Comment on the draft Climate Action Plan [CAP]

The proposed Climate Action Plan is complex and will require public funding as well as changes in the behavior of county residents. To sustain support for the plan, I recommend that the county provide a report every six months on the progress in achieving the plan’s goal of a reduction of greenhouse gas emissions [GGE] of 80% by 2027 and 100% by 2035. While there will be many measures of progress on the plan’s 800+ recommendations, the single metric of the reduction in GGE will be most important and effective in assuring residents that the cost in terms of taxpayer dollars and citizens’ actions are achieving the goals of the plan.
