I. Dynamics of Effective Report Writing

- A. A proper report is a complete and accurate record of an event. A report conveys clear, concise, and correct information. Reports include the who, what, when, where, how and why of the event or situation being reported.
- B. Reports describe what is directly observed, heard, and otherwise experienced. Inferences and opinions are kept separate from the facts.
- C. Report forms are to be filled out completely. Grammar, spelling, dates, and times are to be accurate in order to convey a concise and clear message.

II. When to Write a Report

- A. Reports are to be written by employees as required by written directives or at the direction of a supervisor.
- B. A report is required when a situation or event:
 - (1) Contains information which may be necessary to the operation of the Sheriff's Office, and/or for statistical purposes.
 - (2) Is of an unusual circumstance.

- (3) Involves interactions with persons or property and those interactions are outside the normal day to day functions of the employee.
 - (4) Endangers the health, safety or security of any person or facility under the control of the Sheriff's Office, including an injury to an arrestee.
 - (5) Violates any County, State or Federal law or local ordinance for which the Sheriff's Office has enforcement responsibility.
- C. When there is a question on the part of the employee as to whether or not a report is required, a supervisor should be consulted. Supervisors are strongly encouraged to have the employee write the incident report as opposed to not writing it in most circumstances.

III. Complaints

- A. A complaint received by a Sheriff's Office employee that does not involve an employee of the Sheriff's Office, must be referred to the appropriate public or private agency. The complainant must be advised whether or not a report will be generated by the Sheriff's Office.
- B. A complaint received by a Sheriff's Office employee involving an employee of the Sheriff's Office, must immediately be reported to a supervisor. The person making the complaint must be notified of the action that is taken.

IV. Submissions of Reports

- A. All incident reports must be completed, signed, and submitted to the reporting employee's supervisor via the chain of command prior to the end of the reporting employee's tour of duty, unless otherwise directed. All submitted reports must be scanned into the S:\ZyImage\SheriffIncidentReports folder upon initial submission.
- B. A sergeant or above will assign a unique control number from the Incident Report database. The Chief Deputy will maintain each original Incident Report submitted. This control number will be referenced on all documentation regarding the event and/or property in custody.
- C. If a sergeant is the acting duty commander, the reporting employee will submit the report to the sergeant for review. The sergeant will then forward the report to the section supervisor for approval. During regular business hours, the reporting employee will submit the report directly to a supervisor.
- D. Section supervisors are responsible for reviewing and ensuring all reports are accurate, complete, classified properly, contain no spelling errors, are in acceptable grammatical form, and that proper procedures were followed.
- E. Section supervisors will forward all reviewed original Incident Reports to the division captain as soon as practical.

- F. Division captains are responsible for forwarding all reviewed original Incident Reports to the Chief Deputy.
