Barbara Gaskins-Wallace, Victim Specialist

Barbara.gaskinswallace@ic.fbi.gov

410.277.6644

The mission of the Office for Victim Assistance (OVA) is to ensure victims of crime investigated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) are afforded the opportunity to receive services and notifications as required by the law, and which will improve their ability to cope with the impact of the crime. Your Victim Specialist can also refer you to other types of programs and services, such as emergency housing, counseling, medical assistance, support groups, and credit counseling. At your request, the FBI can notify your employer and/or creditor for you, if your victimization causes you to be absent from work or affects your ability to make timely payments to creditors. The Victim Specialist will serve as the point of contact between you and the FBI.

Maryland Department of Human Resources

In-Home Policy Analyst: Diane Banchiere, LCSW-C

diane.banchiere@maryland.gov

410.767.7423

The Maryland Department of Human Resources receives all reports of child sex trafficking and has partnered in a five-year grant with the University of Maryland to address human trafficking in Maryland. All Child Welfare staff will be trained in identifying and appropriately responding to sex trafficked victims as part of their mandatory core training. Screening of all youth both in out-of-home placement as well as those receiving in-home services will be screened through the use of the CANS and CANS-F to identify youth who may be at risk of trafficking. Youth identified as at risk will receive further screening as well as appropriate prevention services. DHR currently has identified two providers (Arrow Project and Children's Home) who are able to provide diagnostic placement services for youth who are referred as trafficking victims. There are two years left of funding available.

University of Baltimore School of Law Human Trafficking Prevention Project

jemerson@ubalt.edu

410.837.5709

The Human Trafficking Prevention Project is a new clinical program within the Civil Advocacy Clinic at the University of Baltimore School of Law. The HTPP focuses on reducing the collateral consequences of criminal justice involvement for survivors of human trafficking and those populations most vulnerable to exploitation. Student attorneys will represent survivors of sex trafficking seeking to vacate their prostitution convictions under Maryland's 2011 "vacating convictions" law, as well as provide representation for anyone with a history of involvement in the commercial sex industry in expungement and shielding cases under Maryland's recently enacted "Second Chance Act," which allows for the shielding of certain non-violent misdemeanor convictions. Services are free of charge and provided regardless of age, race, ethnicity, biological/assigned sex, immigration status, sexual orientation, or gender identity. HTPP offers the following services:

1. Legal services for individuals with histories of involvement in the commercial sex industry in vacating, expunging, or shielding prostitution and other related charges on their criminal records.
2. Training and technical assistance on the availability of post-conviction relief within the state of Maryland, as well as on working with survivors of trauma.
3. Input on state or federal legislation that impacts survivors of trafficking and those at greatest risk, with a focus on human rights and harm reduction principles.

The University of Maryland, School of Social Work (UMSSW), in partnership with the Maryland Department of Human Resources (DHR), has received funding from the Children's Bureau to address the issue of sex trafficking within the child welfare population. This 60-month project builds infrastructure capacity between state and local child welfare agencies and victim services providers to ensure that trafficked youth and children at risk of exploitation have access to an array of comprehensive, high-quality services. UMSSW serves as the lead agency responsible for project management and evaluation. The work of the Child Sex Trafficking Victims Initiative (CSTVI) focuses on three priorities:

1. Improving victim identification through implementation of a statewide screening tool to identify trafficked youth and children at high risk of exploitation;
2. Enhancing victim response through training and technical assistance equip child welfare professionals with the knowledge and skills needed to effectively assist survivors; and
3. Ensuring every victim receives comprehensive, trauma-informed care by building capacity among service providers and targeting existing gaps in resources. For professionals and agencies working with children and young adults, CSTVI offers training and technical assistance on identification and response to child sex trafficking, as well as individual case consultation and specialized referrals. For more information or to request assistance, please contact the CSTVI staff listed above.

24-hour call center: 1-800-THE-LOST (1-800-843-5678)
Phone: 703-224-2150

Established in 1984, the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children® (NCMEC) is the leading nonprofit organization in the U.S. working with law enforcement, families, and the professionals who serve them on issues related to missing and sexually exploited children. As part of its Congressional authorization, NCMEC has created a unique public and private partnership to build a coordinated, national response to the problem of missing and sexually exploited children, establish a missing children hotline and serve as the national clearinghouse for information related to these issues.

NCMEC plays a vital role in the Innocence Lost National Initiative by being a clearinghouse for information obtained from the public and Electronic Service Providers about children being exploited through sex trafficking; providing analytical and technical assistance services to law enforcement investigating these cases; and dedicating case management support for missing children victimized through sex trafficking. NCMEC operates the CyberTipline, which receives leads and tips regarding suspected crimes of sexual exploitation committed against children. This includes exploitation of a child by traffickers, children being sold for sex online, and other forms of child sexual exploitation.

To report a missing child or request assistance with a case involving child sex trafficking please call 1.800.THE.LOST or if you have information regarding possible online child sexual exploitation, please make a report at www.cybertipline.com.
