mr. Hanna addressed the issues raised at the public hearing by Mr. Garrett, Director, Personnel Office, including the advisability of enacting the bill at a time when negotiations are about to begin with the union on pension issues, the adequacy of present regulations relating to noncompetitive appointments of employees who retire, the possibility of employee manipulation of the provision for the purposes of taking unscheduled vacations or sabbaticals, and possible strain on the personnel system created by retirees returning to work after the trial period.

Mr. Hanna pointed out the benefits of a trial retirement period. He said that providing the employee with the opportunity to retire on a trial basis eliminates the stress which usually accompanies an irrevocable decision to retire. He said that retirement benefits would be adjusted based on the benefits received during the trial period, should the individual return to work.

Responding to Mr. Leggett's concern that a large number of employees may decide to exercise the option to return, Mr. Hanna said that experience indicates that only a small number of people return to work during the trial period.

Mr. Subin noted his support of the bill, stating that studies indicate there is considerable stress associated with retirement decisions, and he expressed the view that the administrative issues which have been raised can be easily addressed.

ACTION: Recommended approval of Bill No. 39-87.

SUBJECT: Draft Bill: Collective Bargaining--Pensions

Mr. Hanna explained the proposed bill which would eliminate pension and retirement benefits from the mandatory subjects for collective bargaining, and he cited instances where the financial security of an organization has been undermined because of the cost of funding pension plans. He expressed the view that all employees should receive the same pension benefits which will not be the case if these benefits are subject to the collective bargaining process. He also noted that a single pension plan for all employees is more easily administered than several.

Mr. Rogers, Personnel Office, advised the Committee of the County Executive's opposition to the bill. He said that negotiations have been completed with the Fraternal Order of Police and that negotiations are beginning with Local 400 on pension issues. He noted that the present system is working successfully. Since there were different understandings among those present of the Executive's position, Mr. Leggett suggested that Mr. Rogers clarify the Executive's position for the record prior to Council consideration of the bill.

Mr. Subin pointed out that last year the Council, Executive, and union agreed to defer resolution of the pension issues until a complete review of the issues was conducted, and he expressed the view that it was inappropriate to consider a change in that agreement now that it is coming to closure. He expressed confidence in the County's bargaining team as well as the bargaining team for the union and said he believed that the issues will be successfully resolved. He noted that the agreements reached by the Executive are not binding on the Council if it does not wish to accept them. With regard to the financial issues, Mr. Subin said that the Board of Investment Trustees was established to manage the retirement funds and, if the County continues to appoint diligent members to the Board, he does not believe there is reason to be concerned about Montgomery County's financial security.

ACTION: Requested Mr. Garrett to provide updated information concerning the study being conducted by the Office of Management and Budget on pension issues.

Recommended against approval of the bill, Mr. Hanna voting in the negative.

Agreed to bring the bill before the Council with a negative Committee recommendation.

Re: Bill 29-94 - Binding Arbitration

Dear Ike:

We are greatly appreciative of your support for binding arbitration and are well aware that Bill 29-94 is on a fast track.

With that in mind, we have met with county labor relations representatives and with Mr. Duncan personally. As a result of those meetings we have reached an agreement with Mr. Duncan to forego binding arbitration for this current bargaining cycle in favor of working together to formulate a completely separate and more comprehensive bargaining law for fire fighters.

We are convinced that Mr. Duncan will work with us so that together we can submit a joint legislative request to the Council that will hopefully provide a more meaningful and productive bargaining process.

For this reason, I request that Bill 29-94 be set aside pending what I expect to be a joint submission for amendment by Mr. Duncan and Local 1664. If you have any questions on this issue please don't hesitate to call. In any case, I would appreciate your response.

ARTICLE XV. SERVICE CONTRACTS.

11B-67. Approval of service contract.

(a) A County government department, office, or agency may enter into a service contract only if the contract is approved under this Article.

(b) Except as provided in subsection (c), a service contract may be entered into only after the Chief Administrative Officer certifies to

(1) the service contract is exempt under Section 11B-68(b); or

(2) the service contract complies with Section 11B-68(c).

(c) If the County Council authorizes or requires that an independent contractor perform certain services for it, a service contract may be approved for those services without the certification required by subsection (b).

11B-68. Certifications by the Chief Administrative Officer.

(3) the nature of the function or service meets the requirement for emergency purchase of temporary functions or services;

(4) the function or service is incidental to the purchase or lease of personal or real property, such as a service agreement associated with the purchase or rental of computers or office equipment; or

(5) a clear need exists to obtain an unbiased finding or opinion, such as an expert witness in litigation.

(c) The Chief Administrative Officer may certify a service contract which is not exempt under subsection (b) only if:

(1) the contract has complied with Section 11B-69; and

(2) the Chief Administrative Officer finds that:

(D) the contract complies with all requirements of this Article and any regulations adopted under it.

11B-69. Information regarding proposed non-exempt service contracts.

(2) The cost comparison required by this subsection must include:

(A) direct costs, including fringe benefits;

(B) indirect overhead costs, including the proportional share of existing administrative salaries and benefits, rent, equipment costs, utilities, and materials, but only to the extent that those costs are attributed solely to the service or function in question and would not exist if the service or function were not performed by County employees;

(C) any continuing or transitional costs directly associated with contracting for the service or function, including unemployment compensation and the cost of transitional services; and

(D) additional costs of performance of the service or function by County employees, including salaries and benefits of additional staff and the cost of additional space, equipment, and materials needed to perform the service or function.

(c) Plan of assistance. A formal proposed plan of assistance for all County employees who will be adversely affected by the service contract, which must include:

(1) efforts to place affected employees in vacant positions in the same or another unit of government;

(2) provisions in the service contract, if feasible, for hiring by the contractor of displaced employees; and

(3) prior notification to affected employees 6 months before each adverse effect will occur.

Any issue regarding the negotiability of any bargaining proposal must be referred to the Labor Relations Administrator for an expedited determination.

(2) This dispute [shall] must be submitted to the mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator whenever an impasse has been reached, or [before that] as provided in subsection (e)(1). The mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator [shall] must engage in mediation by bringing the parties together voluntarily under such favorable circumstances as will [tend to bring about the] encourage settlement of the dispute.

(3) If [and when] the mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator finds, in [his] the mediator/arbitrator's sole discretion, that the parties are at a bona fide impasse, [he shall implement the following fact-finding process:] or as of February 15 when an impasse is automatically reached, whichever occurs earlier, the dispute must be submitted to binding arbitration.

[(a.) He shall require the parties to submit jointly a memorandum of all items previously agreed upon, and separate memoranda of their proposals on all items not previously agreed upon.]

(f)(1) If binding arbitration of the parties' dispute is invoked, the mediator/arbitrator must require each party to submit a final offer, which must consist either of a complete draft of a proposed collective bargaining agreement or a complete package proposal, as the mediator/arbitrator directs. If only complete package proposals are required, the mediator/arbitrator must require the parties to submit jointly a memorandum of all items previously agreed on. The final offer submitted by each party must separately identify economic and non-economic proposals. Economic proposals must include salary and wages, pension and other welfare benefits, such as health insurance. The mediator/arbitrator must decide any issue regarding whether a particular proposal is economic or non-economic.

[(b.)] (2) [He] The mediator/arbitrator may require the parties to submit oral or written evidence [or make oral or written] and arguments in support of their proposals. [He] The mediator/arbitrator may hold a hearing for this purpose at a time, date, and place selected by [him] the mediator/arbitrator. This hearing [shall] must not be open to the public.

[(c.)] (3) On or before [February] March 1, the mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator [shall] must issue a report of [his] findings of fact and recommendations on those matters still in dispute between the parties. The report [shall] must be submitted to the parties but [shall] must not be made public at this time.

[(d.)] (4) In making [findings of fact and recommendations] this determination, the mediator/[fact-finder] arbitrator may [take into account] consider only the following factors:

[(i)] (A) Past collective bargaining agreements between the parties, including the past bargaining history that led to the agreements, or the pre-collective bargaining history of employee wages, hours, benefits, and working conditions.

[(ii)] (B) Comparison of wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of similar employees of other public employers in the Washington Metropolitan Area and in Maryland.

(iii) Comparison of wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of other Montgomery County personnel.

[(iv)] (D) Wages, benefits, hours, and other working conditions of similar employees of private employers in Montgomery County.

[(v)] (E) The interest and welfare of the public.

[(vi)] (F) The ability of the employer to finance economic adjustments, and the effect of the adjustments upon the normal standard of public services provided by the employer.

[(f) After receiving the report of the mediator/fact-finder, the parties shall meet again to bargain. If 10 days after the parties receive the report they have not reached full agreement, or if either party does not accept, in whole or in part, the recommendations of the mediator-fact-finder, the report of the mediator-fact-finder, with recommendations on agreed items deleted, shall be made public by sending it to the Council. The mediator/fact-finder shall also send the Council the joint memorandum of items agreed upon, up-dated with any items later agreed upon. The parties shall also send to the Council separate memoranda stating their positions on matters still in dispute.]

[(g) The budget that the employer submits to the Council shall include the items that have been agreed to, as well as the employer's position on matters still in dispute. Any agreed or disputed term or condition submitted to the Council that requires an appropriation of funds, or the enactment, repeal, or modification of any County law or regulation, or which has or may have a present or future fiscal impact, may be accepted or rejected in whole or in part by the Council. Such terms or conditions shall be identified to the Council by either or both parties. The employer shall make a good faith effort to have the Council take action to implement any term or condition to which the parties have agreed.]

[(h) The Council may hold a public hearing to enable the parties and the public to testify on the agreement and the recommendations for resolving bargaining disputes.]

[(i) On or before May 1, the Council shall indicate by resolution its intention to appropriate funds for or otherwise implement the items that have been agreed to or its intention not to do so, and shall state its reasons for any intent to reject any items of the kind specified in subsection (g) that have been agreed to. The Council shall also indicate by resolution its position on disputed matters which could require an appropriation of funds or enactment, repeal, or modification of any County law or regulation, or which have present or future fiscal impact.]

[(j) Then the Council shall designate a representative to meet with the parties and present the Council's views in the parties' further negotiation on disputed matters and/or agreed upon matters that the Council has indicated its intention to reject. The results of the negotiation, whether a complete or a partial agreement, shall be submitted to the Council on or before May 10. Any agreement shall provide for automatic reduction or elimination of wage and/or benefits adjustments if:

(1) The Council does not take action necessary to implement the agreement, or a part of it; or

(2) Sufficient funds are not appropriated for any fiscal year in which the agreement is in effect.

Discussed the time table of the aforementioned project identified on page ©26 of OLO Staff's packet, the selection process for appointment to the Resource Committee, and the role of the Committee; noted the importance of informing applicants applying for membership on the Resource Committee of the commitment that will be expected; and agreed that the resolution will be clarified to indicate that the Council appoints the members of the Resource Committee.

Noted the request of Councilmember Subin that the Resource Committee should be given an official monitoring and tracking role in the process to assure the citizens that action is being taken in the interim while research is being conducted.

Received comments from Staff of the Police Department related to the project; and comments from Mr. Nix, interested citizen, related to his opposition to the scope of the project, the establishment of a Resource Committee, and his request to establish a relationship between the citizens and the Police Department. Noted the comments of Ms. Plummer, President, Montgomery County Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, on the scope of the project, and her concern regarding the operations of the Office of Internal Affairs and the need for an additional forum to be held, and her desire for a civilian review board to be established in Montgomery County.

Agreed that the language in Project #4 may require additional modification.

Continued review of the OLO projects, and noted Councilmember Hanna's opposition to Project 6, A Study of Extending Employee Benefits to Domestic Partners, and Councilmember Praisner's concern that identifying specific examples of other programs could lead to the development of a model. Agreed that if the Council approves the binding arbitration provisions of the bill, it be amended to reinstate the Council's role in the process.

Recommended disapproval of the bill.

Agreed that if the Council does not disapprove Bill 45-97, it be remanded to the Committee for further consideration of the amendments, noting that the Committee did not have the opportunity to review the details of the legislation.

SUBJECT: Bill 43-97, Cable Communications – Franchise Procedures

The Committee had before it the memorandum from Legislative Attorney Cogan, dated July 28, 1998, providing background information and issues for discussion related to the subject bill.

ACTION: Noted that the Committee previously agreed to delete the language under Section 8A-9(F)(2) which was not intended as a substantive change but was subsumed within the five items under (e) or the two additional items under (f), and that the County has the ability to determine the effect on the existing franchisee's operations or service when an applicant proposes to overbuild an existing cable system.

AGENDA ITEM 14

MEMORANDUM

TO: County Council

FROM: Michael Faden, Senior Legislative Attorney

SUBJECT: Action: Bill 45-97, Collective Bargaining - Amendments

Management and Fiscal Policy Committee recommendation (3-0): disapprove Bill 45-97.

For details on the bill and issues it raises, see the attached Committee packet.

At its July 30 worksession, the Management and Fiscal Policy Committee separately considered both parts of Bill 45-97, the service contract provision and the collective bargaining amendments. No representative of the Municipal & County Government Employees Organization (MCGEO), whose attorneys originally drafted Bill 45-97, attended the worksession, and Executive branch representatives attended only to serve as technical resources. With respect to each part, the Committee voted unanimously to recommend disapproval.

With respect to the service contract provision, Committee members expressed strong reservations about the detailed procedures that the bill mandates, and the opportunities for extended litigation and delay of government procurements that would ensue. Committee members agreed that much of what the bill seeks to do could be accomplished under current laws and procedures without the excessive restrictions that it calls for.

With respect to the collective bargaining amendments, Committee members opposed extending binding arbitration to non-public safety employees. Councilmember Potter emphasized that binding arbitration generally diminishes the willingness of employee organizations to reach agreement.

The Committee did not have the opportunity at its worksession, because other items took more time than anticipated, to review the detailed collective bargaining amendments in Bill 45-97, several of which (in addition to binding arbitration) would make very significant changes in the current bargaining process. If the Council does not reject this bill as the Committee recommends, but rather approves either or both parts of it in concept, the Committee recommends that the Council remand the bill to it to further consider the specific amendments, after providing any direction the Council finds appropriate.

In any case, if the Council is inclined to approve the binding arbitration provisions, they should be amended to reinstate the Council's approval power over the resulting collective bargaining agreement. This can be done in "quick and dirty" fashion by deleting all brackets from ©18, line 292 to ©20, line 331; moving ©20, lines 332-340 to ©18, line 292; and relettering subsections accordingly.

CALL OF BILLS FOR FINAL READING

SUBJECT: Bill 33-97, Building Permits - Notice

The Council had before it the memorandum from Senior Legislative Analyst Faden, dated August 4, 1998, containing background information, and attaching the subject bill.

Mr. Faden stated that the Planning, Housing, and Economic Development (PHED) Committee recommends approval of the subject bill with amendments. He directed attention to line 83 of the bill, stating that the bill should be further amended to delete on line 83 the number and words [30 days after].

ACTION: Adopted the following amendments as reflected in the bill:

ACTION: Enacted Bill 22-98, as amended by recommendation of the Public Safety Committee, by a roll call vote:

YEAS: Subin, Dacek, Berlage, Ewing, Praisner, Potter, Krahnke, Hanna, Leggett.

SUBJECT: Bill 45-97, Collective Bargaining Amendments

The Council considered the memorandum from Mr. Faden, dated August 4, 1998, providing background information and informing the Council that the bill requires binding arbitration of collective bargaining agreements for County employees; requires the County to bargain with employee representatives before contracting with private parties to provide certain services or assume certain functions; repeals certain provisions governing the role of the County Council in the collective bargaining process; and modifies several other provisions governing collective bargaining with County employees.

Councilmember Potter, Lead Councilmember for Personnel, MFP Committee, presented the Committee's report, stated that the Committee believed that the service contract provision in the bill provided opportunities for extended litigation and delay of government procurements, and agreed that much of what the bill would do could be accomplished under current law and procedures. With respect to the requirements in the bill that provisions be added in the service contract for hiring displaced employees by the contractor, and for six months advance notice to affected employees, Mr. Potter expressed the view that these provisions are generally provided for under existing County procedures. Commenting on the issue of binding arbitration, Councilmember Potter expressed the view that this provision makes it more difficult to bring people together and reach mutual agreements. The provision would delete the Council's authority to approve or reject a collective bargaining agreement submitted by the County Executive. Mr. Potter said that the MFP Committee recommended disapproval of the subject bill on the basis that the provisions in the bill are not sound.

Councilmember Praisner stated that the MFP Committee had planned to review all of the provisions included in the legislation and propose language changes, but because of a busy schedule, there was insufficient time to have such a review. However, the Committee included the recommendation that the Council send the bill back to the Committee for review of all of the provisions if the Council should reject the Committee's recommendation and be inclined to enact the bill.

Councilmember Berlage said that the provision for binding arbitration would be an extension of the system that already exists for some County employees. He said that he would be ready to vote on the binding arbitration portion of the legislation today, but agrees that the service contract provisions need more work. Mr. Berlage suggested that the separate votes could be taken on the two parts of the bill, the binding arbitration provision, and the service contract provisions, and depending upon the outcome of the votes, one or both of the two parts of the bill could be returned to the MFP Committee for extensive review.

Councilmember Subin expressed the view that binding arbitration will result eventually in a reasonable resolution. He said that the processes work well for the Fraternal Order of Police and he believes it will work well for the International Association of Fire Fighters. Mr. Subin said that binding arbitration will ensure that agreements are reached through modification and consultation.

Councilmember Ewing moved, duly seconded, a substitute motion to separate the service contract provisions from the remainder of the bill and send the remainder of the bill back to the Committee for extensive review in order that the binding arbitration issues can be fully addressed. Ms. Ewing suggested that the Committee begin its review by addressing Section 2 of the bill, beginning on page 4 of Mr. Faden's memorandum.

Councilmember Hanna expressed opposition to Ms. Ewing's motion, stating that he sees no reason for it. He noted that the MFP Committee has unanimously recommended disapproval of the bill. In his opinion, unless one of the major provisions of the bill would be approved by the Council, it would not be worthwhile to return it to the Committee. He said that he believes there are three parts to the subject bill: the service contracts, privatization, and binding arbitration.

ACTION: Defeated Councilmember Ewing's substitute motion:

YEAS: Subin, Ewing, Leggett
NAYS: Praisner, Potter, Krahnke, Hanna, Dacek.
ABSENT: Berlage (temporarily).

Disapproved Bill 45-97

by recommendation of the MFP Committee, by a roll call vote:

YEAS: Dacek, Praisner, Potter, Krahnke, Hanna
NAYS: Subin, Ewing, Leggett
ABSENT: Berlage (temporarily).

President Leggett announced that Councilmember Berlage was temporarily absent for the vote on the bill due to a family emergency.

The meeting adjourned at 12:04 P.M.

Introduction

MEMORANDUM

TO: County Council

FROM: Michael Faden, Senior Legislative Attorney

SUBJECT: Introduction: Bill 2-06, Collective Bargaining – County Employees - Fact Finding

Bill 2-06, Collective Bargaining – County Employees - Fact Finding, sponsored by the Council President at the request of the County Executive, is scheduled to be introduced on February 7, 2006. A public hearing is tentatively scheduled for March 7 at 1:30 p.m.

The central feature of Bill 2-06 would insert issue-by-issue fact-finding as an interim step before the Executive and the County employees' union submit their final offers on unresolved issues to the mediator/arbitrator. In Council staff's view this change would move the collective bargaining process from the current last-best-offer, total package arbitration much closer to issue-by-issue arbitration, which the County government has previously resisted.

Bill 2-06 would also shift an estimated 163 temporary, seasonal, and substitute employees from their limited scope bargaining unit to the regular County employees bargaining unit (see memo's from Carol Rollins of OHR on ©13-14), slightly modify the bargaining calendar, and exempt certain confidential employees from the bargaining unit.

(2) A temporary, seasonal, or substitute employee who is excluded from the definition of "employee" under Section 33-102(4)(H) because the employee is not in an occupational class in which one or more of the incumbents are [predominantly] career merit system employees becomes a limited-scope member of the applicable bargaining unit immediately after the employee begins employment if:

33-107. Collective bargaining.

(a) Duty to bargain; matters subject to bargaining. Upon certification of an employee organization, the employer and the certified representative have the duty to bargain collectively with respect to the following subjects for employees other than limited-scope members of the bargaining unit under Section 33-105(c)(2):

(7) Amelioration of the effect on employees when the exercise of employer rights listed in subsection [(b)] (c) causes a loss of existing jobs in the unit.

33-108. Bargaining, impasse, and legislative procedures.

(a) Collective bargaining must begin no later than November 1 before the beginning of a fiscal year for which there is no agreement between the employer and the certified representative, and must be finished on or before February [1] 15.

(b) Any provision for automatic renewal or extension of a collective bargaining agreement is void. An agreement is not valid if it extends for less than one [(1)] year or for more than [three (3)] 3 years. All agreements take effect July 1 and end June 30.

(d) Before September 10 of any year in which the employer and the certified representative bargain collectively, the Labor Relations Administrator must appoint a mediator/arbitrator, who may be a person recommended by both parties. The mediator/arbitrator must be available from January 2 to June 30. [Fees] The employer and the certified representative must share the fees and expenses of the mediator/arbitrator [must be shared] equally [by the employer and the certified representative].

(e) (1) During the course of collective bargaining, either party may declare an impasse and request the services of the mediator/arbitrator[,] or the parties may jointly request those services before an impasse is declared. If the parties do not reach an agreement by [February 1] January 24, an impasse exists. [Any] An issue regarding the negotiability of [any] a bargaining proposal must be referred to the Labor Relations Administrator for an expedited determination.

(2) [Any] A dispute, except a dispute involving the negotiability of a bargaining proposal, must be submitted to the mediator/arbitrator whenever an impasse has been reached, or as provided in subsection (e)(1). The mediator/arbitrator must engage in mediation by bringing the parties together voluntarily under such favorable circumstances as will encourage settlement of the dispute.

(3) If the mediator/arbitrator finds, in the mediator/arbitrator's sole discretion, that the parties are at a bona fide impasse, or [as of] on February 1[when an impasse is automatically reached], whichever occurs earlier, the dispute must be submitted to [binding arbitration] fact-finding.

(f) (1) In fact-finding, the mediator/arbitrator must not hold a full evidentiary hearing. Instead, each party must briefly explain to the mediator/arbitrator the party's position on each proposal to which the parties have not agreed.

(2) After hearing the parties' positions on each proposal in dispute, the mediator/arbitrator must issue a fact-finding report to the parties no later than February 6. In the fact-finding report, the mediator/arbitrator must state for each proposal whether the mediator/arbitrator favors the certified representative's position, the employer's position, or an alternative that does not exceed the parameters of either party's position.

(3) After receiving the fact-finding report of the mediator/arbitrator, the parties must resume bargaining. If the parties do not reach agreement by February 15, they must submit their dispute to binding arbitration.

(f) (1) If binding arbitration is invoked, the mediator/arbitrator must not engage in further mediation. The mediator/arbitrator must require each party to submit a final offer, which must consist either of a complete draft of a proposed collective bargaining agreement or a complete package proposal, as the mediator/arbitrator directs. If [only complete package proposals are required,] the mediator/arbitrator [must require] directs the parties to submit complete package proposals, the parties [to submit] must jointly submit a memorandum of all items previously agreed on.

* * *

(3) On or before [February 15] March 1, the mediator/arbitrator must select, as a whole, the more reasonable of the final offers submitted by the parties. The mediator/arbitrator must not compromise or alter a final offer. The mediator/arbitrator must not consider or receive any argument or evidence related to the history of collective bargaining in the immediate dispute, including any previous settlement offer not contained in the final offers. However, the mediator/arbitrator must consider all previously agreed-on items, integrated with the disputed items, to decide which offer is the most reasonable.

(4) In making a determination under this subsection, the mediator/arbitrator may consider only the following factors:

(A) [Past] past collective bargaining agreements between the parties, including the past bargaining history that led to the agreements, or the pre-collective bargaining history of employee wages, hours, benefits, and working conditions[.];

(B) [Comparison] comparison of wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of similar employees of other public employers in the Washington Metropolitan Area and in Maryland[.];

(C) [Comparison] comparison of wages, hours, benefits, and conditions of employment of other Montgomery County personnel[.];

(D) [Wages] wages, benefits, hours, and other working conditions of similar employees of private employers in Montgomery County[.];

(E) [The] the interest and welfare of the public[.]; and

(F) [The] the ability of the employer to finance economic adjustments, and the effect of the adjustments on the normal standard of public services provided by the employer.

(5) The offer selected by the mediator/arbitrator, integrated with all previously agreed on items, is the final agreement between the employer and the certified representative, need not be ratified by any party, and has the effect of a contract ratified by the parties under subsection (c). The parties must execute the agreement[,]. [and] The employer must include in the budget that the employer submits to the Council any provision [which] that requires action in the County budget[must be included in the budget which the employer submits to the County Council[.

(g) In each proposed annual operating budget, the County Executive must describe any collective bargaining agreement or amendment to an agreement that is scheduled to take effect in the next fiscal year and estimate the cost of implementing that agreement. The employer must submit to the Council by April 1, unless extenuating circumstances require a later date, any term or condition of the collective bargaining agreement that requires an appropriation of funds, or the enactment or adoption of any County law or regulation, or which has or may have a present or future fiscal impact. If a later submission is necessary, the employer must specify the submission date and the reasons for delay to the Council President by April 1. The employer must expressly identify to the Council and the certified representative any term or condition that requires Council review. Each submission to the Council must include:

(h) The Council may hold a public hearing to enable the parties and the public to testify on the agreement.

(i)The Council may accept or reject all or part of any term or condition that requires Council review under subsection [(g)] (h). On or before May 1, the Council must indicate by resolution its intention to appropriate funds for or otherwise implement the items that require Council review or its intention not to do so, and must state its reasons for any intent to reject any such item. The Council, by majority vote taken on or before May 1, may defer the May 1 deadline to any date not later than May 15.

(j) If the Council indicates its intention to reject any item that requires Council review, the Council must designate a representative to meet with the parties and present the Council's views in the parties' further negotiation on items that the Council has indicated its intention to reject. This representative must also participate fully in stating the Council's position in any ensuing impasse procedure. The parties must meet as promptly as possible and attempt to negotiate an agreement acceptable to the Council. Either party may at this time initiate impasse procedures under this Section. The parties must submit the results of the negotiation, whether a complete or a partial agreement, to the Council on or before May 10. If the Council has deferred the May 1 deadline, that action automatically postpones the May 10 deadline by the same number of days. The Council then must consider the agreement as renegotiated by the parties and indicate by resolution its intention to appropriate funds for or otherwise implement the agreement, or its intention not to do so.

(k) Any agreement must provide for automatic reduction or elimination of wage or benefits adjustments if:

(l) The Council must take any action required by the public interest with respect to any matter still in dispute between the parties. However, any action taken by the Council is not part of the agreement between the parties unless the parties specifically incorporate it in the agreement.

The Council President must set action deadlines which result, to the extent feasible, in a similar timetable relative to the date the Council received the amendment.

LEGISLATIVE REQUEST REPORT

Bill 2-06, Collective Bargaining – County Employees - Fact-finding

DESCRIPTION: The requested legislation amends the County Collective Bargaining Law to add a definition of confidential employee, exclude confidential employees from the definition of employee for the purpose of collective bargaining, and require that the employer and certified representative engage in fact-finding after a bargaining impasse is reached and resume bargaining after receiving the mediator/arbitrator's fact-finding report.

PROBLEM: The current collective bargaining law does not exclude from the OPT and SLT bargaining units certain employees who perform confidential duties related to collective bargaining. This creates a conflict of interest for these employees and problems for management. Also, when the employer and certified representative are at impasse, they must submit their dispute to binding arbitration with no information about how the mediator/arbitrator will decide the dispute. If the parties were armed with more information about how the mediator/arbitrator would decide the dispute, they would be more likely to resolve more issues instead of including them in the issues submitted to interest arbitration.

GOALS AND OBJECTIVES: To exclude confidential employees from the OPT and SLT bargaining units; and, to add fact-finding to the collective bargaining process as a catalyst to bring about agreement on more issues.

MEMORANDUM

July 5, 2005

TO: Thomas E. Perez, President, Montgomery County Council

FROM: Douglas M. Duncan, County Executive

SUBJECT: Bill to Amend the County Collective Bargaining Law to Exclude Confidential Employees and Include Fact-finding in the Collective Bargaining Process

I am requesting that the Council review and approve the attached bill. The bill addresses two primary issues. The first issue is that certain employees who perform duties related to collective bargaining on behalf of the employer are included in the current Office, Professional and Technical or Service, Labor, and Trades bargaining units. Such employees, who are generally referred to as confidential employees, are usually excluded from bargaining units because of the inherent conflict of interest created by their duties and responsibilities. The attached bill addresses this problem by including a definition of confidential employee and excluding confidential employees from the definition of employee for the purpose of collective bargaining.

The draft bill also enhances the collective bargaining process by including fact-finding as an interim step before the County and the Union take the issues on which they cannot agree to arbitration. Under the current collective bargaining process, when the parties are at impasse, they must submit their final offers on unresolved issues to the mediator/arbitrator who, after attempting to mediate the dispute, must then chose either the County's or the Union's package of final offers. Under the bill, when the parties are at impasse, the mediator/arbitrator would conduct a fact-finding meeting at which each party would briefly state its position on each issue in dispute. Then the mediator/arbitrator would issue a report stating which party's position the mediator/arbitrator favors on each issue. Both the County and the Union believe that the fact-finder's report would act as a catalyst, leading the parties to resolve most, if not all, issues by agreement instead of resorting to arbitration. I do not believe that the amendments in the bill will have any significant fiscal impact. Because fact-finding will take less of the mediator/arbitrator's time than an arbitration hearing, the mediator/arbitrator's fee would be slightly reduced if the parties reach agreement without resorting to arbitration. If the parties still go to arbitration, there would probably be fewer items at impasse, resulting in a shorter arbitration hearing and decision and, presumably, a lower fee.

Subject: Rationale for Requested Amendment to Sec. 33-105

Mike—Joe's off today and asked me to send this to you. This is more detail on the rationale for requesting the amendment to Sec. 33-105 on temporary, seasonal, and substitute employees.

The current wording of Section 33-105 states that a temporary, seasonal, or substitute employee becomes a bargaining unit member after 6 months in a class in which the incumbents are predominantly career merit system employees. We propose to change the wording of Section 33-105 to state that a temporary, seasonal, or substitute employee becomes a member of the bargaining unit when the employee has worked 6 months in a position in an occupational class in which one or more of the incumbents are career merit system employees.

There are two principal reasons for changing the language. The first was to avoid shifts in wages and working conditions for temporary, seasonal, and substitute employees that could result if the number of merit system positions changes from "predominate" to half or less in a given job class. The "predominant" language could result in positions being frequently changed from full scope to limited scope depending upon the makeup of the personnel compliment in any given year. The second reason is that "limited scope" bargaining was really intended to be a distinction in bargaining rights for seasonal employees based on the fact that they typically perform different work than merit system employees. Also, the full scope application to any temporary position for which there is at least one merit system position in the job class addresses the equal pay concern (applied also to working conditions) because it will permit some parity in wages and working conditions for positions that require the same type of work.

Mike–After a temporary employee has worked for 6 mos, the employee pays $18.50 in dues as a full-scope unit member, while a temporary employee who's a limited-scope unit member pays $8.86 in a pay period in which he or she worked at least 25 hours, so an employee who goes from a limited-scope to a full-scope bargaining unit status will pay $9.64 more in a pay period in which the employee works 25 or more hours and $18.50 more in a pay period in which the employee works 24 hours or less.

Carol-

Thanks. This is what I needed. One follow-up question: how much would each employee's dues increase because of this move into the bargaining unit?

Mike—You had asked how many current employees would be automatically moved into the bargaining unit if this would pass as proposed. Here's the answer. Based on 8/05 stats, a total of 163 temporary employees would become full scope bargaining unit members in the following classes:

Library Desk Assistant: 33 permanent/48 temps
Public Service Worker II: 19 permanent/18 temps
Liquor Store Clerk: 24 permanent/77 temps
Warehouse Worker: 10 permanent/19 temps
Emergency Services Instructor: 1 permanent/1 temp.

Yes, you have the journal of January 24th.

Councilmember Praisner,
Move approval.

Council President Leventhal,
Vice President Praisner has moved approval and Mr. Perez has seconded approval of the Legislative Journal of January 24th. Those in favor will signify by raising their hands. It is unanimous among those present. We have introduction of Bill 2-06: Collective Bargaining, County Employees, fact-finding sponsored by the President at the request of the County Executive. A public hearing. Do we need a motion? We've got it. A public hearing is scheduled for March 7th, at 1:30 p.m. We have call of bills for final reading. Bill 44-05: Motor Vehicles, Parking Violations. Chairwoman Floreen.

Councilmember Floreen,
Thank you, Mr. President. The T&E Committee recommends approval of this legislation. It was introduced apparently because of the concern that maximum -- the current requirement that a maximum parking fines be assessed against people who park in handicapped and fire lanes are routinely not imposed by the District Court because of the District Court's discomfort with that high number. I'm not sure that this will really fix the problem but we say maybe it will. Basically the Committee recommends approval with some minor adjustments to repeal the District Court review requirement. We're told by the District Court they don't review these things. Rearrange the reference to DPWT instead of the Department of Finance, and require quarterly report on waivers and refunds rather than the monthly report as well. There needs to be a [concord] adjustment that we anticipate. And with that, we will recommend approval.

Council President Leventhal,
Okay. The T&E Committee's recommendations is before the Council. The clerk will call the roll.

Mary Ann Paradise - Deputy Council Clerk,
Mr. Denis?
