Margaret Kotzalas

Margaret Kotzalas is a nuclear engineer with over 30 years experience working in the federal government. Over that time, she has authored numerous articles on nuclear accident analysis and operating experience and has represented the U.S. government as an expert consultant to the International Atomic Energy Agency. This past year, Ms. Kotzalas was elected to serve in the Executive Committee of the American Nuclear Society's Division of Nuclear Fuel Cycle and Waste Management where she is active in standards development as well as advocating for diversity, equity, and inclusion within the Society.

Ms. Kotzalas is also committed to social justice, civic engagement, and humanitarian efforts. She is the President of Energy PRIDE, the employee resource group for LGBTQ+ employees and allies within the U.S. Department of Energy. She is the President of Business & Professional Women of Maryland – a nonpartisan association that promotes equity for all women in the workplace. And she is the founder and President of Les Etoiles in Haiti, Inc., a non-profit organization that brings dignity and hope for the future to women and children in Haiti and the Dominican Republic through its educational and economic programs.
