

Hannah Quigley
Emerging Leaders Speaker

Hannah Quigley is a high school senior from Montgomery County, MD. A Gold Award Girl Scout, Hannah is involved in both Maryland and national politics, serving as a Maryland General Assembly Page and a Congressional Aide for Rep. David Trone. She also volunteers her time to Project TEAL, a national non-partisan youth-led civic education organization, where she lobbies Congressional offices and state legislatures. Passionate about civic engagement, Hannah worked for Biden for President's Student Leadership Council in 2020, and she is excited to cast her very first vote this year! Outside of politics, Hannah enjoys musical theatre and reading. In the fall, she will study Government and American Studies at Cornell University.
