

Dr. Patsy McNeil
Chief Medical Officer
Adventist Healthcare Shady Grove Medical Center

Dr. Patsy McNeil is the Chief Medical Officer of Adventist Healthcare's Shady Grove Medical Center and has been on the medical staff of this institution for over a decade. An innovative leader with more than 20 years of experience in healthcare, Dr McNeil is a board-certified Emergency Medicine Physician and previous co-founding partner of US Acute Care Solutions, the fourth largest Acute Care services company in the US.

Dr. McNeil has a passion for the physician work experience, patient care and women's progress. She has been a key member of the Physician Advisory Board for the Beryl Institute, is owner of MereaMac Services, a small healthcare consulting company and has deep interest in a variety of philanthropic pursuits. She has been a national keynote speaker at several conferences focusing in on patient experience and women in leadership.

She attended Washington University in St. Louis and receiving bachelor's degrees in both Biology and Anthropology. She received her medical degree from Vanderbilt University School of Medicine, completed her residency in Emergency Medicine as Chief Resident at University of Cincinnati's Emergency Medicine Residency Program where she also served as a flight physician.